Charterer's discovery of deviation a few hours after ship began to load and allowing ship to complete her lading without protest or reservation of any rights arising from deviation barred shippers from taking advantage of the deviation—Farr v. Hain S S. Co., C C.A.N.Y., 121 F.2d 940.

77. U S.—American Creosoting Co v. Deutsche Petroleum Aktien Gesellschaft, D C.N J, 28 F.2d 356.
58 C.J. p 226 note 44.

78. U S—Rodgers v. Bouker Contr. Co, D.C N.Y., 134 F. 702.
58 C J. p 226 note 45.

79. U.S—The Frederick W Starr No. 25, D.C N Y., 41 F.2d 528.
58 C J. p 226 note 47.

80. U.S.—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, C C A.N.Y., 138 F 2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L.Ed. 1063.
58 C.J. p 226 note 48.

81. U S—The Helen Barnet Gring, D.C Md, 48 F 2d 629
58 C J. p 227 note 49.

82. U S—Church Cooperage Co. v. Pinkney, N Y, 170 F. 266, 95 C C. A 462
58 C J. p 227 note 50
Warranty of fitness to carry cargo see supra § 36.

83. U S—Gronvold v Suryan, D.C. Wash, 12 F Supp. 429.
58 C J p 227 note 51

Supervision of loading
Where original written contract for hiring of barge and tug gave owners thereof right of supervision of loading of cargo, but the parties subsequently made oral agreement giving hirers right of supervision, and improper storage of cargo caused barge to capsize, tug and her master and owners were not liable for loss of cargo.—Friedland v. The Empress, D C Cal., 48 F Supp 348

Corporation operating both tug and barge under demise charter could not recover in rem against either for damage to cargo on barge caused by error in navigation—The John J. Grimes, D.C N Y., 57 F.2d 321.

Engineer of vessel
Appointment of engineer of vessel by owner pursuant to charter party did not make him agent of owner wrongfully to ignite vessel, which was insured, for purpose of destroying it for owner's benefit—Gronvold v. Suryan, D C Wash., 12 F Supp. 429.

84. U.S—The Mascot, D C N J., 28 F.Supp. 770.

85. U.S—The Terne, D.C N.Y., 1 F. Supp. 537.
Charterer as owner pro hac vice see supra § 34.

Effect of dismissal as against ship
That facts might warrant dismissal of libel as against ship for cargo damage would not preclude decree against charterer in personam.—The Terne, supra.

water for the vessel to lie afloat safely at all times has been held to put the charterer and a wharfinger on equal terms, and to make their duties correspond, as far as the rights of various interested parties to recover for damages to the cargo are concerned [86]

Special liability under charter. The shipowner or vessel may be held liable for the breach of a warranty in the charter party,[87] or for the breach of a stipulation as to special care of the cargo,[88] or, where so provided, for certain payment in the event of jettison.[89]

Charterer as agent or assignee of cargo owners. In an action by the charterer, as agent or assignee of the cargo owners, against the shipowner and the vessel, the charterer's rights are no greater than those of the cargo owners;[90] and whether there has been a breach of warranty contained in the charter party is immaterial in determining whether the charterer as assignee is entitled to recover.[91]

Liability of charterer to shipowner or vessel The charterer of a vessel put up as a general ship impliedly contracts with the owner that goods shipped shall not be injurious to other goods shipped [92] The charterer will be liable to the owner of a ship under an express agreement to pay any damage other shipments may be subjected to because of his shipment,[93] but not if the injury was due to the fact that the vessel was unseaworthy with respect to the carriage of cargo.[94] The charterer's liability to the ship as unloading and delivery agent is merely to exercise due care.[95]

Who may sue. A charterer may sue the shipowner for the loss of cargo, although the charterer owned none of it and the possession of the ship and cargo was always in the shipowner, where the charterer, according to its right under the charter, held itself out to the public as a common carrier and is answerable to the shippers for the loss.[96] A shipper who retains title as against the consignee, who is the charterer, may bring an action in his own name against the vessel for the loss of goods shipped;[97] but it is not always essential to a recovery for loss of cargo that the party seeking such recovery should have had title to the cargo.[98] Where the charterer has lost nothing by the damage, he cannot recover damages,[99] unless he has acted as trustee.[1]

b. Exemptions from Liability

Neither the vessel nor the owner ordinarily is liable for the loss of, or injury to, cargo which is caused by a peril of the sea or which is within a statutory exemption or an exemption of the charter party.

Neither vessel nor owner is liable for the loss of, or injury to, cargo caused by a peril of the sea[2] or for a loss or injury which is within an exemption of the charter party.[3] However, neither peril of

86. U.S.—The Mascot, D.C.N.J., 28 F.Supp. 770.

Charterer's unfamiliarity with dock

A charterer of barge which sunk off dock was responsible for damage to cargo where charterer, although totally unfamiliar with physical condition of dock, expressly guaranteed sufficient water to float barge safely —The Mascot, supra.

87. U.S.—Romano v. West India Fruit & S.S. Co., C.C.A.Fla., 151 F.2d 727

Speed

U.S.—Romano v. West India Fruit & S.S. Co., supra.

Refrigeration

U.S.—Lucayan Transports v. McCormick Shipping Corp., C.A.Fla., 188 F.2d 202

Carrying capacity

U.S.—Petition of Howard, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.Supp. 556.

88. U.S.—American Creosoting Co. v. Deutsche Petroleum Aktien Gesellschaft, D.C.N.J., 28 F.2d 356.
58 C.J. p. 228 note 62.

89. U.S.—The Bodo, D.C.N.Y., 156 F. 980.

90. U.S.—The Toledo, C.C.A.N.Y., 122 F.2d 255, certiorari denied Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. The Toledo, 62 S.Ct. 302, 314 U.S. 689, 86 L.Ed. 551.

Tampering with logs

Where striking of something in river was not given serious consideration until some time later, after fracture of web of crankshaft was found, whereupon an entry in the log book was made with reference thereto, the subsequent entry in the log book was not a tampering with the logs as bearing on liability of shipowners to charterer as bailee and assignee of cargo—The Toledo, D.C.N.Y., 30 F.Supp. 93, affirmed, C.C.A., 122 F.2d 255, certiorari denied Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. The Toledo, 62 S.Ct. 302, 314 U.S. 689, 86 L.Ed. 551.

91. U.S.—The Toledo, C.C.A.N.Y., 122 F.2d 255, certiorari denied Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. The Toledo, 62 S.Ct. 302, 314 U.S. 689, 86 L.Ed. 551.

92. U.S.—Pierce v. Winsor, C.C.Mass., 19 F.Cas.No.11,150, 2 Cliff. 18.
58 C.J. p. 228 note 66.

93. U.S.—Moses v. Boyd, C.C.N.Y., 17 F.Cas.No.9,871, 5 Blatchf. 357, affirmed 7 Wall. 316, 19 L.Ed. 192.

94. U.S.—Moses v. Boyd, supra.

95. U.S.—The Ella Pierce Thurlow, D.C.N.Y., 300 F. 103, affirmed, C.C.A., Drisko v. Barber SS. Lines, 300 F. 106.

96. U.S.—Pendleton v. Benner Line, N.Y., 38 S.Ct. 330, 246 U.S. 353, 62 L.Ed. 770.
58 C.J. p. 229 note 72.
Parties in actions on charter parties generally see infra § 56.

97. U.S.—Guerard v. The Lovspring, D.C.S.C., 42 F. 853.

98. U.S.—The Fred E. Hasler, D.C.N.Y., 55 F.2d 389.

Shipment on consignment

Buyer paying most of price of oil, incurring expense of transporting it from ship, and chartering barge, which sank with oil consigned to buyer, could recover from barge owner for loss, even if it did not have title to oil.—The Fred E. Hasler, supra.

99. U.S.—The Ask, D.C.N.Y., 156 F. 678
58 C.J. p. 229 note 74.

1. U.S.—The Ask, supra.

2. U.S.—The Casco, D.C.Mo., 5 F. Cas.No.2,486, 2 Ware 188
58 C.J. p. 227 note 52.

3. U.S.—The Monarch of Nassau, C.C.A.Fla., 155 F.2d 48—Farr v. Hain S.S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 121 F.2d 940 —The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari dethe sea nor express exemption of the charter party, unless so stipulated, is an excuse if the owner is chargeable with any neglect or fault without which the injury would not have occurred.[4] A charter party requiring the charterer to furnish dunnage does not exonerate the vessel where the customary dunnage would not have prevented the damage which resulted to the cargo.[5] A clause in the charter party rendering freight payable in full without any deduction on delivery of the cargo does not bar the cargo owner from asserting a claim for damages to the cargo in an action brought against him for freight.[6]

On the occurrence of an excepted accident, the owner will be liable to the charterer because of injury to the cargo due to the owner's failure to give timely and reasonable notice of his inability to perform his contractual obligation.[7] A provision of a charter party absolving the vessel from liability for deterioration of the cargo is inapplicable where the charter party has been abrogated by a deviation.[8] The master's negligence in directing the discharge of cargo has been held to relate to the custody, care, and proper delivery of the cargo within the meaning of a statute which invalidates stipulations relieving the owner from liability for negligence in the loading, custody, care, and proper delivery of the cargo.[9]

Loading on vessel's skin at risk of charterer or shipper. A provision in the charter party that the cargo is to be loaded on the skin of the vessel at the risk of the charterer or shipper is valid,[10] but such a provision has been held not to relieve the vessel from liability for cargo damage caused by unseaworthiness,[11] or to exonerate a private carrier from liability for unexplained sea-water damage[12] or from liability for damage to the cargo not causally connected with stowage of the cargo on the vessel's skin.[13]

Statutory exemption A federal statute, exempting under certain conditions certain vessels and their owners from liability for damage or loss due to certain enumerated causes, has been held to apply to the liability of a vessel, chartered for her full capacity, and that of her owner;[14] however, it has been held that, although the parties may by express reference make such a statute part of their contract,[15] the statute will not apply of its own force.[16] Under the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 190 et seq, the shipowner is not liable for loss of cargo caused by faults or errors of navigation if he has used due diligence to make the ship seaworthy[17] Where the fire statute, 46 U.S.C.A. § 182, has been incorporated in the charter party, the owner is not liable to the charterer for damage to the cargo resulting from fire unless the fire was caused by the owner's design or neglect.[18]

c. Damages

The general rules governing the recovery of damages for the loss of, or injury to, cargo apply to the renied United British S. S Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S Ct 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L Ed. 1500—Mente & Co. v. Isthmian S S Co., D C N Y, 36 F Supp. 278, affirmed, C C A, The Quarrington Court, 122 F.2d 266—The Westmoreland, D.C N.Y, 14 F Supp. 762, affirmed, C C A., 86 F 2d 96.

58 C J. p 226 note 41, p 227 note 53

Errors of navigation

(1) Provision of charter of tug to tow barges mutually excepting errors of navigation relieved tug owner from liability for damage to cargo due to such errors, although tug owner was in control of operation of tug.—Davison Chemical Corp v. The Henry W. Card, C.C.A.N Y., 144 F 2d 705.

(2) Where there was nothing in charter party concerning navigation of any vessel other than barge, exception of liability from "errors of navigation" appearing in paragraph relating to return of unearned charter hire in event of loss of barge did not cover errors of navigation of some other boat, such as a tug.—The Vale Royal, D C Md., 51 F Supp. 412

Dirty tanks

Charterer agreeing to clean boat last used in carrying molasses could not recover for damage because of discoloration of gasoline caused by dirty tanks.—The Lawrence J. Tomlinson, C C.A.N.Y, 48 F 2d 88.

4. U S.—The Ft. Morgan, C.C A.Md, 284 F. 1.
58 C.J. p 228 notes 54, 55.

5. U S —The Joseph J. Hock, C.C.A. N Y., 70 F 2d 259.

6. U S.—Eastern Transp Co. v. U. S, C.C A.N.Y., 159 F 2d 349

7. U.S —The Ask, D C.N.Y., 156 F. 678—The Disa, D.C.N Y., 153 F. 322
58 C J. p 228 note 58.

8. U S —The Hermosa, C.C A.Cal, 57 F 2d 20.

9. U S.—The Joseph J Hock, C C.A. N Y, 70 F 2d 259.

10. U S.—The Westmoreland, D C N. Y., 14 F.Supp 762, affirmed, C.C A, 86 F.2d 96.

11. U S —The Chehaw, D C N.Y, 54 F.2d 645.

12. U S —The Joseph J Hock, C C. A.N Y., 70 F.2d 259.

13. U S —The Westmoreland, D C N. Y, 14 F Supp 762, affirmed, C C A, 86 F.2d 96.

14. U S —Sun Co. v Healy, N.Y, 163 F 48, 89 C C A. 300, certiorari denied 29 S Ct. 693, 212 U S. 583, 53 L Ed. 660
58 C J p 228 note 59.

15. U S —Warner Sugar Refining Co. v Munson SS. Line, D C N Y, 23 F. 2d 194, affirmed, C C A, 32 F.2d 1021—The Temple Bar, D.C Md, 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293.

16. U S.—The Temple Bar, supra.
58 C J. p 228 note 61.

17. U S —The Framlington Court, C. C.A Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S.Ct 860, 292 U S 651, 78 L Ed. 1500—The John J. Grimes, D.C.N Y., 57 F.2d 321.

18. U.S —The Older, C C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 359

Knowledge of use of torches

Knowledge of owner's agent that oxyacetylene torches would be used in work on ship did not charge agent with neglect under fire statute so as to make owner liable for damage to cargo caused by sparks.—The Older, supra.

covery of damages for the loss of, or injury to, cargo where the vessel is under charter.

The general rules as to the damages recoverable for the loss of, or injury to, cargo, as discussed infra § 158, apply to the loss of, or injury to, cargo where the vessel is under charter.[19] Accordingly it is the duty of the charterer, shipper, or consignee claiming damages to minimize these by the exercise of due diligence.[20] A shipowner who is liable for damage to the cargo is entitled to a credit in the amount received by the injured party as salvage from a sale of the damaged cargo,[21] and, where the libelant has lumped the damaged goods with undamaged goods in making a sale thereof, so that it is impossible to show to what cargo the proceeds of the salvage sale are attributable, the shipowner is entitled to a credit in the total amount of the salvage sale.[22]

Special damages may be recovered against the owner and operator of the ship where there were special circumstances known to the parties.[23] In such cases the party sought to be held liable must have had notice of the special circumstances which gave rise to the damages,[24] although it is not necessary that the special facts should have been mentioned in the negotiations or made a part of the contract in express terms.[25] Attorneys' fees may be awarded where the charter party so provides.[26]

Damages recoverable by shipowner. A charterer of a vessel who puts her up as a general ship is liable to the owner for the damages which the latter has to pay other shippers for injury to their goods caused by goods put on board by the charterer, and for the extra expense of getting the goods out of the ship.[27]

§ 51. —— Lien

The shipper is entitled to a lien on the ship for loss of, or injury to, cargo caused by unseaworthiness of the ship or by a want of due diligence in the care and custody of goods received on board for transportation.

A chartered ship is, by operation of law, hypothecated to the shipper for any damage his goods may sustain from the insufficiency of the vessel or the fault of the master or crew,[28] even though the fact that the vessel was operated under a charter party was known to the shipper,[29] and the rights of the shipper are not affected by provisions of the charter party, of which he had no knowledge or notice.[30] Accordingly, the ship is liable in rem to the shipper or the shipper is entitled to a lien for loss of, or injury to, the cargo from unseaworthiness,[31] even though the charter be a demise;[32] he is also entitled to a lien for damages caused by a want of due diligence in the care and custody of goods received on board for transportation,[33] although the charterer, acting as bailee for transportation, consents to the act causing the damage[34]

Where the vessel was operated by a charterer, such a suit in rem cannot be defeated by showing that the suit might or might not have been brought

19. U.S.—The Ft. Morgan, C.C.A. Md., 284 F. 1.
58 C.J. p. 229 note 77.
Damages for breach of:
Charter by owner generally see supra § 47.
Warranty of seaworthiness see supra § 36.

20. U.S.—The Joseph J. Hock, C.C.A.N.Y., 88 F.2d 1.
58 C.J. p. 229 note 78.

21. U.S.—The Joseph J. Hock, supra.

22. U.S.—The Joseph J. Hock, supra.

23. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312.

Likelihood of contamination

In absence of anything in charter party to contrary, to warrant recovery of special damages for contamination of oil and gasoline, it would only be necessary to find that at time carrier undertook to transport oil and gasoline it could be reasonably inferred from those circumstances that contaminated products might and would likely be pumped into tanks containing uncontaminated products.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., supra.

Charterer's liability to cargo owner

In demise charterer's suit against shipowner for breach of warranty of seaworthiness, charterer's liability to cargo owner for loss of cargo was held proper element of damage.—The Cullen No. 32, C.C.A.N.Y., 62 F.2d 68, affirmed Cullen Fuel Co. v. W. E. Hedger, Inc., 54 S.Ct. 10, 290 U.S. 82, 78 L.Ed. 189

24. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312.

25. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., supra.

26. U.S.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co. of Cal., C.C.A.Cal., 156 F.2d 312.

27. U.S.—Pierce v. Winsor, C.C. Mass., 19 F.Cas.No. 11,150, 2 Cliff. 18

28. U.S.—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, C.C.A.N.Y., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L.Ed. 1063—The H. & S. No. 3, D.C.Wash. 243 F. 725.
58 C.J. p. 229 notes 82, 83.

Lien for:
Breach of charter by owner see supra § 49.
Loss of, or injury to, cargo generally see infra § 159.

29. U.S.—The Seaboard, D.C.N.Y., 119 F. 375.

30. U.S.—The H. & S. No. 3, D.C. Wash., 243 F. 725.

31. U.S.—The New York, D.C.N.Y., 93 F. 495.

Primary and secondary liability

Where scow becomes unseaworthy during the time she is being laden, a lien is created in favor of shipper making scow secondarily liable in rem, the primary liability resting on the party whose fault was the proximate cause of scow becoming unseaworthy.—The C. W. Crane, D.C.N.Y., 64 F.Supp. 627, affirmed, C.C.A., 155 F.2d 940

32. U.S.—The New York, D.C.N.Y., 93 F. 495.
58 C.J. p. 229 note 85.

33. U.S.—The T. A. Goddard, D.C. N.Y., 12 F. 174.
58 C.J. p. 229 note 86.

34. U.S.—The T. A. Goddard, supra.
58 C.J. p. 230 note 87.

against the charterer in person.[35] However, it has been held that the mere union of ship and cargo arising from the loading of the cargo on the ship gives no lien for damages from a delay in sailing, where the shipper knew he was dealing with the charterer and took the charterer's bill of lading[36]

Subrogation. Where, through the fault of the real owner, the ship is the offender, and the charterer, as apparent owner, is, as between himself and the ship, a mere surety, the charterer, on payment of the cargo owner's demand, succeeds to the latter's security, that is, the lien on the vessel.[37]

Loss of lien. The liability of a vessel as surety for damage resulting from her unseaworthiness for a shipment undertaken by the charterer is released by a compromise between the shipper and charterer, discharging the primary obligation of the latter.[38]

§ 52. Loss of, or Injury to, Vessel

a. Liability of charterer
b. Rights of charterer
c. Rights of owner as against third persons
d. Damages

a. Liability of Charterer

(1) In general
(2) Agreements to return or repair vessel
(3) Exceptions from, or limitations of, liability
(4) Breach of charter party
(5) Vessels without motive power

(1) In General

As a general rule, the charterer is required to return the vessel in the same condition as when received, ordinary wear and tear excepted, and he is liable for loss of, or injury to, the vessel due to his negligence or the negligence of anyone to whom he intrusts it.

As a general rule, the charterer is required to return the vessel in the same good order and condition as when received, ordinary wear and tear excepted,[39] and the failure of the owner to exact an express undertaking to return the vessel in good order does not exempt the charterer from such obligation.[40] He is under a duty to use reasonable care[41] and he cannot delegate that duty to others so as to exempt himself from liability.[42] In the absence of a contract providing otherwise, the charterer is liable for loss of, or injury to, the vessel due to his negligence, or that of his servants or agents,[43] or of anyone to whom he intrusts her.[44]

35. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation a Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.

36. U S—The Esrom, C C.A.N Y., 272 F 266, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 47, 257 U.S. 634, 66 L Ed. 408—The Ripon City, Ga., 102 F. 176, 42 C.C. A. 247.

37. U.S—The New York, D.C.N.Y., 93 F. 495.

38. U.S—Armour v. Ft. Morgan SS Co, La, 46 S Ct. 212, 270 U S. 253, 70 L Ed 750
58 C.J. p 230 note 89.

39. U S.—The A. F. Co. No 4, D C N Y., 54 F 2d 145—The Zeller No. 14, D.C N Y., 74 F.Supp. 538—Horan v. Pennsylvania R. Co, D C N. Y, 60 F Supp 138—Cox v. Banks, D C Pa, 50 F.Supp. 871.
Liability for loss of, or injury to, vessel caused by loading or discharging cargo see infra § 105

40. U S.—Shamrock Towing Co v. Tully & Di Napoli, D C.N.Y, 91 F. Supp. 239, affirmed, C A., Anthony O'Boyle, Inc. v. The Louis W Doyle, 187 F.2d 872.

41. U.S.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Moran Towing Corp, C.C A.N.Y., 154 F.2d 399—The Cedar Cliff, C C A.N Y, 149 F 2d 964.
Or—Willamette Tug & Barge Co. v. Commercial Dispatching Corp., 178 P.2d 698, 180 Or. 657.

42. U S.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Moran Towing Corp, C C A.N.Y, 154 F.2d 399—The Everett Fowler, C C.A.N Y, 151 F.2d 662, motion denied 152 F.2d 657, certiorari denied U. S. v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., 66 S Ct. 963, 327 U S. 804, 90 L Ed. 1029—C F. Harms Co. v. Erie R. Co., D.C.N Y, 71 F.Supp 934, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C.A., 167 F.2d 562.

Care by owners after notice by charterer

Owners did not recognize a duty to care for lighters by accepting responsibility of caring for them when notified of the difficulties by charterer, where owners had no other course in view of charterer's denial of responsibility.—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co, D C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017.

43. U.S.—The C. W. Crane, C.C.A. N.Y., 155 F 2d 940—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Moran Towing Corp., C C A N Y., 154 F 2d 399—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co., D.C.Ga., 69 F.Supp. 61, motion denied 69 F. Supp. 1017—New England Foundation Co. v. Rugo Const. Co., D.C. Mass, 60 F.Supp. 143, affirmed, C. A., Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co, 172 F 2d 964—Conners Marine Co. v. Wathen, D. C N Y, 43 F.Supp. 283.
58 C.J. p 230 note 91.

Use of tug for ice breaking

Where, after charterer of tug was notified that he would be held responsible for damages to tug caused by using it for breaking and plowing through ice, pilot placed in charge of tug as charterer's agent used tug to break heavy ice, over protest of master of tug, as result of which tug was damaged, master was relieved of responsibility for such damages and charterer became liable to owner for damages caused by pilot's negligence.—Southern States Towing Lines v. Lee Transit Corp., C.C A.N. Y., 144 F.2d 101.

44. U.S—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp., C.C.A. N.Y., 165 F.2d 314—The Everett Fowler, C.C A.N.Y., 151 F.2d 662, motion denied 152 F.2d 657, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 963, 327 U. S. 804, 90 L Ed. 1029—New England Foundation Co. v. Rugo Const. Co., D.C.Mass., 60 F.Supp. 143, affirmed, C.A., Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., 172 F.2d 964—Cox v. Banks, D C.Pa., 50 F.Supp. 871.
58 C J. p 230 note 92.

As the rule is sometimes stated, the charterer is liable primarily for his own negligence and secondarily for the fault or negligence of another to whom he has intrusted the vessel.[45]

The charterer is not an insurer of the vessel,[46] and he is liable only because of negligence;[47] he is not liable for loss or injury attributable to the negligence of the owner, or of the owner's agents or employees,[48] or to inevitable accident,[49] or for damage caused by an unidentified vessel which did not belong to the charterer.[50]

Although the master of a chartered vessel is selected by the owner, if he is to take his orders from the charterer who has possession of the vessel with the right to direct its use, the charterer must take the risk of extraordinary hazards inhering in the task which he imposes;[51] but the owner may be held to have assumed the risk of loss resulting from a failure on the part of the master to exercise ordinary care and skill in performing work ordered by the charterer.[52] Failure of the shipowner to keep a man on board the chartered vessel, as required by the terms of the charter, has been held not to relieve a subcharterer of liability for his negligence where the sole proximate cause of damage to the vessel was the negligence of the subcharterer and the absence of a man had nothing to do with the loss that occurred.[53]

Unseaworthiness. A charterer is under no duty to return an unseaworthy vessel in good condition,[54] and he cannot be held liable for damage to the vessel which is due to its unseaworthiness rather than to any improper handling of the vessel.[55] The owner of a vessel has no recourse against the charterer to recover damages adjudged against her because of her unseaworthiness for the use to which she was put, where he knew of such use when the charter was made, and the charterer is not otherwise shown to have been negligent.[56] The unseaworthiness of a vessel due to its leaky condition

45. U S—Roah Hook Brick Co v. Erie R Co., C.A.N.Y, 179 F.2d 601—C. F. Harms Co. v. Erie R. Co, C.C.A.N.Y, 167 F 2d 562—New York Trap Rock Corp. v Christie Scow Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 165 F.2d 314—New York Trap Rock Corp v. Christie Scow Corp., C C.A.N.Y., 162 F 2d 624—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Elmhurst Contracting Co, C C A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 860—O'Donnell Transp Co. v. M. & J. Tracy, Inc, C.C.A.N Y, 150 F.2d 735—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp, D C.N.Y., 92 F.Supp 989—The Seaboard No 63, D.C.N.Y., 69 F Supp 246—Cox v. Banks, D.C.Pa., 50 F.Supp. 871—Century Indemnity Co. v. New York Tank Barge Co, D C N.Y., 6 F Supp. 280.
58 C.J p 234 note 28 [a].

46. U.S.—The Cedar Cliff, C C A N. Y., 149 F 2d 964—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co, D C.Pa., 69 F.Supp 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017—The St. Nicholas, D.C.N.Y., 67 F. Supp. 380.

Absolute liability not implied
An agreement to return vessel in such good condition as would make charterer absolutely liable will not be implied.—Banks v. Chas Kurz Co, D C Ga, 69 F.Supp. 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017.

47. U.S.—The Roslyn, C.C A.N.Y, 93 F.2d 278—The Reno, C C.A.N.Y, 61 F.2d 966—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const Corp., D. C.Conn., 89 F Supp. 272—C. F. Harms Co. v. Erie R Co., D.C.N.Y, 71 F.Supp. 934; affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.C.A., 167 F.2d 562—The St. Nicholas, D.C.N.Y., 67 F.Supp. 380—The Montezuma III, D.C N.Y, 66 F Supp. 562.
58 C.J p 230 note 93

Weather conditions
(1) With respect to the right of the owner of a boat, against those who rented it, for loss of the boat, where rented boat stalled during storm, bailee and other occupants of boat, who were in a panicky condition, were not required to exercise as high a degree of care in securing and fastening the boat when it was finally blown or drifted against the shore, as though the waters had been calm when they landed.—Bock v. Ellen, Mo.App., 211 S.W 2d 92.

(2) In determining liability for damages to tug allegedly due to negligence in putting out in bad weather, court would accept experienced judgment of tug captain as to expediency of putting out on a foggy night and proceeding after engine trouble developed.—The Maurice R Shaw, D C.Me, 46 F Supp. 767.

Negligence not shown
U S.—The Harry R, D.C N.Y., 58 F. 2d 1000.

48. U.S—The West Eldara, C C A N Y., 104 F 2d 670, certiorari denied McAllister Towing & Transportation Co v. American Diamond Lines, 60 S.Ct. 144, 308 U.S. 607, 84 L.Ed. 507—Cleary Bros. v. Moran Towing Corp, D.C N.Y., 79 F Supp. 934—The Interports No. 767, D.C N.Y, 18 F.Supp. 396, affirmed, C.C. A., 92 F.2d 601.
58 C J. p 231 note 94.

Control of vessel
The charterer of a vessel is not necessarily liable for damage thereto because he is in absolute control and entitled to direct navigation and employment of vessel but ultimate determination rests on what constituted subject of the bailment; and, where the sole and proximate cause of the damage was that of the chartered vessel's captain who was in the employ and pay of the shipowner, the charterer could not be held liable.—The Cobalt, D.C.N.Y, 26 F Supp. 5, affirmed, C C A., C. W. Crane & Co. v. Charles Dreifus Co., 107 F 2d 1011.

49. U.S—Booth v. New York, D.C. N.Y., 127 F. 459.

50. U S—The Killarney, D.C.N.Y., 56 F Supp. 182.

51. U S—Dennis v. Roberts, C.C.A. Cal., 19 F 2d 1.
58 C J p 231 note 96.

52. U.S.—Dennis v. Roberts, supra. 58 C J. p 231 note 96.

53. U S—The Seaboard No. 25, D C. N Y, 68 F Supp. 169, affirmed, C.C. A, 159 F 2d 860.

54. U S.—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co, D C Pa, 69 F Supp. 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp 1017—The Emergency, D C.N.Y., 9 F.Supp. 484.

55. U S.—O'Brien Bros. v. Moran Towing Corp., D.C N.Y, 66 F.Supp 614, affirmed, C C.A, Beard's Erie Basin v. O'Brien, 162 F 2d 176

Parting of port shrouds
Where port shrouds of chartered boat parted in a moderate breeze and there was no evidence of abnormal speed or improper handling but parting was apparent result of defect, owner was not entitled to recover for damage to boat—The Virruth, D C.N.Y., 25 F Supp. 904.

56. U.S.—The Willie, D.C.N.Y., 134 F. 759.

known to the charterer at the time of beginning of the voyage has been held not to be a defense where the vessel was injured by an explosion of a cargo of explosives due to the use of a gasoline pump.[57]

Loss by fire. In order to establish liability of a charterer for a fire loss, it is ordinarily necessary to prove some negligence which caused the fire,[58] and no liability will be imposed on him as an insurer against fire unless it be stated in the charter in clear and unambiguous language.[59]

Deviation; "safe port." A charterer's liability for damage to the vessel cannot be based on an alleged deviation from the course authorized where the charter makes negligence the test of the charterer's liability in any event.[60] A "safe port," within a charter provision giving the charterer the privilege of taking on additional cargo at a second safe port if the vessel did not obtain sufficient cargo at the port to which it was to be first taken, has been held to mean a port which a vessel can enter and depart from without legal restraint and without incurring more than the ordinary perils of the sea.[61]

Person chartering vessel for another. One who is acting for a principal in chartering a vessel has the duty at the time of the chartering to disclose the identity of his principal in order to relieve himself from liability for injury to the vessel,[62] and a subsequent discovery by the shipowner as to the identity of the principal does not relieve the hirer of liability.[63]

Vessel laid up. When a charter party is a demise, the charterer is liable for loss of, or injury to, the vessel, when the vessel is laid up equally as when on voyage.[64]

Character of cargo. Misrepresentations or failure to warn the owner of the character of the cargo to be loaded cannot be relied on as a ground for recovery for injury to the vessel where the owner is reasonably apprised of its dangerous nature.[65]

Under agreement to furnish insurance, the charterer is liable for an injury which, under the contract, he should have insured against.[66]

(2) Agreements to Return or Repair Vessel

The charterer may be held liable for damages to the vessel in violation of an express covenant to surrender the vessel in as good condition as when received; but the authorities are not in complete agreement as to whether such a covenant renders the charterer liable for damage which was not occasioned by his negligence.

A covenant on the part of the charterer to surrender the vessel at the expiration of the charter in as good condition as at the inception thereof, with the exception of wear and tear from reasonable and proper use, has been held to impose an absolute liability on the charterer for any and all loss and damage to the vessel,[67] at least where such a covenant is coupled with a covenant to keep the vessel in repair,[68] even though not occasioned by his negligence or fault.[69] Some authorities, however, do not give such an effect to a simple covenant to restore the vessel in as good condition as received, reasonable wear and tear excepted,[70] and

57. U S—Hansen v. Du Pont de Nemours, D C N Y, 8 F.2d 552, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 33 F 2d 94, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 37, 280 U.S 589, 74 L Ed. 638.

58. U S—Warren & Arthur Smadbeck, Inc, v. Heling Contracting Corporation, C C.A.N.Y., 50 F.2d 99, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 31, 284 U S. 651, 76 L Ed. 553.

59. U.S—Warren & Arthur Smadbeck, Inc., v. Heling Contracting Corporation, supra

Liability as insurer held not imposed

Charter which required charterer to maintain dredge in good operating condition, and provided that charter should continue in force in event of fire, has been held not to render charterer insurer against total fire loss.—Warren & Arthur Smadbeck, Inc., v. Heling Contracting Corporation, supra.

60. U.S—The Roslyn, C C.A.N.Y., 93 F.2d 278.

61. U S—Atkins v. Fibre Disintegrating Co, D C N.Y, 2 F Cas No 601, 2 Ben. 381, reversed on other grounds 18 Wall. 272, 21 L.Ed. 841.

62. U S—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co., D C Pa., 69 F.Supp 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017

Or.—Willamette Tug & Barge Co. v. Commercial Dispatching Corp., 178 P.2d 698, 180 Or. 657.

63. Or.—Willamette Tug & Barge Co. v Commercial Dispatching Corp, supra.

64. La.—Ames v. New Orleans, etc, Transp. Co, 36 La Ann. 479

65. U.S.—Hansen v. Du Pont de Nemours, D.C N Y., 8 F.2d 552, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 33 F.2d 94, certiorari denied 50 S Ct. 37, 280 U S. 589, 74 L.Ed 638.
58 C.J. p 231 note 1

66. Wash.—Janovich v Northwestern Herring Co., 267 P. 37, 147 Wash. 619.

67. U.S.—P. Sanford Ross, Inc, v. Moran Towing & Transportation Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 1052, certiorari denied Moran Towing & Transportation Co. v. P. Sanford Ross, Inc, 53 S.Ct 12, 287 U.S. 608, 77 L Ed. 529—Baldwin v. New York Cent. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 87 F.Supp. 562.

68. U.S.—Sun Printing, etc, Assoc. v. Moore, N Y., 22 S Ct 240, 183 U. S 642, 46 L Ed. 366.
58 C J. p 231 note 3.

Total loss

Charterer's covenant to pay for repairs and owner's covenant to repay charterer from insurance moneys received were held to cover total loss, as well as partial destruction, of vessel.—Nicholson Transit Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., C.C.A.Mich., 60 F.2d 90.

69. N.Y.—Sun Printing, etc., Assoc. v. Moore, N.Y., 22 S Ct. 240, 183 U. S. 642, 46 L.Ed. 366—P Sanford Ross, Inc., v. Moran Towing & Transportation Co, C.C.A.N.Y, 55 F.2d 1052, certiorari denied Moran Towing & Transportation Co. v. P. Sanford Ross, Inc., 53 S.Ct. 12, 287 U.S. 608, 77 L Ed 529.

70. N Y—Young v. Leary, 32 N.E. 607, 135 N Y 569.
58 C.J. p 231 note 5.

Continued existence of vessel

A mere promise to return in like condition does not impose an absolute obligation and is conditioned on require a showing of negligence [71]

A stipulation in a contract for the hiring of a vessel for a specified time, binding the hirer to return her in as good condition as when taken, reasonable use, wear, and tear excepted, does not entitle the owner to refuse to accept the vessel when tendered back, and to recover her value, because of a breach of such stipulation, but only to recover the damages arising from the breach.[72] Where the charter is not a demise of the vessel but is merely a contract for her use as a carrier for cargo, a provision in the charter for redelivery of the vessel in good order and condition has been held not to have any real place therein.[73] The mere fact that the charterer of a vessel, in pursuance of the charter, has insured it for the benefit of the owner, does not constitute a defense to an action against the charterer for failure to return the vessel according to his contract, where it has been destroyed by act of God before the time for its return, unless it is also shown that the owner has received the insurance money.[74]

(3) Exceptions from, or Limitations of, Liability

A provision in a charter party granting the charterer an exemption from, or limitation of, liability for damages to the vessel will be given effect in accordance with its terms.

The charterer cannot be held liable for damages for injuries proximately due to risks which the owner expressly assumes in the charter.[75] A provision in the charter party that the charterer shall assume no responsibility for loss or damage may be sustained,[76] and is sufficiently specific to free the charterer from liability for negligence.[77] A clause in a demise charter under which the owner assumes the marine and all other risks relieves the charterer from damages due to negligence.[78] A provision in the agreement between the parties, which excepts the lessee of the vessel from liability for damages arising from causes such as tornadoes, acts of God, or ordinary wear and tear, does not evidence an intent to assume a greater obligation than that imposed by the common law,[79] and does not impose liability for all events other than those expressly excepted [80]

An exemption in a charter party for errors of navigation was held not to embrace errors of navigation of a vessel other than the one chartered, where there was nothing in the charter party concerning the navigation of any other vessel.[81] A charterer cannot, without authorization from the owner, release a towing company from liability for negligence, and an exemption so made is ineffective as against the owner.[82]

(4) Breach of Charter Party

The charterer is liable for injuries sustained by the vessel in a use other than one permitted by the charter, or in breach of the charter.

The charterer is liable for injuries sustained by the vessel in a use other than one permitted by the charter,[83] or in breach of the charter,[84] even without negligence on the part of the charterer[85] or those to whom he intrusts the vessel,[86] as, for example, when the vessel is used on a voyage not authorized by the charter,[87] or the charterer fails to provide a proper and suitable berth for the vessel [88] The charterers are justified in using the vessel with her masts and riggings for the purpose for the continued existence of the vessel —Warren & Arthur Smadbeck, Inc, v. Heling Contracting Corporation, C C A N.Y., 50 F.2d 99, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 31, 284 U.S. 651, 76 L.Ed 553

71. U.S.—Nicholson Transit Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., C C A.Mich., 60 F.2d 90—The Virruth, D.C N.Y., 25 F.Supp 904.

72. U.S —Detroit v. Grummond, Mich., 121 F. 963, 58 C C.A. 301.
58 C.J. p 232 note 6.

73. U S —Glasgow Shipowners' Co v. Munson SS. Line, D C.Pa., 44 F 2d 826, affirmed, C.C.A., The Gibraltar, 52 F.2d 787.
58 C.J. p 232 note 7.

74. Ill.—Steele v. Buck, 61 Ill. 343, 14 Am.R. 60.

75. U.S.—New Orleans-Belize Royal Mail, etc, SS. Co. v. U. S., Ct Cl., 36 S.Ct. 76, 239 U.S. 202, 60 L.Ed 227.
58 C J. p 232 note 9.

76. U S —McCormick v. Shippy, N. Y., 124 F 48, 59 C.C.A. 568.

77. U.S —McCormick v. Shippy, supra.

78. U.S.—Berwind-White Coal Min Co. v. U. S., C C.A N Y., 15 F.2d 366
58 C.J p 232 note 12.

79. Miss —Greenville Insulating Board Corporation v McMurray, 145 So. 730, 164 Miss. 809.

80. Miss.—Greenville Insulating Board Corporation v. McMurray, supra.

81. U S.—The Vale Royal, D.C Md., 51 F.Supp. 412.

82. U S —The West Eldara, C C A N. Y., 101 F 2d 45, reheard 104 F 2d 670, certiorari denied McAllister Towing & Transportation Co. v. American Diamond Lines, 60 S.Ct. 144, 308 U.S. 607, 84 L Ed. 507—The Niels R Finsen, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 795

83. U.S.—Schoonmaker-Conners Co, Inc. v. New York Trap Rock Corp., D.C N.Y., 27 F.2d 988.
58 C J. p 232 note 16.

84. U S —Osterhoudt v. Hedger Transp. Co., D C N.Y., 42 F.2d 561.
58 C.J. p 232 note 17.

85. U.S —Schoonmaker-Conners Co, Inc v New York Trap Rock Corp, D C N Y, 27 F 2d 988—Sutcliff v Seligman, N.Y., 121 F. 803, 58 C.C. A. 251.

86. U.S —Schoonmaker-Conners Co., Inc. v New York Trap Rock Corp., D C.N Y, 27 F 2d 988.

87. U S —Latson v. Sturm, D.C N.Y, 14 F.Cas No.8,115, 2 Ben. 327.
58 C.J p 233 note 20.

88. U S —Merritt v. Sprague, D.C. Me, 191 F 627
58 C.J. p 233 note 21.

which she is chartered up to the limit of use prescribed and no more.[89]

(5) Vessels without Motive Power

The charterer of a vessel without motive power ordinarily is liable for damages to the vessel caused by his negligence or the negligence of anyone to whom he has intrusted it; but he will not be made an insurer except by clear and explicit language to that effect in the charter.

The charterer of a vessel without motive power ordinarily is required to return the vessel in the order and condition in which it was received, reasonable wear and tear excepted,[90] and he is liable for any damage to the vessel resulting from his own negligence,[91] or the negligence of anyone to whom he intrusts her;[92] and this is true notwithstanding the vessel is accompanied by an employee of the owner.[93] However, in the absence of express agreement,[94] the charterer generally is liable only for negligence,[95] and he will be made an insurer only by clear and explicit language to that effect in the charter.[96]

A covenant to return the vessel in the condition in which it is received, necessary or reasonable wear and tear excepted, does not render the charterer liable as an insurer,[97] and it has been held that he is liable only for negligence,[98] but there is other authority which holds that undisputed proof that the owner delivered the vessel in a good condition and that it was redelivered by the charterer in a damaged condition establishes a breach of the contract for which the charterer is liable.[99] The

89. U S—Glasgow Shipowners' Co v. Munson SS Line, D C Pa., 44 F 2d 826, affirmed, C C A., The Gibraltar, 52 F 2d 787.

90. U S—Dwyer Lighterage v Christie Scow Corp., D C N Y., 96 F Supp 900—Standard Towing Corp. v. Tidewater Coal Docks Corp., D C N.Y., 85 F Supp 659—Leary v City of New York, D C N Y., 52 F Supp 643
Wash—Angeles Gravel & Supply Co v. Crown Zellerbach Corp., 153 P 2d 482, 28 Wash 2d 428.

Owner not deprived of remedies
Provisions, in charter relating to claims for damage to dump scow while in tow, merely limited commissioner's authority to settle only such claims as were matters of record on log of city's dredge, and did not deprive owner of his legal remedies for other damages—Leary v. City of New York, D.C.N.Y., 52 F. Supp. 643.

91. U.S—The C. W. Crane, C C.A.N. Y., 155 F.2d 940—The Wyomissing, C C.A.N Y., 45 F.2d 160—The Seaboard No. 25, D.C.N.Y., 68 F Supp. 169, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 860.
58 C.J. p 233 note 27.

Reasonable diligence
The duty which charterer of scow and owner of tug towing scow owed to owner of scow was to use reasonable diligence to ascertain conditions at stakeboat where scow was moored at time of injury to the end that the scow would have a safe berth—The Roslyn, C C.A.N Y., 93 F. 2d 278.

Scow going adrift
(1) A charterer, who failed to inquire about weather conditions as he was required to do and failed to have a tug at hand, and who left scow loaded with ammunition in exposed position to a then prevailing wind at 6 P M. to be unattended the whole of the next day, was guilty of negligence and liable for resulting damages when scow broke adrift—The Arthur R, D C N Y., 36 F Supp. 31

(2) Where city chartered a scow as a floating platform on which to conduct fireworks display and scow went adrift, causing damage thereto, the city failed in its duty as bailee and was liable for damages suffered by the scow while under charter to it—Kenny v. City of New York, D.C. N Y., 28 F.Supp. 175, affirmed, C.C A., 108 F 2d 958.

Liability of subcharterer and charterer
In libel by owner of damaged barge against charterer and his subcharterer, where tug was primarily liable, liability lay secondarily on subcharterer, and in third place on charterer. —The Reno, D.C.N Y., 54 F.2d 682.

92. U.S—New York Trap Rock Corp v. Christie Scow Corp., C C.A.N Y., 165 F.2d 314—The C W. Crane, C.C A.N Y., 155 F 2d 940—The Everett Fowler, C C A.N.Y., 151 F 2d 662, motion denied 152 F.2d 657, certiorari denied 66 S Ct. 963, 327 U. S 804, 90 L Ed 1029—Waldie v. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp., C.C.A. N.Y., 151 F.2d 129—O'Donnell Transp. Co v. M. & J. Tracy, Inc., C.C.A.N Y., 150 F.2d 735—The Henry E, D C N.Y., 60 F.Supp. 43, affirmed, C.C A., Exner Sand & Gravel Corp v. Gallagher Bros. Sand & Gravel Corp., 157 F.2d 291—White v. Upper Hudson Stone Co., N.Y., 248 F. 893, 160 C.C.A. 651, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 335, 246 U.S 665, 62 L.Ed 929.
58 C.J. p 234 note 28.

Theory of liability
Liability is imposed on charterers on the theory that they should at all times care for the barge while she is under charter to them and that they are under a duty which may not be delegated to others.—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. M. & J. Tracy, Inc., C C.A.N.Y., 150 F.2d 735.

93. U S—The R. Lenahan, Jr., D.C. N Y., 43 F.2d 858, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 48 F.2d 110, certiorari denied Cowles v. Reddy, 52 S Ct. 13, 284 U S 629, 76 L.Ed. 536.
58 C J. p 234 note 29.

94. U S—C F Harms Co. v. Turner Constr Co, C.C.A.N.Y., 3 F.2d 591.
58 C J. p 233 note 24

95. U.S—The Roslyn, C.C A.N.Y., 93 F.2d 278—The Reno, C C.A.N Y., 61 F 2d 966—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const. Corp., D. C Conn., 89 F.Supp 272—C. F. Harms Co v. Erie R Co., D C.N. Y., 71 F Supp 934, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C A., 167 F 2d 562—The Montezuma III, D C N.Y., 66 F. Supp. 562—The Henry E, D C.N. Y., 60 F.Supp. 43, affirmed, C.C.A., Exner Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Gallagher Bros Sand & Gravel Corp., 157 F.2d 291.
58 C.J. p 233 note 25

96. U S.—Shamrock Towing Co. v. New York, C C A N.Y., 32 F.2d 684.
58 C.J. p 233 note 26.

No warranty of safety
Charterers do not warrant the safety of a barge.—O'Donnell Transp Co. v. M. & J. Tracy, Inc., C.C.A.N.Y., 150 F 2d 735.

97. U.S—Cowles Towing Co. v. American Constr., etc., Co., D.C.N. Y., 27 F.2d 622.
58 C.J. p 235 note 35.

98. U.S—Alpine Forwarding Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F.2d 734, certiorari denied Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Alpine Forwarding Co., 53 S Ct. 93, 287 U.S. 647, 77 L Ed. 559

99. U.S—P. Sanford Ross, Inc., v. Moran Towing & Transportation Co., C C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 1052, certiorari denied Moran Towing & Transportation Co. v. P. Sanford Ross, Inc, 53 S.Ct. 12, 287 U S. 608, 77 L Ed. 529—Baldwin v. New York

charterer is not responsible for damage due to the negligence of a captain or master remaining on board and representing the owners,[1] or of another for whom the charterer is not responsible.[2]

Unseaworthiness or unfitness. In the absence of agreement, the charterer is not liable for loss due to unseaworthiness of the vessel without negligence on his part.[3] The charterer is not liable for loss or injury to a vessel not due to his negligence but due to its lack of general fitness for the known use for which it was chartered.[4] The hirer of a hinge barge may be liable for the sinking of one section on the ground of improper mooring, while not liable for the sinking of the other section, due to unseaworthiness.[5]

Limitation of liability. Where a vessel is insured by the owner, a charter thereof which is a demise of the vessel may lawfully limit the liability of the charterer to such loss or injury as is not covered by the policies of insurance, even though the vessel is without motive power and must be towed.[6] A provision in the charter party for the chartering of a barge, absolving the charterer from liability for errors of navigation, will relieve the charterer from liability for errors of navigation committed by the master of the barge or by anyone else engaged in navigating her,[7] or for negligence or negligent navigation of towing vessels.[8] Under a demise charter of a barge with a bargee in which the owner assumes the marine and all other risks, the charterer is not liable for injury to the barge through his negligence,[9] but the measure of the charterer's obligation is contained in a clause continuing the hire of the barge while laid up through his fault.[10]

Breach of charter. As in other cases, the charterer may be liable for injury to the vessel occasioned by its use in a manner not permitted by the charter,[11] even without negligence on the part of the charterer.[12]

b. Rights of Charterer

As a general rule, a charterer has no right of recovery against one who damages the chartered vessel.

As a general rule, a charterer has no cause of action against one who damages the chartered vessel,[13] and there has been held to be no right of subrogation, which would give the charterer a right to sue a party causing damage to the ship, to the extent of the charter hire paid.[14] A shipper by chartered lighters to a steamer, having no control over the lighters and merely contracting for their carrying capacity, is not responsible to the charterer for any damages to the boats.[15] Where a time charter provides that the vessel is to be docked at least once during certain specified periods and that payment of the hire is to be suspended until she is again in proper state for service, the charterers cannot recover against the dock owner for delay occasioned by the dock owner's negligent injury to the vessel while it is being docked under a contract between the dock owner and the vessel owner where the charterers are not parties to such contract and the dock owner has no notice of the charter until after the delay has begun.[16]

Cent. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 87 F.Supp. 562.
58 C.J. p 235 note 35.

1. U.S.—The Junior, C.C.A.N.Y., 279 F. 407.
58 C.J. p 234 note 30.

Charter of scow with captain or scowman

(1) Where owner chartered scow with captain at agreed pay per day, determination of liability for damage to scow caused by captain's negligence depended on ascertaining for whom captain was acting when negligence was committed—The Cobalt, D.C.N.Y., 26 F.Supp. 5, affirmed, C.C.A., C. W. Crane & Co. v. Charles Dreifus Co., 107 F.2d 1011.

(2) Scowman was part of that which was subject of charter, and if scowman's departure from scow on afternoon when damage to scow occurred was to be criticized, as between owner and charterer, latter was not at fault.—The Maui, D.C.N.Y., 70 F.Supp. 772.

2. U.S.—The Maui, supra.
58 C.J. p 235 note 31.

3. U.S.—The Greenwich, C.C.A.N.Y., 270 F. 42.
58 C.J. p 235 note 32.

4. U.S.—Penn Builders, etc., Co. v. Braeburn Steel Co., C.C.A.Pa., 274 F. 794.
58 C.J. p 235 note 33

5. U.S.—Walling v. Porter Gildersleeve Co., D.C.Pa., 222 F. 1002.

6. U.S.—American-Hawaiian SS. Co. v. Bennett, Cal., 207 F. 510, 125 C.C.A. 172.

7. U.S.—The Interports No. 767, C.C.A.N.Y., 92 F.2d 601

8. U.S.—The Interports No. 767, supra.

9. U.S.—Berwind-White Coal Min. Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 15 F.2d 366

10. U.S.—Berwind-White Coal Min. Co. v. U. S., supra.

11. Wash.—Parker v. Washington Tug, etc., Co., 148 P. 896, 85 Wash. 575
58 C.J. p 236 note 39

12. U.S.—Schoonmaker-Conners Co., Inc. v. New York Trap Rock Corp., D.C.N.Y., 27 F.2d 988.

13. U.S.—The Agwidale, D.C.N.Y., 61 F.Supp. 191, affirmed, C.C.A., Agwilines, Inc. v. Eagle Oil & Shipping Co., 153 F.2d 869, certiorari denied Agwilines, Inc. v. The San Veronico, 66 S.Ct. 980, 328 U.S. 835, 90 L.Ed. 1611.

14. U.S.—The Agwidale, D.C.N.Y., 61 F.Supp. 191, affirmed, C.C.A., Agwilines, Inc. v. Eagle Oil & Shipping Co., 153 F.2d 869, certiorari denied Agwilines, Inc. v. The San Veronico, 66 S.Ct. 980, 328 U.S. 835, 90 L.Ed. 1611.

15. U.S.—Simmons Transp. Co. v. Alpha Portland Cement Co., D.C.N.Y., 286 F. 955.

16. U.S.—Robins Dry Dock, etc., Co. v. Flint, N.Y., 48 S.Ct. 134, 275 U.S. 303, 72 L.Ed. 290.

c. Rights of Owner as against Third Persons

The owner of a chartered vessel may recover from third persons for damages to the vessel caused by their negligence; and the relationship of bailor and bailee, stricti juris, is not necessary in order to impose a duty of reasonable care on a person with whom a vessel is left.

The owner of a chartered vessel is entitled to recover for damages to the vessel caused by the negligence of third persons.[17] He has a right in the vessel in the nature of a reversionary interest and has a right of action against a third person for injury to the reversionary interest.[18] The consignee of the cargo of a chartered vessel may be held liable to the owner for an injury to the vessel due to his negligence;[19] but a consignee who has no control over the movements of a barge is not liable for damage thereto negligently caused by a tug.[20] The relationship of bailor and bailee, stricti juris, is not necessary in order to impose on a consignee, or other person with whom a vessel may be left, the duty of reasonable care to protect her until the owner or charterer takes her back into possession.[21]

d. Damages

The general principles governing compensatory damages are applicable in determining the amount of recovery in an action for damages to, or loss of, a chartered vessel; and such principles apply with respect to such matters as repairs, interest, and the determination of the value of the vessel.

The principle of compensation applicable generally in the measurement of damages is applicable in the case of injury to a vessel under charter.[22] A shipowner's damages must be limited to the amount of his actual loss,[23] and he cannot be permitted to make a profit from the injury.[24] The owner may recover for the cost of repairs to the vessel,[25] and he need not repair in order to collect damages, but may establish his damages by expert testimony alone.[26] Where the chartered vessel is repaired, and some of the repairs were not necessitated by the charterer's negligence, he is not relieved from liability for incidental expenses made necessary by his negligence.[27]

Where there is a total loss,[28] as when a vessel is sunk in deep water and either cannot be raised at all or can only be raised at a cost clearly in excess of her value,[29] or when a vessel, although sunk in shallow water, is obviously so badly damaged that the cost of repairing her will clearly exceed her value at the time she sank,[30] the measure of recovery is the fair value of the vessel at the time of the loss. However, the mere fact that a damaged vessel is sunk does not necessarily establish that the vessel is a total loss,[31] and the owner of a vessel sunk in shallow water under circumstances indicating that she might readily and relatively inexpensively be raised and repaired cannot abandon his vessel and treat it as a total loss.[32]

17. U.S.—U. S. v. Carroll Towing Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 169, rehearing denied 160 F.2d 482.

18. N.Y.—Graves v. Hines, 190 N.Y.S. 457, 116 Misc. 502, affirmed 194 N.Y.S. 940, 202 App.Div. 842, reversed on other grounds 139 N.E. 280, 235 N.Y. 315.

19. U.S.—Schoonmaker-Conners Co. v. New York Tidewater Gravel Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 11 F.2d 470.
58 C.J. p. 236 note 46.

20. U.S.—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. M. & J. Tracy, Inc., C.C.A.N.Y., 150 F.2d 735

21. U.S.—Roah Hook Brick Co. v. Erie R. Co., C.A.N.Y., 179 F.2d 601—C. F. Harms Co. v. Erie R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 167 F.2d 562—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 162 F.2d 624.

22. U.S.—Gallagher Bros. Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Anthony O'Boyle, Inc., D.C.N.Y., 94 F.Supp. 788.
58 C.J. p. 236 note 50.

Insignificant damages

Where damages to scows were attributable to fault of charterer, charterer was liable for damages notwithstanding they were insignificant. —The Arthur R., D.C.N.Y., 36 F.Supp. 31.

23. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass., 172 F.2d 964.

24. U.S.—Galena Nav. Co. v. Sinclair Nav. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 17 F.2d 9.
58 C.J. p. 237 note 53.

25. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass., 172 F.2d 964.

Temporary repairs

(1) The making of temporary repairs by owner of vessel does not preclude him from recovering cost of permanent repairs from tort-feasor. —Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., supra.

(2) The fact that owners made only temporary repairs, rather than the full repairs called for in the joint survey, did not diminish the amount of recovery.—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co., D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017.

Delay incident to repairs

Where owner charters a boat to another, charterer must bear any loss resulting from delay incident to repairing damage to boat which occurred during her use by charterer.—Cox v. Banks, D.C.Pa., 50 F.Supp. 871.

26. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass., 172 F.2d 964.

27. U.S.—Galena Nav. Co. v. Sinclair Nav. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 17 F.2d 9

28. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass., 172 F.2d 964—Eastern S.S. Lines v. U.S., D.C.Mass., 74 F.Supp. 37, affirmed, C.A., 171 F.2d 589.

29. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass., 172 F.2d 964.

30. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., supra.

31. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., supra.

32. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., supra.

Raising vessel to determine extent of damage

Where damaged vessel is sunk in shallow water under circumstances indicating that she can easily be raised, but until that is done it cannot be determined whether combined costs of raising and repairing vessel will equal or exceed her value at time of sinking, owner must raise vessel and also remove her to some other place, if that be necessary to determine extent of damage, in which event he is entitled to recover his reasonable expenses of raising and removal in addition either to fair value of vessel, if she eventually

In the case of a probable partial loss the law requires the owner by reasonable exertions and the use of such nautical skill as the owners of vessels usually employ in such emergencies to mitigate his damages by raising his vessel and having it repaired,[33] and, in this event, the owner's damages include the expense of raising the vessel and putting her in repair, with a proper allowance for the loss of freight and for the damage to the cargo and for the detention of the vessel during the time necessary to make the repairs and fit the vessel to resume her voyage.[34]

Under a charter party requiring the charterer to pay "just compensation" where there is a total loss, "just compensation" means the full and perfect equivalent in money of the vessel which was lost,[35] and requires that the owner be put in as good a position pecuniarily as he would have occupied if his property had not been lost.[36] Where the ship was a total loss and damages are awarded on such basis, a deduction should be made for the amount for which the wrecked ship was sold;[37] but one whose ship has been lost or damaged by the fault of another may recover his damages from the wrongdoer even though he has received compensation for his loss from his insurer.[38] The rule applied in marine insurance, as discussed in Insurance § 956, that the injury of a vessel constitutes a total loss where the cost of repair would exceed half her value, is not applicable to the case of injury to a vessel under lease, so as to entitle the owner to recover her full value as stipulated in the lease in the event of total loss, at least where there has been no abandonment to the lessees.[39]

Under a charter by which the charterer became liable for any loss or injury not recoverable under a policy of insurance held by the owner, where the vessel was stranded through fault of the charterer's servants, he was entitled to set off against his liability items of expenditures which could have been brought into general average and proved under the policy, and of which the owner was given timely notice.[40] A provision in the charter to the effect that any rights which the owner might have against an insurer should inure to the benefit of the charterer imposes no liability on the owner to keep insurance in force for the benefit of the charterer.[41]

In a suit on a charter party for breach of a covenant to return a vessel, she having been burned, the charter money for the time preceding the destruction of the vessel may be allowed as damages,[42] and, notwithstanding a provision in the charter party exempting the charterer for losses resulting from dangers of the sea, such damages will not be reduced because the vessel, when burned, was lying on a shoal on which she had stranded, unless it affirmatively appears that her value was thereby materially diminished.[43] A charterer may lessen the amount of damages for which he is responsible by showing negligence, or lack of diligence, on the part of her navigators.[44]

Determination of value of vessel. The fair market value of a vessel for which recovery may be had is the amount that a willing buyer would pay to a willing seller on the date of the loss.[45] Contemporaneous sales of comparable property on the market afford the best evidence of market value,[46] but when it is impossible to establish such value by reference to reasonably contemporaneous sales made in the course of ordinary business, resort may be had to other evidence of value,[47] such as actual[48] or reproduction[49] cost less depreciation. Large proves to be a total loss, or to reasonable costs of repairing her, if she eventually proves to be only a partial loss.—Rugo Const. Co. v New England Foundation Co., supra.

33. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., supra.

34. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co, supra

Insurer's payment for cost of raising

Where owner was compelled to raise ship for purpose of inspecting it in an effort to mitigate damages, and thereby to preserve its cause of action against tort-feasor, payment of such cost by insurance carrier was in interest of and on behalf of libelant, notwithstanding carrier may also have hoped to gain something for itself thereby, and, hence, did not preclude recovery of such cost in action by libelant against tort-feasor.—Rugo Const. Co. v New England Foundation Co., supra.

35. U.S.—Eastern S. S Lines v. U S, D.C.Mass, 74 F.Supp 37, affirmed, C.A., 171 F.2d 589

36. U.S.—Eastern S. S Lines v. U S, supra.

37. U.S.—Rugo Const Co. v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass, 172 F.2d 964.

38. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., supra.

39. U.S.—Cotton v. Almy, Hawaii, 141 F. 358, 72 C.C.A. 506.
58 C.J. p 237 note 56.

40. U.S.—Hahlo v. Benedict, N.Y., 216 F. 303, 132 C.C.A. 447.

41. U.S.—Port Johnston Towing Co. v Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 190 F. 409

42. U.S.—Merrill v. Arey, D.C.Me., 17 F.Cas.No 9,468, 3 Ware 215, affirmed, C.C., 1 F.Cas.No 115, 2 Curt. 8.

43. U.S.—Merrill v. Arey, supra.

44. U.S.—Constantine, etc., SS Co v. West India SS. Co, D.C.N.Y., 199 F. 964.

45. U.S.—Eastern S. S Lines v. U S, D.C.Mass, 74 F.Supp 37, affirmed, C.A., 171 F.2d 589.

46. U.S.—U. S. v. Eastern S. S Lines, C.A.Mass., 171 F.2d 589

47. U.S.—U. S. v. Eastern S. S Lines, supra.

48. U.S.—U. S. v. Eastern S. S. Lines, supra.

49. U.S.—U. S. v. Eastern S. S. Lines, supra.
58 C.J. p 236 note 50 [d].

Rate of depreciation

In applying reproduction cost theory in determining just compensation for loss of chartered merchant vessel, district court properly fixed depreciation at 5 per cent per annum —U. S. v. Eastern S. S. Lines, supra earnings of the ship for a short period prior to the loss do not necessarily of themselves establish the value of the ship;[50] and the amount paid for chartering the ship is not necessarily a determining criterion for establishing its value where at the time the charter was executed the charterer was very much in need of such a ship and no other was available.[51] It is competent for the parties to a charter to fix the value of the vessel therein as a basis of damages in the event of her loss, and such valuation is conclusive on them in the absence of fraud or mutual mistake, especially where the vessel has no determinable market value.[52]

Interest. In a proper case, interest may be added to the award in order to afford complete indemnity.[53] However, in an action under the Suits in Admiralty Act for loss of a ship, interest may be awarded only as provided in the act.[54]

§ 53. Charter by Government

a. In general
b. Charter hire
c. Loss of, or injury to, vessel

a. In General

The charter of a vessel by the government is subject to the same rules as charters between private persons with respect to the existence or termination of a charter, the terms thereof, and their construction and effect.

Ordinarily, the hiring of a private vessel by the government, whatever the manner in which the vessel is obtained, is subject to the same rules, as to the existence or termination of a charter,[55] the terms thereof,[56] and their construction[57] and effect,[58] as are charters between private persons. They are to be construed in the light of the circumstances under which they are made and with reference to which the parties must be taken to have contracted,[59] so that the effect of language in a charter to the government, made and to be performed in time of war and in aid of its conduct, may be different from that given to like language in a peace-time charter between individuals.[60]

Charter by United States as owner. The liability of the United States under a charter party entered into by it as owner of the vessel depends on the terms of the charter party.[61] Such a charter may make the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1300 et seq., a part of the contract of carriage.[62] The charter party should be read as a whole to determine the proper construction thereof,[63] and, where it is prepared on a printed form required by a published order of a federal shipping agency, it should be strictly construed against the government.[64] A negligent breach of the agree-

50. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass., 172 F.2d 964.

51. La.—Poydras Fruit Co. v. Weinberger Banana Co., 181 So. 452, 189 La. 940.

52. U.S.—Moore v. Sun Printing, etc., Assoc., N.Y., 101 F. 591, 41 C.C.A. 506, affirmed 22 S.Ct. 240, 183 U.S. 642, 46 L.Ed. 366.
58 C.J. p. 236 note 51

53. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co. v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass., 172 F.2d 964

54. U.S.—U. S. v. Eastern S. S. Lines, C.A.Mass., 171 F.2d 589.

Calculation of interest

Under provision of Suits in Admiralty Act that no interest should be allowed on any claim prior to time of suit on such claim, trial court in fixing just compensation for loss of chartered merchant vessel properly directed that interest should be calculated from date libel was brought rather than from date vessel was lost.—U. S. v. Eastern S. S. Lines, supra.

55. U.S.—Strong v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 14 S.Ct. 1182, 154 U.S. 632, 24 L.Ed. 664.
58 C.J. p. 237 note 61.

56. U.S.—Donald v. U. S., 39 Ct.Cl. 357.
58 C.J. p. 237 note 62.

57. U.S.—Strong v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 14 S.Ct. 1182, 154 U.S. 632, 24 L.Ed. 664.
58 C.J. p. 237 note 63.

58. U.S.—Matson Nav. Co. v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 52 S.Ct. 162, 284 U.S. 352, 76 L.Ed. 336.
58 C.J. p. 238 note 64.

59. U.S.—Mott v. U. S., 9 Ct.Cl. 257—Reybold v. U. S., 5 Ct.Cl. 277, affirmed 15 Wall. 202, 21 L.Ed. 57
Collateral circumstances as aid to construction of charters generally see supra § 32.

60. U.S.—Reybold v. U. S., 5 Ct.Cl. 277, affirmed 15 Wall. 202, 21 L.Ed. 57.
58 C.J. p. 238 note 68.

61. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312.

Power of War Shipping Administration

The War Shipping Administration did not exceed its power in executing charter party wherein it created a liability against the United States for all provable damages including attorney's fees resulting from damage to cargo, since the Administration has same authority as any private corporation to enter into contract and, hence, may bind the United States by terms of such contract.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., supra.

Demise charter

Where steamship owned by the United States was chartered to a foreign government and was manned, supplied, and operated by a foreign line under a subcharter, and captain and crew were hired and paid by the foreign line which collected and retained freights, the charter was a demise, notwithstanding provisions in charter subjecting charter to all regulations of general application in the trade issued by the United States with respect to cargoes and other matters, and requiring that certain specified clauses be incorporated in charterer's bills of lading, and, hence, United States could not be held liable in personam for damage to cargo.—Schnell v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 166 F.2d 479, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1346, 334 U.S. 833, 92 L.Ed. 1760.

62. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312.

63. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., supra.

64. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., supra.

ment by the government renders it liable for damages to the charterer.[65]

b. Charter Hire

The charter provisions measure and determine the rights and obligations of the owner and the government as to the compensation to be paid for the hiring of the vessel by the government.

The charter provisions measure and determine the rights and obligations of the owner and the government as to the compensation to be paid for vessel hire.[66] Hire is not recoverable for time lost for causes which the charter expressly provides shall operate to produce a cessation of hire.[67] If, under the charter, the government is not owner pro hac vice, it is not chargeable for the hire of the chartered vessel after the voyage is completely broken up,[68] except in case of a charter for a voyage out and return, in which case, if the vessel is lost on the return voyage, the government is liable for the charter hire up until the time when the return trip, if no disaster had occurred, would normally have been completed, and no further.[69]

No compensation is recoverable as hire after the valid and effective discharge of the vessel by the government,[70] but an attempted discharge, which is unauthorized and inoperative, does not prevent the continuation of liability for hire,[71] which remains in force until the discharge becomes valid;[72] and acceptance of payment until the time of the inoperative attempted discharge, coupled with the giving of a receipt in full, does not preclude the owner from claiming compensation until the discharge becomes effective.[73] A discharge may not be made to operate retroactively so as to cut off the right to compensation at and from a time prior to notice of discharge.[74]

In the absence of controlling provisions to the contrary in the charter, if the government takes complete possession and control of the chartered ship, it is bound to pay rent for the vessel until final return to the contractor in a fit condition for use,[75] including hire for time spent in making repairs for injuries received by the vessel while in the government service.[76] Even though the charter is not of the nature of a demise, the owner is entitled to the hire for the time spent in repairing injuries to the vessel for which the government is liable under the charter party,[77] and in returning her to service,[78] less the amount of the expenses which would have been incurred in running the vessel for such time,[79] but the government is not liable for compensation during retention of the vessel by a marshal incident to a marine risk, which the owner expressly assumed.[80]

The government cannot effectively alter or vary the charter terms as to hire without the assent of the owner,[81] and this principle has been announced as true, even though, under the charter party, the government could discharge the vessel and totally terminate the charter;[82] but the owner of a vessel chartered to the government may, by his conduct, effect a waiver or estoppel precluding him from claiming more than that proposed by the government in modification of the original terms.[83] Such waiver or estoppel, it is held, may even operate retroactively to defeat the right to compensation at the higher rate even as to time elapsing prior to the submission of the proposal for modification.[84]

65. U.S.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co of Cal., C C A.Cal., 156 F.2d 312.

Pumping contaminated oil into tanks

A provision of charter party that cargo of gasoline and oil should be pumped out at vessel's expense, but at risk of vessel only as far as vessel's permanent hose connections, does not protect United States from liability for negligence in pumping contaminated oil and gasoline on vessel into shipper's receiving tanks which contained uncontaminated oil and gasoline.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co. of Cal., supra.

66. U S.—Mitchell v. U. S, Ct Cl, 96 U S. 162, 24 L Ed. 702—The E. H. Blum, D.C Pa., 74 F.Supp. 516.
58 C.J. p 238 note 71.

Assumption of specified charges and costs

Government's assumption of port charges, pilotages, and other costs incident to use of vessel includes only items similar to those mentioned, and not owner's expenses in defending unfounded claim of lien for salvage —Luckenbach S S Co. v. U. S, C.C A N Y., 42 F.2d 156.

67. U.S.—Atlantic Refining Co v. U. S., D C Pa, 82 F Supp 201.
58 C.J. p 239 note 72.

68. U.S.—Reed v U. S., Ct.Cl., 11 Wall 591, 20 L Ed 220.
58 C.J. p 239 note 75.
Charter as demise or contract of affreightment generally see supra § 34.

69. U.S.—Reed v. U. S, supra

70. U S —Strong v. U. S, Ct.Cl., 14 S.Ct. 1182, 154 U S. 632, 24 L Ed 664.
58 C.J. p 239 note 78.

71. U.S —The Undaunted, D.C Mass, 24 F Cas.No 14,336, 2 Sprague 194.
58 C J. p 239 note 79.

72. U S.—Fogg v. U. S, 5 Ct.Cl. 264.
58 C J. p 239 note 79.

73. U.S.—Talbot v. U. S., 7 Ct Cl. 417.

74. U S —Terry v U S., 9 Ct Cl 233.
58 C J. p 240 note 82

75. U S —Cornell Steamboat Co. v. U. S., 58 Ct Cl 497, affirmed 45 S Ct 239, 267 U S 281, 69 L Ed 613.
58 C J. p 240 note 83

76. U S —U. S v. Shea, Ct.Cl., 14 S Ct 519, 152 U S. 178, 38 L Ed 403.
58 C J. p 240 note 84

77. U S —Clark v. U S, 9 Ct Cl 377.
58 C J p 240 note 85

78. U S —Clark v. U. S, supra.

79. U S.—Clark v. U. S, supra.

80. U S.—Goodwin v. U S., Ct Cl, 17 Wall. 515, 21 L Ed 669
58 C J p 240 note 88.

81. U S.—Pratt v U. S, 3 Ct Cl. 105
58 C J p 240 note 89

82. U S —Thorne v. U S, 5 Ct Cl. 242—Pratt v. U. S, 3 Ct Cl 105

83. U S —U. S v. Clyde, Ct Cl., 13 Wall. 35, 20 L Ed 479
58 C J. p 240 note 91

84. U.S.—U S. v Clyde, supra.
58 C.J. p 241 note 92.

Provisions in the charter calling for a reduction of charter hire under certain circumstances do not prevent a recovery of the full charter hire where the facts are not such as to render the reduction provisions applicable.[85] Under a charter party reducing the payment of hire for time lost by reason of the master's negligence, the master is not automatically charged with negligence merely because someone is found who would have done otherwise than the master did under the particular circumstances;[86] and it is not negligence if the master made an error, as long as his conduct was not unreasonable and unjustifiable under the circumstances at the time he was navigating.[87] Under some charter parties, there is no reduction of charter hire by reason of time lost as a result of stranding, regardless of the master's negligence, if the stranding was contributed to by war or warlike acts,[88] or if the stranding was caused by navigating in unbuoyed waters contrary to peacetime custom.[89]

Establishment of rate by commission. An agreement that the rate of hire should be established by a maritime commission carries with it an implied understanding that the rate established should be reasonable and not arbitrary.[90]

Cost of insurance. The owner cannot recover the cost of extra insurance premiums, under a clause in the charter requiring the charterer to pay the cost of extra insurance for voyages outside of certain territorial limits, where the voyage was not in fact beyond the permissible limits.[91]

Lien for charter hire. The owners of a vessel, let to the United States as a transport in time of war, have no lien for their charter money on goods the United States may put on board.[92]

c. Loss of, or Injury to, Vessel

(1) In general
(2) Damages

(1) In General

The government may by contract regulate its liability for loss of, or injury to, the vessel. In accordance with the rules applicable to charter parties generally, it is liable for losses sustained by a use of the vessel not authorized by the charter.

The government may, in like manner as a private person, regulate, by contract, its liability for loss of, or injury to, the vessel while in its employ.[93] Where the terms of the charter are such that it is a mere contract for affreightment, the owner retaining possession of command and navigation of the vessel, the government is not, as a general rule, liable for loss of, or injury to, the vessel, during the term of employment.[94] In accordance with the rules applicable to charter parties generally, discussed supra § 52, the government is liable for losses or injuries sustained by a use of the vessel not authorized by the charter and constituting a breach thereof.[95] The United States may be liable, as bailee under a contract implied in fact with a charterer, for damage sustained to a vessel while under its control and direction.[96]

85. U S—The E. H. Blum, D.C.Pa., 74 F Supp. 516.

86. U.S—The E. H. Blum, supra

87. U.S—The E. H. Blum, supra.

88. U.S—The E. H. Blum, supra

Absence of radio beacon stations

The stranding of vessel which, after being detached from convoy, was being navigated through dense fog, without the benefit of several radio beacon stations which had been removed because of the war, was contributed to by war or warlike acts within charter party provision reducing payment of hire for time lost by reason of stranding unless time lost was caused, or contributed to, by war or warlike acts—The E. H. Blum, supra.

89. U S.—The E. H Blum, supra.

"Unbuoyed waters," within charter party reducing payment of hire for time lost by reason of stranding unless stranding was caused by navigating in unbuoyed waters contrary to peacetime custom, did not include waters in which vessel merely did not have recourse to radio aids.—The E. H. Blum, supra.

90. U S—Ramselius v. U. S., 90 F Supp 547, 116 Ct.Cl 612.

Rate held unreasonable

Where, during the period, numerous vessels of similar characteristics were chartered at not less than three dollars a ton, rate of one dollar and twenty-five cents per ton was unreasonable, and owners were entitled to recover from the United States at the rate of three dollars per ton on the total dead-weight tonnage previously agreed on—Ramselius v. U. S, supra.

91. U.S—Seas Shipping Co. v. U. S War Shipping Administration, D C N.Y., 97 F.Supp. 129.

92. U S—The Undaunted, D.C Mass., 24 F Cas No 14,336, 2 Sprague 194.
58 C J. p 241 note 93
Liens for charter hire generally see supra § 45.

93. U.S—White v. U. S, Ct.Cl., 14 S. Ct. 1192, 154 U.S 661, 26 L.Ed. 178—Donald v. U. S, 39 Ct.Cl. 357.
58 C J. p 241 note 96.

Indemnity held not allowable

Where a vessel was under charter to the government, and the government engaged a company as berth agent under an agreement calling for indemnity, and also engaged the same company as stevedore without an indemnity agreement, the company was held not entitled to indemnity for counsel fees and other expenses incurred in connection with a claim for negligence in the stevedoring operation.—Compania De Vapores Arauco Panamena, S. A. v Moore-McCormack Lines, D.C.N.Y, 91 F.Supp. 545.

94. U.S—Shaw v. U S., Ct.Cl, 93 U.S. 235, 23 L Ed. 880.
Charter as demise or affreightment contract generally see supra § 34

95. U.S.—Clark v. U. S., 9 Ct.Cl. 377.
58 C J. p 243 note 15

96. U.S.—C. F. Harms Co. v. Erie R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 167 F.2d 562.

Primary liability

Where charterer of barge loaded with army equipment turned complete custody of barge over to United States, and barge was returned in a damaged condition, United States, as bailee under contract implied in fact with charterer, was primarily liable.—C. F. Harms Co. v. Erie R. Co., supra.

The very general agreement in government charters of private vessels for military purposes that the owner shall be compensated for losses due to war risks or arising from warlike operations, but shall himself remain liable for marine risks, is valid and will be enforced.[97] Under such an agreement the government is liable when the proximate cause of the loss or injury is determined to be of such a character as to constitute a war risk, or a consequence of warlike operations,[98] and this is true, even though a marine risk may be a remote cause of the loss or injury,[99] but, when the proximate cause in its character is a marine risk, such liability does not attach,[1] unless the loss, although caused by a marine risk, arises from the government agents' wrongful assumption of the control and navigation of the vessel and deprivation of the rights of the owner's agents in that respect.[2] However, where the owner's agents remain in charge of navigation, the fact that they act, in the navigation or management of the vessel, against their own judgment in compliance with government orders which are deemed imperative does not charge the government with the consequent loss.[3]

There may be risks which are neither war risks nor marine risks,[4] and where liability for those two classes of risks only is referred to in the charter, the government, when the charter amounts to a demise, is liable for loss for injury to the vessel by risks not included in either classification under a covenant for the return of the vessel in good condition.[5] If the government, in the charter party, assumes all risks, it is liable, at least in the absence of negligence of the officers and crew, for loss or injury from whatever cause sustained, including causes arising from marine risks.[6]

Marine risk as ordinary or extraordinary. Marine risk may be either ordinary or extraordinary, and the parties may contract with reference to their liability separately or as one.[7] If no distinction is made in the charter and the owner assumes the risk for marine loss as such, he, and not the government, must bear the loss whether it is occasioned by the one or the other kind of marine risk,[8] if the government assumes liability for extraordinary marine risks only, it is not answerable for the loss of, or injury to, the chartered ship by ordinary marine risks.[9]

Effect of insurance A contract limiting the liability of the government to such losses as are not adequately covered by insurance has been held not invalid on grounds of public policy or otherwise.[10] Where injuries to an impressed vessel were made good to the owners by insurers, the owners were held to have no right of action against the government for the same damages.[11]

(2) Damages

The extent of the government's liability for injury to a vessel chartered by it, and the damages recoverable therefor, are to be determined by the provisions of the charter party and the general principles of law governing liability for damages.

When, under the circumstances, the government is liable as charterer for loss of, or injury to, the vessel, the extent of its liability and the damages recoverable therefor are to be determined by the provisions of the charter party,[12] and by the rules of law generally applicable to such liability.[13] In

97. U.S.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co of N. J., C.A.N.Y., 178 F.2d 488, affirmed 71 S Ct 135, 340 U.S. 54, 95 L.Ed. 68, followed in Libby, McNeill & Libby v U. S, 71 S.Ct 144, 340 U.S. 71, 95 L Ed. 86.
58 C J. p 241 note 99.

98. U.S.—Clyde v. U. S, 9 Ct Cl. 184
58 C.J. p 241 note 1.

99. U S —Baker v. U. S., 3 Ct.Cl 76.
58 C J. p 242 note 2

1. U.S.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co. of N J., C.A.N.Y., 178 F.2d 488, affirmed 71 S Ct 135, 340 U.S. 54, 95 L.Ed. 68, followed in Libby, McNeill & Libby v. U S, 71 S.Ct. 144, 340 U S 71, 95 L.Ed. 86.
58 C.J. p 242 note 3.

2. U.S.—Talbot v. U. S., 7 Ct.Cl. 417.
58 C.J. p 242 note 4.

3. U.S.—New Orleans-Belize Royal Mail, etc., SS. Co. v. U. S., Ct Cl., 36 S Ct. 76, 239 U.S. 202, 60 L.Ed 227.
58 C.J. p 242 note 5.

4. U.S.—Middlebrook v. U. S., 67 Ct. Cl. 294, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct 24, 280 U S. 564, 74 L.Ed 618

5. U S.—Middlebrook v. U S, supra

6. U.S.—Clark v. U. S, 9 Ct Cl. 377

7. U S —Mott v U. S., 9 Ct.Cl. 257
58 C J. p 242 note 6.

8. U S —Mott v. U. S, supra.
58 C J. p 243 note 7.

9. U S.—Leary v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 14 Wall 607, 20 L Ed. 756.
58 C.J p 243 note 8.

10. U S —New Haven Trap Rock Co. v. U. S., D C Mass, 15 F.Supp. 619

Insurance for full value

Where provision of voyage charter of United States with shipowner required owner to procure war risk insurance for full value of vessel, payable to owner, intent was manifested that United States should not be liable under its charter for any insured losses —Calmar S. S Corp. v. U S, D C N Y, 103 F.Supp 243, reversed on other grounds, C A., Calmar S. S Corp. v. Scott, 197 F 2d 795.

11. U.S —Dozier v. U. S, 9 Ct Cl. 342.

12. U S —New Bedford, etc, Propeller Co v. U. S, Ct Cl, 14 Wall. 670, 20 L Ed 760.
58 C J. p 243 note 19.

13. N Y —O'Boyle v. U. S., D.C.N Y, 2 F Supp. 853
58 C J p 243 note 20.

Items held allowable

(1) In owner's suit against charterer for failure to return barge, which sank, allowable damages were held to include items for lines, stove, furniture, and gasoline engine lost, and also an amount expended for searching for the vessel.—O'Boyle v. U S., supra

(2) Where charter of vessel to army transport service required owner to carry insurance and provided that the amount of premiums should be added to the charter rate specified to be paid by the charterer, and vessel was sunk by enemy action, owner was entitled to recover in addition to order to sustain a recovery, the extent of the injury and the amount of the damages must be shown, the existence of injury without any showing as to its extent being insufficient for this purpose.[14] The amount claimed by the shipowner for repairs to the ship will not be reduced merely because of a contention of the government that such amount exceeded the value of the ship, where there is no proper evidence of the market value of the ship.[15]

Expenses of saving or raising vessel. When liability for the loss or injury rests on the owner, voluntary payment by the government of the value of the vessel does not entitle the owner to recover further for expenses incurred in efforts to save the vessel.[16] Where a ship chartered by the government sinks as a result of the government's negligence, the government cannot, in an action brought against it by the shipowner, offset expenses incurred by it in raising the ship.[17]

Interest cannot properly be allowed on a claim against the government under a charter which provides against any liability for interest in the event of a delay in the payment of charter hire or any other sums accruing under the charter.[18]

§ 54. Rights and Liabilities of Third Persons

a. In general
b. Consignees

a. In General

The general owner of a chartered vessel who controls and mans the vessel may be bound for the safe carriage and proper delivery of goods received on board; but a warranty by him to the charterer cannot be availed of by a third person who has no privity with the owner.

The general owner of a vessel, who has given to another a charter for a voyage, but who retains control, equips, mans, victuals, and sails the vessel at his own expense, is liable for the safe carriage and proper delivery of goods received on board by the master under the contract by the owner with the charterer, although the master has not given a bill of lading.[19] The duty which the owner of a chartered ship owes to strangers is a duty not to cause damage negligently, rather than a duty to have the vessel seaworthy,[20] and a freighter who contracts with the charterer for repairing the vessel has no privity with the owner, and cannot claim the benefit of the owner's warranty to the charterer that the vessel was seaworthy.[21] It has been held that the owner of a chartered vessel of which the hirer has the whole control for the time, to victual and man her, and pay over a portion of the net proceeds to the owner for the use of the vessel, is not liable to the shippers of goods on board the vessel which have been embezzled or otherwise not accounted for by the master.[22]

In an ordinary case, damages caused to a shipper by a shipowner for failure to transport are fixed with sufficient certainty when commodities have been purchased, although not sold, where the evidence shows their market value at the time and place they should have been delivered,[23] and they are fixed with sufficient certainty where there is a firm contract for sale at the destination and the evidence shows that the commodity to be shipped is obtainable at a certain market price at the point of origin;[24] but the damages have been said to be speculative if there is no contract at either end.[25]

Rights against vessel in general. The fact that a vessel has been let by a charter party so that the charterer is to be deemed the special owner and have control of her does not deprive the shipper the value of the vessel the cost of such insurance for six-month period covered by the charter.—Oliver J. Olson & Co. v. U. S., 71 F.Supp. 355, 108 Ct.Cl. 581.

14. U.S.—Strong v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 14 S.Ct. 1182, 154 U.S. appendix 632, 24 L.Ed. 664.
58 C.J. p. 244 note 22.

15. U.S.—O'Boyle v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 853.

16. U.S.—Reed v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 11 Wall. 591, 20 L.Ed. 220.
58 C.J. p. 244 note 21

17. U.S.—O'Boyle v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 853.

18. U.S.—Atlantic Refining Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 82 F.Supp. 201.
58 C.J. p. 243 note 19 [c].

19. N.Y.—Robinson v. Chittenden, 69 N.Y. 525.

20. U.S.—The Cullen No. 32, C.C.A.N.Y., 62 F.2d 68, affirmed Cullen Fuel Co. v. W. E. Hedger, Inc., 54 S.Ct. 10, 290 U.S. 82, 78 L.Ed. 189.

Failure to test seams

Fact that scow owner did not test seams with trier before delivering scow to charterer, although otherwise examining seams, was held not to show negligence, as against strangers, in sending out unseaworthy vessel.—The Cullen No. 32, C.C.A.N.Y., 62 F.2d 68, affirmed Cullen Fuel Co. v. W. E. Hedger, Inc., 54 S.Ct. 10, 290 U.S. 82, 78 L.Ed. 189.

21. La.—Agricultural Bank v. The Jane, 19 La. 1.

22. Mass.—Reynolds v. Toppan, 15 Mass. 370, 8 Am.D. 110.
58 C.J. p. 244 note 27.

23. U.S.—Polar Steamship Corp. v. Inland Overseas Steamship Corp., C.C.A.Va., 136 F.2d 835, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 83, 320 U.S. 774, 88 L.Ed. 464.

24. U.S.—Polar Steamship Corp v. Inland Overseas Steamship Corp., supra.

Knowledge of contract

Where both owner and charterer of vessel had knowledge of terms of firm contract between shipper and foreign government for sale of a product and must have known that special damages would necessarily result from breach of contract of carriage, the shipper could recover the profits which resulted from such breach which occurred by reason of owner's breach of bare boat charter.—Polar Steamship Corp. v. Inland Overseas Steamship Corp., supra.

25. U.S.—Polar Steamship Corp v. Inland Overseas Steamship Corp., supra.

of his lien on the vessel for the execution of the contract of affreightment,[26] and the fact that a charter party existed, of which the shipper had no knowledge, cannot change the liability or relieve the vessel from the lien which the contract establishes,[27] and the master is chargeable with knowledge of the shipper's rights, and the vessel is liable in rem for damage to cargo from dangerous goods, although they were taken on at the request of the charterer.[28] The ship and the charterer have been held not to be freed from liability to shippers for pilfering from the cargo by the fact that the ship was in charge of a marshal on a libel in rem where he was only in technical possession thereof.[29]

Matters with reference to bills of lading. Where the owner of a vessel, notwithstanding the charter party, makes special contracts through the master in respect of freight, the bills of lading govern the rights of the parties.[30] The master cannot keep the goods delivered to him for shipment, and refuse to sign a bill of lading to the order of the shipper, irrespective of his orders from the charterers or the contract between the shipper and his vendee.[31] A shipper who delivers goods to a railroad company under a through bill of lading to a foreign seaport has been held not to be bound to accept from the forwarding vessel a bill of lading with the additional qualification, "Other conditions as per charter-party."[32] Where a vessel is chartered for a voyage out and return at a monthly rate, payable after her return, a shipper of a portion of the outward cargo, who takes a bill of lading providing for payment of freight "as per charter-party," is not liable to the vessel for freight, especially where, by a memorandum at the foot of the charter party, the hirer stipulates that the master may collect return freights toward payment of the charter money.[33]

Assignment of money accruing under charter party. An assignment by the charterer of all the money subsequently accruing to the charterer by virtue of the charter party is enforceable in equity as an agreement to assign as soon and as often as anything should come into being which was covered by it, even if it transfers no legal title.[34]

b. Consignees

A consignee may be charged with knowledge of the contents of the charter party and he may be held liable for freight, particularly on a promise to pay therefor, to the amount due on the charter party.

There is authority to the effect that the consignee of a charterer, who deals with him in that character, must be presumed to know the contents of the charter party;[35] that, where the consignee has notice that freight must be paid to the master, and not to the charterer, it imposes a like obligation on him as if so reserved in the bill of lading;[36] and that a consignee has no right to appropriate moneys due for freight to satisfy debts owing to him by the charterer, although the bill of lading directs the freight to be paid to the consignee.[37] However, a direction to the consignee by the master to pay a sum out of the freights to the charterer, it has been held, will be equivalent to a payment to the master.[38] Under a charter party giving the charterer the option of discharging at two safe ports, any right of a consignee of the cargo to choose a second port of discharge is derived from, and is no greater than, the charterer's right.[39]

The master, notwithstanding any interference or direction of the charterer, has been held to have

26. U.S.—The Coventina, D.C.N.Y., 52 F. 156.
58 C.J. p. 244 note 28.
Lien for injury to cargo generally see supra § 51.

27. U.S.—Sanders v. The Ellen Hardy, D.C.Minn., 21 F.Cas.No. 12,293.

28. U.S.—The T. A. Goddard, D.C. N.Y., 12 F. 174.

29. U.S.—The Poznan, D.C.N.Y., 276 F. 418.

30. U.S.—The Carlotta, D.C.N.Y., 5 F.Cas.No. 2,413, 9 Ben. 1, affirmed, C.C., 7 F.Cas.No. 2,413a.

31. U.S.—The M. K. Rawley, D.C. Mass., 17 F.Cas.No. 9,679, 2 Lowell 447.

32. U.S.—Chamberlain v. The Torgorm, D.C.S.C., 48 F. 584.

33. U.S.—Perkins v. Hill, C.C.Mass., 19 F.Cas.No. 10,987, 2 Woodb. & M. 158.

34. U.S.—Phillips v. Houston Nat. Bank, Houston, C.C.A.Tex., 108 F. 2d 934.

Money paid into court by owner
Where national bank loaned steamship company money to carry out charter party, and company assigned to bank "moneys of any kind or character collected" by, or accruing to, company "by virtue of said charter party" and on subsequent bankruptcy of company the vessel with approval of bankruptcy court and with consent of bank was released to its owners who paid certain funds under the settlement into court, bank was entitled to lien on funds paid into court, since the assignment included all moneys collected by reason of the charter party.—Phillips v. Houston Nat. Bank, Houston, supra.

35. U.S.—Shaw v. Thompson, D.C.N.Y., 21 F.Cas.No. 12,726, Olcott 144.

36. U.S.—Shaw v. Thompson, supra.

37. U.S.—Shaw v. Thompson, supra.

38. U.S.—Shaw v. Thompson, supra.

39. U.S.—George E. Warren Corporation v. Picton S. S. Co., C.C.A. Mass., 100 F. 2d 212.

Expense of going to additional port
Where charterer had selected a second port of discharge pursuant to option given by charter party, but consignee of cargo, knowing that vessel was under charter out of such port and would be required to go there, nevertheless insisted that vessel go to another place as second port of discharge, owner of vessel was entitled to recover from consignee the entire additional expense of going to the other place.—George E. Warren Corporation v. Picton S. S. Co., supra.

a right to retain the goods until his lien shall be satisfied,[40] and he may sue the consignees after delivery to them of the goods and recover the freight, at least to the amount due on the charter party.[41] This right is strengthened where the consignee, on receipt of the goods, promises the master to pay the freight,[42] and receipt of the goods alone by the consignee may, under some circumstances, constitute an implied assumpsit.[43]

If a charter party does not give the entire control of the vessel to the charterer or postpone the payment of the charter money beyond the delivery of the cargo, the general owner will not be divested of his lien for freight or his right to collect it;[44] and, under such a charter, the payment of the freight by the consignee to the general owner will be a defense to any claim for it by the charterer,[45] although he gives notice, before the payment, to the consignee, not to pay to the general owner.[46] A consignee, authorized by the charterer to furnish a cargo under a charter party, is not thereby authorized to change or waive any of its stipulations, or to make any agreement as to the manner in which the ship shall be loaded or ballasted.[47] Where the charter party is not proved, or where it makes no provision with respect to the consignee or mode of delivery, the bills of lading become the proper and controlling evidence, in whole or in part, of the contract.[48]

Effect of master's claim for demurrage. Where the charter stipulates that the master shall sign a draft on the consignees, in favor of the charterers, for the freight, he cannot refuse his signature on the ground that demurrage is due him,[49] especially where the charterers have claims against the vessel in excess of the demurrage claimed,[50] and the consignee is entitled to abandon the goods to the vessel and to recover from the vessel the value of the goods, less the lawful charges, where delay was caused by the wrongful acts of the master in making an extortionate demand for demurrage, and in not storing the goods in a warehouse instead of keeping them on board.[51]

Ship's right to know consignee. When, by bills of lading, cargo is consigned to order, it is the right of the ship to be informed, by an inspection of the indorsements on the bills of lading that have been signed and delivered by the master, as to who is entitled to receive the cargo,[52] and, if such information is not given and the cargo is placed in store after a survey, no owner appearing to receive the cargo, the consignee cannot thereafter object that there was no delivery.[53]

Vessel's liability for short delivery. The vessel is liable to the consignee of a bill of lading for a shortage in delivery occasioned by the negligence of the captain.[54]

§ 55. Letting Vessels on Shares

a. In general
b. Operation and effect

a. In General

A transaction whereby the master is put in charge of a vessel to manage and operate her, and to pay the owner a share of the profits, may constitute a chartering of the vessel to the master; and, where the charter constitutes a demise of the vessel, the charterer becomes the owner pro hac vice.

When the master is put in charge of a vessel, to manage and operate her and to pay the owner a share of the profits arising from such use, such a transaction may constitute a chartering of the vessel to the master;[55] it does not, however, necessarily operate thus,[56] and in order to do so, there must be an express agreement for the charter of the vessel,[57] or circumstances must appear properly forming the basis for an inference of such an agreement.[58] Where the owner hires the vessel to the master on shares by an agreement which, under the rules applicable to charter parties generally, constitutes a demise of the vessel, it will operate in its

40. U.S.—The Tangier, D.C.N.Y., 32 F. 230

41. U.S.—Shaw v. Thompson, D.C.N.Y., 21 F.Cas.No.12,726, Olcott 144.

42. U.S.—Ruggles v. Bucknor, C.C.N.Y., 20 F.Cas.No.12,115, 1 Paine 358.

43. U.S.—Certain Logs of Mahogany, C.C.Mass., 5 F.Cas.No.2,559, 2 Sumn. 589.
58 C.J. p. 245 note 45

44. N.Y.—Mactaggert v. Henry, 3 E. D.Smith 390.

45. N.Y.—Mactaggert v. Henry, supra.

46. N.Y.—Mactaggert v. Henry, supra.

47. U.S.—Rich v. Parrott, D.C.N.Y., 20 F.Cas.No.11,761, 1 Sprague 358, affirmed, C.C., 20 F.Cas.No.11,760.

48. U.S.—Strong v. Certain Quantity of Wheat, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.Cas.No. 13,541, affirmed 3 Wall. 225, 18 L. Ed. 194.

49. U.S.—Reynolds v. The Joseph, C.C.Va., 20 F.Cas.No.11,730, 2 Hughes 58.

50. U.S.—Reynolds v. The Joseph, supra.

51. U.S.—Hoxsie v. The Reuben Doud, D.C.Mich., 46 F. 800.

52. U.S.—The Adella S. Hills, D.C.N.Y., 47 F. 76.

53. U.S.—The Adella S. Hills, supra.

54. U.S.—The Nora, D.C.Pa., 14 F. 429.
58 C.J. p. 245 note 56.

55. U.S.—Mayo v. Snow, C.C.Mass., 16 F.Cas.No.9,356, 2 Curt. 102.

56. Me.—Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289.
58 C.J. p. 246 note 58.

57. U.S.—Peters v. Rohrman, D.C.N.J., 272 F. 338.

58. U.S.—Peters v. Rohrman, supra.

usual manner to make the charterer owner pro hac vice.[59]

It has frequently been held that a charter party is to be inferred from such circumstances attending the transaction as that the master is given sole control of the navigation and management of the ship, hires her officers and crew, makes contracts for her cargo, determines her employment, equips and provisions the vessel, and collects her earnings;[60] but a combination of any or all of these circumstances is insufficient to constitute a chartering if the control and possession of the vessel are retained by the owner and not transferred to the master.[61] The primary consideration in determining whether the agreement for sailing on shares is a charter is whether the entire possession and control of the vessel have been surrendered to the master,[62] such a surrender of possession and control is essential to a charter arising from such a hiring on shares,[63] and, in the absence of circumstances to the contrary, is conclusive to the effect that such a charter exists.[64] In the absence of any express agreement constituting a demise, the question whether or not the circumstances are of such a character as to operate as a transfer of the possession and control to the master is one of fact rather than of law.[65]

Nature of charter. In view of the effect regularly given to charters whereby the entire possession and control are vested in the charterer, such charters, arising from hiring on shares, when recognized, have uniformly been held to operate as demises.[66] Such a hiring is valid as a charter, although by parol,[67] and although not made for any particular period or with any definite term,[68] and it has been held to be an indefeasible letting for hire for every voyage which the hirer shall have entered on anterior to notice from the general owner of his intention to put an end to the contract.[69]

Part owner taking vessel on shares. Where a joint owner, by an arrangement with the other owners, takes the vessel to sail on shares, he to manage her and furnish supplies and to have absolute control and management, his duties and obligations as to his coowners are such as arise from the relation created by his contract,[70] and he becomes the owner of the vessel pro hac vice, as charterer or lessee thereof,[71] and not the agent of the other owners.[72]

b. Operation and Effect

(1) In general
(2) Rights with respect to vessel's earnings

(1) In General

Under a hiring of a vessel on shares to the master which constitutes a demise and makes the master the owner of the vessel pro hac vice, the rights and obligations of the parties are the same as those resulting from other charters of demise.

Where a vessel is so let and hired on shares to the master that the transaction is a demise and the master owner pro hac vice, the effect on the rights and obligations of the parties under such charter is the same as that resulting from other charters of demise generally.[73] The master is not a partner of the vessel owner,[74] or the owner's agent,[75] except in so far as he may have been specially constituted as such,[76] and the owner is not liable on the master's contracts;[77] but, where the operation of the vessel on shares is not a demise, the general owners are liable as principals for the contracts of the master, acting as their agent, which are duly authorized or ratified.[78]

59. N.Y.—Hallet v. Columbian Ins Co., 8 Johns. 272.
Construction of instrument as demise of vessel see supra § 34.

60. Vt.—Tobias v. Blin, 21 Vt. 544.
58 C.J. p 246 note 63.

61. Me.—Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289.

62. U.S.—Peters v. Rohrman, D.C. N.J., 272 F. 338.
58 C.J. p 246 note 65.

63. N.C.—Howard v. Ross, 3 N.C 333.
58 C.J. p 247 note 66.

64. Me.—Somes v. White, 65 Me. 542, 20 Am.R. 718
58 C.J. p 247 note 67.

65. N.Y.—Kenzel v. Kirk, 2 Abb.Dec 500, 32 How.Pr. 269.
58 C.J. p 247 note 69.

66. U.S.—Thorp v. Hammond, N.Y., 12 Wall 408, 20 L.Ed. 419
58 C.J. p 247 note 71.

67. U.S.—Thomas v. Osborn, Md., 19 How 22, 15 L.Ed 534.
58 C.J. p 247 note 73.

68. U.S.—Webb v. Peirce, C.C.Mass., 29 F.Cas.No.17,320, 1 Curt. 104
58 C.J. p 247 note 74.

69. U.S.—Webb v. Peirce, supra.
58 C.J. p 247 note 75.

70. N.Y.—Williams v. Hays, 38 N.E 449, 143 N.Y. 442, 42 Am.S.R 743, 26 L.R.A 153
Rights and obligations of coowners generally see supra § 16.

71. N.Y.—Williams v. Hays, supra.

72. N.Y.—Williams v. Hays, supra.
Managing owner in general see supra § 17.

73. Mass.—Taggard v. Loring, 16 Mass. 336, 8 Am.D. 140.
58 C.J. p 247 note 79.
Operation and effect of charters conferring ownership pro hac vice generally see supra § 34.

74. Me.—Bridges v. Sprague, 57 Me. 543, 99 Am.D. 788
58 C.J. p 247 note 80.

75. Mass.—Tucker v. Stimson, 12 Gray 487
58 C.J. p 247 note 81.

76. U.S.—Mayo v. Snow, C.C.Mass., 16 F.Cas.No.9,356, 2 Curt 102
Mass.—Rich v. Jordan, 41 N.E. 56, 164 Mass 127.

77. U.S.—Peters v. Rohrman, D.C.N.J., 272 F. 338.
58 C.J. p 248 note 83

78. Me.—Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289.
58 C.J. p 248 note 84.

Liability for supplies, repairs, and materials. In accordance with the rules applicable to demises of vessels in general, where a master hires a vessel on shares under an agreement making him owner pro hac vice, he is responsible for necessary repairs, supplies, or materials,[79] including portions of the cargo used as fuel for the vessel,[80] and the general owner ordinarily is not personally liable for such items.[81] Where, however, the share agreement is not a charter, the general owner remains liable for supplies, repairs, and provisions furnished to the vessel.[82] Whatever the character of the transaction, if the owner or his agent specifically requests and obtains the furnishing of the supplies on his personal undertaking and credit, he is liable for them to the person who has supplied them.[83]

Liability for tortious management and navigation. In accordance with the rules applicable to charters constituting a demise in general, the master, chartering a vessel on shares so as to become owner pro hac vice, is liable for any injury to third persons from negligent management or navigation of the vessel,[84] and the general owner is absolved from liability therefor.[85] However, where the share arrangement is not a demise to the master, the owner remains liable for injuries caused by tortious conduct in the management and navigation of the vessel.[86] Where the conduct of the master is of a barratrous nature, but the master is, under a hiring of the vessel on shares, charterer of the vessel and owner pro hac vice, such wrongful conduct is not barratry.[87]

Liability for injury to, or nondelivery of, cargo. In accordance with the rules generally applicable to charters constituting the charterer owner pro hac vice, where the master charters a vessel on shares so as to become owner pro hac vice, he alone is personally liable for injury to, or nondelivery of, the cargo,[88] and the general owner is not subject to personal liability for such matters.[89] However, where the arrangement for sharing profits does not amount to a charter and demise to the master, the general owner is answerable for the nonfulfillment of the contract of carriage.[90]

(2) Rights with Respect to Vessel's Earnings

The agreement of the owner and a master operating the vessel on shares determines their respective rights to share in the proceeds of the vessel's employment.

The agreement of the owner and the master operating the vessel on shares controls the existence and enforceability of their several rights to share in the proceeds of the vessel's employment.[91] As to third persons generally, who are strangers to the charter, where a ship is chartered to the master to operate on shares as owner pro hac vice, the general owner's right to earnings of the vessel is a personal right against the master, dependent on the terms of the contract, and not a right against the proceeds arising from her use.[92] The general owner must, in such case, be content to take his place among the other general creditors of the master;[93] he cannot maintain any action against the freighter for the freight earned by the vessel during such an arrangement;[94] he cannot interpose his claim as owner to prevent the party liable for the freight money from offsetting against it any claim which he may have against the master;[95] and he has no such interest in the proceeds of the vessel's employment that he can interpose to prevent a personal creditor of the master from reaching them when they are in the hands of a third person to whom they have been transferred by the master,[96] or that he can prevent them from being held, while still in the hands of 79. Md.—Stirling v. Loud, 33 Md. 436.

58 C.J. p 249 note 12.
Liability of charterer as owner pro hac vice for supplies, repairs, and materials generally see supra § 34

80. Me.—Sproat v. Donnell, 26 Me 185, 45 Am.D. 103.

81. Mass.—Costa v. Gorton-Pew Vessels Co., 136 N.E. 100, 242 Mass 294
58 C.J. p 249 note 14.

82. N.Y.—Vose v. Cockroft, 44 N.Y. 415
58 C.J. p 250 note 15.

83. Mass.—Paine v. Silva, 47 N.E. 118, 168 Mass 432, 50 N.E. 1126, 171 Mass. 276.

84. U.S.—Thorp v. Hammond, N.Y., 12 Wall. 408, 20 L.Ed. 419
58 C.J. p 250 note 18.
Liability of charterer as owner pro hac vice for negligence generally see supra § 34

85. U.S.—Webster v. Disharoon, D.C. Md., 64 F. 143
58 C.J. p 250 note 19.

86. N.Y.—Scarff v. Metcalf, 13 N.E. 796, 107 N.Y. 211, 1 Am.S.R. 807
58 C.J. p 250 note 20.

87. Mass.—Taggard v. Loring, 16 Mass 336, 8 Am.D. 140
N.Y.—Hallet v. Columbian Ins. Co., 8 Johns 272.

88. Me.—Bonzey v. Hodgkins, 55 Me 98.
58 C.J. p 250 note 23.
Liability of charterer as owner pro hac vice for injury to, or nondelivery of, cargo generally see supra § 34.

89. Mass.—Thompson v. Hamilton, 12 Pick. 425, 23 Am.D. 619.
58 C.J. p 250 note 24.

90. Me.—Emery v. Hersey, 4 Me. 407, 16 Am.D. 268.
58 C.J. p 251 note 25.

91. Mass.—Coggeshall v. Read, 5 Pick. 454.
58 C.J. p 248 note 85.

92. Me.—Bridges v. Sprague, 57 Me. 543, 99 Am.D. 788.
58 C.J. p 248 note 86.

93. Me.—Bridges v. Sprague, supra.

94. Me.—Bridges v. Sprague, supra.
Mass.—Manter v. Holmes, 10 Metc. 402.

95. Me.—Bridges v. Sprague, 57 Me 543, 99 Am.D. 788.
Mass.—Manter v. Holmes, 10 Metc. 402.

96. Mass.—Adams v. Augustine, 81 N.E. 192, 195 Mass 289.
58 C.J. p 248 note 90.

the freighter, for any vigilant creditor of the master who makes a timely foreign attachment.[97]

According to some authority, even as between the owner and the master the effect of such an agreement is merely to make the latter the debtor of the former, bound by a personal contract to pay the owner as compensation a sum for the use of the vessel to be determined on the basis of her net earnings,[98] not constituting the master trustee for the owner,[99] or giving to the latter any direct interest in the funds earned by the vessel until the severance and payment of the agreed share to him.[1] However, according to other authority, as against the master himself, who has chartered the vessel, the right is not a mere personal right like that of any ordinary creditor,[2] but is a right to a share in the particular funds comprising the earning of the vessel;[3] and the same is true as against a third person who, with knowledge of all the facts, is authorized by the master to receive the earnings and who promises to pay the owner his share thereof.[4] As between such persons and the real owner, the earnings when collected are equally the money of the owner and the master,[5] and the latter, or his representative, becomes a trustee of the owner's share when received, and holds it for his use,[6] and may be sued by the owner therefor.[7]

Where, under such a demise, the master employs the vessel in several successive voyages, the owner's right to a share of the earnings, in the absence of anything to the contrary in the agreement, has been held to be a right to a proportionate part of the total earnings of the vessel, taken together, and not a number of separate rights to a proportionate share of the earnings of each particular voyage of the several which are made.[8] Where the master, under the arrangement for division of earnings, is not the charterer, the whole freight belongs to the owner, subject to the usual incidents appropriate to that right.[9] One party to the transaction may, by his conduct, estop himself from seeking a deduction, from the amount due the other, of a claim held against such other.[10]

Charter to shipper on shares. Where a third person, not the master and not in possession and control of the vessel, hires a ship's services on shares, by sending out a certain amount of money for investment, on an agreement that the owner should take a share in the profits of the venture as the hire of the vessel, there must be a profit on the whole adventure before the owner is entitled to claim anything,[11] and, if the vessel and part of the cargo are lost, the owner is not entitled to share in the profits on that portion of the cargo that has been saved, where there is a loss on the adventure as a whole.[12] The owner, where the ship is thus hired, cannot retain from the charterer's share an amount sufficient to pay for the loss and expenses or a pro rata portion thereof, occasioned by the vessel's unseaworthiness.[13]

Where the respective shares of the parties have once been determined and an effectual division and appropriation of the profits made, the owner may retain the amount thus set aside to him as his share of the earnings on the adventure,[14] without deduction by reason of the failure of the firm with whom the charterers' share was deposited, in the exercise of reasonable prudence and care, and the consequent loss to them.[15] Where a cargo is thus shipped, the profits are to be estimated on a sale at the destination of the vessel, and, if the voyage is broken up by an overwhelming calamity, it not being shown that independently of the accident the goods would ever have arrived, or that, if they had, any profit would have been made, the claim to a share in the profits, being for mere possibilities and contingencies, is incapable of being estimated.[16]

§ 56. Actions

a. In general
b. Parties
c. Pleadings
d. Evidence
e. Trial, judgment, and review

a. In General

In appropriate cases, actions on charters may be brought at law, in equity, or in admiralty; and they are

97. Me.—Bridges v. Sprague, 57 Me 543, 99 Am.D. 788.
98. Vt.—Tobias v. Blin, 21 Vt. 544. 58 C.J p 248 note 92.
99. Vt.—Tobias v. Blin, supra.
1. Vt.—Tobias v. Blin, supra.
2. Me.—Williams v. Williams, 23 Me. 17.
3. Me.—Williams v. Williams, supra
4. Me.—Williams v. Williams, supra. 58 C.J. p 248 note 97.
5. Me.—Williams v. Williams, supra.
6. Me.—Williams v Williams, supra.
7. Me.—Williams v. Williams, supra
8. Md.—Stirling v. Loud, 33 Md. 436. 58 C.J p 249 note 2.
9. Me.—Sims v. Howard, 40 Me. 276 58 C.J. p 249 note 3.
10. Vt.—Tobias v Blin, 21 Vt. 544. 58 C.J. p 249 note 4.
11. Mass.—Pearce v. Phillips, 4 Mass. 672.
12. Mass.—Pearce v. Phillips, supra.
13. Mass.—Putnam v Wood, 3 Mass 381, 3 Am.D. 179.
14. Mass.—Gilchrist v. Ward, 4 Mass 692.
15. Mass.—Gilchrist v. Ward, supra.
16. U.S.—The Nathaniel Hooper, C C.Mass., 17 F Cas.No 10,032, 3 Sumn 542.

governed by the general rules which apply to actions on maritime contracts.

Actions on charters, in addition to lying at law in the same manner as other actions on contracts,[17] or to forming the basis of suits in equity in appropriate cases,[18] come within the jurisdiction of admiralty,[19] and the general rules which apply to actions on maritime contracts apply to such actions.[20] In enforcing the obligations and liabilities of the government as charterer, the owner is limited to the use of actions and proceedings provided by statute for the enforcement of his claims [21]

In cases of breach of charter, a libel may lie jointly in rem against the vessel and in personam against the owner.[22] Under rules of general application in admiralty proceedings, admiralty ordinarily has no jurisdiction of a libel in rem for breach of an executory contract whereby a vessel is chartered to libelants for the transportation of merchandise,[23] but even as to such a contract the court of admiralty has been held to have jurisdiction in personam,[24] and, where an executory charter party is breached before the vessel has entered into the performance of the charter party, the charterer may maintain an action in rem to enforce a lien for supplies put aboard the vessel for the provisioning of the crew.[25]

Time of bringing action. The general rules as to the time of bringing suit, including those prevailing in admiralty if the action on the charter party is in admiralty, are applicable to actions on charter parties.[26] An action for charter money brought before the owner's right thereto under the charter party accrues is prematurely commenced.[27]

b. Parties

The general rules applicable to parties in civil actions or proceedings in admiralty are applicable in suits on charter parties.

The rules as to parties applicable in civil actions generally, and, where the proceeding is in admiralty, the principles with regard to parties prevailing in admiralty, apply to suits on charter parties.[28] Thus, only those persons are proper libelants or plaintiffs who are privy to the charter or in whose favor it creates such an obligation as will serve as a substitute for privity.[29] Likewise, only persons sustaining such a relation to the charter are proper respondents or defendants.[30]

A suit for damages, founded on a charter executed in the name of the managing owners, either without or together with the ship's husband, may be brought in the names of the owners expressed in the instrument,[31] and, similarly, a suit on a charter

17. Ala.—Burton v. May, 103 So. 46, 212 Ala. 435.
58 C.J. p 251 note 27.
Enforcement of arbitration clause in charter parties see supra § 33.

Action at law after award in admiralty

Where a time charterer had an option to purchase at any time during the charter period, the fact that a court of admiralty has awarded him damages for loss of use of the vessel under the charter by reason of its withdrawal by the owner has been held not a bar to an action at law to recover damages for deprivation of his right to purchase, which the admiralty court was without jurisdiction to award.—Universal Transp Co. v Rederiaktiebolaget Amie, D.C.N.Y., 263 F 243.

18. N.Y.—Coster v. New York, etc., R. Co, 13 N.Y Super 43, 12 N.Y Super 677, 3 Abb Pr. 332.
58 C.J. p 251 note 28.

19. U.S.—Adams v U. S, D.C.Mass., 101 F.Supp 956.
58 C.J. p 251 note 29.

20. U.S.—C. F Harms Co. v. Upper Hudson Stone Co, D.C.N.Y., 225 F 630, affirmed 234 F 859, 148 C.C.A. 457.
58 C.J. p 251 note 31.

21. U.S.—The Western Maid, Md, 42 S.Ct. 159, 257 U.S. 419, 66 L.Ed 299
58 C.J. p 238 note 70.

22. U.S.—The J F Warner, D.C Mich, 22 F. 342
58 C.J p 251 note 32.

Remedies of subcharterer

Subcharter, even on same terms as original charter, does not give rise to right of action in personam by subcharterer against general owner; but subcharterer has remedy against ship in rem for damage to, or loss of, cargo.—Perez v Cia Tropical Exportadora, Ltda, of Costa Rica, C.A Fla, 182 F 2d 874.

23. U.S.—The J. F. Warner, D.C. Mich, 22 F. 342.
58 C.J. p 251 note 34.

24. U.S.—The J. F Warner, supra.

25. U.S.—The Valmar, D.C.Pa., 38 F.Supp. 618

26. U.S.—Simpson v. One Hundred and Ten Sticks of Hewn Timber, D.C.N.Y, 7 F. 243.
58 C.J. p 252 note 38.

27. U.S.—Cargo of Salt, C.C.N.Y., 5 F.Cas.No 2,406, 4 Blatchf. 224.
58 C.J. p 252 note 39.

28. U.S.—Eastern Massachusetts St. R. Co. v. Transmarine Corp, C.C.A Mass., 42 F.2d 58, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 86, 282 U.S. 883, 75 L.Ed. 779.
58 C.J. p 252 note 42.

29. U.S.—La Scala v. Boughton, D.C. N.Y., 37 F 62.
58 C.J. p 252 note 43.

Filing of limitation of liability proceeding

Shipowner who files limitation of liability proceeding and either deposits sum equal to amount of value of his interest in vessel or gives security therefor retains his right of action for tortious destruction of vessel.—Pure Oil Co. v Geotechnical Corp. of Del., D.C La., 94 F Supp. 866, affirmed, C.A., Geotechnical Corp of Del. v. Pure Oil Co, 196 F 2d 199.

30. U.S.—Chiesa v. Conover, D.C. Ala, 40 F 496
58 C.J. p 252 note 44.

Suit against United States

Where the United States Shipping Board properly entered into an agreement for approval of the charter party and discharge of the cargo on deposit with it of the freight charges due, for their proper and lawful disposition, and where the freight charges so deposited were turned over to the Shipping Board and held by the United States Treasury to the credit of the board, the owner of the vessel was held entitled to recover in a suit therefor against the United States, but could not recover interest.—Sanguineti v. U. S., 83 Ct.Cl. 1.

31. U.S.—Bangs v. Lowber, C.C Mass, 2 F.Cas.No 840, 2 Cliff. 157, reversed on other grounds Lowber v Bangs, 2 Wall. 728, 17 L.Ed. 768.
58 C.J. p 252 note 45.

signed by the master, to whom the charter money is to be paid, is properly brought in his name alone,[32] and the owners need not be joined as libelants.[33] Where the vessel is chartered by agents of the owner without disclosing the agency, a suit on the charter may be brought by the undisclosed principal as plaintiff.[34] Suit may be brought on a charter party in their own names by the agents of the owners as trustees of an express trust.[35]

A charterer can maintain a libel for loss of, or injury to, cargo in his own name, although he has sold the goods to arrive, if it does not appear that he had parted with title or the right to possession at the time of the breach complained of;[36] or for the benefit of his insurer subrogated to his rights by payment, although he no longer has any interest in the cargo,[37] or for possession, after repudiation of a sale of the cargo and return of the bills of lading by the consignee, although he may intend to hold the purchaser liable for the repudiation.[38] The agents of a known principal, chartering the vessel for him in their own name, may institute a libel in their own name against the owner for breach of charter terms.[39]

Those having title to cargo shipped on a chartered vessel, as indorsees of bills of lading, may sue to libel the vessel in their own names.[40] An agreement by parol to sell an interest in a ship, without conveyance of the title, does not make the vendee a necessary party to an action commenced for freight carried on a charter party.[41] Dormant partners in the chartering whose interest as such is unknown to the owner at the time of suit brought for the charter hire are not necessary parties defendant.[42]

c. Pleadings

The pleadings in actions at law or in admiralty involving charter parties are governed by the general rules of pleading. The complaint or libel must set forth all the necessary facts, and the answer must comply with rules requiring it to be full and explicit.

The general rules of pleading apply to actions at law or in admiralty involving charter parties.[43] The complaint, declaration, or libel must set forth substantially all the necessary facts,[44] and must comport with the writing declared on.[45] The answer must comply with rules requiring that it be full and explicit.[46] An answer setting forth a charter provision that the quantities to be carried should be mutually arranged between the parties, merely in explanation of a failure to carry cargo before a declaration of war, has been held insufficient to raise a defense of invalidity of the charter for want of mutuality.[47] General rules apply as to the sufficiency of a petition whereby a charterer who is sought to be held liable for damage to the ship seeks to implead a subcharterer as the one primarily responsible for the damage.[48]

32. U.S.—Baker v. Ward, D C.N.Y., 2 F.Cas.No.785, 3 Ben. 499.
58 C J. p 253 note 46.

33. U S.—Baker v. Ward, supra.

34. Cal.—Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal 481

35. N.Y.—Funch v. Abenheim, 20 Hun 1.

36. U S.—The Carlotta, D.C N Y., 5 F.Cas.No.2,413, 9 Ben. 1, affirmed, C.C., 5 F.Cas No.2,413a

37. U.S.—Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lanasa, C.C A.Md, 32 F 2d 154.

38. U.S.—The Director, C.C.Or., 36 F. 335, 13 Sawy. 479.

39. U.S.—Robert Dollar Co. v. American Asiatic Co., C C.A Cal., 25 F 2d 791, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 34, 278 U.S. 639, 73 L Ed. 555.
58 C.J. p 253 note 53.

40. U S.—The Henry W. Cramp, C.C. A.Pa., 20 F.2d 320, certiorari denied McDonald v. Rosasco, 48 S Ct. 120, 275 U.S 561, 72 L Ed 427—The Nora, D.C.Pa., 14 F. 429

41. N.Y.—Ward v. Whitney, 8 N.Y. 442.

42. N.Y.—Woodhouse v. Duncan, 13 N E 334, 106 N.Y. 527.
58 C.J. p 253 note 58.

43. U.S.—Beard's Erie Basin v. O'Brien Bros., C.C.A.N.Y., 162 F 2d 176—Card v. Hines, D.C S.C., 35 F. 598.
58 C J. p 253 note 60, p 254 note 64.

Libel held not prematurely filed
U S —Hall Corporation of Canada v. Cargo Ex Steamer Mont Louis and Subfreights Thereon, C.C.A N Y, 62 F 2d 603.

44. N.Y —Coster v. New York, etc, R Co, 13 N.Y Super. 43, 12 N.Y. Super. 677, 3 Abb.Pr. 332.
58 C.J. p 253 note 61.

Ownership
In action to recover for breach of a contract to charter a vessel, ownership of vessel was required to be shown in plaintiffs by clear and definite allegations.—Poland v. Cooper, 197 So 446, 143 Fla. 729.

Negligence
Bailor of demised barge suing bailee for returning barge in bad condition, must plead negligence — Alpine Forwarding Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co, C.C.A.N Y., 60 F.2d 734, certiorari denied Pennsylvania R. Co v. Alpine Forwarding Co., 53 S.Ct 93, 287 U.S. 647, 77 L.Ed. 559.

Allegations held sufficient
(1) To state cause of action.—Northern Star S. S. Co. of Canada v. Kansas Milling Co, D.C.N.Y., 75 F. Supp 534—Gronvold v. Suryan, D. C.Wash, 12 F.Supp 429.

(2) To allege exclusive possession so as to give rise to presumption of negligence —Willamette Tug & Barge Co v Commercial Dispatching Corp, 178 P 2d 698, 180 Or 657.

45. Conn.—Stodard v. Gates, 2 Root 157.
58 C.J. p 172 note 31 [b].

46. U.S —The F Y. Robertson, D.C. N Y., 7 F Supp 38

Part of claim held admitted
U.S.—Parthenia Corporation v. Morse, D C N.Y, 41 F.2d 961, affirmed, C C.A., 46 F 2d 1018

Answer held sufficient
U.S —The Creek, D C.N Y., 8 F.R.D. 118.

47. U.S.—Luckenbach SS. Co. v Grace, C.C A.Va, 267 F. 676, certiorari denied 41 S Ct 14, 254 U S. 644, 65 L Ed. 454.

48. U.S —Metropolitan Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., D C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 735.

Allegations held sufficient
In libel for damage to scow while under charter, respondent's petition for permission to implead subchar-

Special damages will not be allowed in the absence of any pleading of facts forming a basis for such damages.[49]

Issues, proof, and variance. The rules as to issues, proof, and variance applicable to civil actions generally, or those adopted in admiralty, where the proceeding is by a suit in admiralty, apply to actions on charter parties.[50] So, in an admiralty action, although the proofs of each party must substantially correspond to his allegations, so as to prevent surprise, there are no technical rules of variance or departure in pleading, as at common law.[51] Facts admitted by the pleadings need not be proved.[52] A variance in order to be fatal must be substantial.[53]

d. Evidence

(1) In general
(2) Presumptions and burden of proof
(3) Admissibility
(4) Weight and sufficiency

(1) In General

The general rules of evidence apply in actions involving charter parties.

The general rules of evidence have been applied in actions involving charter parties.[54] In appropriate cases, judicial notice of facts with respect to the chartered vessel may take the place of evidence as to such facts.[55] Deposition testimony given by a person must be understood in the light of what such person has deposed as a witness on the stand.[56] The age of a vessel alone has been held not to be evidence of its unseaworthiness.[57]

(2) Presumptions and Burden of Proof

(a) In general
(b) Seaworthiness

(a) In General

In accordance with general rules, the burden of proof in actions involving charter parties is on the party having the affirmative of the issue, although in carrying such burden he may be aided by proper presumptions.

The general rules with respect to presumptions and burden of proof apply to actions on charter parties.[58] The burden of proof is on the party having the affirmative of the issue.[59] Thus, a party claiming that the case falls within an exception in terer, which alleged that scow was delivered in good and seaworthy condition to subcharterer by charterer, and that, if scow was returned to libelant in a damaged condition, such damage occurred while scow was in control and possession of subcharterer, was sufficient, without an allegation of negligence of subcharterer.—Metropolitan Sand & Gravel Corp v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., supra.

49. U.S.—Orvig's Dampskibselskab Aktieselskab v Munson SS. Line, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.2d 957.

50. U.S.—Cleary Bros. v. Moran Towing Corp., D.C.N.Y., 79 F.Supp 934—Roah Hook Brick Co v. Erie R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 77 F.Supp 840, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.A., 179 F 2d 601

58 C.J. p 254 note 69–70

51. U.S.—The Gazelle, D.C.Md., 9 S.Ct. 139, 128 U.S. 474, 32 L.Ed. 496

58 C.J. p 254 note 71.

52. Cal.—Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal. 481.

58 C.J. p 254 note 72.

53. Cal.—Kerry v. Pacific Mar. Co., 54 P. 89, 121 Cal. 564, 66 Am.S.R. 65.

58 C.J. p 255 note 73.

54. Failure to give notice of survey

Where libelant's scow was in good condition when she passed under a usual harbor charter to respondent and was returned in damaged condition and during the interval she was under control of impleaded-respondent, failure of respondent to give notice of survey to the impleaded-respondent was some evidence that the latter's possible culpability was not apprehended by respondent promptly on the scow going off charter.—Gallagher Bros Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Anthony O'Boyle, Inc., D.C.N.Y., 94 F.Supp. 788.

55. U.S.—King v. Petterson, D.C.N.Y., 14 F.2d 532.

56. U.S.—Chateaugay Ore & Iron Co. v. Eastern Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 15 F.Supp. 705, affirmed, C.C.A., 88 F.2d 1005, certiorari denied 58 S. Ct. 18, 302 U.S. 699, 82 L.Ed. 540

57. U.S.—The Josephine, C.C.A.Pa., 49 F.2d 207.

58. U.S.—Dampskibs Aktieselskabet Jan v. Cargo of Jute Butts, Burlap and/or Shellac, etc., D.C.N.Y., 298 F. 164.

Presumption against demise see supra § 34.

Failure to carry cargo safely

In a libel against a shipowner for loss of a cargo, nonperformance on the part of the shipowner of his charter party in that he has failed safely to carry the cargo may raise an inference of negligence on his part.—Krebs Pigment & Chemical Co. v. Sheridan, D.C.Pa., 12 F.Supp. 254, affirmed, C.C.A., 79 F.2d 479.

59. U.S.—Rugo Const. Co v. New England Foundation Co., C.A.Mass., 172 F.2d 964—Cornwall v. Moore, D.C.Cal., 132 F. 868, affirmed 144 F. 22, 75 C.C.A. 180.

58 C.J. p 255 note 77.

Particular matters

(1) If vessel owner brings itself within clause of charter party exempting responsibility for "restraints of princes, rules and people" even where owner has failed in duty to make vessel seaworthy, burden falls on shipper or charterer to show that owner has caused loss of voyage.—Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha, Limited v. Societe Purfina Maritime, C.C.A.Cal., 133 F.2d 552, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 858, 318 U.S. 781, 87 L.Ed. 1148

(2) Owner of ship claiming that damage to cargo was result of inadequate dunnage had burden of proof thereof.—The Helen Barnet Gring, D.C.Md., 48 F.2d 629.

(3) Owners of vessel in libel against charterers for loss resulting from buckling of steel mast had burden to prove that equipment was sufficient.—Scottish Nav. Co. v. Munson S. S. Line, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 101, affirmed, C.C.A., 10 F.2d 708.

(4) Burden is on cargo owner, seeking to defeat lien against subfreights for charter hire, to prove that vessel owner waived lien.—The Solhaug, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 294.

(5) Owner of lost cargo has burden of proving negligence of charterer, where charterer is bailee for hire and not common carrier.—The Castleton, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 132, affirmed, C.C.A., 64 F.2d 11.

the charter party is charged with the burden of showing facts to bring the case within the exception.[60] In an action to recover for damage to cargo, where it appears that the cargo was delivered to the ship in apparent good condition and outturned damaged other than by fire, the shipowners and charterer have been held to have the burden of proving that the loss was not due to their negligence.[61]

Plaintiffs or libelants suing for breach of a charter are bound to show that they fulfilled the contract on their part.[62] The parties to a charter are to be presumed to know the law governing their rights and to act with respect thereto.[63] Failure of the owner of equipment, which broke down, to keep and produce such broken equipment creates a presumption that production of it would not be favorable.[64] The doctrine of res ipsa loquitur will not be applied in an action involving liability for damage to cargo where the circumstances of the accident do not identify the wrongdoer.[65]

Negligence in action for loss of, or injury to, vessel. In an action by the owner to recover for loss of, or injury to, the vessel by reason of negligence of the charterer, the ultimate burden of proof rests on the owner to show the charterer's negligence.[66] The necessary evidence of the charterer's negligence can be supplied by presumption, if the owner proves delivery of the vessel in a good or seaworthy condition and its return in a damaged condition,[67] and such proof makes out a prima facie case of negligence,[68] and, where such proof is adduced, the burden of introducing evidence in avoidance thereof, showing freedom from negli-

(6) A charterer, seeking to recover damages for refusal of owner to allow vessels to be used for a second voyage pursuant to alleged oral charters, had burden of showing what the oral charters were—U S Nav Co v Black Diamond Lines, C.C A N Y., 147 F 2d 958.

(7) Burden is on charterer to show owner's failure to tender ship with reasonable dispatch—U. S. Gypsum Transp Co. v. Dampskibs Aktieselskabet Karmoy, D C N.Y., 48 F.2d 376, affirmed, C.C A., 54 F 2d 1086.

(8) Burden to prove other matters—Lucayan Transports v McCormick Shipping Corp, C A Fla, 188 F 2d 202—The Frank A. Smith, D C.N. Y, 8 F.Supp 134.

60. U.S—The Aquarius, D C.Md, 44 F 2d 805.

61. U.S.—American Tobacco Co v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, C A N.Y, 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S 978, 96 L Ed —.

62. U.S.—Helm v. American Hawaiian SS. Co., C C A.Cal., 279 F. 72, certiorari denied 43 S Ct 93, 260 U S. 732, 67 L Ed. 486.
58 C J p 255 note 78

63. Cal—Frank v. Crescent Wharf, etc, Co., 195 P. 79, 50 Cal App. 272.

64. U S.—Scottish Nav. Co. v. Munson S. S Line, D C N Y, 60 F.2d 101, affirmed, C C A., 10 F.2d 708.
58 C.J. p 258 note 98 [d].

65. U.S.—Cruse v. Sabine Transp. Co, C.C A.Tex, 88 F.2d 298, certiorari denied 58 S Ct. 20, 302 U S 701, 82 L Ed. 541, rehearing denied 58 S.Ct. 134, 302 U.S 775, 82 L.Ed. 600.

66. U.S.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. American Stevedores, C C. A.N.Y., 151 F 2d 846—Waldie v Steers Sand & Gravel Corp., C C A. N.Y., 151 F.2d 129—The Irving, D C N Y., 16 F Supp 22, affirmed, C. C.A., Conners Marine Co. v Manhattan Lighterage Co, 91 F.2d 1011—Banks v Chas Kurz Co, D C Pa., 69 F Supp. 61, motion denied 69 F Supp 1017—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp, D C. N Y, 68 F Supp 392, affirmed, C C A, 162 F 2d 624—New England Foundation Co v Rugo Const. Co, D C Mass., 60 F Supp 143, affirmed, C A, Rugo Construction Co v New England Foundation Co, 172 F.2d 964—Magistrelli v Canuso, D C Pa., 45 F Supp 539—The Pride, D C N Y, 41 F Supp 326, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 135 F 2d 999—The Match Light, D C N.Y., 39 F. Supp 908.
Mo.—Bock v. Eilen, App, 211 S.W.2d 92.
58 C J. p 255 note 81.

Recharter

Where charterer of vessel, acting as principal and not as agent for owner, rechartered it to another, there was no contractual relation between owner and second charterer, and there was no presumption of negligence on part of second charterer because the vessel was returned to owner in damaged condition—The Seaboard No 21, D C N.Y., 61 F.Supp 596, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C.A, 154 F 2d 399

67. U S—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v American Stevedores, C C A N Y, 151 F.2d 846—Edward G. Murray Lighterage & Transp Co. v. Pennsylvania R R., C.C.A.N.Y, 130 F 2d 199—Alpine Forwarding Co v. Pennsylvania R Co, C C A. N.Y., 60 F 2d 734, certiorari denied Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Alpine Forwarding Co, 53 S Ct 93, 287 U.S. 647, 77 L Ed 559—The Reno, D.C. N.Y, 54 F 2d 682, modified on other grounds, C C A., 61 F.2d 966—C F. Harms Co. v. Erie R Co, D. C N.Y., 71 F Supp 934, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C A, 167 F.2d 562—The St. Nicholas, D C N.Y., 67 F.Supp. 380—New England Foundation Co. v Rugo Const Co, D.C Mass, 60 F Supp 143, affirmed, C A, Rugo Construction Co v. New England Foundation Co, 172 F 2d 964—Cox v. Banks, D C Pa, 50 F Supp. 871—Conners Marine Co v. Wathen, D. C N Y, 43 F.Supp 283—Texas Gulf Sulphur Co v O'Donnell, D C N Y, 26 F.Supp 70—The Moran No 107, D C N Y, 1 F Supp. 785.
Or.—Willamette Tug & Barge Co v. Commercial Dispatching Corp, 178 P 2d 698, 180 Or. 657.
58 C.J p 256 notes 82, 84.

Necessity of delivery in seaworthy condition

Owners were entitled to presumption of negligence of charterer only in the event of their delivery of vessel to charterer in a seaworthy condition—Banks v Chas. Kurz Co, D. C Pa, 69 F.Supp 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017.

68. U S.—The E T Halloran, C C.A. N.Y., 111 F 2d 571, certiorari denied Fuel Credit Corp. v. Howard, 61 S Ct 73, 311 U S 691, 85 L Ed. 447—The Reno, C C.A.N.Y., 61 F 2d 966—Banks v. Chas Kurz Co., D C.Pa, 69 F.Supp. 61, motion denied 69 F. Supp 1017—Conners Marine Co v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, D.C N Y., 60 F Supp. 960, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C A., The Everett Fowler, 151 F 2d 662, motion denied 152 F.2d 657, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 963, 327 U S 804, 90 L Ed. 1029, and certiorari denied 66 S Ct. 963, 327 U S 804, 90 L Ed 1029—The Killarney, D C N Y, 56 F Supp. 182—Magistrelli v Canuso, D C.Pa., 45 F Supp 539 gence, is then on the charterer.[69] Proof by plaintiff owner of damage to the vessel and that it was moored by defendant charterer in an unsafe place makes out a prima facie case of negligence requiring defendant to show that the accident happened notwithstanding the exercise of reasonable care[70] When the vessel while demised is injured or destroyed by an accident which in the ordinary course of things does not occur when good care is exercised, a presumption of loss or injury by negligence arises.[71]
58 C.J. p 256 note 84.

Where the charterer has expressly contracted in the charter against a presumption of negligence, the burden remains on the owner to show affirmatively the negligence of the charterer, and proof of delivery in a seaworthy condition does not make out a prima facie case against the charterer.[72] Where the charter is a mere contract of affreightment, there is no presumption of negligence against the charterer rendering him liable for unexplained injury to the vessel,[73] and the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur does not apply;[74] the burden is on the owner to prove the negligence asserted as the cause of the injury, not on the charterer to disprove it.[75]

The presumption of negligence arising from proof of delivery of the vessel in good condition and its return in a damaged condition is the equivalent of proof of negligence which will entitle libelant to a decree,[76] but it does not change the burden of proof which rests on libelant.[77] The presumption is a rebuttable one,[78] and it has been said to disappear when the facts appear.[79] In meeting the burden resting on him, the charterer must prove what he has done with respect to the vessel,[80] but he is not required to show how the damage occurred.[81]

No presumption of fault or negligence on the part of a charterer of a vessel arises from the fact

69. U S—O'Donnell Transp Co v. M & J Tracy, Inc, C C A N Y., 150 F.2d 735—Edward G. Murray Lighterage & Transp Co. v Pennsylvania R. R, C C A.N.Y, 130 F 2d 199—The E T Halloran, C C A.N Y., 111 F.2d 571, certiorari denied Fuel Credit Corp v. Howard, 61 S.Ct 73, 311 U S 691, 85 L Ed. 447—Kenny v City of New York, C.C. A.N.Y, 108 F 2d 958—The Reno, C C A.N.Y., 61 F 2d 966—Alpine Forwarding Co v. Pennsylvania R Co, C.C A N Y., 60 F.2d 734, certiorari denied Pennsylvania R Co. v. Alpine Forwarding Co, 53 S Ct. 93, 287 U S 647, 77 L Ed. 559—The Harry R, D C N Y., 58 F.2d 1000—The F G M No. 22, D.C N Y., 50 F 2d 269—O'Boyle v U. S, C C.A. N Y., 47 F 2d 585, mandate recalled 49 F 2d 273—The Maui, D C N Y., 70 F.Supp 772—Banks v. Chas Kurz Co, D C Pa, 69 F Supp 1017—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp, D C N Y, 68 F. Supp. 392, affirmed, C C A, 162 F. 2d 624—The Seaboard No 21, D C. N Y, 61 F Supp 596, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.C A, 154 F 2d 399—New England Foundation Co v. Rugo Const. Co., D.C Mass., 60 F Supp. 143, affirmed, C A, Rugo Const. Co v. New England Foundation Co., 172 F 2d 964—The Killarney, D C. N Y., 56 F Supp 182—Leary v City of New York, D C N Y, 52 F Supp. 643—U. S Lighterage Corporation v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., D C N Y., 51 F Supp 96, affirmed, C C A., 142 F 2d 197—Cox v. Banks, D.C Pa, 50 F Supp 871—Conners Marine Co v. Wathen, D.C. N Y., 43 F.Supp. 283—The Francis V. Duffy, D C.N.Y., 32 F Supp 505—Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. v. O'Donnell, D C N Y, 26 F Supp. 70—The Lillian, D C N Y, 8 F Supp. 625, affirmed, C C A, De Mars v. Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corporation, 75 F 2d 1011
58 C J p 256 note 85

Inevitable accident

In order to escape liability to owner for damages to vessel on theory of inevitable accident, charterer has burden to establish by convincing proof that the disaster was brought about by causes beyond control of anyone—The Seaboard No 25, D C. N Y., 68 F Supp 169, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 860

70. N.Y.—Neville v Morrison Coal, etc, Co, 207 N Y.S. 471, 211 App. Div 282
58 C J p 257 note 91.

71. U S—Hildebrandt v. Flower Lighterage Co, D C N Y., 277 F 436.
58 C.J. p 256 note 83.

72. N Y.—Fulton Lighterage Co. v. New York Cent R Co, 240 N Y S 88, 136 Misc 374.
58 C.J. p 257 note 86

73. U S—Glasgow Shipowners' Co. v. Munson SS Line, D C.Pa., 44 F 2d 826, affirmed, C C A, The Gibraltar, 52 F.2d 787
58 C J. p 257 note 87.

74. U.S—Glasgow Shipowners' Co. v Munson SS Line, supra.

75. U S.—Glasgow Shipowners' Co. v Munson SS. Line, supra.
58 C.J. p 257 note 89.

76. U.S—The Roslyn, C.C.A N.Y, 93 F.2d 278

77. U S—The Roslyn, supra.

78. U.S—The Maui, D C.N Y, 70 F. Supp. 772.

Circumstances rebutting presumption

In libel for damages to scow while being shifted across slip, proof offered by charterer as to the observable incidents of the manoeuver, and proof showing that shifting was not done by or at direction of charterer, was sufficient to rebut presumptive case against charterer arising from a failure to return scow in good order—The Maui, supra

79. U.S.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. American Stevedores, C C. A N.Y, 151 F 2d 846—The Roslyn, C C A N Y, 93 F.2d 278—Alpine Forwarding Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co., C C A.N.Y., 60 F 2d 734, certiorari denied Pennsylvania R Co. v Alpine Forwarding Co, 53 S Ct. 93, 287 U.S. 647, 77 L Ed. 559.

Explanation of damage

In action for damage to barge subchartered by owner to a railroad wherein railroad explained why barge was damaged, there was no longer any inference in the case and railroad's negligence remained a question of due proof by the owner—The Montezuma III, D C.N.Y., 66 F Supp. 562.

80. U.S—Alpine Forwarding Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co, C C A.N Y, 60 F.2d 734, certiorari denied Pennsylvania R Co. v. Alpine Forwarding Co, 53 S.Ct. 93, 287 U S. 647, 77 L Ed 559

81. U.S.—The Reno, C C A N Y, 61 F.2d 966
58 C J p 256 note 85 [b].

Showing of nonculpability

In libel against charterer for damage to scow, burden on charterer to explain accident was discharged by proof that charterer did not intrust scow to tug which had scow in tow at time of damage, but was prevented by tug from performing its own duties as bailee of the scow.—The Maui, D.C.N.Y., 70 F Supp. 772.

itself that the vessel is destroyed by fire while in his charge.[82] Such a presumption may arise, however, if the circumstances surrounding the origin of the fire are such that it would have been impossible or highly improbable for the fire to have occurred without fault or negligence on the part of some one,[83] and, when such a presumption arises, it puts on the charterer the duty to go forward with evidence to show that there was no fault or negligence on his part.[84] Where the fire statute, 46 U.S. C.A. § 182, has been incorporated in the charter party, the burden has been held to be on the owner of the cargo to prove that fire which damaged the cargo was caused by the design or neglect of the owner's agent.[85]

Contributory fault or negligence. Where the contributory negligence or fault of the owner is relied on as a defense, the charterer, it has been held, has the burden of establishing it.[86]

(b) Seaworthiness

While there is ordinarily a general presumption of the seaworthiness of a chartered vessel, a presumption of unseaworthiness arises where a vessel sinks, or receives an injury, under such circumstances that no cause other than unseaworthiness can explain the accident.

There is a general presumption that a vessel is seaworthy when she undertakes a voyage,[87] particularly where the charter party declares that the vessel is in good order,[88] and, where particular equipment of the vessel is such that it does not deteriorate with use, the fact that it has done good service for a period of years raises a presumption of seaworthiness of the vessel with respect to it.[89] However, a defect which develops without any apparent cause will be presumed to have existed when the service began.[90] Thus, where no explanation is given of the leaky condition of a vessel at sea, and whether or not it was out of the ordinary, the vessel encountering no mishap, the inference must be drawn that she was unseaworthy before sailing;[91] and, where a vessel leaks so that she careens and dumps her cargo, the inference, in the absence of other cause, is that she is unseaworthy.[92]

Where a boat under charter, with an express or implied warranty of seaworthiness, receives an injury of which her unseaworthiness would be a sufficient producing cause, and no other cause is shown, a presumption arises that she was not seaworthy, which must be overcome before the owner can re-

82. U.S.—Warren & Arthur Smadbeck, Inc., v. Heling Contracting Corporation, C.C.A.N.Y., 50 F.2d 99, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 31, 284 U.S. 651, 76 L.Ed. 553.
La.—Poydras Fruit Co. v. Weinberger Banana Co., 181 So. 452, 189 La. 940.

Prima facie case
The mere happening of a fire without any showing that it resulted from negligence does not make out a prima facie case for recovery of damages against charterer of vessel damaged by fire.—U.S. Lighterage Corporation v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., D.C.N.Y., 51 F.Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C.A., 142 F.2d 197.

83. La.—Poydras Fruit Co. v. Weinberger Banana Co., 181 So. 452, 189 La. 940.

84. La.—Poydras Fruit Co. v. Weinberger Banana Co., supra.

Explosion caused by fireman
In owner's suit against charterer for loss of vessel destroyed by fire resulting from explosion occurring immediately after fireman had gone to engine room to light oil burner, circumstances indicated that explosion was caused by some act of fireman, and charterer, therefore, had burden of proving that there was no negligence on part of any officer or member of crew.—Poydras Fruit Co. v. Weinberger Banana Co., supra.

85. U.S.—The Older, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 359.

86. U.S.—Adams v. Eastern Transp. Co., C.C.A.Mass., 291 F. 756.

Circumstances not raising presumption of negligence
Where respondent was using libelant's vessel as a shooting vessel in geophysical work under contract whereby libelant supplied navigating crew and respondent the geophysical crew, and libelant provided magazine storage for dynamite used in operations and when vessel departed on morning of explosion dynamite was properly stored in magazine and respondent had placed dynamite on deck for its own convenience, no presumption of negligence applied to libelant, and regulations regarding dynamite storage did not cover dynamite used in day's shooting operation.—Pure Oil Co. v. Geotechnical Corp. of Del., D.C.La., 94 F.Supp. 366, affirmed, C.A.; Geotechnical Corp. of Del. v. Pure Oil Co., 196 F.2d 199.

87. U.S.—Seminole Lumber, etc., Co. v. Bronx Barge Corp., D.C.Fla., 11 F.2d 982.
58 C.J. p. 179 note 48.

Failure of generator
Where owner brought suit for charter hire, and charterer claimed set-off for towing services required when generator failed at sea, burden of proof that owner did not exercise due diligence to maintain vessel in seaworthy condition and that failure to do so resulted in accident to the generator was on charterer.—Atlantic Refining Co. v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 82 F.Supp. 201.

88. U.S.—McCann v. Conery, D.C. La., 11 F. 747.
58 C.J. p. 179 note 49.

89. U.S.—The Rover, D.C.N.Y., 33 F. 515.

90. U.S.—Work v. Leathers, La., 97 U.S. 379, 24 L.Ed. 1012.
58 C.J. p. 179 note 51.

Breakdown occurring soon after delivery
Breakdown of small shaft belonging to lubricating oil pump of auxiliary motor, which occurred fifteen minutes after delivery under time charter, raised presumption that shaft was defective at time of delivery.—Aaby v. States Marine Corp., C.A.N.Y., 181 F.2d 383, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 66, 340 U.S. 829, 95 L.Ed. 1376.

91. U.S.—The John Twohy, C.C.A. Pa., 279 F. 343.

Relation back of presumption
The unexplained sinking of vessel raised a rebuttable presumption that it was unseaworthy, and such presumption related back to time of delivery of vessel to charterer.—Atlantic Creosoting Co. v. Savannah Lighterage & Transfer Co., D.C.Ga., 67 F. Supp. 383.

92. U.S.—The Cary Brick Co. No. 8, D.C.N.Y., 34 F.2d 981.—The Irving, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.Supp. 22, affirmed, C.C.A., Conners Marine Co. v. Manhattan Lighterage Co., 91 F.2d 1011.

cover from the charterer for the injury.[93] On the other hand, if the charterer is a bailee for hire, and under the duty of returning the boat in good condition, the burden rests on him to explain his default, and the owner may rest on the burden of evidence thus thrown on the bailee.[94] A presumption of unseaworthiness necessarily arises and is sufficient to sustain a recovery in cases where the vessel sinks or capsizes from an unknown cause under circumstances where she has been subjected to no external peril and nothing but her unseaworthiness can explain the accident,[95] and the burden of proving seaworthiness under such circumstances is on the owner,[96] but, where the circumstances attending the sinking of a vessel do not exclude all inferable causes except that of unseaworthiness, the presumption does not arise,[97] and this is more particularly true where the circumstances suggest another cause.[98]

In the absence of a statutory qualification of the rule in an action for damages to the cargo, where there is nothing in the charter party limiting the obligation of the shipowners to provide a seaworthy vessel, the burden of affirmatively proving the seaworthiness of the vessel at the commencement of the voyage is on the owner.[99] Under the Harter Act, which exempts a shipowner, who uses due diligence to see that his vessel is seaworthy from liability for loss arising by reason of faulty navigation, dangers of the sea, etc., a distinction has been drawn between the cases in which a vessel is a private carrier and in which it is a common carrier,[1] and in some cases in which, by reason of the fact that the entire cargo space of the vessel has been chartered, the vessel is regarded as being a private carrier; the mere fact of loss or injury to the cargo has been held not to throw on the vessel the burden of showing that she was seaworthy at the commencement of the voyage,[2] but the burden is on the shipper to establish that the vessel was unseaworthy.[3] However, in other cases the burden has been held to be on the vessel owner to prove affirmatively the seaworthiness of the vessel at the commencement of the voyage.[4]

Effect of survey. In the absence of any evidence of concealment of latent defect, bias, or fraud, a strong presumption of seaworthiness of a vessel arises when a preliminary survey has been held by the charterer and on such inspection the vessel has been found seaworthy.[5]

Underwriters' certificates of seaworthiness are presumptive evidence of such fact.[6]

(3) Admissibility

The general rules governing the admissibility of evidence in civil actions apply in actions based on charter parties.

93. U.S.—Bartley v. Borough Dev. Co., 214 F. 296.
58 C.J. p. 179 note 52.

94. U.S.—Bartley v. Borough Dev. Co., supra.

95. U.S.—Savannah Lighterage & Transfer Co. v. Atlantic Creosoting Co., C.C.A.Ga., 157 F.2d 796—The Doyle, C.C.A.Pa., 105 F.2d 113—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co., D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017—The Steel Inventor, D.C.Md., 35 F.Supp. 986—The Irving, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.Supp. 22, affirmed, C.C.A., Conners Marine Co. v. Manhattan Lighterage Co., 91 F.2d 1011—The Northern No. 29, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.Supp. 543, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Flat-Top Fuel Co. v. Martin, 85 F.2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct. 110, 299 U.S. 585, 81 L.Ed. 431.
58 C.J. p. 179 note 54.

Prima facie case of negligence

Unexplained sinking of barge containing cargo which owner knew had been shipped thereon by subcharterer, with which owner had no contract relations, whereby he expressly or impliedly warranted seaworthiness of barge, established prima facie case of negligence of owner in not taking reasonable care to have barge safe for carriage of cargo.—Flat-Top Fuel Co. v. Martin, C.C.A.N.Y., 85 F.2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct. 110, 299 U.S. 585, 81 L.Ed. 431.

96. U.S.—The Cullen No. 32, C.C.A.N.Y., 62 F.2d 68, affirmed 54 S.Ct. 10, 290 U.S. 82, 78 L.Ed. 189.

97. U.S.—The Transit, N.J., 250 F. 71, 162 C.C.A. 243.

98. U.S.—The Transit, supra.

Hole in vessel

Where sinking of vessel was attributable to a hole in its side, there was not an unexplained sinking so as to authorize application of presumption of unseaworthiness, and evidence as to what caused the hole should have been more fully developed.—Savannah Lighterage & Transfer Co. v. Atlantic Creosoting Co., C.C.A.Ga., 157 F.2d 796.

99. U.S.—O'Brien Bros. v. Moran Towing Corp., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 614, affirmed, C.C.A., Beard's Erie Basin v. O'Brien Bros., 162 F.2d 176—Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. v. O'Donnell, D.C.N.Y., 26 F.Supp. 70—The Irving, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.Supp. 22, affirmed, C.C.A., Conners Marine Co. v. Manhattan Lighterage Co., 91 F.2d 1011.
58 C.J. p. 179 note 57.

1. U.S.—The Fort Gaines, D.C.Md., 21 F.2d 865.

2. U.S.—In re Steamship Co. Norden, D.C.Md., 6 F.2d 883.
Charter of entire cargo space as rendering vessel private carrier see supra § 34.

3. U.S.—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Becker S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 49 F.2d 648.
58 C.J. p. 180 note 62.

4. U.S.—Unterweser Reederei Aktiengesellschaft v. Potash Importing Corp., C.C.A.Ga., 36 F.2d 869—The John Twohy, C.C.A.Pa., 279 F. 343.

Extent of burden

In libel for damage to cargo shipped under charter party incorporating Harter Act, owner had burden of proving ship seaworthy, but was not bound to straighten out every kink in testimony of his witnesses.—The Westmoreland, C.C.A.N.Y., 86 F.2d 96.

5. U.S.—The Piskataqua, D.C.N.Y., 35 F. 622.

6. U.S.—The Maumee, D.C.N.C., 260 F. 862.

The rules with respect to admissibility of evidence in civil actions generally, and, more particularly, those applied in admiralty where suit on a charter party is brought as a proceeding in admiralty, apply to actions based on contracts of charter party.[7] Evidence of voyages performed either before or after the charter is admissible as far as a fair inference can be drawn from it as to the condition of the vessel at that time.[8] Evidence of facts and circumstances which in no way affect the rights and liabilities of the parties is immaterial and irrelevant.[9]

(4) Weight and Sufficiency

(a) In general

(b) Seaworthiness

(a) In General

In accordance with general rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence, the facts constituting an essential element of the cause of action or defense interposed in an action involving a charter party must be established by a preponderance of the evidence.

The general rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence apply to actions for breach of, or involving, charters.[10] As in civil actions gen-

7. U S—Barreda v. Silsbee, Md, 21 How 146, 16 L Ed 86.
58 C J p 257 note 95

Evidence held admissible

(1) Statements of master and chief officer in protest, contradicting their testimony and earlier statements regarding weather conditions, have been held admissible against shipowner.—The Framlington Court, C C A Tex., 69 F 2d 300, certiorari denied United British S S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S Ct 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L Ed. 1500

(2) In suit by subcharterer against owner for loss of shipment due to sinking of barge, bill of lading prepared by subcharterer, signed by representative of owner, was held admissible as proof of circumstances surrounding shipment—The Northern No 29, D C N Y, 15 F Supp 543, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Flat-Top Fuel Co. v Martin, 85 F 2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct 110, 299 U.S. 585, 81 L Ed. 431.

(3) Evidence of negligence and incompetence on part of fireman was admissible to explain coincidence that explosion occurred immediately after fireman went to light oil burner, where captain's report of origin of fire had indicated that it was caused by negligence of fireman.—Poydras Fruit Co. v. Weinberger Banana Co., 181 So. 452, 189 La. 940.

8. U.S.—The Vincennes, D C Mass., 28 F.Cas.No 16,945, 3 Ware 171.

9. U.S.—The Ira B. Ellems, La., 50 F. 934, 2 C.C.A 85.
58 C.J. p 260 note 6.

10. U.S.—New York, etc, R. Co v. Delaware, etc, R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 23 F.2d 487.
58 C.J. p 258 note 98.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish cause of loss or damage in general or particular matters with respect to such cause.—Holcombe v Ferlita, C.A.Fla, 181 F. 2d 263—The Joseph J. Hock, C.C.A. N.Y., 88 F.2d 1—The Supreme, C.C. A.N.J., 61 F.2d 334—Dwyer Lighterage v. Christie Scow Corp., D C.N.Y., 96 F.Supp. 900—Mackey v. U. S., D.C. N.Y., 83 F Supp. 14, affirmed, C.A., 197 F 2d 241—The Killarney, D C N Y., 56 F Supp 182—The Maurice R Shaw, D C.Me, 46 F Supp 767—The Everett Fowler, D C.N Y., 7 F Supp 138—The Moran No. 107, D.C N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 785.

(2) To prove negligence.
U S.—U. S v. Carroll Towing Co., C C A.N.Y, 159 F.2d 169, rehearing denied 160 F.2d 482—McAllister Bros. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C C A.N Y., 118 F 2d 45—The Joseph J Hock, C C.A.N Y., 70 F 2d 259—The Castleton, C C.A.N.Y., 64 F.2d 11—Pure Oil Co. v. Geotechnical Corp. of Del, D.C La., 94 F Supp 866, affirmed, C.A, Geotechnical Corp. of Del. v. Pure Oil Co, 196 F.2d 199—New York Trap Rock Corp v Christie Scow Corp, D C N Y, 68 F Supp 392, affirmed, C.C.A, 162 F. 2d 624—Magistrelli v. Canuso, D C. Pa, 45 F.Supp. 539—The Steel Inventor, D C.Md, 35 F Supp. 986.
La.—Poydras Fruit Co. v. Weinberger Banana Co., 181 So. 452, 189 La. 940.

(3) To make prima facie case of charterer's negligence in tying up barge to unsafe berth.—The A. F. Co. No. 4, D C N.Y, 54 F.2d 145.

(4) To show absence of negligence.—O'Donnell Transp. Co v. M. & J. Tracy, Inc., C C.A.N.Y, 150 F 2d 735—The Older, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F 2d 359—U. S v. Dillon, C C A.N J., 64 F 2d 470—Friedland v. The Empress, D.C Cal., 48 F.Supp. 348.

(5) To show that owner suing to recover for damage to scow was without fault.—Leary v. City of New York, D C N.Y., 52 F Supp. 643.

(6) To establish that damage was not due to negligence on the part of the charterer, but rather to the negligence of a towing company.—Dwyer Lighterage v. Christie Scow Corp., D. C.N.Y., 96 F Supp. 900.

(7) To establish value of vessel, or cost of repairs, in a particular sum.
U.S—The Barryton, C C.A.N.Y., 54 F. 2d 282—Oliver J. Olson & Co v. U. S, Ct.Cl., 71 F.Supp. 355—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co., D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017—Cox v. Banks, D C.Pa, 50 F Supp. 871.
La—Poydras Fruit Co v. Weinberger Banana Co, 181 So 452, 189 La. 940.

(8) To show market rate for charter hire.—Ramselius v. U. S, 90 F. Supp 547, 116 Ct Cl. 612.

(9) To show agreement of defendant to pay cost of repairs—Angeles Gravel & Supply Co. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp., 183 P.2d 482, 28 Wash. 2d 428.

(10) To show a deviation.—The Tregenna, D.C N.Y., 35 F.Supp. 118, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A, Farr v. Hain S. S Co, 121 F.2d 940.

(11) To establish that charterer knew, or should have known, that vessel was in peril.—Zeller Marine Corp. v. U. S., D C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 447.

(12) To establish that there was no waiver by charterers of warranty by owner.—The Atlanta, D.C.Ga, 82 F.Supp. 218

(13) To sustain finding that subcharterer was a corporation rather than a partnership.—Perez v. Cia Tropical Exportadora, Ltda., of Costa Rica, C A.Fla, 182 F 2d 874.

(14) To sustain a finding that fireman had been employed by libelant.—Stockton Sand & Crushed Rock Co. v. Bundensen, C.C.A.Cal., 148 F.2d 159.

(15) To sustain a finding that parties never entered into contract.—Strange & Co. v. Puget Sound Machinery Depot, 28 P.2d 111, 176 Wash. 90.

(16) To establish that owner and charterer of ship were entitled to exoneration from liability for damage to cargo through fire.—Consumers Import Co. v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C A.N.Y., 133 F.2d 781, affirmed 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L Ed. 30.

(17) To establish other matters.
U.S—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Elmhurst Contracting Co., C.C.A. N.Y., 159 F.2d 860—Waldie v. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp., C C.A. N.Y., 151 F.2d 129—Pioneer Import erally, and where the action is in admiralty, by virtue of the principles therein applied, every fact constituting an essential element of a cause of action or defense in an action on a charter party must be established by a preponderance of the evidence;[11] and where, on the whole evidence, the case is evenly balanced, judgment will be rendered against the party having the burden of proof.[12] Where a vessel is demised to the charterer, in the absence of special charter stipulations, there must be sufficient evidence to warrant a finding of negligence in order to fix liability on the charterer for her loss or injury.[13] Although the honest opinion of a competent master that he has taken on board all the cargo which his vessel will safely carry is not absolutely binding on the charterer, it is entitled to very great weight, and can be controlled only by decisive evidence of a mistake on his part.[14]

(b) Seaworthiness

General rules apply in determining the weight and sufficiency of the evidence to support a finding of seaworthiness or unseaworthiness.

General rules apply with respect to the weight and sufficiency of the evidence to support a finding of seaworthiness[15] or to support a finding of unsea-

Corp v. The Lafcomo, C C A N Y., 138 F 2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp, 64 S Ct. 523, 321 U S. 766, 88 L Ed 1063—O'Brien Bros v. Maloney Materials Corp., C C A.N Y, 136 F.2d 902—Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha, Limited v. Societe Purfina Maritime, C C A Cal., 133 F.2d 552, certiorari denied 63 S Ct 858, 318 U S 781, 87 L Ed 1148—Gallagher Bros Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Anthony O'Boyle, Inc, D.C N Y, 94 F Supp. 788—Standard Towing Corp v. Tidewater Coal Docks Corp, D C.N.Y., 85 F.Supp 659—Mackey v U. S, D.C. N.Y., 83 F Supp. 14, affirmed, C A., 197 F.2d 241—The Montezuma III, D C N.Y., 66 F Supp 562—Leary v. City of New York, D.C N.Y., 52 F. Supp. 643—The George J. Goulandris, D C.Me, 36 F.Supp. 827—The Henry McNamee, D C N Y, 35 F. Supp 936—In re Rochester Shipbuilding Corp., D.C.N Y., 32 F Supp. 98

Or—Willamette Tug & Barge Co v. Commercial Dispatching Co., 178 P 2d 698, 180 Or 657.

Wash—Angeles Gravel & Supply Co. v Crown Zellerbach Corp., 183 P. 2d 482, 28 Wash.2d 428.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish cause of loss or damage or particular matters as to such cause—Romano v West India Fruit & S. S Co, C C A.Fla, 151 F.2d 727—The Ruth Kellogg, C.C A Fla., 126 F 2d 18—The Doyle, C C A.Pa., 105 F.2d 113—O'Boyle v. U S., C C A. N Y, 47 F 2d 585, mandate recalled 49 F.2d 273—Gallagher Bros Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Anthony O'Boyle, Inc., D C.N Y., 94 F.Supp. 788—New York Trap Rock Corp v Christie Scow Corp., D C N.Y., 92 F Supp. 989—Petition of Howard, D.C N.Y, 53 F.Supp 556—Leary v. City of New York, D C.N.Y., 52 F.Supp. 643.

(2) To show negligence

U S.—Baldwin v. New York Cent. R Co., D C N.Y, 87 F Supp 562—The E. H. Blum, D.C.Pa., 74 F.Supp. 516.

Mo—Bock v Ellen, App, 211 S.W 2d 92.

(3) To rebut presumption of negligence—The E. T. Halloran, C C A.N. Y, 111 F.2d 571, certiorari denied Fuel Credit Corp. v Howard, 61 S Ct. 73, 311 U S 691, 85 L.Ed 447—Flat-Top Fuel Co. v Martin, C C A N Y, 85 F 2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S Ct. 110, 299 U S. 585, 81 L Ed. 431.

(4) To rebut owner's prima facie case—The Francis V. Duffy, D C N. Y., 32 F.Supp 505.

(5) To establish that dunnage was inadequate.—The Helen Barnet Gring, D C Md., 48 F.2d 629.

(6) To establish due care on the part of the charterer.—Kenny v. City of New York, C C.A.N.Y., 108 F.2d 958

(7) To establish that vessel was obsolete—U S. v Eastern S. S Lines, C A Mass., 171 F.2d 589.

(8) To establish contract by charterer with subcharterer to procure insurance—The Seaboard No. 25, D.C. N.Y., 68 F.Supp. 169, affirmed, C C A., 159 F.2d 860.

(9) To prove relationship of principal and agent between subcharterer and bare boat charterer—Perez v. Cia Tropical Exportadora, Ltda., of Costa Rica, C.A.Fla., 182 F.2d 874.

(10) To warrant conclusion that ship was worth more when she sank than cost of repairing her thereafter—Rugo Const. Co v. New England Foundation Co., C.A Mass., 172 F.2d 964.

(11) To show other matters.—Park S S Co v. Cities Service Oil Co, C. A.N.Y., 188 F.2d 804, certiorari denied Cities Service Oil Co. v Park S. S. Co., 72 S.Ct. 87, 342 U S 862, 96 L Ed. —— —Lucayan Transports v. McCormick Shipping Corp., C A.Fla., 188 F. 2d 202—U S v. Standard Oil Co. of Cal, C C.A.Cal, 156 F.2d 312—Romano v. West India Fruit & S S Co., C C A Fla., 151 F.2d 727—The Pride, C C A.N Y., 135 F 2d 999—Consumers Import Co. v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C A.N.Y., 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S Ct 15, 320 U S 249, 88 L Ed. 30—The Toledo, C C A N Y, 122 F 2d 255, certiorari denied Isbrandtsen-Moller Co v. The Toledo, 62 S Ct 302, 314 U S 689, 86 L Ed 551—The Reno, C C A.N Y, 61 F 2d 966—Clarke S. S Co v Munson S S Line, D C N Y, 59 F 2d 423, affirmed, C C A., 64 F 2d 1011—Mackey v U S, D C N Y, 83 F Supp 14, affirmed, C A., 197 F 2d 241—Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. v. O'Donnell, D C N Y., 26 F Supp 70—Hockley v Eastern Transp Co, D C Md, 10 F.Supp 908.

11. U.S—The C G.R-180, D C.Mich, 70 F Supp 975—The Montezuma III, D C N Y., 66 F Supp 562—The Principia, D C N.Y, 34 F. 667.

12. U.S.—Wheelwright v. Walsh, D. C N.Y, 42 F 862—The Principia, D C N Y., 34 F. 667.

13. U.S—Warren & Arthur Smadbeck, Inc, v. Heling Contracting Corporation, C C A.N Y, 50 F.2d 99, certiorari denied 52 S Ct. 31, 284 U.S. 651, 76 L Ed. 553.
58 C.J. p 255 note 80.

14. U.S.—Weston v. Foster, C.C. Mass., 29 F.Cas No 17,452, 2 Curt. 119
58 C.J. p 260 note 99.

15. Evidence held sufficient
(1) To show seaworthiness—The Reno, D C N.Y., 54 F 2d 682, modified on other grounds, C C.A., 61 F 2d 966—Leary v City of New York, D.C N Y., 52 F Supp. 643—Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. v. O'Donnell, D C.N.Y., 26 F.Supp. 70—Chateaugay Ore & Iron Co. v. Eastern Transp. Co., D C.N.Y, 15 F.Supp. 705, affirmed, C.C A, 88 F. 2d 1005, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 18, 302 U S. 699, 82 L.Ed. 540.
Wash.—Angeles Gravel & Supply Co. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp., 183 P. 2d 482, 28 Wash.2d 428.
58 C.J. p 180 note 67 [a].

(2) To show that owner failed to exercise due diligence to make vessel seaworthy.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., D.C Cal, 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C C.A., 156 F.2d 312—Petition of Howard, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.Supp. 556.

worthiness,[16] and, likewise, to overcome a presumption of seaworthiness[17] or unseaworthiness,[18] or to justify the charterer in canceling the charter for unseaworthiness.[19] The unexplained sinking of the vessel may be in itself sufficient to establish unseaworthiness.[20] Seaworthiness is not proved merely by the fact that the vessel carried cargo safely on occasions prior to the disaster,[21] particularly where the prior safe carriage may be explained on grounds other than that the vessel was seaworthy at that time.[22]

General evidence of thorough repair and caulking at a port is not conclusive that leakage was caused solely by extraordinary perils of the voyage, and that the vessel was seaworthy when she sailed.[23]

Underwriters' certificates of seaworthiness are strong, although not conclusive, evidence of the condition of the vessel.[24]

Refusal of insurance. The fact that certain insurance companies have refused insurance is not conclusive evidence that the ship is not seaworthy.[25]

e. Trial, Judgment, and Review

Matters pertaining to trial, judgment, and review in actions involving charter parties are governed by the usual rules as to such matters which obtain in civil actions generally, and, in so far as applicable, in cases in admiralty.

The general rules governing trials of civil actions and, in so far as applicable, the rules governing cases in admiralty apply to actions involving charter parties.[26]

Questions of law and fact. As in other cases, the general rule applies that questions of fact are to be submitted to the jury for their determination under proper instructions from the court;[27] and, in the absence of a jury, questions of fact are for the triers of facts.[28] Whether evidence, when offered, is admissible is a question for the court;[29] when ad-

(3) To show that the shipowner exercised due diligence to make particular vessel seaworthy.—Petition of Howard, D C N Y, 53 F Supp. 556—The Toledo, D C N.Y., 30 F.Supp 93, affirmed, C C A., 122 F.2d 255—Chateaugay Ore & Iron Co. v. Eastern Transp. Co., D.C N Y, 15 F Supp 705, affirmed, C.C A., 88 F 2d 1005, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 18, 302 U.S. 699, 82 L.Ed. 540.

Evidence held insufficient to show seaworthiness

U S.—Cleary Bros. v. Moran Towing Corp, D.C N.Y., 79 F.Supp. 934.
58 C J. p 180 note 67 [b].

16. U.S —Cowles Towing Co. v American Constr, etc., Co, D.C N. Y., 27 F.2d 622.
58 C.J. p 180 note 68.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To show unseaworthiness in general —U. S Gypsum Co. v Conners Marine Co., C.C A.N.Y., 119 F 2d 689—The Doyle, C.C.A Pa, 105 F 2d 113—The Helen Barnet Gring, D. C.Md, 48 F.2d 629—The Steel Inventor, D C.Md., 35 F.Supp. 986—The Irving, D.C N.Y, 16 F Supp 22, affirmed, C C.A., Conners Marine Co. v Manhattan Lighterage Co, 91 F.2d 1011—Hockley v. Eastern Transp. Co, D C Md., 10 F.Supp 908
58 C J. p 180 note 68 [a].

(2) To show that barge was not unseaworthy because of failure to provide tarpaulins, or merely because tongue and groove white pine hatch covers were one and one half inches thick, but was unseaworthy because of overloading and because, in view of the overloading, the hatch covers were too thin to withstand the weight of the seas which, although heavy, were not unusual in that area in December —Petition of Howard, D.C N Y., 53 F Supp 556.

Evidence held insufficient to show unseaworthiness

U S.—Holcombe v. Ferlita, C A Fla., 181 F.2d 263—The Monarch of Nassau, C C A.Fla, 155 F 2d 48—Petition of Howard, D C.N.Y., 53 F. Supp 556—The Francis V. Duffy, D C.N.Y, 32 F Supp 505.
58 C.J. p 180 note 68 [b].

17. U S —The Rover, D C.N.Y., 33 F 515.
58 C.J. p 180 note 70

18. U S —Aaby v. States Marine Corp., D.C N.Y., 80 F Supp. 328, affirmed, C.C A., 181 F.2d 383, certiorari denied 71 S Ct. 66, 340 U.S 829, 95 L Ed 1376.
58 C J. p 180 note 71.

19. U S —McCaldin Co. v. Cargo of Lumber, D C Pa, 198 F. 328, affirmed 202 F. 735, 121 C.C.A. 197.
58 C J p 180 note 69.

20. U S —Taylor Bros. Lumber Co v Sunset Lighterage Co, C.C A.N Y., 43 F 2d 700—Sanbern v Wright, etc, Lighterage Co, D C N.Y, 171 F 449, affirmed 179 F. 1021, 102 C C.A. 666.
Presumption arising from unexplained sinking see supra subdivision d (2) (b) of this section 21. U.S.—Cleary Bros. v Moran Towing Corp., D C.N Y, 79 F Supp 934—The Irving, D.C N J, 16 F Supp 22, affirmed, C C.A, Conners Marine Co. v. Manhattan Lighterage Co., 91 F.2d 1011.

22. Leak previously controlled or unaffected

The fact that on three prior occasions scow had carried cargo safely did not establish seaworthiness at time scow was demised to respondent, where such carriage could be accounted for on hypothesis that the leaking area in the scow was never submerged or the leak was controlled —Cleary Bros v. Moran Towing Corp, D C N.Y., 79 F.Supp. 934.

23. U.S —Hubert v. Recknagel, D C. N.Y, 13 F 912.

24. U S —The Maumee, D.C N C., 260 F. 862.

25. U S —Moore v. Cornwall, C C.A Cal, 144 F. 22—Premuda v. Goepel, D.C N Y, 23 F. 410.

26. Mo —St. Louis, etc., River Packet Co. v. Nowland, 215 S W. 11, 279 Mo. 500.
58 C.J. p 261 note 9.

Reference to special commissioner

Where there was insufficient proof with respect to some items which time charterer was entitled to recover from voyage charterer for expenses incidental to discharging cargo which voyage charterer failed to discharge, and several items were disputed, claim was referred to special commissioner to determine amount and report it to admiralty court.—Continental Grain Co. v Armour Fertilizer Works, D.C N Y, 22 F Supp 49.

27. U S.—Alpine Forwarding Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co., C C A.N.Y., 60 F 2d 734, certiorari denied Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Alpine Forwarding Co., 53 S Ct. 93, 287 U.S 647, 77 L Ed. 559.
58 C.J. p 261 note 11.

28. U.S.—Rice v. Charles Dreifus Co., C.C.A.N.Y, 96 F 2d 80—The Westmoreland, C.C.A.N Y, 86 F.2d 96.

29. U S.—Barreda v. Silsbee, Md., 21 How. 146, 16 L.Ed. 86.

mitted, the question whether or not it is sufficient is for the jury,[30] whose province it is to draw from it all such inferences and conclusions as it conduces to prove, and which, in their judgment, it does prove.[31] Seaworthiness is a fact to be ascertained and determined like any other question of fact;[32] but the construction of a charter party is for the court and not for the jury.[33] A directed verdict may be granted in a proper case.[34]

Findings, judgment, or decree. The rules governing judgments and the sufficiency of findings to support the judgment in civil actions generally or, in appropriate cases, in admiralty, apply to actions involving charters.[35] The validity and effect of the decree rendered in disposing of a libel based on a charter party are determined by the general admiralty rules with respect to decrees.[36] Under a general prayer for relief, in a libel propounding with distinctness the substantive facts on which libelant relies, even if there is some inaccuracy in the statement of subordinate facts or of the legal effect of the facts propounded, an admiralty court may award any relief in an action on a charter which the law applicable to the case warrants.[37]

The court may dismiss a libel on exceptions to jurisdiction,[38] or may, in a proper case, allow the discontinuance of the action without prejudice to subsequent proceedings.[39] A stipulation as to the value of a cargo may prevent the court from awarding a recovery in any greater sum than that set forth in the stipulation.[40] A decree may be entered directly against the party ultimately responsible in order to avoid circuity of action and allow the whole matter to be determined in one suit.[41] A decree for loss by negligence may be made directly against the ship, and need not provide that collection shall first be made from the charterer, and only the deficiency, if any, from the ship.[42]

Costs. The costs properly taxed against the unsuccessful party may properly be included in the judgment rendered,[43] including expenses made necessary in order to defeat an attempt to defraud the court.[44]

Appeal and error. The rules with respect to appeal and error in civil proceedings generally or, in appropriate cases, the rules as to such matters generally applicable in admiralty proceedings are to be followed in actions based on charters.[45] In determining whether a decree in admiralty is one from which an appeal will lie, the courts are guided by the rules as to admiralty proceedings in general.[46]

30. U.S.—Barreda v. Silsbee, supra. 58 C J p 262 note 13.

31. U.S.—Barreda v. Silsbee, supra. 58 C.J. p 262 note 14.

32. Wash.—Angeles Gravel & Supply Co. v Crown Zellerbach Corp, 183 P.2d 432, 28 Wash.2d 428. 58 C J. p 179 note 47.

Ultimate fact inference

Seaworthiness of vessel carrying cargo under charter party contract is ultimate fact inference.—Krebs Pigment & Chemical Co. v. Sheridan, D C.Pa., 12 F Supp. 254, affirmed, C.C A., 79 F 2d 479.

33. N Y.—Flagler v. Hearst, 70 N.Y. S. 956, 62 App Div. 18.

34. U.S.—Alpine Forwarding Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co, C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F 2d 734, certiorari denied Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Alpine Forwarding Co., 53 S Ct. 93, 287 U.S 647, 77 L Ed. 559

35. Mass.—Amiro v. Crowley, 152 N. E. 78, 256 Mass 53.
Pa.—Lyons v. Fitzpatrick, Com.Pl., 93 Pitts'b Leg.J. 221.
58 C.J. p 262 note 17.

36. U.S.—The Gazelle, Md., 9 S.Ct 139, 128 U S. 474, 32 L.Ed. 496.
58 C.J. p 262 note 18.

Commissioner's report

In proceeding against barge owner for bilge water damage to cargo also damaged by rain, statement in commissioner's report that there was no way to distinguish between bilge water damage and rain water damage was held not equivalent to expression discrediting contrary testimony and report of underwriter's surveyor whose testimony was not adverted to in commissioner's report.—The Joseph J. Hock, C.C.A.N.Y., 88 F.2d 1.

37. U.S.—The Gazelle, Md., 9 S.Ct. 139, 128 U.S. 474, 32 L.Ed. 496.

38. U S.—The Pauline, D C.Wis., 19 F.Cas.No 10,848, 1 Biss. 390.

39. U S.—The Dan, D C.N.Y., 40 F. 691.

40. U.S.—Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha, Limited v. Societe Purfina Maritime, C.C.A.Cal., 133 F.2d 552, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 858, 318 U. S. 781, 87 L.Ed. 1148.

41. U.S.—Polar Steamship Corp. v. Inland Overseas Steamship Corp., C.C.A.Va., 136 F 2d 835, 64 S.Ct. 83, 320 U S. 774, 88 L.Ed. 464.

Primary and secondary liability

Where charterer, being liable to owner without limitation for damage to scow caused by buckling of crane boom, after paying the owner, could indemnify itself from owner of crane, in admiralty such circuity of action would be avoided by single decree holding crane owner primarily liable, and scow and charterer secondarily liable, for damage to the scow.—Shamrock Towing Co. v. Fichter Steel Corp., C C.A.N.Y., 155 F.2d 69.

Liability in personam

Where charterer of barge which was unseaworthy and which was loaded with cotton, and which sank while being towed by tug, was liable to owners of cotton, and ultimate liability rested on owner of barge, and all such parties were properly before the court, owner of barge could be held liable in personam to owners of cotton—W. R Grace & Co. v. Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co., C.A S.C, 193 F 2d 539.

42. U.S.—The Alert, N.Y., 61 F. 113, 9 C C.A. 390.
58 C.J. p 244 note 32.

43. U.S.—Simpson v. One Hundred and Ten Sticks of Hewn Timber, D.C.N Y., 7 F. 243.
58 C.J. p 262 note 22.

44. U.S.—Simpson v. One Hundred and Ten Sticks of Hewn Timber, supra.
58 C.J. p 263 note 23.

45. U.S.—Texas Co. v. Hogarth Shipping Corp., N.Y., 41 S.Ct. 612, 256 U.S. 619, 65 L.Ed. 1123.
58 C.J. p 263 note 26.

46. U.S—The Alert, N.Y., 61 F. 113, 9 C C.A. 390.
58 C.J. p 263 note 27.

An assignment of error cannot be based on matter which is not apparent of record.[47]

Subject to the rules applicable to civil actions generally, in actions at law on charters an appellate court will not review the findings of fact made by the jury,[48] and the facts as found must be assumed to be correct, in the further examination of the controversy,[49] except where the verdict is against the evidence.[50] Where the action on the charter is in admiralty, the conclusiveness on appeal of the findings is the same as in other admiralty actions.[51] Findings with respect to the charter terms and the conduct of the parties thereunder which are based on an application of the law to the facts are open to revision on appeal.[52]

IV. MASTER

§ 57. Definition; Employment or Appointment

a. Definition
b. Employment or appointment

a. Definition

The master is the commander of a merchant vessel; he to whom is committed the government, care, and direction of the vessel and cargo.

In the nautical sense of the word, the "master" is the commander of a merchant vessel, colloquially called "captain;"[53] the word refers to the captain of the ship.[54] The master of a ship is he to whom is committed the government, care, and direction of the vessel and cargo;[55] one who commands a ship on a voyage under an appointment from the owners;[56] one who for his knowledge of navigation and for his fidelity and discretion has the government of the ship committed to his care and management;[57] the commander or first officer of a ship, a captain, etc.[58]

Flag captain is a subordinate officer of a vessel who assumes the character and duties of captain only on special occasions.[59]

b. Employment or Appointment

(1) In general
(2) Who may employ or appoint
(3) Who may be employed or appointed
(4) Form or manner of employment or appointment
(5) Registration
(6) Terms of contract
(7) Succession to command
(8) Transfer of right to command

(1) In General

Subject to such restrictions as may be imposed by statute or by their contract, the appointment or employment of a master is within the discretion of the owners of the vessel.

Subject to such restrictions as may be imposed by statute or by their contract, the appointment or employment of a master is within the discretion of the owners of the vessel.[60] So, one person may be employed as master to superintend the loading and repairing of a vessel for sea, and another person employed to take command of her on the voyage.[61]

(2) Who May Employ or Appoint

The employment or appointment of a master is ordinarily vested in the owners, but, under some charters, it may be vested in the charterer, and in case of necessity the appointment of a master in a foreign port may be made by the resident consul of the country to which the vessel belongs.

The employment or appointment of a master is ordinarily vested in the owners,[62] and, where a vessel is owned in shares, the appointment may be made by a majority in interest of the owners, if they act in good faith.[63] It has been held that in case

47. U.S.—The Gazelle, Md., 9 S.Ct. 139, 128 U.S. 474, 32 L.Ed. 496.
58 C.J. p 263 note 28.

48. U.S.—Barreda v. Silsbee, Md., 21 How. 146, 16 L.Ed. 86
58 C.J. p 263 note 30.

49. U.S.—Barreda v. Silsbee, supra.

50. Conn.—Pitkin v. Brainerd, 5 Conn. 451, 13 Am.D. 79.

51. U.S.—The Gazelle, Md., 9 S.Ct. 139, 128 U.S. 474, 32 L.Ed. 496.
58 C.J. p 263 note 33.

52. U.S.—The Edwin I. Morrison, N. Y., 14 S.Ct. 823, 153 U.S. 199, 38 L.Ed. 688.

53. Webster New Int.D.
38 C.J. p 1385 note 60.

54. N.Y.—Burns v. U. S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, 189 N.Y.S 267, 268.

55. La.—Millaudon v. Martin, 6 Rob. 534, 538.
38 C.J. p 1385 note 62.

56. N.Y.—Hubbell v. Denison, 20 Wend. 181, 182.

57. N.Y.—Martin v. Farnsworth, 33 N.Y.Super. 246, 260.
38 C.J. p 1385 note 64.

58. La.—Millaudon v. Martin, 6 Rob. 534, 538
38 C.J. p 1385 note 65.

59. Mass.—Arfridson v. Ladd, 12 Mass. 173, 175

60. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., D.C. Pa., 56 F.Supp. 106—Jones v. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Cas.No.7,460, Abb.Adm. 446.
Contract as to term of employment see infra § 58.

61. U.S.—Jones v. Davis, supra.

62. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., D.C. Pa., 56 F.Supp 106.

63. N.Y.—McCready v. Thorn, 51 N. Y. 454
Part owner, as ship's husband, has authority to appoint a master.—McCready v. Thorn, supra.

of necessity, an appointment may be made by the resident consul of the country to which the vessel belongs,[64] as in the event of the death[65] or absconding[66] of the master in a foreign port.

Charterer. Under a charter amounting to such a demise of the vessel as places the charterer in complete control of it, the charterer may appoint a master during the term of the contract.[67] A clause in a war shipping charter, however, which provides that in the event that continued employment of the master appears to be prejudicial to the interests of the United States in the prosecution of the war, or if the United States is dissatisfied with his conduct the owner shall make changes necessary in the appointment does not make the master the charterer's man,[68] but, on the other hand, plainly recognizes the owner's right to hire.[69]

(3) Who May Be Employed or Appointed

Under a statute requiring the owner to make an oath that the master is a citizen of the United States, an alien cannot be regarded as a master de facto, and where there is only one American citizen among the crew, he may be made master as the only person entitled to command.

Under a statute with respect to the registration of vessels, requiring the owner to make an oath as to who is the master of the vessel and that he is a citizen of the United States, an alien, although in fact employed and actually serving as master, cannot be regarded as a master de facto.[70] So, where the only American citizen among the crew is the cook, he may be made master as the only person entitled to command.[71] Only sober persons should be placed in charge of vessels plying the seas or other navigable waters.[72]

(4) Form or Manner of Employment or Appointment

Except in so far as a master is required by statute to undergo an examination and to receive a license, the law does not interfere with respect to the mode of appointment of a master; no formalities are necessary, and the employment may be inferred from the circumstances.

While in some maritime countries the mode of a shipmaster's appointment is prescribed by law,[73] in this country, except in so far as a master is required by statute to undergo an examination before the local inspectors, as to his character, experience, and habits, and to receive a license, the law does not interfere with respect to the mode of appointment of a master.[74] No formalities are necessary to his employment,[75] and any mode of authorization competent to give power to one man to act for and bind another is sufficient to constitute him master of the vessel.[76] The employment of a master may be inferred from the circumstances,[77] but the inference should leave no reasonable cause to doubt the fact.[78]

(5) Registration

Provisions of a registration act have been held not to contemplate an inquiry into the legality or sufficiency of the master's authority, and where one is in fact acting as master, the fact that his name has not been entered on the registry and enrollment of the vessel does not affect his actual status.

Provisions of a registration act designed to secure the public revenue against the allowance to foreign vessels of privileges which only vessels of citizens of the United States are entitled to enjoy do not contemplate an inquiry into the legality or sufficiency of the master's authority,[79] and, while the person in whose name as master a vessel is registered must ordinarily be deemed her master for every legal intent and purpose,[80] where one is in fact acting as master, the fact that his name has not been entered on the registry and enrollment of the vessel does not affect his actual status.[81]

(6) Terms of Contract

The master's contract of employment may contain any stipulation that may be agreed on between the parties.

The master's contract of employment may contain any stipulation that may be agreed on between the

64. U.S.—The Giles Loring, D.C.Me., 48 F. 463
58 C.J. p 264 note 47.

65. U.S.—The Giles Loring, supra—Pickersgill v. Williams, D.C.N.Y., 19 F.Cas.No.11,123.

66. U.S.—The Jacmel Packet, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Cas.No.7,154, 2 Ben. 107.

67. U.S.—Gibson v. Manetto Co., Fla., 194 F. 331, 114 C.C.A. 291
Charters generally see supra §§ 26–56.

68. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., D.C. Pa., 56 F.Supp. 106.

69. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., supra

70. U.S.—The Dubuque, D.C.Mich., 7 F.Cas.No.4,110, 2 Abb. 20
Registry, enrollment, and license of vessels generally see supra § 3.
Regulations and requirements as to licensing of officers of vessels see supra § 6.

71. Wash.—Knutson v. Hansen, 251 P. 852, 141 Wash. 623

72. U.S.—The Lauretta Speddin, Md., 184 F. 283, 106 C.C.A. 425.

73. U.S.—The Boston, D.C.N.Y., 3 F.Cas.No.1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309.

74. U.S.—The Boston, supra.
License see supra § 6.

75. U.S.—The Boston, supra.

76. Conn.—Clark v. Richards, 1 Conn. 54.
58 C.J. p 264 note 61.

77. U.S.—Jones v. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Cas.No.7,460, Abb.Adm. 446.

78. U.S.—Jones v. Davis, supra.

79. U.S.—The Boston, D.C.N.Y., 3 F.Cas.No.1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309.
Registration of vessels see supra § 3.

80. U.S.—Adams v. Wyoming, D.C.N.J., 1 F.Cas.No.71.
58 C.J. p 264 note 66.

81. U.S.—Davidson v. Baldwin, Mich., 79 F. 95, 24 C.C.A. 453.
58 C.J. p 264 note 67.

parties,[82] even though a particular stipulation would be unreasonable if set up as a usage,[83] or oppressive if imposed on a member of the crew.[84] Where a contract of employment is made under which the wages are to be a certain sum per month and in which no definite time of continuance is specified, the hiring is a monthly hiring.[85]

(7) Succession to Command

The mate or a member of the crew who, by reason of his citizenship, is the only person entitled to the command, succeeds to the authority of the master on separation of the master from the vessel by death or casualty or in case of his sickness or such other cause as shall render him incapable of having the command; and on his succession to the command his authority is the same as that of the original master.

The mate succeeds to the authority of the master upon separation of the master from the vessel by death or casualty,[86] or in case of his sickness,[87] or such other cause as shall render him incapable of having the command,[88] and it has been said that this substitution is a contingency which is contemplated by his engagement and which cannot be declined by him but by a default of duty;[89] on his succession to command, his authority is the same as that of the original master,[90] until he is regularly displaced by the legal owner,[91] and he has the right to resort to all lawful means to aid him in the effectual establishment of his command.[92] A member of the crew who, being by reason of his citizenship the only person entitled to the command, is made master on the original master's giving up his command and leaving the vessel has the same status and authority as if originally commissioned as master.[93]

(8) Transfer of Right to Command

The contract of the master is, in the absence of an agreement, not transferable.

The contract of the master is in its nature personal, and, in the absence of an agreement, not transferable.[94] The sale of an interest in the vessel by a part owner who is also master carries no right to the command,[95] and a contract to sell the command, even by the owners of a majority interest, is incapable of enforcement.[96]

§ 58. —— Duration and Termination of Relationship

a. In general
b. Removal or discharge

a. In General

The term or duration of a master's employment ordinarily depends on the terms of the contract employing him, and, in the absence of an express limitation, is presumed to continue until the owners by some declaration or overt act remove him.

The term or duration of a master's employment ordinarily depends on the terms of the contract employing him,[97] and, in the absence of an express limitation, is presumed to continue until the owners by some declaration or overt act remove him.[98] The death of a part owner does not ipso facto revoke the authority of the master of a vessel as to such part owner's share.[99] The sequestration of a vessel by the government terminates the relationship existing between a master and the owners of the vessel.[1]

b. Removal or Discharge

The owner cannot, without incurring liability in dam-

82. U.S.—Bourne v. Smith, D.C. Mass., 3 F.Cas.No.1,701, 1 Lowell 547.
58 C.J. p. 265 note 68.

83. U.S.—Bourne v. Smith, supra

84. U.S.—Bourne v. Smith, supra

85. N.S.—Schooner Lavonia, Ltd. v Lowe, 54 N.S. 159

86. U.S.—The Boston, D.C.N.Y., 3 F.Cas.No.1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309—Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, D.C.Me., 5 F.Cas.No.2,445, 10 N.Y.Leg.Obs. 193

87. Mass.—Copeland v. New England Marine Ins. Co., 2 Metc. 432.

88. U.S.—Corpus Juris cited in Escandon v. Pan American Foreign Corporation, D.C.Tex., 12 F.Supp. 1006, 1007.
Mass.—Copeland v. New England Marine Ins. Co., 2 Metc. 432.

89. U.S.—Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, D.C.Me., 5 F.Cas.No.2,445, 10 N.Y.Leg.Obs. 193.

90. U.S.—Corpus Juris cited in Escandon v. Pan American Foreign Corporation, D.C.Tex., 12 F.Supp. 1006, 1007—Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, D.C.Me., 5 F.Cas.No.2,445, 10 N.Y.Leg.Obs. 193.

91. U.S.—The Boston, D.C.N.Y., 3 F.Cas.No.1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309

92. Mass.—Copeland v. New England Marine Ins. Co., 2 Metc. 432.

93. Wash.—Knutson v. Hansen, 251 P. 852, 141 Wash. 623

94. U.S.—The Lizzie Merry, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.Cas.No.8,423, 10 Ben. 140.
58 C.J. p. 265 note 82.

95. Pa.—Williams v. Ireland, 11 Phila. 273, 2 Wkly.N.C. 442.
58 C.J. p. 265 note 83.

96. Pa.—Williams v. Ireland, supra.

97. U.S.—Slocum v. Swift, D.C. Mass., 22 F.Cas.No.12,954, 2 Lowell 212.
58 C.J. p. 265 note 86.
Term for which wages can be collected see infra § 68.

98. U.S.—Fox v. Holt, D.C., 9 F.Cas. No.5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.
58 C.J. p. 265 note 87.

Routine assignment
Where vessel master, hired at will, received letter of instructions informing him of next voyage, cargo, destination, and agents to contact, and giving him other general instructions, and letter ordered master to take vessel to another country but contained no mention of tenure of employment, letter was routine assignment, and not an offer of contract for duration of voyage.—Higbee v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 921.

99. Me.—Grant v. Carver, 75 Me. 524.

1. N.J.—Hill v. Stetson, 39 N.J.Law 84.

ages, dismiss before the end of the term one employed as master for a definite term except for sufficient cause, but in case of a general employment or a hiring at will the master may be discharged by the owner at any time without the necessity of assigning a cause therefor.

The owner cannot, without incurring liability in damages, dismiss before the end of the term one employed as master for a definite term,[2] as for a particular voyage[3] or for a particular time,[4] except for sufficient cause.[5] In case of a general employment, however, the master may be discharged by the owners[6] or a majority in interest thereof[7] at any time without the necessity of assigning a cause therefor,[8] although he is a part owner of the vessel.[9] So where the hiring of the master is no more than a hiring at will, the owner has the absolute right to discharge him with or without cause.[10]

Charterer. A clause in a war shipping charter which provides that, in the event that continued employment of the master appears to be prejudicial to the interests of the United States in the prosecution of the war, or if the United States is dissatisfied with his conduct, the owner shall make changes necessary in the appointment plainly recognizes the owner's right to discharge,[11] and gives the charterer no right to discharge objectionable personnel,[12] but only a contract right against the owner in this respect,[13] and has to do with potential disloyalty or treason in a vital war service,[14] and not with the skill, capacity, or experience of the ship's complement as seamen.[15]

§ 59. Authority and Duties

The court will seldom question the judgment of a master in making his decisions as to the proper handling of his vessel.

The court will seldom question the judgment of a shipmaster in making his decisions as to the proper handling of his vessel.[16]

§ 60. —— Scope and Extent in General

The master of a seagoing vessel has full control of the ship and all on board, and generally it is his right and duty, in the exercise of a sound discretion and in good faith, to do all things with respect to the equipment and conduct of the voyage which are reasonably necessary to the protection and preservation of the interests under his charge.

The master of a seagoing vessel has full control of the ship and all on board.[17] As a general rule, it is his right and duty, in the exercise of a sound discretion and in good faith, to do all things with respect to the equipment and conduct of the voyage which are reasonably necessary to the protection and preservation of the interest under his charge, whether that of owners, charterers, cargo owners, or underwriters,[18] and in case of necessity or calamity during the voyage, the master, in the absence of the parties concerned, is, by law, created their agent, and his acts done under such circumstances in the exercise of a sound discretion and in good faith are binding on such parties.[19] He may act as agent of the owners or consignees of the cargo, in their absence, to the extent that it may be reasonably necessary for him to act to protect or preserve the cargo in the course of the voyage;[20] but

2. U.S.—Clayton v. The Eliza B Emory, C.C.N.J., 4 F. 342.
58 C.J. p 265 notes 90-92.

3. U.S.—Montgomery v. Henry, Pa., 1 Dall. 49, 1 L.Ed. 32, 1 Am.D. 223.

4. Mass.—Moore v. Curry, 106 Mass. 409.

5. U.S.—Black v. People's Coal Co., D.C.Pa., 180 F. 318
58 C.J. p 265 note 93.

6. U.S.—Lombard SS. Co. v. Anderson, Md., 134 F. 568, 67 C.C.A. 432
58 C.J. p 266 note 95.

7. N.Y.—Ward v. Ruckman, 36 N.Y. 26, 93 Am.D. 479, 1 Transcr.A. 172
58 C.J. p 266 note 96

8. U.S.—Montgomery v. Henry, Pa., 1 Dall. 49, 1 Am.D. 223, 1 L.Ed. 32, —Higgins v. Jenks, C.C.Me., 12 F.Cas.No 6,468, 3 Ware 17.

9. U.S.—Clayton v. The Eliza B. Emory, C.C.N.J., 4 F. 342.
58 C.J. p 266 note 98.

10. U.S.—Higbee v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 921.
Discrepancy in master's account held sufficient cause for discharge
U.S.—Higbee v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., supra.

11. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., D.C. Pa., 56 F.Supp. 106.

12. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., supra.

13. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., supra.

14. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., supra.

15. U.S.—Burkholder v. U. S., supra.

16. U.S.—The Maurice R. Shaw, D.C. Me., 46 F.Supp. 767.
Power or authority of master to:
Arbitrate salvage claims see Salvage § 111.
Hypothecate vessel see infra § 91.
Make contract of towage see the C.J.S. title Towage § 6, also 63 C.J. p 8 note 23-p 9 note 33.
Make contracts of salvage see Salvage § 110.
Order general average act see infra § 225.

17. Wash.—Aquino v. Alaska S. S. Co., 91 P.2d 1014, 199 Wash. 490.
Officer of ship, whether master or mate, is in full charge of vessel when she is docked, and has supervision of deck and hatchways and coverings thereof.—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P. 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v. Naknek Packing Co., 52 S.Ct. 128, 284 U.S. 672, 76 L.Ed. 569.

18. U.S.—The Styria, N.Y., 22 S.Ct. 731, 186 U.S. 1, 46 L.Ed. 1027.
58 C.J. p 266 note 3.
Protection against trespassers
(1) Captain of vessel, as such, has the duty to protect and safeguard it and to keep trespassers from it.—The H. S. Inc., No. 72, C.C.A.N.J., 130 F.2d 341.

(2) A boy hanging to bumper of moored scow while swimming in river was a trespasser whom it was scow captain's duty to remove.—The H. S., Inc., No. 72, supra.

19. U.S.—Harrison v. Fortlage, Pa., 16 S.Ct. 488, 161 U.S. 57, 40 L.Ed. 616.
58 C.J. p 266 note 4.
Master as agent of owners or charterers generally see infra § 63.

20. U.S.—Spear v. Place, Tex., 11 How. 522, 13 L.Ed. 796.
Authority and duties as to cargo generally see infra § 63.

he cannot, without special authority, represent or act for any part of the cargo after it is delivered to the consignees.[21]

§ 61. —— Accounting to Owner or Charterer

It is the duty of the master of a vessel to render a full and satisfactory account to the owners or charterers of the vessel.

It is the duty of the master of a vessel to render a full and satisfactory account to the owners of the vessel of all moneys received,[22] or which should have been received,[23] and of the disbursements and expenditures of the vessel during a voyage,[24] before he is entitled to any wages[25]

Charterer. The master may be required to produce his accounts to the charterer[26] or his agents[27]

§ 62. —— As to Passengers and Crew

By maritime law the master has all the authority of command aboard a vessel, and matters pertaining to the crew and passengers, including the duty of protecting him from maltreatment while aboard his ship, are intrusted to him.

By the maritime law the master has all the authority of command aboard the vessel,[28] and matters pertaining to the crew are intrusted to the master or captain of the ship,[29] who, under the maritime law is the guardian of the seamen as wards of the admiralty.[30] He also has a necessary control over his passengers.[31] Further, the master has the duty of interposing his authority to protect both passenger and seaman from maltreatment while on board his ship.[32] With respect to passengers, the master owes a higher and more delicate duty than he owes to his crew;[33] it is his duty to protect his passengers from harm with the care, skill, and prudence which an exceedingly competent and cautious man would bring to the task in like circumstances[34] The master or agent of the vessel must make up at the expense of the owners the accounts between the ship and officers or seamen[35]

§ 63. —— As Agent for Owners or Charterers

a. In general
b Repairs, supplies, and other necessaries
c. Contracts of affreightment
d Authority and duties as to cargo in general
e. Authority as to purchase of cargo
f. Collection of freight or demurrage
g. Borrowing money
h. Execution of bonds, notes, and bills of exchange
i. Allowance or settlement of claims

a. In General

The master is deemed the agent of the owners or charterers for all details of navigation and care or management of the ship; consequently, they are bound 21. U S —Spear v. Place, supra.

22. U.S.—Higbee v. American Foreign S. S. Corp, D C Pa, 94 F.Supp. 921.
58 C.J p 266 note 7.

23. U.S.—Babcock v. Terry, D C. Mass., 1 F Cas No.702, 1 Lowell 66

24. U.S.—Robinson v Hinckley, C.C. N Y., 20 F.Cas.No 11,954, 2 Paine 457.

25. U.S —Robinson v. Hinckley, supra.

26. U S —Mauran v. Warren, D C. Mass., 16 F.Cas No.9,310, 2 Lowell 53.

27. U S —Mauran v. Warren, supra
58 C J. p 267 note 12

28. U.S.—Butler v. McClellan, D C. Me., 4 F.Cas No 2,242, 1 Ware 220.
Duty of inferior officers and common seamen to obey lawful commands of master see Seamen § 223

29. U.S.—The Marguerite W., D.C. Wis., 49 F.Supp 929, affirmed, C.C. A., 140 F.2d 491.

30. U.S.—Spellman v. American Barge Line Co., C.A.Pa., 176 F.2d 716.
Paternal responsibilities
(1) Relationship of a ship captain to his crew is traditionally paternal and he is the crew's legal guardian in sense that it is a part of his duty to look out for their safety and care whether or not they make a distinct request for it.—Monteiro v. Paco Tankers, D C.Pa, 93 F Supp. 93.

(2) A ship's master has paternal responsibilities to his crew but such duties come into being only after employment has begun and are not involved in the hiring of seamen.—Potter Title & Trust Co v Ohio Barge Line, C A Pa., 184 F 2d 432, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 567, 340 U S. 955, 95 L Ed. 689.

(3) The paternal responsibilities of a ship's captain do not include duty of requiring medical approval before hiring an apparently competent but previously hospitalized seaman who is seeking and accepts employment. —Potter Title & Trust Co. v. Ohio Barge Line, supra.
Duty to furnish medical care in general
(1) The captain of a vessel owes the duty of providing medical care to an injured member of his crew.—Rodgers v. U S. Lines Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 226.

(2) Ship's master is not expected to exercise the skill of physician in recognizing the ailments of his crew and rendering suitable treatment therefor.—Potter Title & Trust Co. v Ohio Barge Line, C.A Pa., 184 F 2d 432, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 567, 340 U S. 955, 95 L Ed. 689.

(3) Maintenance and cure of disabled seamen see Seamen §§ 172–187

31. U S —Krauskopp v Ames, D C, 14 F Cas.No 7,931, 4 Pa L.J R. 100.
58 C J. p 267 note 17.

32. U S —The Lizzie Burril, D.C Ala., 115 F. 1015.
58 C.J. p 267 note 18.
Maltreatment of seamen generally see Seamen §§ 222–236.

33. U S —Smith v. Wilson, D C.Ala., 22 F Cas No 13,128, 31 How.Pr., N. Y, 272
58 C J. p 267 note 19.

34. U.S.—Voltmann v. United Fruit Co., C.C A N Y., 147 F 2d 514.

35. Hawaii.—Warren v. Rush, 2 Hawaii 468.
58 C.J. p 267 note 20.

by all acts done or contracts entered into by him within the scope of his authority relative to the regular business of the vessel.

In general the master is deemed the agent of the owners for all details of navigation and care or management of the ship;[36] and, where the vessel is under charter, he is deemed the agent of the charterer for such matters as relate to the receipt and delivery of cargo, and to the earnings of the vessel which go to the charterer,[37] and as to other matters within the scope of the authority, expressly or impliedly, vested in him by the charterer.[38] For some purposes he is deemed the agent of both the owner and the charterer,[39] consequently, they are bound by all acts done or contracts entered into by him within the scope of his authority relative to the regular business of the vessel,[40] but they are not bound by the acts or contracts of the master beyond the scope of his authority,[41] unless they assent to or ratify them.[42] A master's general powers as agent are so much a matter of law that persons dealing with him are bound to take notice of them at their peril.[43] As agent of the owner, knowledge of the master is knowledge of the owner.[44]

The master's power to bind his owners is but a branch of the general law of agency,[45] and is such as is conferred on him by the laws of the country to which his vessel belongs.[46] In many respects, however, the authority of a master is, from the necessities of the case, more extensive than that of an ordinary agent;[47] but in order that he may exercise extraordinary powers, exigencies must arise in which it is impossible for the owners or their general agent to be consulted and the necessities of the business require that he should act promptly.[48]

Delegation of authority. In general, the master cannot delegate all of his authority as agent;[49] but in an emergency[50] he may employ experienced agents to assist him,[51] and may request the ship's brokers to contract as his agent for outfitting the vessel.[52]

Good faith and loyalty. Like other agents, the master must act with entire good faith and loyalty to his employers' interests.[53] So the master of a ship cannot become a purchaser at a sale of property which is sold by his authority as agent of the owners.[54]

b. Repairs, Supplies, and Other Necessaries

The master has implied authority to bind the vessel or the owners for whatever necessaries are reasonably fit and proper for the safety of the vessel and the due performance of the voyage, where the owners are absent.

The master has implied authority to bind the ves-

36. U.S.—Higbee v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 921—The Drottning Sophia, D.C. N.Y., 153 F. 1017.
La.—Leefe v. Walker, 18 La. 1.
N.Y.—Moss v. Husted, 66 N.Y. 539
Va.—Morewitz v. Societe Nationale D'Affretements, 156 S.E. 376, 155 Va. 802.
58 C.J. p. 267 note 21, p. 268 note 30 [a].
Liability as between owner and charterer:
In general see supra § 34.
For negligence of master of harbor craft see supra § 52.

37. U.S.—The Santona, D.C.N.Y., 152 F. 516—The Brig Maria, 39 Ct.Cl. 39.
Charterer as owner pro hac vice see supra § 34.

38. N.Y.—Oldman-Magee Boiler Works v. Ocean, etc., Transp. Co., 205 N.Y.S. 550, 210 App.Div. 183.

39. U.S.—The Surprise, Mass., 129 F. 873, 64 C.C.A. 309.
58 C.J. p. 268 note 24.

40. Va.—Morewitz v. Societe Nationale D'Affretements, 156 S.E. 376, 155 Va. 802.
58 C.J. p. 268 note 25.
Intervention in legal proceedings; employment of attorney
Master of ship may intervene for defense of ship in legal proceedings against her, and he had apparent authority to employ attorney to perform services preventing restraint of ship; hence, shipowner was liable in contract for attorney's fees.—Morewitz v. Societe Nationale D'Affretements, supra.
Medical attention for mariners on ship
(1) The master of the vessel is agent of the owners with authority to furnish to all mariners on the ship medical attendance at the cost of the owners.—Scarff v. Metcalf, 13 N.E. 796, 107 N.Y. 211, 1 Am.S.R. 807 and note—2 C.J. p. 662 note 11.
(2) Authority of master with respect to matters pertaining to crew generally see supra § 62.
(3) Maintenance and cure of disabled seamen see Seamen §§ 172–187.

41. Mich.—Strong v. Saunders, 15 Mich. 339
58 C.J. p. 268 note 27.

42. Del.—Davis v. Marshall, 4 Del. 64.

43. Ind.—Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256.

44. U.S.—Stevens v. R. O'Brien & Co., C.C.A.Mass., 62 F.2d 632
58 C.J. p. 267 note 21 [b].

45. N.J.—May v. Hurley, 71 A. 913, 77 N.J.Law 611, 613, 134 Am.S.R. 796, 18 Ann.Cas. 874.
58 C.J. p. 268 note 34.

46. U.S.—Pope v. Nickerson, C.C. Mass., 19 F.Cas.No.11,274, 3 Story 465.
N.Y.—Hanschell v. Swan, 51 N.Y.S. 42, 23 Misc. 304.

47. N.Y.—Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N.Y. 685.

48. N.J.—May v. Hurley, 71 A. 913, 77 N.J.Law 611, 613, 134 Am.S.R. 796, 18 Ann.Cas. 874.
58 C.J. p. 269 note 37.

49. Hawaii.—Caplan v. Hoffschlaeger, 2 Hawaii 291.
N.Y.—Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 106 N.Y.S. 508, 121 App.Div. 874.

50. U.S.—The Ripon City, Ga., 102 F. 176, 42 C.C.A. 247.

51. U.S.—The Ripon City, supra.

52. N.Y.—Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 87 N.E. 811, 194 N.Y. 506.

53. U.S.—Higbee v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 921.
Duty to render a full and satisfactory account of all moneys received see supra § 61

54. U.S.—Barker v. Marine Ins. Co., C.C.R.I., 2 F.Cas.No.992, 2 Mason 369.
58 C.J. p. 269 note 43.

sel[55] or the owners[56] for whatever necessaries are reasonably fit and proper for the safety of the vessel and the due performance of the voyage, where the owners are absent. Accordingly, unless credit therefor is given exclusively to the master or to third persons,[57] or unless some other person has such authority in the particular instance and this is known to the creditor,[58] the master may bind the owners for necessary repairs,[59] equipment,[60] and other supplies,[61] services of seamen,[62] assistance in discharging cargo,[63] or necessary port charges.[64] Interested persons may assume that he has such authority, unless something appears to suggest the contrary, and put them on inquiry.[65] He cannot, however, bind the owners for items which are not necessaries unless he is specially authorized to do so;[66] nor can he purchase supplies or merchandise for third persons on the credit of the owner of the vessel.[67] Where the master is also the owner and by the terms of the charter party bound to make substantial repairs, he will, in ordering repairs, be deemed to have acted as principal, and not as agent for the charterer.[68]

Opportunity to communicate with owners or agents. While the rules under consideration appear to be well settled where the master acts in a foreign port from which communication cannot readily be had with the owners or their agents,[69] there is some conflict as to his power in a home port, or where the owners or agents may be communicated with. In some jurisdictions it is held that the master may bind the owner for necessaries, such as supplies or repairs, either in a foreign port, or even in the home port,[70] unless he in fact has no such authority and the persons dealing with him have knowledge of that fact,[71] or unless the supplies or repairs are furnished on the exclusive credit of the master.[72] In other jurisdictions, however, this authority is limited to a foreign port or a home port where the owners do not reside and are not within easy access of the master,[73] and where the owners or their agent are at the port of the vessel's anchorage or so near it that they can be readily consulted or can be reasonably expected to interfere personally, the master cannot, without consulting them, pledge the owners' credit for the ship's necessaries, and, hence, the owners will not be liable on such a contract,[74] unless the master has special authority for that purpose,[75] or the owners have held him out as having such authority,[76] or have ratified the contract after it was made.[77]

c. Contracts of Affreightment

The captain of a vessel is not the general agent of the owner with power to make general contracts as to shipments; and, where the vessel is loaded wholly by the owners and is not employed in carrying freight for hire, the master has no authority to enter into contracts of affreightment. The master of a vessel engaged in carrying freight may enter into binding contracts of affreightment on such terms as are authorized by the usual course of trade of his vessel.

As a general rule, the captain of a vessel is not

55. U.S.—The H. A. Baxter, D.C. Conn., 172 F. 260, affirmed 179 F. 1018, 102 C.C.A. 663.
Authority of master as to:
Binding cargo for repairs see infra § 66.
Borrowing of money for repairs see infra subdivision g of this section.
Employment of pilot see Pilots § 8
Giving of bottomry bond for repairs see infra § 91
Towage contracts see the C.J.S. title Towage § 6, also 63 C.J. p 8 note 23–p 9 note 33.

56. U.S.—Neset v. Christensen, D.C. N.Y., 92 F.Supp. 78.
Hawaii.—Spencer v. Bailey and Gilbert, 1 Hawaii 216.
58 C.J. p 269 note 46.

57. N.C.—Williams v. Windley, 86 N.C. 107.
58 C.J. p 269 note 48.

58. U.S.—The Joseph Cunard, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Cas.No 7,535, Olcott 120—Philips v. Ledley, Pa., 19 F.Cas No. 11,096, 1 Wash.C.C. 226.

59. Md.—Stirling v. Nevassa Phosphate Co., 35 Md 128, 6 Am.R. 372
58 C.J. p 269 note 50.

60. U.S.—Schultz v. Bosman, D.C. Md., 21 F.Cas.No 12,488, 5 Hughes 97.
58 C.J. p 269 note 51.

61. Hawaii.—Spencer v. Bailey and Gilbert, 1 Hawaii 216.
58 C.J. p 270 note 52.

62. Mo.—Carr v. Burke, 32 Mo 233
N.Y.—Kohler v. Wright, 20 N.Y.Super. 318.

63. U.S.—Noyes v. Munson SS. Line, D.C.N.Y., 173 F 814
58 C.J. p 270 note 54

64. N.Y.—Chicago Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 106 N.Y.S. 508, 121 App.Div 874
58 C.J. p 270 note 55

65. U.S.—Black Diamond Coal-Min. Co. v. The H. C. Grady, D.C.Cal., 87 F. 232.

66. Me.—Whitten v. Tisdale, 43 Me 451.
58 C.J. p 270 note 57.
Apparent necessity sufficient
The furnisher of supplies is not bound to show that there was a positive necessity for such supplies; it is sufficient if there was an apparent necessity.—Spencer v. Bailey and Gilbert, 1 Hawaii 216.—58 C.J. p 270 note 57 [a].

67. La.—Calef v. The Bonaparte, 1 Rob 463, 38 Am.D 190.

68. N.Y.—Oldman-Magee Boiler Works v. Ocean, etc., Transp. Co., 205 N.Y.S. 550, 210 App.Div 183

69. U.S.—Black Diamond Coal-Min. Co. v. The H. C. Grady, D.C.Cal., 87 F. 232.
58 C.J. p 270 note 61.

70. Cal.—Crawford v. Roberts, 50 Cal 235.
58 C.J. p 270 note 63.

71. N.Y.—Provost v. Patchin, 9 N.Y. 235
58 C.J. p 271 note 64.

72. Pa.—Winsor v. Maddock, 64 Pa. 231.

73. U.S.—Schultz v. Bosman, D.C. Md., 21 F.Cas.No 12,488, 5 Hughes 97.
58 C.J. p 271 note 66.

74. U.S.—Schultz v. Bosman, supra.
58 C.J. p 271 note 67.

75. Md.—Pentz v. Clarke, 41 Md. 327.
58 C.J. p 271 note 68.

76. Md.—Pentz v. Clarke, supra.

77. Md.—Pentz v. Clarke, supra.

the general agent of the owner with power to make general contracts as to shipments,[78] and it has been said that the contracts of the master or other agent on the voyage or in foreign ports bind only the ship.[79] Where a vessel is loaded wholly by the owners and is not employed in carrying freight for hire, the master thereof has no authority to enter into contracts of affreightment,[80] unless the owners assent,[81] except where it is necessary in a foreign port to diminish the loss to the owners or charterers, by reason of the failure to obtain an expected cargo.[82] The master of a vessel engaged in carrying freight may enter into contracts of affreightment binding on the owners on such terms as are authorized by the usual course of trade of his vessel,[83] particularly at a foreign port,[84] unless the owner is on board attending exclusively to the shipment of the cargo,[85] or unless such authority is given to another.[86]

d. Authority and Duties as to Cargo in General

It is the duty of the master as such to see to the safekeeping and transportation of the cargo, and although he may be authorized to act as supercargo during the voyage, his acts as supercargo are not binding on the owners of the vessel or on the vessel.

It is the duty of the master to see to the safe transportation of the cargo,[87] and also, as discussed supra § 40, to see to the safe loading and stowage thereof; other than this he has no authority to exercise or duty to perform in respect of the cargo,[88] except as duties may arise with respect to its sale or disposition, as discussed infra § 66. As shown infra § 171, the supercargo, if there is one, represents the owners of the cargo. The master, however, may be authorized to act as supercargo during the voyage,[89] as where he is also the consignee of the cargo for sale;[90] and when he acts as supercargo, what he does relative to the safekeeping[91] and transportation of the cargo,[92] he does as master, and binds the owner of the vessel,[93] but what he does relative to its sale and disposition after reaching the port of destination, he does as supercargo,[94] and neither the owners[95] nor the vessel itself[96] is responsible therefor. The master of a vessel in a foreign port has not implied authority to bind the owners by an agreement with brokers, who are loading her for a voyage for a fixed commission, that she shall be consigned to them at the port of destination, with a right on their part to supply the wharf and stevedore for her discharge, and collect all freight and general average for an additional commission.[97]

e. Authority as to Purchase of Cargo

It is not within the general powers of a master to purchase a cargo on behalf of the owners.

As a general rule, it is not within the general powers of a master to purchase a cargo on behalf of the owners,[98] and the owners are not liable for such purchases by the master unless previously authorized[99] or subsequently ratified.[1] On the failure of the charterers of a vessel to furnish cargo at a certain port, the master is required to use reasonable efforts to diminish the charterer's loss,[2] but in order to do so he is not bound to purchase cargo at his own risk,[3] or to go to other ports to obtain it.[4]

f. Collection of Freight or Demurrage

The master has the authority and duty to collect freight due on goods carried on his vessel and demurrage.

As a general rule, the master has the authority

78. Ala.—Tennessee River Nav. Co. v Walls, 92 So. 202, 18 Ala.App. 305.

79. U.S.—The Fred E. Hasler, C.C.A. N.Y., 65 F.2d 589

80. Mass.—Walter v. Brewer, 11 Mass. 99
N.Y.—King v. Lenox, 19 Johns 235.

81. Mass.—Walter v. Brewer, 11 Mass. 99.

82. U.S.—Crabtree v. Clark, C.C. Ohio, 6 F.Cas.No.3,314, Sprague 217.

83. La.—Porter v. Curry, 7 La. 233.
58 C.J. p 271 note 75.

84. N.Y.—Ward v. Green, 6 Cow. 173, 16 Am.D. 437.
N.C.—Murfree v. Redding, 2 N.C. 276.

85. N.Y.—Ward v. Green, 6 Cow. 173, 16 Am.D. 437.

86. U.S.—Naylor v. Baltzell, C.C. Md., 17 F.Cas.No.10,061, Taney 55.

87. U.S.—The Oakley C. Curtis, C.C. A.N.Y., 4 F.2d 979, certiorari denied France, etc., SS Corp v. Midland Seed Products Co., 45 S.Ct. 354, 267 U.S. 599, 69 L.Ed. 807—Ross v. The Active, Pa., 20 F.Cas.No.12,071, 2 Wash.C.C. 226.

88. U.S.—Ross v. The Active, supra.

89. U.S.—Smedley v. Yeaton, D.C., 22 F.Cas.No.12,965, 3 Cranch C.C. 181.
58 C.J. p 271 note 89.

90. U.S.—Smedley v. Yeaton, supra.
58 C.J. p 272 note 90.

91. U.S.—The Waldo, D.C.Me., 28 F. Cas.No.17,056, 2 Ware 165.
58 C.J. p 272 note 91.

92. U.S.—The Maiden City, D.C.Ala., 33 F. 715—The Waldo, D.C.Me., 28 F.Cas.No.17,056, 2 Ware 165.

93. U.S.—The Maiden City, D.C.Ala., 33 F. 715—The Waldo, D.C.Me., 28 F.Cas.No.17,056, 2 Ware 165.

94. U.S.—The Waldo, supra.
58 C.J. p 272 note 94.

95. U.S.—The Waldo, supra.

96. U.S.—The Waldo, supra.
58 C.J. p 272 note 96.

97. Mass.—Warren v. Skolfield, 104 Mass. 503.

98. Me.—Hewett v. Buck, 17 Me. 147, 35 Am.D. 243.
58 C.J. p 272 note 98.

99. N.Y.—Bidenlac v. Smith, 31 N.Y. 259.
58 C.J. p 272 note 99.

1. Me.—Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289.

2. U.S.—Crabtree v. Clark, C.C.Ohio, 6 F.Cas.No.3,314, 1 Sprague 217.

3. U.S.—Crabtree v. Clark, supra.

4. U.S.—Crabtree v. Clark, supra.

and duty to collect freight due on goods carried on his vessel,[5] and he has no authority to release a charterer from paying the freight reserved in the charter party,[6] or to vary the terms of the contract made by the owner with respect thereto.[7] If he acts as agent of the owners of a chartered vessel, it is his duty to collect the freight for the benefit of the charterer,[8] and if he neglects or refuses to pay over such freight, the owners will be liable therefor,[9] unless he is made the agent of the charterers for that purpose.[10]

Demurrage. The master of a vessel has authority to direct the collection of demurrage.[11]

g. Borrowing Money

Even though the necessity arose from his own misconduct, the master of a vessel, when without funds or the means of raising them in a foreign port, may bind the owner for money borrowed in good faith to pay for necessaries, such as repairs, wages, supplies, and the like, provided the vessel is in a port where he cannot readily communicate with the owners.

The master of a vessel, when without funds or the means of raising them in a foreign port, may, as a rule, bind the owners for money borrowed in good faith to pay for necessaries,[12] such, for example, as repairs,[13] wages,[14] supplies reasonably fit and proper to enable the vessel to continue on her voyage,[15] payments to obtain release from seizure,[16] customs charges,[17] compromise of claims for salvage,[18] or the services and commissions of brokers employed by the owners.[19] The authority exists although the necessity arose from the master's own misconduct;[20] but, where the vessel is in a port where the owners may be readily communicated with, the master ordinarily has no authority to pledge the owners' credit for money borrowed without consulting with them.[21] The owners are not liable, however, unless the money borrowed is required for purposes which are reasonably fit and proper under the circumstances under which the vessel is placed,[22] and it is the duty of the lender to see that the money is needed for such purposes,[23] nor are the owners liable for advances which are collusively made.[24] A master has no authority to borrow to pay a debt for services for which the owners of the vessel are already responsible,[25] unless the debt constitutes a lien on the vessel or cargo capable of immediate enforcement in a foreign port.[26]

h. Execution of Bonds, Notes, and Bills of Exchange

The master of a vessel has no power to execute, indorse, or accept bills of exchange or notes binding on the owners of his vessel, except in a foreign port for necessary repairs or supplies, or except where he is specially authorized to do so.

The master of a vessel has no power to execute, indorse, or accept bills of exchange or notes binding on the owners of his vessel,[27] except in a foreign port for necessary repairs or supplies,[28] or except where he is specially authorized to do so.[29] In a foreign port the master may bind the owners

5. U.S.—Keyser v. Blue Star S. S. Co., Fla., 91 F. 267, 33 C.C.A. 496.
La.—Leefe v. Walker, 18 La. 1.
58 C.J. p 272 note 5.

6. U.S.—Balcarres Brook SS. Co. v. Grace, N.Y., 75 F. 1017, 22 C.C.A. 7.

7. U.S.—Merchants' Banking Co. v. Cargo of The Afton, N.Y., 134 F. 727, 67 C.C.A. 618—Balcarres Brook SS. Co. v. Grace, N.Y., 75 F. 1017, 22 C.C.A. 7.
N.Y.—Randall v. Brodhead, 70 N.Y. S. 43, 60 App.Div. 567.
Waiver of lien.
The master has no authority by signing bills of lading to waive the lien of the shipowner on the goods of the charterer; and such bills of lading will not give a right to persons who take them with knowledge of the charter party to have the goods free from the lien.—The Salem's Cargo, D.C.Mass., 21 F.Cas.No. 12,248, 1 Sprague 389.

8. U.S.—The Maiden City, D.C.Ala., 33 F. 715.

9. U.S.—The Maiden City, supra.

10. U.S.—The Maiden City, supra.

11. U.S.—The Monkshaven, D.C.Pa., 250 F. 1000.

12. Pa.—Wainwright v. Crawford, 3 Yeates 131.
58 C.J. p 272 note 13.

13. Md.—Miller v. Palmer, 58 Md. 451.
58 C.J. p 272 note 14.

14. Mass.—Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray 482, 74 Am.D. 608
58 C.J. p 273 note 15

15. Md.—Miller v. Palmer, 58 Md. 451.
58 C.J. p 273 note 16.

16. Conn.—Williams v. Kelly, 2 Conn 218 note.
La.—McGregor v. Brittingham, 12 La. 182.

17. Me.—Descadillas v. Harris, 8 Me. 298.

18. N.Y.—Lobach v. Hotchkiss, 17 Abb.Pr. 88.

19. N.Y.—Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 87 N.E. 811, 194 N.Y. 506.

20. Me.—Descadillas v. Harris, 8 Me. 298.

21. U.S.—George W. Bush & Sons Co. v. Fitzpatrick, D.C.Pa., 73 F. 501.
La.—Mississippi Agricultural Bank v. The Jane, 19 La. 1.

22. N.Y.—Hanschell v. Swan, 51 N.Y.S. 42, 23 Misc 304
58 C.J. p 273 note 24.

23. U.S.—George W. Bush & Sons Co. v. Fitzpatrick, D.C.Pa., 73 F. 501.
58 C.J. p 273 note 25.

24. Md.—Miller v. Palmer, 58 Md. 451.

25. N.Y.—Chase v. McLean, 29 N.E. 986, 130 N.Y. 529

26. Mass.—Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray 482, 74 Am.D. 608.

27. Mass.—Bowen v. Stoddard, 10 Metc. 375.
58 C.J. p 273 note 32.
Authority of master to execute bottomry and respondentia bonds see infra § 91.

28. N.Y.—Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 87 N.E. 811, 194 N.Y. 506.
58 C.J. p 273 note 33.

29. U.S.—Pickersgill v. Williams, D.C.N.Y., 19 F.Cas.No.11,123—Wallace v. Agry, C.C.Me., 29 F.Cas.No. 17,096, 4 Mason 336.

by the execution of a bond to procure the release of his vessel,[30] but he has no such authority in the home port;[31] nor can he give an appeal bond in the home port of the vessel without consulting the owners.[32]

i. Allowance or Settlement of Claims

The master has no power to allow or settle claims against the vessel or owners, except such as are valid and accrue during the time he is master.

The master of a vessel has no power to allow or settle claims against the vessel[33] or against the owners,[34] except such as accrue during the time he is the master,[35] and he particularly has no such power where the claim is not a valid one against the owners.[36]

§ 64. —— Management and Navigation of Vessel

The master has full control of all departments of service on his ship, and full discretion as to its navigation; he is still in command notwithstanding the presence of a pilot, and it is his duty to use reasonable care to keep the ship in repair, and to follow instructions as to the course of his voyage.

The master has control of all departments of service on his ship,[37] and full discretion as to its navigation.[38] He must determine what is requisite for the safety of property[39] and lives[40] on his vessel. It is his duty personally to see to the course of his vessel,[41] and to see that the officers[42] and crew[43] under him properly perform their assigned duties with respect to the navigation of the vessel. This rule applies in harbors[44] or rivers,[45] when for the time being a pilot is in charge of navigation and the pilot or other officer so in charge of navigation does not supersede the master in command.[46] The master is still in command of the vessel, notwithstanding the presence of a pilot.[47]

30. N.Y.—Stedman v. Patchin, 34 Barb. 218.
58 C.J. p. 273 note 35

31. Mo.—Carr v. Burke, 32 Mo. 233.

32. N.Y.—Gager v. Babcock, 48 N.Y. 154, 8 Am.R. 532
58 C.J. p. 273 note 37.

33. Me.—Kelley v. Merrill, 14 Me. 228.

34. Me.—Kelley v. Merrill, supra.

35. Me.—Kelley v. Merrill, supra.
58 C.J. p. 274 note 40.

36. N.Y.—Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N.Y. 685
58 C.J. p. 274 note 41.

37. U.S.—Wandtke v. Anderson, C.C.A.Cal., 74 F.2d 381—The Balsa, C.C.A.Pa., 10 F.2d 408—Corpus Juris quoted in U. S. v. The Pomare, D.C. Hawaii, 92 F.Supp. 185, 192—The Vulcan, D.C.La., 60 F.Supp. 158.
Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.
58 C.J. p. 274 note 42.
Liability for negligence or misconduct generally see infra § 70 a.

Captain of scow chartered under customary New York Harbor charter was in charge of her lines—The Moran No. 107, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 785

38. Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.
58 C.J. p. 274 note 43.

39. U.S.—Corpus Juris quoted in U. S. v. The Pomare, D.C.Hawaii, 92 F.Supp. 185, 192.
58 C.J. p. 274 note 44.

Bargee

(1) Although not much is expected of a bargee, he has a definite duty to be something more than a mere automaton and cannot invite trouble to his own scow and cannot permit her to be operated when he knows she is in badly damaged condition.—The C. W. Crane, D.C.N.Y., 64 F.Supp. 627, affirmed, C.C.A., 155 F.2d 940.

(2) Bargee was bound to use reasonable care to protect barge from injury where the danger was reasonably apparent.—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co., D.C.N.J., 90 F.Supp. 953, affirmed, C.C.A., 185 F.2d 675.

(3) Bargee was agent of owner charged with taking care of lines of vessel.—The Bartle Daly, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.2d 603, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 58 F.2d 179.

(4) So the captain of barge, which was chartered with the captain, had duty of tending the barge to see that it was kept seaworthy by replacing hatch covers, tending lines, and pumping.—Price v. Long Dock Co., D.C.N.Y., 23 F.Supp. 501.

(5) A bargee's absence during working hours is not necessarily excusable because he has properly made fast his barge to a pier, when he leaves her.—U. S. v. Carroll Towing Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 169, rehearing denied 160 F.2d 482.

(6) Bargees have no implied authority to change a contract of towage by assuming risks of danger arising from threat of weather, and fact that bargees consented to, or requested, leaving barges in admittedly unsafe berth, does not exonerate tug from fault.—The B. B. No. 21, C.C.A.N.Y., 54 F.2d 532.

40. U.S.—The Smith Terry No. 1, D.C.Fla., 34 F.2d 570, affirmed, C.C.A., Hupper v. Hyde, 296 F. 862—Corpus Juris quoted in U. S. v. The Pomare, D.C.Hawaii, 92 F.Supp. 185, 192.
Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396

41. U.S.—Corpus Juris quoted in U. S. v. The Pomare, D.C.Hawaii, 92 F.Supp. 185, 192—Union Ins. Co. v. Dexter, D.C.N.Y., 52 F. 152.
Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396

42. Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.
58 C.J. p. 274 note 47
Liability of master for acts of subordinates see infra § 70.

43. U.S.—The Oregon, N.Y., 15 S.Ct. 804, 158 U.S. 186, 39 L.Ed. 943.
Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.

44. Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.
58 C.J. p. 274 note 49.

45. U.S.—The Oregon, N.Y., 15 S.Ct. 804, 158 U.S. 186, 39 L.Ed. 943.
Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.

46. Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 19 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396
58 C.J. p. 274 note 51.
Liability of master for acts of pilot generally see infra § 70

47. U.S.—The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78

Repair of vessel. It is the duty of the master to use reasonable care,[48] diligence,[49] and skill[50] to keep the ship in such repair as to make its condition seaworthy in consideration of the interest of all concerned,[51] and, in case of damage to the ship, to do all that can be done to repair it if there be a reasonable prospect of doing so at an expense which is not ruinous[52]

Delay in, or deviation from, voyage. It is the duty of the master to follow his instructions as to the course of his voyage,[53] and if he deviates therefrom he will be responsible for the consequences to his owners,[54] unless such deviation is authorized by the owners' agent at an intermediate port[55] or unless the owners ratify his acts;[56] but only the owners,[57] the owners' agent,[58] or the master acting for the owner[59] can consent to a deviation from a specified course. The master, however, is not liable for a deviation caused by necessity,[60] such as stress of weather and for the safety of the vessel and crew,[61] or for the purpose of saving human lives,[62] and, while there is no obligation on the master to lie by or delay the progress of his voyage for the purpose of preserving property,[63] the maritime law and commercial usage do not prohibit him from deviating in the exercise of a sound discretion to save property which is in peril.[64]

§ 65. —— Sale or Other Disposition of Vessel

a. In general
b. Necessity in general
c. Ability to communicate with owner
d. Good faith

a. In General

Except in case of necessity, the master of a vessel as such has no power to sell or otherwise dispose of the vessel or any part thereof without special authority therefor from the owners.

Except in a case of necessity, the master of a vessel as such has no power to sell or otherwise dispose of the vessel or any part thereof without special authority therefor from the owners,[65] and, hence, the owners are ordinarily not bound by a fraudulent sale made by the master without such authority[66] or in excess of his special authority.[67]

Ratification. An unauthorized sale of the vessel by the master may be subsequently ratified by the owners,[68] as where with knowledge of the master's acts they accept the proceeds of the sale,[69]

L.Ed. 1500—City of Los Angeles v Standard Transp. Co., C.C.A.Cal., 32 F.2d 988.

Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 18 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.

48 C.J. p. 1199 note 14.

Authority not in complete abeyance

The authority of the master of a vessel is not in complete abeyance while a pilot is in the discharge of his functions.

U.S.—Jure v. United Fruit Co., C.C.A.La., 6 F.2d 6.

N.C.—State Highway & Public Works Commission v. Diamond S. S. Transp. Corp., 38 S.E.2d 214, 226 N.C. 371.

48. U.S.—Corpus Juris quoted in U. S. v. The Pomare, D.C.Hawaii, 92 F.Supp. 185, 192.

58 C.J. p. 274 note 54.

49. U.S.—Corpus Juris quoted in U. S. v. The Pomare, D.C.Hawaii, 92 F.Supp. 185, 192.

50. U.S.—Corpus Juris quoted in U. S. v. The Pomare, D.C.Hawaii, 92 F.Supp. 185, 192.

51. U.S.—Corpus Juris quoted in U. S. v. The Pomare, D.C.Hawaii, 92 F.Supp. 185, 192.

52. U.S.—Walker v. Lykes Bros. S. S. Co., C.A.N.Y., 193 F.2d 772.

53. U.S.—Robinson v. Hinckley, C.C.N.Y., 20 F.Cas.No.11,954, 2 Paine 457.

Instruction to proceed to port and load

Where a charter entitling the charterer to the full capacity and burthen of the vessel required the vessel to proceed to a designated port and load rails, and was supplemented by oral instructions to the master to the same effect, it was his duty to follow such instructions until countermanded or modified, and the fact that he was given no written directions did not justify him in leaving the port without cargo, because of a delay in loading.—American Asiatic Co. v. Robert Dollar Co., C.C.A.Cal., 282 F. 743, certiorari denied Robert Dollar Co. v. American Asiatic Co., 43 S.Ct. 361, 261 U.S. 615, 67 L.Ed. 828

54. U.S.—Robinson v. Hinckley, C.C.N.Y., 20 F.Cas.No.11,954, 2 Paine 457.

Ala.—Mobile, etc., S. S. Co. v. Postal Tel.-Cable Co., 114 So. 181, 216 Ala. 576

Liability of vessel for injuries to cargo by reason of delay or deviation see infra §§ 144–145

55. U.S.—Robinson v. Hinckley, C.C.N.Y., 20 F.Cas.No.11,954, 2 Paine 457.

56. N.Y.—Codwise v. Hacker, 1 Cai. 526.

57. N.Y.—Moss v. Husted, 66 N.Y. 539.

58. U.S.—Robinson v. Hinckley, C.C.N.Y., 20 F.Cas.No.11,954, 2 Paine 457.

59. N.Y.—Moss v. Husted, 66 N.Y. 539

60. Ala.—Mobile, etc., S. S. Co. v. Postal Tel.-Cable Co., 114 So. 181, 216 Ala. 576.

61. Ala.—Mobile, etc. S. S. Co. v. Postal Tel.-Cable Co., supra.

62. U.S.—Sturtevant v. The George Nicholaus, D.C.La., 23 F.Cas.No. 13,578, Newb.Adm. 449.

58 C.J. p. 275 note 68.

63. U.S.—Sturtevant v. The George Nicholaus, supra.

64. U.S.—Romano v. West India Fruit & S. S. Co., C.C.A.Fla., 151 F.2d 727—Sturtevant v. The George Nicholaus, D.C.La., 23 F.Cas.No. 13,578, Newb.Adm. 449.

65. U.S.—The Henry, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Cas.No. 6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465.

58 C.J. p. 275 note 77.

66. Ind.—Ingersoll v. Emmerson, 1 Ind. 76.

67. Me.—Johnson v. Wingate, 29 Me. 404.

68. U.S.—The Sarah Harris, D.C.N.Y., 21 F.Cas.No. 12,345, 7 Ben. 28.

58 C.J. p. 277 note 21.

69. N.Y.—Harris v. Burdett, 43 N.Y.Super. 57, affirmed 76 N.Y. 582.

or where with such knowledge they otherwise acquiesce in the master's act.[70]

b. Necessity in General

The master has implied authority, and it is his duty, in the interest of those concerned, and in order to protect them from greater loss, to sell the vessel in case of urgent necessity, as where it becomes impossible to continue the voyage because of the vessel having become disabled.

The master has not only the implied authority, but it is his duty, in the interest of those concerned and in order to protect them from greater loss, to sell the vessel in cases of urgent necessity[71] and in the exercise of due discretion,[72] as for example, where it becomes impossible to continue the voyage because of the vessel having become disabled[73] as by wreck,[74] stranding,[75] or injury from weather,[76] provided, as discussed infra subdivision c of this section, it is impossible or impracticable to communicate with the owners. Whether the necessity justifying the master in making the sale exists is a question of fact depending on the particular circumstances existing at the time of the sale;[77] and the mere fact that the vessel is subsequently rescued and repaired by the purchaser does not invalidate the sale.[78] It must be an apparent moral necessity,[79] and must be extreme or urgent.[80]

If the master acts in good faith and with due discretion, he is justified in selling the vessel where the circumstances are such that a person of prudent and sound mind, after carefully observing all the facts and weighing all the probabilities, could have no doubt as to the advisability of the sale,[81] as where the vessel is exposed to an actual[82] and impending[83] peril, or to a peril likely to ensue,[84] and from which it is probable, in the opinion of persons competent to judge, that it cannot be rescued;[85] or where the vessel has become so disabled that it cannot continue on its voyage without repairs,[86] and there are no means of getting repairs made in the place where the vessel is,[87] or where the injuries are so great that the cost of repairing would be greater than,[88] or disproportionate to,[89] the value of the vessel.

c. Ability to Communicate with Owner

A master's power to sell the vessel because of necessity, without consulting the owners, does not arise unless it is not reasonable or practicable to communicate with them. Where practicable, the owners should have the opportunity to decide whether the sale is necessary.

A master's power to sell the vessel because of necessity, without consulting the owners, does not arise unless it is not reasonable or practicable to communicate with them by reason of the distance at which he is from the owners,[90] or by reason of the pressing imminence of the peril to which the vessel is exposed.[91] Where practicable, the owners should have an opportunity to decide whether in their judgment the sale is necessary;[92] and if by ordinary means of conveying information of the situation of the vessel the master can obtain directions from them as to what he should do, he should resort to such means,[93] and if he sells without such communication where it is practicable, the sale is invalid.[94]

d. Good Faith

It is essential to the validity of the sale of the vessel by the master that a necessity therefor and the

70. Me.—Johnson v. Wingate, 29 Me 404.

71. U.S.—The Ann D. Richardson, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Cas.No.410, Abb.Adm. 499.
58 C.J. p 275 note 80.

72. U.S.—The Lucinda Snow, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.Cas.No.8,591, Abb.Adm. 305.
Good faith in making sale see infra subdivision d of this section.

73. U.S.—The Amelie, Mass., 6 Wall. 18, 18 L.Ed. 806.
58 C.J. p 275 note 85, p 276 notes 86, 87.

74. U.S.—The Lucinda Snow, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.Cas.No.8,591, Abb.Adm. 305.
Mass.—Woods v. Clark, 24 Pick. 35.

75. U.S.—The Henry, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Cas.No.6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465.
58 C.J. p 276 note 86.

76. U.S.—The Amelie, Mass., 6 Wall. 18, 18 L.Ed. 806.
58 C.J. p 276 note 87.

77. Me.—Prince v. Ocean Ins. Co., 40 Me. 481, 63 Am.D. 676.
58 C.J. p 276 note 88.

78. U.S.—The Sarah Ann, Mass., 13 Pet. 387, 10 L.Ed. 213—The Yarkand, 120 F. 887, 58 C.C.A. 73.

79. U.S.—The Sarah Ann, Mass., 13 Pet. 387, 10 L.Ed. 213.
58 C.J. p 276 note 90.

80. U.S.—The Henry, D.C.N.Y., 11 F. Cas.No.6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465.
58 C.J. p 276 note 91.

81. N.Y.—Chambers v. Grantzon, 20 N.Y.Super. 414
58 C.J. p 276 note 93.

82. N.Y.—McCall v. Sun Mut. Ins. Co., 66 N.Y. 505
58 C.J. p 276 note 95.

83. N.Y.—McCall v. Sun Mut. Ins. Co., supra

84. U.S.—The Sarah Ann, Mass., 13 Pet. 387, 10 L.Ed. 213—The Lucinda Snow, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.Cas.No.8,591, Abb.Adm. 305.

85. U.S.—The Sarah Ann, Mass., 13 Pet. 387, 10 L.Ed. 213.
58 C.J. p 276 note 98.

86. U.S.—The Amelie, Mass., 6 Wall. 18, 18 L.Ed. 806.
Me.—Dunning v. Merchants' Mut. Marine Ins. Co., 57 Me. 108.

87. Me.—Dunning v. Merchants' Mut. Marine Ins. Co., supra.

88. U.S.—The Amelie, Mass., 6 Wall. 18, 18 L.Ed. 806.

89. U.S.—The Amelie, supra.
58 C.J. p 276 note 5.

90. Mass.—Hall v. Franklin Ins. Co., 9 Pick. 466.
58 C.J. p 276 note 7.

91. N.Y.—McCall v. Sun Mut. Ins. Co., 66 N.Y. 505.
58 C.J. p 277 note 8.

92. U.S.—The Amelie, Mass., 6 Wall. 18, 18 L.Ed. 806
58 C.J. p 277 note 9.

93. U.S.—The Sarah Ann, Mass., 13 Pet. 387, 10 L.Ed. 213.
58 C.J. p 277 note 10.

94. Me.—Miller v. Thompson, 60 Me. 322, 99 Am.D. 782.
58 C.J. p 277 note 11.

good faith of the master in making it concur; and if the master sells in bad faith or without necessity, he is guilty of unlawful conversion, and the owners are not thereby divested of their title.

It is essential to the validity of a sale that a necessity therefor and the good faith of the master in making the sale concur.[95] In determining the necessity for, and in effecting, the sale the master must act with entire good faith,[96] and exercise his best discretion in pursuing the course which will best promote the interests of all concerned.[97] If the master sells in bad faith[98] or without necessity,[99] he is guilty of unlawful conversion, and the owners are not thereby divested of their title,[1] and may assert their rights of property against the purchasers.[2] The purchasers, however, should be allowed for their expenditures in rescuing and repairing the vessel.[3]

§ 66. —— Sale or Other Disposition of Cargo

a. In general
b. In case of necessity
c. At port of destination

a. In General

The master of a vessel, as such, has no authority to sell or otherwise dispose of the cargo, or any portion thereof, except to the extent that he is specially authorized to do so, and except in a case of necessity; and, if he sells without authority, he, the owners, or the vessel may be held liable, and the sale confers no title on the purchaser.

As a general rule the master of a vessel, as such, has no authority to sell or otherwise dispose of the cargo, or any portion thereof,[4] except to the extent that he is specially authorized to do so,[5] and except in a case of necessity, as discussed infra subdivision b of this section, and, if he sells without such special authority or such necessity, he may be personally liable to the shippers,[6] and must account therefor to them,[7] or the owners of the vessel may be held liable,[8] or both the master and owners,[9] or the vessel[10] may be held liable for the value of the goods so sold. Furthermore, the sale is invalid and confers no title on the purchaser,[11] unless ratified by the owner.[12]

b. In Case of Necessity

The master of a vessel not only has authority, but it is also his duty, to sell or jettison the cargo or any part thereof when it becomes necessary for him to do so for the best interests of all concerned, but he must act in good faith, and must be unable to communicate with the owners before the necessity for action becomes imperative.

It is a well settled rule that the master of a vessel not only has authority, but it is also his duty, to sell the cargo or any part thereof when it becomes necessary for him to do so for the best interests of all

95. U.S.—The Henry, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Cas.No 6,372, 1 Blatchf. & H. 465.
58 C.J. p 277 note 13.

96. U.S.—The Henry, supra.
58 C.J. p 277 note 14.

97. U.S.—The Henry, supra.
58 C.J. p 277 note 15.

Consulting surveyors

With a view to the sale of a vessel, a survey, that is, a precedent examination by competent surveyors and their report stating the condition of the vessel and advising a sale, affords authentic evidence to guide the master, but does not bind him to sell, or, of itself, justify a sale. It is an important element in the proofs, in determining the character of the emergency and, especially, the good faith of the master. It should be deliberately made and precede the action of the master. The report should be sworn if an oath can be legally administered at the place of survey. It is not a fixed rule that all proceedings of the surveyors shall be under oath, but such a formality adds to the weight and credit of their decision. A paper signed but not subscribed or sworn until after the sale, signed by persons who were not asked to the vessel to act as surveyors, who made no joint examination of her, did not consult with a view to a report or individually inspect the vessel in such a way as to enable them to form a sound opinion as to her condition, is defective.—The Henry, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Cas.No 6,372, 1 Blatchf. & H. 465.—58 C.J. p 277 note 15 [b].

98. Mass.—Brightman v. Eddy, 97 Mass. 478.

99. Mass.—Brightman v. Eddy, supra.

1. U.S.—Harrison v. The Susan Ludwig, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Cas.No.6,145a. Mass.—Brightman v. Eddy, 97 Mass 478.

2. U.S.—The Henry, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Cas.No 6,372, 1 Blatchf. & H. 465.
58 C.J. p 277 note 19.

3. U.S.—The Sarah Ann, Mass., 13 Pet 387, 10 L.Ed. 213.—The Henry, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Cas.No 6,372, 1 Blatchf. & H. 465.

4. Tex.—Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex 109
58 C.J. p 277 note 27.

Authority as to:
Cargo in general see supra § 63.
Hypothecation of cargo see infra § 91.

Acceptance short of port of delivery

(1) The master is not authorized to accept the cargo on behalf of its owner short of the port of delivery.—The Ann D. Richardson, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Cas.No.410, Abb.Adm. 499.

(2) Laying claim to the proceeds of a sale of a cargo made by the master at an intermediate port, or the bringing suit for such proceeds, does not amount, in law, to a voluntary acceptance of the cargo, or to a ratification of the act of the master in breaking up the voyage.—The Ann D. Richardson, supra.

5. Mass.—Peters v. Ballistier, 3 Pick 495
58 C.J. p 277 note 28

6. U.S.—Pope v. Nickerson, C.C. Mass., 19 F.Cas.No 11,274, 3 Story 465
58 C.J. p 278 note 30

7. Conn.—Redfield v. Davis, 6 Conn. 439
58 C.J. p 278 note 31.

8. Pa.—Myers v. Baymore, 10 Pa. 114, 49 Am.D. 586.
58 C.J. p 278 note 32.

9. U.S.—The Ponce, N.Y., 178 F. 76, 103 C.C.A. 346.

10. U.S.—Myers v. The Harriet, D.C. Pa., 17 F.Cas.No 9,992
58 C.J. p 278 note 34.

11. N.Y.—Saltus v. Everett, 20 Wend. 267, 32 Am.D. 541.
58 C.J. p 278 note 35.

12. Tex.—Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex. 109.
58 C.J. p 278 note 36.

concerned;[13] but he must act in good faith in making the sale,[14] and must be unable to communicate with the owners before the necessity for action becomes imperative,[15] and in order to effect such communication he is bound to use every available means within his power.[16] The master may also, in case of urgent necessity, throw overboard or otherwise sacrifice his cargo to obtain the release of his distressed vessel,[17] but he has no right to give it away for such a purpose.[18]

Wrecked or disabled vessel. It has been held that it becomes the duty of the master to exercise all reasonable efforts to have the cargo stored or transshipped and conveyed to its destination, where the vessel becomes disabled,[19] as in the case of stranding,[20] injury from tempestuous weather,[21] or wreck,[22] or disease, disabling the crew;[23] and as a general rule the master has no authority, under such circumstances, except in case of necessity, to sell any part of the cargo at an intermediate port to which the vessel is driven.[24] So, if the master breaks up the voyage at an intermediate port, he has no authority to sell any part of the cargo to pay for advances made to him in order to repair for a new voyage,[25] or to pay seamen's wages.[26] Where, however, a vessel has become unable to proceed on her voyage without repairs or supplies and the master is otherwise unable to raise funds to procure them, he may, if he acts in good faith, sell as much of the cargo as may be necessary to put him in funds to make repairs[27] or obtain the necessary supplies;[28] but before selling any of the cargo, the master should avail himself of all reasonable means to raise funds otherwise for such purposes,[29] and the sale is not justified if it is made without his attempting to raise funds by hypothecation of the vessel,[30] or by maritime contract.[31] The master may also be justified, where his vessel is in a port of distress, in selling as much of the cargo as is of a perishable nature and damaged;[32] or where the vessel is in need of repairs, and the delay for repairs will be longer than is consistent with the preservation of that part of the cargo which is perishable,[33] and it cannot be reshipped to its port of destination except at a ruinous expense,[34] or ruinous loss in value.[35] The above rules have no application to a wreck in a distant ocean where the property is derelict or about to become so.[36]

c. At Port of Destination

Where a cargo has reached its port of destination, the master ordinarily has no authority to sell any part of it unless he is specially authorized to do so, or unless it is of a perishable nature and the consignee refuses to receive it and it cannot be readily stored in a suitable place to preserve it.

Where a cargo has reached its port of destination, the master ordinarily has no authority to sell any part of it,[37] unless he is specially authorized to do so,[38] as where it is consigned to him for sale,[39] or unless it is of a perishable nature, and the consignees refuse to receive it, and it cannot be readily stored in a suitable place to preserve it.[40] Where a master with authority to sell the goods on arrival at the port of destination has unsuccessfully used

13. U.S.—The Ann D. Richardson, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Cas.No.410, Abb.Adm. 499
58 C.J. p 278 note 39.
Right to sell damaged cargo see infra § 149
14. N.Y.—Butler v. Murray, 30 N.Y. 88, 86 Am.D. 355.
58 C.J. p 278 note 40.
15. U.S.—The Bridgewater, D.C. Mich., 4 F.Cas.No.1,864.
58 C.J. p 278 note 41.
16. Me.—Pike v. Balch, 38 Me. 302, 61 Am.D. 248.
58 C.J. p 279 note 42.
17. U.S.—The Albany, D.C.Mich., 44 F. 431.
Jettison of cargo in general see infra § 128.
18. U.S.—The Albany, supra.
58 C.J. p 279 note 44.
19. U.S.—The Bridgewater, D.C. Mich., 4 F.Cas.No.1,864.
58 C.J. p 279 notes 49-52.
Right and duty of master to transship and forward cargo generally see infra § 115.
20. U.S.—The Bridgewater, supra.
58 C.J. p 279 note 49.
21. S.C.—Halwerson v. Cole, 28 S.C.L. 321, 40 Am.D. 603.
22. Mass.—Bryant v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 6 Pick. 131, 13 Pick. 543.
58 C.J. p 279 note 51.
23. U.S.—Maas v. Pedee, 15 F.Cas. No.8,652.
24. U.S.—Watt v. Potter, C.C.R.I., 29 F.Cas.No.17,291, 2 Mason 77.
58 C.J. p 279 notes 51 [a], 54.
25. U.S.—Watt v. Potter, supra.
26. U.S.—Watt v. Potter, supra.
27. U.S.—Joy v. Allen, C.C.Mass., 13 F.Cas.No.7,552, 2 Woodb. & M. 303
58 C.J. p 279 note 57.
28. Mass.—Babcock v. Terry, 97 Mass. 482.
58 C.J. p 279 note 58.
29. U.S.—The Harriet, D.C.Pa., 11 F.Cas.No.6,094
58 C.J. p 279 note 59.
30. U.S.—Myers v. The Harriet, D.C.Pa., 17 F.Cas.No.9,992.
31. U.S.—Myers v. The Harriet, supra.
32. La.—Robertson v. Western Marine, etc., Ins. Co., 19 La. 227, 36 Am.D. 673
58 C.J. p 280 note 62.
Duty of carrier as to damaged cargo see infra § 149.
33. U.S.—The Velona, D.C.Mass., 28 F.Cas.No.16,912, 3 Ware 139.
34. U.S.—Hooper v. Rathbone, C.C. Md., 12 F.Cas.No.6,676, Taney 519.
35. N.Y.—Butler v. Murray, 30 N.Y. 88, 86 Am.D. 355
58 C.J. p 280 note 65.
36. U.S.—Post v. Jones, N.Y., 19 How. 150, 15 L.Ed. 618.
58 C.J. p 280 note 66.
37. N.Y.—United Ins. Co. v. Scott, 1 Johns 106.
58 C.J. p 280 note 67.
38. Me.—Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am.D. 621.
58 C.J. p 280 note 68.
39. Md.—Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am.D. 316.
40. U.S.—The Maria White, D.C.Me., 16 F.Cas.No.9,083, 1 Hask. 204.
58 C.J. p 280 note 70.

all reasonable efforts to effect a sale, and is under the necessity of leaving port with his vessel, he is justified in committing the goods to a responsible merchant for sale.[41]

§ 67. Individual Rights and Privileges

The individual rights and privileges of the master of a vessel in the voyage or its results ordinarily depend on the terms of his agreement with the owners.

The individual rights and privileges of the master of a vessel in the voyage or its results ordinarily depend on the terms of his agreement with the owners.[42] He may be given a right or privilege to traffic on his own account,[43] but, unless expressly given, the master cannot exercise a right or privilege which is inconsistent with his agency.[44] A master has no right to take any member of his family on the voyage free of charge, without a distinct understanding to that effect with the owners.[45]

Rights as to freight. The master controls the earnings of the ship.[46] The freight money, or its equivalent, on a cargo generally belongs to the owners of the vessel and not to the master;[47] but the owners cannot enforce the payment of freight against the shippers until the demands of the master thereon are satisfied.[48] Where by the shipping papers the master is made directly responsible to the seamen for their wages, he may retain freight to indemnify himself.[49]

§ 68. Wages and Other Remuneration

a. In general
b. Extra compensation
c. Forfeitures and deductions
d. Wreck or capture of vessel
e. Persons liable
f. Primage
g. Reimbursement for personal expenses

a. In General

The master's right to compensation, the term for which he is entitled to compensation, and the amount and manner of payment depend on the terms of his contract as construed with the custom or usage existing at the place of employment and on his proper performance of his services thereunder.

A master's right to compensation, whether in the form of wages[50] or commissions,[51] the term for which he is entitled to compensation,[52] and the amount and manner of payment[53] depend on the terms of his contract as construed with the custom or usage existing at the place of employment,[54] and on his proper performance of his services

41. Me.—Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am.D 621.
58 C.J. p 280 note 71.

42. Pa.—Fleming v. Bevan, 2 Pa. 408.
58 C.J. p 280 note 73
Insurable interest of master see Insurance § 217 d.
Master sailing vessel on shares see supra § 55.
Rights as to primage see infra § 68 f.

43. U.S.—Mathewson v. Clarke, R.I., 6 How. 122, 12 L.Ed. 370.
58 C.J. p 280 note 74.

44. N.Y.—Roorbach v. North River Steamboat Co., 6 Johns.Ch. 469.
58 C J. p 280 note 75.

45. U.S —Marshall v. Crawford, D.C Cal , 16 F Cas.No 9,126, 4 Sawy. 37 —Winsor v. Sampson, D C Mass., 30 F.Cas No.17,888, 1 Sprague, 548.

46. U.S —Wandtke v. Anderson, C.C A.Cal , 74 F.2d 381—The Balsa, C C.A Pa , 10 F.2d 408.

47. S.C —Fitzpatrick v. Smith, 1 S. C.Eq. 340
58 C.J. p 280 note 77.

48. Mass —Lane v. Penniman, 4 Mass. 91.
58 C.J. p 281 note 78.

49. Mass.—Goodridge v. Lord, 10 Mass. 483.

50. Me —Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302.
58 C.J. p 281 note 81.
Accounting for moneys received as condition precedent to claiming wages see supra § 61.
Compensation of master who takes share of proceeds or profits see supra § 55.

51. U.S —Babcock v. Terry, D.C. Mass., 1 F.Cas.No.702, 1 Lowell 66.
58 C.J. p 281 note 82.

52. U.S.—Kells v. Boyd, C.C.La., 31 F. 621.
58 C.J. p 281 note 83.

53. Mass.—Stanwood v. Flagg, 98 Mass. 124.
58 C J. p 281 note 84.

Contract between employer and union

(1) Lighter captain, employed by tug and barge company, could not recover overtime and subsistence allegedly due under agreement between union of masters, mates, and pilots and company on ground of agency where, at time of contract between company and union, none of company's employees was a member of the union.—Shelley v. Portland Tug & Barge Co., 76 P 2d 477, 158 Or. 377.

(2) Thus, employee could not recover where there was no evidence that agreement was ever considered as part of employment contract of employee who became member of union only after he left employ of company, and whose original contract with company was not changed after execution of agreement between company and the union —Shelley v. Portland Tug & Barge Co, supra.

(3) Contract between union and company was unenforceable by employee because of failure of consideration, where, at time of contract, none of employees of company were members of the trade union, since, under such circumstance, the union had no power to carry out any of its promises and company received nothing in return for its promise —Shelley v. Portland Tug & Barge Co, supra.

Interest

Captain of ship, whose wages were fixed and were owing, was entitled to interest on his claim for wages against fund arising out of sale of ship —The Atlanta, D.C.Ga., 82 F. Supp. 218.

54. Conn.—Smith v. Lawrence, 26 Conn. 468.
58 C.J. p 281 note 86.
Contract of employment see supra § 57 b.

Subsistence

Where it is customary for the officers and crew to be furnished subsistence when a vessel is in commission, and that necessarily enters into compensation for services, a person employed as master of a yacht, which was laid up in her home port and which did not have a cook on board, no stores being furnished by the owner, was entitled to an allowance for his meals.—Burdine v. Walden, C.C.A. Fla., 91 F.2d 321.

thereunder.[55] The master may apply the earnings of the ship to the discharge of the ship's indebtedness to him for his wages.[56] Unless his contract stipulates to the contrary, a master is entitled to his wages during the time the vessel is detained without his fault;[57] but he is not entitled to wages as such for time subsequent to his actually ceasing to serve as master,[58] and, when he is discharged in a foreign port, he is not entitled to wages for the period occupied in returning to the port of his employment,[59] unless there is a stipulation in his contract therefor.[60] Even though the shipowner breaches the master's contract of employment by putting another in command, it is the duty of the ousted master to minimize his damages by continuing to serve on the ship in some other capacity or in seeking some other employment.[61]

b. Extra Compensation

The master is entitled to extra compensation for services rendered out of the line of his duties, but not for services which are within the line of his duties as master.

As a general rule, the master is entitled to extra compensation for services rendered out of the line of his duties,[62] as where his vessel is lost he is entitled on a quantum meruit for services rendered in saving and transmitting the funds or proceeds of the vessel to the owners;[63] but he is not entitled to extra compensation for services which are within the line of his duties as master.[64] Under some statutes it has been held that a master is entitled to extra wages if there is a delay in the payment of his wages without sufficient cause.[65]

c. Forfeitures and Deductions

A master guilty of negligence, fraud, absence from the vessel, or change of voyage contrary to instructions resulting in serious damage or loss to the owner forfeits his wages; or the owners may deduct or offset the damages actually sustained.

Where serious damage or loss results to the owner, a master forfeits his right to wages on being guilty of negligence,[66] fraud,[67] absence from the vessel,[68] or change of voyage contrary to instruction,[69] but, where negligence or misconduct of the master does not cause serious injury or inconvenience to the owner, it does not effect a forfeiture of his wages,[70] although in such a case the owners may be entitled to deduct or offset the damages actually sustained against the wages due to the master.[71] A master will not incur the penalty of a forfeiture of his wages by a mere error in judgment,[72] although it results in a loss.[73]

55. U.S.—Black v. People's Coal Co., D.C.Pa., 180 F. 318.
58 C.J. p 281 note 87.

56. U.S.—Wandtke v. Anderson, C.C.A.Cal., 74 F.2d 381—The Balsa, C.C.A.Pa., 10 F.2d 408.

57. Ga.—Swift v. Tatner, 15 S.E. 842, 89 Ga. 660, 32 Am.S.R. 101.

58. Va.—Edwards Co. v. Deihl, 169 S.E. 907, 160 Va. 587.
58 C.J. p 281 note 89.

Unearned wages and subsistence
In proceeding by master of yacht to enforce his statutory lien for wages brought after yacht was sold by employer to buyer taking with notice of master's claim, master could recover for wages and subsistence for time he was actually employed on boat less amount paid on account, but could not recover for unearned wages and subsistence, notwithstanding failure to pay master may have involved a breach of contract on part of employer—Burdine v. Walden, C.C.A.Fla., 91 F.2d 321.

Resignation
Captain of fishing boat with limited authority could not recover on employment contract as for discharge after resignation on employer's refusal to discharge engineer.—Andrus v. Alaska Pacific Salmon Corporation, D.C.Wash., 46 F.2d 567.

59. U.S.—The Ancaios, D.C.Or., 170 F. 106—Lombard SS. Co. v. Anderson, Md., 134 F. 568, 67 C.C.A. 432
Expenses of return trip see infra subdivision g of this section.

60. U.S.—Lombard SS. Co. v. Anderson, supra.
Md.—Pawson v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. 1, 19 Am.D. 213.

61. U.S.—The Aguia, D.C.S.C., 72 F. Supp. 201.

62. U.S.—String v. Hill, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Cas.No.13,535, 1 Crabbe 454.
58 C.J. p 281 note 93.

63. Me.—McGilvery v. Stackpole, 38 Me. 283, 61 Am.D. 245.
58 C.J. p 282 note 94.

64. U.S.—Bartlette v. The Viola, D.C.Minn., 2 F.Cas.No.1,083.
58 C.J. p 282 note 95.

65. U.S.—The Wexford, D.C.N.Y., 7 F. 674.
58 C.J. p 282 note 96.

Master held not entitled to double wages under federal statute relating to payment of double wages where payment to seamen is delayed.—Burdine v. Walden, C.C.A.Fla., 91 F.2d 321.

66. U.S.—The Carlotta, D.C.N.Y., 30 F. 378.
58 C.J. p 282 note 98.

67. U.S.—Hansen v. Barnard, C.C.A.N.Y., 270 F. 163.
58 C.J. p 282 note 2.

Master's fraudulent failure to report all receipts works forfeiture of right to compensation.—Higbee v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 921.

Application of vacation bonus against shortage
Where shipowner discovered discrepancy in master's accounts in foreign country, master made no attempt to explain, and employment was at will, owner could discharge master and retain his vacation bonus to apply against shortage without becoming liable for wages or subsistence on theory of wrongful discharge.—Higbee v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., supra.

68. U.S.—Black v. People's Coal Co., D.C.Pa., 180 F. 318.
58 C.J. p 282 note 11.

69. U.S.—Robinson v. Hinckley, C.C.N.Y., 20 F.Cas.No.11,954, 2 Paine 457.
N.Y.—Codwise v. Hacker, 1 Cai. 526.

70. Me.—Freeman v. Walker, 6 Me. 68.
58 C.J. p 282 note 4.

71. U.S.—Willard v. Dorr, C.C.Mass., 29 F.Cas.No.17,680, 3 Mason 161.
58 C.J. p 282 note 5.

72. U.S.—Marshall v. Crawford, D.C.Cal., 16 F.Cas.No.9,126, 4 Sawy. 37.
58 C.J. p 282 note 6.

73. U.S.—Marshall v. Crawford, supra.

d. Wreck or Capture of Vessel

As a general rule, a master's wages as such cease from the time the vessel and cargo pass out of his hands on the vessel's becoming wrecked or captured, but he may recover for wages which were earned before the loss and for the value of his services in recovering the vessel or disposing of it to the best advantage.

As a general rule, a master's wages as such cease from the time the vessel and cargo pass out of his hands on the vessel's becoming wrecked[74] or captured;[75] but he may recover for wages which were earned before the loss.[76] Moreover, it has been held that after such wreck or capture of the vessel, a new duty devolves on the master which does not cease until the proceeds are placed at the owner's disposal, and he is entitled to a quantum meruit for his services, in the exercise of a sound discretion, in recovering the vessel[77] or disposing of it to the best advantage.[78]

e. Persons Liable

Ordinarily the person liable for a master's wages and disbursements is the person who employs him or whose agent he is.

Ordinarily, the person liable for a master's wages and disbursements is the person who employs him[79] If he is employed by the owners of a chartered vessel, he cannot recover for his services from the charterer,[80] although the latter is required by the charter party to pay a certain sum per month as the master's wages.[81] The master of a stranded vessel who remains with her does so as agent of whomsoever may ultimately be determined to be her owner in consequence of that event, and is entitled to recover wages for such services from such person.[82]

f. Primage

Primage, which is compensation to the master for his particular care of the goods, formerly belonged by custom or usage to the master for his own use, but now it seems that primage belongs to the owners or freighters, and is no longer a gratuity to the master unless expressly so stipulated.

Primage, which is compensation to the master for his particular care of the goods[83] or a small payment to the master for his care and trouble,[84] formerly belonged, by custom or usage, to the master for his own use,[85] unless he otherwise agreed with the owners[86] The later rule, however, seems to be that primage belongs to the owners[87] or freighters[88] and is but an increase of the freight[89] and is no longer a gratuity to the master unless expressly so stipulated.[90]

g. Reimbursement of Personal Expenses

A master is entitled to reimbursement or indemnity for all expenses or liabilities incurred by him in the line of his duties as agent of the owners or shippers, but not for expenses and liabilities incurred by him not in the line of his duties as master, or when he obligates himself personally.

A master is entitled to reimbursement or indemnity for all expenses or liabilities incurred by him in the line of his duties as agent of the owners[91] or shippers.[92] So, when in the service of the vessel the master incurs sickness or injury, he is entitled to the expenses of his cure[93] and maintenance.[94] He is not entitled, however, to reimbursement for expenses and liabilities incurred by him not in the line of his duties as master,[95] or contrary to the owner's instructions,[96] or when he obligates himself personally.[97] The master is also entitled to expenses incurred by him in going from the place at which he is employed to the place where

74. Me.—Duncan v. Reed, 39 Me. 415, 63 Am D. 635—McGilvery v. Stackpole, 38 Me. 283, 61 Am D. 245.

75. Mass.—Arfridson v. Ladd, 12 Mass. 173.
58 C.J. p 282 note 13.

76. Mass.—Moore v. Jones, 15 Mass. 424.
N.C.—Ferguson v. Fitt, 1 N.C. 239.

77. Conn.—Smith v. Gilbert, 4 Day 105.

78. Me.—Duncan v. Reed, 39 Me. 415, 63 Am D. 635.

79. La.—Hynes v. Kirkman, 4 La 47.
58 C.J. p 283 note 18.

80. Mass.—McGilvrey v. Capen, 7 Gray 523.

81. Mass.—McGilvrey v. Capen, supra.

82. U.S.—Hume v. Frenz, Cal., 150 F. 502, 80 C.C.A. 320.
58 C.J. p 283 note 21.

83. La.—Blake v Morgan, 3 Mart 375.

84. Md.—Peters v. Speights, 4 Md. Ch. 375.

85. Md.—Peters v. Speights, supra.
58 C.J. p 283 note 23.

86. Md.—Peters v. Speights, supra.
58 C.J. p 283 note 24.

87. U.S.—Carr v Austin, etc., R. Co., C.C.Tex., 14 F. 419, 4 Woods 327.

88. U.S.—Carr v. Austin, etc., R. Co., supra.

89. U.S.—Carr v. Austin, etc., R. Co., supra.

90. U.S.—Carr v. Austin, etc., R. Co., supra.
58 C.J. p 283 note 28.

91. U.S.—Winsor v. Sampson, D.C. Mass., 30 F.Cas.No.17,888, 1 Sprague 548.
58 C.J. p 283 note 29.

92. Me.—Henderson v. Sevey, 2 Me. 139.
58 C.J. p 283 note 30.

93. U.S.—Van Lier v. Dord, D.C.N.Y., 28 F.Cas.No 16,862.
Me.—Duncan v. Reed, 39 Me. 415, 63 Am D. 635.

94. U.S.—The E. H. Russell, D.C.N.Y., 42 F.2d 568.
58 C.J. p 283 note 32.
Maintenance and cure of disabled seamen generally see Seamen §§ 172–187.

95. La.—Barker v. York, 3 La.Ann. 90.
58 C.J. p 284 note 33.

96. Mass.—Rennell v. Kimball, 5 Allen 356

97. U.S.—The Ft. Gaines, D.C.Md., 24 F.2d 438.

he is to take charge of his vessel;[98] but in case of a discharge or other termination of his relation in a foreign port, he is not entitled to the expenses of a return trip,[99] unless his contract of employment so stipulates.[1]

§ 69. —— Liens for Wages and Disbursements

a. Liens for wages
b. Liens for disbursements and damages
c. What law governs
d. Priorities
e. Loss of lien

a. Liens for Wages

A master is not entitled to a lien for his wages on the vessel or on goods consigned to his owners unless he contracts to render the services on the credit of the vessel or unless such a lien is given by statute.

As a general rule, the presumption is that the master of a vessel trusts to the personal credit of the owners for his wages,[2] and he is not entitled to a lien therefor on the vessel,[3] or on goods consigned to his owners,[4] unless he contracts to render the services on the credit of the vessel,[5] or unless such a lien is given by statute.[6] Further, in the absence of contractual or statutory provision therefor, it has been held that the master has no lien for his wages on the freight.[7]

b. Liens for Disbursements and Damages

The master of a vessel who has made necessary advances or disbursements from his own funds for expenses and liabilities incurred during the voyage has a lien therefor on the vessel, and freight, and cargo, which may be enforced after the return of the vessel to her home port.

As a general rule, the master of a vessel, who has made necessary advances or disbursements from his own funds for expenses and liabilities incurred during the voyage, has, at common law, and in some jurisdictions by statute, a lien therefor on the vessel,[8] and freight,[9] and cargo,[10] which may be enforced after the return of the vessel to her home port.[11] A master has no lien on the vessel for unliquidated damages for a breach of his contract of employment.[12]

c. What Law Governs

As a general rule, a master's rights relative to his

98. Me.—Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302.

99. U.S.—The Ancaios, D.C.Or., 170 F. 106.
58 C.J. p 284 note 38.
Wages for period occupied in returning to port of employment see supra subdivision a of this section

1. U.S.—Lombard SS. Co v. Anderson, Md., 134 F. 568, 67 C.C.A. 432
58 C.J. p 284 note 39.

2. U.S.—McDowell v. The Lena Mowbray, D.C.Ala., 71 F. 720
Lien of seamen see Seamen §§ 140–152
Maritime liens in general see Maritime Liens § 1 et seq

3. U.S.—The Maret, C.C.A.Virgin Islands, 145 F.2d 431—Burdine v. Walden, C.C.A.Fla., 91 F.2d 321—Woolsey v. The Amiga Mia, D.C.La., 90 F.Supp 228, affirmed, C.A., Walker v Woolsey, 186 F.2d 920—The Atlanta, D.C.Ga., 82 F.Supp 218—The Odysseus III, D.C.Fla., 77 F.Supp. 297—The Aguia, D.C.S.C., 72 F.Supp 201—The Evansville, D.C.Tex., 13 F.Supp. 555.
58 C.J. p 284 note 42.

Master as representative of owner
"Under the law the master is the representative of the owner and he is not in a position to claim a lien upon the very property which he is holding in a representative capacity." —The Herbert L. Rawding, D.C.S.C., 55 F.Supp. 156, 160.

Master performing duties of seaman
(1) Although a true master has no maritime lien for wages, a person who was employed to service motorboat and who constituted both captain and crew was entitled to claim lien.—Swift v. Knowles, C.C.A.Fla., 100 F.2d 977.

(2) Master was not entitled to a seaman's lien for wages on theory that he was required to perform duties of a seaman in conformity with maritime regulation and to preserve the security and safety of the vessel because of insufficient personnel.—U.S. v. The Pomare, D.C.Hawaii, 92 F. Supp. 185.

(3) Master of vessel was not entitled to lien for his services because he was also to act as radio operator, where he merely inspected radio equipment and never operated it.—Vlavianos v. The Cypress, C.A.Md., 171 F.2d 435, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 1168, 337 U.S. 924, 93 L.Ed. 1732, and Maryland Drydock Co. v. Vlavianos, 69 S.Ct. 1171, 337 U.S. 924, 93 L.Ed. 1732.

(4) Master could not be granted maritime lien for wages for period he remained aboard vessel while she lay in dock on theory that he was a caretaker rather than master and was entitled to compensation on basis of quantum meruit.—The Herbert L. Rawding, D.C.S.C., 55 F.Supp 156.

4. U.S.—Vowell v. Bacon, D.C., 28 F.Cas.No.17,018, 4 Cranch C.C. 97.

5. U.S.—Pond v. The Hattie Thomas, D.C.Conn., 59 F. 297.
La.—Radowitch v. Siewerd, 25 La.Ann 315.

6. U.S.—The Diane, D.C.Fla., 45 F.Supp 510
58 C.J. p 284 note 45.

Particular statutes construed
(1) As not to give a lien to a master of a vessel for his wages.—The Aguia, D.C.S.C., 72 F.Supp. 201.

(2) As to grant a lien only for amount earned for labor actually performed or services actually rendered, and not to cover wages for future services, although claimant might be entitled to recover them in a suit in personam.—Burdine v. Walden, C.C.A.Fla., 91 F.2d 321.

7. U.S.—Alabama Dry Dock & Shipbuilding Co v. Foster, C.C.A.Ala., 31 F.2d 394, disapproving The Arcturus, D.C.Ohio, 17 F. 95, Adams v. The Wyoming, D.C., 1 F.Cas.No. 71, 2 N.J.L.J. 275 and Drinkwater v. The Spartan, D.C.Me., 7 F.Cas. No.4,085, 1 Ware 145.
58 C.J. p 285 note 46.

8. U.S.—Gardner v. The New Jersey, D.C.Pa., 9 F.Cas.No.5,233, 1 Pet.Adm. 223
58 C.J. p 285 note 49.

9. U.S.—Drinkwater v. The Spartan, D.C.Me., 7 F.Cas.No.4,085, 1 Ware 145.
58 C.J. p 285 note 50.

10. Me.—Newhall v. Dunlap, 14 Me. 180, 31 Am.D. 45.
58 C.J. p 285 note 51.

11. N.Y.—Sturtevant v. Brewer, 17 N.Y.Super. 628.

12. U.S.—The Laurel, D.C.Wash., 113 F. 373.

lien for wages and disbursements are governed by the law of the country to which his vessel belongs.

As a general rule, a master's rights relative to his lien for wages and disbursements are governed by the law of the country to which his vessel belongs,[13] and, as discussed in Admiralty § 48, the admiralty courts of the United States will enforce a lien given by the law of such country, although in the particular case the master is not entitled to a lien under the laws of the United States; but, where the contract is made in a foreign port, in the absence of evidence as to the law there, the general maritime law of the forum will be presumed to control.[14]

d. Priorities

The master's lien for wages and disbursements, when recognized, has priority over all other claims against the vessel except claims for salvage, damages by collision, unpaid dock dues, and liens for seamen's wages.

In general the master's lien for wages and disbursements, when recognized, has priority over all other claims against the vessel,[15] except claims for salvage,[16] damages by collision,[17] unpaid dock dues,[18] and, as considered in Seamen § 149, liens for seamen's wages. Furthermore, as stated in Maritime Liens § 56 b, under a statute giving the master of a vessel the same lien for wages as seamen, under the maritime law, it would seem that the master's lien would take precedence next over the liens of the seamen; however, a claim for wages cannot be set up against a claim for which the master is personally responsible

As against holder of bottomry bond. A master's lien for wages or disbursements outranks claims of holders of bottomry bonds on which the master is not personally liable.[19]

e. Loss of Lien

A master's lien may be lost or waived by his acts inconsistent therewith.

A master's lien may be lost or waived by his acts inconsistent therewith,[20] as by his unreasonably delaying to enforce it,[21] or by his failing to pay for his stock in the company owning the vessel,[22] and it has been held that it may be waived by agreement.[23] Since a maritime lien, as discussed in Maritime Liens § 6, does not ordinarily depend on possession, a statutory lien is not lost when the master surrenders possession.[24]

§ 70. Liabilities of Master

a. In general
b For negligence or misconduct
c. Liability of either master or owner

a. In General

Generally the master of a vessel is personally liable on all contracts made by him relative to the ordinary employment of the vessel, unless he contracts on the owner's credit, or stipulates against his own liability, or unless the person furnishing the supplies has funds of the owner in his hands sufficient to pay therefor.

As a general rule, the master of a vessel is personally liable on all contracts made by him relative to the ordinary employment of the vessel,[25] as for necessary supplies[26] or repairs,[27] unless he contracts on the owner's credit,[28] or stipulates against his own liability,[29] or unless the person furnishing the supplies has funds of the owner in his hands sufficient to pay therefor.[30] Where a master acts as bailee of certain articles, he is not liable for their loss if he uses ordinary care in keeping them.[31] As

13. U.S.—The Atlanta, D C.Ga., 82 F Supp. 218.
58 C.J. p 286 note 54, p 289 note 18 [a].

14. U S.—Howard v. The Georgia, D. C.N.Y., 46 F. 669.

15. U.S.—Drinkwater v. The Spartan, D C.Me., 7 F.Cas No.4,085, 1 Ware 145.
58 C.J. p 286 note 58.
Priority of maritime liens in general see Maritime Liens §§ 50–60

16. Eng.—The Panthea, 1 Aspin. 133
Claim for salvage as taking precedence of prior maritime liens generally see Maritime Liens § 56 c.

17. U S.—The Pride of the Ocean, D C N.Y., 7 F. 247.
58 C.J. p 286 note 60.

18. Eng.—The Emilie Millon, [1905] 2 K.B. 817.

19. U.S.—The Felice B, D C.N.Y., 40 F. 353—The Irma, D C.N.Y., 13 F.Cas.No.7,064, 6 Ben. 1.
Bottomry bonds generally see infra §§ 88–100.

20. U.S.—The Short Cut, D C.Pa., 6 F. 630.
58 C J p 287 note 74.

21. U.S.—The Ft. Gaines, D.C.Md., 24 F 2d 438.
58 C.J. p 287 note 75.

22. U S.—The Short Cut, D.C Pa., 6 F. 630.
58 C.J p 287 note 76.

23. U.S.—The Countess of Dufferin, D.C N.Y., 6 F.Cas No.3,280, 10 Ben 155.

24. U.S.—Burdine v. Walden, C.C.A. Fla., 91 F.2d 321.
Sale to buyer charged with knowledge
State statute, providing that there shall be no lien on personalty against buyers without notice unless person claiming lien be in possession of property on which lien is claimed, did not apply so as to defeat lien of master of yacht for his services which was authorized under state statute, where yacht was sold to a buyer who was charged with knowledge that master had been employed and had not been paid for his services while boat belonged to seller.—Burdine v. Walden, supra.

25. U S.—Fox v. Holt, D.C., 9 F Cas No 5,012, 4 Ben 278, 36 Conn. 558
58 C.J. p 287 note 79.
Liability of master for wages of seamen see Seamen, § 124

26. La.—Henshaw v Rollins, 5 La. 335, 25 Am D 180

27. La.—Mead v. Buckner, 2 La 282.
58 C J. p 287 note 81.

28. S.C.—Stocker v. Corlett, 5 S.C.L. 236.
Tex.—Sydnor v. Hurd, 8 Tex 98.

29. Tex.—Sydnor v. Hurd, supra.

30. N.C.—Bissell v. Boznam, 17 N.C. 229.
58 C.J. p 287 note 84.

31. N.C.—Pender v. Robbins, 51 N. C. 207.

against the master of the ship, the right of the consignee or transferee to rely on the recitals of the bill of lading as to quantity of goods received depends on his having paid for such quantity of goods by reason of recitals in the bill itself.[32]

b. For Negligence or Misconduct

(1) In general
(2) For acts of subordinates

(1) In General

It is the duty of a master to use reasonable skill, care, and diligence in the performance of his duties, and, if he does so, he is not liable to his owners for losses arising from unavoidable accidents; but he is personally liable for damages occasioned by his negligence or misconduct.

It is the duty of a master to use reasonable skill, care, and diligence in the performance of his duties,[33] and if he does so, he is not liable to his owners for losses arising from unavoidable accidents,[34] mere errors of judgment,[35] or failure of success.[36] A master may be held for lack of seamanship only where his conduct is outside the range of possible discretion.[37] The master, however, is responsible civilly[38] and, under some statutes, criminally,[39] for any misconduct or negligence on his part. Thus, he is personally liable for damages occasioned by his negligence or misconduct to passengers,[40] third persons on or about his vessel,[41] or to his owners.[42] A master is also liable for damages caused by his negligence or misconduct to shippers,[43] as where he fails or refuses to deliver any part of the cargo in accordance with the bill of lading pertaining thereto;[44] but he is not so liable if he exercises proper care and diligence in receiving and caring for the cargo.[45] Under a statute making the master liable for the debts of any passenger taken out of the country without a passport, the master is liable even though the passenger subsequently returns to the country.[46] The master is not entirely absolved of responsibility with respect to navigation when a compulsory pilot is in charge.[47]

Barratry. The master of a ship, who commits, in his character of master, an act for an unlawful or fraudulent purpose, to the injury of the owner of the ship, is guilty of the offense of barratry;[48] in order to constitute barratry, the act of the master or mariners must be against the owners of the ship.[49]

(2) For Acts of Subordinates

The master of a vessel ordinarily is liable for the acts of all persons under, or supposed to be under, his command while engaged about their ordinary duties as subordinate officers of the vessel or as seamen; and this rule applies to acts of a pilot under the command of the master of the vessel.

Although it is said that the master of a vessel is not liable for the negligence of other ship's officers and crewmen where the master has used reasonable care in their selection, and has left the vessel in their charge under appropriate orders,[50] the master of a vessel ordinarily is liable for the acts of all persons under,[51] or supposed to be under,[52] his command while engaged about their ordinary duties as subordinate officers of the vessel or as seamen. Where a pilot is hired to accompany a vessel on a voyage, he is under the command of the master of the vessel, and the master is liable for his

32. Mass.—Hall v. Mayo, 7 Allen 454
10 C.J. p 195 note 66

33. Wash.—Corpus Juris cited in Ellingson v. American Mail Line, 211 P.2d 491, 492, 35 Wash.2d 129.
58 C.J. p 287 note 87
Liability of master for delay in, or deviation from, voyage see supra § 64.

34. U.S.—Dean v. Angus, Adm. Ct.Pa., 7 F.Cas.No.3,703, Bee 378.

35. U.S.—Dean v. Angus, supra.

36. U.S.—Dean v. Angus, supra.

37. U.S.—The Imoan, C.C.A.N.Y., 67 F.2d 603.

38. Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 19 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.
58 C.J. p 274 note 52.

39. Wash.—Corpus Juris quoted in Grays Harbor County v. The Brimanger, 19 P.2d 25, 29, 171 Wash. 396.
58 C.J. p 274 note 53.

40. La.—Keene v. Lizardi, 5 La. 431, 25 Am.D. 197
58 C.J. p 287 note 91.
Liability of master for personal injury to passengers generally see infra § 192.

41. Ala.—Rhodes v. Roberts, 1 Stew. 145.
58 C.J. p 288 note 92.

42. U.S.—Atkyns v. Burrows, D.C. Pa., 2 F.Cas.No.618, 1 Pet.Adm. 244
58 C.J. p 288 note 93.

43. U.S.—Knox v. The Ninetta, D.C. Pa., 14 F.Cas.No.7,912.
58 C.J. p 288 note 95.
Liability of master for sale or other disposition of cargo without authority see supra § 66.

44. U.S.—Stille v. Traverse, Pa., 23 F.Cas.No.13,444, 3 Wash.C.C. 43.
58 C.J. p 288 note 96

45. U.S.—Mepham v. Biesel, Mo., 9 Wall. 370, 19 L.Ed. 677.

N.Y.—Cheviot v. Brooks, 1 Johns. 364.

46. Hawaii.—Sawyer v. Paty, 1 Hawaii 251.

47. U.S.—Dampskibselskabet Atlanta A/S v. U.S., C.C.A.La., 31 F.2d 961.

48. U.S.—Hansen v. Barnard, C.C.A. N.Y., 270 F. 163.

49. U.S.—Intermondale Trading Co. v. North River Ins. Co. of N.Y., D.C.N.Y., 100 F.Supp. 128.

50. Wash.—Ellingson v. American Mail Line, 211 P.2d 491, 35 Wash. 2d 129.

51. U.S.—U.S. v. Farnham, C.C.N.Y., 25 F.Cas.No 15,071
Pa.—Corpus Juris cited in McConnell v. Williams, 65 A.2d 243, 246, 361 Pa. 355.
58 C.J. p 288 note 99.

52. N.Y.—Kennedy v. Ryall, 67 N.Y. 379.
58 C.J. p 288 note 1.

acts of negligence or misconduct while in the performance of his duties [53] The master is not ordinarily liable for his acts, however, where the authority of the master is entirely superseded by that of the pilot.[54] Thus, under the charter of a tug fully manned, the master of the tug is bound to follow orders of the charterer to take aboard a pilot who would navigate the tug, regardless of whether the charter amounted to a demise,[55] and, while the taking on of a pilot does not ordinarily divest the master of a ship of all his authority and thereby relieve him of the over-all responsibility for its navigation,[56] the rule is applicable to vessels sailing the high seas with officers and crews under the direction of the owner and not of the charterer,[57] and is not to be extended to include all vessels such as a tug whose master could be and was displaced by the charterer.[58] Where part of the cargo is lost by the negligence and misconduct of the crew, with the crew the master must contribute his proportionate part of the loss.[59]

c. Liability of Either Master or Owner

In maritime law the master, as well as the owners of a vessel, is liable as a common carrier, but the liability is several and not joint, and either may be sued or both may be sued simultaneously.

While in maritime law the master, as well as the owners of a vessel, is liable as a common carrier,[60] they are liable severally and not jointly,[61] and the master is liable only for reasonable care and diligence and the exercise of such skill as his position is supposed to require.[62] The rule seems to be well settled that persons contracting with a master in a foreign port for repairs to, or supplies for, his vessel have a double remedy against the master or the owners on the contract,[63] and they may sue either the master or the owners of the vessel or both simultaneously,[64] and in enforcing this double remedy they may proceed by separate actions against the owners or master in personam, or the vessel in rem, either simultaneously or at different periods.[65]

§ 71. Actions

a. Nature and form of remedy
b. Parties and pleading
c. Presumptions and burden of proof
d. Admissibility of evidence
e. Weight and sufficiency of evidence
f. Trial

a. Nature and Form of Remedy

A master's remedy for his wages and disbursements is ordinarily by an action in personam against the owners, and for improper discharge, an action at law for damages for breach of contract. The master may be sued in admiralty for damages caused by his wrongful acts, and actions of trover and on the case may be maintained under some circumstances.

A master's proper remedy for his wages and disbursements is ordinarily by an action in personam against the owners,[66] and he has no right to proceed in rem against the vessel therefor,[67] except where a lien on the vessel therefor is created by statute,[68] or by the law of the flag of the vessel.[69] A master who is improperly discharged cannot maintain a libel in admiralty to compel the owners to fulfill their contract with him,[70] but his proper

53. N.Y.—Denison v. Seymour, 9 Wend. 9.
58 C.J. p 288 note 3.
Liability of master for acts of negligence while pilot is aboard see supra subdivision b (1) of this section.

54. Mass.—Yates v. Brown, 8 Pick. 23.
58 C.J. p 289 note 4.

55. U.S.—Southern States Towing Lines v. Lee Transit Corp., C.C.A. N.Y., 144 F.2d 101.

56. U.S.—Southern States Towing Lines v. Lee Transit Corp., supra.

57. U.S.—Southern States Towing Lines v. Lee Transit Corp., supra.

58. U.S.—Southern States Towing Lines v. Lee Transit Corp., supra.

59. U.S.—Crammer v. The Fair American, D.C.Pa., 6 F.Cas.No.3,347, 1 Pet.Adm. 242.
58 C.J. p 289 note 6.

60. La.—Rochereau v. The Hausa, 14 La.Ann. 431.
58 C.J. p 289 note 7.
Liability of both master and owners for unauthorized act of master in selling or otherwise disposing of cargo see supra § 66.

61. S.C.—Patton v. Magrath, 24 S.C.L. 162, 33 Am.D. 98.
58 C.J. p 289 note 8.

62. U.S.—Bissell v. Mepham, C.C. Mo., 3 F.Cas.No.1,450, Woolw. 225, affirmed 9 Wall. 370, 19 L.Ed. 677

63. La.—Henshaw v. Rollins, 5 La. 335, 25 Am.D. 180.
58 C.J. p 289 note 10.

64. La.—Zacharie v. Kirk, 14 La. Ann. 433.

65. La.—Henshaw v. Rollins, 5 La. 335, 25 Am.D. 180.
58 C.J. p 289 note 13.
Joinder of proceeding in rem and in personam for same cause in admiralty see Admiralty § 75 b.

66. U.S.—Mitchell v. Kelsey, D.C.N.Y., 17 F.Cas.No.9,664.
58 C.J. p 289 note 15.
Actions on charter party see supra § 56.
Admiralty jurisdiction generally see Admiralty §§ 5–69
Prosecution under immigration laws see Aliens §§ 114–118

Interest held not recoverable where suit was not commenced until a lapse of some years, and it did not appear that any of the charges, except for the wages, rested on any particular contract.—Mitchell v. Kelsey, supra.

67. U.S.—The Evansville, D.C.Tex., 13 F.Supp. 555.
58 C.J. p 289 note 16.

68. U.S.—The William M. Hoag, Or., 18 S.Ct. 114, 168 U.S. 443, 42 L.Ed. 537—Whitney v. The Mary Gratwick, D.C.Cal., 29 F.Cas.No.17,591, 2 Sawy. 342.
Lien of master for wages or disbursements see supra § 69.

69. U.S.—The Felice B., D.C.N.Y., 40 F. 653
58 C.J. p 289 note 18.

70. U.S.—Montgomery v. Henry, Pa., 1 Dall. 49, 1 L.Ed. 32, 1 Am.D. 223.

remedy is an action at law for damages for the breach of the contract.[71]

The owners of a vessel may sue her master in admiralty for damages caused by his wrongful acts,[72] as may also a passenger who is injured thereby.[73] A master who has a lien on goods for his disbursements may maintain trover against one who converts the goods;[74] but trover will not lie against the master for cargo, unless the freight is paid or tendered or the payment thereof is waived,[75] or for goods which were lost so that they did not come to the use of the master,[76] but, where a master has received goods on board under a contract to deliver them at a certain port, and being with the shipper in a port short of the port of destination, there refuses to proceed with the goods to the port of destination, the master is answerable to the shipper in trover, or the latter might take the goods by replevin.[77] Where a master who is also part owner sells the cargo and receives the proceeds, another part owner of such cargo may maintain an action on the case against him for his share of the proceeds.[78]

b. Parties and Pleading

In actions relative to a master of a vessel, general rules governing civil actions and proceedings in admiralty apply with respect to the parties and pleading.

In actions relative to a master of a vessel, general rules governing civil actions and more particularly proceedings in admiralty apply with respect to the parties[79] and pleading.[80] As a general rule, a master has such a special interest in the vessel and cargo that he may sue in his own name for freight,[81] or to recover damages for the breach of a contract of affreightment,[82] or he may bring an action in his own name, either at law or in equity, against one who wrongfully interferes with the vessel or cargo.[83] A master may also file a claim in admiralty on behalf of the owners where they are absent.[84]

c. Presumptions and Burden of Proof

General rules relative to presumptions and burden of proof apply in actions growing out of the acts of a master of a vessel.

As a general rule, in actions growing out of the acts of a master of a vessel, the rules governing civil cases apply with respect to questions relative to presumptions[85] and burden of proof.[86] Thus, where the question of the validity of a sale by a master in a foreign port arises in an action with the purchaser at such sale, the burden of showing good faith in making the sale and the necessity therefor is on the purchaser of the vessel[87] or cargo.[88] So, in an action for supplies and repairs furnished to a vessel in a foreign port by order of the master, the burden of proof is on plaintiff to show that the articles furnished were necessaries to the extent at least of showing that they were what a reasonable and prudent owner would have bought.[89] It is incumbent on a lender of money to a master of a vessel, in an action against the owner, to show the necessity for the loan.[90] In an action by a master for wages, subsistence, and vacation bonus allegedly due by reason of wrongful discharge, the burden is on the master to prove his alleged contract for the duration of a voyage.[91]

d. Admissibility of Evidence

The admissibility of evidence in actions arising out of the acts of the master of a vessel is ordinarily regulated by the rules governing the admissibility of evidence in civil actions and by the rules in admiralty.

71. U.S.—Montgomery v. Henry, supra—Clayton v. The Eliza B. Emery, C.C.N.J., 4 F. 342.

72. U.S.—Dean v. Angus, Adm.Ct. Pa., 7 F.Cas.Nos.3,702, 3,703, Bee 369, 378.

73. U.S.—Chamberlain v. Chandler, C.C.Mass., 5 F.Cas.No.2,575, 3 Mason 242.
58 C.J. p. 290 note 22.

74. N.Y.—Ingersoll v. Van Bokkelin, 7 Cow. 670, reversed on other grounds 5 Wend. 315.
58 C.J. p. 290 note 24.

75. U.S.—Hodgson v. Woodhouse, D.C., 12 F.Cas.No.6,571, 1 Cranch C.C. 549.
N.Y.—Keyser v. Harbeck, 10 N.Y.Super. 373.

76. U.S.—Hodgson v. Woodhouse, D.C., 12 F.Cas.No.6,571, 1 Cranch C.C. 549.

77. Mass.—Portland Bank v. Stubbin, 6 Mass. 422, 4 Am.D. 151.

78. Me.—True v. McGilvery, 43 Me. 485.

79. N.Y.—Clendaniel v. Tuckerman, 17 Barb. 184.
58 C.J. p. 290 notes 30–33.

80. U.S.—The Serapis, D.C.N.Y., 37 F. 436.
58 C.J. p. 290 note 29.

81. Mass.—Manter v. Holmes, 10 Metc. 402.
58 C.J. p. 290 note 30.

82. U.S.—Disney v. Furness, D.C. Md., 79 F. 810.
N.Y.—Clendaniel v. Tuckerman, 17 Barb. 184.

83. Ga.—Tuells v. Torras, 39 S.E. 455, 113 Ga. 691.
58 C.J. p. 290 note 32.

84. U.S.—The Sally, C.C.Mass., 21 F.Cas.No.12,258, 1 Gall. 401.
58 C.J. p. 290 note 33.

85. U.S.—The Oceana, N.Y., 244 F. 80, 156 C.C.A. 508, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 13, 245 U.S. 656, 62 L.Ed. 533.
58 C.J. p. 290 note 34.

86. Wash.—Knutson v. Hansen, 251 P. 852, 141 Wash. 623.
58 C.J. p. 290 note 35.

87. U.S.—The Amelie, Mass., 6 Wall. 18, 18 L.Ed. 806—The Henry, D.C. N.Y., 11 F.Cas.No.6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465.

88. N.Y.—Saltus v. Everett, 20 Wend. 267, 32 Am.D. 541.

89. N.Y.—Ford v. Crocker, 48 Barb. 142.
58 C.J. p. 291 note 39.

90. U.S.—The Julia Blake, N.Y., 2 S.Ct. 692, 107 U.S. 418, 27 L.Ed. 595.
58 C.J. p. 291 note 40.

91. U.S.—Higbee v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 921.

The admissibility of evidence in actions arising out of the acts of the master of a vessel is ordinarily regulated by the rules governing the admissibility of evidence in civil actions generally, and by the rules in admiralty.[92] Where there is a sale of a stranded or disabled vessel or cargo by the master, evidence is admissible on the question of his good faith in making the sale and the necessity therefor, and of the facility with which the vessel was afterward rescued by the purchaser,[93] as is also evidence of a survey of the vessel,[94] and the fact of his taking advice from other competent persons.[95] The circumstance that the master believed at the time that he could get the stranded vessel off is admissible to show bad faith on his part,[96] but proof that the purchaser believed himself able to rescue the vessel can have no such effect.[97] The advice of surveyors is also competent evidence on the question of necessity for a sale of the cargo.[98]

e. Weight and Sufficiency of Evidence

The general rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence in civil actions apply in actions arising out of the acts of the master of a vessel.

The general rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence in civil actions generally apply in actions arising out of the acts of the master of a vessel.[99] Thus, in an action by a master for wages, subsistence, and vacation bonus allegedly due by reason of wrongful discharge, the contract of employment must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence.[1] Where supplies are sold and delivered to one as master of a vessel and the registry contains the names of the owners with such person as master, the owners are prima facie liable in the absence of any proof qualifying the master's authority.[2] A survey taken to enable the master to decide whether or not to sell an injured vessel[3] or distressed cargo[4] does not per se render the sale valid, but it affords strong evidence in justification of it, and the fact that the surveyor's advice afterward turns out to be erroneous does not disprove the necessity for the sale.[5] With respect to the question of the integrity of the sale of a vessel by the master, his evidence is vital to one claiming title under such sale.[6]

f. Trial

General rules governing the trial of civil actions apply in actions with respect to the masters of vessels, and, in accordance with such rules, questions of fact on which the evidence is conflicting or doubtful are to be determined by the jury or trier of facts.

General rules governing the trial of civil actions apply in actions with respect to the masters of vessels.[7] In accordance with such rules, questions of fact on which the evidence is conflicting or doubtful are to be determined by the jury or trier of facts.[8] Thus, ordinarily it is a question of fact for the jury as to whether or not, under the circumstances of the particular case, a necessity existed for the master to sell the cargo.[9] In an action by

92. Tex.—Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex 109.
58 C.J. p 291 note 42.

93. U.S.—The Henry, D.C.N.Y., 11 F. Cas.No 6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465.

94. U.S.—The Henry, supra.
58 C.J. p 291 note 44.

95. Pa.—Hartshorne v. Campbell, 1 Yeates 143.

96. U.S.—The Lucinda Snow, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.Cas.No 8,591, Abb.Adm 305.

97. U.S.—The Lucinda Snow, supra

98. N.Y.—Butler v. Murray, 30 N.Y. 88, 86 Am.D. 355.

99. U.S.—Smith v. Staley, D.C.N.Y., 190 F. 214.
58 C.J. p 291 notes 36 [b], 49.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To show contract of employment.—McCambridge v. Crosby Transp. Co., 195 N.W. 678, 225 Mich. 88.

(2) To show that libelant had been engaged as master of ship, and, hence, not entitled to any maritime lien arising out of his services to the ship.—The Agua, D.C.S.C., 72 F.Supp 201.

(3) To establish that libelant was employed as a master, where the contemplated voyages would require a crew of more than one man with a licensed navigator in command, and, hence, libelant was not entitled to a lien under the general admiralty law for his wages.—Burdine v. Walden, C.C.A.Fla., 91 F.2d 321.

(4) To show that master libeling vessel for wages was working for half of profits, which were not shown, rather than fixed wages in addition.—Galatis v. Galatis, C.C.A.Fla., 55 F.2d 571.

(5) To sustain finding that owner of yacht was liable to its master on agreement between parties executed at time of discharge settling master's claim.—Alker v. Johnson, C.C.A. Fla., 81 F.2d 865

Circumstantial evidence to establish the employment of a master should be of a character which leaves no fair reason to doubt the fact.—Higbee v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 921.—Jones v. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Cas.No 7,460, Abb.Adm 446.

1. U.S.—Higbee v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 921.

2. N.Y.—Kenzel v. Kirk, 2 Abb.Dec. 500, 32 How.Pr. 269.

3. U.S.—The Amelie, Mass., 6 Wall. 18, 18 L.Ed. 806.
Me.—Prince v. Ocean Ins. Co., 40 Me. 481, 63 Am.D. 676.

4. N.Y.—Butler v. Murray, 30 N.Y. 88, 86 Am.D. 355.
58 C.J. p 292 note 52.

5. U.S.—The Amelie, Mass., 6 Wall. 18, 18 L.Ed. 806.

6. U.S.—Hartman v. The Will, D.C. Pa., 11 F.Cas.No 6,163.

7. Mich.—Carney v. Ionia Transp. Co., 121 N.W. 806, 157 Mich. 54.
58 C.J. p 292 notes 55–58.

8. Miss.—The General Worth v. Hopkins, 30 Miss. 703.
58 C.J. p 292 note 55

Evidence held insufficient to establish as matter of law that master of vessel was personally liable for injuries sustained by workman, employed on vessel while it was in port, because of failure to provide a safe place to work.—Ellingson v. American Mail Line, 211 P.2d 491, 35 Wash. 2d 129.

9. U.S.—The Julia Blake, N.Y., 2 S.Ct. 692, 107 U.S. 418, 27 L.Ed. 595
58 C.J. p 292 note 57.

one who has lent money to a master in a foreign port, the questions of the necessity for the money, the good faith in making the loan, and the diligence of the loaner in ascertaining the necessity are for the jury.[10]

V. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF VESSELS AND OWNERS IN GENERAL

§ 72. Representation of Vessel or Owners in General

The owners of a vessel are bound by all acts of their agents done within the scope of their authority, but they are not liable for acts of their agent in excess of his authority.

The power to represent or act as agent for a vessel or her owners and the rights and liabilities growing out of such representation are ordinarily governed by the general law of principal and agent,[11] and the owners are bound by all acts of their agents done within the scope of their authority,[12] but are not liable for acts of their agent which exceed his authority.[13] A charterer under a time charter which did not make him owner pro hac vice has no power to bind the ship by his contracts;[14] nor can the agent of a charterer bind the vessel or her owners;[15] nor has the underwriter of a vessel any authority to contract for the vessel until there has been an abandonment and an acceptance thereof by him.[16] Although, as discussed supra § 63, a master may have authority to act as agent for the owners of a vessel, shipowners cannot be held on a contract made by a ship's master where there is no proof of agency,[17] and nothing to show that the ship belonged to the shipowner.[18] Where the owners of several vessels form an association to run their vessels and to collect and receive the earnings thereof in a common fund out of which all the expenses of the vessels are to be paid, it is in fact a private copartnership, and each member is responsible individually for his acts or contracts in the business of the common concern,[19] and the members of the association are jointly liable on contracts made by an agent of the association on its behalf;[20] but the mere fact that several owners who are not in fact partners allow their boats to be advertised as forming a line under a common name, and have a common agent to solicit business, does not make them jointly liable for the torts and contracts of each other.[21]

Having accepted the benefit of an agreement made by a claimant's agent, claimant cannot repudiate the agreement.[22]

A custom that an agency to act for a ship in distress is irrevocable is invalid as being unreasonable.[23]

Liability of agent to owner. An agent may be liable to the owner for loss incurred by reason of the agent's failure to act with due care in carrying out instructions.[24]

§ 73. Contracts

The rights and liabilities of the owners of a vessel under contracts relating thereto depend on the terms

10. Mass.—Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray 482, 74 Am.D. 608.

11. Agency held to exist
U.S.—Canada S. S. Lines v. Inland Waterways Corp, D.C.La., 71 F. Supp. 137, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 166 F.2d 57.

12. U.S.—The Benjamin Noble, D.C. Mich., 232 F. 382, affirmed 244 F. 95, 156 C.C.A. 523, and affirmed Capitol Transp. Co. v. Cambria Steel Co., 39 S.Ct. 292, 249 U.S. 334, 63 L.Ed. 631
58 C.J. p. 292 note 61.

13. U.S.—New York, etc., Transp. Co. v. Payne, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.2d 481, affirmed, C.C.A., 13 F.2d 483, certiorari denied Mellon v. New York & New Jersey Transp. Co., 47 S.Ct. 238, 273 U.S. 726, 71 L.Ed. 861
58 C.J. p. 292 note 62.

14. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, D.C. N.Y., 7 F.2d 131, affirmed, C.C.A., 7 F.2d 133.
58 C.J. p. 292 note 63.

15. U.S.—The Gul Djemal, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.2d 153, affirmed, C.C.A., 11 F.2d 156
58 C.J. p. 292 note 64.

16. U.S.—The Senator, D.C.Mich., 21 F.Cas.No.12,665, Brown Adm. 544.

17. N.Y.—Potter v. American Union Line, 180 N.Y.S. 393, 110 Misc. 328

18. N.Y.—Potter v. American Union Line, supra.

19. U.S.—The Swallow, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.Cas.No.13,665, Olcott 334.

20. N.Y.—Slocum v. Fairchild, 19 Wend. 329, affirmed 7 Hill 292

21. U.S.—Citizens' Ins. Co. v. Kountz Line, C.C.La., 48 F. 838.

22. U.S.—The Allan Wilde, D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 171, affirmed, C.C.A., 264 F. 291.
58 C.J. p. 293 note 72.

23. U.S.—Minis v. Nelson, C.C.Ga., 43 F. 777.

24. U.S.—Canada S. S. Lines v. Inland Waterways Corp., C.C.A.La., 166 F.2d 57.

Payment of incorrect duty
Where foreign steamship company requested defendant corporation acting as its agent to arrange to have shipment of castor oil cleared by a customs broker, but nothing was said about payment of duty, defendant acted contrary to company's interests in having shipment cleared under a consumption entry requiring payment of duty instead of clearing it on an in transit entry which would have been duty free, and thereby became liable to company for amount of the duty.—Canada S. S. Lines v. Inland Waterways Corp, supra.

Negligence in handling cargo
Petition in admiralty alleging negligence of agents in actually loading, unloading, and caring for cargo of vessel set forth maritime torts for which agents would be liable to their principal in tort, regardless of whether or not agency agreements required agents merely to procure maritime services and not to render them.—O. Maire, Inc., v. The Yaka, D.C.N.Y., 79 F.Supp. 659.

of the particular contract and the proper performance thereof.

The rights and liabilities of the owners of a vessel under contracts relating thereto, whether entered into by them or their authorized agents, depend on the terms of the particular contract and the proper performance thereof.[25] A reasonable custom at the port at which a contract is made and of which the owners' agent has knowledge at the time constitutes a part of the contract and is binding on the owners.[26] A contractor who undertakes to make and finish or fit up a vessel impliedly undertakes that she shall be reasonably fit for the purpose for which he knows she is intended to be used,[27] and if she is not so finished or fitted up the contractor will not be exonerated, although her unfitness is occasioned by secret defects in the materials used.[28] A contract may give rise to certain obligations and duties to a vessel which will render the contracting party liable in tort for his negligent failure to fulfill these obligations.[29]

Consortship. An agreement of consortship between the masters of two or more vessels is not merely personal between the masters but extends to the owners and crews,[30] and to persons joining or becoming interested in a vessel during the continuance of the agreement,[31] and is for, and on account of, the vessels.[32] Such an agreement, unless limited by special understandings when made, is considered to be general and to extend to all earnings, from whatever source, by either vessel,[33] and, in the absence of a stipulation as to its termination, it can be terminated only by voluntary dissolution and notice,[34] a change of owners, master, or crew of one vessel without notice to the other parties being insufficient.[35] No mutual liens arise from a contract of consortship, so that no suit in rem can be maintained for its enforcement.[36]

§ 74. —— Supplies, Repairs, Services, and Advances

a. In general
b. Grounds of liability
c. Who liable as owners

a. In General

As a general rule, the owner of a vessel and the vessel itself are liable for necessary supplies, services, repairs, and advances furnished and received to the use of the vessel on the order of the master or other duly 25. U.S.—The Albisola, D.C.Pa., 6 F. Supp. 392.

58 C.J. p. 293 note 75.

Particular contracts construed

(1) In general—Jarka Corp. v. Hellenic Lines, Limited, C.A.N.Y., 182 F.2d 916—58 C.J. p. 293 note 75 [b]

(2) Clause of contract for discharge of cargo, providing for increase of rates if wage scale was increased, did not apply to contingency of cargo being damaged, although longshoremen under contract with stevedoring company received higher wages because thereof, where wage scale was not changed.—The Albisola, D.C.Pa., 6 F.Supp. 392.

(3) Where carrier hired protective agency to guard cargo aboard ship while in port, and contract provided that agency would be liable for loss by theft only while guards were in charge, and such watch was furnished on only two of five days during which cargo was aboard ship at port, agency was not liable to carrier, in absence of showing that theft occurred while guards were on duty—Remington Rand, Inc. v. U. S., D.C. N.Y., 98 F.Supp. 334.

(4) Fact that corporation, engaged in repairing and installing machinery and engines in vessels, undertook to make repairs after dredge had been moored at its wharf for such purpose disclosed an acceptance by implication sufficient to constitute a bailment.—Orrell v. Wilmington Iron Works, D.C.N.C., 89 F.Supp. 418, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.A., 185 F.2d 181.

Mutuality of obligation

Document providing that stevedoring contractor would handle loading and unloading of any vessel provided to it by defendant was not enforceable because lacking mutuality, since it did not bind or obligate defendant to do anything—Jarka Corp. v. Hellenic Lines, Limited, C.A.N.Y., 182 F.2d 916.

Consideration

Under an offer of stevedoring services providing that the offer might be terminated, modified, or amended on thirty days' notice by either party and that notwithstanding such termination, the contractor should continue to be responsible for the loading and discharging of any cargo which contractor was handling on date of such termination, the state statute with respect to irrevocability of an offer because of absence of consideration was applicable notwithstanding the offer did not use the word "irrevocable," where its clear intent was to keep the offer open for a stated time until thirty days after notice of its termination and, hence, offer was binding even though without consideration.—Jarka Corp. v. Hellenic Lines, Limited, supra.

26. Ga.—Horan v. Strachan, 12 S.E. 678, 86 Ga. 408, 22 Am.S.R. 471.
58 C.J. p. 293 note 76.

27. U.S.—Cunningham v. Hall, D.C. Mass., 6 F.Cas.No. 3,482, 1 Sprague 404
58 C.J. p. 293 note 77.

28. U.S.—Cunningham v. Hall, supra.

29. U.S.—Carnegie Office Appliance Co. v. Thomas A. Edison, Inc., D.C.Md., 28 F.2d 626—O'Maire, Inc., v. The Yaka, D.C.N.Y., 79 F.Supp. 659
Rights and liabilities of owner and vessel with respect to torts generally see infra § 76.

30. U.S.—Andrews v. Wall, Fla., 3 How. 568, 11 L.Ed. 729

31. U.S.—Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, D.C.Fla., 5 F.Cas.No. 2,498.

32. U.S.—Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, supra

33. U.S.—Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, supra.
58 C.J. p. 294 note 83.

34. U.S.—Andrews v. Wall, Fla., 3 How. 568, 11 L.Ed. 729.
58 C.J. p. 294 note 84.

35. U.S.—Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, D.C.Fla., 5 F.Cas.No. 2,498.

36. U.S.—Vandewater v. The Yankee Blade, C.C.Cal., 28 F.Cas.No. 16,847, McAllister 9, affirmed 19 How. 82, 15 L.Ed. 554.

authorized agent acting within the scope of his authority.

As a general rule, the owners of a vessel[37] and the vessel itself[38] are liable for necessary supplies,[39] services,[40] or advances[41] furnished and received to the use of a vessel on the order of the master or other duly authorized agent within the scope of his authority,[42] unless credit therefor is given exclusively to the master or agent or others,[43] or unless by the usage and understanding of the business the agent only is held,[44] or unless the special circumstances of the case show that only the agent was intended to be bound and the person furnishing the necessaries or supplies knew or was chargeable with knowledge of it.[45] Where assistance is rendered in port to a distressed vessel, the cargo is liable to attachment only for services rendered in the discharge and protection of the cargo.[46] The usual rules govern in determining the existence of a contract for supplies, services, or advances, and the terms thereof.[47]

Liability for repairs. The nature and extent of the owners' liability for repairs furnished their vessel on a contract therefor depend on the terms of the particular contract,[48] and the due performance thereof by the contractors.[49] It is the duty of one who contracts to repair a vessel to do the work as rapidly as is reasonably possible.[50] The owner may recover damages from the contractor for breach of contract;[51] but he cannot recover for

37. Cal.—Crofton v. Pappas, 171 P. 2d 959, 75 Cal App 2d 814.
Wash.—Abelsen v Prothero, 238 P 2d 397, 39 Wash 2d 737.
58 C.J. p 294 note 88.

38. Ky—Fowler Mills & Co v Smedley, 2 Ky Op. 389.
58 C.J. p 294 note 89.

Lien

(1) A person who furnished material for repairing a boat, under agreement that he was to have a lien against boat to secure such advances and all other advances, had an equitable lien for material furnished for repairs, and for balance due on equipment sold to boat owner—Theut v Burnell, Tex Civ App, 109 S.W.2d 790, error dismissed

(2) Liens on vessels under maritime law generally see Maritime Liens § 1 et seq

Stevedoring services are presumptively rendered on the credit of the vessel—Norwegian Steamship Co. v. Washington, La., 57 F. 224, 6 C.C.A. 313.

39. Tex—Theut v. Burnell, Civ App, 109 S W 2d 790, error dismissed
58 C J p 294 note 90

40. U S—Interstate Lighterage, etc, Co. v Newtown Creek Towing Co, D.C N Y., 267 F 989.
58 C.J. p 294 note 91.

Stevedoring services

(1) Stevedoring company was entitled to be paid its stevedoring charges at agreed rate for loading stone which was lost when barge capsized, in absence of evidence establishing fault on part of stevedoring company in connection with the loss—The O'Leary, D.C.Pa, 74 F.Supp. 313.

(2) Where stevedoring company undertook to load a barge in absence of representative of shipper, representative of charterer of barge and of government inspector and in absence of master of tug, but evidence failed to establish any causal relationship between absence of such persons and capsizing of barge, reasons of such persons' absence were not material to stevedoring company's right to recover for services rendered in loading the barge.—The O'Leary, supra.

(3) In the absence of agreement as to the compensation for particular services, a stevedoring company is entitled to reasonable compensation therefor—The Memnon, Tex, 62 F 482, 10 C C A. 502, 23 U S 647.

41. Tex.—Theut v. Burnell, Civ.App, 109 S W 2d 790, error dismissed
58 C J. p 294 note 93.

42. U S.—The Suliote, D C.N.Y., 23 F. 919.
Hawaii.—Coady v. Lewis, 1 Hawaii 545.
58 C J. p 294 note 95.

43. U S.—The Iris, D.C.Mass, 88 F 902, reversed on other grounds 100 F. 104, 40 C C A. 301.
58 C.J p 295 note 96.

44. U S.—Berwind v. Schultz, D.C. N Y., 25 F 912

45. U S.—Berwind v. Schultz, supra.

46. U.S—Sugar Products Co v. St. Thomas Ship Brokers' Assoc, C C A.Virgin Islands, 280 F. 821.

47. U S—Martin v. The Amiga Mia, D C.N.Y, 80 F.Supp. 42.
Cal.—Crofton v. Pappas, 171 P.2d 959 75 Cal.App.2d 814
La.—Baer v. Chatellier, App, 34 So. 2d 798

Warranty

Where marine machine shop agreed to overhaul gear box and bring it into first-class condition, using finest materials and approved practices for marine gearing, and stated that it would guarantee gear box unconditionally for one year's service, agreement embodied warranty of proper performance for one year rather than mere warranty of workmanship and materials.—James Healing Co v. Walter, 77 A.2d 473, 10 N J Super 492.

48. U.S.—Gibbons Engineering & Mach Co. v. U. S., D.C.Mass., 87 F Supp 207.
Tex—Theut v. Burnell, Civ App., 109 S W.2d 790, error dismissed.
58 C J p 295 note 4.

Particular contracts construed

U S—The President Roosevelt, C.C.A. N Y., 116 F.2d 420—The Ky-Ill, C.C. A Ky, 50 F 2d 70—Martin v. The Amiga Mia, D.C.N.Y., 80 F Supp 42.
58 C J. p 295 note 4 [a].

49. U S—Lawrence v. Morrisania Steam-Boat Co., D.C N.Y., 9 F. 208
58 C J p 295 note 5.

Repairs necessitated by contractor's negligence

Where vessel was damaged from pounding against its mooring when in possession of a repair yard as bailee for hire, yard could not recover for repairs made by yard necessitated by the pounding, in absence of a showing that damages were not sustained as result of negligence of the yard.—Martin v The Amiga Mia, D.C.N.Y., 80 F.Supp. 42.

Extra work

Ordinarily, if owner of vessel demands more than required by contract for repairs, contractor may protest and perform and later sue on quantum meruit, but may not recover for extra work as breach—Todd Dry Dock Engineering & Repair Corporation v. City of New York, C.C.A.N. Y., 54 F 2d 490.

Worthless work

Where repair work on a vessel is so defectively done as to be of no benefit to the owner thereof, the owner of the shipyard performing the work cannot recover therefor.—Walter E. Canulette & Son v. Clesi, La. App, 39 So 2d 853.

50. U.S.—The Mary N. Bourke, N. Y., 145 F. 909, 76 C C.A. 441.
58 C.J. p 295 note 6.

51. U S—Martin v. The Amiga Mia, D.C.N.Y., 80 F.Supp. 42.

failure to complete work within a specified time, in the absence of a definite and positive agreement to make repairs within that time.[52] No liability attaches on a contract for repairs where the master has been misled into supposing that he was dealing with libelant as agent for a third person while in fact libelant was acting for himself;[53] but libelant may recover for labor and services.[54]

Interference with stevedoring contracts. A statute making it unlawful for any person to control or attempt to control the owner or master of any vessel in awarding the loading or unloading of his vessel, except by solicitation in his own behalf as a contracting stevedore regularly engaged in the business of stevedoring, recognizes the right of the owner or master of a vessel to award the loading or unloading of his vessel to any contracting stevedore he desires.[55]

b. Grounds of Liability

The liability of the owner of a vessel for supplies or repairs ordered by the master or an agent is based on a contract undertaken in his behalf by an agent authorized to do so.

The liability of the owners of a vessel to pay for repairs and supplies ordered by the master or an agent rests on the ground of a contract made by one who is the owners' agent for the purpose of ordering such supplies or repairs,[56] although if such necessaries are furnished with the knowledge of the owners and they receive the benefit of them, it will be presumed that they were furnished at their instance and request.[57] In the absence of express authority to pledge the owners' credit, the owners are liable for supplies and repairs furnished to their vessel in a foreign port only in the case of a necessity or apparent necessity for the credit of the vessel to obtain them;[58] and, hence, where the master or agent has funds of the owners in his hands at the time sufficient to pay for such necessaries, and the contractor has actual or constructive notice of this fact, no credit therefor is presumed to be given to the owners of the vessel.[59] The legal owner cannot be held liable for repairs made on the authority of some third person not his agent.[60]

c. Who Liable as Owners

Liability for supplies, repairs, or other necessaries rests on the persons who have the actual interest, control, and management of the vessel at the time they are furnished; and the mere fact that one is the registered owner of the legal title does not render him liable therefor.

The mere fact alone that one is the registered owner or holder of the legal title of a vessel does not make him liable for supplies, repairs, and other necessaries furnished to her,[61] since he may hold her merely in trust, and be neither an actual nor apparent owner;[62] but this liability rests on the persons who have the actual interest, control, and management of the vessel at the time, and who benefit by the supplies, services, or repairs furnished.[63] The mere nominal owner is not equitably estopped to deny liability by the registry of the vessel and the representations of the master where the creditor was put on his guard or had reason to suppose that the registered owner was a nominal owner.[64] The seller of a ship reserving title under a conditional sale contract is not liable for repairs contracted for by the vendee.[65]

§ 75. Negotiable Instruments

A clerk of a vessel may bind the owners thereof by

Items held not recoverable
Wages and subsistence paid to a crew hired while vessel was undergoing repairs, and wages paid to a temporary captain, were not recoverable by owner of vessel as damages for alleged delay on part of repair yard in repairing vessel, and sums paid by the owner for attorneys fees, expert witnesses, an accountant, and for photographs to be used on trial, were expenses of litigation and, although burdensome, were not recoverable as legal damages—Martin v. The Amiga Mia, supra.

Waiver or estoppel
Notwithstanding possibly defective material or workmanship in altering ferryboat, owner who kept and used boat without objection could not recover therefor—The Ky-Ill, C.C.A. Ky., 50 F.2d 70.

52. U.S.—The Garfield No. 6, D.C Wash., 36 F.2d 501.

53. U S—The Kalfarli, C C A N.Y., 277 F. 391.

54. U.S—The Kalfarli, supra.

55. Fla—State ex rel. Biscayne Stevedoring Co v. Turner, 196 So 816, 143 Fla. 424.

56. U.S.—Berwind v. Schultz, D.C N. Y., 25 F. 912.
58 C J. p 295 note 12.

57. Mass.—James v Bixby, 11 Mass. 34

58. U.S—Berwind v. Schultz, D.C N. Y., 25 F. 912—The Sulıote, D.C N. Y., 23 F. 919.

59. U S.—The Lulu, Md, 10 Wall 192, 19 L Ed. 906.
58 C.J. p 296 note 15.

60. U.S.—Davidson v. Baldwin, Mich, 79 F. 95, 24 C C A 453.
Owner held not estopped to deny agency of one ordering repairs.—Davidson v. Baldwin, supra.

61. N Y—Macy v Wheeler, 30 N.Y. 231, 18 Abb Pr. 73.
58 C J p 296 note 19.

62. Ky—Strader v. Lambeth, 7 B. Mon 589.
N.Y—Macy v. Wheeler, 30 N.Y. 231, 18 Abb Pr 73

63. Cal.—Johnson v. Goodwin, 229 P. 708, 68 Cal.App. 363.
58 C J p 296 note 21
"Owner pro hac vice" stands in owner's place for voyage or service contemplated and bears owner's responsibilities even though owner remains legal owner of vessel.—Aird v. Weyerhaeuser S. S Co, C A Pa, 169 F 2d 606, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 1521, 337 U S. 959, 93 L.Ed 1758

64. U.S—Borland v Zittlosen, D.C. N.Y., 27 F. 131

65. U.S—The Boise Penrose, C.C A. N Y, 22 F 2d 919
58 C.J. p 296 note 23.

a negotiable instrument as far as its consideration inures to their benefit.

A clerk of a vessel may bind the owners thereof by a draft, note, or other negotiable instrument as far as its consideration inures to their benefit,[66] but it must be shown that the maker of the note actually was clerk.[67]

§ 76. Torts

a. In general
b. Liabilities resulting from torts

a. In General

An owner of a vessel or other property damaged by the tortious acts of another committed in the course of shipping is entitled to recover for such injuries.

An owner of a vessel is entitled to recover for injuries caused to him or his vessel by the negligence or other torts of others,[68] as, for example, the unlawful seizure and detention of the vessel.[69] The duty rests on the vessel placed in a position of peril to make every effort to guard against danger;[70] and there can be no recovery from a third person for injury to a vessel where such injury is the result of the negligence of its own master.[71]

What law governs. In a suit under the Federal Tort Claims Act, 28 U.S.C.A. § 2571 et seq, to recover for damages to a state bridge which was struck by vessels of the United States, the law applicable is the law of negligence of such state rather than the law of admiralty,[72] even though the factual background is decidedly maritime in character.[73]

Injury from fire or explosion. The shipper of explosives or of dangerously inflammable goods is under a duty to give notice of their character to the owner of the vessel,[74] and failure to do so is negligence rendering the shipper liable to the owner for damages resulting from a fire or explosion;[75] but where the owner, having been advised of the character of the goods,[76] or having had full opportunity to observe their dangerous character,[77] fails to take proper precautions, he assumes the risk and cannot recover. The shipper is not an insurer against the hazard of fire in an average cargo not inherently dangerous.[78]

b. Liabilities Resulting from Torts

Generally speaking, vessels and their owners are liable for all damages caused by the tortious acts of the owners or those in charge of the vessel for whose conduct the owners are responsible.

Except in so far as their liability may be limited under statutes providing for limitation of shipowners' liability, as discussed infra §§ 239–257, and apart from their liability or statutory exemption from liability for loss of, or injury to, cargo, as discussed infra §§ 125–129, the vessel or her owners are liable for all damages caused by the negligence or other wrongs of the owners or those in charge of the vessel;[79] but there is no liability on the own-

66. La.—Moss v. Smoker, 2 La.Ann 989.
58 C.J. p 296 note 25.

67. La.—Anderson v. Irwin, 7 La. Ann. 494.

68. U.S.—The Montserrat, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.2d 477, affirmed, C.C.A., 15 F. 2d 1015.
58 C.J. p 296 note 28.
Liability for injury to vessel from loading, carrying, or discharging cargo see infra § 105.

69. Conn.—Dennison v. Hyde, 6 Conn 508.

70. U.S.—The Harrisburg, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.2d 360.

71. U.S.—Canada S. S. Lines v. Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co., C.C.A.Ill., 81 F.2d 100.

72. U.S.—State Road Department of Fla. v. U. S., D.C.Fla., 85 F.Supp. 489, affirmed, C.A., U. S. v. State Road Dept. of Fla., 189 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 291, 342 U.S. 903, 96 L.Ed. ——.

73. U.S.—State Road Department of Fla. v. U. S., D.C.Fla., 85 F.Supp 489, affirmed, C.A., U. S. v. State Road Dept. of Fla., 189 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 291, 342 U.S. 903, 96 L.Ed. ——.
Rights and liabilities from negligent management or navigation of vessels resulting in injuries to bridges generally see infra § 77

74. U.S.—International Mercantile Marine Co. v. Fels, N.Y., 170 F. 275, 95 C.C.A. 471, 18 Ann.Cas. 18.
N.Y.—Barney v. Burnstenbinder, 64 Barb. 212, 7 Lans. 210.
Cargo of metal turnings
(1) Whether cargo of metal turnings and borings was "dangerous goods," within bill of lading requiring shipper to make good any loss caused by shipping dangerous goods without full previous disclosure to carrier of their nature, depended on whether the cargo contained enough moisture and waste when loaded to make cargo dangerous.—Westchester Fire Ins. Co. v. Buffalo Housewrecking & Salvage Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 129 F. 2d 319.

(2) The finding that a cargo of metal turnings and borings was not "dangerous goods," within bill of lading binding shipper to make good any loss caused by shipping dangerous goods without previous full written disclosure to carrier of their nature, was not disproved by fact that the particular cargo heated and took fire.—Westchester Fire Ins. Co. v. Buffalo Housewrecking & Salvage Co., supra.

75. N.Y.—Barney v. Burnstenbinder, 64 Barb. 212, 7 Lans. 210.

76. U.S.—International Merchant Marine Co. v. Fels, D.C.N.Y., 164 F. 337, affirmed 170 F. 275, 95 C.C.A. 471, 18 Ann.Cas. 18.

77. U.S.—Westchester Fire Ins. Co. v. Buffalo Housewrecking & Salvage Co., D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 378, affirmed, C.C.A., 129 F.2d 319

78. U.S.—Westchester Fire Ins. Co. v. Buffalo Housewrecking & Salvage Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 129 F.2d 319.

79. Minn.—Fay v. Davidson, 13 Minn. 523.
N.C.—State Highway & Public Works Commission v. Diamond S. S. Transp. Corp., 38 S.E.2d 214, 226 N.C. 371
58 C.J. p 297 note 42.
Liability for:
Personal injuries to seamen see Seamen §§ 188–206.
Personal injuries to passengers see infra §§ 192–196.

Regardless of any contract, a shipowner is liable for his own acts of ers or the vessel for injuries which are the result of perils of the sea or inevitable accident,[80] or without negligence or other wrong on the part of the owners or of those in charge of the vessel,[81] as where the negligence is that of an independent contractor.[82] Nevertheless, where the owners of a ship have held themselves out as responsible for the negligence of an independent contractor, they are estopped subsequently to deny liability;[83] and the owners are not freed of responsibility under the doctrine of respondeat superior for negligence of an independent contractor or his servants, where the owners know, or should know, by their supervision of its construction, that the engine of the vessel is inherently dangerous.[84] The negligent act must have been the proximate cause of the injury complained of.[85]

Contributory negligence. Courts other than courts of admiralty will not generally grant relief for negligent injury where the party injured has been guilty of contributory negligence,[86] but courts of admiralty allow a proportionate recovery.[87]

Injuries to property on shore. With respect to the liability of the owner of the vessel for damage to property along the shore, it has been held that the shore and the structures located thereon are subject to the dangers incident to the right of navigation and the probability that they may receive injury, by reason of their location, from moving craft along the waterway.[88]

Injuries resulting from inadequate equipment or appliances. The owner of a vessel is not negligent through omission to equip his vessel with the latest appliances or best devices, but he is required to use only such appliances as are reasonably required for the purposes of the vessel.[89] The owners of a vessel are liable for fires caused to adjoining property by reason of insufficient or defective appliances.[90]

Injuries resulting from unseaworthiness. With respect to liability resulting from unseaworthiness of a vessel, seaworthiness does not comprehend the best form of construction and perfection, but only that the vessel be so staunch and strong as to resist the ordinary action of the sea without loss or damage to the cargo.[91]

Injuries from negligence of longshoremen. The owners of a vessel are liable for negligence of longshoremen hired by them as their servants to aid in loading their vessel.[92]

§ 77. —— Negligent Management or Navigation

a. In general
b. Injuries from suction or swell
c. Injuries to submarine cables or mains negligence—Hawn v. Pope & Talbot, D C Pa., 99 F Supp. 226

Irrespective of personal liability of the owner, a vessel may be liable in rem as the offending thing—The L & W. B. C. Co. No 11, D.C.N.Y., 53 F Supp. 326.

Under federal statute

A proceeding in rem under the Rivers and Harbors Act to recover damages for injury by a vessel to harbor or river improvements may be maintained only where the property injured or destroyed is used for the preservation or improvement of the navigable waters of the United States or for the other purposes stated in the statute—The Dixie, D.C. Tex., 39 F.Supp. 395.

80. U.S.—The Carl Frederick, D.C. Cal., 33 F. 589, 13 Sawy. 97.
58 C J. p 297 note 44

81. U.S.—Petition of Liverpool, Brazil & River Plate Steam Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 7 F Supp. 107.
58 C.J. p 298 note 45.

82. U.S—The Satilla, D.C.N.Y., 221 F. 949, affirmed 235 F. 58, 148 C.C. A. 552.
58 C.J. p 298 note 46.

Liability of United States

Rule that, where the United States or its agents are in possession and responsible for operation of a ship operated under a general agency agreement, a tort giving right to damages for property injury must be redressed by an authorized action against the United States has no application where operation of the vessel is under the control of an independent contractor who, through negligence and failure in the common-law duty to use that which he controls so as not to injure others, has caused property damage—Publicker Industries v. American-Hawaiian S S. Co., D C.Pa., 78 F Supp. 223.

83. La.—E. C. Taylor v. New York, etc., SS. Co, 105 So. 379, 159 La 381.
58 C.J. p 298 note 47.

84. U.S—Kunschman v. U. S., C.C.A. N Y., 54 F 2d 987.

85. U.S.—The Santa Rita, Cal., 176 F. 890, 100 C.C.A. 360, 30 L.R.A., N.S., 1210.

86. La—Love v. The Montgomery, 10 La Ann. 113.
58 C.J. p 298 note 51.

87. U S.—The Dauntless, Md, 179 F. 346, 102 C C A. 530—The Number 6 H., D.C.N.Y., 108 F 429.

88. Wash from propellers
Md—Adams v. Carey, 190 A. 815, 172 Md. 173.

89. U.S.—In re Defense Plant Corp., D C.Tenn, 58 F.Supp 931.
58 C.J. p 298 note 49 [a].

90. Mich.—Burrows v Transp. Co, 64 N W. 501, 106 Mich. 582, 29 L.R. A. 468.
58 C.J p 298 note 49.

Defects arising after proper installation

A corporation which owned vessel which caught fire following gasoline explosion was liable for damages to other vessels by fire, where, although there was no negligence in original installation of gasoline tanks, with passage of time some part of machinery or equipment did leak and there was no evidence of intervening third person agency.—Coryell v. Pilkington, D.C Fla., 39 F Supp. 142, affirmed, C.C.A, Coryell v. Phipps, 128 F.2d 702, affirmed 63 S.Ct. 291, 317 U.S. 406, 87 L.Ed. 363.

91. U.S.—In re Defense Plant Corp, D.C.Tenn, 58 F Supp. 931
Liability for loss of, or injury to, cargo see infra § 125 et seq.

92. U.S.—Serviss v. The Chattahoochee, D C N.Y., 37 F. 153, affirmed, C C., 39 F. 368
La—Rochereau v. Hausa, 14 La.Ann. 431.

d. Injuries to bridges, piers, or similar structures
e. Negligence of pilot

a. In General

As a general rule, the owner or those in possession and control of a vessel and the vessel itself are liable for all natural and proximate damages caused by reason of her negligent management or navigation.

As a general rule, the owners or those in possession and control of a vessel and the vessel itself are liable for all natural and proximate damages caused by reason of her negligent management[93] or navigation,[94] although the negligent or wrongful acts are committed without authority or knowledge of the owners;[95] and in some jurisdictions this liability for negligence is expressly provided for by statute.[96] However, the owners or vessel cannot be held liable for damages which cannot be attributed to negligence on her part or on the part of the master and crew,[97] and, in courts other than admiralty, the person injured cannot recover if he has been guilty of contributory negligence.[98] Two vessels may be equally at fault so as to impose liability on both;[99] but, where one vessel is solely at fault, it alone is liable.[1]

Duties of vessel and of owner or those in control thereof. With respect to their liability for injuries resulting from negligent management or navigation, it has been said in general terms that shipowners should be held to as strict accountability as modern facilities enable them, with reasonable diligence, to provide;[2] and, in a particular case,

93. U S—City Compress & Warehouse Co v U. S, C A S C, 190 F 2d 699—The Anna O'Boyle, C C A N.Y, 122 F.2d 286, rehearing denied 124 F 2d 180—Goggin v U. S, D C.Cal., 79 F.Supp 812—Publicker Industries v. American-Hawaiian S S. Co, D C Pa, 78 F.Supp. 223—The Mattie, D C N.Y, 38 F Supp 745
Mass—Hill v. Winsor, 118 Mass 251
58 C J. p 298 note 54.

Dock owner's negligence as to moored vessels

Dock owner is liable for damage to bridge caused by dredge and pile driver which broke from moorings in storm, if damage is referable to dock owner's unreasonable failure to anticipate danger and to take reasonable precautions against probable consequences of storm—Pleasure Beach Park Co. v. Bridgeport Dredge & Dock Co, 165 A. 691, 116 Conn. 496.

Proximate cause

In action for damages to property and equipment of plaintiffs by a barge owned by defendant which had dragged its moorings, liability of defendant, where barge struck boathouse adjoining plaintiffs' property, would be the same as if direct contact with plaintiffs' property had taken place, if debris from the boathouse damaged plaintiffs' property—Nicholas v Pfeifer Oil Transp Co., 62 N. Y S 2d 474.

Common bailment of vessels involved

Tug was liable for damage to barges as result of its negligence, regardless of fact that both tug and barges were on demise to same company.—The R Lenahan, Jr, C.C A N.Y, 48 F.2d 110, certiorari denied Cowles v. Reddy, 52 S.Ct. 13, 284 U.S. 629, 76 L Ed 536.

94. U.S.—Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. v. Metropolitan Sand & Gravel Corp., D.C.N Y, 82 F Supp. 595—Goggin v. U. S, D.C Cal., 79 F Supp. 812—The Maui, D.C N.Y., 70 F.Supp 772.
58 C.J. p 299 note 55.

95. U S—The Bulley, D C N Y, 138 F. 170.

96. La—Howes v. The Red Chief, 15 La Ann 321.
58 C J p 299 note 57

Vessels held not liable

(1) Where tug approached basin at five miles per hour with scow in tow and with favoring ebb tide attempted to enter basin by shaving end of pier, without rounding to, and observing what was in, basin, and collided with pier in avoiding collision with barge in tow of second tug which had proper lights and had stopped after giving signals and hearing signal from damaged tug, second tug was not at fault, but cause of damage was failure of damaged tug to round to, and observe what was in, basin.—The Isabel A. McAllister, D C N Y, 38 F Supp 585

(2) Where fishing vessel secured similar disabled craft alongside by bow and stern breasts composed of single taut line, and proceeded up wrong side of narrow busy harbor channel with insufficient crew properly to handle vessel and lines, and gave no recognizable signal to approaching landing craft that maintained opposite course and speed of eight knots, landing craft was not liable for damages to vessels caused when its wake caused tow to part.—Goggin v. U. S, D C.Cal., 79 F Supp 812.

(3) The duty, if any, of tug which found scows aground was merely to advise owners of the scows of the situation, and tug was not at fault in failing to stand by, so as to be subject to liability—The Norwich Victory, D C Pa, 77 F Supp. 264, affirmed, C.C A., U. S. v. Dump Scows No 116, No. 120, and No. 122, two cases, 175 F.2d 556, certiorari denied American Dredging Co. v U S., 70 S Ct. 147, two cases, 338 U S. 871, 94 L Ed 534.

97. U S.—Canada S. S. Lines v. Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co, C C A Ill, 81 F 2d 100—The Flying By, C C A N J, 71 F.2d 968—Petition of Martin, D C Pa, 102 F Supp. 43—Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. v. Metropolitan Sand & Gravel Corp, D C N.Y, 82 F.Supp 595—The Jason, D C N.Y, 74 F.Supp 34—The Fidelity, D.C.N.Y., 43 F Supp. 180—Petition of Liverpool, Brazil & River Plate Steam Nav Co, D C N.Y, 7 F Supp. 107—The Hendrick Hudson, D.C.N.Y., 3 F. Supp. 317.
58 C J. p 299 note 58.

Reliance on misplaced buoy

Tug which was not wholly on its side of center of canal when it met motor vessel, as required by statute, was without fault when motor vessel struck bottom and drove hole in her starboard bilge, where buoy was misplaced and tug kept wholly on right side of center of canal as so marked.—The Clevelander, C.C.A.N.Y., 83 F. 2d 947.

Explosives

Where there was no negligence on the part of the shipper or the stevedore loading explosives near the wrecked vessel, neither was liable.—Actiesselskabet Ingrid v. New Jersey Central R Co, 216 F. 72, 132 C.C.A. 316, L.R.A.1916B 716, rehearing denied 216 F. 991, 132 C C A. 665, L.R.A. 1916B 716, and certiorari denied 35 S Ct. 284, 238 U S. 615, 59 L.Ed. 1490.

98. N.Y—Wascin v. Bronx Towing Line, 68 N.Y.S 2d 547, 188 Misc 462, motion for new trial denied 77 N. Y.S 2d 25

99. U S.—The Detroiter, C C A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 234.

1. U S.—The Vulcan, D C La., 60 F. Supp. 158.

2. U S.—The Maria, D.C N.Y., 15 F. Supp. 745.

Standard of due care in navigation is not necessarily dependent on mere statutory enactment, but must be tested in light of advancing knowlwhether or not there is liability depends on the duty imposed by customs and law on vessels under the circumstances involved.[3] The master of a vessel must exercise a degree of vigilance commensurate with the circumstances.[4] A federal statute prohibiting tying up or anchoring vessels in navigable channels in such manner as to prevent or obstruct the passage of other vessels, discussed in Navigable Waters § 44, establishes a standard of care with which a boat-yard owner must comply in order to be free of negligence.[5] A tug is responsible for the proper navigation of its unmanned[6] or unpowered[7] tow.

b. Injuries from Suction or Swell

A vessel, when being navigated in a river or harbor in the vicinity of other vessels, must exercise due care in view of the circumstances to avoid injuring, by her suction or swell, other vessels which she is approaching or passing, and failure to exercise such care renders her or her owners liable for resultant damage.

A steamer must, when being navigated in a river or harbor in the vicinity of other smaller or weaker craft or vessels, which are properly in such waters, exercise reasonable care and prudence in view of the circumstances existing at the time, to avoid injuring, by her suction or swell, other craft or vessels which she is approaching or passing,[8] and on failure to exercise such care and prudence, the vessel or its owners are liable for damages caused thereby to such other craft or vessel,[9] particularly where the act of the offending vessel is in violation edge, experience, and most modern appliances of navigation which have become recognized as regular equipment by common usage—The Carroll, D.C.Md., 60 F.2d 985.

3. U.S.—The Carroll, supra—Petition of Liverpool, Brazil & River Plate Steam Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 107.

Duty to display arrows

War department's notice requiring floating plants to display wooden arrows indicating course to be followed in passing plants was nugatory as applied to river dredge, power of establishing rules for day signals on such dredges being in commerce department; and a river dredge displaying arrow indicating vessels should pass on starboard side was not negligent, even though arrow was intermittently obscured by swinging boom and even though dredge did not sound alarm signal for yacht, which allegedly sounded signal for passing dredge on port side and, in so passing, struck rock in shallow water placed there by dredge—The Flying By, D.C.N.J., 4 F.Supp. 884, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F.2d 968.

Failure to maintain proper lookout

U.S.—Canada S. S. Lines v. Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co., C.C.A. Ill., 81 F.2d 100

La.—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.

Duty to maintain lookouts see Collision § 107.

Lifeboat

Adequate and properly maintained lifeboat equipment is essential to seaworthiness of barge.—The Carroll, D.C.Md., 60 F.2d 985.

Duty of bargee as to lines

Where barge is tied up to a wharf, the bargee is not required to put out enough lines to hold securely any other barges which may later tie up to his barge.—Petition of Tracy, D.C.N.Y., 92 F.Supp. 706, affirmed, C.A., 194 F.2d 362.

Duty of vessel off range

With respect to its right to recover for injury, where a northbound vessel on East River finds itself off the range, it must warn its neighbor of its necessity and its intention to impose either knowledge or duty on such neighbor—The Jason, D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp. 34.

Duty to sound signals in general see Collision §§ 103–106.

Knowledge and test of stability

Where owner buys old tug, licensed coastwise, and equips it for ocean going, it is negligence to send tug out without knowing something of her stability and especially without stability test, where history and performance with respect to crankiness and tenderness are matters of official record.—Sabine Towing Co. v. Brennan, C.C.A.Tex., 72 F.2d 490, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 141, 293 U.S. 611, 79 L.Ed. 701, rehearing denied 55 S.Ct. 212, 293 U.S. 632, 79 L.Ed. 717.

Absolute guaranty not required

Owner's obligation to provide seaworthy vessel does not contemplate absolute guaranty that vessel can withstand all conditions of wind and sea to which it may be reasonably anticipated it may be subjected during voyages, and with such cargoes as are customarily assigned to her.—The Carroll, D.C.Md., 60 F.2d 985.

4. U.S.—Canada S.S. Lines v. Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co., C.C.A. Ill., 81 F.2d 100.

Vessels at anchor during windstorm

Masters of vessels anchored in harbor had duty to know and understand their responsibility in case of severe windstorm, and ordinary care or reasonable care was not the test, but a very high degree of care and caution was required—State Road Department of Fla. v. U.S., D.C.Fla., 85 F.Supp. 489, affirmed, C.A., U.S. v. State Road Dept. of Fla., 189 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 291, 342 U.S. 903, 96 L.Ed. ——.

Fishing nets

Where both navigation rights and fishing rights can be enjoyed fairly and freely, vessel must exercise ordinary care to avoid damage to fishing nets.—Agger v. The Beatrice and Rose, D.C.Me., 84 F.Supp. 761.

Tug leaving towed barge

What is unreasonable length of time for tug to leave towed barge in search of aid must be determined by particular circumstances of each case—The Carroll, D.C.Md., 60 F.2d 985.

Drifting dredge

In determining negligence of watch officer of steamship lying at anchor in not ordering anchor chain to be paid out when he saw imminent danger of collision with drifting dredge, court would view situation as presented to officer and hold him negligent if what he did was not only wrong, but so plainly wrong that competent navigator placed in his situation would not have done it.—Petition of Liverpool, Brazil & River Plate Steam Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 107

5. N.Y.—Wascin v. Bronx Towing Line, 68 N.Y.S.2d 547, 188 Misc. 462, motion for new trial denied 77 N.Y.S.2d 25

6. U.S.—In re Defense Plant Corp., D.C.Tenn., 58 F.Supp. 931.

7. U.S.—The Vulcan, D.C.La., 60 F.Supp. 158

8. U.S.—The Emma T. Grimes, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 319.

La.—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.

58 C.J. p. 299 note 59.

9. U.S.—The Clevelander, C.C.A.N.Y., 83 F.2d 947—The Detroiter, C.C.A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 234—The Julia C. Davin, C.C.A.N.Y., 70 F.2d 268—Burns Bros. v. The Systematic, D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 870—The North River, D.C.N.Y., 57 F.2d 600, affirmed, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 601—The Hendrick Hudson, D.C.N.Y., 3 F.

of some statutory regulation.[10] Where a vessel in passing near a smaller or weaker vessel has reason to apprehend danger thereto from her swells, it is her duty to slacken her speed,[11] or to keep at a greater distance,[12] or to stop her paddle wheels or propeller.[13] Steamers passing docks or other mooring places must do so at such a rate of speed[14] or at such a distance[15] that a vessel lawfully there and properly moored will not be harmed by the suction or swell produced by their passage through the water, and the steamer is liable for damage resulting from failure to exercise such care,[16] even though she is proceeding at her customary speed;[17] it has been held that, where necessary, her engines should be slowed or stopped temporarily.[18]

The degree of care and prudence which must be exercised by a vessel to prevent injuries from suction or swell depends on the circumstances of each particular case,[19] and the vessel causing the injury must be held responsible for any failure to appreciate the reasonable effect of her speed and motion through the water at the particular place and under the particular circumstances,[20] a vessel known to be peculiarly liable to create swells either by reason of the construction or the speed of her usual operation must exercise unusual care.[21] Those in charge of a smaller or weaker vessel in a proper place have a right to assume that the larger vessel will observe reasonable precautions to avoid injuring her by reason of her swell or suction,[22] and they are under no obligation to warn the larger vessel of the danger,[23] but, at the same time, it is their duty to use all reasonable care and prudence to avoid the effect of such known dangers,[24] and the vessel causing the suction or swell is liable only for such damages as are the proximate result of her negligence.[25] Where the vessel injured was guilty of contributory negligence, a partial recovery may be allowed in admiralty.[26] The passing vessel is not to be considered an insurer of an inferior vessel,[27] and cannot be held for dam-

Supp. 317—The Emma T. Grimes, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 319
La.—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.
58 C.J. p. 300 note 60.

10. Passing in narrow channel
U.S.—Kelley Island Lime, etc., Co. v. Cleveland, D.C.Ohio, 144 F. 207, modified on other grounds 176 F. 492, 100 C.C.A. 108.

11. U.S.—Burns Bros. v. The Systematic, D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 870
La.—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, App., 25 So.2d 744, reversed on other grounds 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.
58 C.J. p. 300 note 62.
Liability for causing injury to vessel through collision or otherwise by reason of suction or swell due to excessive speed see Collision § 128

12. U.S.—Dangelo v. Danforth Co., D.C.N.Y., 192 F. 678—The Chester W. Chapin, D.C.N.Y., 155 F. 854.

13. U.S.—The St. Paul, D.C.N.Y., 124 F. 103.
58 C.J. p. 300 note 64.

14. U.S.—West India Fruit & S. S. Co. v. Raymond, C.A.Fla., 190 F.2d 673.
58 C.J. p. 300 note 65.

15. U.S.—The Rotherfield, D.C.Ala., 123 F. 460—The New Hampshire, D.C.N.Y., 88 F. 306.

16. U.S.—West India Fruit & S. S. Co. v. Raymond, C.A.Fla., 190 F.2d 673.
58 C.J. p. 300 note 67.

Dry dock
The duty of a passing steamer toward a floating dry dock permanently located alongside a pier is the same as its duty toward vessels at docks.—Shewan v. New England Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 155 F. 860, reversed on other grounds 169 F. 285, 94 C.C.A. 561.

17. U.S.—The Hendrick Hudson, D.C.N.Y., 163 F. 862, affirmed 168 F. 1021, 93 C.C.A. 670.

18. U.S.—The New York, D.C.N.Y., 34 F. 757.

19. U.S.—Western Oil & Fuel Terminal Co. v. The Elisha Woods, D.C.Ky., 89 F.Supp. 862—Martin Marine Transp. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 66 F.Supp. 673.

Duty of overtaken vessel
Where tug towing barges in Cape Cod Canal assented to overtaking agreement signalled by steamship, tug did not thereby assume the risk of excessive speed by overtaking vessel and was not bound to anticipate that because of design and power steamship would become unmanageable unless she exceeded a safe passing speed or that steamship would take a sheer necessitating increase of speed to an unreasonable degree.—Eastern Transp. Co. v. The Vera Cruz, D.C.N.Y., 94 F.Supp. 695, affirmed, C.A., 186 F.2d 305.

Duty of overtaking vessel
Even though overtaking steamship sought, and obtained, permission from tug to pass tug to port, which pilot of tug thought could be done safely, steamship still remained under duty of navigating prudently and assumed all risks of such navigation in that permission given merely expressed an understanding on part of tug of what steamship proposed to do and an agreement by tug to do nothing to thwart it, and was not an agreement by tug to assist in maneuver.—Petition of Texas Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 340.

20. U.S.—The Chester W. Chapin, D.C.N.Y., 155 F. 854.
58 C.J. p. 300 note 70

21. U.S.—The Asbury Park, D.C.N.Y., 138 F. 925
58 C.J. p. 300 note 71.

22. La.—Corpus Juris quoted in Tolle v. Higgins Industries, App., 25 So.2d 744, 747, reversed on other grounds 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.
58 C.J. p. 300 note 72.

23. U.S.—Burns Bros. v. The Systematic, D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 870.
La.—Corpus Juris quoted in Tolle v. Higgins Industries, App., 25 So.2d 744, 747, reversed on other grounds 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.
58 C.J. p. 301 note 73.

24. La.—Corpus Juris quoted in Tolle v. Higgins Industries, App., 25 So.2d 744, 746, reversed on other grounds 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.
58 C.J. p. 301 note 74.

25. La.—Corpus Juris quoted in Tolle v. Higgins Industries, App., 25 So.2d 744, 747, reversed on other grounds 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173
58 C.J. p. 301 note 75.

26. U.S.—The Silvia, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.2d 99.
58 C.J. p. 301 note 76.

27. U.S.—Martin Marine Transp. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 66 F.Supp. 673—The Daniel Drew, C.C.N.Y., 6 F.Cas. No. 3,565, 13 Blatchf. 523.
La.—Corpus Juris quoted in Tolle v. Higgins Industries, App., 25 So.2d 744, 747, reversed on other grounds 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.

ages allegedly caused by swell where its speed and distance from the injured vessel were such that the damage could not have been caused by its swell,[28] or where the damages were not reasonably foreseeable[29] or are attributable to unavoidable accident.[30] A vessel, in leaving a slip, must notify other vessels therein likely to be affected by her propeller.[31]

c. Injuries to Submarine Cables or Mains

A vessel or her owners are liable for negligent injury to a submarine cable or main.

The vessel or her owners are liable for negligent injury to a submarine cable[32] or main,[33] as where the vessel attempts to anchor at a known and advertised cable crossing.[34] However, a vessel or its owner is not liable where the injury was not due to negligence,[35] as where the existence and position of the cable are unknown[36] or have been kept secret as a matter of military policy,[37] or where the vessel, having no notice that the cable was not entrenched and being warned only against anchoring, navigated the channel at low tide [38] Under a statute allowing the cutting of a cable when necessary to save life or limb or a vessel, and a treaty provision requiring cable companies to reimburse shipowners for anchors sacrificed to avoid injury to cables, the vessel is liable for the cutting of a cable to release an anchor where it has another anchor on board.[39]

d. Injuries to Bridges, Piers, or Similar Structures

A vessel or its owner is liable for injuries to bridges, piers, or similar structures resulting from negligent navigation or management.

The owner of a bridge may recover damages for injuries thereto from improper or negligent navigation.[40]

A vessel must approach a bridge with reasonable skill and care to avoid injuring it, having in view the difficulties and perils including those caused by the bridge itself,[41] but it need not guarantee its safety;[42] and, in the absence of express regulation requiring a signal,[43] a vessel is not liable for an injury to a drawbridge while advancing slowly, and in the justified expectation that the draw would be opened and in the absence of any signal to the contrary.[44] A defense that the bridge opening is narrower than that prescribed by the war department depends on whether the variation from the specifications is the proximate cause of the collision and injury [45] A vessel or its owner is not liable for injury to a bridge in the absence of negligence on

28. U.S.—The Acadia, C.C.A. N.Y., 98 F.2d 801

29. U.S.—City of New York v. McLain Lines, C.C.A.N.Y., 147 F.2d 393.

30. La.—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.

31. U.S.—The Leo, D.C.N.Y., 15 F. Cas. No. 8,250, 3 Ben. 569.
58 C.J. p. 301 note 78.

32. U.S.—Lakewood S. S. Co. v. Superior Water, Light & Power Co., C.C.A. Wis., 88 F.2d 895—New Jersey Bell Tel. Co. v. Standard Oil Co., N. J., D.C.N.Y., 88 F. Supp. 806
58 C.J. p. 301 note 81

33. U.S.—Lakewood S. S. Co. v. Superior Water, Light & Power Co., C.C.A. Wis., 88 F.2d 895

34. U.S.—Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. P. Sanford Ross, Inc., D.C.N.Y., 221 F. 105.

35. U.S.—Petition of Martin, D.C. Pa., 102 F. Supp. 43—The Anita Berwind, D.C. Pa., 107 F. 721
La.—Department of Highways v. Whiteman Bros., App., 29 So.2d 399.

36. U.S.—The Georgie, C.C.A. Cal., 14 F.2d 98.
45 C.J. p. 448 note 33.

37. Alaska.—U. S. v. The Alameda, 5 Alaska 663.

38. U.S.—U. S. v. Henry Steers, Inc., D.C.N.Y., 8 F. Supp. 363.

Cable owner's assumption of risk

Where power company had laid entrenched power cables across river in area, and company laid additional cables unentrenched on river bottom, and several of the unentrenched power cables were struck by tug and damaged, although government permit gave power company right to lay cables on river bottom unentrenched, in laying cables in that manner power company assumed risk that vessels going to and from adjacent railroad pier might collide with cables in shallow water off power company pier.—Petition of Martin, D.C. Pa., 102 F. Supp. 43

39. U.S.—The William H. Bailey, D.C. Conn., 100 F. 115, affirmed 111 F. 1006, 50 C.C.A. 76.

40. N.J.—Rickards v. Sun Oil Co., 41 A.2d 267, 23 N.J. Misc. 89
N.Y.—Triborough Bridge Authority v. Bronx Towing Line, 52 N.Y.S.2d 62, 184 Misc. 254, affirmed 105 N.Y.S.2d 911, 278 App. Div. 917.
N.C.—State Highway & Public Works Commission v. Diamond S. S. Transp. Corp., 38 S.E.2d 214, 226 N.C. 371.
45 C.J. p. 464 note 97.

Fender piling of bridge owned by city and county was not an unlawful obstruction in navigable waters so as to absolve the United States from liability for damage caused when army steam tug collided with piling of bridge as result of negligence of tug operators.—City and County of San Francisco v. U. S., D.C. Cal., 82 F. Supp. 313.

41. U.S.—The Marguerite W., D.C. Wis., 49 F. Supp. 929, affirmed, C.C.A., 140 F.2d 491.

42. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., Packet Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., C.C. Iowa, 31 F. 755.
45 C.J. p. 465 note 99.

43. N.Y.—Triborough Bridge Authority v. Bronx Towing Line, 52 N.Y.S.2d 62, 184 Misc. 254, affirmed 105 N.Y.S.2d 911, 278 App. Div. 917.

Custom of raising lift span of bridge to permit passage of river traffic without signal from approaching vessel could not be set up by captain of tug in derogation of regulation promulgated by secretary of war requiring master of vessel to signify intention to pass bridge by three blasts of the whistle.—Triborough Bridge Authority v. Bronx Towing Line, supra.

44. Ill.—Batchelder v. Hecla Transp. Co., 178 Ill. App. 105

45. U.S.—Savannah, etc., Transp. Co. v. Klaren Bridge Co., S.C., 252 F. 499, 164 C.C.A. 415.
45 C.J. p. 465 note 3.

the part of the vessel or those in charge,[46] as where, for example, the accident was caused by the fault of those in charge of the bridge;[47] and even where injury results from the negligence of the vessel or those in charge, the vessel or its owner is not liable for damages other than those which are the proximate result of such negligence.[48] The fact that defendant, owner of the vessel, employs an independent contractor to pilot the vessel, does not absolve him from liability for damage to a bridge caused by the owner's negligence or by the owner's negligence cooperating with the negligence of the independent contractor.[49] Where a vessel strikes a bridge or pier and there is no fault imputable to those in charge of such structure, the vessel is liable for the damage which results, unless exonerated by showing that the collision was due to inevitable accident or that it could not have been avoided by adopting any practical precaution.[50] The United States may recover for injuries to a dike caused by the negligence of a steamship colliding therewith.[51] The owner of structures on the shore cannot recover for injuries thereto resulting from the operations of vessels, where the injuries are the result in part of such owner's negligence.[52]

e. Negligence of Pilot

The owner of a vessel is liable for the negligent acts of a pilot voluntarily employed by him, but, where the pilot is a compulsory one, the owner is not personally liable for his negligent acts, although by the admiralty law such negligence is imputable to the vessel, which may be held liable therefor in rem.

Where the pilot of a vessel is not a compulsory one in the sense that the owners or master of the vessel are bound to accept him, but is employed voluntarily, the owners of the vessel are liable for his negligent acts.[53] Statutory provisions, however, generally provide for compulsory pilotage of vessels, and, where the pilot is a compulsory pilot in the sense that he has compulsory charge of the vessel, he is in no sense an agent or servant of the owners of the vessel, and, under the English rule, neither the owners nor the vessel is liable for his negligent acts.[54] In the United States the owners of a vessel are not personally liable for the negligent acts of a compulsory pilot,[55] but by the admiralty law the fault or negligence of a compulsory pilot is imputable to the vessel and it may be held liable therefor in rem.[56] Where, however, by the provisions of the statute the pilot is compulsory only in the sense that his fee must be paid, and is not in compulsory charge of the vessel, there is no exemption from liability.[57] Whether or not

46. U.S.—Department of Highways v. McWilliams Dredging Co., D.C. La., 85 F.Supp. 714—City of Philadelphia v. S. C. Loveland Co., D.C. Pa., 81 F.Supp. 585—The Trenton, D.C.N.Y., 22 F.Supp. 833, affirmed, C.C.A., In re O'Brien Bros., 101 F.2d 1017—The Cromwell, D.C.N.C., 247 F. 207, affirmed Wilmington Ry. Bridge Co. v. Franco-Ottoman Shipping Co., 259 F. 166, 170 C.C.A. 234.

N.Y.—Triborough Bridge Authority v. Bronx Towing Line, 52 N.Y.S.2d 62, 184 Misc. 254, affirmed 105 N.Y.S.2d 911, 278 App.Div. 917.

47. U.S.—Department of Highways v. McWilliams Dredging Co., D.C. La., 85 F.Supp. 714.

48. N.J.—Rickards v. Sun Oil Co., 41 A.2d 267, 23 N.J.Misc. 89.

Loss through destruction of egress and ingress

(1) Defendant's negligence in operation of barge destroying drawbridge forming part of county highway, thus destroying the only means of egress from, and ingress to, by roadway, island where plaintiffs' businesses were located, was not proximate cause of plaintiffs' losses from expected gains, and, hence, was not actionable.—Rickards v. Sun Oil Co., supra.

(2) On the other hand, in an action for damages due to collision of steamship with a canal bridge affording the only means of access to a pleasure pier, it was held that plaintiff's loss of profits from failure to operate pier was proximately caused by destruction of bridge, and could be recovered under proper pleadings and proof.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Port Arthur, Tex.Civ.App., 209 S.W. 803, rehearing overruled 209 S.W. 991.

49. N.C.—State Highway & Public Works Commission v. Diamond S.S. Transp. Corp., 38 S.E.2d 214, 226 N.C. 371.

50. U.S.—U. S. v. South Carolina State Highway Dept., C.A.S.C., 171 F.2d 893—State Road Department of Fla. v. U. S., D.C.Fla., 85 F.Supp. 489—Freund v. The Chauncey M. Depew, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 263.

51. U.S.—The Barbara Cates, D.C. Pa., 17 F.Supp. 241.

52. N.Y.—Wascin v. Bronx Towing Line, 68 N.Y.S.2d 547, 188 Misc. 462, motion for new trial denied 77 N.Y.S.2d 25.

Noncompliance with statute

The command of statute prohibiting tying up or anchoring vessels in navigable channels in such manner as to prevent or obstruct passage of other vessels is not absolute, but establishes standard of care applicable to ordinary negligence actions for damages, and, if plaintiff departs from such standard and his departure creates field of danger which it was object of statute to eliminate, he cannot complain if he has been injured through the concurring negligence of defendant.—Wascin v. Bronx Towing Line, supra.

53. U.S.—Southern States Towing Lines v. Lee Transit Corp., C.C.A. N.Y., 144 F.2d 101—Mobile Bar Pilots Ass'n v. C. I. R., C.C.A. Ala., 97 F.2d 695—New Jersey Bell Tel. Co. v. Standard Oil Co., N.J., D.C.N.Y., 88 F.Supp. 806—South Carolina State Highway Dept. v. U. S., D.C. S.C., 78 F.Supp. 598.

58 C.J. p. 301 note 89.

54. U.S.—Smith v. Condry, Dist.Col., 1 How. 28, 11 L.Ed. 35.

58 C.J. p. 302 note 91.

55. U.S.—Dampskibsselskabet Atalanta A/S v. U. S., C.C.A. La., 31 F.2d 961—Passaic Valley Sewerage Commissioners v. U. S., 81 Ct.Cl. 503.

Cal.—City of Los Angeles v. Grace S.S. Co., 2 P.2d 401, 116 Cal.App. 237.

58 C.J. p. 302 note 92.

56. U.S.—Harrison v. Hughes, Del., 125 F. 860, 60 C.C.A. 442, certiorari denied 24 S.Ct. 846, 191 U.S. 575, 48 L.Ed. 308.

58 C.J. p. 302 note 93.

57. N.C.—Saulter v. New York & W. Steamship Co., 88 N.C. 123, 43 Am. R. 736.

the pilot is compulsory, if his negligence was not the sole cause of the injury, but the negligence of the master or crew contributed thereto, the owners are liable.[58] A pilot is under a duty to exercise that degree of vigilance which is commensurate with the circumstances.[59]

§ 78. —— Misconduct of Master or Crew

The owners of a vessel, and the vessel, are liable for damages caused by the torts of the master committed within the scope of his employment, but not for damages arising from personal torts committed outside the course and scope of his employment.

The owners of a vessel, and the vessel, are liable for damages caused to third persons or strangers by the torts of the master committed within the scope of his employment,[60] but not for damages arising from personal torts committed by the master outside the course and scope of his employment.[61] By the civil law and common law the owners of a vessel are liable to the full amount for damages caused by the misconduct of the master,[62] but, by the general maritime law of Europe and this country, the responsibility of the owners for the torts of the master is limited to the value of the vessel and freight, and by abandoning these they are discharged from all personal responsibility[63] Neither the owner nor the vessel is responsible for the acts of one who without the owner's authority or consent assumes to act as master.[64] Owners are not liable for crimes committed by a captain outside the scope of his employment.[65]

Embezzlement by master. Where the master of a vessel undertakes, for the shipper, to sell cargo and remit the proceeds, he ordinarily does so as supercargo or factor of the shipper, and if he embezzles or fails to account to the shipper for such proceeds, the vessel or her owners will not be liable therefor,[66] unless the owners expressly authorize the master to act as such a factor,[67] or unless he has implied authority to do so by the usage of trade[68] Where the owners and crew are stockholders in the cargo in a whaling voyage, the owners are liable for the embezzlement of the cargo by the master,[69] unless they have used due care in selecting him[70]

§ 79. —— Persons Liable

Generally speaking, those persons are liable for torts committed in the operation of a vessel who at the time sustain the relationship of master or principal to the person in immediate control of the vessel; where at the time of the tort the owner of the vessel is, with respect to the persons in control, merely a bailor, such persons, rather than the owner, are liable.

As a general rule, those persons are liable for torts committed in the operation of a vessel who at the time sustain the relationship of master or principal to the person in immediate control of the vessel,[71] and while, as discussed supra §§ 76-

58. U.S.—The Emma T. Grimes, D C.N.Y., 2 F Supp. 319.
N.C.—State Highway & Public Works Commission v Diamond S. S Transp Corp., 38 S E 2d 214, 226 N C 371.
58 C.J. p 302 note 95

Failure to displace pilot
The captain or navigating officer of a vessel in charge of a compulsory pilot would not be justified in taking the vessel out of the pilot's hands, unless it was manifest that he was incompetent or incapacitated for the safe navigation of the vessel.—Passaic Valley Sewerage Commissioners v. U. S, 81 Ct Cl. 503.

59. U.S—The Jason, D C.N Y, 74 F. Supp 34—Passaic Valley Sewerage Commissioners v. U. S., 81 Ct.Cl 503.

Reliance on care of others
Pilot of vessel being maneuvered at pier on Brooklyn side of East River is entitled to assume that a deeply laden vessel in coming into river is holding herself on range as marked out by range lights and to make calculations of his own heading and speed accordingly.—The Jason, D.C. N.Y, 74 F.Supp. 34.

60. U.S—Lamb v. Interstate S S. Co., C C A Ohio, 149 F 2d 914.
58 C J. p 302 note 97.

61. U.S.—The Aberfoyle, D C N Y, 1 F Cas No 16, Abb Adm 242, affirmed, C C, 1 F Cas No.17, 1 Blatchf 360
58 C J p 302 note 98.

Master acting as commodore of convoy
Steamship whose master was serving as commodore of convoy could not be held liable in rem for collision between another steamship, which was a member of convoy, and a sailing schooner on ground that its master had failed to issue order to masters of other ships to change course or speed, since the ship could not be held liable for faults charged to master relating to his duties as commodore—The Lillian E Kerr, D C.N.Y, 71 F.Supp 184, affirmed, C C. A., Publicover v. Alcoa S. S Co, 168 F 2d 672

62. U S—The Rebecca, D C Me., 20 F.Cas No 11,619, 1 Ware 187—Stinson v. Wyman, D C Me, 23 F.Cas No 13,460, 2 Ware 176.

63. U S—The Rebecca, D C Me, 20 F.Cas.No 11,619, 1 Ware 187—Stinson v. Wyman, D.C.Me., 23 F.Cas No.13,460, 2 Ware 176

64. U S.—The Calypso, Cal., 230 F. 962, 145 C C.A. 156.

65. U.S.—Ralston v. The State Rights, D C.Pa, 20 F.Cas No.11,540, Crabbe 22.

66. U S—The Alice, D C.Wash, 172 F. 527.
58 C J p 303 note 4

67. Pa—Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts 65.

68. Ohio.—The Jane Louisa v Williams, 1 Ohio Dec, Reprint, 228.
58 C J p 303 note 6.

69. U S—Joy v. Allen, C C.Mass., 13 F.Cas No 7,552, 2 Woodb. & M. 303.

70. U S—Joy v. Allen, supra.

71. U.S—Scull v. Raymond, D.C.N. Y., 18 F. 547.
58 C.J. p 303 note 10.

A company owning stock in corporation owning tug and barge was not an owner thereof, and was not liable for loss arising from sinking of such vessels.—The Cleveco, D.C.Ohio, 59 F Supp. 71, affirmed, C C.A., 154 F 2d 605.

Independent contractor
One who is under contract to dock or undock a vessel is responsible as principal for the negligence of the agent whom the contractor places on the ship in charge of operations—Publicker Industries v. American-Hawaiian S. S. Co, D C.Pa., 78 F.Supp. 223.

78, ordinarily the owner of the vessel is the person liable for torts, where his relationship to the persons in control of the vessel is merely that of bailor, he is not liable,[72] but those in control are responsible to the person injured.[73] Where the owners of several vessels form a partnership or hold themselves out as engaged in a joint enterprise, they are jointly liable for the default or negligence of those placed in charge of any of the vessels,[74] or each partner is liable for damages caused by the negligence of the servants and agents of the partnership while conducting its business[75] Moreover, where property is damaged through the concurrent fault of two vessels, both wrongdoers are liable to the injured person.[76] A corporation which has advertised itself as being the operator of a vessel cannot thereafter escape liability for loss of vessel, cargo, and passengers by showing that it in fact had no interest in the ship.[77]

§ 80. —— Lien

As a general rule, there is a maritime lien for the injury inflicted by a maritime tort.

It is well settled that there is a maritime lien for the injury inflicted by a maritime tort, with but few exceptions.[78] Thus, conversion by the master of goods shipped on the vessel is a tort which gives rise to a maritime lien.[79] A lien on a vessel for a maritime tort is enforceable only in the federal courts,[80] and courts other than courts of admiralty cannot enforce such a lien.[81] In some states a lien for torts not within admiralty jurisdiction is expressly provided for by statute[82]

A collision imposes a maritime lien on the wrongdoing vessel,[83] which is superior to all preëxisting liens,[84] except possibly sailors' liens for wages[85] While such a lien may be lost by laches,[86] except where so lost it follows the vessel into whosesoever hands the vessel may come.[87] A lien accorded by the maritime law for a maritime tort is a proprietary interest which travels with the vessel and may be enforced notwithstanding she has been sold in a jurisdiction other than that in which the tort was committed.[88] Possession is not necessary to the validity of this lien.[89] For the purposes of the lien the ship is considered as consisting of hull and engines, tackle, apparel, and furniture of all kinds,[90] including wireless equipment rented to the ship under a license agreement[91] Liens on a vessel for several collisions are entitled to priority in the inverse order of the happening of the collisions[92] A lien for collision is inchoate at the moment of the

Agent's liability for acts of subagent

Under operating agreement whereby defendant operated ship owned by United States Maritime Commission, a governmental agency, and had authority to select officers and crew, subject to approval of commission, master of ship was "subagent" of defendant, and, hence, responsibility for master's negligent operation of ship would rest on defendant.—Quinn v Southgate Nelson Corp, D C N Y, 36 F Supp 873, affirmed, C C A, 121 F 2d 190, certiorari denied Southgate Nelson Corp. v. Quinn, 62 S Ct. 135, 314 U S 682, 86 L.Ed 546

72. U S.—Pope v. Seckworth, D C. Pa, 47 F. 830

Duty of owner through bargee

With respect to liability for injuries caused by scow which broke loose, owner of scow, chartered by another, owed no duty, through its bargee, to surrounding shipping to remove or secure scow, lying in exposed position, previous to storm — Moran Towing & Transportation Co. v Sunset Lighterage Corporation, C C.A.N.Y., 62 F.2d 761.

73. U S.—Pope v. Seckworth, D.C. Pa., 47 F. 830.

74. U.S —Sun Mut. Ins. Co. v. Kountz Line, La, 7 S Ct. 1278, 122 U.S. 583, 30 L Ed. 1137.

75. U.S.—Bowas v. Pioneer Tow Line, D C Cal, 3 F.Cas No.1,713, 2 Sawy. 21.

76. U.S —The Nonpareil, D.C N Y, 12 F Supp 985.

Failure to perfect lien

Where tow was damaged by fault of towing tug and another vessel, fact that lien was not perfected on towing tug and stipulation for value was not exacted did not take case out of general rule as to amount of recovery against two wrongdoers for damage to innocent third person — The Nonpareil, supra

77. U S —The Jane Gray, D C.Wash., 99 F. 582

78. U S —The Atlanta, D.C Ga, 82 F Supp 218—The Seefahrer, D C. N.Y., 143 F. 697.
58 C.J. p 303 note 18.

79. U S —The Escanaba, D C Ill, 96 F. 252.

80. La —Young v. The Princess Royal, 22 La.Ann. 388, 2 Am R. 731

81. La.—Stevenson v. Edwards, 24 La Ann. 267.
58 C J. p 303 note 21.

82. U S —Sewerage & Water Board of New Orleans v The Cumulus, C. A La., 172 F.2d 102.
58 C J. p 303 note 22.

Validity of statute

(1) A state statute giving a lien on a vessel enforceable in rem is valid when it does not usurp admiralty jurisdiction.—Martin v West, Wash, 32 S Ct. 42, 222 U S 191, 56 L Ed 159, 36 L R A.,N.S., 592—Johnson v. Chicago, etc, El Co, Ill, 7 S.Ct. 254, 119 U.S 388, 30 L Ed 447.

(2) A state statute providing a remedy for a tort happening within its jurisdiction and applying a lien against a foreign vessel through whose fault the damages occurred is constitutional —Cordrey v. The Bee, 201 P. 202, 102 Or 636, 20 A L. R. 1079.

83. U S.—The John G Stevens, N Y, 18 S Ct. 544, 170 U.S. 113, 42 L Ed. 969.
58 C J p 304 note 23.

84. U S.—The Augusta, D C La, 15 F 2d 727.

85. U.S.—The Augusta, supra.

86. U S —The Admiral, D C Mass, 1 F.Cas No 84
58 C J p 304 note 26.

87. U S.—The China, N Y., 7 Wall. 53, 19 L Ed 67.
58 C J. p 304 note 27.

88. U S —The Avon, C C Ohio, 2 F. Cas No 680, Brown Adm. 170
58 C J. p 304 note 28.

89. U S —The China, N Y., 7 Wall. 53, 19 L Ed. 67—The Admiral, D C. Mass, 1 F Cas.No.84.

90. U S.—The Augusta, D C La, 15 F 2d 727.

91. U.S —The Augusta, supra.

92. U.S —The America, D C.N.J., 168 F. 424.
58 C J. p 304 note 32.

collision, and must be perfected by subsequent proceedings.[93] No maritime lien arises out of a collision with a bridge.[94]

§ 81. Actions and Other Proceedings

a. In general
b. Parties, process, notice, and pleading
c. Evidence
d. Trial
e. Damages and costs

a. In General

General rules, as affected by general or special statutes relating thereto, govern actions or proceedings against vessels or owners.

General rules, as affected by general or special statutes relating thereto, govern actions or proceedings against vessels or owners.[95] Debt on a simple contract, rather than covenant, is the proper form of action on a written memorandum of a ship's clerk for wages due for services on the ship.[96]

Whether an action against a vessel or her owner may be brought in a state court or must be brought in a court of admiralty depends on whether the admiralty court has exclusive jurisdiction of the question, under the rules discussed in Admiralty §§ 5–65.

b. Parties, Process, Notice, and Pleading

Except as regulated by special statutory provisions, the general rules applicable in civil actions, or in admiralty, as the case may be, apply in actions to enforce the rights and liabilities of vessels and their owners with respect to parties, process, notice, and pleading.

Except in so far as they are regulated by special statutory provisions, the general rules applicable in civil actions, or, where brought in an admiralty court, the rules applicable in admiralty cases, apply in actions or proceedings to enforce the rights and liabilities of vessels and their owners, with respect to questions of parties,[97] process,[98] and notice.[99]

Pleading. Except where such actions are regulated by special statutes,[1] the rules of pleading in civil actions generally, and, where applicable, the rules of pleading in admiralty, apply in actions or proceedings by or against the owner or vessel.[2] All material facts necessary to constitute plaintiff's cause of action must be alleged,[3] and all matters of defense must be alleged in the answer.[4] Where the action is brought under a state statute the declaration or complaint should show the applicability of the statutory provisions to the cause of action.[5] Where plaintiff seeks to recover for negligence in the operation of the ship after discovery of peril he must conform to the rule prevailing in actions for negligence generally, as discussed in Negligence §

93. U.S.—The Helen, C.C.A.N.Y., 5 F.2d 54.

94. U.S.—The Rock Island Bridge, Ill., 6 Wall. 213, 18 L.Ed. 753

95. Mich.—The City of Erie v. Canfield, 27 Mich. 479.
58 C.J. p. 304 note 38.

Statutes construed
U.S.—Freeman v. A. H. Bull S.S. Co., C.C.A. Fla., 125 F.2d 774
58 C.J. p. 304 note 38.

In rem or in personam
Where bridge was not used for the preservation and improvement of navigable waters of the United States, and had no connection, direct or remote, with navigation or preservation or improvement of navigable waters, and was not used for any of the other purposes enumerated in provision of the Rivers and Harbors Act relating to injury to harbor or river improvements, but bridge was built and apparently maintained by the department of agriculture in connection with one of its experimental stations, proceeding in rem against vessel could not be maintained by the United States for damages to bridge from collision, but dismissal of proceeding would be without prejudice to proceed against vessel owners.—The Dixie, D.C.Tex., 39 F.Supp. 395.

96. Ky.—Pell v. Dickens, 3 B.Mon. 57.

97. N.Y.—Sager v. Nichols, 1 Daly 1.
58 C.J. p. 305 note 41.

Who may sue
(1) Where a bridge was built and had always been maintained by the town, an action for injury thereto was properly brought in the name of the town.—Menasha v. The Portage, 26 Wis. 534

(2) City and county having sufficient title to bridge may maintain action for damage resulting when tug struck piling of bridge.—City and County of San Francisco v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 82 F.Supp. 313

Highway department as corporation
Even though department of highways is not a "corporation" in the true sense of statute creating it, it was given the same rights as a corporation and, therefore, for purposes of suit by department to recover for damages to bridge maintained by department as result of collision with bridge by ship, rules applicable to corporations are applicable thereto.—Department of Highways v. Lykes Bros. S.S. Co., 24 So.2d 623, 209 La. 381.

98. Ark.—Ford v. Adams, 15 S.W. 186, 54 Ark. 137.
58 C.J. p. 305 note 42.

99. N.J.—Howell v. Gaddis, 31 N.J. Law 313
58 C.J. p. 305 note 43.

1. Mo.—The Blue Ridge v. The Time, 9 Mo. 650
58 C.J. p. 305 note 45.

2. Modification
Although original libel exhibited as a single account libelant's dealings with vessel on three voyages seeking recovery for general balance, a later pleading which set up that there were three separate voyages and that what was claimed was a cash advance on the first voyage, and small balance of cash advance on last voyage, and the supplies for the last voyage, was effectual to modify the claim.—Pavlis v. Jackson, C.C.A. Fla., 131 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 761, 318 U.S. 769, 87 L.Ed. 1140.

3. Mich.—Cheboygan Lumber Co. v. Delta Transp. Co., 58 N.W. 630, 100 Mich. 16
58 C.J. p. 305 note 49

4. Hawaii.—Pacific Mail S.S. Co. v. The Pacific, 3 Hawaii Fed. 24
58 C.J. p. 305 note 50.

5. Ohio.—Borden v. The Eagle, 1 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 473, 10 West.L.J. 137
58 C.J. p. 305 note 51.

191, requiring plaintiff to allege that defendant's servants saw or should have seen plaintiff's peril,[6] and that plaintiff's peril was obvious or was known to defendant's servants.[7] Since, as discussed supra § 74, the person in possession and control is liable as owner for supplies furnished the vessel, a mortgagee in possession is properly described as owner in a declaration or complaint for supplies furnished.[8]

c. Evidence

(1) Burden of proof and presumptions
(2) Admissibility
(3) Weight and sufficiency

(1) Burden of Proof and Presumptions

The general rule that the party having the affirmative of an issue has the burden of proving his claim applies to actions by or against vessels and their owners; the mere fact of an injury to or by a vessel does not create a presumption of negligence, but in a proper case the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur may be applied.

In accordance with the general rule, discussed in Evidence § 104, that the burden of proof is on him who has the affirmative of an issue, plaintiff has the burden of proving every fact material to his cause of action where he seeks to recover for services rendered the vessel[9] or advances;[10] and, where negligence is the basis of a party's claim, the burden is on him to prove all the essential elements of the cause of action,[11] such as negligence,[12] the identity of the vessel claimed to have caused the injury,[13] freedom from contributory negligence, where that is the rule in negligence actions generally,[14] and the amount of damages.[15] Defendant or libelee has the burden of proving his defenses or offsets,[16] and one seeking exoneration from liability on a claim based on negligence has the burden of proving his freedom from negligence.[17]

Presumptions and res ipsa loquitur. The mere fact that a vessel suffered or caused injuries does not of itself, apart from causative factors, create a presumption of negligence.[18] However, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur, discussed generally in Negligence §§ 220(2)–220(12), may be applied in proper cases so as to relieve the claimant of the burden of proving negligence or so as to place on the adverse party the burden of exoneration.[19] The presumption of

6. Ala.—Daniels v. Carney, 42 So. 452, 148 Ala. 81, 121 Am.S.R. 34, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 920, 12 Ann.Cas. 612
58 C.J. p. 305 note 53

7. Ala.—Daniels v. Carney, supra.
58 C.J. p. 305 note 54.

8. Mass.—Luce v. Hadley, 119 Mass. 229.

9. Va.—Bardach Iron, etc., Co. v. Charleston Port Terminals, 129 S.E. 687, 143 Va. 656

10. Mass.—Bass v. O'Brien, 12 Gray 477.

11. Precise cause of injury
Where it is proved that complaining vessel was crowded out of her course by negligent navigation of a passing vessel, the precise character of the underwater obstacle which caused damage need not be established in order to impose liability on passing vessel.—The Fidelity, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.Supp. 180

12. U.S.—Smith Scow Corp. v. Seaboard Great Lakes Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 146 F.2d 535—The Barbara, D.C.Mass., 62 F.Supp. 265—In re Defense Plant Corp., D.C.Tenn., 58 F.Supp. 931—The Marmor, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.Supp. 942
Ill.—Batchelder v. Hecla Transp. Co., 178 Ill.App. 105.
58 C.J. p. 306 note 61.

In proceeding for exoneration from liability
U.S.—The Hygrade No. 18, D.C.Mass., 41 F.Supp. 304.

13. U.S.—The Fidelity, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.Supp. 180.

14. Ill.—Batchelder v. Hecla Transp. Co., 178 Ill.App. 105

15. U.S.—City of Philadelphia v. S.C. Loveland Co., D.C.Pa., 81 F.Supp. 585.
Measure of damages see infra subdivision e of this section

16. U.S.—State Road Department of Fla. v. U.S., D.C.Fla., 85 F.Supp. 489, affirmed, C.A., U.S. v. State Road Dept. of Fla., 189 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 291—The Daly No. 48, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 279
58 C.J. p. 306 note 63.

Libelee violating statutory rule
Libelee or defendant, as the case may be, if violating statutory rule at time of accident, has burden of showing that his fault could not have contributed to disaster.
U.S.—Canada S.S. Lines v. Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co., C.C.A.Ill., 81 F.2d 100—South Carolina State Highway Dept. v. U.S., D.C.S.C., 78 F.Supp. 598, affirmed, C.A., 171 F.2d 893
Wis.—City of Marinette v. Goodrich Transit Co., 140 N.W. 1094, 153 Wis. 92, Ann.Cas.1917B 935.

The Major and Minor Fault Rule, namely, that where the fault on the part of one vessel is established by uncontradicted testimony, and such fault is of itself sufficient to account for the accident, it is not enough for such vessel to raise a doubt with respect to the management of the other vessel, is inapplicable where the fault of the one vessel is not of itself sufficient to account for the accident.—The Barge No. 16, C.C.A.Va., 152 F.2d 76

Inevitable accident
Defendant pleading inevitable accident or act of God has the burden of proving such defense; and he must prove that the accident occurred wholly through an act of God and entirely without fault on the part of defendant's agents.—State Road Department of Fla. v. U.S., D.C.Fla., 85 F.Supp. 489, affirmed, C.A., U.S. v. State Road Dept. of Fla., 189 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 291

Maintenance of lookout
Every doubt as to performance of duty of vessel to maintain lookout and effect of nonperformance should be resolved against vessel sought to be inculpated until she vindicates herself by testimony conclusive to the contrary.—Agger v. The Beatrice and Rose, D.C.Me., 84 F.Supp. 761.

17. U.S.—The Trenton, D.C.N.Y., 22 F.Supp. 833, affirmed, C.C.A., In re O'Brien Bros., 101 F.2d 1017.

18. Wash.—Pacific Coast R. Co. v. American Mail Line, 172 P.2d 226, 25 Wash.2d 809.

19. U.S.—Ladd v. U.S., D.C.Va., 97 F.Supp. 80, affirmed, C.A., U.S. v. Ladd, 193 F.2d 929—State Road Department of Fla. v. U.S., D.C.Fla., 85 F.Supp. 489, affirmed, C.A., U.S. v. State Road Dept. of Fla., 189 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 291
Cal.—California Union Oil Co. v. Rideout, 177 P. 196, 38 Cal.App. 629.

negligence arising from the collision of a moving vessel with a vessel at anchor, discussed in Collisions § 168, applies to a collision with any stationary or immovable object,[20] such as an object or structure fixed to the land,[21] or with stationary aids to navigation, such as dolphins,[22] or to injuries caused otherwise than by collision to a moored vessel,[23] as, for example, injuries to moored vessel or other fixed objects by swells from the passing vessel,[24] although, as to the latter proposition, the contrary has also been held.[25] Such presumption is only prima facie[26] and is subject to rebuttal by evidence tending to negative the inference of negligence;[27] and the presumption is available only against a person who was in control of the movement of the vessel, and not to a person whose control of the vessel's movement had been turned over to an independent contractor employed to pilot the vessel.[28]

Where it is shown that supplies were furnished a vessel which defendants own, the presumption arises that the vessel was operated for their benefit.[29]

Facts justifying application of doctrine

In admiralty proceeding by United States to limit liability arising out of fire and explosion on Coast Guard boat, evidence showing that leaks in tank and open fuel line could have caused accumulation of fumes and that there was an explosion extraordinary in character which would not have occurred if one having control had used proper care, justified application of doctrine of res ipsa loquitur in absence of other explanation or evidence of regular inspections.—Austerberry v. U. S, C A Mich, 169 F 2d 583.

Exclusive control

In admiralty proceeding by United States to limit liability arising out of explosion and fire on Coast Guard boat, where crew and commanding officer were on board at time of explosion exercising control, although boat was out of water in boat yard, for purposes of applying doctrine of res ipsa loquitur, boat would be considered to have been under exclusive control of Coast Guard in determining negligence of government.—Austerberry v. U. S., supra.

20. U.S.—P. Dougherty Co v U. S, D C Del, 97 F Supp 287—City of Philadelphia v. S C. Loveland Co., D.C Pa., 81 F.Supp 585
N C.—State Highway & Public Works Commission v. Diamond S S. Transp. Corp, 38 S E 2d 214, 226 N.C. 371.

21. U S—State Road Department of Fla v. U S, D C Fla, 85 F Supp 489, affirmed, C.A, U. S v. State Road Dept. of Fla, 189 F 2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct 291—City of Philadelphia v S. C. Loveland Co., D C.Pa, 81 F.Supp 585—Wilmington Ry. Bridge Co. v. Franco-Ottoman Shipping Co, N. C., 259 F. 166, 170 C C.A. 234.
Cal.—San Francisco Bay Toll-Bridge Co v Leslie California Salt Co, 25 P 2d 268, 134 Cal App 237.
Del.—Pennsylvania R Co v Eastern Transp. Co., 178 A. 580, 6 W.W Harr 435
58 C.J. p 306 note 66.

22. U S—U S. v Eastern Transp Co, D C Md, 50 F Supp 815

23. N Y—Wascin v. Bronx Towing Line, 68 N Y S 2d 547, 188 Misc 462, motion for new trial denied 77 N Y S 2d 25.

24. U S—West India Fruit & S. S Co v Raymond, C A Fla., 190 F 2d 673—Western Oil & Fuel Terminal Co. v The Elisha Woods, D C Ky., 89 F Supp 862—Martin Marine Transp Co v. U. S, D C.Pa, 66 F Supp. 673—The Rotherfield, D.C. Ala, 123 F 460
58 C J. p 306 note 67.

Necessity of proper mooring and seaworthiness

The mere evidence that damage to moored ship results from swells of passing vessel is insufficient on which to base a recovery, since a duty exists on ship to be seaworthy and so moored as not to be damaged by ordinary swells created by a passing ship—Martin Marine Transp Co v. U. S, D C Pa, 66 F Supp. 673

25. U.S—The Washington, D C Va, 182 F. 885

26. U.S—West India Fruit & S S Co v Raymond, C A Fla, 190 F.2d 673—City of Philadelphia v S C Loveland Co., D C Pa, 81 F Supp 585—U S. v. Eastern Transp Co, D.C Md, 50 F Supp 815.
N Y—Wascin v Bronx Towing Line, 68 N Y S 2d 547, 188 Misc. 462, motion for new trial denied 77 N Y S 2d 25.

Conflicting evidence

Presumption of negligence from collision of vessel with bridge is but evidence of negligence which may be overcome by other evidence creating conflict, and trial court must determine conflict.—San Francisco Bay Toll-Bridge Co. v Leslie California Salt Co., 25 P 2d 268, 134 Cal App 237.

27. U S—West India Fruit & S S Co v Raymond, C A.Fla, 190 F 2d 673—P. Dougherty Co. v. U S., D C Del, 97 F Supp. 287—City of Philadelphia v. S C Loveland Co, D C Pa., 81 F.Supp. 585—Wilmington Ry Bridge Co. v. Franco-Ottoman Shipping Co., N.C., 259 F. 166, 170 C C A 234
Del—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Eastern Transp. Co, 178 A 580, 6 W W. Harr 435.
N.Y.—Triborough Bridge Authority v. Bronx Towing Line, 52 N.Y S 2d 62, 184 Misc 254, affirmed 105 N. Y.S 2d 911, 278 App.Div 917.

Sufficiency of rebuttal evidence

(1) Evidence showing that owner of derrick lighter, which had no power or steering apparatus and was under exclusive command of master of tug having it in tow, was free from negligence in connection with collision with bridge overcame presumption of negligence against owner of a moving vessel in colliding with a bridge—Triborough Bridge Authority v Bronx Towing Line, supra

(2) In action by state road department against the United States for damage to bridge struck by vessels of the United States in harbor when severe wind caused vessels to drag anchor and collide with bridge, the law of averages could not be made criterion of liability, and fact that fourteen vessels dragged anchor and seven did not and that only five collided with bridge was merely circumstances to be considered, and each vessel was required to show that it exercised proper care under the circumstances—State Road Department of Fla. v U S, D C Fla, 85 F Supp. 489, affirmed, C.A., U. S v State Road Dept of Fla, 189 F 2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S Ct. 291.

Inevitable accident

Where a drifting ship collides with an object which is in no way at fault, the ship must show affirmatively that drifting was the result of inevitable accident which human skill and precaution could not have prevented—South Carolina State Highway Dept v U. S, D C S.C., 78 F Supp 598, affirmed, C.A., 171 F 2d 893.

28. N C—State Highway & Public Works Commission v. Diamond S. S Transp. Corp, 38 S E 2d 214, 226 N C 371.

29. Pa—Blackstock v. Leidy, 19 Pa. 335.

(2) Admissibility

The general rules governing admissibility of evidence in civil actions or in admiralty, as the case may be, apply in actions or proceedings by or against vessels or their owners.

The general rules governing the admissibility of evidence in civil actions, or proceedings in admiralty when the suit is brought in an admiralty court, apply to actions or proceedings by or against the vessel or her owners.[30]

(3) Weight and Sufficiency

The weight and sufficiency of evidence in actions by or against vessels or their owners is governed by the general rules applicable in civil actions or in admiralty, as the case may be.

As in civil actions generally, as discussed in Evidence § 1018, or proceedings in admiralty, as discussed in Admiralty § 140, the rule requiring the party having the burden of proving a disputed issue of fact to do so by a preponderance of the evidence applies in actions or proceedings by or against a vessel or her owners on contract[31] Testimony which is uncontradicted and not inherently improbable should be accepted as true[32] One who seeks to recover damages for injuries sustained by reason of the negligent management or navigation of a vessel must establish such negligence by a preponderance of the evidence,[33] and the evidence

30. Wis.—Atkinson v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 31 N.W. 164, 69 Wis. 5.
58 C.J. p. 306 note 72, p. 321 note 17 [d] (1).

Evidence held admissible

Mass.—Hines v. Eastern S. S. Lines, 139 N.E. 823, 245 Mass. 355.
58 C.J. p. 306 note 72 [a].

31. U.S.—The Garfield No. 6, D.C. Wash., 36 F.2d 501.
58 C.J. p. 306 note 76.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) In general.—International Bureau v. Bethlehem Steel Co., C.A.N.Y., 192 F.2d 304—Gibbons Engineering & Mach. Co. v. U.S., D.C.Mass., 87 F.Supp. 207—58 C.J. p. 306 note 76 [a].

(2) To justify or warrant recovery on contract generally.—Rathbun v. Halvorson, C.A.Fla., 181 F.2d 57—The Paul E. Thurlow, D.C.N.Y., 53 F. Supp. 362.

(3) To show or sustain findings as to terms of contract.

U.S.—Cramp Shipbuilding Co. v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., C.A.Pa., 181 F.2d 939—The Ky-Ill, C.C.A.Ky., 50 F.2d 70.

La.—Baer v. Chatellier, App., 34 So. 2d 798.

(4) To justify recovery of particular amount for repairs to ship.—Hugo v. Hedger S. S. Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 142 F.2d 349—Manchester Marine Ry. & Const. Co. v. The Annie, D.C.Mass., 101 F.Supp. 748.

(5) To establish that repair work on boat was so defectively done as to be of no benefit to owner of boat.—Walter E. Canulette & Son v. Clesi, La.App., 39 So. 2d 853.

(6) To sustain finding that labor, materials, and supplies were furnished at request of defendant, either himself or acting through his agent, as against defendant's contention that, although he owned the vessel he was allowing another to use it without himself sharing in the profits and that he was not connected with vessel's operation by agency between himself and the operator.—Crofton v. Pappas, 171 P.2d 959, 75 Cal. App. 2d 814.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish that employee of stevedoring contractor stole missing cargo.—Remington Rand, Inc. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 98 F.Supp. 334.

(2) To establish defendant's reconventional demand for payment on cost plus basis.—Baer v. Chatellier, La.App., 34 So. 2d 798.

(3) To show other matters.—The O'Leary, D.C.Pa., 74 F.Supp. 313—58 C.J. p. 306 note 76 [b].

Evidence of matters exclusively within knowledge of one party

In action against boat repairman to recover alleged overpayments made on oral contract as result of padded bills for work done, wherein repairman filed a reconventional demand, testimony of repairman would be carefully scrutinized where plaintiffs were unable to produce any evidence touching on number of workmen employed by repairman and number of hours actually required to repair the damage.—Baer v. Chatellier, La.App., 34 So. 2d 798.

32. U.S.—The Trenton, D.C.N.Y., 22 F.Supp. 833, affirmed, C.C.A., In re O'Brien Bros., 101 F.2d 1017.

33. U.S.—Agger v. The Beatrice and Rose, D.C.Me., 84 F.Supp. 761.
58 C.J. p. 307 note 77.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) In general.—Agger v. The Beatrice and Rose, D.C.Me., 84 F.Supp. 761—Lynch v. The Edward S. Atwood, D.C.N.Y., 82 F.Supp. 722, reversed on other grounds, C.A., Lynch v. Agwilines, Inc., 184 F.2d 826, opinion supplemented 186 F.2d 796—M. & J. Tracey, Inc., v. The Lucijana, D.C.N.Y., 47 F.Supp. 727—The Daly No. 67, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 641—The Fidelity, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.Supp. 180—The Isabel A. McAllister, D.C.N.Y., 38 F.Supp. 585—58 C.J. p. 307 note 77 [a].

(2) To identify vessel causing damage.—The Emma T. Grimes, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 319.

(3) To show plaintiff's ownership of damaged property.—City and County of San Francisco v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 82 F.Supp. 313.

(4) To establish unseaworthiness of vessel.—O'Brien Bros. v. Moran Towing Corp., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 614, affirmed, C.C.A., Beard's Erie Basin v. O'Brien Bros., 162 F.2d 176.

(5) To show that damage was caused by negligence of particular party or his agents.—U.S. v. South Carolina State Highway Dept., C.A.S.C., 171 F.2d 893—U.S. v. The John R. Williams, C.C.A.N.Y., 144 F.2d 451, certiorari denied Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. v. U.S., 65 S.Ct. 271, 323 U.S. 782, 89 L.Ed. 625—Ladd v. U.S., D.C.Va., 97 F.Supp. 80, affirmed, C.A., U.S. v. Ladd, 193 F.2d 929—D. M. Picton & Co. v. U.S., D.C.Tex., 96 F. Supp. 1010—Agger v. The Beatrice and Rose, D.C.Me., 84 F.Supp. 761—City and County of San Francisco v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 82 F.Supp. 313—City of Philadelphia v. S.C. Loveland Co., D.C.Pa., 81 F.Supp. 585—South Carolina State Highway Dept. v. U.S., D.C.S.C., 78 F.Supp. 598, affirmed, C.A., 171 F.2d 893—The Daly No. 67, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 641—The Daly No. 48, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 279—The Barbara Cates, D.C.Pa., 17 F.Supp. 241—The McAllister No. 55, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 470—Memphis & C. Packet Co. v. Overman Carriage Co., C.C.Ohio, 93 F. 246.

(6) To show that accident was due to act of God.—Pleasure Beach Park Co. v. Bridgeport Dredge & Dock Co., 165 A. 691, 116 Conn. 496.

(7) To show that particular party's management or navigation was sole cause of damage.—The Agnes A. Moran, C.C.A.N.Y., 143 F.2d 964—The Julia C. Davin, C.C.A.N.Y., 70 F.2d 268—Petition of Texas Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 340—Eastern Transp. Co. v. The Vera Cruz, D.C.N.Y., 94 F. Supp. 695, affirmed, C.A., 186 F.2d 305—Board of Chosen Freeholders of Cumberland County v. J. V. Paxson may be sufficient even though it is circumstantial.[34] The party having the burden of proof must, by sufficient evidence, identify the offending vessel,[35] and establish the responsibility of defendant for its management or navigation at the time and place of the injury,[36] and defendant must establish contributory negligence by a preponderance of evidence.[37] Where plaintiff's evidence shows that the negligent management or navigation was the proximate cause of the injury, defendant must rebut such evidence.[38] Where libelees were not present at the survey of a damaged boat, strictest proof of the character and extent of the damage is required.[39] The owner is not required to repair the vessel in order to establish the amount of the damages, but may liquidate the damages by expert testimony;[40] such method of proof, however, should only be permitted in cases of special circumstances which necessitate a departure from the ordinary rule.[41]

d. Trial

The general rules governing trials in civil actions or in admiralty, as the case may be, apply in an action by or against a vessel or its owner.

The general rules governing the trial of civil actions, or, where brought in that court, the rules in admiralty, apply to actions or proceedings by or against a vessel or her owner. Accordingly, in an action for supplies, the weight to be given to evi-

Co, D C N J, 196 F 156, affirmed J W Paxson Co. v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Cumberland County, 201 F. 656, 120 C C A. 84.

(8) To show that vessel causing heavy swells travelled at excessive speed under the circumstances — Ladd v. U S, D C Va, 97 F Supp 80, affirmed, C A., U S v Ladd, 193 F 2d 929—Western Oil & Fuel Terminal Co v. The Elisha Woods, D C Ky, 89 F Supp 862—The Vijax No 2, D C N Y, 27 F Supp. 159—The Julia C Davin, D C N Y, 6 F.Supp 691, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 70 F 2d 268.

(9) To show absence of causal connection between parting of hawser line and sinking of barge when two of lines by which barge was fastened to derrick parted during a rough sea permitting barge to move over submerged piling which penetrated its bottom — The Barge No. 16, C C.A. Va, 152 F.2d 76.

(10) To show contributory negligence.

U.S — Agger v. The Beatrice and Rose, D C Me, 84 F.Supp 761.

Cal.—San Francisco Bay Toll-Bridge Co v. Leslie California Salt Co., 25 P.2d 268, 134 Cal.App. 237.

(11) To support findings.

U S — U. S v. Ladd, C A.Va., 193 F 2d 929—Westchester Fire Ins Co v Buffalo Housewrecking & Salvage Co, C C A N.Y, 129 F 2d 319—Standard Oil Co of New York v. Mascarenhas, C.C A Mass, 59 F 2d 341—The Bumble Bee, D.C N.Y., 1 F.Supp 327, affirmed, C.C.A., Ira S Bushey & Sons v. Huron Stevedoring Co, 64 F.2d 1014.

Cal — San Francisco Bay Toll-Bridge Co. v Leslie California Salt Co, 25 P.2d 268, 134 Cal.App. 237.

Wis — City of Marinette v Goodrich Transit Co., 140 N.W. 1094, 153 Wis. 92, Ann.Cas 1917B 935.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To show negligence or fault generally.

U S — Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co v. Metropolitan Sand & Gravel Corp, D C N Y., 82 F Supp. 595—The C G R-180, D C.Mich, 70 F. Supp 975—Martin Marine Transp Co v U S, D.C Pa, 66 F Supp. 673—The Graebner, D C N.Y., 66 F. Supp. 456—U S. v Eastern Transp. Co, D C Md, 50 F.Supp. 815—The Marmor, D C N Y, 43 F Supp. 942—The Fidelity, D C N Y., 43 F Supp 180—Wilmington Ry. Bridge Co. v Franco-Ottoman Shipping Co, N C, 259 F 166, 170 C C.A 234.

Ill — City of Chicago v Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co, 53 N E 2d 34, 321 Ill App 300.

La.—Walter E Canulette & Son v. Clesi, App, 39 So 2d 853.

58 C J p 307 note 77.

(2) To show damage was due to inevitable accident.

U S — State Road Department of Fla v U S., D C Fla, 85 F Supp 489, affirmed, C A, U S v State Road Dept of Fla, 189 F 2d 591.

N.Y.—Nicholas v Pfeifer Oil Transp Co., 62 N.Y.S 2d 474.

(3) To show contributory negligence — Salmons Dredging Corp. v. Herma, C.A.S C, 180 F 2d 233.

(4) To show that free gasoline found its way into bilges of Coast Guard vessel so as to give rise to vapors which allegedly caused explosion, fire, and resulting damages.— The C. G. R-180, D.C Mich, 70 F. Supp 975

(5) To show unseaworthiness — In re Defense Plant Corp, D.C Tenn., 58 F Supp 931.

(6) To support findings — The Barge No. 16, C C.A.Va., 152 F.2d 76

(7) To show negligence in attempting to pass through the draw at an improper stage of the tide — The Cromwell, D C.N.C, 247 F. 207, affirmed Wilmington Ry. Bridge Co v. Franco-Ottoman Shipping Co, 259 F. 166, 170 C.C.A. 234.

(8) To show other matters

U.S — Ladd v. U. S, D.C.Va., 97 F. Supp. 80, affirmed, C A, U. S v. Ladd, 193 F 2d 929—Eastern Transp Co. v. Southern Transp Co., D C Va, 69 F.Supp. 642—The Barbara, D C Mass, 62 F Supp 265.

La.—Department of Highways v. Whiteman Bros, App, 29 So 2d 399

58 C J p 307 note 77 [b]

On petition for exoneration

Where vessel was plainly at fault in proceeding without required lights and in colliding with schooner, on petition of owner of schooner for exoneration from liability, any doubt was required to be resolved in schooner's favor unless schooner was also clearly at fault — The Barbara, D C Mass, 62 F Supp 265.

34. U S — Austerberry v. U. S., C.A. Mich., 169 F.2d 583

35. U S.—City of Gretna v. Defense Plant Corp, C C A La., 159 F 2d 412

58 C J p 307 note 78

Evidence held insufficient

Libellant, seeking to impose liability on tug for damage allegedly caused to tanker being towed by another tug when first tug crowded second tug and tanker out of river channel and caused it to strand, failed to sustain burden of proving identity of tug which crowded second tug and tanker out of channel — The Fidelity, D C N.Y, 43 F.Supp. 180.

36. U S — City of Gretna v Defense Plant Corp., C C A La., 159 F.2d 412.

37. U S — Truelson v. Whitney, etc., Shipping Co., C C A.Tex, 10 F.2d 412, certiorari denied 46 S Ct. 474, 271 U S. 661, 70 L.Ed 1138.

58 C.J. p 307 note 79

38. U S — The Luke, D C N Y., 19 F 2d 923, affirmed, C C.A, 19 F.2d 925

58 C.J. p 307 note 80.

39. U.S.—The Confidence, D.C.N.Y., 286 F. 742.

40. U.S.—The Mollie Scully, D.C.N. Y., 52 F.2d 239.

41. U.S — The Mollie Scully, supra.

dence to show that the purchaser was agent for the owner is for the jury,[42] and it is for them to decide what are necessaries for which the owner would be liable.[43] If there is conflicting evidence in an action on a contract for supplies, services, or advances, and such evidence is sufficient to raise an issue of fact, the question is one for the jury and should not be disposed of by the court as a matter of law.[44] Where the evidence is conflicting or is such that reasonable minds may draw different conclusions therefrom, it is for the jury or other trier of facts to determine whether the management of the vessel was negligent,[45] whether the person in charge of the vessel at a given time was the agent of the owner,[46] the seaworthiness of the vessel,[47] what was the proximate cause of the injury,[48] and whether particular conduct constituted contributory negligence;[49] but, where the evidence is such that only one conclusion may be drawn, such conclusion follows as a matter of law.[50] Where the evidence fails to show defendant's negligence, a directed verdict in his favor is proper,[51] or, if the suit is in admiralty, the court will dismiss the libel.[52]

The instructions should correctly state the law applicable to the particular case.[53]

Findings. Where the evidence is conflicting, a court of admiralty may find that damage done resulted from the injury caused by defendant.[54]

e. Damages and Costs

As a general rule, the measure of damages for which the owners and vessel are liable in cases of negligent management or navigation is the actual loss sustained by the injured person; the libelant is entitled to costs in a proper case.

The measure of damages for which the owners and vessel are liable in cases of negligent management or navigation is usually the actual loss sustained by the person damaged as a proximate result of the vessel's negligence.[55]

42. Md.—Henderson v. Mayhew, 2 Gill 393, 41 Am.D. 434.

43. S.C.—Burquin v. Flinn, 12 S.C.L. 316.

44. N.J.—James Healing Co. v. Walter, 77 A.2d 473, 10 N.J.Super. 492.
N.Y.—Oldman-Magee Boiler Works v. Ocean & Inland Transp. Co., 205 N.Y.S. 550, 210 App.Div. 183.

45. U.S.—U. S. v. South Carolina State Highway Dept., C.A.S.C., 171 F.2d 893.
Del.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Eastern Transp. Co., 178 A. 580, 6 W.W. Harr. 435.
Mass.—Hines v. Eastern S. S. Lines, 139 N.E. 823, 245 Mass. 385.
N.C.—State Highway & Public Works Commission v. Diamond S. S. Transp. Corp., 38 S.E.2d 214, 226 N.C. 371.
58 C.J. p. 307 note 88.

Interference with pilot
Whether master should interfere with navigation of vessel by compulsory pilot is question of fact for jury.—Hinman v. Moran Towing & Transportation Co., 268 N.Y.S. 409, 241 App.Div. 612, motion dismissed 271 N.Y.S. 1092, 241 App.Div. 746

46. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of New York v. Mascarenhas, C.C.A.Mass., 59 F.2d 341

47. U.S.—Bruszewski v. Isthmian S. S. Co., C.C.A.Pa., 163 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 451, 333 U.S. 828, 92 L.Ed. 1113

48. W.Va.—American Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Ohio Val. Sand Co., 50 S.E.2d 884, 131 W.Va. 736.
58 C.J. p. 308 note 89.

49. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of New York v. Mascarenhas, C.C.A.Mass., 59 F.2d 341.

50. U.S.—The Jason, D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp. 34.

Negligence
U.S.—Western Oil & Fuel Terminal Co. v. The Elisha Woods, D.C.Ky., 89 F.Supp. 862

Absence of negligence
Ship was not, as matter of law, guilty of negligence in furnishing stevedore dry cable for use on drum hidden from winchman, although dryness made kinks more likely to form.—De Luca v. Shepard S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 67 F.2d 437, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 562, 291 U.S. 685, 78 L.Ed. 1072

51. Mich.—Montgomery v. Muskegon Booming Co., 50 N.W. 729, 88 Mich. 633, 26 Am.S.R. 308.

52. U.S.—Passano v. The New Brunswick, D.C.N.Y., 43 F. 174.

53. Mass.—Hines v. Eastern S. S. Lines, 139 N.E. 823, 245 Mass. 385.
58 C.J. p. 308 note 92.

Instructions held proper
U.S.—U. S. v. State Road Dept. of Fla., C.A.Fla., 189 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 291.
58 C.J. p. 308 note 92 [b].

54. U.S.—The Harrisburg, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.2d 360

55. U.S.—U. S. v. Ladd, C.A.Va., 193 F.2d 929.—U. S. v. The John R. Williams, C.C.A.N.Y., 144 F.2d 451, certiorari denied Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. v. U. S., 65 S.Ct. 271, 323 U.S. 782, 89 L.Ed. 625.—City and County of San Francisco v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 82 F.Supp. 313.
Tex.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. City of Port Arthur, Civ.App., 209 S.W. 803, rehearing overruled 209 S.W. 991.
58 C.J. p. 308 note 96.

Cost of repairing bridge
U.S.—State Road Department of Fla. v. U. S., D.C.Fla., 85 F.Supp. 489, affirmed, C.A., U. S. v. State Road Department of Fla., 189 F.2d 591.
N.Y.—Triborough Bridge Authority v. Bronx Towing Line, 52 N.Y.S.2d 62, 184 Misc. 254, affirmed 105 N.Y.S.2d 911, 278 App.Div. 917.

Cost of temporary facilities
(1) Where permanent bridge which state road department had obligation to maintain was damaged when vessels of United States dragged anchor and collided with bridge during severe wind squall, cost of constructing and removing temporary facilities essential to maintain regular flow of traffic around those portions of permanent bridge which had been damaged was legally part of damage sustained by injury to permanent bridge, and expense of construction and removal of such temporary facilities constituted "actual damage" to highway within purview of state statute making such damage recoverable.—U. S. v. State Road Dept. of Fla., C.A.Fla., 189 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 291.

(2) Where vice president of responsible construction company, at hearing before United States engineers having supervision over river to consider construction of temporary bridge, announced willingness to restore bridge, which had been damaged by petitioners' vessel colliding therewith, for specified sum, it was held that such announcement, although not in form of offer, was equivalent to bid, and became limit of recovery against vessel owner, where bridge was never repaired, but was superseded by new one.—In re Hibbard, C.C.A.N.Y., 27 F.2d 686.

The damages recoverable are not limited to the value of the vessel at the time of the injury.[56] Where the vessel injured was equally at fault, the damages will be apportioned.[57] In an action arising from a maritime tort, the common-law principle that there can be no indemnity or contribution among joint tort-feasors is inapplicable.[58] The measure of damages for a master's tort in shipping a minor against his parent's will is the value of the minor's services, together with expenses and losses.[59]

Costs. Where libelant succeeds on his libel for damages for injury, he is entitled to costs, even though he recovers less than the amount claimed.[60] A failure properly to notify the owners of a vessel of the damages caused by her swell will justify the court in decreeing that the costs of the suit be deducted from libelant's damages.[61] Where two vessels are libeled for injuries caused by the swell produced by the two vessels, and the libel is dismissed as to one of the vessels and the other is held liable, the costs of trial of the vessel against which the libel is dismissed should be assessed against the other vessel where the latter opposed libelant's offer to discontinue as to such vessel.[62] Costs on a libel to enforce an agreement of consortship should be paid out of the fund in controversy where defendant's refusal was, under the circumstances, not necessarily wrongful.[63]

§ 82. Dry-Dock Companies

A dry-dock owner is generally liable for injuries to a vessel caused by his negligence while the vessel is in his care; the charges of a dock owner are usually limited by contract, in the absence of which the prevailing rates in the harbor will control. A shipowner may recover demurrage from a dry-dock company for unexplained detention of the vessel.

Although all the obligations imposed by law on a carrier of goods do not attach, the employment of a dry-dock owner is in a substantial sense a public one and public policy requires a high degree of responsibility.[64] Hence, the dry-dock owner is liable for injuries to a vessel caused by his negligence while the vessel is in his care,[65] and ignorance

Cost of new structure

City and county was not entitled to a new structure in substitution for existing structure which had a remaining life of ten years after serving for fifteen years before being damaged when army steam tug, as result of negligent operation, collided with piling of bridge owned by city and county, where twenty-five years was the reasonable life of the structure.—City and County of San Francisco v. U. S., D C Cal., 82 F Supp 313.

Loss of tolls

(1) Loss of tolls on damaged bridge during period of repair could be recovered.—South Carolina State Highway Dept. v. U. S., D.C.S C, 78 F Supp 598, affirmed, C.A., 171 F.2d 893.

(2) With respect to damages from injury to toll bridge by vessel, no deduction is to be made from what gross receipts would have been during period of repair, where the operating expenses of bridge company were not lessened.—Savannah & New York Transp. Co. v. Klaren Bridge Co, S.C., 252 F. 499, 164 C C A. 415.

Interest on cost of repairs to barges damaged by swell of steamship should be calculated from date on which bills for repairs were paid.—The Mollie Scully, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 239.

56. Ohio—Loud, etc, Lumber Co. v Peter, 20 Ohio Cir.Ct. 73, 11 Ohio Cir.Dec. 155.

57. U.S.—Agger v. The Beatrice and Rose, D.C Me, 84 F Supp. 761—The Maui, D C.N.Y., 70 F Supp. 772—Paco Tankers v. Wood Towing Corp., D.C.Va., 63 F Supp. 443, affirmed, C C.A, 152 F.2d 258—The Daly No 67, D C N.Y, 45 F.Supp 641.

58 C J. p 308 note 99.

58. U S—Erie R Co. v. Erie & W. Transportation Co, Ill, 27 S Ct 246, 204 U.S. 220, 51 L Ed. 450—New York & Porto Rico S S Co. of New York v. Lee's Lighters, D C.N Y, 48 F 2d 372—Barber S S Lines v. Quinn Bros, D C Mass, 94 F. Supp 212

Division of damages and contribution between two vessels whose mutual fault results in collision producing injury to an innocent vessel see Collision § 186 c

Vessel and warehouse company equally liable

In libels by owners of dry dock against steamship and her owner to recover for damages sustained by dry dock when steamship broke her moorings at wharf of warehouse company and drifted down river and collided with dry dock, wherein owner of steamship and warehouse company filed cross claims against each other for their damages, and wherein evidence established that both were negligent, their damages would be divided.—Todd Atlantic Shipyards Corp. v The Southport, D C.S C, 95 F Supp 331, affirmed, C A., City Compress & Warehouse Co. v. U. S., 190 F 2d 699.

Failure to perfect lien against one wrongdoer

Where tow was damaged by fault of towing tug and another vessel, fact that lien was not perfected on towing tug and stipulation for value was not exacted did not take case out of general rule as to amount of recovery against two wrongdoers for damage to innocent third person.—The Nonpareil, D C.N.Y., 12 F.Supp 985.

59. U S.—Sherwood v. Hall, C.C. Mass, 21 F Cas No.12,777, 3 Sumn. 127.

60. U S—The Tiger Lily, D C.N Y, 14 F. 591

61. U.S.—The Rhode Island, D.C N. Y., 20 F Cas.No.11,742, 8 Ben. 50

62. U S—The New York, D C.N.Y., 34 F 757.

63. U S.—Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, D C.Fla., 5 F. Cas No 2,498

64. U S—Norwich, etc, Transp. Co. v. New York Balance Dock Co., D C N Y., 22 F. 672.

58 C J. p 309 note 7.

65. U.S—O'Rourke Dry Dock Co. v Neville, D C N J, 189 F 924.

58 C J. p 309 note 8.

Presumption of negligence

(1) Although ultimate liability as bailee of shipyard owner who takes vessel into his custody and control must depend on establishment of negligence, his failure to redeliver the vessel raises a presumption of negligence.—Lackritz v. Petersen, D. C N Y., 31 F Supp. 415.

(2) Where the allegation of the libel against dry-dock company that the vessel was delivered into respondent's possession for repairs was expressly admitted by respondent's pleading, the contractor cannot claim he did not have exclusive possession of the vessel during the progof the weak and unseaworthy condition of the vessel is no defense since, in the absence of representation or special agreement, his contract is to dock the vessel as she is.[66] The charges of the dock owner are usually limited by the contract,[67] and, in the absence of contract, the customary rates prevailing in that particular harbor control.[68] Since it is the duty of the owner of a dry dock to release the vessel as soon as the repairs are so far along that they can be completed with her afloat, the owner will not be allowed a charge for lay days for the use of the dock after the time the vessel should have been released by the use of reasonable dispatch in performing the work.[69] The owner of a dry dock may recover from a vessel or its owner for damages to the dry dock resulting from negligent management or navigation of the vessel.[70]

Demurrage for unexplained detention. A shipowner may recover demurrage from a dry-dock company for unexplained detention of the vessel beyond the time of contemplated redelivery.[71] In order to recover demurrage, the owner must show that the use of the vessel during such period would have produced earnings;[72] but it is not necessary for the owner to prove that he was willing to charter the vessel to some known agent for a specified voyage at an agreed rate,[73] it being sufficient if the owner shows a state of facts from which a court or jury can find that there was an opportunity for him to do so and that he probably would have availed himself of it.[74] In a proceeding to recover such demurrage, the usual rules of evidence apply.[75]

VI. INJURIES TO PERSONS ON OR ABOUT VESSEL

§ 83. In General

A vessel or the owner thereof is not liable for personal injuries sustained by a person on or about the vessel unless there has been a breach of some duty owed to the person injured.

In order that a vessel or the owner thereof may be liable for injuries sustained by a person on or about the vessel there must have been a breach of some duty owed to the person injured.[76] The vessel or owner is liable, however, for injuries sustained by a person on or about the vessel where there has been a breach of some duty, including the duty to use due care, owed to the person injured.[77] In admiralty the owner of a vessel is liable in personam, and the vessel is liable in rem, for injuries done to persons by the negligence of the master or crew, but the negligence must be such as would make the owner of the vessel, under the same circumstances, liable in a suit at common law.[78] One who is rightfully on board a ship may ress of the work, merely because some of the officers of the ship remained on board while it was being repaired, so that the case does not fall within the admitted exception to the presumption of negligence where the bailee redelivers the goods in bad condition, recognized in cases where the bailee's possession was not exclusive—Pan-American Petroleum Transp. Co v Robins Dry Dock & Repair Co., C C A N.Y, 281 F. 97, certiorari denied Robins Dry Dock & Repair Co v Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co, 42 S.Ct. 589, 259 U. S 586, 66 L Ed 1076.

66. U.S—Norwich, etc, Transp Co v. New York Balance Dock Co, D C N Y., 22 F. 672

67. U.S—New York Balance Dry Dock Co. v. Howes, D C N.Y., 18 F. Cas No 10,202, 9 Ben 232.
58 C.J. p 309 note 10

68. U S.—Burlee Dry Dock Co. v. Morris, etc., Dredging Co., D C.N. Y., 145 F. 740, affirmed 151 F. 1020, 81 C.C A. 681.
58 C.J. p 309 note 11.

69. U.S.—The Mary N. Bourke, N.Y., 145 F. 909, 76 C C.A. 441.

70. U.S—Todd Atlantic Shipyards Corp. v. The Southport, D C.S.C, 95 F Supp 331, affirmed, C A, City Compress & Warehouse Co v. U. S, 190 F 2d 699

71. U S.—Todd Erie Basin Dry Docks v. The Penelopi, D.C.N.Y., 148 F.2d 884

72. U S.—Todd Erie Basin Dry Docks v. The Penelopi, supra.

Measure of demurrage

(1) Where owner was entitled to demurrage on actual proof of damages during unexplained detention of vessel in repairer's shipyards, period consumed in cleaning and painting vessel by owner between time of redelivery of vessel by repairer and delivery by owner to charterer could not be deducted in computing demurrage, since the measure of the owner's recovery is not what hire the vessel lost during the detention period but what loss of hire did the detention cause—Todd Erie Basin Dry Docks v. The Penelopi, supra

(2) Fixing owner's damages for unreasonable detention of vessel in repairer's shipyards on basis of the single voyage pursuant to charter executed after vessel was repaired was not improper, where ceiling rates of Maritime Commission determined hire which could be obtained and precluded negotiation of an unusually favorable contract.—Todd Erie Basin Dry Docks v. The Penelopi, supra.

Dead-weight tonnage

U S—Todd Erie Basin Dry Docks v. The Penelopi, supra

73. U S—Todd Erie Basin Dry Docks v. The Penelopi, supra.

74. U S—Todd Erie Basin Dry Docks v. The Penelopi, supra.

75. Evidence held admissible

In absence of timely objections, the voyage account on a single voyage after vessel had been repaired was properly received in evidence for determining vessel's rental value as an item of damage for unreasonable detention of vessel in repairer's shipyards.—Todd Erie Basin Dry Docks v. The Penelopi, supra.

76. U S—Hogan v. Hellman, D C. Cal., 7 F 2d 949.
58 C.J. p 309 note 13.
Liability for personal injuries to passengers see infra §§ 192–195.

77. U S—The Dalhem, D C Mass, 41 F Supp. 718
Duty to particular classes of persons see infra §§ 84, 85.

78. U.S.—Lamb v Interstate S S Co., C.C A.Ohio, 149 F 2d 914—The Germania, D C N.Y., 10 F.Cas No. 5,360, 9 Ben 356.

recover from the owners for injuries received by him on board the ship through negligence of the master.[79] The rules governing the liability of railroads for injuries caused by defective approaches to stations have been held to apply to vessels.[80]

The owner of a vessel is not liable for personal injuries resulting from acts of the master or crew which are outside the scope of their employment[81] The shipowner ordinarily is not liable for the negligence or misconduct of stevedores or longshoremen employed by an independent contractor, doing work over which the owner has little, if any, control,[82] and the shipowner is not liable for the negligence of stevedores employed by the consignee of the charterer[83] A ship may not be held negligent for failure to follow a claimed local custom unless knowledge of the custom is brought home to it.[84]

Where the vessel is in the control and possession of another person, the owner thereof may not be liable for personal injuries to third persons[85] Where, however, the owner of a vessel leaves the vessel in the possession and control of his copartner, as agent, he is liable for personal injuries as a result of the negligent maintenance, inspection, or operation of the vessel by the copartner.[86]

Persons on piers. The owner of a vessel may be liable for personal injuries sustained by persons on a pier as a result of the negligence of the owner or his employees.[87] A person having business with an approaching steamer may hold the owners liable for injuries received when the steamer negligently approached the dock at high speed and used an unsound fender rope which broke and let the fender hit plaintiff.[88] Where a person is on a pier because of an implied invitation of a steamship company, waiting the arrival of passengers on an incoming steamer, the steamship company is under no other obligation to the person injured and owes him no other duty than to have the pier in a reasonably safe condition for access.[89] Where the injuries are caused by the negligence of an independent contractor or his servants having no connection with the vessel, the owners are not liable.[90]

Liability of persons other than owner. In a proper case a person other than the owner of the vessel may be held liable for injuries to third persons[91] A person who is not in possession or control of the vessel ordinarily is not liable for personal injuries to third persons;[92] and no liability attaches to a person who was in no way at fault.[93]

Contributory negligence and assumption of risk.

79. U.S.—Leathers v. Blessing, La., 105 U.S. 626, 26 L.Ed 1192.

80. U.S.—The Daylesford, D.C.Ala., 30 F. 633.
Liability of railroads for injuries caused by defective approaches see Railroads § 919.

81. N.Y.—Haack v Fearing, 28 N.Y. Super 528, 4 Abb.Pr.,N.S., 297, 35 How.Pr. 459.
58 C.J. p 302 note 98 [a] (2).

Altercation with crew member
Shipowner was not liable to one on the ship collecting clothes for injuries received during an altercation with a member of the crew—Price v U.S., D.C.La., 11 F.2d 283

82. U.S.—Shields v U.S., D.C.Pa., 73 F.Supp 862, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.A., 175 F.2d 743, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 249, 338 U.S. 899, 94 L.Ed. 553

83. Mass.—Linton v Smith, 8 Gray 147.

84. U.S.—Miller v. The Sultana, C.A.N.Y., 176 F.2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct 303, 338 U.S. 907, 94 L.Ed 558

85. U.S.—Thibeault v. Boston Towboat Co., D.C.Mass., 28 F.Supp. 152, affirmed, C.C.A., Mystic Terminal Co. v. Thibeault, 108 F.2d 813.

86. U.S.—Kulack v The Pearl Jack, D.C.Mich., 79 F.Supp. 802, affirmed, C.A., 178 F.2d 154.
Liability of partners in tort generally see Partnership § 181.

87. Mich.—Butterfield v Arnold, 92 N.W. 97, 131 Mich 583
Liability of owner or occupant of pier or wharf for injuries sustained by persons on pier or wharf see the C.J.S. title Wharves §§ 23, 24, also 68 C.J. p 235 note 17 et seq.

88. Mich.—Butterfield v. Arnold, supra

89. N.Y.—Duhme v Hamburg-American Packet Co., 77 N.E. 386, 184 N.Y. 404, 112 Am.S.R. 615

90. U.S.—International Mercantile Marine Co v Gaffney, Pa., 143 F. 305, 74 C.C.A. 443.

91. "Managing agent" operating a steamship owned by the United States Maritime Commission under a contract requiring agent to "manage, operate and conduct the business of the line" and to "man, equip, victual, supply and operate vessels," was liable for death of bridge tender which resulted when steamship crashed into bridge, even if the United States or the commission was also liable and the commission selected officers, and even though compensation received by agent was relatively small, where there was no showing that the commission substituted itself as manager either generally or at time of accident.—Quinn v. Southgate Nelson Corporation, C.C.A.N.Y., 121 F.2d 190, certiorari denied Southgate Nelson Corp v Quinn, 62 S.Ct. 185, 314 U.S. 682, 86 L.Ed 546

Joint liability and contribution
Where one injured in fire involving vessel and dock sued dock owner alone in state court and elected not to file a claim in limitation proceeding by owner of vessel, under state law, dock owner would have no right of contribution against owner of vessel based on state court judgment against dock owner—Petition of Chester A. Poling, Inc., D.C.N.Y., 51 F.Supp 375
Liability of
Charterer see supra § 34.
General owner after vessel chartered see supra § 34
Master of vessel see supra § 70.

92. U.S.—McGowan v. J.H. Winchester & Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 168 F.2d 924, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct 133, 335 U.S. 861, 93 L.Ed 408 and Buro v. American Petroleum Transport Corp., 69 S.Ct. 134, 335 U.S. 861, 93 L.Ed. 408—Doll v. Scott Paper Co., C.C.A.Pa., 91 F.2d 860—Thibeault v. Boston Towboat Co., D.C.Mass., 28 F.Supp. 152, affirmed, C.C.A., Mystic Terminal Co. v. Thibeault, 108 F.2d 813

93. U.S.—Thibeault v. Boston Towboat Co., D.C.Mass., 28 F.Supp. 152, affirmed, C.C.A., Mystic Terminal Co. v. Thibeault, 108 F.2d 813.

Contributory negligence of the person injured bars recovery,[94] except where the suit is in admiralty.[95] Recovery may also be denied on the ground that the injured person had assumed the risk.[96] Where one having business with a ship or officer goes on board and puts himself in a place of obvious danger, he assumes the risk and, if injured, cannot hold the ship liable.[97] One who goes on board a ship by virtue of a pass, by the acceptance of which he has assumed all risk and exempted defendant from all liability for injury, cannot hold the owner responsible, even for wanton and reckless injuries.[98]

What law governs. Where a vessel is in port, the law of the place where the injury occurs governs the rights and liabilities of the parties.[99]

§ 84. Particular Classes of Persons

a. Invitees
b. Licensees and trespassers
c. Persons engaged in work
d. Other persons

a. Invitees

The vessel or the owner is liable for personal injuries sustained by an invitee on or about the vessel resulting from a failure to exercise reasonable care to protect him from injury.

An invitee is owed the duty of reasonble care to avoid injuring him,[1] and the vessel or owner is liable for personal injuries to an invitee resulting from a breach of such duty.[2] The general rules governing in the determination of what persons are invitees usually apply in ascertaining who are in-

94. N Y—Leroy v. North German Lloyd SS Co., 38 N.Y.S 835, 16 Misc 162

High heels

Where stairway from upper to main deck of fishing boat was constructed in customary manner and not unsafe, fifty-four year old woman, five feet-five and three quarter inches in height, and weighing one hundred sixty-seven pounds, who fell on stairway, was solely at fault in descending stairway in wearing shoes with heels three inches to four inches high.—The Sachem, D C N Y., 5 F Supp. 417.

95. U S—Militano v. U. S, C C A.N Y., 156 F 2d 599, certiorari dismissed State Marine Corp v Militano, 67 S.Ct. 193, 329 U S. 682, 91 L Ed. 600—Badalamenti v U S, D C N.Y, 67 F Supp 575, affirmed in part and modified in part on other grounds, C.C A., 160 F.2d 422.
58 C.J p 324 note 57.
Apportionment of damages in admiralty see infra § 86
Contributory negligence in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 85.

96. U S—The Iowa, Va, 213 F. 405, 130 C C A 41
Assumption of risk in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 86

97. U S—The Iowa, supra.
58 C J p 309 note 15

98. Mass—Freeman v United Fruit Co, 111 N E 789, 223 Mass. 300

99. U S.—The H S, Inc., No. 72, C C.A.N.J, 130 F 2d 341.
58 C J. p 320 note 77.
What law governs maritime torts generally see Conflict of Laws § 12 a (3)

1. U S.—Radoslovich v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A, C.C A N.Y., 72 F 2d 367—Muratore v. U. S, D C N Y., 100 F.Supp. 276—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co., D C Fla, 9 F.Supp 344.
58 C J. p 310 note 26.
Liability for personal injuries to:
Invitees generally see Negligence §§ 43(1)-53.
Passengers on vessel see infra §§ 192-195
Seamen see Seamen § 188 et seq
Liability of
Charterer for personal injuries to third persons see supra § 34.
General owner for personal injuries sustained by third persons after vessel chartered see supra § 34.

Merely warning the invitee or guest is not sufficient, but the duty is the same as that of employer to employee to use reasonable care to provide for the safety of the invitee or guest—Miller v. The Sultana, C A N Y, 176 F 2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct 303, 338 U S 907, 94 L Ed 558—Guerrini v U. S, C C A N.Y., 167 F 2d 352—Puleo v. H. E Moss & Co, C.C.A.N Y., 159 F 2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp v Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1733, 331 U S. 847, 91 L Ed. 1857, and H E. Moss & Co v. Puleo, 67 S Ct. 1736, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed 1857.

Duty to prospective employee

A ship owed prospective employee thereof, who was experienced seaman familiar with unloading operations, no duty to replace, at noon, an outside hatch cover over portion of hold from which grain had been removed, while unloading in such hold under adjacent hatch was still unfinished, as he was charged with knowledge of such conditions—Miller v. The Sultana, C A N Y., 176 F.2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S Ct. 303, 338 U.S 907, 94 L.Ed 558

Duty to swimmer

Where motorboat operator took swimmer aboard boat, he was required to exercise strict care to see that swimmer was in safe place, whether he believed swimmer to be in distress, whether swimmer invited ride, or whether operator suggested riding—Petition of Liebler, D.C.N.Y., 19 F Supp. 829.

2. U S.—Calanchini v. Bliss, C C.A. Cal., 88 F 2d 82—Sieracki v. Seas Shipping Co., D.C.Pa, 57 F Supp 724, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C A, 149 F 2d 98, affirmed 66 S Ct 872, 328 U S 85, 90 L Ed. 1099, rehearing denied 66 S Ct. 1116, 328 U.S 878, 90 L Ed 1646—The Owen, D C.Pa, 43 F.Supp 897—The Inga, D C N Y., 33 F Supp. 122.

Injury due to fire or explosion

U.S—The Inga, supra—Murphy v Hutzel, D.C Pa, 27 F Supp 473.

Injury to guest in stateroom from exhaust fumes

U.S.—The Friendship II, C C.A Fla., 113 F.2d 105, reversed on other grounds Just v. Chambers, 61 S.Ct. 687, 312 U S. 383, 668, 85 L.Ed 903.

Negligence in taking motorboat to sea

Owner of motorboat having rated capacity of ten was guilty of negligence in going out into open sea with eighteen persons on board, and, hence, was liable for death of guest who was drowned without fault when boat capsized as result of having been overloaded and taken out to sea—Calanchini v. Bliss, C.C A.Cal., 88 F.2d 82.

Applicability of guest statute

(1) State guest statute did not apply to motorboats operating on the waterways and navigable lakes of the state.—Schoremoyer v. Barnes, C.A Tex., 190 F.2d 14.

(2) Automobile guest statutes generally see Motor Vehicles § 399 (3).

vitees on or about a vessel.[3]

In the absence of notice or knowledge, an invitee may assume that the vessel is in a safe condition[4] and where latent dangers exist of which the owner has knowledge he is under a duty to warn the invitee of such dangers.[5] The vessel must use reasonable care to provide a safe passageway for an invitee.[6] The fact that other persons, such as stevedores, may be partially in control of the part of the vessel at which the injury occurs, and may owe a concurrent duty to the invitee, does not absolve the vessel or its owner from the duty to exercise reasonable care to avoid injuring the invitee.[7] It is the duty of the owners to see that an invitee on board their ship receives no injury by the negligence of the master or other employee,[8] and an invitee who receives such injury may hold the owners liable therefor.[9] The owner of a vessel is not liable for injuries to an invitee resulting from acts of a member of the crew outside the scope of his employment.[10] The duty to protect an invitee extends only to those parts of the ship to which he may reasonably be expected to go by virtue of his status as invitee and if he goes elsewhere on the ship he becomes no more than a licensee or even a trespasser.[11] It is not negligence to invite guests in a motorboat to pass from the boat onto the landing platform without first making the boat fast to the platform with ropes.[12] Persons in charge of the ship must give an invitee an opportunity to go ashore before the vessel leaves,[13] and, on failure to do so, the vessel is liable in damages.[14] One on a tug by express or implied invitation must be afforded a reasonably safe means of leaving it.[15]

Rescue. The owner of a vessel under certain circumstances may be under a positive duty to rescue an invitee from drowning and he may be liable for failure to use reasonable care to effect a rescue.[16] In an emergency the owner is not required to exercise the best choice of judgment in attempting a rescue and failure to do so may not be made the basis of liability.[17]

3. Persons held invitees

(1) In general—Calanchini v. Bliss, C.C.A.Cal., 88 F 2d 82.

(2) Former member of crew who was permitted to sleep on vessel and to leave his clothes on board in the hope that he would again be a member of the crew when ship sailed was an invitee—Sibley v Barber S. S Lines, D.C N.Y., 57 F 2d 318

(3) One going aboard ship to seek employment as oiler, pursuant to reference by union hiring-hall through which ship obtained seamen, was business guest or invitee of ship—Miller v. The Sultana, C A N Y, 176 F 2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct 303, 338 U.S 907, 94 L.Ed 558.

Bargee

(1) Bargee in charge of barge taking on ballast discharged by steamer, when going on steamer in course of his work, was a business visitor—Hendricksen v. Hugh Roberts & Son, D.C N Y., 74 F Supp. 72.

(2) Bargee, falling into water when shore end of gangplank of steamer, alongside which barge was brought to receive cargo, slipped off as he was going ashore after day's work to enjoy his leisure, was invited person.—Radoslovich v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., C.C.A.N.Y., 72 F.2d 367.

Officer's relative

(1) Where captain's son boarded yacht without any definite purpose except to see his father, but assisted father in placing tank of protane gas in position, son was not an invited person or a business visitor—Gunnarson v. Robert Jacob, Inc., C.C.A.N. Y., 94 F.2d 170, certiorari denied Robert Jacob, Inc. v. Gunnarson, 58 S Ct. 764, 303 U S 660, 82 L Ed 1119, rehearing denied 58 S.Ct. 948, 304 U.S 588, 82 L Ed 1548.

(2) Friends and relatives of passengers on vessel as invitees see infra § 193.

4. Condition of deck

Guest could rightfully assume that no unusual condition existed, and that he took no unusual risk in stepping over deck and windshield as directed by motorboat owner's employee—The Blue Moon III, D C.N.Y., 60 F 2d 653

5. Slippery condition of deck

Motorboat owner's employee, who had recently waxed deck, was obligated to warn guest of slippery condition—The Blue Moon III, supra.

6. U S.—Miller v The Sultana, C A N.Y, 176 F.2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S Ct 303, 338 U S. 907, 94 L.Ed. 558

Bargee in charge of barge taking on ballast discharged by steamer had right, as against owner of steamer, to rely on proper gear and safe passage to and from his barge—Hendricksen v Hugh Roberts & Son, D. C N Y., 74 F Supp 72.

7. U.S—Miller v. Sultana, C A N.Y, 176 F 2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S Ct. 303, 338 U S 907, 94 L Ed 558

8. U S—Leathers v. Blessing, La, 105 U.S. 626, 26 L Ed. 1192—The Blue Moon III, D C N Y., 60 F 2d 653.

Liability of master of vessel for personal injuries see supra § 70.

9. U S.—Leathers v Blessing, La., 105 U.S. 626, 26 L.Ed. 1192—The Blue Moon III, D C.N.Y., 60 F 2d 653

10. U S—Sibley v. Barber S. S. Lines, D C.N.Y, 57 F 2d 318

11. U S—Lauricella v. U. S, C.A.N. Y, 185 F.2d 327.

12. Mich—Stern v. Franklin, 287 N. W. 880, 290 Mich 467

13. U.S—The City of Seattle, Wash, 150 F 537, 80 C C.A 279, 10 L R A., N S, 969

14. U S—The City of Seattle, supra.

15. U.S—The Ross Coddington, D C. N Y., 40 F 2d 280, reversed on other grounds, C.C A, 6 F 2d 191.

58 C J. p 310 note 32

16. U S—Hutchinson v Dickie, C C A.Ohio, 162 F.2d 103, certiorari denied 68 S Ct. 208, 332 U.S. 830, 92 L Ed 404.

58 C J p 313 note 92 [f].

Duty to rescue stranger in peril on high seas see infra subdivision d of this section.

When owner heard cry "Man overboard," it was his duty to use reasonable care to rescue the invited guest, especially where the cruiser was the only instrumentality by which the guest might be rescued.—Hutchinson v. Dickie, supra

Failure to have lifeguard on board

Where invited guest on pleasure cabin cruiser was an experienced seaman and a good swimmer, the host had a right to assume that the guest would use ordinary care to protect himself and host was not required to anticipate the necessity of having a lifeguard as a member of the crew.—Hutchinson v Dickie, supra.

17. U.S—Hutchinson v. Dickie, supra.

Contributory negligence; assumption of risk. The vessel or its owner is not liable for injuries to an invitee, which result from the invitee's failure to exercise due care,[18] although in admiralty contributory negligence is no bar to recovery.[19] Recovery may be barred under the doctrine of assumption of risk.[20]

Exoneration from liability. A shipowner is not entitled to exoneration from liability for injuries to an invitee where the fault of the owner was the proximate cause of the injury.[21]

b. Licensees and Trespassers

No duty is owed by a shipowner to a mere licensee or trespasser other than to refrain from willfully injuring him.

A trespasser or mere licensee coming on board a vessel must take the premises as he finds them,[22] and he comes on board at his own risk.[23] No duty is owed by a shipowner to a mere licensee or trespasser other than to refrain from willfully injuring him,[24] or knowingly allowing him to run into danger;[25] and no liability attaches to the owner of the vessel for an accidental injury to a licensee.[26] No duty is owed a licensee or trespasser to warn him of obviously dangerous conditions of the vessel.[27] One who comes on board a ship at the invitation of a master having no authority, express

N.Y.—Leslie v Robinson, 46 N.Y.S.2d 538, 267 App.Div. 965, 967, affirmed 60 N.E.2d 35, 293 N.Y. 911.

Error in backing instead of turning cruiser about when he heard cry "Man overboard" was one of judgment and not of negligence which would render owner liable for death of invited guest who disappeared overboard.—Hutchinson v. Dickie, C.C.A.Ohio, 162 F.2d 103, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 208, 332 U.S. 830, 92 L.Ed. 404.

18. Cal.—Peterson v Klitgaard, 299 P. 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v Naknek Packing Co., 52 S.Ct. 128, 284 U.S. 672, 76 L.Ed. 569

Md.—Elzey v. Boston Metals Co., 56 A.2d 692, 189 Md. 566.

58 C.J. p. 310 note 27.

Failure to object

Ill.—Herbst v Levy, 279 Ill.App. 353.

Falling or stepping into open hatch

Md.—Elzey v Boston Metals Co., 56 A.2d 692, 189 Md. 566

58 C.J. p. 310 note 27 [a].

In passing from motorboat to landing at night without aid of artificial light guest had duty of exercising commensurate care and caution.—Stern v Franklin, 287 N.W. 880, 290 Mich. 467

19. U.S.—Militano v U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 156 F.2d 599, certiorari dismissed State Marine Corps v Militano, 67 S.Ct. 193, 329 U.S. 682, 91 L.Ed. 600.

58 C.J. p. 324 note 57.

Apportionment of damages in admiralty see infra § 86

Contributory negligence in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 85.

20. Risk not assumed

Motorboat guest who took passage on overloaded motorboat without knowledge of nautical matters or boats, or of danger to himself and his son who also boarded boat, did not assume risk so as to preclude recovery for his death when boat capsized in open sea because of overloading, especially in absence of showing that passenger knew that boat was going out into open sea.—Calanchini v. Bliss, C.C.A.Cal., 88 F.2d 82

Assumption of risk in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 86.

21. U.S.—The Inga, D.C.N.Y., 33 F.Supp. 122

Statutory limitation of liability see infra §§ 239–257.

22. U.S.—Kosba v Bank Line, D.C.Md., 46 F.2d 119—Corpus Juris quoted in Lauchert v American S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 703, 710.

58 C.J. p. 310 note 33.

Liability for negligent injury to trespassers and licensees generally see Negligence §§ 23–42.

23. U.S.—Lauchert v. American S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 703.

58 C.J. p. 310 note 34.

24. U.S.—Rodermond v U. S., C.A.N.J., 179 F.2d 955—Gunnarson v. Robert Jacob, Inc., C.C.A.N.Y., 94 F.2d 170, certiorari denied Robert Jacob, Inc. v. Gunnarson, 58 S.Ct. 764, 303 U.S. 660, 82 L.Ed. 1119, rehearing denied 58 S.Ct. 948, 304 U.S. 588, 82 L.Ed. 1548—Sibley v Barber S.S. Lines, D.C.N.Y., 57 F.2d 318—Kosba v Bank Line, D.C.Md., 46 F.2d 119—Lauchert v American S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 703.

La.—Warner v. Dempster, App., 194 So. 131.

58 C.J. p. 310 note 35.

Rules as to passengers inapplicable

Rules of care required for safety of gratuitous passengers or passenger for hire do not apply to mere licensee.—Hogan v. Hellman, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 949.

Boy clinging to scow while swimming

Where captain of scow moored to river bank, in removing a boy who swam to the scow and was clinging to its bumper, did so with such unnecessary violence that boy was drowned as the result, under state law scow owner was liable for damages because of boy's death, notwithstanding captain acted with an inflamed mind, since captain was acting in the course of his employment to rid scow of a trespasser.—The H.S., Inc., No. 72, C.C.A.N.J., 130 F.2d 341.

Failure to ballast boat

Fact that fishing boat rocked and rolled because it lacked ballast could not be asserted as negligence of owner, where weight of persons on board accomplished same purpose as ballast and, moreover, no liability attached to gratuitous bailor of boat for failure to ballast it, in absence of express or implied obligation to ballast.—Hogan v. Hellman, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 949

Negligence in taking boat into rough sea

Captain of fishing boat, which was gratuitously lent for fifty-mile voyage, and which was not free from violent rocking on a rough sea, was not negligent in taking homeward course at a time when the sea would become rough, where occupants of boat insisted on then returning to mainland.—Hogan v. Hellman, supra

What law governs

Where boy's death resulted from an assault by scow captain while boy was clinging to scow moored at river bank in New Jersey, the law of New Jersey governed the substantive rights of parties.—The H.S., Inc., No. 72, C.C.A.N.J., 130 F.2d 341.

25. U.S.—Rodermond v U. S., C.A.N.J., 179 F.2d 955—Lauchert v American S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 703.

58 C.J. p. 310 note 36.

26. U.S.—The Sudbury, D.C.Or., 14 F.2d 533—Lauchert v. American S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 703.

27. Mass.—Metcalfe v. Cunard S.S. Co., 16 N.E. 701, 147 Mass. 66

Knowledge by trespasser of defective condition

Owner of houseboat was not liable to trespasser thereon for injuries sustained by the trespasser when he fell through a decayed portion of the floor of the houseboat while removing his personal effects from the houseboat after being notified to do so, where the trespasser was in a better or implied, to extend such invitation is a trespasser[28] or a mere licensee,[29] to whom, in the absence of knowledge of his presence, the owner owes no duty of care,[30] and such person cannot hold the owner liable for injuries sustained by him.[31]

With respect to appliances, the duty of a ship to a mere licensee is discharged when she is equipped with appliances reasonably suitable for the purpose for which they are adapted[32] A licensee having a right to use a ladder from a wharf up a ship's side to cross her to his own ship may recover for the ship's being negligently moved while he was on the ladder.[33]

Contributory negligence and assumption of risk. A trespasser or mere licensee cannot recover for personal injuries where he has been guilty of contributory negligence[34] Likewise, recovery may be barred under the doctrine of assumption of risk[35]

c. Persons Engaged in Work

(1) In general

(2) Inspectors and other officers

(1) In General

The vessel or the owners are liable for personal injuries sustained by a person engaged in work on or about the vessel as a result of the defective condition of the ship or her appliances.

While a person engaged in work on or about a vessel is not owed the highest degree of care for his safety by the owner thereof,[36] he is an invitee[37] to whom is owed the duty of exercising reasonable care to avoid injuring him;[38] and, where such a person is injured by reason of the defective condition of the vessel or her appliances, he may hold the ship or her owners liable for negligence.[39] Where the injury is purely accidental, the owners are not liable.[40]

Ship in custodia legis. The owners of a ship in custody of a marshal owe no duty to a keeper placed on board by the marshal except to refrain from willfully injuring him[41]

Contributory negligence and assumption of risk. The person injured may be barred from recovery because of his contributory negligence,[42] although, in admiralty, contributory negligence is no bar to recovery.[43] Recovery may also be barred under position than owner to know of defective condition of houseboat—Warner v Dempster, La App, 194 So 131

28. U S—Silverado SS. Co v. Prendergast, C.C A Wash, 31 F 2d 225, certiorari denied 50 S Ct 17, 280 U S 557, 74 L Ed 612
Liability of master of vessel for personal injuries see supra § 70

29. U.S—The Silverado, D.C Or, 14 F 2d 243

30. U S—Silverado SS. Co v Prendergast, C C A Wash., 31 F 2d 225, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 17, 280 U. S 557, 74 L Ed 612
58 C.J. p 310 note 41.

31. U S—Silverado SS. Co. v Prendergast, supra
N.Y—Browning v Erie R. Co., 122 N Y.S. 717, 66 Misc 72.

32. U S. — Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktien Gesellschaft v Gye, La, 207 F. 247, 124 C C.A. 517, certiorari denied 34 S Ct. 323, 231 U.S 755, 58 L.Ed. 468.

33. U S—The Yuri Maru, D C.Pa., 17 F 2d 318.

34. La.—Warner v. Dempster, App, 194 So. 131.

35. Libelant, who insisted on making voyage in fishing boat after he and others were advised not to make voyage because of their light attire and limitations of boat, assumed all risks incident to traveling on such a boat on such voyage—Hogan v. Hellman, D C.Cal, 7 F.2d 949.

36. Ill—Atkins v Lackawanna Transp Co, 54 N E 1004, 182 Ill 237
Liability of:
Charterer for personal injuries to third persons see supra § 34
General owner of vessel to third persons for injuries sustained after vessel chartered see supra § 34
Recovery for personal injuries to:
Employees generally see Master and Servant § 224.
Pilots see Pilots § 14 c.
Seamen see Seamen § 188 et seq
Stevedores or other independent contractors or their employees see infra § 85.

37. Cal—California Union Oil Co v. Rideout, 177 P. 196, 38 Cal App. 629.
Employees of consignee
Consignee engaged in removing his cargo from ship was an invitee, and his employees as consequential invitees shared in the incumbencies due from shipowner with respect to providing a reasonably safe place within which to work.—Santamaria v. Lamport & Holt Line, 196 A 706, 119 N.J Law 467

38. U.S—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co, D.C Fla., 9 F.Supp. 344
58 C J p 311 note 47.
Injury to members of tug crew
Where there was strong evidence that tandem operation by two tugs in attempting to release stranded freighter was a dangerous method, owner of freighter could not be held accountable for such method resulting in death of employees of tug which sank, where masters of tugs adopted that procedure—Lamb v Interstate S S Co, D C Ohio, 58 F. Supp 582, affirmed, C C A, 149 F 2d 914.

39. N J—Santamaria v. Lamport & Holt Line, 196 A. 706, 119 N J Law 467.
58 C J p 311 note 48

40. La.—Rice v. Cade, 10 La 288.

41. U S—Kjaer v Etier, La, 222 F 243, 137 C C A 659.

42. Master of vessel
Owners of a vessel are not liable for injuries to master thereof which result from his own negligence—Patton-Tully Transp Co. v. Turner, C C A.Tenn., 269 F 334.
Emergency
Fact that a person in the presence of an imminent and unexpected danger does not act with deliberation does not make him chargeable with contributory negligence.—The Schooner Robert Lewers Co v Kekauoha, Hawaii, 114 F. 849, 52 C C A 483.

43. U.S—Militano v U S., C C A N Y., 156 F 2d 599, certiorari dismissed State Marine Corp. v. Militano, 67 S Ct 193, 329 U.S. 682, 91 L Ed. 600
58 C.J p 324 note 57.
Apportionment of damages in admiralty see infra § 86.
Contributory negligence in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 85.

the doctrine of assumption of risk.[44]

(2) Inspectors and Other Officers

An inspector or other officer on board ship in the discharge of his official duty may recover for personal injuries received by him as a result of the negligence of the master or crew.

An inspector on board a vessel in the discharge of his official duty in which the vessel has an interest is an invitee[45] and reasonable precaution must be exercised to provide for his safety.[46] An inspector, on board ship in the discharge of his duty, may recover for injuries received by him as a result of the negligence of the master or crew,[47] as where the master failed to exercise reasonable precautions for his safety.[48] An official weigher, in the proper discharge of his duty, injured on board ship by reason of the negligence of a mate in charge of the vessel may hold the ship liable.[49] It is negligence, for which the ship is liable, to leave an open hatch in a place where libelant roundsman's duties called him.[50] A customs officer lawfully on board ship may hold the ship liable for injuries negligently inflicted on him,[51] as where the crew negligently placed a ladder over the side but failed to lash and bolt it so that it fell when libelant was on it.[52]

Where reasonable care has been exercised no liability attaches to the vessel or her owner.[53] A shipowner owes no duty to an employee of a shipper, who climbs about the ship inspecting it, to maintain cleats so that the employee may safely use them to climb on, unless the owner knows, or should have known, or was charged with notice, that the employee intended to use them,[54] nor is the ship rendered unseaworthy because of the owner's failure to maintain the cleats for such purpose.[55] The negligence of the owner of the vessel must be the proximate cause of the injury.[56]

Contributory negligence and assumption of risk. Contributory negligence of an inspector does not, in admiralty, bar his recovery.[57] Recovery may be barred under the doctrine of assumption of risk.[58]

d. Other Persons

In the absence of a treaty or statute imposing civil responsibility, a shipowner is not liable in damages to a stranger in peril on the high seas to whom the ship's master has failed to give aid.

The liability of a vessel or shipowner for personal injuries sustained by persons on or about the vessel, other than those persons considered in supra subdivisions a–c of this section and infra § 85, is to be determined by application of the general rules governing torts and negligence.[59] In the ab-

44. Choosing dangerous instead of safe route

One engaged in work about a vessel who chooses a dangerous route from one place to another, rather than a safe one, does so at his own risk.—The Marie, D.C.N.Y., 137 F. 448—The Patria, D.C.N.Y., 135 F. 255

Assumption of risk in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 86.

45. U.S.—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co., D.C.Fla., 9 F.Supp. 344

Held more than mere licensee

U.S.—The Steam Dredge No. 1, D.C. Me., 122 F. 679, rehearing denied 134 F. 160—The City of Naples, Minn., 69 F. 794, 16 C.C.A. 421.

Government inspector on dredge

U.S.—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co., D.C.Fla., 9 F.Supp. 344.

46. U.S.—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co., supra.

58 C.J. p. 311 note 53.

47. U.S.—The Steam Dredge No. 1, D.C.Me., 122 F. 679, rehearing denied 134 F. 160—The City of Naples, Minn., 69 F. 794, 16 C.C.A. 421.

Liability of master of vessel for personal injuries see supra § 70

Negligence of operator of dredge

Operator of dredge was negligent in swinging dredge so as to strike skiff in which government inspector was standing when lever man knew, or by exercising reasonable diligence could have known, of inspector's position of peril.—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co., D.C.Fla., 9 F.Supp. 344.

48. U.S.—The City of Naples, Minn., 69 F. 794, 16 C.C.A. 421.

Directing inspector through dark passage

Inspector may recover where master directed him to the lower deck through a dark passage without light or a guide so that he fell down a hatch.—The City of Naples, supra.

49. U.S.—The Calista Hawes, D.C. N.Y., 14 F. 493.

50. U.S.—The Guillermo, D.C.Mo., 26 F. 921.

51. U.S.—The Daylesford, D.C.Ala., 30 F. 633.

52. U.S.—The Daylesford, supra.

53. U.S.—The Coolgardie, Hawaii, 260 F. 398, 171 C.C.A. 264—The Euxinia, Pa., 150 F. 541, 80 C.C.A. 254, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 791, 205 U.S. 544, 51 L.Ed. 923.

54. U.S.—Holub v. Sword S.S. Line, C.C.A.Tex., 132 F.2d 206.

55. U.S.—Holub v. Sword S.S. Line, supra.

56. Negligence of operator of dredge

In swinging dredge so as to strike skiff in which government inspector was standing was proximate cause of injury to inspector's fingers crushed in machinery when he grasped cable to check fall.—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co., D.C.Fla., 9 F.Supp. 344.

57. U.S.—The Steam Dredge No. 1, Me., 134 F. 161, 67 C.C.A. 67, 69 L.R.A. 293.

Contributory negligence in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 85

Apportionment of damages in admiralty see infra § 86.

Contributory negligence held not shown

U.S.—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co., D.C.Fla., 9 F.Supp. 344.

58. Choosing dangerous instead of safe method

Doctrine that choice of dangerous method is at peril of person making it was inapplicable in libel against operator of dredge by government inspector injured when dredge struck skiff in which he was standing, and would not be controlling because act of standing in skiff was not per se dangerous, but made so only by active negligence of respondent.—Stewart v. Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Co., supra.

59. Injury to bridge tender

U.S.—Quinn v. Southgate Nelson Corp., D.C.N.Y., 36 F.Supp. 873, affirmed, C.C.A., 121 F.2d 190, certiorari denied Southgate Nelson Corp. v. Quinn, 62 S.Ct. 185, 314 U.S. 682, 86 L.Ed. 546.

sence of a treaty or statute imposing civil responsibility, a shipowner is not liable in damages to a stranger in peril on the high seas to whom the ship's master has failed to give aid.[60]

§ 85. —— Stevedores or Other Independent Contractors or Their Employees

a. Duties and liabilities of vessel or owner
b. Duties and liabilities of other persons
c. Contributory negligence and assumption of risk
d. Joint and several liability; liability over
e. Seaworthiness

a. Duties and Liabilities of Vessel or Owner

(1) In general
(2) As to condition of vessel
(3) Appliances

(1) In General

An employee of a stevedore or other independent contractor is an invitee and the ship and owner thereof are liable for injuries sustained by such employee as a result of the negligence of the shipowner.

With respect to the duties and liability of the vessel and shipowner an employee of a stevedore or other independent contractor is an invitee,[61] and the ship must be reasonably sure not to invite him into danger,[62] and reasonable care must be exercised to avoid injuring him.[63] The employee's status as

Injury to canal lock tender
Del.—Bowen v. Baltimore, etc., Steamboat Co., 84 A. 1022, 26 Del. 428
58 C.J. p. 298 note 54 [a] (3), [e].

Person in boat
(1) Operator of tugboat unable to see ahead because of logs piled high on barge and deck hand stationed atop logs as a lookout were negligent in not seeing outboard motor-powered fishing boat on stream, much used by fishermen but infrequently traversed by larger craft, or that fishing boat was capsized by wave or swell created by tug and barge, and, where such negligence resulted in drowning of operator of fishing boat, owner of tug was liable for death.—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173

(2) Operator of outboard motor-powered fishing boat, who, when he discovered danger of waves created by tugboat and barge too late to reach safety, turned boat to meet waves, was not guilty of contributory negligence so as to bar recovery against tugboat owner for operator's death when fishing boat was capsized by such waves.—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, supra

(3) Liability of owner or vessel for injury resulting from suction or swell generally see supra § 77

60. U.S.—The Lillian E. Kerr, D.C.N.Y., 71 F.Supp. 184, affirmed, C.C.A., Publicover v. Alcoa S.S. Co., 168 F.2d 672.
Duty to ill, injured, or helpless persons generally see Negligence §§ 54–58.
Duty to rescue invitee on board vessel see supra subdivision a. of this section.

Effect of Salvage Treaty
(1) Provision in Salvage Treaty that owner of vessel incurs no liability for master's refusal to render assistance to persons found at sea and in danger of being lost related to owner's civil liability, and barred action against owner for master's refusal to render such assistance.—Warshauer v. Lloyd Sabaudo S.A., C.C.A.N.Y., 71 F.2d 146, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 140, 293 U.S. 610, 79 L.Ed. 700

(2) Salvage generally see Salvage § 1 et seq.

61. U.S.—Lauricella v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 185 F.2d 327—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y., 160 F.2d 173—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y., 139 F.2d 995—Altamura v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 78 F.Supp. 531—Fodera v. Booth Am. Shipping Corp., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 319, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 795—The Dalhem, D.C.Mass., 41 F.Supp. 718.
58 C.J. p. 311 note 66.
Effect of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act see the C.J.S. title Workmen's Compensation Acts § 983 et seq., also 71 C.J. p. 1520 note 37 et seq.
Liability of general owner to third persons for injuries sustained after vessel chartered see supra § 34.
Recovery by longshoremen or stevedores as seamen under Jones Act see Seamen § 191.
"The relation of ship and stevedore is a special relation. The ship is the place of employment, and the ship's tackle is used in the work of loading and unloading."—Davis v. Grace S.S. Co., D.C.Pa., 10 F.Supp. 284, 285.

"Business guest"
U.S.—Puleo v. H. E. Moss & Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1733, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857 and H. E. Moss & Co. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1736, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857—Santiago v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 425—Lundberg v. Prudential S.S. Corp., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 115—Muratore v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 100 F.Supp. 276—Portel v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 85 F.Supp. 458.

Employee as volunteer
One sent by repair company to make repairs to defendant's vessel was not volunteer in going up on crane, which had suddenly developed trouble, under defendant's superintendent's orders.—Ranson-Rooney v. Overseas Ry., 134 So. 765, 17 La.App. 205, set aside on other grounds Rooney v. Overseas Ry., 136 So. 486, 173 La. 183.

Special skill is demanded of stevedores and their employees.—La Guerra v. Brasileiro, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 668, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 124 F.2d 553, certiorari denied Braseleiro v. La Guerra, 62 S.Ct. 918, 315 U.S. 824, 86 L.Ed. 1220.

62. U.S.—Consolidation Coastwise Co. v. Conley, Me., 250 F. 679, 163 C.C.A. 25
Duty of shipowner to invitees generally see supra § 84

63. U.S.—Guerrini v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 167 F.2d 352—The Meton, C.C.A.Tex., 62 F.2d 825—Muratore v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 100 F.Supp. 276—Davis v. Grace S.S. Co., D.C.Pa., 10 F.Supp. 284.
58 C.J. p. 312 note 68

Care due from employer to employee
Shipowner owed to employee the same duty which he would have owed to him had he entered owner's factory or shop to do repairs, and the measure of care was the same as that due from an employer to his employee.—Puleo v. H. E. Moss & Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1733, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857 and H. E. Moss & Co. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1736, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857.

Where stevedoring corporation was employed by third person and not by owner of vessel, but owner paid the corporation for its stevedoring work, although privity between the corporation and the owner did not exist in a restricted sense, the relationship of the parties was such as to bring the owner within the orbit of the corporation's obligation of due care, as an invitee extends only to those parts of the ship which he may reasonably be expected to go in pursuit of his employment and if he goes elsewhere on the ship he becomes a mere licensee or even a trespasser.[64]

Formerly, a stevedore or longshoreman could not recover for injuries on the basis of a seaman's rights or contract, but only on principles of negligence,[65] but, as discussed infra subdivision e of this section, the obligation of seaworthiness traditionally owed by a shipowner to seamen has been extended to stevedores and longshoremen. However, the fact that a stevedore may be classed as a seaman and be awarded full indemnity against the owner of a vessel for injuries received as a result of an unseaworthy vessel does not preclude him from recovering against the shipowner on the basis of negligence.[66]

As a general rule, a vessel, or the owner thereof, which is in charge of stevedores or other independent contractors is not liable for injuries to their employees,[67] unless a contractual relationship exists between the vessel or owner and the person injured,[68] or unless the injuries are sustained by reason of a failure on the part of the owners or of those in charge of the management or navigation of the vessel to perform their maritime duties or obligations;[69] but the owners and vessel are liable to such persons for injuries caused by the negligence of the master or crew while in the performance of their duties.[70]

In order to impose liability, the negligence of the shipowner must have been the proximate cause of the injury.[71]

Fellow servants. The owners and the vessel are not liable for injuries to employees of a stevedore through the negligence of his coemployees.[72] Stevedores and their employees are fellow servants with one who might certainly be injured if such care was not exercised—Cataldo v. A/S Glittre, D.C.N.Y., 41 F.Supp. 555.

64. U.S.—Lauricella v. U. S., C.A.N.Y., 185 F.2d 327.

65. U.S.—The Howell, C.C.A.N.Y., 273 F. 513.

Right to recover in admiralty for death of a stevedore depended on the same principles as if the action were at common law.—Jeffries v. De Hart, Pa., 102 F. 765, 42 C.C.A. 615.

Ordinary admiralty principles were applied in libel by longshoreman against vessel for injuries sustained while loading cargo.—The Nyhorn, D.C.N.Y., 4 F.Supp. 403.

66. U.S.—Corrado v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.A.N.Y., 171 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 641, 336 U.S. 919, 93 L.Ed. 1081—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y., 160 F.2d 173—Landgraf v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 75 F. Supp. 58.

67. U.S.—De Luca v. Shepard S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 566, modified on other grounds 67 F.2d 437, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 562, 291 U.S. 685, 78 L.Ed. 1072—Long v. Silver Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 15—The Martha R. Grimes, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 591—Paolillo v. Rederi A/B Disa, D.C.N.Y., 38 F.Supp. 833. N.Y.—Riley v. Agwilines, Inc., 73 N.E.2d 718, 296 N.Y. 402.
58 C.J. p. 312 note 69.

In absence of defective equipment or unseaworthiness, or negligence, shipowner is not liable to stevedores for injuries or death—Marcus v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 72 F.Supp. 212.

Warning as to dangerous nature of cleaning compound

(1) Ship committing to contractor cleaning of tanks with dangerous compound after full instructions as to danger from use and means of protection would not be liable to contractor's workman injured through use of compound—Sagler v. Kellogg S. S. Corporation, 277 N.Y.S. 792, 155 Misc. 217.

(2) Ship continuing in control of cleaning tanks with dangerous compound by contractor could rely on contractor, whom ship had fully advised, to warn his men, but, if ship knew that men were not adequately warned or learned that work was being done in a dangerous manner, the ship owed the duty of warning the contractor's men—Sagler v. Kellogg S. S. Corporation, supra.

State statute giving a right of action in personam only for death of an employee of persons or firms engaged in certain hazardous occupations, such as boating, did not authorize relief to libelant in rem against a vessel for death of a stevedore who was killed while unloading a vessel's cargo at a port within the state.—Freeman v. A. H. Bull S. S. Co., C.C.A.Fla., 125 F.2d 774.

68. U.S.—The Martha R. Grimes, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 591.
58 C.J. p. 312 note 70.

69. U.S.—The Martha R. Grimes, supra
58 C.J. p. 312 note 71.
Failure to provide:
Safe place to work and safe appliances see infra subdivisions a (2), (3) of this section
Seaworthy vessel see infra subdivision e of this section.

70. U.S.—Muratore v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 100 F.Supp. 276—The Dalhem, D.C.Mass., 41 F.Supp. 718—Calhoun v. Daly, D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 1005, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F.2d 1004.
58 C.J. p. 312 note 72.

Painter injured by discharge of hot water

Where independent subcontractor's employee engaged in painting around discharge orifice of salt-water circulating system of steamship was severely injured by discharge of hot water caused by temporary clogging of intake of circulating system by floating debris, owners of steamship were negligent and were liable for the injuries—Coal Operators Casualty Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 74 F.Supp. 236, motion denied 76 F.Supp. 681.

Servant loaned to contractor

(1) Where shipowner contracted with one to have him unload ship as an independent contractor, and thereafter shipowner loaned to independent contractor certain of his general employees for purpose of performing a specific part of work covered by the contract, fact that shipowner paid his employees for time they worked for contractor did not establish that they were shipowner's "employees" during such time, so as to render shipowner liable for injuries sustained by one of contractor's employees as result of alleged negligence of loaned employees.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Francis, Tex.Civ.App., 169 S.W.2d 236, error refused.

(2) Servant lent or hired to another generally see Master and Servant § 2.

71. U.S.—Doll v. Scott Paper Co., C.C.A.Pa., 91 F.2d 860.

72. U.S.—Lynch v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 163 F.2d 97—Peterson v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 80 F.Supp. 84—The Prince Rupert City, D.C.Fla., 30 F.Supp.

the members of the crew of the vessel where all are engaged in the common work of loading or unloading;[73] and the ship or its owners are not liable for injuries to the stevedore by members of the crew engaged in the same work.[74] Hence, a winchman furnished by a vessel to assist the stevedores, and under the latter's control and orders, being a fellow servant with them and their employees,[75] the vessel is not liable for his negligence where ordinary care was exercised to furnish a competent winchman and a good winch,[76] but where the incompetence of the winchman has been made known to the officer in charge of the vessel his retention thereafter is negligence for which the vessel is liable,[77] and this is so where an inexperienced winchman is furnished.[78] Where there is no negligence on the part of the winchman, the owners are not liable.[79] Where the winchman remains the servant of the vessel and the owner they are liable for injuries caused by his negligence.[80] The stevedores and the crew are not fellow servants when not engaged in the same work.[81]

Voluntary assistance by member of crew. The owners of the ship are not responsible for negligence of an employee of the ship who volunteers assistance,[82] and, while the ship has been held liable where the injury was sustained on board ship,[83] the contrary has also been held where the accident did not take place on board and was not due in any way to the construction of the ship.[84]

What law governs. Where a stevedore or longshoreman or other employee of an independent contractor is injured while the vessel is in port, the law of the place where the injury occurred governs the rights and liabilities of the parties.[85] Where a stevedore is injured while the vessel is in a foreign port, the laws of the foreign country control;[86] and, where such laws do not give a stevedore a maritime lien for injuries, a suit in rem in a court of admiralty in the United States cannot be maintained.[87]

(2) As to Condition of Vessel
- (a) In general
- (b) Hatches

(a) In General

The owner of a vessel is liable for personal injuries sustained by employees of stevedoring or other independent contractors as a result of his failure to furnish them a reasonably safe place in which to work.

It is the duty of the owners of a vessel to use reasonable care to furnish stevedores or other independent contractors and their employees a reasonably safe place to work,[88] and a reasonably

755—The Nyhorn, D C N Y, 4 F. Supp. 403
58 C.J. p 312 note 73.
Fellow servant rule.
Generally see Master and Servant §§ 307–356
In admiralty generally see Admiralty § 82.

73. U S—Carstensen v. Hammond Lumber Co, C C A Cal, 11 F 2d 142.
58 C J. p 313 note 76.

74. U S.—The Rosalie Mahony, D C. Wash., 218 F. 695.

75. U.S.—The Daisy, C C A.Cal., 282 F. 261.
58 C J. p 313 note 78.

76. U S.—Brodbeck v Lavino Shipping Co, C C A Pa., 31 F 2d 943.
58 C.J. p 313 note 79.

77. U.S—The Brookby, D C Pa., 165 F. 93.

78. U.S.—The Anaces, N C., 93 F 240, 34 C.C.A 558

79. U S—Mercurio v Lunn, N Y, 93 F. 592, 35 C C.A. 467.

80. U S.—Standard Oil Co. v Anderson, N Y, 29 S.Ct. 252, 212 U.S 215, 53 L Ed. 480.
58 C.J p 313 note 83

81. U S.—Union Steamboat Co. v Chaffin, Ill, 204 F 412, 122 C.C.A 598.
58 C J p 313 note 84.

82. U.S.—The Corozal, D.C.Mass, 225 F 685—The General De Sonis, D.C Wash, 179 F. 123

83. U S—The General De Sonis, supra
58 C J. p 313 note 86.

84. U S—The Corozal, D.C Mass, 225 F 685

85. U S—Lundberg v Prudential S. S Corp, D C N Y, 102 F Supp 115—The Cuzco, D C Wash, 225 F 169.
What law governs maritime torts generally see Conflict of Laws § 12 a (3).

Wrongful death

Where employee of repair company was killed when gasoline exploded in a valve in a tanker in dry dock in New York, employee's administratrix could not invoke the Death on the High Seas Act, but since a ship in dry dock is within admiralty jurisdiction, administratrix could sue under the Conservation Act, and her recovery depended on the Lord Campbell's Act of New York.—Puleo v. H E Moss & Co, C.C A N.Y., 159 F 2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v. Puleo, 67 S Ct. 1733, 331 U.S 847, 91 L Ed 1857 and H. E. Moss & Co. v. Puleo, 67 S Ct. 1736, 331 U S 847, 91 L Ed 1857.

86. U.S.—The Cuzco, D.C.Wash., 225 F 169.
58 C J. p 320 note 77.

87. U.S.—The Cuzco, supra.
Jurisdiction of admiralty to enforce liens see Admiralty §§ 46–48.

88. U S—Lauricella v. U. S, C.A N. Y, 185 F 2d 327—U S v Arrow Stevedoring Co., C A Cal, 175 F.2d 329, certiorari denied 70 S Ct. 307, 338 U S 904, 94 L Ed 557—Anderson v Lorentzen, C C A N Y., 160 F 2d 173—Militano v. U S, C.C.A. N Y., 156 F 2d 599, certiorari dismissed State Marine Corp. v. Militano, 67 S.Ct 193, 329 U S 682, 91 L Ed 600—The Wearpool, C C A Tex, 112 F.2d 245—Panama Mail S S. Co v Davis, C C A Pa., 79 F.2d 430—De Luca v. Shepard S. S. Co, C.C A N Y., 65 F 2d 566, modified on other grounds 67 F.2d 437, certiorari denied 54 S Ct. 562, 291 U.S. 685, 78 L Ed 1072—The Meton, C.C A Tex, 62 F.2d 825—Lundberg v. Prudential S. S. Corp, D.C N.Y, 102 F Supp. 115—Laffoon v. U S., D.C.N Y., 101 F.Supp 823—Greer v. U. S, D C.N.Y, 94 F.Supp 397—Sommerseth v. U. S., D C.Pa, 91 F Supp 457—Portel v U S., D C.N Y, 85 F Supp. 458—Cioffi v. New Zealand Shipping Co, D C N Y., 80 F Supp 98—Altamura v. U S, D.C N Y., 78 F.Supp 531—Lo Bue v. U S., D C.N.Y, 75 F Supp 154, opinion supplemented 78 F.Supp. 86, appeal dismissed, C.C A., 178 F.2d 528—Amendola v. U. S., D C N Y., 74 F.Supp. 488—Fodera v. Booth safe passageway to and from such place,[89] and they must exercise ordinary care to keep the premises reasonably secure against danger,[90] and are liable for the resulting injuries to such workmen by reason of their failure to exercise ordinary care to provide reasonably safe places in which to work.[91]

American Shipping Corp, D.C N Y., 66 F.Supp. 319, affirmed, C C A, 159 F.2d 795—Puleo v. H E Moss & Co, D.C N Y, 66 F Supp. 78, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C A, 159 F 2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v. Puleo, 67 S Ct 1733, 331 U S. 847, 91 L Ed. 1857, and H E Moss & Co. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct 1736, 331 U S 847, 91 L Ed. 1857—The Martha R. Grimes, D C N Y., 49 F Supp. 591—The Etna, D C Pa., 43 F Supp 303—The Dalhem, D C Mass, 41 F Supp 718—The Ellenor, D C Fla, 39 F Supp 576, affirmed, C C A, Freeman v. A H Bull S S Co, 125 F 2d 774—The Anderson, D C Md, 37 F Supp 695—Davis v. Grace S. S Co., D.C Pa, 10 F Supp. 284—The Nyhorn, D.C N Y, 4 F Supp. 403

Cal—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P. 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v Naknek Packing Co, 52 S Ct 128, 284 U.S. 672, 76 L Ed 569.

N.Y—Buckley v. Cunard S. S Co, 253 N.Y.S 254, 233 App Div 361—Riley v. Agwilines, Inc, 56 N.Y.S. 2d 221, affirmed 63 N Y S 2d 835, 270 App Div. 1010, reversed on other grounds 73 N E.2d 718, 296 N Y. 402.

58 C J. p 313 note 92.

Bulkhead

(1) A ship is responsible for proper construction and maintenance of a bulkhead employed to stabilize a linseed cargo—The Adour, D C.Md, 21 F.2d 858.

(2) Type of material used in a bulkhead which separated cargoes which were stowed by ship's agents was not decisive on question of shipowner's liability for injuries sustained by a stevedore, who was employed by a stevedoring company which was engaged in removing cargo from ship, when bags fell on stevedore—La Guerra v Brasileiro, C C A N.Y, 124 F 2d 553, certiorari denied Brasileiro v. La Guerra, 62 S Ct 918, 315 U S 824, 86 L Ed 1220.

Cargo which was unsafe to work on made the place of work unsafe—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C C A N.Y., 160 F 2d 173.

Liquid on deck

A steamship was an unsafe place for stevedores to work to the extent that its deck was made dangerous by presence of liquid which had leaked out on deck.—Anderson v. Lorentzen, supra.

Applicability of rule where work done for shippers

Safe place to work rule is generally applicable in cases of master and servant or in cases where work is being done on property, vessel, or otherwise, of owner, and rule was inapplicable to question of liability of vessel for death of longshoreman where work being done by stevedore and his employees was being done not for vessel but for shippers—The Ellenor, D C Fla, 39 F Supp 576, affirmed, C C A., Freeman v A. H Bull S S Co, 125 F.2d 774.

Condition not deemed dangerous

A trench 3½ inches wide by eight inches deep around hatch into which battens were fitted when the vessel was at sea was not dangerous or a trap with respect to liability of shipowners to employee of an independent contractor who was employed to clean up ship after discharge of cargo—De La Pena v. Moore-McCormack Lines, D C N.Y, 84 F Supp 698

89. U S—The Wearpool, C C A Tex., 112 F 2d 245—McCarty v U. S, D C N Y, 88 F.Supp 251, affirmed, C. A, 196 F 2d 221—The Martha R Grimes, D C N Y, 49 F.Supp 591—The Anderson, D C Md., 37 F Supp. 695

N Y—Riley v Agwilines, Inc, 56 N. Y S 2d 221, affirmed 63 N Y S 2d 835, 270 App Div 1010, reversed on other grounds 73 N.E 2d 718, 296 N Y. 402

58 C.J p 314 note 93.

Ladders

U S—U S Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v U S, C.C A N Y., 152 F 2d 46—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, C C A N.Y, 139 F 2d 995—Grillo v Royal Norwegian Government, C.C A N Y, 139 F.2d 237—McCarty v U S, D C N Y., 88 F Supp 251, affirmed, C A., 196 F 2d 221—The Estrella, D C N Y., 2 F.Supp. 258, affirmed, C C A., Dimatteo v. The Estrella, 67 F.2d 991.

58 C J. p 314 note 93 [a] (3).

Type of equipment required

Libelee was not negligent for failing to furnish the type of "accommodation ladder" which was used on some other freight vessels and passenger ships at the time of the accident, since the libelee was not compelled to furnish the latest invention in equipment for boarding and leaving vessels—B A Carroll Stevedoring Co v. U. S, D.C Mass, 25 F Supp 6.

90. U S—The Joseph B Thomas, Cal, 86 F. 658, 30 C.C.A. 333, 46 L R.A. 58.

58 C J p 314 note 94.

91. U S—Guerrini v. U S, C C A N. Y, 167 F.2d 352, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 65, 335 U S. 843, 93 L Ed. 393—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C C.A. N.Y, 160 F 2d 173—McNeil v. U. S, D C.Pa., 94 F.Supp. 303—Altamura v U. S, D C N.Y, 78 F.Supp. 531—Fodera v. Booth Am Shipping Corp., D C N Y., 66 F Supp 319, affirmed, C C.A, 159 F 2d 795—Puleo v. H E Moss & Co, D C N Y, 66 F Supp 78, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C A, 159 F 2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp v. Puleo, 67 S Ct. 1733, 331 U S 847, 91 L Ed 1857 and H E Moss & Co v Puleo, 67 S Ct. 1736, 331 U S. 847, 91 L Ed 1857—The Martha R Grimes, D C N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 591—The Tampico, D C N Y, 45 F.Supp. 174

N Y—Cardinal v State, 109 N Y S 2d 818, 279 App.Div 326, modified on other grounds 107 N E 2d 569, 304 N Y. 400—Buckley v Cunard S S Co, 253 N.Y S. 254, 233 App Div. 361.

58 C J p 315 note 95

Injury by gas

Ship which permitted stevedores to load ship before dissipation of deadly hydrocyanide gas with which ship had been fumigated was negligent and liable to stevedore injured by such gas—Davis v. Grace S S. Co, D C Pa, 10 F Supp 284.

Injury caused by improper stowage of cargo

(1) In general—La Guerra v. Brasileiro, C C A N.Y, 124 F 2d 553, certiorari denied Brasileiro v La Guerra, 62 S Ct 918, 315 U S 824, 86 L Ed. 1220—The Etna, D.C Pa, 43 F Supp. 303—The Dalhem, D C Mass, 41 F Supp 718.

(2) Where an injury occurs to a stevedore, while unloading a cargo, as a result of negligent loading, the ship and her owner cannot escape liability by showing that the loading was done by an independent contractor who employed competent stevedores—The Etna, supra

Injury due to escape of steam into boiler

U S—The Meton, C.C.A Tex, 62 F 2d 825.

58 C.J. p 312 note 72 [a] (3).

Injury from explosion in hydrogen house

Shipowner was liable for injury sustained by employee in explosion caused by welding operations beneath floor of hydrogen house which had become filled with escaping gas from leaky tank—Amendola v U. S., D C. N Y., 74 F.Supp. 488

Permitting top of tank to remain uncovered

U S—The Wearpool, D.C Tex, 28 F. Supp. 886, affirmed, C.C.A., 112 F.2d 245.

Permitting unboxed thermometer pipe in hold

U.S.—Fodera v. Booth American

These duties cannot be delegated[92] and persist despite any concurrent duty on the part of the stevedoring or other independent contractor.[93] Except as the doctrine of seaworthiness may apply, as discussed infra subdivision e of this section, no further duties ordinarily are owed by the shipowners,[94] and, where these duties have been discharged, the ship or owner thereof is not liable for injuries sustained by employees of stevedoring or other independent contractors on board the ship.[95] The safe place to work rule is subject to the limitation that the shipowner or master of the vessel is not required to eliminate all the danger attendant on work that is inherently dangerous.[96] The shipowner is not an insurer, but is merely obligated to use reasonable care to provide a safe place in which to work.[97] The duty to provide a reasonably safe place in which to work is confined to those parts of the ship to which the employee may reasonably be expected to go.[98]

When a shipowner surrenders control of part of his ship to an independent contractor, his duty with respect to the surrendered part extends only up to the time when the independent contractor assumes control.[99] Where the owners turn the vessel over to the stevedores or independent contractors in a safe condition, they are not liable for injuries to stevedores or contractors or their employees, arising from dangers created by the manner in which the injured employee and his fellow workmen do their work,[1] or by defects caused by the stevedores, of Shipping Corp, C C A.N.Y, 159 F 2d 795.

92. U S —Anderson v. Lorentzen, C C A N Y, 160 F 2d 173—Lundberg v Prudential S S Corp, D C.N.Y, 102 F Supp 115—Sommerseth v. U. S, D C.Pa, 91 F Supp 457—Badalamenti v U. S, D.C N Y, 67 F Supp 575, affirmed in part and modified in part on other grounds, C C A, 160 F.2d 422
N.Y.—Riley v Agwilines, Inc., 56 N. Y S 2d 221, affirmed 63 N Y S 2d 835, 270 App Div 1010, reversed on other grounds 73 N E 2d 718, 296 N. Y 402.
58 C J p 315 note 96

93. U S —Anderson v Lorentzen, C C A N Y, 160 F.2d 173—Fodera v. Booth American Shipping Corp, C. C A N Y, 159 F 2d 795—Vanderlinden v Lorentzen, C C A.N.Y, 139 F. 2d 995—Altamura v U. S, D C N. Y., 78 F.Supp 531.

94. U S.—Freeman v A H. Bull S S. Co, C C A Fla., 125 F 2d 774—McCarty v. U S, D C N.Y., 88 F. Supp 251, affirmed, C A., 196 F.2d 221
58 C J p 315 note 97.
Duty as to appliances see infra subdivision a (3) of this section.

95. U S —Whyatt v. U. S, D C.N Y, 92 F Supp. 543—McCarty v U. S, D C.N.Y, 88 F Supp 251, affirmed, C A., 196 F.2d 221—B A Carroll Stevedoring Co. v. U S, D.C.Mass., 25 F Supp. 6.
58 C.J. p 315 note 98.

Injury by gas

(1) Vessel owner was not liable for injuries from hydrocyanidic poisoning sustained by stevedore who was ordered to begin loading after government expert had fumigated vessel and turned vessel over to owner's officers after determination that gas had entirely escaped, since owner exercised reasonable care in relying on work and word of government's expert that ship was safe for loading. —Panama Mail S S Co v. Davis, C. C A Pa., 79 F.2d 430

(2) Where steamship owners and their agents did not know of presence of carbon monoxide gas in ship's boiler and were not notified that employee of one contracting to supervise reconditioning of ship would inspect and survey it or enter boiler for such purpose, owners were not guilty of negligence rendering them liable for fatal injury to employee because of such gas —The Summerleaf, D.C. Tex, 28 F.Supp. 888.

(3) Where longshoreman employed by stevedoring company, which had been engaged by charterer to unload cargo of castor pomace, boarded vessel under directions of longshoreman's foreman and was asphyxiated by carbon dioxide gas generated by castor pomace in vessel's hold, and vessel had no control over loading and unloading or knowledge of condition of cargo, and there was no evidence of fault or defect in vessel or her appliances, the vessel was not liable in rem for longshoreman's death Under such circumstances, vessel was not bound to see that there was ventilation prior to unloading of cargo —Freeman v A. H Bull S S Co, C C A Fla, 125 F 2d 774

Injury caused by improper stowage of cargo

(1) Loading bags of sugar "athwartship," that is, with ends of the bags toward the sides of the ship, is safe, proper, and customary method of stowage.—Whyatt v. U. S, D C.N. Y., 92 F.Supp. 543.

(2) In the absence of knowledge or information to contrary, navigation company could rely on expert master stevedore's decision to use overlapping method of loading lumber, and fact that overlapping method of loading lumber was frequently used, and expert master stevedore adopted it as best method, excludes idea of navigation company's negligence because stripping method was not used, with respect to company's liability for longshoreman's injuries sustained while assisting in unloading steamship.—Litwinowitch v. Oriental Nav. Co., 166 A. 911, 311 Pa. 257.

Leaving tank open

Ship was not negligent in leaving tank open for use of workmen during repair thereof, being necessary for entrance and ventilation in preparation for work —Long v. Silver Line, C C A.N.Y, 48 F.2d 15.

96. U S.—The Ellenor, D C.Fla., 39 F Supp 576, affirmed, C C A, Freeman v. A. H. Bull S. S. Co, 125 F 2d 774
Assumption of risk see infra subdivision c (2) of this section.

97. Mass —Cullen v. New England Fuel, etc, Co., 148 N.E. 371, 253 Mass. 85.

98. U S —Martini v. U S., C A.N.Y, 192 F 2d 649, certiorari denied 72 S Ct 759, 343 U.S 926, 96 L Ed. —— —Lauricella v. U S, C A N.Y, 185 F 2d 327.

99. U.S.—Lynch v. U S, C.C A.N.Y, 163 F.2d 97—Osnovitz v U S., D.C. Pa, 103 F Supp. 238—Fogel v. U S., D C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp 727—Laffoon v U. S, D C.N Y, 101 F Supp. 823—Muratore v. U S, D.C N.Y, 100 F Supp 276—Cioffi v. New Zealand Shipping Co., D.C.N.Y., 80 F Supp. 98.

Primary duty to furnish employees safe place to work rested on the stevedoring company.—Porello v. U. S, C.C.A N Y., 153 F 2d 605, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds American Stevedores, Inc. v Porello, 67 S.Ct. 847, 330 U.S. 446, 91 L Ed 1011 which the owners or their agents had no notice, or time and opportunity to repair.[2] When the owner has relinquished control he is not responsible for an unsafe condition of which an independent contractor has been notified and which it is the duty of the independent contractor to repair.[3] However, the shipowner may be liable for personal injuries to employees of an independent contractor resulting from an unsafe condition created after the contractor has commenced work on the vessel where the owner is in control or has the power of control of that part of the vessel at which the unsafe condition is created.[4] The shipowner is not liable for a defective condition where he had no notice or knowledge of it,[5] particularly where the independent contractor had undertaken to repair any defects.[6]

1. U S —Lynch v U S, C C A N.Y. 163 F 2d 97—Muratore v U S, D.C. N.Y, 100 F.Supp. 276—The Nyhorn, D C.N Y., 4 F.Supp 403.
N.Y —Riley v Agwilines, Inc., 73 N. E.2d 718, 296 N.Y. 402.

In order to warrant a recovery for injuries resulting from an unsafe condition, the unsafe condition must have been the proximate cause of the injury.[7] The general rules governing proximate cause in negligence cases ordinarily are applicable.[8] If the ship is turned over to the contractor in an unsafe condition as to certain things, but the injury is in no way caused, or contributed to, by the unsafe conditions, such conditions are not the proximate cause of the injury, and the ship is not liable.[9]

Inspection. While the ship is not liable for injuries resulting from a latent defect which a reasonable inspection would not disclose,[10] the inspection and care of the place to work must have been such that no hidden defect which was or should have been known is allowed to exist without warning to the stevedores,[11] and the owners are liable if due care is not used to inspect the vessel so as to discover defects which should be known to the officers of the vessel.[12]

Warnings. The duty to furnish a safe place to work includes the duty to give proper warning of latent dangers or defects,[13] and this duty exists al-

Pa.—Litwinowitch v. Oriental Nav Co., 166 A. 911, 311 Pa. 257.
58 C.J. p 315 note 99.

Knowledge of dangerous practice
However, it has been held that where the shipowner knows, or should know, that employees in doing their work engage in a dangerous practice he is under a duty to provide against the dangerous practice and failure to fulfill this duty constitutes negligence.—Lopez v. American President Lines, Ltd., C.C.A.N.Y., 138 F 2d 914—Lundberg v. Prudential S. S Corp, D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp 115.

Unsafe condition created in discharging cargo
U.S.—Whyatt v. U. S, D.C.N.Y., 92 F.Supp 543.

2. U.S.—Roymann v. Brown, Tex., 105 F 250, 44 C.C.A. 464.

3. U.S.—Byars v. Moore-McCormack Lines, C.C.A.N.Y., 155 F.2d 587—Laffoon v U. S., D.C.N.Y., 101 F. Supp 823

4. Circumstances showing control in owner
Where owner of cargo ship engaged independent contractor to convert ship, and by contract terms contractor was required to place proper safeguards and to use his best efforts to prevent accidents or injury to persons or property, but owner maintained crew on ship the members of which were required to report any unsafe and dangerous condition including open hatch areas created by contractor's men, and owner's mate had power to require contractor's foreman to effect removal of any existing danger and in event of failure to do so to terminate activities until compliance was secured, the power of control vested in the shipowner.—Muratore v. U. S, D.C.N.Y., 100 F. Supp. 276.

5. U.S.—Armento v. U. S, D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp 198.

Defective ladder
U.S.—Armento v. U. S, supra.

6. U.S.—Armento v U. S, supra.

7. U.S.—Doll v. Scott Paper Co, C.C.A.Pa., 91 F 2d 860—De La Pena v. Moore-McCormack Lines, D.C.N.Y., 84 F Supp 698
58 C.J. p 316 note 11 [b].

8. U.S.—Johnson v. Kosmos Portland Cement Co, C.C.A.Ky., 64 F 2d 193, certiorari denied Kosmos Portland Cement Co v. Johnson, 54 S.Ct 60, two cases, 290 U.S. 641, 78 L.Ed 557.
58 C.J. p 313 note 92 [d].
Proximate cause generally see Negligence §§ 103–115.

Lightning exploding gases
(1) Owner's wrongful act or omission in permitting gases to remain in vessel used for oil was proximate cause of death of men, from explosion caused by lightning, while making alterations on vessel.—Johnson v Kosmos Portland Cement Co, C.C.A.Ky., 64 F 2d 193, certiorari denied Kosmos Portland Cement Co. v. Johnson, 54 S.Ct 60, two cases, 290 U.S. 641, 78 L.Ed 557.

(2) Lightning which exploded gases in vessel, resulting in death of men was not "extraordinary manifestation of natural force" which owner would not have been required to foresee.—Johnson v. Kosmos Portland Cement Co., C.C.A.Ky., 64 F 2d 193, certiorari denied Kosmos Portland Cement Co v. Johnson, 54 S.Ct. 60, two cases, 290 U.S 641, 78 L.Ed 557.

9. U.S.—Long v. Silver Line, D.C.N.Y, 41 F.2d 367, affirmed, C.C.A., 48 F 2d 15.

10. U.S.—Wholey v British, etc, SS Co., D.C.N.Y, 158 F. 379, affirmed 171 F 399, 96 C.C.A. 355—Lunney v. The Concord, D.C.N.Y., 58 F. 913

11. U.S.—Corrado v. Pennsylvania R Co, C.A.N.Y, 171 F 2d 73, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct 641, 336 U.S 919, 93 L.Ed. 1081—Wholey v British, etc, SS. Co, D.C.N.Y., 158 F. 379, affirmed 171 F. 399, 96 C.C.A. 355.

Danger not previously experienced
In absence of any testimony as to any prior knowledge of any dangerous character of castor pomace carried by vessel by those familiar with it, master of vessel was not expected to recognize or anticipate any danger from cargo and was under no duty of investigating and inspecting for danger which no one theretofore had experienced under such circumstances —The Ellenor, D.C.Fla., 39 F Supp. 576, affirmed, C.C.A., Freeman v. A. H Bull S. S. Co, 125 F 2d 774.

12. U.S.—The William Branfoot v. Hamilton, S.C, 52 F. 390, 3 C.C.A 155.
58 C.J. p 316 note 6.

13. U.S.—Corrado v. Pennsylvania R Co., C.A.N.Y., 171 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct 641, 336 U.S. 919, 93 L.Ed. 1081—Puleo v H. E Moss & Co., C.C.A.N.Y, 159 F 2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1733, 331 U.S 847, 91 L.Ed 1857 and 67 S.Ct. 1736, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857—Lo Bue v. U. S, D.C.N.Y, 75 F.Supp. 154, opinion supplemented 78 F Supp. 86, appeal dismissed, C.A., 178 F.2d 528—The Etna, D.C.Pa., 43 F.Supp. 303—The Dalhem, D.C.

though the stevedoring or other independent contractors are aware of the danger but fail to warn their employees.[14] The shipowner is not under any duty to warn the employee of conditions which are open and comprehensible to any reasonably careful man,[15] and the shipowner is under no duty to give notice or warning of dangers of which the employee has actual notice.[16] The master of the vessel is not required to warn experienced employees of a contractor of dangers with which the employee is thoroughly familiar.[17]

Peculiar construction. Reasonable safeguards must be provided against danger resulting from the peculiar construction of the ship,[18] and warnings thereof must be given in order to escape liability.[19]

Illumination. Where it is the duty[20] or the custom for stevedoring or other independent contractors to furnish their own lights, there is no negligence on the part of the ship in failing to supply lights.[21] Where the shipowner surrenders control of that part of the ship at which the injury occurs to the independent contractor whose duty it is to provide proper illumination, the shipowner is not liable for an injury to an employee due to inadequacy of illumination.[22] Even where the ship has the duty to furnish lights, a particular place thereon need not be lighted until the stevedores are ready to work there,[23] but it is negligence for the vessel to fail to have proper lights at a dark place where men are working.[24] A ship having agreed to furnish lights is not liable for injuries received on the ground that the place was unlighted where it furnished the lights and was not notified that some had temporarily gone out.[25] Where the equipment for illumination is ready and available for use at the scene of the accident the shipowner is not liable for injuries sustained by employees of independent contractors because of the contractors' or employees' failure to use the equipment.[26] Where the shipowner provides a lighted passageway which can be used he is under no duty to keep a dark passageway safe.[27]

Lighters. The owner of a lighter receiving cargo from a ship has the duty to furnish the stevedores or longshoremen employed a safe place to work,[28] and a proper passage to and from that place,[29] and is liable for injuries sustained by a stevedore or longshoreman by reason of an unsafe mode of access.[30] The shipowner ordinarily fulfills his duty, in the absence of some special contract to the contrary, where he puts the goods over the ship's rail so that they may be received on board the lighter,[31] and the ship is under no duty to furnish a ladder for access to the lighter on which the stevedores are Mass, 41 F Supp. 718—The Anderson, D C.Md, 37 F Supp 695—The Wearpool, D.C Tex, 28 F Supp. 886, affirmed, C C A., 112 F 2d 245.

58 C J. p 316 note 7

Deck made dangerous by presence of liquid
U S —Anderson v. Lorentzen, C.C A. N Y, 160 F 2d 173.

Sufficiency of warning
Owner of vessel was not relieved of liability for injuries sustained by longshoreman, who was engaged in stowing cargo on vessel when thermometer pipe was dislodged, by reason of mate's instruction to keep clear of the pipe, where instruction was not a warning that contact with pipe was dangerous and likely to cause injury, but was merely a direction to keep the cargo free from contact with pipe to permit the circulation of air through perforations of pipe—Fodera v Booth American Shipping Corp, D C.N Y, 66 F Supp. 319, affirmed, C.C.A, 159 F.2d 795.

14. U S —Anderson v Lorentzen, C. C A N Y, 160 F.2d 173.

15. Mass.—Murphy v. Furness, etc, Co., 156 N.E 836, 259 Mass 394
58 C.J p 316 note 8.

16. U S.—Ove Tysko v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.Or., 81 F. 2d 960.

17. U S —The Ellenor, D.C Fla, 39 F Supp. 576, affirmed, C C A., Freeman v A. H. Bull S S. Co, 125 F. 2d 774.

18. U S.—The Max Morris, D C N.Y, 24 F 860, affirmed, C C, 28 F 581, affirmed 11 S Ct. 29, 137 U.S 1, 34 L Ed 586.
58 C J p 316 note 9

19. U S —The Earl of Dunmore, D.C N.Y, 120 F 858

20. U S —The Hindustan, D C N.Y, 37 F 2d 932, affirmed, C C A, 44 F. 2d 1015
58 C J p 316 note 11

21. U S —The Nikolai II, D C Ala, 102 F. 174.

Lighting voluntarily supplied by contractor
U S —Long v Silver Line, C C A N Y, 48 F 2d 15

22. U S.—Osnovitz v. U. S, D C Pa., 103 F.Supp. 238.

23. U S —The Santiago, N.Y., 137 F. 323, 69 C C A. 653

24. U S —The Wearpool, D C Tex, 28 F Supp. 886, affirmed, C C.A, 112 F 2d 245—Nelson v. The Manhanset, D C N.Y., 53 F. 843, affirmed 69 F 843, 13 C.C A. 677.

Crew member extinguishing light in hold
Shipowner would not be relieved of liability for injuries sustained by longshoreman when members of ship's crew negligently extinguished light in hold where longshoreman was working merely because longshoreman's foreman had not expressly informed men on deck that work was in progress in hold —Palardy v. U. S, D C Pa., 102 F.Supp 534.

25. U.S —The Omsk, C C.A.Va., 266 F 200

26. U S —Cioffi v New Zealand Shipping Co, D C N Y, 80 F Supp. 98.
N Y —Riley v Agwilines, Inc, 73 N. E 2d 718, 296 N.Y. 402.

27. U S —Long v Silver Line, C C.A N.Y, 48 F 2d 15

28. U S —The No 34, C C A N Y, 25 F 2d 602, certiorari denied Hogan v L Boyers' Sons Co, 49 S Ct. 11, 278 U.S 606, 73 L Ed. 533—McDonough v International Nav. Co., D C.Me, 249 F. 248

29. U S —The No 34, C C A N Y., 25 F 2d 602, certiorari denied Hogan v L Boyers' Sons Co, 49 S Ct 11, 278 U.S. 606, 73 L Ed 533

30. U.S —The No. 34, C C A N Y, 25 F 2d 602, certiorari denied Hogan v L. Boyers' Sons Co., 49 S Ct. 11, 278 U.S. 606, 73 L.Ed 533.
58 C J. p 316 note 18

31. U.S —The No 34, C C A N Y, 25 F 2d 602, certiorari denied Hogan v. L Boyers' Sons Co, 49 S.Ct. 11, 278 U.S 606, 73 L Ed 533.

employed.[32] The fact that the stevedoring contractor generally provides safe access for his employees does not affect the obligation of the owner of the lighter.[33] Where, however, it becomes the duty of the ship to furnish safe passage from the lighter to the wharf, the owner of the lighter is not chargeable with negligence when the ladder furnished by the ship is defective.[34]

Where a stevedore or longshoreman, engaged in loading a vessel, is invited by the captain of a lighter tied alongside to board the lighter in furtherance of the business of loading the lighter's cargo on the vessel, the owner of the lighter is liable for injuries sustained by the stevedore or longshoreman as the result of the unsafe condition of the means of access to the lighter furnished by the captain.[35]

(b) Hatches

A vessel, and the owner thereof, have a right to have its hatches open or closed at their convenience and it is not negligence to leave a hatchway open during intervals of work.

Hatches are not appliances, but are part of the vessel.[36] Subject to the duty to provide the employees of stevedores or other independent contractors with a safe place to work and a safe passage to and from that place, as discussed supra subdivision a (2) (a) of this section, a vessel, and the owner thereof, have a right to have its hatches open or closed at their convenience,[37] and it is not negligence to leave a hatchway open during intervals of work,[38] even at night if the passageway and hatchway are reasonably lighted,[39] but it is negligence to leave an open hatch in a dark, unusual place where men working near it may be expected to go.[40] Where there is a custom to close the opening of hatches, a duty to cover them arises, and a breach of that duty may constitute negligence on the part of the shipowner.[41] The ship must supply adequate and safe planking over the hatches.[42]

No liability attaches to the vessel or owners where the dangerous condition results from the acts or neglect of the injured person's fellow employees,[43] or where the negligence of the owner is not the proximate cause of the injury,[44] or where the injury occurs from the dangerous condition of a hatch on a part of the ship where the employee had no right to be in pursuit of his employment.[45] However, where a shipowner engages an independent contractor to convert the ship, the owner, retaining control of the ship and having knowledge of the dangerous condition created by an opening in a hatch, is liable for injuries to an employee of the contractor who fell through the opening;[46] the fact that the contractor is under a duty to furnish his employee a safe place to work does not relieve the shipowner of responsibility.[47]

Inspection The vessel has the duty of exercising ordinary care in inspecting hatchways to discover defects,[48] and, where the defect could have been

32. U.S.—The No 34, C.C.A.N.Y., 25 F.2d 602, certiorari denied Hogan v. L. Boyers' Sons Co., 49 S.Ct. 11, 278 U.S. 606, 73 L.Ed. 533.

33. U.S.—The No 34, C.C.A.N.Y., 25 F.2d 602, certiorari denied Hogan v. L. Boyers' Sons Co., 49 S.Ct. 11, 278 U.S. 606, 73 L.Ed. 533.

34. U.S.—McDonough v. International Nav. Co., D.C.Me., 249 F. 248

35. Lack of contractual relationship between the lighter and the stevedore's employer does not absolve owner of lighter.—The Owen, D.C.Pa., 43 F.Supp. 897

36. Mass.—Crimmins v. Booth, 88 N.E. 449, 202 Mass. 17, 132 Am.S.R. 468.

37. U.S.—The Auchenarden, D.C.N.Y., 100 F. 895.

38. N.Y.—Riley v. Agwilines, Inc., 73 N.E.2d 718, 296 N.Y. 402.
58 C.J. p. 317 note 26.

When ship is awaiting cargo leaving open cargo hatch is not negligence.—Long v. Silver Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 15.

While loading or unloading vessel, shipowner ordinarily need not keep hatchways covered.—Ove Tysko v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.Or., 81 F.2d 960.

39. U.S.—Deming v. The Argonaut, D.C.N.Y., 61 F. 517.

40. U.S.—Badalamenti v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 160 F.2d 422.—Lo Bue v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 75 F.Supp. 154, opinion supplemented 78 F.Supp. 86, appeal dismissed, C.A., 178 F.2d 528.
58 C.J. p. 317 note 28.

41. U.S.—Ove Tysko v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.Or., 81 F.2d 960.—The Anderson, D.C.Md., 37 F.Supp. 695

42. U.S.—The Anderson, supra.

43. U.S.—Lynch v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 163 F.2d 97.—Fogel v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 727
N.Y.—Riley v. Agwilines, Inc., 73 N.E.2d 718, 296 N.Y. 402
58 C.J. p. 317 note 29.

Leaving hatch open and unguarded
U.S.—Lynch v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 163 F.2d 97.
58 C.J. p. 317 note 29 [a] (1).

44. U.S.—McIntosh v. Miguel De Larrinaga S.S. Co., D.C.Tex., 45 F.2d 240.—Lopez v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 870
58 C.J. p. 317 note 26 [a].

45. U.S.—Lauricella v. U. S., C.A.N.Y., 185 F.2d 327

46. U.S.—Muratore v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 100 F.Supp. 276

Custom as affecting owner's duty
Where owner of cargo ship engaged independent contractor to convert ship but owner maintained control of ship, and crew, who were required to report any unsafe and dangerous condition, knew of opening in hatch on ship which created dangerous condition, even if purported custom existed that there was no duty on shipowner with respect to open and dangerous hatch areas, custom would not relieve shipowner of duty to use reasonable care for safety of contractor's employee who was an invitee on ship.—Muratore v. U. S., supra.

47. U.S.—Muratore v. U. S., supra.

48. U.S.—The Saranac, D.C.N.Y., 132 F. 936.

Duty of ship's officer
With respect to liability for injury to stevedore, whether ship's officer discovered by reasonable care in inspection, the ship is liable.[49]

Warning. One who is injured by reason of a dangerous or defective hatch may recover therefor if the ship was turned over to the contractors without any warning of the dangerous or defective condition;[50] but, where the contractor has been fully informed, the ship is not liable,[51] and owes no duty to warn the individual employee of the contractor,[52] except as to latent defects.[53] Where the employee has actual notice of the danger the shipowner is under no duty to give notice or warning.[54]

(3) Appliances

A shipowner who undertakes to supply appliances and equipment for the use of stevedoring or other independent contractors must furnish reasonably safe appliances and equipment.

A shipowner undertaking to furnish appliances and equipment for the use of stevedoring or other independent contractors must furnish reasonably safe appliances and equipment,[55] reasonably capable of performing the services for which they are furnished,[56] and free from defects.[57] This duty cannot be delegated to another so as to release the ship or its owners from liability.[58] The vessel or its owners are liable if they have failed to exercise reasonable care in furnishing such appliances.[59] In order to impose liability, the defective apparatus must have been the proximate cause of the accident.[60]

Except as the doctrine of seaworthiness may apply, as discussed infra subdivision e of this section, the shipowner is obligated only to exercise reasonable care in furnishing appliances and is not an insurer of his appliances.[61] He is not bound to the highest degree of care, nor is he under a duty to furnish the best appliances.[62] Where the appliances furnished are reasonably safe for the work in hand, the shipowner is not liable for injuries caused by the use of such appliances.[63] The ship-need merely see that hatches are closed, or must see that they are properly closed, depends on situation—Petersen v Klitgaard, 299 P 54, 212 Cal 516, certiorari denied Peterson v Naknek Packing Co, 52 S. Ct. 128, 284 U S 672, 76 L Ed 569.

49. U S.—Wholey v. British, etc, SS. Co, D C N Y., 158 F. 379, affirmed 171 F 399, 96 C C.A. 355.
58 C.J. p 318 note 36.

50. U S.—The Earl of Dunmore, D.C. N Y, 120 F 858.
58 C J p 318 note 37.

51. U S—The Auchenarden, D.C.N Y., 100 F. 895.

52. U S—The Auchenarden, supra
58 C.J. p 318 note 39

53. U S.—The Anderson, D C Md, 37 F Supp 695—Leyland v. Holmes, La., 153 F. 557, 82 C C A 511 Cal—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P 54, 212 Cal 516, certiorari denied Peterson v Naknek Packing Co., 52 S.Ct. 128, 284 U.S. 672, 76 L.Ed 569.

54. U S—Ove Tysko v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C A.Or., 81 F. 2d 960

Where deceased was familiar with conditions generally, ship was under no duty to give him special advice with respect to condition of hatch through which he fell—McIntosh v. Miguel De Larrinaga S. S. Co, D C. Tex, 45 F.2d 240.

55. U S.—Grasso v. Lorentzen, C C A N Y, 149 F 2d 127, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 57, 326 U S 743, 90 L Ed. 444, rehearing denied 66 S Ct. 1019, 328 U S. 878, 90 L Ed 1646—Gucciardi v. Chisholm, C.C A N Y, 145 F.2d 514—Glover v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, C.C.A. Tex, 103 F 2d 557, certiorari denied 60 S Ct 83, 308 U S. 550, 84 L Ed. 462—Bryant v. Vestland, C C.A Ga, 52 F.2d 1078—Ivusich v Cunard White Star, D C N Y, 65 F Supp 412, affirmed, C.C A, 155 F 2d 104, certiorari denied 66 S Ct 1345, 328 U S 854, 90 L Ed 1626—Olszewski v United Fruit Co, D C Pa, 34 F Supp 113—The Prince Rupert City, D C Fla., 30 F Supp 755—B. A. Carroll Stevedoring Co v U S, D C Mass, 25 F.Supp 6—Davis v. Grace S S Co, D C Pa, 10 F.Supp 284—Weldon v. U S., D C Mass, 9 F. Supp. 347—The Mercier, D.C Or, 5 F Supp 511—The Nyhorn, D C N Y, 4 F Supp. 403.
58 C J p 318 note 41.

Basis of duty

Duty of owners of vessel or those in charge to provide suitable and safe equipment for use of stevedores employed by independent contractor arises, not from contractual relations, but from implied obligation on the part of one who is to provide machinery for use by another to exercise due care to see that the instrumentalities are safe and suitable for the purpose—Weldon v. U. S., D.C Mass., 9 F Supp 347

56. U.S—Pugliese v Panama Transport Co., D C.N.Y, 65 F Supp 433—The Anderson, D C.Md., 37 F Supp 695—Olszewski v. United Fruit Co, D.C.Pa, 34 F Supp. 113
58 C.J p 318 note 42.

57. U.S.—De Luca v. Shepard S S Co, C.C.A N Y, 65 F 2d 566, modified on other grounds 67 F.2d 437, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 562, 291 U S. 685, 78 L Ed. 1072—Pugliese v. Panama Transport Co., D C N.Y., 65 F.Supp 433
58 C.J. p 318 note 43.

58. N.Y—Riley v Agwilines, Inc., 56 N.Y S 2d 221, affirmed 63 N Y S. 2d 835, 270 App Div. 1010, reversed on other grounds 73 N E 2d 718, 296 N Y 402.
58 C J p 318 note 47.

59. U S—Militano v. U S, C C.A N. Y., 156 F.2d 599, certiorari dismissed State Marine Corp v Militano, 67 S Ct. 193, 329 U S 682, 91 L Ed. 600—Porello v U. S., C C A. N Y, 153 F 2d 605, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds American Stevedores, Inc. v. Porello, 67 S Ct 847, 330 U S. 446, 91 L Ed 1011—The Meton, C.C. A Tex, 62 F.2d 825.
58 C J. p 319 note 51.

60. U S—Glover v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, C C A Tex, 103 F 2d 557, certiorari denied 60 S Ct 83, 308 U.S 550, 84 L Ed 462—Luckenbach SS Co. v Buzynski, C C A Tex, 19 F 2d 871, reversed on other grounds Buzynski v. Luckenbach S. S Co, 48 S.Ct. 440, 277 U S 226, 72 L Ed. 860, conformed to, C C.A, 31 F.2d 1015, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 483, 279 U.S. 867, 73 L Ed 1004

61. U S—The Mercier, D.C Or, 5 F. Supp. 511.

62. U S—Ivusich v. Cunard White Star, D.C.N.Y., 65 F Supp. 412, affirmed, C C A, 155 F 2d 104, certiorari denied 66 S Ct 1345, 328 U. S. 854, 90 L.Ed. 1626.

63. U.S—Bruszewski v. Isthmian S. S Co, C.C.A Pa, 163 F 2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S Ct. 451, 333 U. S. 828, 92 L.Ed 1113—Grasso v. Lorentzen, C.C A.N Y, 149 F.2d 127, certiorari denied 66 S Ct. 57, 326 U.S 743, 90 L.Ed. 444, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1019, 328 U S. 878, owner is not liable for injuries sustained by reason of the negligent use or operation of the appliances by the stevedores or their employees[64] or where the appliances are selected by the stevedores, although furnished by the owners.[65] No liability attaches where the injury results from defects which are latent and of which the shipowner had no knowledge and could not discover by the exercise of ordinary care.[66]

Having furnished proper appliances, the shipowner is under no duty to give instructions as to their use,[67] and he is not liable because of the workmen's failure to use appliances furnished for their use.[68] An owner is not liable for a failure to furnish appliances which he is under no duty to furnish;[69] and where, under the contract, the independent contractor is obliged to furnish the equipment, the shipowner's voluntary offer to permit the contractor to use some of the ship's equipment may not be converted into a duty to furnish all of the necessary gear.[70] The owners are not liable for injuries to an employee of the contractor resulting from the defective condition of appliances supplied by the contractor.[71]

Inspection before furnishing appliances. The shipowner owes the duty of inspecting the appliances before turning them over to the stevedoring or other independent contractor,[72] and furnishing appliances with defects which could have been discovered by inspection is negligence,[73] even though the shipowner is under no duty to furnish appliances.[74]

Warnings. It is the duty of the shipowner to give notice to employees of an independent contractor, such as stevedores and longshoremen, of any latent danger or defects in the ship's appliances,[75] or to give notice of any defects therein, ascertainable by a reasonable inspection, which might constitute a source of danger and which are unlikely to be discovered or their danger realized by those to whom the equipment is supplied.[76] The shipowner is not under an obligation to notify such employees of a patent defect the danger of which is readily ascertainable from a mere casual inspection,[77] unless the circumstances are such that it is probable that even such a casual inspection would not be made.[78]

Defects arising subsequently; inspection and re-

90 L.Ed 1646—Peterson v. U S., D C.N.Y., 80 F Supp. 84—Ivusich v Cunard White Star, D C N Y, 65 F. Supp 412, affirmed, C C A., 155 F 2d 104, certiorari denied 66 S Ct. 1345, 328 U S. 854, 90 L Ed 1626.
58 C J p 318 note 48.

64. U S—De Luca v. Shepard, S. S. Co., C.C A N Y, 67 F.2d 437, certiorari denied 54 S Ct 562, 291 U S 685, 78 L Ed. 1072—The Prince Rupert City, D C.Fla., 30 F Supp 755—The Nyhorn, D C.N.Y., 4 F Supp 403.
58 C J. p 318 note 50.

65. U S—Jeffries v De Hart, Pa, 102 F 765, 42 C C A 615

66. N J—Moran v Moore-McCormack Lines, 36 A.2d 415, 131 N J. Law 332, affirmed 39 A 2d 136, 132 N J Law 171
58 C J p 318 note 49.

Secret defect in appliance, even though effecting casualty, will not fasten responsibility on the vessel or her owner—The Mercier, D C.Or, 5 F.Supp 511.

Platform for unloading cargo
N J.—Moran v Moore-McCormack Lines, 36 A 2d 415, 131 N J Law 332, affirmed 39 A.2d 136, 132 N J Law 171.

Duty to test for defects
(1) Officers and crew of ship must use ordinary care to determine weakness in tackle and must exercise highest degree of care with respect to breaks in overhead tackle—The Mercier, D C.Or., 5 F.Supp. 511.

(2) Ship need not apply strain to gear by testing machine or use of acids and microscope, in absence of circumstances indicating likelihood of break.—The Mercier, supra.

(3) Shipowner was not negligent in permitting use of ship's equipment by longshoreman in loading vessel, without testing for defects, so as to be liable for injuries sustained by longshoremen as result of defect in the equipment, where equipment came from a reliable dealer in maritime supplies, and equipment had been subjected to a standard test prescribed by Maritime Commission.—Sieracki v. Seas Shipping Co., C C A.Pa., 149 F.2d 98, affirmed 66 S Ct 872, 328 U S 85, 90 L Ed 1099, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1116, 328 U S 878, 90 L Ed. 1646

67. U S—Atlantic Transport Co v. Maryland, Md., 259 F. 23, 170 C.C. A. 23.

New device
Shipowner owed to longshoremen rigging preventer guys on booms the duty of making certain that they were aware of the caution essential to safe use of a new device for holding cable fast to winch drum, which was dangerous unless so adjusted that turns of cable about drum, and not eye of bolt to which cable was attached, bore the weight of boom—Barbarino v Stanhope S. S Co, D C N Y, 61 F Supp 171, appeal dismissed, C C A., 150 F 2d 54, reversed on other grounds 151 F 2d 553.

68. N.Y—Riley v. Agwilines, Inc, 73 N E 2d 718, 296 N Y 402

69. U S.—Long v. Silver Line, D C N. Y., 41 F.2d 367
58 C.J. p 319 note 53

70. U S—O'Connell v. Naess, C A N Y., 176 F 2d 138

71. U S—Doll v. Scott Paper Co, C. C.A Pa, 91 F 2d 860—Paolillo v. Rederi A/B Disa, D.C N.Y., 38 F. Supp 833.

72. U S—Luckenbach SS Co v Buzynski, C C A.Tex, 19 F.2d 871, reversed on other grounds Buzynski v Luckenbach S. S Co, 48 S. Ct. 440, 277 U S 226, 72 L.Ed. 860, conformed to, C C A, 31 F.2d 1015, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 483, 279 U.S. 867, 73 L Ed 1004.
58 C.J p 319 note 57

73. U S—The Bolton Castle, Mass, 250 F. 403, 162 C C A 473.
58 C.J. p 319 note 58.

74. N Y—Connors v. King Line, 90 N.Y S. 652, 98 App Div. 261.

75. U S—The Anderson, D C Md, 37 F Supp 695.

76. U.S—Olszewski v. United Fruit Co., D.C.Pa., 34 F.Supp 113

77. U.S—Bruszewski v Isthmian S S Co, D C Pa, 66 F Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C A., 163 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S Ct. 451, 333 U S 828, 92 L Ed. 1113—Olszewski v. United Fruit Co., D C Pa, 34 F. Supp 113.

78. U S.—Olszewski v. United Fruit Co., supra.

pair. Where the appliance or equipment as initially furnished to the workmen is reasonably safe, the shipowner is not charged with the duty of constant inspection,[79] and if defects arise while the appliance is in use by the workmen it is necessary that the shipowner be notified of the existence of the defects or have knowledge of them before any duty of repair or replacement, or any liability for failure to repair or replace, arises.[80] However, in some cases, it has been held that the shipowners must keep the appliances in use in reasonably safe repair and condition,[81] and that this duty includes that of making reasonable examination and inspections of such appliances.[82]

b. Duties and Liabilities of Other Persons

In addition to the vessel and owner, various other persons may be liable for personal injuries sustained on or about a vessel by employees of independent contractors, such as a stevedoring company, but a general agent is not in such control of the vessel as to incur liability.

In addition to the vessel and shipowner, discussed supra subdivision a of this section, various other persons may be liable for personal injuries sustained on or about a vessel by employees of independent contractors.[83] Persons who are not in possession and control of the vessel ordinarily are not liable for personal injuries to such employees.[84]

General agent. An agent appointed under a general agency contract to manage and conduct the business of the vessel for the owner, such as the United States,[85] is not liable for personal injuries sustained on or about the vessel by employees of stevedore companies[86] or other independent contractors.[87] A general agency agreement does not

79. U S —Bryant v Vestland, C C A Ga, 52 F 2d 1078—The Prince Rupert City, D C Fla., 30 F Supp. 755—Weldon v. U S., D C Mass, 9 F Supp. 347.

Ship's burden of inspection is lifted when control thereof passes to stevedore —The Mercier, D C Or., 5 F Supp 511.

80. U S —Grasso v. Lorentzen, C C. A N Y, 149 F.2d 127, certiorari denied 66 S Ct. 57, 326 U S 743, 90 L. Ed 444, rehearing denied 66 S Ct. 1019, 328 U S. 878, 90 L Ed. 1646—Bryant v. Vestland, C C A Ga., 52 F 2d 1078—Luckenbach SS. Co v. Buzynski, C C A.Tex, 19 F 2d 871, reversed on other grounds Buzynski v Luckenbach S. S. Co, 48 S. Ct 440, 277 U S 226, 72 L.Ed 860, conformed to, C C A., 31 F 2d 1015, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 483, 279 U.S. 867, 73 L Ed 1004—Eagle Indemnity Co to Use of Beall v. U S. Lines Co, D.C Md, 86 F Supp. 949—The Prince Rupert City, D.C Fla., 30 F.Supp. 755—Weldon v U S, D.C Mass., 9 F.Supp. 347—Navigazione Alta Italia, of Turin, Italy v. Vale, C.C A La., 221 F. 413.

Time sufficient to impute knowledge Where ship's ladder was used at 1 P. M. and nothing appeared to be wrong with it, and at 5 P M stevedore was injured in fall when rung of ladder broke, the short time which elapsed was insufficient to impute knowledge to owner of ship of any defect in ladder —The Prince Rupert City, D.C.Fla, 30 F.Supp 755

81. U S —The Haraldshaug, C.C.A. Va, 20 F 2d 337.
58 C.J p 318 note 44.

82. U S.—The Haraldshaug, supra.
58 C.J. p 318 note 45.

83. Va —Tidewater Stevedoring Corp. v. McCormick, 52 S.E.2d 61, 189 Va. 158.

Liability of:
Charterer for personal injuries see supra § 34
Master of vessel see supra § 70.

84. U.S.—McGowan v J. H Winchester & Co, C C A N.Y., 168 F 2d 924, certiorari denied 69 S Ct 133, 335 U S 861, 93 L Ed 408, and Buro v American Petroleum Transport Corp, 69 S Ct 134, 335 U.S. 861, 93 L Ed 408

Where terminal company contracted to furnish services of stevedores to load ships of paper company and arranged with contracting company for actual work of loading ship, terminal company was not liable for injuries of stevedore employed by contracting company to load ship, where terminal company was not engaged in actual loading of ship and not guilty of any act of negligence, or charged with liability by stevedore —Doll v. Scott Paper Co., C.C.A.Pa., 91 F.2d 860.

85. Vessel owned by United States U S.—Caldarola v. Eckert, N Y, 67 S. Ct. 1569, 332 U S. 155, 91 L Ed. 1968, rehearing denied 68 S Ct 30, 332 U S 784, 92 L Ed 367—McGowan v. J. H. Winchester & Co., C C.A N.Y, 168 F.2d 924, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 133, 335 U S. 861, 93 L.Ed 408 and Buro v American Petroleum Transport Corp, 69 S Ct 134, 335 U S. 861, 93 L Ed 408—Romano v. U. S., D C N.Y, 90 F Supp. 15—Buro v. American Petroleum Transport Corporation, D C N.Y., 75 F. Supp. 371, affirmed, C C.A., McGowan v. J H Winchester, 168 F. 2d 924, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 133, 335 U.S. 861, 93 L.Ed 408 and Buro v. American Petroleum Transport Corp, 69 S Ct 134, 335 U.S. 861, 93 L Ed 408—Condino v. U. S, D.C N Y., 73 F Supp. 643.
N J —Lynch v. United Fruit Co., 71 A.2d 344, 4 N J. 24.
N Y.—Pipitone v Standard Fruit & S S Co., 86 N.Y.S 2d 381, 275 App Div 675
Wash —Ellington v. American Mail Line, 211 P 2d 491, 35 Wash 2d 129.

86. U.S —Caldarola v Eckert, N Y, 67 S Ct 1569, 332 U S. 155, 91 L Ed. 1968, rehearing denied 68 S Ct. 30, 332 U.S 784, 92 L Ed 367—Palardy v American-Hawaiian S S. Co, C. A.Pa, 169 F 2d 619, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct 1521, 337 U S. 959, 93 L Ed 1758—Romano v U S, D C. N.Y, 90 F Supp 15—Bruszewski v. U S. War Shipping Administration, D C Pa, 88 F.Supp. 962, affirmed, C. A, Bruszewski v. U S, 181 F 2d 419, certiorari denied 71 S Ct 87, 340 U.S 865, 95 L Ed. 632—Condino v. U. S, D.C N Y., 73 F Supp 643

However, it has been held that the agent under a general agency contract is liable for injuries to employees of a stevedoring company — Bruszewski v. Isthmian S. S Co, D. C Pa., 66 F.Supp 210, affirmed, C C A, 163 F 2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S Ct 451, 331 U S. 828, 92 L Ed. 1113

87. N.J —Lynch v. United Fruit Co., 71 A.2d 344, 4 N J. 24
N Y.—Pipitone v. Standard Fruit & S S Co., 86 N.Y.S.2d 381, 275 App Div. 675

Cleaner of cargo tanks on oil tanker U.S —Buro v American Petroleum Transport Corporation, D.C.N Y, 75 F.Supp 371, affirmed, C.C A., McGowan v. J H Winchester, 168 F. 2d 924, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 133, 335 U.S. 861, 93 L Ed. 408 and Buro v. American Petroleum Transport Corp., 69 S Ct. 134, 335 U.S. 861, 93 L.Ed. 408

Repairman
U S —McGowan v. J. H Winchester & Co, Inc, C.C A N Y, 168 F.2d 924, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 133, vest in the agent possession and control of the vessel or make him the owner pro hac vice of the vessel so as to impose liability on him.[88]

Stevedoring contractor. In a proper case, a stevedoring contractor may be liable for personal injuries sustained by persons on or about a vessel.[89] Where an employee of an independent contractor is employed to work on or about a vessel in control of a stevedoring contractor, the employee of such independent contractor is an invitee.[90] The stevedoring contractor owes him the duty of exercising ordinary and reasonable care for his safety,[91] and is liable for personal injuries sustained by such employee as a result of his negligence.[92]

c. Contributory Negligence and Assumption of Risk

(1) Contributory negligence
(2) Assumption of risk

(1) Contributory Negligence

Except in admiralty, the contributory negligence of an employee of a stevedoring or other contractor is a complete bar to an action by the employee against a shipowner for damages for personal injuries sustained by such employee on or about the vessel as a result of the owner's negligence.

The contributory negligence of an employee of a stevedoring or other contractor is a complete bar to an action by the employee against the person otherwise liable, such as the shipowner, for damages for personal injuries sustained by such employee on or about the vessel as a result of negligence,[93] except in admiralty[94] wherein, as consid-

335 U S 861, 93 L Ed. 408, certiorari denied Buro v. American Petroleum Transport Corp, 69 S Ct 134, 335 U.S 861, 93 L.Ed. 408.

Ship's scaler

Wash.—Ellingson v American Mail Line, 211 P 2d 491, 35 Wash 2d 129

Defective hatch

Where independent contractor had been employed to build ammunition compartment on ship and to make repairs which included renewal of fifty per cent of wooden hatch covers, and contractor had been warned of defective condition of the hatches, agents for the ship were not liable for injuries sustained by employee of contractor in falling through defective hatch while setting up a beam in connection with construction of ammunition compartment.—Byars v. Moore-McCormack Lines, C C A.N.Y, 155 F.2d 587.

88. U.S.—McGowan v. J. H Winchester & Co, Inc, C.C.A.N Y, 168 F.2d 924, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 133, 335 U S 861, 93 L Ed 408, certiorari denied Buro v. American Petroleum Transport Corp, 69 S Ct. 134, 335 U S 861, 93 L Ed. 408.

N J.—Lynch v United Fruit Co., 71 A 2d 344, 4 N J. 24

Status of general agent under general agency agreement see supra § 17.

89. Va.—Tidewater Stevedoring Corp. v McCormick, 52 S.E.2d 61, 189 Va. 158.

Effect of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act see the C.J S title Workmen's Compensation Acts § 918 et seq.

Liability of stevedoring contractor for injuries to:

Its employees:

Generally see Master and Servant § 224 et seq.

Longshoremen or stevedores as seamen under La Follette and Jones Acts see Seamen §§ 190, 191.

Seamen see Seamen § 206.

90. Va.—Tidewater Stevedoring Corp. v. McCormick, supra.

Business visitor

U S.—Vanderlinden v Lorentzen, C. C A.N.Y, 139 F.2d 995

91. Va.—Tidewater Stevedoring Corp. v. McCormick, 52 S E 2d 61, 189 Va. 158.

Custom exonerating stevedore from necessity of examining ship's ladder, down which stevedore's employees or business visitors must descend from ship to lighter alongside, if casual inspection shows no defect in ladder, did not exempt stevedore from liability for injuries to cargo checker as result of defect in ladder, since such custom was so unreasonable as to be unlawful.—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, C.C.A N Y, 139 F. 2d 995

92. Cargo checker in employ of one employed by stevedoring contractor is entitled to recover for injuries resulting from negligence of stevedoring contractor.—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, supra.

Carpenter working on pier

Injuries sustained by carpenter who had been employed to repair and maintain chutes and stalls used in loading horses on ships, when he was struck by stall which was being lowered to pier by winchmen without a signal from "slingers" who were absent from their stations, or from any other employee of stevedoring company, were caused by negligence of the stevedoring company's employees, and company was accordingly liable.—Tidewater Stevedoring Corp v. McCormick, 52 S E.2d 61, 189 Va. 158.

93. U S.—McIntosh v Miguel De Larrinaga S S. Co, D C Tex., 45 F. 2d 240.—Marcus v. U S, D C Cal, 72 F Supp 212

Cal.—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v Naknek Packing Co, 52 S Ct. 128, 284 U.S 672, 76 L Ed 569

58 C J p 312 notes 68 [b], 73, p 315 note 2, p 317 note 30

Applicability of doctrine where injury results from unseaworthiness of vessel see infra subdivision e of this section

Actions for wrongful death

U S.—Graham v The Novarchos Koundouriotis, D.C Fla, 99 F Supp 450.

N Y.—Spinelli v. Seatrade Corp, 99 N.Y S 2d 945, 277 App Div 992, appeal denied 100 N.Y S 2d 959, 277 App Div. 1038.

94. U S.—Guerrini v. U S, C C A N Y., 167 F 2d 352, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 65, 335 U.S. 843, 93 L Ed 393.—Militano v. U. S, C C.A.N.Y, 156 F 2d 599, certiorari dismissed State Marine Corp v Militano, 67 S Ct. 193, 329 U S. 682, 91 L Ed 600.—Lundberg v. Prudential S. S. Corp, D C N.Y, 102 F.Supp. 115.—Laffoon v. U. S, D C N Y, 101 F. Supp 823.—Portel v. U S., D C N Y, 85 F.Supp 458.—Bow v. Pilato, D C Cal, 82 F Supp 399.—Badalamenti v. U. S, D C N.Y., 67 F Supp. 575, affirmed in part and modified in part on other grounds, C C A., 160 F 2d 422.

58 C.J. p 324 note 57.

Contributory negligence in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 85.

ered infra § 86 f, contributory negligence may mitigate or reduce the damages. Where the employee's injuries are caused without fault on the part of the shipowner, but are due solely to the employee's contributory negligence and to the negligence of his employer the employee may not recover against the shipowner even in admiralty.[95] The usual rules as to what constitutes contributory negligence ordinarily are applicable with respect to the contributory negligence of an employee of a stevedoring or other independent contractor injured on or about a vessel.[96] Such employee's contributory negligence may consist not only in a failure to discover or appreciate a risk which would be apparent to a reasonable man, but also in an intentional exposure to a danger of which he is aware.[97] The employee is charged with notice of any defects which are apparent or which can be disclosed by a casual inspection.[98]

On the other hand, such an employee has a right to assume that due diligence will be used to guard him against danger in his employment.[99] He has a right to rely on the shipowner's observance of his duty to provide him with a reasonably safe place in which to work,[1] and his reliance on the performance of this duty does not render him guilty of contributory negligence.[2]

The rules governing the defense of contributory negligence in an action by an employee of a stevedoring or other independent contractor injured on or about a vessel have been applied in various situations,[3] as where the injury to the employee is occasioned by gas,[4] by slipping on the deck,[5] by falling into a tank,[6] or by defective appliances and equipment.[7] No liability attaches to the vessel

95. U S —Paolillo v. Rederi A/B Disa, D C.N Y, 38 F Supp 833

96. U.S —McNally v. Zeller Marine Corp., D C N Y, 77 F Supp 985—The Wearpool, D C Tex, 28 F Supp 880, affirmed, C C A, 112 F.2d 245

Contributory negligence generally see Negligence §§ 116–173.

97. U S.—McNally v Zeller Marine Corp, D C N.Y., 77 F Supp 985—Marcus v. U S, D C Cal, 72 F. Supp 212—The Ellenor, D.C Fla, 39 F Supp. 576, affirmed, C.C.A., Freeman v. A. H. Bull S. S Co, 125 F 2d 774

58 C J p 312 note 73 [a], p 315 note 2 [a] (1).

98. U S —Sommerseth v. U. S., D C. Pa, 91 F Supp 457

99. U S.—Grasso v. Lorentzen, C C A N.Y, 149 F.2d 127, certiorari denied 66 S Ct. 57, 326 U S 743, 90 L Ed. 444, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1019, 328 U S 878, 90 L Ed. 1646—Badalamenti v U. S, D C N.Y., 67 F Supp 575, affirmed in part and modified in part on other grounds, C C A, 160 F 2d 422—The Martha R Grimes, D C N.Y, 49 F Supp 591

1. U S —Sommerseth v U. S, D.C Pa., 91 F.Supp 457.

58 C J p 315 note 95 [b].

Duty of shipowner to provide safe place to work see supra subdivision a (2) of this section.

2. U S —The Harry Hudson Smith, N Y, 142 F. 724, 74 C.C A. 56.

3. U S —McNally v. Zeller Marine Corp., D C.N Y, 77 F Supp. 985

58 C J. p 312 note 73 [a], p 315 note 2 [b]

Cargo falling on gang boss in hold

Where strongback on board vessel was not defective and stevedoring contractors' longshoremen's gang boss, who was in bottom of hold directing task of working the cargo, proceeded with the operation with knowledge that strongback was unlocked and, therefore, unsafe to withstand any heavy pull, gang boss was guilty of negligence which was sole and proximate cause of injury resulting in his death when he ordered stevedores to pull pipes up when line from winch would necessarily pull against unlocked strongback —Marcus v U. S, D.C.Cal., 72 F Supp. 212.

Defective or decayed dunnage boards

Where longshoreman who was engaged in storing cargo aboard vessel owned by United States, and who was engaged with other members of his gang in rolling a spool of cable over layer of dunnage consisting of boards or planks did not know that one of the boards was defective because of a decayed section, and visual inspection while longshoreman was working would not have revealed defect to him, he was not chargeable with contributory negligence in suit against United States for injuries sustained when spool tipped over onto him because of defective board.—McNeil v U S, D C.Pa, 94 F Supp. 303.

4. Matter of common knowledge

Vessel was not liable for death of longshoreman who was asphyxiated by carbon dioxide gas generated by castor pomace in hold on ground that fact that vegetable matter decays and gives off carbon dioxide is matter of common knowledge which master of vessel should have known, since in such case longshoreman should also have known such fact and he would have been guilty of contributory negligence which would preclude recovery —The Ellenor, D C Fla, 39 F.Supp 576, affirmed, C C A, Freeman v. A. H. Bull S S. Co, 125 F.2d 774.

Entering boiler containing carbon monoxide

Where employee of one contracting to supervise reconditioning of steamship did not advise owners or their agents of his proposed inspection, survey, and entry into boiler of ship, pursuant to contract provision requiring contractor to keep agents advised of progress of repairs, and entered boiler, in which there was carbon monoxide gas, without investigating its condition or exercising any precaution, he was guilty of contributory negligence —The Summerleaf, D C Tex., 28 F Supp. 888

Fumigation with hydrocyanide gas

Stevedore injured by hydrocyanide gas with which ship had been fumigated was not guilty of contributory negligence, where presence of gas was not discoverable other than through its effects —Davis v Grace S. S Co, D C Pa., 10 F Supp 284.

5. U S.—Guerrini v. U S, C C A N. Y., 167 F 2d 352, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 65, 335 U S. 843, 93 L Ed. 393.

58 C J. p 313 note 92 [h]

Slipping on patch of grease and falling into hold

U S.—Guerrini v. U. S, supra.

6. Ballast tank

A longshoreman, who fell into ballast tank as he sought to go to opposite side of ship to shovel grain, was not guilty of contributory negligence, even though place of accident was in darkness, where there was no other means of getting to other side of ship except through small passageway, of which longshoreman may not have known, and presence of small amount of light and air indicated existence of passageway in direction in which he was going —The Wearpool D C.Tex, 28 F.Supp. 886, affirmed, C C.A., 112 F.2d 245

7. U S —U S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co v. U. S, C C A N Y, 152 F 2d 46.

58 C J. p 315 note 2 [a] (1).

or owner thereof for injuries occasioned by hatches on the ship where the injury was due to the negligence of the injured employee, at least where the suit is not in admiralty.[8] The person injured has the right to assume that the hatches are in a safe condition.[9] The owner is not liable where an employee had actual notice of the open hatch through which he fell.[10] Where the defect in the hatch cover is apparent and known to the stevedore, the vessel is not liable for injury resulting from its use.[11]

What law governs. Since the extent to which contributory negligence is a defense is a procedural question, the law of the forum governs with respect thereto.[12]

(2) Assumption of Risk

Recovery by an employee of a stevedoring or other contractor against an owner of a vessel for personal injuries sustained on or about the vessel may be barred under the doctrine of assumption of risk.

In an action by an employee of a stevedoring company or other independent contractor against the person otherwise liable, such as the owner of the vessel, for personal injuries sustained on or about the vessel, recovery may be barred under the doctrine of assumption of risk,[13] but in admiralty it has been held that the defense of assumption of risk is not available,[14] although in some instances the doctrine has been applied in admiralty.[15] The usual rules as to what constitutes an assumption of risk ordinarily apply.[16] Such employee is only charged with risks of which he is aware or which are so plainly observable that he must be presumed to have known of them.[17] The rules as to assumption of risk have been applied to various

Right to rely on equipment furnished
The employee, and his employer, the stevedore or other independent contractor, may assume that appliances and equipment are free from defects not discoverable in the exercise of ordinary care—Grasso v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y., 149 F.2d 127, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 57, 326 U.S. 743, 90 L.Ed. 444, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1019, 328 U.S. 878, 90 L.Ed. 1646—58 C.J. p. 318 note 46.

Breaking of ship's shackle
U.S.—Paolillo v. Rederi A/B Disa, D.C.N.Y., 38 F.Supp. 833.

Ladder
(1) In general.—McDonough v. International Nav. Co., D.C.Me., 249 F. 248—58 C.J. p. 315 note 2 [a] (2)

(2) Where rigger, who had been ordered to begin work on board vessel, started to climb up ladder hanging over ship's side but ladder, which was not properly secured, slipped with result that rigger was severely injured, the rigger was not guilty of negligence in using ladder which was apparently safe.—U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 152 F.2d 46

Using batten as ladder
Where it was generally known to marine painters that battens, unless lodged firmly in their cleats, were dangerous if used as ladders in painting sides of ship's lower holds and for that reason reasonable caution required more than a casual inspection by anyone about to climb on battens, and a reasonably prudent inspection would have disclosed that cleat was missing and that it was unsafe to step on batten which ultimately tilted and gave way, a marine painter who spent four or five minutes looking over the battens and testing a couple of them with his hands before climbing on them to paint side of hold was guilty of contributory negligence—Lundberg v. Prudential S.S. Corp., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 115

8. U.S.—Ove Tysko v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.Or., 81 F.2d 960.
58 C.J. p. 317 note 30.

Duty to close hatches
Where trimming hatches were open when deceased and men went aboard in broad daylight, such conditions were patent and obvious, placing duty on deceased to remedy situation if he so desired—McIntosh v. Miguel De Larrinaga S.S. Co., D.C.Tex., 45 F.2d 240.

Contributory negligence held not shown
U.S.—Badalamenti v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 160 F.2d 422—Lo Bue v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 75 F.Supp. 154, opinion supplemented 78 F.Supp. 86, appeal dismissed, C.A., 178 F.2d 528.
58 C.J. p. 317 notes 28 [b], 30 [b].

9. U.S.—Badalamenti v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 67 F.Supp. 575, affirmed in part and modified in part on other grounds, C.C.A., 160 F.2d 422.
58 C.J. p. 317 note 31.

10. U.S.—Ove Tysko v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.Or., 81 F.2d 960.

Failure of coworker to return
Stevedore gang header, who went to search for coworker looking for rope needed in their task, and who fell into hatch which shipowner negligently left open, unguarded, and unlighted some distance from place of work of stevedores engaged in loading lumber as employees of independent contractor, was not guilty of contributory negligence in that failure of coworker to return constituted notice of danger of open hatch into which coworker had fallen.—Badalamenti v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 160 F.2d 422.

11. U.S.—Wholey v. British, etc., SS Co., D.C.N.Y., 158 F. 379, affirmed 171 F. 399, 96 C.C.A. 355.

12. U.S.—Lundberg v. Prudential S.S. Corp., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 115

13. U.S.—Bruszewski v. Isthmian S.S. Co., D.C.Pa., 66 F.Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C.A., 163 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 451, 333 U.S. 828, 92 L.Ed. 1113.
R.I.—Coyne v. Coastwise Dredging Co., 89 A. 1060, 36 R.I. 278.
Applicability of doctrine where injury results from unseaworthiness of vessel see infra subdivision e of this section.

14. U.S.—Miranda v. Isthmian S.S. Co., D.C.Cal., 96 F.Supp. 607—Bow v. Pilato, D.C.Cal., 82 F.Supp. 399.
Assumption of risk in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 86.

Risk of owner's negligence is not assumed.—Fodera v. Booth American Shipping Corp., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 319, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 795.

15. U.S.—Grasso v. Lorentzen, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 51, affirmed, C.C.A., 149 F.2d 127, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 57, 326 U.S. 743, 90 L.Ed. 444, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1019, 328 U.S. 878, 90 L.Ed. 1646—The Prince Rupert City, D.C.Fla., 30 F.Supp. 755.

16. U.S.—The Martha R. Grimes, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 591.
Assumption of risk:
Applicability of doctrine in negligence cases see Negligence § 174.
By servant see Master and Servant §§ 357–420.

Extraordinary risks are not assumed.—The Elton, S.C., 83 F. 519, 31 C.C.A. 496.

17. U.S.—De Luca v. Shepard S.S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 566, modified on other grounds 67 F.2d 437, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 562, 291 U.S. 685, 78 L.Ed. 1072—Johnson situations[18] An employee of a contractor may not recover for injuries resulting from a condition which he was employed to correct or eliminate.[19]

d. Joint and Several Liability; Liability Over

The general rules governing joint and several liability, contribution, and indemnity ordinarily apply to cases involving the liability of a shipowner and a stevedoring or other contractor for injuries sustained by the contractor's employee on or about a vessel.

Where an employee of a stevedoring or other independent contractor is injured while engaged in work on or about a vessel, the question of the joint and several liability of the persons responsible for the injury, such as the shipowner and the independent contractor employer, ordinarily is to be determined in accordance with the usual rules governing joint and several liability[20] Where the combined concurrent negligence or wrong of the persons responsible results in the injury to an employee of a stevedoring or other independent contractor they are joint tort-feasors[21] except to the extent that statutes may otherwise affect their relationship.[22]

Contribution. Where the persons, such as the shipowner and stevedoring or other independent contractor, are jointly liable for injuries sustained by an employee of the contractor generally there can be no contribution between them unless contribution is allowed by statute[23] While in admiralty the shipowner has been allowed contribution from the employer of the injured employee in some cases, although the injury was caused as a result of the concurrent negligence of the shipowner and employer,[24] nevertheless it has been held in other

v Kosmos Portland Cement Co, C.C.A.Ky, 64 F.2d 193, certiorari denied Kosmos Portland Cement Co v Johnson, 54 S.Ct. 60, two cases, 290 U.S. 641, 78 L.Ed. 557—The Martha R. Grimes, D.C.N.Y, 49 F. Supp. 591

58 C.J. p. 315 note 95 [b] (3).

18. U.S.—De Luca v. Shepard S. S. Co, C.C.A.N.Y, 65 F.2d 566, modified on other grounds 67 F.2d 437, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 562, 291 U.S. 685, 78 L.Ed. 1072.

58 C.J. p. 312 note 72 [b], p. 314 note 93 [b], p. 315 note 95 [b].

Injury by explosion of gas in hold

Employees of firm employed to make alterations on respondent's barge did not assume risk of explosion, caused by lightning, of gas in hold not cleaned out after carrying oil, where it was not shown they knew gases had not been removed—Johnson v. Kosmos Portland Cement Co., C.C.A.Ky., 64 F.2d 193, certiorari denied Kosmos Portland Cement Co v Johnson, 54 S.Ct. 60, two cases, 290 U.S. 641, 78 L.Ed. 557.

Injury occasioned by hatches

(1) An employee of consignee engaged in unloading cargo from ship, who was injured when board on hatch collapsed, precipitating him into hatchway, where there was nothing in appearance of board or perceptible circumstances to give apprisal of inherent peril, did not assume the injury as risk of employment—Santamaria v. Lamport & Holt Line, 196 A. 706, 119 N.J.Law 467.

(2) A stevedore who attempted to cross a hatch cover which had been placed in position while he was at work in the hold does not assume the risk of injury resulting from insufficient fastening.—Consolidation Coastwise Co v Conley, Me., 250 F. 679, 163 C.C.A. 25.

Unsafe appliances

Stevedores do not assume the risk of unsafe appliances.—The Elton, S.C., 83 F. 519, 31 C.C.A. 496.

19. Cleaning ship after discharge of cargo

Where independent contractor was employed to clean up ship after discharge of cargo by stevedores and one of his employees slipped on pile of bars or plates near trench and was injured, employee had no cause of action against shipowners—De La Pena v. Moore-McCormack Lines, D.C.N.Y, 84 F.Supp. 698.

Repairing broken boom

Where employee of stevedoring company came aboard ship for the sole purpose of repairing a broken boom, employee assumed the risk of his employment.—Bruszewski v. Isthmian S. S. Co, D.C.Pa., 66 F. Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C.A., 163 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 451, 333 U.S. 828, 92 L.Ed. 1113.

20. U.S.—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y, 139 F.2d 995.

58 C.J. p. 317 note 28 [a].

Impleading third persons see infra § 86 c.

Joint and several liability for:

Negligence generally see Negligence § 102

Torts generally see the C.J.S. title Torts §§ 34-39, also 62 C.J. p. 1130 note 42 et seq.

Vessel chartered see supra § 34.

21. U.S.—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, supra.

Shipowner and contractor engaged to repair

U.S.—Portel v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 85 F. Supp. 458.

Shipowner and stevedoring contractor

(1) In general.—Porello v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 153 F.2d 605, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.C.A., American Stevedores, Inc v. Porello, 67 S.Ct. 847, 330 U.S. 446, 91 L.Ed. 1011—McCarty v. U. S., D.C.N.Y, 88 F.Supp. 251, affirmed, C.A., 196 F.2d 221—Puleo v. H. E. Moss & Co, D.C.N.Y, 66 F. Supp. 78, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1733, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857 and H. E. Moss & Co. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1736, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857—58 C.J. p. 315 note 95 [c]

(2) Injury to cargo checker employed by one engaged by stevedoring contractor—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y, 139 F.2d 995.

Appliances

Stevedore company and ship both are liable for concurrent negligence in using unsafe appliances—The Jethou, D.C.Or., 2 F.2d 286.

22. Effect of statute exempting employer from liability

(1) Where a statute exempts employer from liability for negligently injuring his employee and substitutes thereof an absolute duty to pay prescribed compensation, the shipowner and employer are not joint tort-feasors.—Gill v. U. S., C.A.N.Y., 184 F.2d 49—American Mut. Liability Ins. Co v. Matthews, C.A.N.Y., 182 F.2d 322—Lo Bue v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 91 F.Supp. 299.

(2) Effect of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act see the C.J.S. title Workmen's Compensation Acts § 964 et seq.

23. U.S.—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y., 139 F.2d 995.

Contribution among joint tort-feasors generally see Contribution § 11.

Contribution where vessel chartered see supra § 34.

24. U.S.—The Tampico, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 174.

admiralty cases that, in the absence of congressional authorization, a shipowner is not entitled to contribution from an employer whose employee has been injured as a result of the combined fault of the shipowner and employer.[25] In order that a right of contribution may exist as between the shipowner and the employer of the injured employee they must be joint wrongdoers in the sense that their wrong has imposed a common liability on them to the injured employee.[26] Where the employee of the contractor has no cause of action against his employer, the shipowner may not claim contribution on the theory of a common liability which he has been compelled to pay.[27] Where the negligence of the shipowner was the sole proximate cause of the injury, he is not entitled to contribution from the employer of the injured employee.[28]

Indemnity. Where an employee of a stevedoring or other independent contractor has been injured on or about a vessel, the right of indemnity as between the shipowner and the stevedoring or other contractor, in the absence of an express indemnity agreement, ordinarily is governed by the usual rules regulating implied contracts of indemnity.[29] Where the owner of the vessel has paid a judgment against him for injuries to a stevedore resulting from the negligence of the stevedore company's agent, the stevedore company is liable to the owner for the amount paid.[30] Where the injury to the employee results from the joint negligence or wrong of the shipowner and contractor there can be no recovery of indemnity,[31] and where the injury to the employee is due to the primary or sole fault of the shipowner he is not entitled to indemnity against the contractor.[32] The liability of a stevedoring or other contractor to indemnify the shipowner may be governed by an express indemnity agreement.[33] The liability of the stevedoring or other contractor and the extent of liability depend on the terms of the agreement.[34] Under the terms of the particular agreement the contractor may be liable to indemnify the shipowner, although the contractor was not at fault,[35] or liability may arise where the 25. U S.—Palardy v. U. S., D C.Pa., 102 F Supp 534.

Carpenter making repairs on ship

U S —Halcyon Lines v Haenn Ship Ceiling & Refitting Corp, Pa, 72 S Ct 277, 342 U S 282, 96 L Ed —

26. U S —Lo Bue v U S, C.A N Y., 188 F 2d 800—American Mut Liability Ins. Co v Matthews, C A N Y, 182 F.2d 322.

27. U S —Porello v. U S, C.C A.N Y, 153 F 2d 605, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds American Stevedores, Inc v Porello, 67 S.Ct. 847, 330 U S 446, 91 L Ed 1011

28. U S.—Gill v. U. S, D.C N Y., 85 F Supp. 717, affirmed, C.A, 184 F.2d 49.

29. U S —Lo Bue v U S, C A N Y, 188 F 2d 800.

Implied contracts of indemnity generally see Indemnity §§ 20–27.

Implied indemnity against shipowner's wrong

Where rigger aboard steamship sued shipowner and stevedoring company for injuries sustained when sun deck being shifted by company by means of a crane, fell and struck rigger, and shipowner impleaded rigger's employer performing repair work aboard vessel, the implied contract of indemnity on which shipowner relied would have to be a contract of indemnity against shipowner's own wrong, since the shipowner was not liable to the rigger in the absence of negligence on his part, and such a contract could not reasonably be implied —Mikkelsen v The Granville, C A N.Y., 192 F.2d 809.

Shipowner allowed indemnity

Where evidence disclosed that winch defect had been reported to ship operator and stevedoring corporation permitted its employee to work even though it knew of defect, ship operator was entitled to full indemnity over against stevedoring corporation for amount of damages awarded employee of stevedoring corporation for injuries resulting from such defect —U. S v. Rothschild Intern Stevedoring Co, C A Wash, 183 F.2d 181

30. U S —Sagadahoc SS Corp. v Seaboard Stevedoring Corp, D C Cal, 26 F 2d 295, affirmed, C C A, 32 F 2d 886

31. By stevedoring contractor against shipowner

U S.—Vanderlinden v. Lorentzen, C C A N Y, 139 F.2d 995

Where negligent acts were similar in character and both were proximate causes of the injury, shipowner was not entitled to indemnity from contractor —Portel v. U S., D C N.Y., 85 F Supp 458

32. U S —Lo Bue v. U S., C A.N Y, 188 F 2d 800—Porello v U. S, D C N Y, 94 F.Supp. 952—Cataldo v A/S Glittre, D C N Y, 41 F Supp 555

33. U S —American Stevedores v Porello, N Y, 67 S Ct. 847, 330 U S 446, 91 L Ed. 1011.

Indemnity clause as part of main contract

An indemnity clause in a contract between the shipowner and contractor providing that the shipowner would be indemnified by the contractor against claims for damages arising out of the contract for the repair of the ship is not a separable agreement, but is a part of, and incident to, the repair contract —Severn v U. S, D C N.Y, 69 F Supp 21.

34. U S —Lo Bue v. U. S, C.A.N.Y, 188 F.2d 800—Puleo v. H E Moss & Co, C C A.N.Y., 159 F 2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v Puleo, 67 S Ct 1733, 331 U S. 847, 91 L Ed. 1857 and H E. Moss & Co v. Puleo, 67 S Ct 1736, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L Ed. 1857—Palardy v. U S, D. C Pa, 102 F Supp 534—Amendola v. U S, D C.N.Y., 74 F Supp. 488.

Where indemnity provision is ambiguous, the parties to the contract must be given an opportunity to submit evidence as to their intentions with respect to the provision so that the court may be able to interpret it and determine what amount, if any, one of them may recover over from the other —Porello v. U. S, C C A.N. Y, 153 F 2d 605, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds American Stevedores, Inc v. Porello, 67 S Ct 847, 330 U S. 446, 91 L Ed. 1011—Porello v U S, D C.N Y., 94 F Supp 952—Lo Bue v. U S, D C N Y., 91 F Supp 299—Lo Bue v U S, D C. N Y, 75 F Supp 154, opinion supplemented 78 F Supp 86, appeal dismissed, C A, 178 F 2d 528—Landgraf v. U S D C Pa., 75 F Supp. 58

35. Particular contract imposing liability

Where the contractor agreed to 'save harmless . . . the owner of the vessel from all suits, or actions or damages or cost . . . to which . . . the owner . . . may be subjected or put by reason of injury to the person or property of an-injury is caused in any part by the contractor's negligence,[36] or as a result of the negligence or wrongful acts or omissions of the contractor's officers, agents, or employees and not resulting from default of the ship or other gear supplied by the owner,[37] or only in cases of injury arising or growing out of sole fault or negligence of the contractor or any of his subcontractors, servants, agents, or employees.[38] A clause in the contract for unloading which states that the stevedore company is insured against all accidents to its employees does not entitle the shipowner to recover from the company the amount paid by him to an injured employee of the company where the injury was caused solely by the negligence of the ship.[39]

e. Seaworthiness

The owner of a vessel is liable for personal injuries sustained by stevedores or longshoremen working aboard the ship as a result of his failure to provide for them a seaworthy vessel.

The obligation of seaworthiness, traditionally owed by an owner of a vessel to seamen, as discussed in Seamen, §§ 46, 192–197, has been extended to stevedores or longshoremen while working aboard the ship, although the stevedores or longshoremen are employed by an independent contractor whom the owner has hired to load or unload the ship,[40] and, in such case, the shipowner is liable to the stevedores or longshoremen for personal injuries resulting from the unseaworthiness of the vessel.[41] The doctrine is properly applied in a suit on the law side as well as in a suit in admiralty.[42] The shipowner's liability for personal injuries under the doctrine of unseaworthiness is a species of liability without fault[43] Derived from, and shaped to meet, the hazards which performing the service imposes, the liability is neither limited by conceptions of negligence[44] nor contractual in other arising . . . out of the performance of the contract by the contractor," the contractor was liable to the shipowner although he may not have been at fault—Puleo v H. E. Moss & Co, C C.A N Y, 159 F.2d 812, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp v Puleo, 67 S Ct 1733, 331 U S 847, 91 L Ed 1857 and H E. Moss & Co v Puleo, 67 S Ct. 1736, 331 U.S 847, 91 L Ed. 1857.

36. U S—Porello v. U. S, D.C N.Y., 94 F Supp. 952

37. U S—U. S. v Arrow Stevedoring Co, C A Cal, 175 F.2d 333, certiorari denied 70 S Ct. 307, 338 U S. 904, 94 L Ed 557—U S v. Arrow Stevedoring Co, C A Cal, 175 F 2d 329, certiorari denied 70 S Ct 307, 338 U S 904, 94 L Ed. 557

38. U S—Amendola v U. S., D C N Y., 74 F Supp 488

39. U S.—The Slingsby, D C N Y, 116 F 227, affirmed 120 F. 748, 57 C.C A. 52.

40. U S.—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa, 66 S Ct 872, 328 U S 85, 90 L Ed 1099, rehearing denied 66 S Ct. 1116, 328 U.S 878, 90 L.Ed. 1646.

41. U S—U S v Arrow Stevedoring Co, C A Cal., 175 F 2d 329, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct 307, 338 U S 904, 94 L Ed. 557—Vitozi v Balboa Shipping Co, C C A Mass, 163 F 2d 286—Lauro v U S, C C A.N.Y., 162 F 2d 32, motion granted in part and denied in part 163 F 2d 642—Anderson v Lorentzen, C.C A.N Y., 160 F 2d 173—Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp., D C.Mo, 96 F.Supp 234, appeal dismissed, C.A., 191 F. 2d 734—Greer v. U. S., D C N Y., 94 F Supp 397—Andrade v. U. S, D C.R I, 94 F Supp 170—Gill v. U. S, D C.N.Y., 85 F.Supp. 717, affirmed, C.A., 184 F 2d 49—Cioffi v. New England Shipping Co., D C N. Y, 80 F.Supp 98—Shelton v. Seas Shipping Co, D C.Pa, 75 F Supp. 195—Landgraf v U. S, D C Pa, 75 F Supp 58—Shields v U S., 73 F Supp. 862, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C A, 175 F 2d 743, certiorari denied 70 S Ct. 249, 338 U S 899, 94 L Ed 553—The Samovar, D C Cal, 72 F Supp. 574—Fodera v Booth American Shipping Corp, D C N Y., 66 F.Supp 319, affirmed, C C A, 159 F 2d 795—Sulovitz v. U. S., D C.Pa., 64 F Supp 637

N Y—Riley v. Agwilines, Inc, 73 N. E 2d 718, 296 N.Y 402—Raia v. Grace Line, 108 N.Y S 2d 137, 279 App Div 647.

Seaworthiness with respect to:
Charter parties see supra § 36
Liability of charterer for personal injuries see supra § 34
Passengers see infra § 184.

Stevedore is seaman for the purpose because he is doing a seaman's work and incurring a seaman's hazard

U S—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa, 66 S Ct 872, 328 U S 85, 90 L. Ed. 1099, rehearing denied 66 S Ct 1116, 328 U S. 878, 90 L Ed 1646—Fine v U. S., D C N Y, 66 F Supp 768

N Y.—Raia v Grace Line, 108 N.Y.S 2d 137, 279 App Div. 647.

Longshoremen on pier is within doctrine.—Strika v. Netherlands Ministry of Traffic, C.A N.Y., 185 F.2d 555, certiorari denied Netherlands Ministry of Traffic v Strika, 71 S.Ct 614, 341 U.S. 904, 95 L.Ed 1343.

Recovery for wrongful death under state statute

Where widow of stevedore, killed while unloading a vessel in port, brought libel to recover under state wrongful death statute, widow could not rely on unseaworthiness of vessel, but was limited to her asserted cause of action by reason of negligence of the vessel, her owners and crew—Graham v The Novarchos Koundouriotis, D C Pa, 99 F Supp. 450

42. U S.—Seas Shipping Co v. Sieracki, Pa, 66 S.Ct 872, 328 U S. 85, 90 L Ed 1099, rehearing denied 66 S Ct 1116, 328 U.S 878, 90 L Ed. 1646.

43. U S.—Seas Shipping Co v Sieracki, supra—Graham v. The Novarchos Koundouriotis, D C Pa, 99 F. Supp. 450—Bochantin v Inland Waterways Corp, D C Mo, 96 F. Supp 234, appeal dismissed, C A, 191 F.2d 734—Rederii v. Jarka Corp, D C Me, 82 F Supp 285—Shelton v Seas Shipping Co, D C. Pa, 75 F Supp. 195

N.Y—Raia v. Grace Line, 108 N Y.S 2d 137, 279 App Div. 647

44. U S—Seas Shipping Co v. Sieracki, Pa, 66 S Ct. 872, 328 U S. 85, 90 L Ed 1099, rehearing denied 66 S Ct 1116, 328 U.S 878, 90 L Ed. 1646—Rochantin v Inland Waterways Corp, D C.Mo, 96 F Supp. 234, appeal dismissed, C A, 191 F. 2d 734—Rederii v Jarka Corp., D. C.Me., 82 F Supp 285—Shelton v. Seas Shipping Co., D.C Pa., 75 F. Supp. 195.

N.Y—Raia v. Grace Line, 108 N Y S. 2d 137, 279 App.Div 647.

Proof of owner's negligence is not necessary—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa, 66 S.Ct. 872, 328 U S. 85, 90 L Ed 1099, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct 1116, 328 U S 878, 90 L Ed 1646—Fodera v. Booth American

character.[45]

Where the ship remains under the control of the shipowner[46] the obligation of seaworthiness is peculiarly and exclusively his obligation,[47] and is an obligation he may not delegate[48] or contract away as to any workman within the protection of the obligation.[49] When the shipowner surrenders control of any part of the ship to an independent contractor, the owner's duty of seaworthiness as to the part surrendered extends only up to the time the independent contractor assumes control;[50] and, if the agents or employees of the independent contractor, while he is in control, create an unsafe condition where none existed before, the shipowner is not liable for accidents resulting therefrom.[51]

Seaworthiness of a vessel contemplates not only its fitness for the safe transportation of cargo, but also its being equipped with safe and proper appliances in good order and condition.[52] A vessel with a hydrogen house containing explosive and highly inflammable free hydrogen vapor is not seaworthy.[53] The failure to have any life-saving equipment aboard a vessel renders it unseaworthy.[54] A longshoreman may not claim that the ship is unseaworthy because, while stowing pipe in the hold of the ship, the listing of the vessel causes the pipe to roll on him.[55]

It is essential that the vessel be unseaworthy with respect to the instrument whereby the injuries are occasioned.[56] Liability for an unseaworthy vessel should obtain only when the individual affected is entitled to rely, and does rely, on the seaworthiness of something actually unseaworthy.[57] Where the stevedore or longshoreman is directed by his employer to eliminate or remove an obvious danger on board ship, the shipowner is not liable for injuries on the ground of unseaworthiness.[58]

Shipping Corp., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 319, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 795—Bruszewski v. Isthmian S. S. Co., D.C.Pa., 66 F.Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C.A., 163 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 451, 333 U.S. 828, 92 L.Ed. 1113.

45. U.S.—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa., 66 S.Ct. 872, 328 U.S. 85, 90 L.Ed. 1099, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1116, 328 U.S. 878, 90 L.Ed. 1646—Rederii v. Jarka Corp., D.C.Me., 82 F.Supp. 285—Shelton v. Seas Shipping Co., D.C.Pa., 75 F.Supp. 195
N.Y.—Raia v. Grace Line, 108 N.Y.S. 137, 279 App.Div. 647.

46. U.S.—Lauro v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 162 F.2d 32, motion granted in part and denied in part, 163 F.2d 642.

47. U.S.—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa., 66 S.Ct. 872, 328 U.S. 85, 90 L.Ed. 1099, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1116, 328 U.S. 878, 90 L.Ed. 1646.

Duty is absolute and continuous where shipowner has control, and the shipowner may not discharge the duty solely by furnishing a sound ship and making suitable equipment available—Lauro v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 162 F.2d 32, motion granted in part and denied in part 163 F.2d 642.

48. U.S.—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa., 66 S.Ct. 872, 328 U.S. 85, 90 L.Ed. 1099, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1116, 328 U.S. 878, 90 L.Ed. 1646—Vitozi v. Balboa Shipping Co., D.C.Mass., 69 F.Supp. 286, affirmed, C.C.A., 163 F.2d 286.

49. U.S.—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa., 66 S.Ct. 872, 328 U.S. 85, 90 L.Ed. 1099, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1116, 328 U.S. 878, 90 L.Ed. 1646.

50. U.S.—Lauro v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 162 F.2d 32, motion granted in part and denied in part, 163 F.2d 642—Greer v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 94 F.Supp. 397—Eagle Indemnity Co., to Use of Beall v. U.S. Lines Co., D.C.Md., 86 F.Supp. 949.

51. U.S.—Lauro v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 162 F.2d 32, motion granted in part and denied in part, 163 F.2d 642

52. Or.—Marstaller v. Albina Dock Co., 229 P.2d 269, 191 Or. 145.

Breaking of shackle supporting boom
U.S.—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa., 66 S.Ct. 872, 328 U.S. 85, 90 L.Ed. 1099, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1116, 328 U.S. 878, 90 L.Ed. 1646.

Defect in swivel link in cargo-loading gear
U.S.—Sulovitz v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 64 F.Supp. 637.

Hatch beam
U.S.—Landgraf v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 75 F.Supp. 58.

Permitting unboxed thermometer pipe in hold
U.S.—Fodera v. Booth American Shipping Corp., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 319, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 795

Winch
U.S.—Gill v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 85 F.Supp. 717, affirmed, C.A., 184 F.2d 49.

If ship's officers use unsuitable equipment, the shipowner is liable for damage therefrom, even though suitable equipment was available—Lauro v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 162 F.2d 32, motion granted in part and denied in part 163 F.2d 642.

Breaking of cable on lifting gear
Where hinged hatch cover, weighing several tons, was opened by means of ship's lifting gear, and longshoreman operating winch, thinking that cover had passed vertical position, slackened cable, but cover instead of falling open, started to fall shut and longshoreman thereupon reversed winch with result that cable broke and longshoreman was injured, as result of which he died six months later, longshoreman's executrix could not recover from shipowner under maritime law on theory that ship and appliances were unseaworthy, because she failed to show that wire cable did not meet minimum standards required for reasonable purposes for which it was to be used—Shelton v. Seas Shipping Co., D.C.Pa., 75 F.Supp. 195.

53. U.S.—Amendola v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp. 488.

54. U.S.—Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp., D.C.Mo., 96 F.Supp. 234, appeal dismissed, C.C.A., 191 F.2d 734.

55. U.S.—Miranda v. Isthmian S.S. Co., D.C.Cal., 96 F.Supp. 607.

56. U.S.—Bruszewski v. Isthmian S.S. Co., D.C.Pa., 66 F.Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C.A., 163 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 451, 333 U.S. 828, 92 L.Ed. 1113.

57. U.S.—Bruszewski v. Isthmian S.S. Co., C.C.A.Pa., 163 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 451, 333 U.S. 828, 92 L.Ed. 1113.

58. Broken boom
U.S.—Bruszewski v. Isthmian S.S. Co., C.C.A.Pa., 163 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 451, 333 U.S. 828, 92 L.Ed. 1113—Bruszewski v. U.S. War Shipping Administration, D.C.Pa., 88 F.Supp. 962, affirmed, C.A., Bruszewski v. U.S., 181 F.2d 419, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 87, 340 U.S. 865, 95 L.Ed. 632

Employees other than stevedores or longshoremen. The authorities are not in agreement on the question whether the obligation of a shipowner to provide a seaworthy vessel for seamen and stevedores or longshoremen should be extended to embrace other employees of independent contractors who do work on or about the ship.[59] In some cases the courts, including the federal court of appeals for the second circuit, have restricted the obligation of the shipowner to provide a seaworthy vessel to stevedores and longshoremen in addition to seamen, and have declined to impose liability for personal injuries sustained by other employees of independent contractors while working on or about the vessel.[60] Such employees still remain business guests or invitees only.[61] In other cases the obligation of seaworthiness of the shipowner, and consequent liability of the owner for personal injuries sustained for failure to provide a seaworthy vessel, have been extended to other employees of independent contractors[62] and, in some instances, to employees of other persons,[63] at least where the duties of the employees on or about the vessel approximate those of a seaman or stevedore engaged in ship service.[64]

Contributory negligence and assumption of risk. Contributory negligence of the injured person is not available to the shipowner as a defense to a suit for personal injuries grounded on the owner's failure to provide a seaworthy vessel,[65] nor is the doctrine of assumption of risk available.[66]

Joint and several liability; liability over. Where a shipowner is sued for personal injuries sustained as a result of his failure to provide a seaworthy vessel and other persons are joined as defendants whose responsibilities are premised on different grounds, the liability of the shipowner is several and not joint.[67] In a proper case a stevedoring or other contractor may be held liable over to a shipowner who has been compelled to pay damages to an employee of the contractor because of injuries sustained due to the unseaworthy condition of the vessel.[68]

59. U.S.—Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp, D.C.Mo., 96 F.Supp 234, appeal dismissed, C.A., 191 F.2d 734

60. U.S.—Mikkelsen v. The Granville, C.A.N.Y., 192 F.2d 809—Martini v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 192 F.2d 649, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 759, 343 U.S. 926, 96 L.Ed. ——Lopez v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 870—Laffoon v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 101 F.Supp. 823—Muratore v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 100 F.Supp. 276.

Employee of contract repairman

U.S.—Martini v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 192 F.2d 649, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 759, 343 U.S. 926, 96 L.Ed. ——O'Connell v. Naess, C.A.N.Y., 176 F.2d 138—Peterson v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 80 F.Supp 84

Cleaner of boilers and tanks

U.S.—Rich v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 192 F.2d 858—Guerrini v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 167 F.2d 352, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 65, 335 U.S. 843, 93 L.Ed. 393.

Painter

U.S.—Santiago v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 425—Lundberg v. Prudential S.S. Corp., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 115.

Shipyard rigger

U.S.—Fine v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 768.

Shore carpenter making repairs on vessel

U.S.—Armento v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp 198.

61. U.S.—Guerrini v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 167 F.2d 352, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 65, 335 U.S. 843, 93 L.Ed. 393—Peterson v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 80 F.Supp 84—Armento v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp 198.

62. Cannery laborer who was ordered to go on vessel, which was owned jointly by his employer and others, to repair the engine of the ship was entitled to recover damages.—Bow v. Pilato, D.C.Cal., 82 F.Supp 399.

Carpenter employed by ship suppliers, and actually working in ship preparing it to receive a cargo requiring special provision for storage, was rendering service necessary in the performance of the ship's business of carrying cargo, and, hence, was entitled to redress for injuries resulting from unseaworthiness of ship—Sulovitz v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 64 F.Supp 637.

Cleaner

Shipowner owes as much of an obligation of seaworthiness to cleaner as is owed to stevedore.—Christiansen v. U.S., D.C.Mass., 94 F.Supp 934, affirmed, C.A., 192 F.2d 199.

Ship ceiler

Occupation of ship ceiler, who shores cargo in a ship to prevent cargo from shifting during voyage, is in the same class as stevedoring, and doctrine of unseaworthiness applies—Eagle Indemnity Co., to Use of Beall v. U.S. Lines Co., D.C.Md., 86 F.Supp 949.

63. Employee of shipper

In action in admiralty on ground of unseaworthiness, for death which resulted when shipper who employed decedent and who, as shipper was loading grain on defendant's barge which was moored in navigable river, directed decedent to go on barge to help close a hatch, and decedent fell into river from barge and was drowned, fact that defendant barge owner was not employer of decedent or that decedent was not regularly employed to load barge did not preclude recovery—Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp., D.C.Mo., 96 F.Supp 234, appeal dismissed, C.A., 191 F.2d 734.

64. U.S.—Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp., supra

65. U.S.—Graham v. The Novarchos Koundouriotis, D.C.Fla., 99 F.Supp 450—Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp., D.C.Mo., 96 F.Supp. 234, appeal dismissed, C.A., 191 F.2d 734

Apportionment or mitigation of damages see infra § 86 f.

In action in state court

N.Y.—Raia v. Grace Line, 108 N.Y.S.2d 137, 279 App.Div. 647.

66. U.S.—Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp., D.C.Mo., 96 F.Supp 234, appeal dismissed, D.C.Mo., 191 F.2d 734—Fodera v. Booth American Shipping Corp., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 319, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 795

67. Joinder of contractor constructing ship and subcontractor

U.S.—Seas Shipping Co. v. Sieracki, Pa., 66 S.Ct. 872, 328 U.S. 85, 90 L.Ed. 1099, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 1116, 328 U.S. 878, 90 L.Ed 1646

68. Shipowner as volunteer in settling action

Any unseaworthiness caused by list of vessel did not cease to operate as a cause of injury to employee of stevedoring company on whom a bale fell which was being hoisted from

§ 86. Actions

a. In general
b. Limitations and laches
c. Parties and pleading
d. Evidence
e. Trial
f. Damages
g. Proceedings for exoneration from liability

a. In General

Where special statutory provisions give a remedy against a vessel or her owners for personal injuries sustained on or about the vessel, there must be a compliance with such provisions.

In some jurisdictions special statutory provisions give a remedy against a vessel or her owners for personal injuries sustained on or about the vessel,[69] in which case there must be a full compliance with the statutory provisions authorizing such a procedure.[70] Where the statute provides an exclusive remedy in equity against the vessel, an action at law is improper.[71]

b. Limitations and Laches

The rules governing limitations and laches in admiralty apply in suits in admiralty to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by a person on or about a vessel.

Where suit is brought in admiralty to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by a person on or about a vessel, the rules of admiralty relative to limitations and laches apply.[72] Where a common-law action was brought but dismissed without prejudice to plaintiff's right to sue in admiralty, the delay in bringing the suit in admiralty is not laches.[73] Where the circumstances of the case indicate that the delay was not inequitable, the libel is not barred for laches.[74]

In an action in the federal courts to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by a person on or about a vessel in navigable waters initiated by complaint the principles of admiralty as to laches apply.[75]

c. Parties and Pleading

The general rules governing parties and pleading in civil actions and in admiralty ordinarily are applicable in actions or proceedings to recover for personal injuries sustained by persons on or about a vessel.

General rules governing parties in civil actions, and in admiralty when suit is brought in that court, ordinarily apply in actions or proceedings for personal injuries sustained by persons on or about a vessel.[76] Where a shipowner is sued by an employee of a stevedoring contractor or other independent contractor for damages for personal injuries sustained by the employee on or about the vessel the shipowner, in a proper case, may implead the employer of the injured employee in conformity with Admiralty Rule 56, 28 U.S.C.A., or under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 14, 28 U.S.C.A.[77] Where the libel against the ship-hold, where employee was working, to deck, merely because stevedoring company continued to run the winch used to raise bales, so as to render injury solely result of its negligence and render vessel owner a volunteer in settling action for injuries brought against vessel owner by employee, and therefore not entitled to indemnity from stevedoring company—Rederii v Jarka Corp., D.C.Me., 82 F.Supp. 285.

69. Ga.—Walter v. Kierstead, 74 Ga. 18
58 C.J. p. 320 note 72
Actions for personal injuries:
Against master of vessel, see supra § 71.
By
Passengers on vessel see infra §§ 198–202.
Seamen or longshoremen, or stevedores as seamen, under Jones Act see Seamen §§ 207–215
Jurisdiction in admiralty or state courts see Admiralty § 62
Proceedings to procure compensation under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act see the C.J.S. title Workmen's Compensation Acts §§ 414–825, also 71 C.J. p. 951 note 88 et seq.

70. U.S.—The G. H. Montague, C.C. N.Y., 10 F.Cas.No.5,377, 4 Blatchf. 461
58 C.J. p. 320 note 73.

71. Or.—Cordrey v. The Bee, 201 P. 202, 102 Or. 636, 20 A.L.R. 1079.

72. U.S.—The Adour, D.C.Md., 21 F. 2d 858.
Limitations and laches in admiralty see Admiralty § 87.
Applicability of limitations or laches
In maritime tort action by injured longshoreman in federal district court, doctrine of laches applied rather than doctrine of limitations—Apica v. Pennsylvania Warehousing & Safe Deposit Co., D.C.Pa., 101 F. Supp. 575.

73. U.S.—Lincoln v. Cunard SS. Co., N.Y., 221 F. 622, 137 C.C.A. 346.

74. U.S.—The Adour, D.C.Md., 21 F. 2d 858.
58 C.J. p. 320 note 87.

75. U.S.—Apica v. Pennsylvania Warehousing & Safe Deposit Co., D.C.Pa., 74 F.Supp. 819.
Complaint held not barred by laches
A complaint for personal injuries filed June 18, 1947, for maritime tort which occurred on Sept. 30, 1944, was timely under admiralty law doctrine of laches—Apica v. Pennsylvania Warehousing & Safe Deposit Co., supra.

76. U.S.—Benevento v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 68 F.Supp. 347.
Parties
Generally see Parties § 1 et seq.
In admiralty generally see Admiralty §§ 92–97.

77. U.S.—Altadona v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 91 F.Supp. 33—Severn v. U. S., D.C. N.Y., 69 F.Supp. 21.
Bringing in new parties in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 102.
Right of shipowner to contribution or indemnity see supra § 85 d.
Third party practice in federal courts generally see Federal Courts § 123 e.
Contractor properly impleaded
In libel by injured employee of stevedoring company against the United States and shipping company for injuries sustained by the employee while unloading vessel, stevedoring corporation was properly im-owner by the contractor's employee is dismissed, the claim by the shipowner against the impleaded contractor for indemnity will also be dismissed.[78]

Pleading. General rules regulating pleading usually apply in actions or proceedings to recover for personal injuries sustained on or about a vessel.[79] The libel, or declaration, petition, or complaint must state all the facts material to libelant's or plaintiff's cause of action,[80] showing the duty owed by the owner to the person injured.[81] Where the injury resulted from defective appliances, the libel must allege that they were furnished by the ship.[82] A general allegation of negligence is insufficient.[83] There must be a compliance with a statute requiring the complaint to be verified.[84] A libel for injuries resulting from a defective condition of the vessel may be amended to state the particulars of the defect.[85]

The general rules as to issues, proof, and variance ordinarily control.[86]

d. Evidence

(1) In general

(2) Admissibility

(3) Weight and sufficiency

(1) In General

The general rules relating to evidence in civil actions or proceedings in admiralty, including the general rules governing presumptions and burden of proof, ordinarily apply in actions or proceedings for injuries to persons on or about a vessel.

The general rules relating to evidence in civil actions or proceedings in admiralty ordinarily apply in actions or proceedings for injuries to persons on or about a vessel.[87] In accordance with these rules the court will indulge in proper presumptions arising from the facts proved.[88] The leaving open of an ordinary hatchway in port raises no presumption of negligence on the part of the ship,[89] and, if a stevedore falls through such a hatchway, the presumption is that he himself was negligent.[90] No presumption of negligence arises because of the breaking of a new rope.[91]

The burden is on complainant or libelant to prove every essential fact necessary to support his cause of action.[92] He has the burden of proving defendant's pleaded as a respondent, where impleading petition alleged facts that constituted a claim for indemnity from the stevedore company, based on provisions of a contract between stevedoring company and the United States under which the stevedoring company was unloading the vessel at the time its employee was injured. —Benevento v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 68 F Supp. 347.

General allegation in petition

Where longshoreman who was injured in fall brought libel against shipowner alleging that the ship supplied defective equipment, allegation of petition of impleader filed by owner against the longshoreman's employer that, if the longshoreman was injured, the injury was caused by negligent acts or omissions of the employer, was too general and set forth a mere conclusion —Cataldo v. A/S Glittre, D.C.N.Y., 41 F Supp. 555

Exceptions to petition

Where longshoreman's libel for injuries sustained in fall, brought against shipowner, alleged negligence consisting in the ship supplying defective equipment, and the owner filed petition of impleader against the longshoreman's employer alleging that acts and omissions alleged in the libel were those of the employer and not of the shipowner, employer's exceptions to the petition were sustained, since impleader appeared to rest on alleged breach of duty owed to the longshoreman by the ship and not by the employer.—Cataldo v. A/S Glittre, supra.

78. U.S.—Romano v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 90 F.Supp. 15.

79. N.J.—Lynch v. United Fruit Co., 71 A.2d 344, 4 N.J. 24.

80. Wis.—Phillips v. Portage Transit Co., 118 N.W. 539, 137 Wis. 189.
58 C.J. p. 320 note 93

81. U.S.—The Silverado, D.C.Or., 14 F.2d 243
58 C.J. p. 320 note 94.

82. U.S.—Spiess v. Sommarstrom Ship Building Co., C.C.A.Or., 272 F. 109.

83. N.J.—Lynch v. United Fruit Co., 71 A.2d 344, 4 N.J. 24
Puerto Rico.—Valdivieso v. Insular Line, 6 Puerto Rico Fed. 484.

84. U.S.—The G. H. Montague, C.C.N.Y., 10 F.Cas.No. 5,377, 4 Blatchf. 461

85. U.S.—The Saranac, D.C.N.Y., 132 F. 936

86. Evidence admissible under pleadings
U.S.—Miller v. The Sultana, C.A.N.Y., 176 F.2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 303, 338 U.S. 907, 94 L.Ed. 558.
58 C.J. p. 321 note 17 [d] (2), [e].

87. U.S.—Lauricella v. U. S., C.A.N.Y., 185 F.2d 327.

88. Performance of duties
It is presumed that the shipowner has performed his duties to the person working on the ship.—Aurigemma v. Nippon Yusen Kaisha Co., 144 N.E. 495, 238 N.Y. 183.

Duty to provide safe place to work
Employees of firm engaged to make alterations on respondent's barge, killed by explosion, must be presumed to have relied on customary precautions having been taken to provide them with safe place to work.—Johnson v. Kosmos Portland Cement Co., C.C.A.Ky., 64 F.2d 193, certiorari denied Kosmos Portland Cement Co. v. Johnson, 54 S.Ct. 60, two cases, 290 U.S. 641, 78 L.Ed. 557.

Loading of lumber
No presumption exists that ship's officers interfered with loading of lumber under independent contract with master stevedore, or that officers knew which method of loading was best, or that overlapping method was used and not stripping method, with respect to navigation company's liability for longshoreman's injuries sustained while assisting in unloading steamship.—Litwinowitch v. Oriental Nav. Co., 166 A. 911, 311 Pa. 257.

89. U.S.—The Gladiolus, D.C.Ga., 21 F. 417, affirmed, C.C., 22 F. 454.

90. U.S.—The Gladiolus, supra.
58 C.J. p. 321 note 13.

91. U.S.—Ignetti v. Intall, C.C.A.N.Y., 290 F. 953.

92. U.S.—The Sachem, D.C.N.Y., 5 F.Supp. 417.
58 C.J. p. 320 note 4.

Status of injured person
Person injured in fall on stairway of fishing boat had burden of proof to establish that he boarded boat on invitation of barker in employ of vessel as claimed.—The Sachem, supra.

negligence[93] and that such negligence proximately caused the injury.[94] A licensee charging reckless, willful, or wanton acts need not prove a particular intent to injure him.[95] The burden of proving matters of defense is on defendant.[96] In some jurisdictions, plaintiff has the burden of proving freedom from contributory negligence.[97]

Happening of accident; res ipsa loquitur. In the absence of special circumstances sufficient to bring into operation the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur, the mere happening of an accident to a person on or about a vessel is not proof, and does not raise a presumption, of negligence.[98] Under the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur where the instrument which caused the injury is shown to be under the management of defendant and the accident is such as in the ordinary course of things does not happen if due care has been exercised, the happening of the accident affords reasonable evidence that the accident arose from want of due care.[99] Where the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur applies, the burden is on defendant to establish that he exercised due care.[1] The doctrine applies only where the party sought to be charged was in exclusive control of the instrument which caused the damage.[2]

Seaworthiness. In a proceeding by an employee of an independent contractor, such as a longshoreman or stevedore, against a shipowner to recover damages for personal injuries sustained as a result of the unseaworthiness of the vessel, the burden is on such employee to establish the unseaworthiness.[3]

93. U S—Lauricella v U. S., C A N. Y., 185 F.2d 327—Doll v. Scott Paper Co., C C A.Pa., 91 F 2d 860—Sommerseth v U S, D C.Pa., 91 F. Supp. 457—The Prince Rupert City, D C Fla., 30 F Supp 755.
Ill—Herbst v Levy, 279 Ill.App 353.
N J.—Moran v Moore-McCormack Lines, 36 A 2d 415, 131 N J Law 332, affirmed 39 A 2d 136, 132 N J. Law 171.
58 C J. p 321 note 5.

Appliances, equipment, and tackle
U S.—Glover v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, C C A Tex., 103 F. 2d 557, certiorari denied 60 S Ct. 83, 308 U S. 550, 84 L Ed 462—Hendricksen v. Hugh Roberts & Son, D. C N Y., 74 F.Supp. 72—Pugliese v. Panama Transport Co, D C N Y, 65 F Supp. 433—The Mercier, D C Or, 5 F Supp 511—The Nyhorn, D C. N Y, 4 F.Supp. 403
58 C J p 321 note 5 [a] (2).

Capsizing person in other boat by wave or swell
La—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, App, 25 So.2d 744, reversed on other grounds 31 So 2d 730, 212 La. 173.

Defective rope
U S—Colvin v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C A Tex., 72 F.2d 44.

Open hatch
U S—The Vinemoor, C C.A Or, 75 F. 2d 28

Shifting of burden
Burden of proving negligence on part of a ship, its master, or crew, which rests on libelant seeking to recover for injuries allegedly caused by negligence of master or crew, never shifts to respondent—Lamb v. Interstate S. S. Co., C C.A.Ohio, 149 F.2d 914.

94. U S—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C. C.A.N Y., 160 F.2d 173—Lamb v. Interstate S. S. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 149 F 2d 914—Doll v Scott Paper Co., C.C A Pa., 91 F 2d 860—Sommerseth v. U. S, D C Pa., 91 F Supp 457—The Prince Rupert City, D C. Fla, 30 F Supp 755—The Mercier, D C Or, 5 F.Supp 511
Cal—Peterser. v. Klitgaard, 299 P 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v Naknek Packing Co, 52 S Ct 128, 284 U S 672, 76 L Ed 569
Ohio—Frommel v. Coney Island, App, 36 N E 2d 9.

95. Mass—Freeman v United Fruit Co, 111 N E 789, 223 Mass 300.

96. La.—E C Taylor Co v. New York, etc., Mail SS Co, 105 So. 379, 159 La. 381.
58 C.J p 321 note 14.

97. U S.—McNally v. Zeller Marine Corp, D C N Y, 77 F Supp 985.

98. U.S—The Mercier, D.C Or., 5 F. Supp 511.

99. U S.—Quinn v. Southgate Nelson Corp, D C N.Y., 36 F.Supp 873, affirmed, C C A, 121 F 2d 190, certiorari denied Southgate Nelson Corp. v. Quinn, 62 S Ct 185, 314 U S 682, 86 L.Ed 546—Rose v. Stephens, etc., Transp Co, C.C.N Y., 11 F. 438, 20 Blatchf 411.
N Y.—Gluckstein v. Martin, 278 N.Y. S. 129, 244 App Div 39.
58 C J p 321 note 9
Doctrine of res ipsa loquitur generally see Negligence §§ 220(2)–229 (12).

Injury by gas
Where plaintiff's husband was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in unventilated cabin next to engine room in defendant's motor yacht, res ipsa loquitur rule was applicable.—Gluckstein v. Martin, supra.

Doctrine held inapplicable
(1) In general—Herbst v. Levy, 279 Ill.App. 353—58 C.J. p 321 note 5 [a] (4).
(2) Res ipsa loquitur was inapplicable to accident in which laborer, employed by contractor to scrape fill from sides of scow and shape it so that crane could remove it, was injured when laborer and foreman sought to secure stern hauser which had started to slip—McNally v. Zeller Marine Corp., D.C N.Y., 77 F. Supp 985.

Knowledge of latent defect
Where independent contractor's employee was injured by collapse of platform which was furnished by defendant for unloading of ship, and collapse was caused by latent defect of eyebolt to which platform was fastened and defendant had no knowledge of such defect, res ipsa loquitur doctrine did not apply.—Moran v Moore-McCormack Lines, 36 A 2d 415, 131 N J Law 332, affirmed 39 A.2d 136, 132 N J.Law 171.

Under statute
A statute providing that, in all suits against proprietors of steamboats for injuries arising to person or property from the bursting of the boiler of any steamboat, the fact of such bursting shall be taken as prima facie evidence of defendant's negligence until he shall show that no negligence has been committed by him or those in his employment applied to actions by a passenger, not on the vessel, the boiler of which exploded, but on a vessel going up the river beside it.—Fay v. Davidson, 13 Minn 523—58 C.J. p 571 note 78.

1. U S.—Fill v. Cunard SS. Co., D.C. N.Y., 217 F. 84, affirmed 221 F. 622, 137 C.C A. 346

2. U.S.—The Etna, D.C Pa., 43 F. Supp. 303—The Mercier, D C.Or., 5 F Supp. 511.
N Y—Massa v Nippon Yusen Kaisha, 190 N E 641, 264 N.Y. 283.

3. U.S—Grillo v. U. S, C.A N.Y., 177 F.2d 904—Romano v. U. S, D. C.N.Y., 90 F Supp. 15.

Actions or proceedings to impose liability over. Where in action against a shipowner by an employee of an independent contractor for injuries received by such employee the shipowner impleads the employer, the shipowner has the burden of proving that the injury resulted from the negligence or wrong of the employer.[4]

(2) Admissibility

The general rules governing the admissibility of evidence in civil actions ordinarily are applicable in actions or proceedings to recover damages for injuries sustained by persons on or about a vessel.

The general rules governing the admissibility of evidence in civil actions, or in proceedings in admiralty where the suit is brought in that court, ordinarily apply in actions or proceedings for damages for injuries to persons on or about a vessel.[5] Evidence of a similar and subsequent accident is admissible to show defective appliances.[6] Evidence of the customary manner of unloading a ship is admissible to show negligence.[7]

(3) Weight and Sufficiency

In an action or proceeding to recover damages for injuries to persons on or about a vessel, the party having the affirmative of an issue must establish it by a preponderance of the evidence.

The general rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence in civil actions, or the rules in admiralty where suit is brought in that court, ordinarily apply in actions or proceedings to recover damages for injuries sustained by persons on or about a vessel.[8] The burden of proving the affirmative of any issue must be sustained by a preponderance of the evidence.[9] Thus, a preponderance of the evidence is essential to establish defendant's negligence[10] and that such negligence was the

4. U.S.—Altadona v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 91 F.Supp. 33

5. Evidence held admissible

(1) In longshoreman's action for injuries sustained while employed on merchant vessel owned by United States, documents subpoenaed from respondent's files, which were shown to have been made in regular course of business, and which tended to prove that one of the beam locks on hatch beam, which fell injuring libelant, was missing, and that there was a duty placed on the loading officers to inspect the hatch beams, were admissible.—Landgraf v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 75 F.Supp. 58.

(2) In action against shipowner for injuries sustained by a longshoreman employed by stevedoring contractor while unloading vessel, refusing to allow defendant an opportunity to explain by competent evidence entry in a log book received in evidence of a survey made three days after accident was error.—Raia v. Grace Line, 108 N.Y.S.2d 137, 279 App.Div. 647.

(3) In libel for death of stevedore struck by iron draft which was being lowered in hold, when winch through disengagement of its gears caused the draft to swing, positive testimony, by respondent's witnesses, that bolt and nut were in place, was required to be received where there was no positive testimony by any of libelant's witnesses that bolts were not in place when winchmen started operations.—Sportiello v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 55 F.Supp. 551.

(4) Other evidence held admissible see 58 C.J. p. 321 note 17 [a].

Evidence held inadmissible

(1) In longshoreman's action for injuries sustained while vessel was in port, commerce department rule with respect to closing of hatches before proceeding to sea was inadmissible.—Schotis v. North Coast Stevedoring Co., 1 P.2d 221, 163 Wash. 305, 78 A.L.R. 1427.

(2) In action against shipowner for injuries sustained by stevedore while unloading cargo, admission of testimony as to precautions taken by defendant after accident was error prejudicial to defendant.—Ambrosino v. Cie De Navagacao Lloyd Brasileiro, 47 N.Y.S.2d 61, 267 App.Div. 910, rehearing denied 48 N.Y.S.2d 439, 267 App.Div. 961.

(3) Other evidence held inadmissible see 58 C.J. p. 321 note 17 [b] [c].

Injury to person on another vessel

Fact that an engineer was skillful may be proved by defendant, in an action by passenger on a nearby vessel to recover damages for the injuries caused by an explosion of a steam boiler on a steamboat, even if the engineer was not licensed, and a statute made it a crime to permit engineers to operate boilers on steamboats unless they were licensed.—Fay v. Davidson, 13 Minn. 523.

6. U.S.—Alaska S.S. Co. v. Katzeek, C.C.A.Alaska, 16 F.2d 210.

7. N.Y.—Kilroy v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 1 N.Y.S. 779, 56 N.Y.Super. 138, affirmed 24 N.E. 192, 121 N.Y. 22.

8. U.S.—Pugliese v. Panama Transport Co., D.C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 433
Ohio.—Frommel v. Coney Island, App., 36 N.E.2d 9.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To show that alleged custom had not been brought to attention of owner so that he might have taken proper precautions.—Christiansen v. U. S., C.A.Mass., 192 F.2d 199.

(2) To show willfulness and wantonness.—The H. S. Inc. No. 72, D.C.N.J., 39 F.Supp. 855, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 130 F.2d 341.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish an alleged custom.—The Anderson, D.C.Md., 37 F.Supp. 695

(2) To show agent was owner pro hac vice.—Palardy v. American-Hawaiian S.S. Co., C.A.Pa., 169 F.2d 619, certiorari denied, 69 S.Ct. 1521, 337 U.S. 959, 93 L.Ed. 1758.

Corroboration

Fact that deceased's companion who was only eyewitness of accident immediately reported the manner of deceased's drowning strongly corroborated his testimony, in suit by widow against tugboat owner and insurer for husband's death, that fishing boat operated by deceased was capsized by wave or swell created by passing tugboat and barge and refuted any idea of deceased being drowned in any other manner.—Tolle v. Higgins Industries, 31 So.2d 730, 212 La. 173.

Testimony of actual conditions or of custom as prevailing

In action for death of intestate who fell overboard from a barge, testimony as to actual conditions, such as weather, existing at time of accident would prevail over testimony of custom.—Fox v. Tice Towing Line, 30 N.Y.S.2d 305, 262 App.Div. 1030, reversed on other grounds 43 N.E.2d 69, 288 N.Y. 663

9. N.J.—Moran v. Moore-McCormack Lines, 36 A.2d 415, 131 N.J.Law 332, affirmed 39 A.2d 136, 132 N.J.Law 171

10. U.S.—Pugliese v. Panama Transport Co., D.C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 433—The Prince Rupert City, D.C.Fla., 30 F.Supp. 755.
N.J.—Moran v. Moore-McCormack Lines, 36 A.2d 415, 131 N.J.Law

proximate cause of the injury.[11] In various cases the sufficiency of the evidence has been adjudicated with respect to defendant's negligence;[12] his failure to furnish a safe place in which to work,[13] a safe passageway to and from that place,[14] or safe appliances with which to work;[15] whether defendant's 332, affirmed 39 A.2d 136, 132 N.J. Law 171.

58 C.J. p 322 note 23.

11. U.S.—The Prince Rupert City, D.C.Fla., 30 F.Supp. 755.
Ohio—Frommel v. Coney Island, App., 36 N.E.2d 9

12. Evidence held sufficient
(1) In general
U.S.—Calanchini v. Bliss, C.C.A.Cal., 88 F.2d 82
Conn.—Parmelee v. Hiller, 29 A.2d 586, 129 Conn. 489
Va.—Tidewater Stevedoring Corp. v. McCormick, 52 S.E.2d 61, 189 Va. 158
58 C.J. p. 322 note 24 [a]

(2) To show that longshoreman was guilty of negligence which contributed to his injury—Palardy v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 102 F.Supp. 534

(3) To show that owner exercised due and reasonable care with respect to condition of ship and her loading equipment and that ship and her equipment were not unseaworthy—Andrade v. U.S., D.C.R.I., 94 F.Supp. 170.

Evidence held insufficient
(1) In general.
U.S.—Rich v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 192 F.2d 858—Holub v. Sword S.S. Line, C.C.A.Tex., 132 F.2d 206—Christiansen v. U.S., D.C.Mass., 94 F.Supp. 934, affirmed, C.A., 192 F.2d 199—Caldwell v. Sutton Line, D.C.N.J., 79 F.Supp. 796
Ohio.—Frommel v. Coney Island, App., 36 N.E.2d 9
58 C.J. p. 322 note 24 [b].

(2) To show that longshoreman's injuries were caused by respondent's or defendant's negligence, or by any unseaworthiness of the vessel or its appliances
U.S.—Caldarola v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 98 F.Supp. 987—Greer v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 94 F.Supp. 397, affirmed, C.A., 187 F.2d 5—Militano v. States Marine Corp., D.C.N.Y., 77 F.Supp. 438.
Mass.—Kelly v. Eastern S.S. Lines, 179 N.E. 921, 278 Mass. 361.

(3) To sustain award against owner of cabin cruiser for death of invited guest who disappeared overboard.—Hutchinson v. Dickie, C.C.A.Ohio, 162 F.2d 103, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 208, 332 U.S. 830, 92 L.Ed. 404

13. Evidence held sufficient
U.S.—Martini v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 192 F.2d 649, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 759, 343 U.S. 926, 96 L.Ed. ——— Puleo v. H. E. Moss & Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1733, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857, and H. E. Moss & Co. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1736, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857—Sommerseth v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 91 F.Supp. 457
58 C.J. p. 322 note 25 [a]

Evidence held insufficient
U.S.—Lynch v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 163 F.2d 97—Laffoon v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 101 F.Supp. 823
58 C.J. p. 322 note 25 [b]

Injury to longshoreman or stevedores
(1) Evidence held sufficient—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y., 160 F.2d 173—Kreste v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 158 F.2d 575—Romano v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 90 F.Supp. 15—The Dalhem, D.C.Mass., 41 F.Supp. 718

(2) Evidence held insufficient.—Whyatt v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 92 F.Supp. 543—Condino v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 73 F.Supp. 643—La Guerra v. Brasileiro, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 668, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 124 F.2d 553, certiorari denied Brasileiro v. La Guerra, 62 S.Ct. 918, 315 U.S. 824, 86 L.Ed. 1220

(3) Evidence held to show stevedore's injury was caused by negligent operation of ship's appliances by his employer, and was not caused by unseaworthiness of ship or failure of owner to provide safe place to work—State of Maryland, for Use of Johnson, v. U.S., C.C.A.Md., 165 F.2d 911

(4) Evidence held to show that responsibility for proper illumination had passed to stevedore's employer.—Osnovitz v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 103 F.Supp. 238.

(5) Evidence held to show that ship's officers should have known that longshoremen might be in hold of ship—Palardy v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 102 F.Supp. 534

(6) Evidence held to warrant conclusion as to manner in which longshoreman came to his death—The Ellenor, D.C.Fla., 39 F.Supp. 576, affirmed, C.C.A., Freeman v. A. H. Bull S.S. Co., 125 F.2d 774.

Hatches
(1) Evidence held sufficient.
U.S.—Grillo v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 177 F.2d 904—Badalamenti v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 67 F.Supp. 575, affirmed in part and modified in part on other grounds, C.C.A., 160 F.2d 422—The Black Eagle, D.C.Mass., 30 F.Supp. 16
Cal.—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P. 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v. Naknek Packing Co., 52 S.Ct. 128, 284 U.S. 672, 76 L.Ed. 569.
58 C.J. p. 322 note 25 [a]

(2) Evidence held insufficient—Lauricella v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 185 F.2d 327—The Vinemoor, C.C.A.Or., 75 F.2d 28—Goldberg v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 91 F.Supp. 104—58 C.J. p. 322 note 25 [b] (2), (3)

(3) Evidence held to show that owner was primarily liable and stevedoring firm secondarily liable for causing injuries sustained by longshoreman when he fell through open hatch—Lo Bue v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 188 F.2d 800.

(4) Evidence held to show that owner had knowledge of open hatch—Muratore v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 100 F.Supp. 276.

14. Evidence held sufficient
U.S.—Moran v. U.S., D.C.Mass., 82 F.Supp. 525—Moragnel v. Moore-McCormack Lines, D.C.Md., 75 F.Supp. 969
58 C.J. p. 322 note 26 [a].

Evidence held insufficient
U.S.—Cannella v. Lykes Bros. S.S. Co., C.A.N.Y., 174 F.2d 794, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 102, 338 U.S. 859, 94 L.Ed. 526—Vacante v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 70 F.Supp. 443—The Prince Rupert City, D.C.Fla., 30 F.Supp. 755—Weldon v. U.S., D.C.Mass., 9 F.Supp. 347.
58 C.J. p. 322 note 26 [b].

15. Evidence held sufficient
U.S.—Puleo v. H. E. Moss & Co., D.C.N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 78, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 842, certiorari denied Todd Shipyard Corp. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1733, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857, and H. E. Moss & Co. v. Puleo, 67 S.Ct. 1736, 331 U.S. 847, 91 L.Ed. 1857
58 C.J. p. 322 note 27 [a].

Evidence held insufficient
U.S.—Hendricksen v. Hugh Roberts & Son, D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp. 72—The Nyhorn, D.C.N.Y., 4 F.Supp. 403.
58 C.J. p. 322 note 27

Injury to longshoremen or stevedores
(1) Evidence held sufficient—Gill v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 184 F.2d 49—Porello v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 153 F.2d 605, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds American Stevedores, Inc. v. Porello, 67 S.Ct. 847, 330 U.S. 446, 91 L.Ed. 1011—Lopez v. American President Lines, C.C.A.N.Y., 138 F.2d 914—De Luca v. Shepard S.S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 566, modified on other grounds 67 F.2d 437, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 562, 291 U.S. 685, 78 L.Ed. 1072—Bryant v. Vestland, C.C.A.Ga., 52 F.2d 1078—Andrade v. U.S., D.C.R.I., 94 F.Supp. 170—Rawson v. Agwilines, Inc., D.C.N.Y., 90 F.Supp. 651—Iaria v. Silver Line, Limited, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 42—58 C.J. p. 322 note 27 [a] (1), (3), (5), (10).

negligence was the proximate cause of the injury;[16] and the extent of the injury inflicted.[17] Where a presumption of negligence arises from the manner in which the injury was received, defendant's evidence must be sufficient to establish his freedom from negligence.[18]

Contributory negligence. In various cases the evidence has been held sufficient[19] or insufficient[20] to establish contributory negligence, or sufficient[21] or insufficient[22] to show freedom from contributory negligence.

Seaworthiness. In proceedings by an employee of an independent contractor, such as a longshoreman or stevedore, against a shipowner to recover damages for personal injuries sustained as a result of the unseaworthiness of the vessel, the evidence in various cases has been adjudged to be sufficient[23] or insufficient[24] to establish unseaworthiness, or sufficient to show that the unseaworthiness was the proximate cause of the injury.[25]

Actions or proceedings to impose liability over. The sufficiency of the evidence has been determined in suits for indemnity by a shipowner against the employer of the injured employee[26] and in suits against the shipowner by the employee wherein the shipowner impleads the employer.[27]

e. Trial

The general rules governing trials of civil actions

(2) Evidence held insufficient.—Altamura v U S., D C N.Y., 78 F.Supp. 531—Sulovitz v. U. S, D C Pa, 64 F. Supp 637—The Mercier, D C Or, 5 F Supp 511—The Nyhorn, D C N.Y, 4 F.Supp 403—58 C J. p 322 note 27 [b] (3), (7)

16. Evidence held sufficient

U S —Christiansen v U S., C A Mass, 192 F 2d 199—The Meton, D C.Tex., 59 F 2d 431, affirmed, C C A, 62 F 2d 825—Portel v. U S, D C N Y., 85 F Supp 458—Bow v. Pilato, D C.Cal, 82 F Supp 399

58 C J p 323 note 28 [a]

Evidence held insufficient

U S —Sportiello v U. S, D.C.N.Y, 55 F.Supp. 551.

58 C J p 323 note 28 [b].

Injury to longshoremen and stevedores

(1) Evidence held sufficient —Palardy v. U S, D C Pa., 102 F Supp. 534—Gill v. U S, D C N Y, 85 F Supp 717, affirmed, C A., 184 F 2d 49 —Pugliese v Panama Transport Co, D C.N Y, 65 F Supp 433—The Etna, D.C.Pa., 43 F Supp 303—The Black Eagle, D C.Mass., 30 F.Supp 16—58 C J. p 323 note 28 [a] (2), (3).

(2) Evidence held insufficient —Osnovitz v. U. S, D C.Pa, 103 F Supp 238—Sportiello v. U S, D C N Y, 55 F Supp. 551—58 C J p 323 note 28 [b] (1), (2)

17. Evidence held sufficient

U.S —The Uxmal, D C Mass, 49 F. Supp 221

18. Evidence held insufficient

U.S —Pleckaitis v Ostervolze Docking Co, C C A N Y., 294 F 824.

58 C J p 323 note 32.

19. U S —Portel v U. S., D.C.N Y, 85 F.Supp 458—Caldwell v. Sutton Line, D.C.N J, 79 F Supp 796

58 C.J. p 323 note 30 [a] (1), (3).

Fall on gangplank

La —Regenbogen v. Southern Shipwrecking Corp., App., 41 So 2d 110

20. U S.—La Guerra v. Brasileiro, C A N.Y, 124 F 2d 553, certiorari denied Brasileiro v La Guerra, 62 S Ct. 918, 315 U S 824, 86 L Ed. 1220—McCarty v U S., D C N J, 88 F Supp 251, affirmed, C.A, 196 F 2d 221.

58 C J. p 323 note 30 [b].

Fall from ladder

U.S.—McCarty v. U. S., supra.

Fall through hatch

U S.—Muratore v U. S, D C N.Y, 100 F Supp. 276.

21. U S —Gill v U. S, C A N Y., 184 F 2d 49—Corrado v Pennsylvania R Co, C A N Y, 171 F 2d 73, certiorari denied 69 S Ct 641, 336 U S 919, 93 L Ed. 1081—The Dalhem, D C Mass, 41 F Supp. 718

58 C J. p 323 note 30 [a] (2), (4)

Fall through hatch

(1) Invitee given permission to sleep on vessel —Sibley v Barber S S. Lines, D C N Y., 57 F.2d 318

(2) Longshoreman —The Black Eagle, D.C Mass, 30 F Supp. 16.

22. U S —McNally v. Zeller Marine Corp., D C N Y, 77 F Supp 985.

Emergency

In libel for injuries sustained by laborer in attempting to make slipping hauser fast after scow had been struck by another, evidence was insufficient to justify conclusion that emergency arose when stern hauser started to slip, in view of evidence that there were two other lines holding scow to wharf —McNally v Zeller Marine Corp., supra.

23. U S.—Gill v. U. S., D C N Y., 85 F Supp 717, affirmed, C A., 184 F 2d 49—Moran v U S, D.C Mass, 82 F Supp. 525—Landgraf v. U. S, D C.Pa, 75 F Supp 58.

Fall through hatch

U S —Lauro v. U. S., C C A.N.Y, 162 F 2d 32, motion granted in part and denied in part 163 F.2d 642.

24. U S.—State of Maryland for Use of Johnson v U. S., C C.A.Md., 165 F 2d 911—Holub v Sword S S Line, C.C.A Tex, 132 F.2d 206—Osnovitz v. U. S, D.C Pa., 103 F. Supp 238—Caldarola v U. S, D.C N.Y, 98 F Supp. 987—Christiansen v. U. S, D.C Mass, 94 F.Supp 934, affirmed, C A., 192 F 2d 199—Greer v. U S., D C N Y., 94 F.Supp. 397, affirmed, C.A., 187 F 2d 5—Andrade v U. S., D C.N Y, 94 F Supp. 170 —Militano v States Marine Corp, D C.N.Y., 77 F Supp 438.

Fall through hatch

U.S —Pignataro v. Waterman S. S. Corp., C A.N.Y, 194 F.2d 404

25. U S —Landgraf v. U. S., D.C.Pa, 75 F Supp 58

Absence of life-saving equipment on ship

U.S —Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp, D C Mo, 96 F Supp. 234, appeal dismissed, C.A., 191 F. 2d 734.

26. Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish that sole proximate cause of injury to the employee was negligence of stevedoring company in use of a defective hatch cover which fell on employee, with knowledge of its defects of dogs and pins, and that shipowner did not participate in such negligent act —U S v. Arrow Stevedoring Co, C.A Cal., 175 F 2d 329, certiorari denied 70 S Ct. 307, 338 U.S. 904, 94 L Ed. 557.

(2) To authorize recovery by shipowner on the ground that the sole proximate cause of the employee's death was the negligence of the stevedoring company's working of the men in the known dangerous condition there existing —U. S v Arrow Stevedoring Co, C A Cal, 175 F 2d 333, certiorari denied 70 S Ct 307, 338 U.S 904, 94 L.Ed. 557.

27. Evidence held sufficient

U S —Baccile v Halcyon Lines, C.A. Pa, 187 F.2d 403, reversed on other grounds Halcyon Lines v Haenn Ship Ceiling & Refitting Corp, 72 S Ct. 277, 342 U S 282, 96 L Ed —— —Christiansen v U S, D.C Mass, 94 F Supp. 934, affirmed, C A., 192 F.2d 199.

ordinarily apply: In actions or proceedings for damages for injuries sustained by persons on or about a vessel.

In actions or proceedings for damages for injuries sustained by persons on or about a vessel, the general rules governing trial in civil actions, or the rules in admiralty where suit is brought in admiralty, ordinarily are applicable.[28]

Questions of law and fact. Where the evidence in a trial before a jury is conflicting or is such that reasonable minds might draw different conclusions therefrom, it is for the jury to determine questions of fact.[29] Thus, on such evidence it is for the jury or other trier of facts to determine whether defendant was negligent,[30] as in failing to furnish a safe place in which to work,[31] or a safe passageway to and from the place of work,[32] or in furnishing defective appliances,[33] and whether defendant's negligence proximately caused the injury.[34] On the other hand, in order to warrant or require submission to the jury, legally sufficient evidence must be produced.[35] Where the evidence is uncontradicted and but one inference reasonably may be drawn therefrom the question is one of law for the court.[36] In the absence of evidence of defendant's negligence,[37] or where all the evidence shows that the injury was due not to defendant's negligence, but to accident, the court may dismiss

28. U S—Williams S S Corp v. Parsons, C.C.A Va., 96 F 2d 219.
Cal.—Petersen v Klitgaard, 299 P. 54, 212 Cal 516, certiorari denied Peterson v Naknek Packing Co, 52 S Ct 128, 284 U S. 672, 76 L Ed 569
Md—Bull S S Line v Fisher, to Use of Globe Indemnity Co., 77 A.2d 142.

Transfer of cause
(1) Where an injured stevedore brought libel against his employer and the shipowner, the contention that, inasmuch as the libel contained all the essential averments of a complaint in a common-law action under state workmen's compensation law, it should have been transferred to the common-law side of the court for trial could not be sustained, where the libel contained no allegation of diversity of citizenship essential to give jurisdiction to a federal court. —Cassil v U. S Emergency Fleet Corporation, C C A Or., 289 F. 774.

(2) Transfer of causes in federal courts generally see Federal Courts § 360.

29. U S—O'Connell v. Naess, C.A.N. Y., 176 F.2d 138.
Md—Bull S S Line v. Fisher, to Use of Globe Indem. Co., 77 A 2d 142.
Wash—Schotis v North Coast Stevedoring Co, 1 P.2d 221, 163 Wash 305, 78 A.L R 1427.

For district judge in absence of jury
U S—Williams S. S Corp. v. Parsons, C.C.A Va, 96 F.2d 219

Ownership of vessel
N Y.—Casey v. Lehigh Valley R Co., 112 N.Y.S 522, 128 App Div. 86.

Status of injured person
(1) Question whether decedent was defendant's invitee, and was entitled to care and protection attaching to such relationship, was for jury—Gluckstein v. Martin, 278 N.Y.S 129, 244 App.Div. 39.

(2) Right of plaintiff to be on the vessel as established by custom and defendant's knowledge of the custom was question for jury.—Pioneer SS Co. v. Jenkins, Ohio, 189 F. 312, 111 C C.A. 44.

Whether photographs reflected condition of vessel and hatch covers at time of accident was question for jury, where photographs were taken more than a year after accident—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P 54, 212 Cal 516, certiorari denied Peterson v Naknek Packing Co, 52 S Ct. 128, 284 U S. 672, 76 L Ed. 569

30. U S.—Meyers v. Pittsburgh S. S Co, C.C.A Ohio, 165 F.2d 642—The Wearpool, C C A Tex., 112 F 2d 245—Williams S S Corp v. Parsons, C C A.Va, 96 F.2d 219.
Md—Bull S. S. Line v. Fisher, to Use of Globe Indemnity Co., 77 A.2d 142
Mich—Stern v. Franklin, 287 N.W 880, 290 Mich. 467.
N.Y.—Monkwall v Turbine Engineering Corp, 93 N.Y S 2d 168, 276 App Div 866, affirmed 93 N E 2d 76, 301 N Y. 521—Ambrosino v Cie De Navagacao Lloyd Brasileiro, 47 N Y S 2d 61, 267 App Div. 910, rehearing denied 48 N Y S 2d 439, 267 App. Div 961.
Pa—Strong v. Jarka Corporation of Philadelphia, 176 A. 732, 317 Pa. 317.
58 C.J. p 323 note 33.

Negligence of impleaded employer of injured employee
U S—Baccile v Halcyon Lines (Halcyon Lijn), D C Pa., 89 F.Supp 765, reversed on other grounds, C A., 187 F 2d 403, reversed on other grounds Halcyon Lines v. Haenn Ship Ceiling & Refitting Corp, 72 U S 277, 342 U.S 282, 96 L Ed. ——

31. U.S—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C C A N Y., 160 F.2d 173—Greco v Lorentzen, C.C.A N.Y, 139 F 2d 113—La Guerra v Brasileiro, C.C.A.N Y., 124 F 2d 553, certiorari denied Brasileiro v. La Guerra, 62 S Ct. 918, 315 U S 824, 86 L Ed 1220.
N.J—Santamaria v. Lamport & Holt Line, 196 A. 706, 119 N J.Law 467.
N Y—Buckley v. Cunard S S Co, 253 N Y S 254, 233 App Div. 361.
58 C J. p 323 note 34.

32. U S.—Coffey v. Nicholson Transit Co, C C A.N Y, 138 F 2d 915
N Y—Albano v. Mediterranean Stevedoring Co, 207 N.Y S. 12, 211 App. Div 121.

33. Or.—Cordrey v The Bee, 201 P. 202, 102 Or 636, 20 A.L R 1079.
58 C J. p 323 note 36.

34. U S.—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C C A N Y, 160 F 2d 173.
N.Y.—Raia v Grace Line, 108 N.Y S 2d 137, 279 App Div 647—Monkwall v Turbine Engineering Corp., 93 N.Y.S 2d 168, 276 App Div 866, affirmed 93 N E 2d 76, 301 N.Y. 521
Wash—Jackson v Mitsui, 232 P. 317, 132 Wash 395, adhered to 236 P 806, 135 Wash 695.

Intervening cause
U.S—La Guerra v. Brasileiro, C.C.A N Y., 124 F.2d 553, certiorari denied Brasileiro v. La Guerra, 62 S Ct 918, 315 U S. 824, 86 L Ed 1220

35. Evidence held insufficient to go to jury
U S—Miller v. The Sultana, C A N Y, 176 F.2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S Ct. 303, 338 U.S. 907, 94 L.Ed. 558—Sable v. A H. Bull & Co., C.C A N.Y., 123 F 2d 350—Glover v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, C.C A.Tex, 103 F 2d 557, certiorari denied 60 S Ct. 83, 308 U S 550, 84 L Ed 462—Ondato v. Standard Oil Co, D C N Y., 97 F.Supp. 37.
Ill—Herbst v. Levy, 279 Ill App. 353.
Tex.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v Francis, Civ App., 169 S W 2d 286, error refused.

36. U S—Labbee v. Travenot SS Co., C.C.A.N.Y, 37 F.2d 52, certiorari denied Labbee v. Thavenot SS Co., 50 S Ct. 408, 281 U.S. 754, 74 L Ed. 1164.
58 C.J. p 324 note 42.

37. U.S—Miller v. The Sultana, C.A. N.Y., 176 F 2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct 303, 338 U S. 907, 94 L Ed. 558—Pleckaitis v. Ostervolze Docking Co., C.C.A N.Y., 294 F. 824.

the libel[38] or direct a verdict for defendant;[39] and, where plaintiff's testimony shows that defendant owed no duty which he failed to discharge, a nonsuit is proper.[40]

Where in a trial before a jury the evidence is conflicting or more than one conclusion reasonably may be drawn from the evidence the questions of contributory negligence[41] and assumption of risk[42] should be submitted to the jury; but, where the evidence is not in dispute and but one conclusion reasonably may be deduced therefrom, such questions are for the court.[43] The question of seaworthiness of a vessel is usually one of fact,[44] and it is ordinarily a question of fact whether unseaworthiness was the proximate cause of the injury complained of.[45]

Instructions. In an action for damages for injury to persons on or about a vessel, the court should properly instruct the jury as to the law applicable to the case,[46] and should submit the case to the jury on the theory of each party and the evidence in support thereof.[47] The instructions should clearly and accurately state the law applicable to all the facts in issue,[48] and, further, the instructions must 38. U.S.—Hoeffner v. National SS Co., C.C.A.Cal., 1 F.2d 844, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 355, 267 U.S. 600, 69 L.Ed. 807.

39. Ill.—Herbst v. Levy, 279 Ill.App. 353.

Mass.—Murphy v. Furness, etc., Co., 156 N.E. 836, 259 Mass. 394.

40. U.S.—Jones v. Clinchfield Nav. Co., C.C.A.S.C., 283 F. 951.

41. U.S.—Greco v. Lorentzen, C.C.A.N.Y., 139 F.2d 113—Coffey v. Nicholson Transit Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 138 F.2d 915—La Guerra v. Brasileiro, C.C.A.N.Y., 124 F.2d 553, certiorari denied Brasileiro v. La Guerra, 62 S.Ct. 918, 315 U.S. 824, 86 L.Ed. 1220.

Md.—Bull S. S. Line v. Fisher, to Use of Globe Indem. Co., 77 A.2d 142.

N.J.—Santamaria v. Lamport & Holt Line, 196 A. 706, 119 N.J.Law 467.

N.Y.—Monkwall v. Turbine Engineering Corp., 93 N.Y.S.2d 168, 276 App.Div. 866, affirmed 93 N.E.2d 76, 301 N.Y. 521—Ambrosino v. Cie. De Navagacao Lloyd Brasileiro, 47 N.Y.S.2d 61, 267 App.Div. 910, rehearing denied 48 N.Y.S.2d 439, 267 App.Div. 961.

58 C.J. p. 323 note 38

For district judge in absence of jury

U.S.—Williams S. S. Corp. v. Parsons, C.C.A.Va., 96 F.2d 219.

Injury by stevedoring company to employee of independent contractor

Va.—Tidewater Stevedoring Corp. v. McCormick, 52 S.E.2d 61, 189 Va. 158.

42. Md.—Bull S. S. Line v. Fisher, to Use of Globe Indem. Co., 77 A.2d 142.

N.J.—Santamaria v. Lamport & Holt Line, 196 A. 706, 119 N.J.Law 467.

N.Y.—Buckley v. Cunard S. S. Co., 253 N.Y.S. 254, 233 App.Div. 361.

58 C.J. p. 323 note 39.

43. Contributory negligence

N.Y.—Maher v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, 144 N.Y.S. 985, 160 App.Div. 1.

58 C.J. p. 312 note 73 [a]

Choosing of dangerous passage

A longshoreman is guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law in proceeding along a dark way on a ship's deck, when a safe way was provided.—Colandria v. China Mut. Steam Nav. Co., 233 N.Y.S. 584, 226 App.Div. 681.

Stevedore falling through hatchway was not guilty of contributory negligence as matter of law in stepping on hatch in going forward to turn back tarpaulin.—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P. 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v. Naknek Packing Co., 52 S.Ct. 128, 284 U.S. 672, 76 L.Ed. 569.

44. Or.—Marstaller v. Albina Dock Co., 229 P.2d 269, 191 Or. 145.

Essentially a fact question

U.S.—State of Maryland, for Use of Johnson, v. U. S., C.C.A.Md., 165 F.2d 911.

45. Absence of hatch covers

In action by longshoremen to recover for injuries sustained in fall through hatchway of barge which was unseaworthy because of lack of hatchway covers, whether absence of hatch covers was the proximate cause of the accident was a question of fact.—Marstaller v. Albina Dock Co., 229 P.2d 269, 191 Or. 145.

46. U.S.—Baccile v. Halcyon Lines (Halcyon Lijn), D.C.Pa., 89 F.Supp. 765, reversed on other grounds, C.A., 187 F.2d 403, reversed on other grounds Halcyon Lines v. Haenn Ship Ceiling & Refitting Corp., 72 S.Ct. 277, 342 U.S. 282, 96 L.Ed. ——

Cal.—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P. 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v. Naknek Packing Co., 52 S.Ct. 128, 284 U.S. 672, 76 L.Ed. 569.

47. N.Y.—Vallero v. Turner, 237 N.Y.S. 475, 227 App.Div. 307

58 C.J. p. 324 note 48

48. Wash.—Schotis v. North Coast Stevedoring Co., 1 P.2d 221, 163 Wash. 305, 78 A.L.R. 1427.

58 C.J. p. 324 note 49

Instructions held erroneous

U.S.—Miller v. The Sultana, C.A.N.Y., 176 F.2d 203, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 303, 338 U.S. 907, 94 L.Ed. 558.

N.Y.—Sagler v. Kellogg S. S. Corporation, 277 N.Y.S. 792, 155 Misc. 217.

Requested instructions held improperly refused

Wash.—Schotis v. North Coast Stevedoring Co., 1 P.2d 221, 163 Wash. 305, 78 A.L.R. 1427.

Assumption of risk

(1) In action by injured longshoreman against shipowner, under evidence, instruction on assumption of risk should have been given.—Schotis v. North Coast Stevedoring Co., supra.

(2) Charge to the effect that plaintiff, experienced in operation of loading vessels, could not recover for injuries resulting from the swinging of a load of lumber which he and others had just attached to ship's boom operated by an employee of defendant, if jury thought plaintiff should have anticipated what happened, sufficiently submitted question of assumption of risk by plaintiff, even though assumption of risk was not mentioned in so many words and was submitted in connection with question of contributory negligence.—Bull S. S. Line v. Fisher, to Use of Globe Indemnity Co., Md., 77 A.2d 142.

Contributory negligence

Where contributory negligence was improperly pleaded as a complete, rather than as a partial, defense or in mitigation of damages in action against shipowner for injuries sustained by longshoreman employed by stevedoring contractor while unloading vessel, as a result of unseaworthiness of vessel, but it was made clear, before case was submitted to jury and in request to charge, that defendant sought to invoke the rule under maritime law that damages may be reduced or mitigated if and to the extent that injured longshoreman was guilty of contributory negligence, defendant was entitled to a charge that contributory negligence of injured longshoreman might operate to reduce his damages proportionately.—Raia v. Grace Line, 108 N.Y.S.2d 137, 279 App.Div. 647.

Instruction on employee's right to rely on knowledge of superiors and ship's officers' directions was correct statement of law between master and not be misleading[49] or lay stress on particular facts,[50] or be on matters not in issue.[51]

Verdict and findings. General rules regulating verdicts and findings in civil actions ordinarily apply.[52] Findings based on conflicting evidence will not be set aside.[53] It is improper for the trial court to grant a new trial where special findings are supported by evidence and are not inconsistent with the general verdict.[54]

f. Damages

A person who has sustained personal injuries on or about a vessel may recover only such damages as are the proximate result of the accident.

A person who has sustained personal injuries on or about a vessel may recover only such damages as are the proximate result of the accident.[55] Where the negligence was of a minor character and plaintiff's case is somewhat doubtful, the actual loss sustained by his injury is all that he will be allowed.[56] The contributory negligence of libelant is no bar to a recovery in admiralty, as considered supra §§ 83–85, but, where the negligence of respondent concurs with the negligence of libelant in causing the injury, the damages should be apportioned,[57] provided libelant's fault, although evident, is neither willful, gross, nor inexcusable, and the other circumstances present a strong case for his relief.[58]

Seaworthiness. In proceedings by an employee of an independent contractor, such as a stevedore or longshoreman, against a shipowner to recover damages for personal injuries sustained as a result of the unseaworthiness of the vessel contributory negligence is not a bar to recovery, as discussed supra § 85 e, but operates merely in reduction or mitigation of damages in admiralty,[59] and this rule has been applied in an action in a state court.[60]

g. Proceedings for Exoneration from Liability

A shipowner may file a petition for exoneration from liability for personal injuries sustained by persons on or about the vessel.

servant, but inapplicable as between longshoreman and ship's officer who was not longshoreman's superior—Schotis v North Coast Stevedoring Co., 1 P.2d 221, 163 Wash. 305, 78 A. L R. 1427.

Res ipsa loquitur

In action by employee of stevedoring contractor for injuries sustained on defendant's vessel when part of rigging under control of stevedoring company fell and struck employee, instruction, under rule of res ipsa loquitur, that happening of accident creates presumption that defendant did not have safe appliances, was error, where rigging was not under defendant's control at time of accident.—Massa v. Nippon Yusen Kaisha, 190 N.E 641, 264 N.Y. 283.

49. Cal.—Petersen v. Klitgaard, 299 P 54, 212 Cal. 516, certiorari denied Peterson v. Naknek Packing Co., 52 S Ct 128, 284 U S. 672, 76 L. Ed. 569.

50. U S.—Netherlands-American Steam Nav Co v Diamond, N Y., 128 F 570, 63 C C A 212.
58 C J p 324 note 50.

51. Mass.—Duart v Simmons, 121 N.E. 10, 231 Mass 313, error dismissed 40 S Ct. 342, 251 U.S. 547, 64 L Ed. 408.
58 C.J. p 324 note 51.

52. U.S.—American Mut. Liability Ins. Co. v. Matthews, D C.N.Y., 87 F.Supp. 854, reversed on other grounds, C A., 182 F 2d 322.

Consistency of verdicts

In actions by stevedores against shipowner and his agent for dermatitis resulting from leakage of cashew nut liquid which was being unloaded, verdicts in favor of plaintiffs who were actually unloading the liquid and verdicts against plaintiffs who were merely working on dock were not inconsistent.—Anderson v Lorentzen, C C A N Y, 160 F.2d 173.

Special verdicts and interrogatories

In action for injuries to longshoremen's foreman, employed by corporation loading steamship moored to pier, while helping another longshoreman on pier to replace a hatch cover, which had been removed to pier, jury's answers to questions in special verdict did not warrant finding of defendant ship owner's negligence, in view of negative answer to question whether defendant knew, or had reason to know, that bridles used in raising cover from pier were unsuitable and affirmative answer to question whether any fault of plaintiff contributed to injuries.—Strika v Holland America Line, D.C.N Y, 90 F. Supp 534, affirmed, C.A., Strika v Netherlands Ministry of Traffic, 185 F 2d 555, certiorari denied 71 S Ct 614, 341 U S 904, 95 L Ed 1343

53. N.J.—Horn v Hamburg-American Packet Co., 80 A. 490, 81 N.J Law 729
58 C.J. p 324 note 53.

54. R.I.—Coyne v. Coastwise Dredging Co., 89 A. 1060, 36 R I. 278.

55. U S.—The Uxmal, D C Mass., 49 F Supp 221.

56. U.S.—The Guillermo, D C N.Y., 26 F. 921.

57. U S.—Guerrini v. U S., C.C.A.N. Y., 167 F.2d 352, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct 65, 335 U.S 843, 93 L.Ed 393—Kreste v. U. S., C C A N.Y., 158 F 2d 575—Palardy v. U. S., D. C.Pa., 102 F.Supp. 534—Lundberg v. Prudential S S. Corp., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 115—Laffoon v. U S., D C N.Y., 101 F Supp. 823—Portel v. U. S., D.C N.Y., 85 F Supp 458—Bow v. Pilato, D C Cal., 82 F.Supp 399—Badalamenti v. U S., D.C.N Y., 67 F Supp 575, affirmed in part and modified in part on other grounds, C.C A., 160 F.2d 422—The Wichita Falls, D.C Tex., 15 F Supp. 612.
58 C.J. p 324 note 58.
Apportionment of damages in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 85.

Particular elements of damages

(1) Expenses and loss of time or wages.—The Eddystone, D.C.Va., 33 F. 925—The Truro, D.C.N.Y., 31 F 158.

(2) Loss of past and future earnings, pain and suffering, hospital and physicians' fees.—Lundberg v. Prudential S S. Corp., D C.N.Y., 102 F Supp 115.

(3) Award of eighteen thousand dollars because of injuries, pain and suffering, and loss of earning.—Palardy v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 102 F.Supp 534.

(4) Damages for pain and suffering disallowed.—The Truro, D.C N Y., 31 F. 158.

58. U.S.—The Max Morris v. Curry, N.Y., 11 S Ct. 29, 137 U.S. 1, 34 L Ed. 586—The Truro, D.C.N.Y., 31 F. 158.

59. U.S.—Bochantin v. Inland Waterways Corp., D.C.Mo., 96 F Supp. 234, appeal dismissed, C.A., 191 F. 2d 734.

60. N.Y.—Raia v. Grace Line, 108 N. Y.S.2d 137, 279 App.Div. 647.

In a proper case a shipowner may file a petition for exoneration from liability for personal injuries sustained by persons on or about the vessel.[61]

§ 87. Lien

Where personal injuries are caused by the negligence of the vessel in cases for which a legal liability attaches, a maritime lien exists in favor of the injured person.

Where personal injuries are caused by the negligence of the vessel in cases for which a legal liability attaches, a maritime lien exists in favor of the injured person.[62] Thus, a maritime lien attaches to the vessel in favor of one injured thereon by reason of her defective appliances[63] or the negligence of her officers.[64] No lien arises for the unlawful act of the master in furnishing liquor to his guest who was injured by falling while intoxicated.[65]

VII. BOTTOMRY AND RESPONDENTIA

§ 88. Definitions and Nature

A bottomry bond is a contract for a loan of money on the bottom of a ship, at an extraordinary interest, on maritime risks, to be borne by the lender, for a voyage or a definite period.

In general, a bottomry bond is a contract for a loan of money on the bottom of a ship, at an extraordinary interest, on maritime risks, to be borne by the lender, for a voyage or a definite period.[66] It is a peculiar contract,[67] differing essentially from a loan with security,[68] and is inconsistent with the existence of the lien implied by the marine law to secure advances to a master in a foreign port to make necessary repairs.[69] As the lender sustains the hazard of the voyage he ordinarily receives, on its happy termination, a greater price or premium for his money than the rate of interest allowed by law in ordinary cases.[70] The bond does not create a personal obligation on the owner until the vessel reaches port;[71] but if the ship arrives at the port of her destination, the borrower, personally, as well as the ship, is liable for the repayment of the loan, together with such premium thereon as may have been agreed on.[72]

Respondentia. In general, a respondentia bond is a loan of money on merchandise laden on board a ship, the repayment whereof is made to depend on the safe arrival of the merchandise at the destined port.[73] Such an instrument is now deemed to be

61. Sufficiency of evidence

(1) Evidence held sufficient to support court's denial of application for exoneration—Hutchinson v. Dickle, C.C.A.Ohio, 162 F.2d 103, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 208, 332 U.S. 830, 92 L.Ed. 404.

(2) In proceeding by owner of motorboat for exoneration from liability for death of girl who either fell or was thrown from boat by its speed, evidence established that owner's husband, who was operating boat, was negligent, and that such negligence caused girl's death—Petition of Liebler, D.C.N.Y., 19 F.Supp. 829.

(3) In action by motor-boat owner for exoneration from, or limitation of, liability for damages for injuries sustained by defendant when struck by petitioner's boat while it was being operated by petitioner's minor son, evidence sustained finding that there was fault or negligence on the part of the operator of the boat in that he failed to use ordinary care and prudence in ascertaining the presence of defendant, and, therefore, the petitioner was not entitled to exoneration from damages done while the boat was being operated by his son—Rautbord v. Ehmann, C.A.Ill., 190 F.2d 533.

(4) In proceeding by owner of vessel for exemption from liability for injuries caused to crew by explosion occurring in steering-gear room of vessel, evidence was held to sustain finding that explosion was caused by explosion of diffused, leaking gases which would not have occurred in ordinary course of events.—Leathem Smith-Putnam Nav. Co. v. Osby, C.C.A.Ill., 79 F.2d 280, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 370, 296 U.S. 653, 80 L.Ed. 465.

(5) In proceeding by owner of vessel for exemption from liability for injuries caused members of crew by explosion occurring in steering-gear room of vessel, mere fact that injured members had, to some degree, duties to perform on vessel was insufficient, in absence of evidence that they did anything which might contribute to injury, to render them guilty of contributory negligence.—Leathem Smith-Putnam Nav. Co. v. Osby, supra.

Proceedings to obtain:
Exoneration from liability for injuries to passengers on vessel see infra § 195
Limitation of liability see infra §§ 245–257.

62. U.S.—Santiago v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 425.
58 C.J. p. 324 note 63.
Maritime lien arising out of tort:
Generally see Maritime Liens § 12.
Committed by vessel or owner generally see supra § 80.

63. U.S.—The Carolina, C.C.N.Y., 32 F. 112.

64. U.S.—The Anaces, N.C., 93 F. 240, 34 C.C.A. 558.
58 C.J. p. 324 note 65

65. U.S.—The Westmoor, D.C.Or., 27 F.2d 886.
58 C.J. p. 325 note 66.

66. U.S.—Barnes v. The "Kongo," C.A.Ky., 174 F.2d 67.
58 C.J. p. 325 notes 68 [a], 69.
Mortgage and hypothecation of vessel see supra § 24

67. U.S.—Force v. Providence Washington Ins. Co., D.C.N.Y., 35 F. 767.
58 C.J. p. 325 note 71.

68. U.S.—Maitland v. The Atlantic, D.C.La., 16 F.Cas.No. 8,980, Newb. Adm. 514.
58 C.J. p. 325 note 72.

69. U.S.—The Ann C. Pratt, C.C.Me., 1 F.Cas.No. 409, 1 Curt. 340, affirmed 18 How. 63, 15 L.Ed. 267.

70. U.S.—Maitland v. The Atlantic, D.C.La., 16 F.Cas.No. 8,980, Newb. Adm. 514.
Effect of provision for ordinary rate of interest see infra § 90

71. Wash.—Davies v. Soelberg, 64 P. 540, 24 Wash. 308.

72. U.S.—The Dora, D.C.La., 34 F. 343.

73. U.S.—Maitland v. The Atlantic, D.C.La., 16 F.Cas.No. 8,980, Newb. Adm. 514.
58 C.J. p. 326 note 77.

archaic and obsolete.[74]

Maritime loan. A maritime loan is a contract by which the lender lends to the borrower a certain sum of money on condition that, in case of loss of the effects on account of which it is lent by any peril of the sea or superior force, the lender shall not be repaid unless to the amount of what shall remain.[75]

§ 89. What Law Governs

In the absence of express stipulation the law of the ship's home governs a bottomry bond.

The law of the ship's home governs a bottomry bond[76] in the absence of express stipulation.[77]

§ 90. Requisites, Validity, and Construction of Bond

No particular form of contract is necessary in order to constitute a bottomry or respondentia bond, and such a bond is to be liberally construed to effectuate the intention of the parties.

The object of the bond is to procure necessary supplies for vessels in distress in foreign ports, where the master and owners are without credit, and, if assistance could not be so procured, the vessel and cargo might perish.[78] No particular form of contract is necessary.[79] A statute providing for registration of mortgages of personal property does not apply to a bottomry bond.[80] The fact that, when a contract is made for a bottomry bond for money advanced, no exact amount of money is agreed on does not affect the validity of the bond for the amount actually required for repairs and supplies obtained.[81]

These bonds have been regarded as of high and privileged character and have been held in great sanctity in maritime courts,[82] and are liberally construed[83] so as to carry into effect the intention of the parties,[84] and to give effect to the contract according to the manifest intent of all its provisions;[85] and, where there is no suspicion of fraud, every fair presumption is to be made to support them.[86] Where concerned, a respondentia bond, memorandum indorsed on it, and the outward bill of lading and assignment thereon, are all to be construed as one instrument for the purpose of discovering the intention of the parties.[87] However, contracts of bottomry and respondentia are different in different countries,[88] although resembling each other in some prominent features,[89] so that, when disputes arise, they are to be decided by the words of the particular contract in question rather than by any principles of general commercial law.[90]

Contents; marine risk; maritime interest. It is essential to a bottomry transaction that the money lent should run the hazard of the voyage,[91] and be on maritime or marine risk;[92] and in order to con-

74. Respondentia bonds are "archaic instruments the use of which has passed, with other appurtenances and trappings of romance of days now remote, when masted ships rode the waters of strange harbors, while their masters, far from their home ports, and unable to send a message to the owners, tried to raise cash on bonds of respondentia to enable their ships to clear for the continuing voyage. . . . Only in case of war, seismic disturbance, breakdown of wireless or radio, or atomic catastrophe whereby communication between a master and owner would become impracticable or impossible, does it seem that use of such contracts of hypothecation could be revived. . . . Respondentia bonds are obsolete"—Barnes v The "Kongo," C.A Ky, 174 F.2d 67, 68, 69, note.

75. U S—The Draco, C C Mass., 7 F. Cas No 4,057, 2 Sumn 157

76. U S—Force v Providence Washington Ins Co, D C N.Y., 35 F. 767
58 C.J. p 327 note 92

77. U.S.—The Wyandotte, Va., 145 F. 321, 75 C.C.A. 117.
58 C.J. p 327 note 93.

78. La—Hill v. Phœnix Tow Boat Co, 2 Rob 35.
58 C.J. p 326 note 78.

79. U S—The Edward Albro, D C.N. Y, 8 F Cas No 4,290, 10 Ben. 668.
58 C J. p 326 note 79.

Seal

Although the earlier bottomry contracts were executed under seal, the later usage has dispensed with the seal—The Dora, D C La., 34 F 343

Written obligations evidencing debts of vessel for advances made in reliance on earnings could not be enforced as respondentia bonds—Barnes v. The "Kongo," C.A Ky., 174 F.2d 67.

80. U S.—The Draco, C C Mass., 7 F. Cas No.4,057, 2 Sumn. 157.

81. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, D. C.N.Y., 9 F.Cas No.5,163, Olcott 55.

82. U S.—Barnes v The "Kongo," C. A Ky., 174 F 2d 67.
58 C.J. p 326 note 83.

83. U.S.—Miller v. O'Brien, D.C N Y., 35 F. 779, reversed on other grounds 67 F. 605, 14 C C.A. 566, reversed on other grounds O'Brien v Miller, 18 S.Ct. 140, 168 U S 287, 42 L Ed 469.
58 C J. p 326 note 84.

84. U.S.—Miller v. O'Brien, D C.N.Y, 35 F. 779, reversed on other grounds 67 F. 605, 14 C C A. 566, reversed on other grounds O'Brien v. Miller, 18 S Ct 140, 168 U.S. 287, 42 L Ed 469.
58 C.J. p 326 note 85.

85. U S—O'Brien v. Miller, N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 140, 168 U S 287, 42 L Ed. 469
58 C J. p 326 note 86.

86. U S—O'Brien v. Miller, N.Y., 18 S Ct. 140, 168 U S 287, 42 L.Ed. 469.

87. U.S—Conard v. Atlantic Ins Co., Pa., 1 Pet. 386, 7 L.Ed. 189.

88. U.S—The Draco, C.C Mass., 7 F. Cas.No 4.057, 2 Sumn. 157.
58 C.J. p 327 note 89.

89. U.S—O'Brien v. Miller, N Y., 67 F. 605, 14 C C.A. 566, reversed on other grounds Miller v. O'Brien, 18 S Ct 140, 168 U.S. 287, 42 L Ed. 469

90. U.S—O'Brien v. Miller, N.Y., 67 F 605, 14 C C A. 566, reversed on other grounds Miller v. O'Brien, 18 S.Ct. 140, 168 U S. 287, 42 L Ed 469
58 C.J. p 327 note 94.

91. U.S.—The William & Emmeline, D.C N.Y., 29 F.Cas.No.17,687, Blatchf. & H. 66.
58 C.J. p 327 note 94.

92. U.S—Greely v. Smith, C.C.Me, 10 F.Cas.No 5,750, 3 Woodb. & M. 236.
58 C.J. p 327 note 95.

Term "perils of the sea" means all those accidents and misfortunes to stitute a valid contract of bottomry, where more than statutable interest is reserved, both the principal and interest must be put at risk.[93] Hence, an instrument for the repayment of money absolutely is not a bottomry contract[94]

Under the rule that the bond will be construed according to the manifest intent of all its provisions, a hypothecation will be held to be a bottomry bond, although it contains a provision that, in case the bills of exchange given by the master for the money advanced are not accepted and paid, the bond shall become due, where it also contains a condition that the party taking it shall assume the risk of the voyage.[95] A bottomry bond may be valid which states that it is to be paid a stated number of days after arrival,[96] the rule being that renunciation of the obligation in case of loss of the vessel is implied.[97] Where the insurer of a vessel, having the right to loan on bottomry, being applied to by the owners for a bottomry bond, and unwilling to increase the amount of risk on the vessel, suspends a part of the policy equal to the amount of the loan, during its continuance, this is valid as a bottomry loan.[98]

An agreement for maritime interest is a usual but not a necessary element in a contract of bottomry,[99] so that sometimes bonds are made bearing only the ordinary rate of interest;[1] but a loan on low or legal interest will create a suspicion that the marine risk was not contracted for, and that the parties did not intend a bottomry contract.[2]

A loan secured by a bottomry bond is not affected by the usury laws,[3] since the lender is, to the extent of his loan, insurer of the vessel for the voyage;[4] but the reservation of marine interest in a contract for the loan of money on a vessel to be paid at all events is usurious.[5] A bottomry bond, made for a larger sum than is due, for the purpose of being used to defraud underwriters, is void, and no remedy can be had on it, although no fraud was intended against the owners of the vessel[6]

Effect of partial invalidity; ratification A bottomry bond may be good in part, and bad in part, and will be sustained as far as it is good;[7] and the objection that a bottomry bond given in good faith for necessary supplies was executed without due authority operates only to reduce the premium as far as the ship is concerned,[8] but does not necessarily relieve the vessel from liability for the advances made, if that liability can be sustained on the principles of hypothecation.[9] The fraudulent taking of a bottomry bond for a larger amount than the actual advance vitiates the bond, and entirely avoids the bottomry lien;[10] and the person taking it under such circumstances has no lien under the general maritime law on the vessel for his actual advances.[11] Where a bottomry bond covering the whole vessel is void in toto against a part owner of the vessel for fraud, it cannot be good in part against a purchaser from him, with knowledge that part of the debt secured by the bond was originally good[12] However, a bottomry bond is not rendered invalid merely because it covers items of advance not entitled to a bottomry lien;[13] it will be good for the sums which are clearly claimed as a maritime hypothecation,[14] and will be reformed by the court.[15] A bond, bad as a bottomry bond, may be which ships at sea are exposed, and which human foresight or precaution cannot avert or resist.—Appleton v. Crowninshield, 3 Mass. 443, 450.

93. Mass.—Thorndike v. Stone, 11 Pick. 183
58 C.J. p. 327 note 96.

94. U.S.—The Clotilda, D.C.Me., 5 F. Cas.No. 2,903, 1 Hask. 412.
58 C.J. p. 327 note 97

95. U.S.—The Edward Albro, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Cas.No. 4,290, 10 Ben. 668.

96. U.S.—The Eliza Lines, C.C.Mass., 61 F. 308, affirmed 114 F. 307, 52 C.C.A. 195, modified on other grounds 132 F. 242, 65 C.C.A. 538, reversed on other grounds 26 S.Ct. 8, 199 U.S. 119, 50 L.Ed. 115
58 C.J. p. 327 note 2.

97. U.S.—The Eliza Lines, supra
La.—Lloyd v. McMasters, 7 Mart. 249

98. N.Y.—Northwestern Ins. Co. v. Ferward, 36 N.Y. 139.

99. U.S.—Force v. The Pride of the Ocean, D.C.N.Y., 3 F. 162
58 C.J. p. 328 note 6
"Maritime interest" is the premium paid for a loan secured by means of a contract of bottomry.—The Dora, D.C.La., 34 F. 343

1. U.S.—The Grapeshot v. Wallerstein, La., 9 Wall. 129, 16 L.Ed. 651

2. U.S.—The Dora, D.C.La., 34 F. 343
58 C.J. p. 328 note 9.

3. N.Y.—Cole v. White, 26 Wend. 511
Wash.—Davies v. Soelberg, 64 P. 540, 24 Wash. 308.

4. N.Y.—Cole v. White, 26 Wend. 511.
Wash.—Davies v. Soelberg, 64 P. 540, 24 Wash. 308.

5. N.Y.—Braynard v. Hoppock, 32 N.Y. 571, 88 Am.D. 349.

6. U.S.—Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, C.C.Me., 1 F.Cas.No.409, affirmed 18 How. 63, 15 L.Ed. 267.

7. U.S.—Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, Me., 18 How. 63, 15 L.Ed. 267.
58 C.J. p. 328 note 14

8. U.S.—The Eureka, D.C.Mass., 8 F. Cas.No. 4,547, 2 Lowell 417.

9. U.S.—The Eureka, supra.

10. U.S.—Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, C.C.Me., 1 F.Cas.No. 409, 1 Curt. 340, affirmed 18 How. 63, 15 L.Ed. 267
58 C.J. p. 328 note 17.

11. U.S.—The Ann C. Pratt, C.C.Me., 1 F.Cas.No. 409, 1 Curt. 340, affirmed 18 How. 63, 15 L.Ed. 267.

12. U.S.—The William, D.C.Mass., 29 F.Cas.No. 17,684.
58 C.J. p. 328 note 19.

13. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, D.C.N.Y., 9 F.Cas.No.5,163, Olcott 55.

14. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, supra.

15. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, supra.

good as a mortgage of the vessel,[16] but, where the laws of the state where it is made require a mortgage to be recorded, and the mortgaged property to be delivered to the mortgagee, a failure to comply with such provisions voids the instrument as a mortgage.[17] A bottomry bond which might otherwise be held invalid may be ratified by the owner.[18]

§ 91. Capacity to Execute

a. In general
b. Master

a. In General

The owner of a vessel may execute a bottomry bond.

The owner of the vessel may execute a bottomry bond,[19] and he is not limited in his power to pledge the vessel to a case of necessity,[20] but he has an absolute control over his property,[21] nor is it necessary that a respondentia loan by the owner of the cargo should be expended in fitting out the ship, or invested in the goods on which the risk is run.[22] It is not necessary to the validity of a bottomry bond, made by the owner of a vessel, that the money borrowed should be advanced for the necessities of the ship, or cargo, or voyage;[23] and he may employ the money at his discretion,[24] the lender retaining his lien as long as the ship bears the risk.[25] A valid bottomry bond may be made by the owners of a vessel in a foreign[26] or home port.[27]

b. Master

(1) In general
(2) Extent and limitation of authority
(3) Necessity of communication with owner

(1) In General

Under proper circumstances a master of a vessel may obtain money for repairs, supplies, or other needs of the ship on bottomry on the ship or cargo.

Within certain limitations a master may obtain money for repairs, supplies, or other needs of the ship on bottomry on the ship,[28] although the ship is hired on charter,[29] and the master has been appointed by the charterers,[30] and although a note or other obligation is given for the demand;[31] but where advances were made to, and a bond given on, the ship by a master who had resigned his command, and after another master, appointed by the charterers, had succeeded to it, the bond is not valid.[32] Authority to raise money on the vessel itself in the absence of other means is implied where the owner refuses to pay a bill given for supplies furnished, and sends the creditor to demand payment from the master in a foreign port.[33] However, the master cannot hypothecate the ship for the benefit of the cargo.[34] Subject to the same limitations, the master may bottomry the cargo to pay for necessary repairs or supplies to the ship,[35] and such power is not affected by the fact that he has an opportunity to transship.[36] A master appointed in a foreign port by the consul of the country to which the ship belongs has the same powers as to bottomry bonds as one appointed directly by the owner.[37]

Interest in vessel or cargo. A bottomry bond, executed by the master of a ship, as master, although he is at the time owner also, will impart to the holder the same rights and privileges as if given in the character of owner;[38] and the master who is also part owner may create a bottomry on

16. U S—Greely v Smith, C C.Me., 10 F Cas.No.5,750, 3 Woodb. & M. 236
Mortgage of vessel see supra § 24.

17. U S.—Greely v Smith, supra
Recording mortgage see supra § 25.

18. U S—Gardner v The White Squall, D C N Y, 9 F Cas No 5,239
58 C.J p 329 note 27

19. U S—The Draco, C C Mass, 7 F Cas.No 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157.

20. U.S—The Mary, C C Conn, 16 F Cas.No 9,187, 1 Paine 671—The Panama, D C N Y, 18 F Cas No 10,703, Olcott 343

21. U S—The Mary, C.C Conn, 16 F Cas No 9,187, 1 Paine 671

22. U S.—Conard v Atlantic Ins. Co, Pa, 1 Pet. 386, 7 L Ed. 189.

23. U S—Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, D C N Y, 8 F.Cas No.4,483.
58 C J. p 330 note 53.

24. U S—Eneas v The Charlotte Minerva, supra.
58 C J. p 330 note 54.

25. U S—Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, supra.

26. U.S—The Draco, C C.Mass, 7 F Cas.No 4,057, 2 Sumn 157.
58 C J p 330 note 56

27. U S—The Draco, supra.
58 C J. p 330 note 57

28. U S—Barnes v The "Kongo," C. A Ky, 174 F.2d 67.
58 C J. p 330 note 63.

29. U S—Breed v The Venus, D.C Mass., 4 F Cas No.1,827
Charter of ship see supra §§ 26-56.

30. U S—Breed v The Venus, supra.

31. U.S—The Hilarity, D C.N Y, 12 F.Cas No 6,480, 1 Blatchf & H 90

32. U S—Walden v Chamberlain, C. C Pa, 28 F Cas No 17,055, 3 Wash 290, affirmed The Aurora, 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L Ed 45.

33. U.S—Thomas v Gittings, C.C. Md, 23 F Cas No 13,897, Taney 472

34. N.Y—Fontaine v. Columbian. Ins Co., 9 Johns 29.

35. U S.—Barnes v The "Kongo," C. A Kv, 174 F 2d 67.
N Y—Kelly v Cushing, 48 Barb. 269
58 C J. p 330 note 72.
Contract held bottomry of freight only and not vessel
U S—Banca di Genova v The Sophie Wilhelmine, N.Y, 58 F. 890, 7 C.C. A 569

36. U S—Schmidt v. The George Nicholaus, D C N Y, 21 F.Cas No 12,463
58 C J p 331 note 75.

37. U S—The Jacmel Packet, D C N. Y, 13 F.Cas.No 7,154, 2 Ben 107

38. U S—The Panama, D C N.Y., 18 F Cas No 10,703, Olcott 343.
58 C.J p 333 note 27.

his own interest without the existence of any necessity for a bottomry.[39]

(2) Extent and Limitation of Authority

The authority of the master of a vessel to give a bottomry bond is subject to various limitations.

Under some statutes a bottomry bond can be given by the master of the vessel in,[40] and only in,[41] case of necessity and great distress,[42] abroad,[43] at sea,[44] or in a foreign port,[45] where the owner is not present[46] and has no representative,[47] and when he has no other means at his command,[48] or any funds or credit of his owner[49] or of his own,[50] or any other means of getting money,[51] such as advances on the freight or passage money,[52] and there are no goods of his own[53] or of his owner[54] on board. If he has money on board belonging to shippers, he is not bound to apply it to the ship's necessities before borrowing on bottomry, at least if not equal to the amount of repairs.[55]

The bond cannot be given by the master before the voyage is begun,[56] or contrary to instruction,[57] in the home port,[58] or in those places where the owners reside,[59] even for those necessities without which the vessel cannot proceed to sea.[60] However, it is no objection to a bottomry by the master for necessary repairs in a foreign port that the loan was effected after the repairs were made,[61] and, in case of necessity, the master of a ship may hypothecate her as well at the port of destination as at any other foreign port.[62] It has been said that the law invests the master with a reasonable discretion as to the manner of obtaining the necessary repairs.[63]

Meaning of "necessity." The term "necessity" has a twofold meaning,[64] there must be a necessity of obtaining repairs or supplies in order to prosecute the voyage,[65] a necessity which would induce a prudent owner to provide funds for the cost of them on the security of the ship,[66] although the necessity for supplies to support a bottomry bond need not have been so urgent that the vessel must have been lost to the owner without them;[67] and a necessity, because of inability to procure the required funds in any other way, of resorting to a bottomry bond.[68]

(3) Necessity of Communication with Owner

A master is without authority to bottomry the ship where he fails to communicate with the owner of the vessel, if communication is practicable within a reasonable time.

A master has no authority to bottomry the ship, where he does not communicate with the owner of the vessel[69] or her charterer,[70] or to hypothecate the cargo without communicating with the owner

39. U S—The Kathleen, D C N.Y., 14 F Cas.No 7,624, 2 Ben. 458
40. U S—Grace v. The Mauna Loa, D C.N Y, 76 F 829.
58 C J p 331 note 78
41. U S—The Aurora, Pa, 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L Ed 45.
58 C J p 331 note 79
42. U S—Tunno v. The Mary, D C S C, 24 F Cas No.14,237, Bee 120.
43. U S.—The Archer, C.C N Y, 23 F. 350, 23 Blatchf. 186.
44. N Y.—White v. Cole, 24 Wend 116.
58 C J p 331 note 82.
45. U S.—The Grapeshot v Wallerstein, La., 9 Wall 129, 19 L.Ed. 651.
58 C.J. p 331 note 83.
46. U S.—Patton v. The Randolph, D C.Pa, 18 F Cas No 10,837, Gilp. 457—Ross v The Active, C.C.Pa., 20 F.Cas.No.12,071, 2 Wash C C. 226.
47. U.S —Selden v. Hendrickson, C. C Va, 21 F.Cas No.12,639, 1 Brock. 396.
58 C.J. p 331 note 85.
48. U S —Boreal v. The Golden Rose, D C S C., 3 F.Cas No 1,658, Bee 131.
58 C.J p 331 note 88
49. U.S —Thomas v. Osborn, Md., 19 How. 22, 15 L.Ed 534.
58 C.J. p 331 note 89.
50. U.S —The Packet, C C Mass, 18 F Cas No 10,654, 3 Mason 255.
58 C J p 331 note 90.
51. U.S —Rucher v. Conyngham, D C Pa, 20 F Cas No 12,106, 2 Pet. Adm 295
58 C.J. p 331 note 91.
52. U S —Burke v The M P. Rich, C.C Mass, 4 F.Cas.No 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.
53. U S —Cupisino v. Perez, Pa., 2 Dall. 194, 1 L Ed 345—Rucher v. Conyngham, D C Pa, 20 F Cas.No. 12,106, 2 Pet Adm. 295.
54. U S.—Rucher v. Conyngham, supra
58 C J p 331 note 94.
55. U.S —The Packet, C.C.Mass, 18 F Cas No 10,654, 3 Mason 255.
56. U S.—Turnbull v. The Enterprise, D C Pa, 24 F.Cas No.14,212, Bee 345.
58 C.J p 331 note 96.
57. U.S.—The Astoria, C.C.A.Canal Zone, 281 F 618—Grace v. The Mauna Loa, D C N.Y., 76 F. 829.
58. U S —The Panama, D.C N.Y., 18 F Cas No.10,703, Olcott 343.
58 C.J. p 332 note 98.
59. U S —Forbes v. The Hannah, Adm Pa, 9 F.Cas No.4,925, Bee 348
58 C.J. p 332 note 1.
60. U S —Turnbull v The Enterprise, D.C.Pa, 24 F Cas No.14,242, Bee 345.
61. U S —The Kathleen, D C N Y., 13 F Cas No.7,624, 2 Ben 458
62. N Y —Reade v Commercial Ins Co, 3 Johns 352, 3 Am D 495
63. U S —The Packet, C C Mass., 18 F Cas No 10,654, 3 Mason 255
64. U S.—Ross v. The Active, C.C. Pa, 20 F Cas No 12,071, 2 Wash C C 226.
58 C.J p 332 note 8.
65. U S —Burke v The M. P. Rich, C C Mass, 4 F Cas No 2,161, 1 Cliff 308.
58 C J. p 332 note 9.
66. U.S —St Thomas Bank v. The Julia Blake, N.Y., 2 S Ct. 692, 107 U S. 418, 27 L Ed. 595.
58 C J p 332 note 10.
67. U S —Thomas v. Gittings, C.C. Md, 23 F Cas No.13,897, Taney 472.
68. U S.—Burke v. The M P Rich, C C.Mass, 4 F.Cas.No 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.
58 C J. p 332 note 12.
69. U.S —Barnes v. The "Kongo," C. A Ky, 174 F 2d 67.
58 C.J p 332 note 16.
70. U S —The Northern Light, D.C. Wash, 106 F. 748.
58 C.J. p 332 note 17.

of the cargo,[71] if communication is practicable[72] within a reasonable time,[73] stating the necessity for the expenditure and for the hypothecation.[74] Where no sufficiently speedy means of communication exist between the place where the vessel is in distress and the place of residence of the owner, the master may raise money on bottomry without first notifying the owner.[75]

§ 92. Purpose for Which Bond May Be Given

The purpose for which a bond may be given by the master is to effectuate the objects of the voyage or the safety and security of the ship.

In general, the purpose for which the bond may be given by the master is, as provided in some statutes, to effectuate the objects of the voyage,[76] or the safety and security of the ship.[77] Thus, the bond may be for repairs,[78] supplies,[79] to enable the vessel to leave a port where she is detained,[80] to enable the voyage to be prosecuted,[81] for pumping out the boat and repairing leaks,[82] or to relieve the vessel and cargo from the liens of salvors and prevent delay and expense in their enforcement.[83] On the necessary abandonment of the voyage in a foreign port after repairs made, the master may hypothecate the vessel for the purpose of getting her back to the owners, or for a voyage to a place where she can be sold without sacrifice.[84] Various items have been held to be properly[85] or improperly[86] included in a bottomry bond.

Security for preëxisting debt. The general rule is that the master of a vessel cannot hypothecate for a preexisting debt, but only for advances made at the time the necessity existed.[87] However, it is no objection that the advances were made from time to time before the bond was executed, if the original understanding was that the whole sum should be ultimately thus secured,[88] even when the bond purports to protect a direct loan or to secure existing debts;[89] and it has been held that it matters not at what time the loan is made if the risk of the voyage is subsequently taken and if the transaction is not a cloak to cover usury, gaming, or fraud, and if the advance is in good faith for a maritime premium.[90] Nevertheless, a bottomry bond executed by the master is invalid as to items for advances made without an agreement or reasonable expectation that they were to be secured by bottomry.[91] Goods supplied in the first instance on personal security alone generally cannot afterward be made the subject of bottomry;[92] but the fact that the moneys lent on a bottomry bond were on the personal credit of the master has been held to make no difference if the advance was made on a contract for a bottomry bond.[93] A bottomry bond given to pay a former one must stand or fall with the first hypothecation, and the subsequent lender can claim only on the same ground with the former,[94] and, thus, the payment of a hypothecation is not a valid consideration for a new hypothecation, unless it appears that the former one was valid.[95]

§ 93. Capacity or Authority to Take Bond

Under proper circumstances a bond for advances may be taken by the owner of the cargo or by an agent of the charterer. The lender on bottomry must ascertain that the money is necessary for the particular voyage and that the master has no other resources on hand.

Where the consignee is bound to advance freight

71. U S—Barnes v. The "Kongo," C A.Ky, 174 F 2d 67—The Richmond, D C Del, 2 F 2d 903
58 C J. p 332 note 18.

72. U S.—Barnes v The "Kongo," C. A.Ky, 174 F 2d 67
58 C J p 332 note 20, p 278 note 37

73. U.S—The Northern Light, D C. Wash, 106 F 748

74. U.S—Barnes v The "Kongo," C A.Ky., 174 F.2d 67
58 C J. p 332 note 22

75. U S—Elwell v The Georgia, D C N Y., 32 F. 843.

76. U S—The Aurora, Pa, 1 Wheat 96, 4 L Ed 45
58 C.J. p 333 note 31.

77. U S—The Aurora, supra
58 C J. p 333 note 31.

78. U.S.—The R Lenahan, D C Pa, 10 F Supp. 497
58 C.J. p 333 note 33.

79. U.S—The Fortitude, C C.Mass, 9 F Cas.No.4,953, 3 Sumn. 228.
58 C.J. p 333 note 34.

80. U S—Gibbs v. The Texas, D C Pa, 10 F Cas No.5,385, Crabbe 236

81. U S—Walden v Chamberlain, C C Pa., 28 F Cas No.17,055, 3 Wash C C 290, affirmed The Aurora, 1 Wheat 96, 4 L Ed 45
58 C J. p 333 note 37.

82. U S—The C. M. Titus, D C N Y, 7 F. 826

83. U S—The Clotilda, D C Me., 5 F. Cas No 2,903, 1 Hask 412

84. U S—The Robert L Lane, D C. Mass, 20 F.Cas No 11,892, 1 Lowell 388
58 C J p 333 note 42

85. U S—The Edward Albro, D C N. Y., 8 F Cas No 4,290, 10 Ben. 668
58 C J. p 333 note 47.

86. U S—Furniss v The Magoun, D C N Y., 9 F Cas No 5,163, Olcott 55
58 C J p 334 note 48

87. U S—Greely v Smith, C C Me., 10 F Cas No 5,750, 3 Woodb & M. 236
58 C J. p 334 note 49.

88. U.S.—The Virgin, Md., 8 Pet 538, 8 L Ed 1036
58 C J p 334 note 50.

89. U S—The Panama, D C N Y., 18 F Cas.No 10,703, Olcott 343.

90. U S—Conard v. Atlantic Ins. Co., Pa, 1 Pet 386, 7 L.Ed. 189.

91. U.S—The Circassian, D C N Y., 5 F Cas No 2,724, 3 Ben 398—Gardner v. The White Squall, D.C N.Y., 9 F Cas No 5 239.

92. N Y.—White v. Cole, 24 Wend. 116.
58 C J. p 334 note 56.

93. U.S.—The Magoun, D C.N.Y., 9 F Cas.No.5,163, Olcott 55.

94. U S—The Aurora, Pa., 1 Wheat 96, 4 L.Ed 45.

95. U S—Walden v. Chamberlain, C. C Pa, 28 F Cas.No 17,055, 3 Wash. C.C. 290, affirmed The Aurora, 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L Ed. 45.
58 C.J. p 334 note 60.

due on the cargo, he cannot, before payment thereof, advance money to the owner on maritime interest;[96] nor can a consignee do so who has funds in his hands to secure advances made by him for the vessel.[97] Although there may be a state of facts under which consignees may advance on bottomry,[98] and although the consignee of a vessel may apply the proceeds of a cargo and the freight to pay sums due on account of its purchase, without affecting his right to take a bottomry bond from the master for supplies subsequently furnished,[99] such loans are not regarded favorably by the courts.[1] The objection to a bottomry bond that the holders were consignees of the ship is obviated by proof that they were not so by the appointment of the owner, that the owner and consignees did not know each other, and had no commercial relations, and that the owner had no funds in their hands.[2]

If the owner of the cargo is on board a vessel at the time of a disaster requiring that money shall be obtained by the master to enable the vessel to prosecute the voyage, he is not bound to advance funds or credit to benefit the shipowner,[3] but, if he does so, he is entitled to satisfactory security and an extra and adequate compensation for the advance;[4] but one part owner cannot take from the master a bottomry bond, on the share of another part owner, for repairs done to the vessel.[5] A bottomry bond taken in a foreign country, by an agent of the charterers of the ship, in the name of the charterers, is good.[6]

Duty of lender to ascertain and show authority. The lender on bottomry must inform himself whether the alleged necessity exists,[7] that is, he is bound to ascertain that the money is necessary for the particular voyage and that the master has no other resources on hand.[8] Further, he must show the necessity of the repairs and supplies,[9] although where he does so, claimant must show that the money was available other than by bottomry.[10] If the fact of such necessity be left unproved, evidence is necessary to show due inquiry and reasonable grounds of belief that the necessity was real,[11] and the necessity of raising the funds advanced on it by such means,[12] the lender being chargeable with notice of the necessities which develop and limit the master's power to act;[13] and he must judge for himself whether, if the owner were present, he would do what the master is undertaking to do for him.[14]

While the lender is bound to exercise reasonable diligence in order to ascertain whether the supplies and alleged necessaries for which he has advanced money are necessary and proper,[15] he is not bound to show that there was a positive necessity.[16] It is sufficient if there was an apparent necessity,[17] as far as the lender is able, on due inquiry and due diligence, to ascertain the facts,[18] and when there is an apparent necessity for repairs, the lender on bottomry is under no obligation to inquire whether they are made in the most judicious manner,[19] and the lender on bottomry in good faith, and under circumstances which justified the loan, cannot be held responsible for the reasonableness of the charges in the repair of the vessel.[20] Where the necessities of the vessel because of want of repairs and supplies, and the fact that the master had no means of his own and had in vain resorted to others for raising money were facts of notoriety, a person was justified in lending money to the master on a bottomry bond without requiring positive proof that the necessity was absolute and remediless except by a bottomry bond.[21]

96. U.S.—The Lavinia v Barclay, Pa., 15 F Cas.No 8,125, 1 Wash.C.C. 49.
58 C J p 334 note 62.
Obligation of consignee to advance freight due on cargo see infra § 167.

97. U.S—Hurry v. The John & Alice, Pa., 12 F.Cas No.6,923, 1 Wash C C. 293.

98. U S—The Lavinia v. Barclay, Pa, 15 F.Cas.No.8,125, 1 Wash.C C. 49.
58 C J p 334 note 64.

99. U S.—Thomas v. Gittings, C.C. Md, 23 F Cas No 13,897, Taney 472.

1. U.S.—Rucher v Conyngham, D.C. Pa., 20 F.Cas No 12,106, 2 Pet.Adm 295.

2. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, D C N.Y, 9 F.Cas No.5,163, Olcott 55.

3. U S—Ross v. The Active, Pa, 20 F Cas No 12,071, 2 Wash.C.C. 226.

4. U.S—Ross v. The Active, supra.
58 C J. p 335 note 69

5. U.S—Patton v The Randolph, D. C Pa, 18 F Cas No 10,837, Gilp. 457.

6. U S—Breed v. The Venus, D.C. Mass, 4 F Cas No 1,827.

7. U.S—The Grapeshot, La., 9 Wall 129, 19 L Ed 651.
58 C J. p 335 note 79.

8. U.S—The Julia Blake, N Y., 2 S. Ct 692, 107 U S 418, 27 L.Ed. 595.
58 C J. p 335 note 80.

9. U S—The Bridgewater, D C N.Y., 4 F.Cas No.1,865, Olcott 35.
58 C J. p 335 note 81.

10. U S—The Wyandotte, Va., 145 F 321, 75 C.C.A. 117.
58 C J. p 335 note 82.

11. U.S—The Grapeshot, La., 9 Wall. 129, 19 L.Ed. 651.

12. U.S—The Lavinia v. Barclay, Pa, 15 F.Cas No 8,125, 1 Wash.C.C 49.

13. U S—The Julia Blake, N Y., 2 S. Ct. 692, 107 U S 418, 27 L Ed 595

14. U S.—The Julia Blake, supra.

15. U S—The Fortitude, C C Mass., 9 F Cas No.4,953, 3 Sumn. 228.

16. U.S.—The Fortitude, supra.

17. U.S.—The Julia Blake, N Y., 2 S. Ct. 692, 107 U.S 418, 27 L.Ed. 595.
58 C J. p 335 note 89.

18. U S.—The Fortitude, C C Mass, 9 F Cas.No.4,953, 3 Sumn. 228.

19. U S—The Fortitude, supra.
58 C.J. p 336 note 92

20. U S—The Archer, D.C N.Y, 15 F. 276, reversed on other grounds, C C., 23 F. 350—The Yuba, C.C N Y, 30 F Cas.No 18,193, 4 Blatchf 352

21. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun,

The lenders of money on a bottomry bond are presumed to have acted in good faith,[22] and are not, in the absence of proof, to be charged with knowledge that the master had disregarded instructions from the owners.[23] The validity of a hypothecation is not affected by the master's previous or subsequent irregular conduct toward his owner, if the lender be not privy thereto.[24]

§ 94. Operation and Effect

A bottomry bond executed by the master of the vessel does not vest an absolute interest in the ship, and a respondentia bond passes no right of property in the goods.

A bottomry bond executed by the master of the vessel does not vest an absolute interest in the ship, but gives a claim on her which admiralty may enforce;[25] nor does a respondentia bond pass the right of property in the goods, since it is a mere personal contract.[26] Where a bottomry bond is given to secure debts for which simple contract securties have been previously given, the bond cannot be regarded as merely collateral security, but the simple contracts are merged in the bond, and the previous securities cannot afterward be enforced.[27] Bills of exchange may be given in connection with a bottomry bond as representing the debt so secured,[28] but the bill is collateral to the bond[29] and subject to the same contingencies.[30]

Personal liability. In order to support a bottomry bond the money must have been advanced on the faith of the vessel,[31] and there is no element of personal liability connected with a bottomry bond as an instrument,[32] and, if the bond is merely collateral security for the debt, it is a nullity.[33] The liability of the owner on the bond is limited to the value of the property pledged if the value of the ship fall short of the debt, and the lender on bottomry loses the balance,[34] and where the bond stipulates that a cargo of specified value be carried, and such condition is not complied with, recovery in toto is not justified,[35] but will be limited to the difference between the sum lent and the value of the cargo at the time of the loss.[36]

Even though the master execute a bottomry bond hypothecating the cargo as well as the ship and freight, and the cargo is afterward sold on such bond, the owner's personal liability will be no greater.[37] However, a bottomry bond is good which includes the personal liability of the master.[38]

§ 95. Negotiability and Transfer

A master's botttomry obligation, payable to order on arrival at the port of destination, is not such a negotiable instrument as to give the indorsee any better rights than those of the payee.

A master's bottomry obligation, payable to order on arrival at the port of destination, is not such a negotiable instrument as to give the indorsee any better rights than those of the payee.[39] However, the bond is assignable.[40]

§ 96. Duration and Termination

A bottomry bond may be on time or on a specific voyage.

A bottomry bond may be on time as well as on a specific voyage,[41] and a bond which hypothecates the vessel for a particular voyage, and a specific period beyond its termination, is good as a bottomry bond, the money lent having been put at risk under

D C.N.Y., 9 F Cas No 5,163, Olcott 55

22. U S.—The Fortitude, C C.Mass., 9 F Cas No 4,953, 3 Sumn 228—Furniss v. The Magoun, D.C N Y, 9 F Cas No.5,163, Olcott 55

23. U S —Furniss v. The Magoun, supra.

24. U S —The Virgin v Vyfhuis, Md, 8 Pet. 538, 8 L Ed. 1036—Canizares v The Santissima Trinidad, Adm Pa, 5 F Cas No 2,383, Bee 353.

25. U S.—Blaine v. The Charles Carter, Va., 4 Cranch 328, 2 L Ed. 635.
58 C J. p 329 note 29.

26. U S —U. S. v Delaware Ins Co., Pa, 25 F Cas No 14,942, 4 Wash C C 418

27. Mass —Bray v. Bates, 9 Metc. 237.

28. U.S —The Hunter, D C.Me, 12 F. Cas.No.6,904, 1 Ware 251.
58 C.J. p 329 note 33.

29. U S —Maitland v The Atlantic, D C La, 16 F Cas No 8,980, Newb Adm 514.
58 C.J. p 329 note 34.

30. U S —The Hunter, D C Me., 12 F Cas No.6,904, 1 Ware 251.
58 C.J. p 329 note 35

31. U S —Walden v Chamberlain, Pa, 28 F.Cas No.17,055, 3 Wash C. C 290, affirmed 1 Wheat 96, 4 L Ed 45
58 C J. p 329 note 36.

32. U S —Greely v. Smith, C C Me., 10 F Cas No 5,750, 3 Woodb. & M. 236
58 C.J p 329 note 37.

33. U S —The Sophie Wilhelmine, N. Y, 58 F 890, 7 C.C A 569.
58 C J. p 329 note 39.

34. U.S —The Virgin, Md, 8 Pet. 538, 8 L Ed. 1036
58 C J. p 329 note 40.

35. U S —Franklin Ins Co v. Lord, C C Mass, 9 F Cas No 5,057, 4 Mason 248

36. U.S —Franklin Ins Co. v. Lord, supra.

37. U.S —Naylor v. Baltzell, C C Md, 17 F Cas No 10,061, Taney 55.

38. U S —Kelly v. Cushing, 48 Barb. 269
58 C J. p 330 note 46.
Master's draft held not binding on master personally
U.S —The Serapis, D.C N Y., 37 F. 436

39. U S.—The Lykus, D C N.Y., 36 F. 919.

40. U.S —Burke v The M P. Rich, C C.Mass, 4 F.Cas.No.2,161, 1 Cliff. 308

41. U S —The Draco, C.C Mass, 7 F. Cas.No 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157.
58 C.J. p 336 note 98.

the contract[42] If, after the risk on a bottomry bond has commenced, a sale or transfer of the vessel takes place,[43] or the voyage is in any manner broken up by the borrower[44] or by the negligence and omission of the master,[45] the maritime risk terminates as in the case of a policy of insurance and the bond becomes immediately payable; and the fact that the obligee of a bottomry bond attaches the ship on another debt of the obligor before the expiration of the term for which the bond is to run, whereby the obligor is prevented from employing her, does not excuse him from performing the condition of the bond.[46]

§ 97. Payment and Satisfaction

The obligee in a bottomry bond, who is also the ship's agent, has a right to use money received for freight after the date of the bond in payment of wages and other expenses incident to a projected voyage.

The obligee in a bottomry bond, who is also the ship's agent, has a right to use money received for freight after the date of the bond in payment of wages and other expenses incident to a projected voyage, and to meet other debts contracted for by him for the benefit of the vessel, and not secured by the bond;[47] and where the agents of shipowners pay a bottomry bond with their own money, and the bond is a valid lien in their hands, freight moneys may be applied first to the payment of unsecured disbursements of such agents, leaving the surplus only to be credited on the bond.[48] Where the loss of vessel and cargo is total, and both belong to the same owner, the doctrine of contribution in payment of the bottomry bond does not apply, as where there are separate owners.[49] Where, according to the form of bond used, payment of the debt and marine interest depends on the safe return of the goods, and not on that of the ship, the borrower is obliged to pay, if he receives his goods safely, although by another ship,[50] and a loss not strictly total cannot be turned into a technical total loss by abandonment, so as to excuse the borrower from payment, even though the expense of repairing the ship exceeds her value.[51] A bond conditioned to be void in case of "utter loss" of the vessel during a certain voyage is not discharged by the stranding of the vessel during the voyage, and abandonment to insurers as a total loss, and sale by them at the place of stranding, as not worth repairing, if the vessel exists in specie at the time of the sale,[52] since the words "an utter loss of the ship" in a bottomry bond mean an actual total loss, and not a constructive one.[53] A bottomry bond will be void, if the voyage on which payment depends is lost in consequence of any of the accidents within the condition, although the borrower eventually loses nothing.[54] Suit against one who has fraudulently substituted himself as borrower on a bottomry bond is not an acquittance of the bond as against the real debtor.[55] Where the vessel is released on express agreement that the lien continue and cover court costs, the lien continues.[56]

§ 98. Lien and Priorities

A hypothecation of a vessel, on maritime risks, draws after it a maritime lien. A bottomry bond outranks a prior mortgage, or a draft for advances for wages and supplies, payable after arrival and discharge, but is inferior to a claim for general average.

A hypothecation of a vessel, on maritime risks, draws after it a maritime lien.[57] Where a bond is given in the nature of a bottomry, but the circumstances under which it was executed were not such as to warrant the captain in executing a maritime hypothecation, and where the captain had a power of attorney from the owner of the vessel to borrow money on the vessel, such a contract, if made by the captain, may create a lien on the vessel, in a court of common law.[58] In the absence of a stipulation to that effect in the bottomry bond, no lien is created on the freight[59] or cargo[60] by reason of the bond.

42. U S.—Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, D.C.N.Y., 8 F Cas No 4,483.

43. U S—The Draco, C C.Mass., 7 F. Cas.No.4,057, 2 Sumn. 157.
58 C J p 336 note 2.

44. U S—The Draco, supra.
58 C.J. p 336 note 3.

45. U S—Force v The Pride of the Ocean, D C N.Y., 3 F. 162
58 C.J. p 336 note 4.

46. Mass—Thorndike v. Stone, 11 Pick. 183
58 C.J. p 336 note 5.

47. U S—The Sirius, Cal., 54 F. 188, 4 C.C.A. 273.

48. U.S.—Johnson v. The Belle of the Sea, C C Pa., 13 F Cas No.7,372, affirmed 20 Wall 421, 22 L Ed 362.

49. Pa—Delaware Ins. Co. v Winter, 38 Pa. 176

50. Pa—Commonwealth Ins Co. v. Duval, 8 Serg & R 138

51. U S.—Pope v. Nickerson, C.C Mass, 19 F Cas.No 11,274, 3 Story 465.
58 C J p 336 note 12.

52. U S—Delaware Mut. Safety Ins Co. v Gossler, C C Mass., 7 F.Cas No 3,766, Holmes 475, affirmed 96 U S. 645, 24 L.Ed. 863

53. Pa—Commonwealth Ins. Co. v. Duval, 8 Serg. & R. 138.
58 C J p 337 note 14.

54. Mass—Appleton v Crowninshield, 3 Mass. 443

55. U S—Herwig v Oakley, C C Md., 12 F Cas No 6,435, Taney 389

56. U S—Bolten v. The James L Pendergast, D C N Y, 30 F 717.

57. U S—Bolten v. The James L Pendergast, supra
58 C J. p 337 note 20.
Maritime liens generally see Maritime Liens § 1 et seq

58. U S.—Hurry v Hurry, Pa., 12 F. Cas No 6,922, 2 Wash C.C 145.

59. N Y.—Kelly v. Cushing, 48 Barb 269.
58 C J. p 337 note 22.

60. U S—The Zephyr, C C Mass, 30 F.Cas No 18,210, 3 Mason 341.

A mortgage on the vessel taken solely to secure money lent by an assignee of a bottomry bond will not affect its lien,[61] and the lien is not discharged by a payment of the debt by the agents of the shipowners with their own money, where they take an assignment thereof.[62]

It is a rule of the general maritime law that, if there is any salvage or proceeds of the effects covered by a bottomry bond, the bondholder's lien attaches thereto, although the ship is lost.[63] Although the lien of a bottomry bond will not be affected by the mere departure of the vessel from the return port, with or without the knowledge of the holder of the bond,[64] if the obligee of a bottomry bond permits the ship to make several voyages without asserting his lien, and executions are levied on her, his lien is lost.[65]

Priorities. A bottomry bond lien may outrank, or be inferior to, various other liens or claims.[66] A bottomry bond lien is inferior to a claim for general average,[67] and a claim for damages caused by a collision occurring during the voyage is entitled to preference over a bottomry loan made on the same voyage, prior to the happening of such collision.[68] A bottomry bond outranks a prior mortgage,[69] or a draft for advances for wages and supplies, payable after arrival and discharge,[70] and the claim of a wharfinger who makes an express contract with the owner after the giving of the bond.[71] Similarly, a bottomry bond takes precedence over a purchaser with notice,[72] and will be upheld where there is no laches on the part of the lender, even against a bona fide purchaser, without notice,[73] although the rule is otherwise where there is laches.[74] A delay of a few weeks after the right to enforce a bottomry bond has accrued does not enable a junior creditor to take precedence by reason of a prior attachment.[75]

Bottomry bonds take priority in the inverse order of their execution,[76] but bonds of different dates granted to creditors on one advertisement for tenders are paid pro rata.[77]

§ 99. Recovery of Principal

The lender may recover if the bond becomes void by reason of the voyage being lost in consequence of an accident within the condition of the bond and the borrower eventually loses nothing.

If the bonds become void by reason of the voyage being lost in consequence of an accident within the condition of the bond, and the borrower eventually loses nothing, the lender may recover in an action for money had and received.[78] Moreover, if a vessel on which money is lent does not undertake the voyage described in the bottomry bond by default of the persons obtaining the loan, but undertakes a different voyage, the principal of the loan may be recovered in an action in rem after such voyage, against a claimant who purchased the ship with knowledge.[79]

§ 100. Enforcement of Bond

In a suit in admiralty to enforce bottomry and respondentia bonds, the rules regulating the practice and procedure in admiralty ordinarily are applicable.

Since, as discussed in Admiralty § 29, bottomry bonds are enforceable in admiralty, the general rules governing actions, and the rules regulating the procedure and practice in admiralty where suit is brought in that court, usually are applicable.[80]

61. U.S.—Burke v. The M. P. Rich, C.C.Mass., 4 F.Cas.No.2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.

62. U.S.—The Belle of the Sea v. Johnson, Pa., 20 Wall. 421, 22 L.Ed. 362.

63. U.S.—Delaware Mut. Safety Ins. Co. v. Gossler, Mass., 96 U.S. 645, 24 L.Ed. 863
58 C.J. p. 337 note 26.

64. U.S.—Burke v. The M. P. Rich, C.C.Mass., 4 F.Cas.No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.
58 C.J. p. 337 note 28.

65. U.S.—Blaine v. The Charles Carter, Va., 4 Cranch 328, 2 L.Ed. 636.

66. U.S.—The Virgin v. Vyfhius, Md., 8 Pet. 538, 8 L.Ed. 1036.
Priorities:
Claim for freight see infra § 170.
Lien for advances see Maritime Liens § 56 e.
Master's wages see supra § 69.
Materialmen's lien see Maritime Liens § 56 e.
Salvage claims see Salvage § 143.
Seamen's wages see Seamen § 149.

67. U.S.—The Dora, D.C.La., 34 F. 343.
58 C.J. p. 338 note 34.

68. U.S.—Force v. The Pride of the Ocean, D.C.N.Y., 3 F. 162

69. U.S.—Bolten v. The James L. Pendergast, D.C.N.Y., 30 F. 717.
58 C.J. p. 338 note 38.
Priority of maritime liens generally as against mortgages see Maritime Liens § 51 b.

70. N.Y.—Hanschell v. Swan, 51 N.Y.S. 42, 23 Misc. 304.

71. U.S.—Ex parte Lewis, C.C.Mass., 1 F.Cas.No.8,310, 2 Gall. 483.

72. U.S.—Herwig v. Oakley, C.C.Md., 12 F.Cas.No. 6,435, Taney 389.

73. U.S.—The Draco, C.C.Mass., 7 F. Cas.No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157.
58 C.J. p. 338 note 44.

74. U.S.—Persee v. The Clarence, D.C.N.C., 19 F.Cas.No. 11,016.

75. U.S.—Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Cas.No.4,483.

76. U.S.—The Mary, C.C.Conn., 16 F. Cas.No. 9,187, 1 Paine 671.
58 C.J. p. 338 note 47.

77. U.S.—The Dora, D.C.La., 34 F. 343.
58 C.J. p. 338 note 48.

78. Mass.—Appleton v. Crowninshield, 3 Mass. 443.

79. U.S.—Wilmer v. The Smilax, D.C.Md., 30 F.Cas.No. 17,777, 2 Pet. Adm. 295.

80. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, D.C.N.Y., 9 F.Cas.No. 5,163, Olcott 55.
La.—Gazzam v. Wright, 3 La. 449.
Actions on bonds generally see Bonds § 99 et seq.
Procedure and practice in admiralty generally see Admiralty §§ 70-206
Prize court
The holder of a bottomry bond has no interest that he can assert in a prize court.—The Mary, R.I., 9 Cranch 126, 3 L.Ed. 678.

Suit may be maintained in the name of the assignor of the bond,[81] particularly where the assignees appear before the court by filing a supplemental libel.[82] If the vessel is sought to be sequestered, and it has been since sold, there must be a personal service of citation on the new owner if a resident,[83] and service on the master of the vessel as agent of the owner is not sufficient.[84] A mortgagee of the vessel may intervene in an action to enforce a bottomry bond in order to contest the validity of the bond[85] or its priority over his mortgage,[86] and general creditors, having obtained decrees against the proceeds of the vessel, may intervene in an action by bottomry holders to arrest the fund.[87]

Questions as to the validity of bottomry claims will not be entertained on motion and notice.[88] In order to impound the fund until a decision on the claim can be had, the creditor must have sued out attachment[89] or pleaded his lien to an antecedent action;[90] presentation of the bond and a petition under it are not sufficient.[91] Where, a bottomry bond having been given to a person in consideration of his assuming the debts due by a vessel, she left the port without opposition, and payment of the bond was afterward contested on the ground of the debts not being satisfied, the mere presentation of the bills without receipts has been held not sufficient to support the defense.[92] A reference to ascertain and report the constituents of the bottomry lien will be ordered.[93] Where various demands are intermingled in bottomry bond, only part of which will sustain a hypothecation, the obligee must exhibit them to the court in such manner that they may be separately considered,[94] and he should exhibit an account of the items of expense covered, so that the court may judge whether they were necessary in order to effectuate the objects of the voyage.[95]

The premium paid on bottomry will be included in the amount of the decree,[96] and the sum lent and the premium are considered as the principal, common interest on that sum for the delay of payment after it is due being allowed,[97] even though the bond contained no stipulation for ordinary interest.[98]

Marshaling assets. Assets will be marshaled by courts of admiralty, in case of bottomry, so as to give the proper priorities in favor of shippers against the property of the master and owner,[99] and also as to the freight and proceeds of the ship.[1] If a bottomry bond covers both ship and cargo, and these are owned by different persons, the cargo is liable only secondarily;[2] but if both belong to the same owner, and are both hypothecated, there is no equity which prevents the owner of the bond from resorting to either,[3] or where the ship and freight have the same owner and are included in the same hypothecation,[4] there is no equity which prevents the owner of the bond from resorting to either.

VIII. CARRIAGE OF GOODS

A. CARRIER IN GENERAL

§ 101. Status as Common Carrier

A common carrier by water has been defined as one whose business it is to carry chattels by water for all persons who may choose to employ and remunerate him.

A common carrier by water has been defined as one whose business it is to carry chattels by water for all persons who may choose to employ and remunerate him,[5] without regard to distance or

81. U.S.—Burke v. The M. P. Rich, C.C.Mass., 4 F.Cas.No.2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.
82. U.S.—Burke v. The M. P. Rich, supra.
83. La.—Gazzam v. Wright, 3 La. 449.
84. La.—Gazzam v. Wright, supra.
85. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, D.C.N.Y., 9 F.Cas.No.5,163, Olcott 55.
86. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, supra.
87. U.S.—French v. The Superb, D.C.N.Y., 9 F.Cas.No.5,103a.
88. U.S.—French v. The Superb, supra.
89. U.S.—French v. The Superb, supra.
90. U.S.—French v. The Superb, supra.
91. U.S.—French v. The Superb, supra.
92. U.S.—Cohen v. The Amanda Frances Myrick, D.C.Pa., 6 F.Cas. No.2,962, Crabbe 277.
93. U.S.—Furniss v. The Magoun, D.C.N.Y., 9 F.Cas.No.5,163, Olcott 55.
94. U.S.—The Aurora, Pa., 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L.Ed. 45.
58 C.J. p. 339 note 73.
95. U.S.—The Bridgewater, D.C.N.Y., 4 F.Cas.No.1,865, Olcott 35
96. U.S.—The Grapeshot, C.C.La., 10 F.Cas.No.5,703, 2 Woods 42.
58 C.J. p. 339 note 75.
97. U.S.—The Packet, C.C.Mass., 18 F.Cas.No.10,654, 3 Mason 255.
98. U.S.—The Grapeshot, C.C.La., 10 F.Cas.No.5,703, 2 Woods 42.
99. U.S.—The Packet, C.C.Mass., 18 F.Cas.No.10,654, 3 Mason 255.
1. Pa.—Welsh v. Cabot, 39 Pa. 342.
2. Pa.—Welsh v. Cabot, supra.
58 C.J. p. 339 note 81
3. Pa.—Welsh v. Cabot, supra.
4. Pa.—Welsh v. Cabot, supra.
5. Pa.—Nicollette Lumber Co. v. Peoples Coal Co., 26 Pa.Super. 575, reversed on other grounds 62 A. 1060, 213 Pa. 379, 110 Am.S.R. 550, 3 L.R.A.,N.S., 327.

Other or similar definitions

(1) One who undertakes, and exercises as a public employment, the transportation or carriage of goods for persons generally, from place to motive power.[6] In accordance with this definition, a general ship, or its owner or operator, carrying goods or merchandise for hire[7] in the usual course of business,[8] for common carriage,[9] and for all persons indifferently,[10] whether for an ocean voyage,[11] intercoastal voyage,[12] or for a voyage on inland waters,[13] in foreign commerce[14] or interstate commerce,[15] and whatever the character of the vessel whether, for example, sailboats,[16] steamboats or steamships[17] or canal boats,[18] is a common carrier and subject to a common carrier's liability to shippers, considered infra §§ 115–159 although there is no specific agreement of carriage entered into[19] or no particular agreement for hire,[20] and independently of any bill of lading.[21] On the other hand, a shipowner or vessel which carries no other cargo than that of a particular shipper under an agreement to carry such cargo between specified points is a private carrier.[22] Thus, as considered supra § 34, a ship chartered for a special cargo place, by water, and to deliver them at the place appointed, for hire or reward, and with or without a special agreement as to price—Carpenter v Baltimore, etc, R Co, 64 A 252, 22 Del. 15—Pennewill v. Cullen, 5 Del 238—McHenry v. Philadelphia, etc, R. Co., 4 Del. 448

(2) One who makes it a business to transport goods by water for hire, and holds himself ready to carry them for all persons who apply and pay the hire—The Huntress, D C Me, 12 F Cas.No.6,914, 2 Ware 89, 92.

(3) Any person undertaking to carry goods by water for all persons indifferently.—Alexander v. Greene, 7 Hill, N.Y, 533

(4) One who undertakes, for a reward, to convey produce, or goods of any sort, from any place on the river to another—Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg, Tenn., 340, 342, 27 Am.D. 515—Craig v Childress, Peck, Tenn, 270, 14 Am.D. 751.

6. Pa—Nicollette Lumber Co. v. Peoples Coal Co., 26 Pa.Super 575, reversed on other grounds 62 A. 1060, 213 Pa 379, 110 Am S R 550, 3 L.R.A,N S, 327.

7. U.S—Liverpool, etc, Steam Co v Phenix Ins. Co, N Y., 9 S.Ct 469, 129 U S 397, 32 L Ed. 788
58 C J p 340 note 91.

8. Ala—Tennessee River Nav. Co v Walls, 92 So 202, 18 Ala App. 305.
58 C.J p 340 note 92

Carriers of bank bills

A steamboat company, or the members thereof, who by their act of incorporation are made individually liable as common carriers, incorporated for the transportation of goods, wares, and merchandise, are not common carriers of packages of bank bills, unless it is shown that they have made the carriage of such packages a part of their ordinary business.—Sewall v. Allen, 6 Wend., N Y, 335.

Regular trips between same points

In order to make the owner of a vessel a common carrier it is not essential that the trips should be regular between the same points, but it is enough if he is engaged in carrying for others generally to and from any point.

Del.—Pennewill v. Cullen, 5 Del. 238
Mo—Campbell v A. B C. Storage, etc, Co, 174 S.W 140, 187 Mo App 565

Transportation beyond regular trip

Where a common carrier by water agreed to carry to a point beyond its regular trip, it was a common carrier as to the additional transportation—Tuckerman v. Stephens, etc, Transp Co, 32 N.J Law 320.

9. U S—The Vermont, D.C.N.Y, 47 F Supp 877—The Ella Pierce Thurlow, D C N Y., 300 F. 103, affirmed, C C A, Drisko v. Barber S. S Lines, 300 F. 106.

10. U.S—Continental Ins Co. v Anchor Line, D C N.Y., 53 F.2d 1032—The Point Brava, D C Cal, 1 F Supp 366.
58 C J p 340 note 93

Test of whether one is "common carrier" by water is whether he holds out, expressly or by a course of conduct, that he would carry for hire, as long as he has room, goods of all persons indifferently The test is not whether he is carrying as a public employment or whether he carries to a fixed place—North American Accident Ins. Co v Pitts, 104 So. 21, 213 Ala 102, 40 A L R. 1171—Georgia Life Ins Co v. Easter, 66 So. 514, 189 Ala 478, L.R.A.1915C 456

11. U S.—Liverpool, etc, Steam Co v Phenix Ins. Co, N Y., 9 S.Ct 469, 129 U S 397, 32 L.Ed. 788.
58 C J p 340 note 94.

12. U S—The Vermont, D C.N Y., 47 F Supp. 877.

13. Ala.—Tennessee River Nav Co v. Walls, 92 So. 202, 18 Ala.App 305.
58 C J. p 340 note 95
Ferry as common carrier of goods see Ferries § 28 b.

14. U S.—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co, C C A.N Y., 31 F 2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S Ct. 16, 280 U S. 555, 74 L Ed. 611

15. U.S.—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co, supra.

16. U S.—Crosby v Grinnell, D.C.N Y, 6 F.Cas No 3,422.

17. U.S—The Vermont, D.C N Y, 47 F Supp. 877—The Point Brava, D C Cal., 1 F Supp. 366
Mass—Goodman v. New York, N H & H R Co, 3 N E 2d 777, 295 Mass. 330, 106 A L.R. 1151
N Y—New York Lumber Trade Ass'n v. Lacey, 277 N Y S 519, 154 Misc 747, reversed on other grounds 281 N.Y.S. 647, 245 App.Div. 262, affirmed 199 N E 688, 269 N Y. 595, amended 200 N E 54, 269 N Y. 277, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 954, 298 U S. 684, 80 L.Ed 1404.
58 C J p 340 note 99.
Tugboats as common carriers see the C J.S title Towage § 13, also 63 C J. p 19 note 19–p 20 note 22.

18. N Y—Arnold v. Habenbake, 5 Wend 33
Vt—Spencer v Daggett, 2 Vt. 92.

19. U S—Brower v. The Water Witch, C C N Y, 4 F.Cas No 1,971, 19 How Pr 241, affirmed 1 Black 494, 17 L Ed. 155.

20. N Y—Allen v Sewall, 2 Wend 327.

21. U S—Mackey v. U S, D.C N Y, 83 F Supp. 14, affirmed, C.A., 197 F. 2d 241—The T A. Goddard, D.C.N Y., 12 F. 174.
N.Y.—Robinson v. Chittenden, 69 N Y. 525.
58 C J. p 340 note 7.

22. U.S—The Monarch of Nassau, C C.A.Fla., 155 F 2d 48—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C.C A N.Y., 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S Ct 25, 302 U.S. 706, 82 L Ed 545—The W. H. Davis, D C N.Y., 56 F.Supp 564—The Dan, D.C.N.Y., 40 F. 691—Hart v Leach, D.C Md, 21 F. 77—Sumner v. Caswell, D.C.N.Y., 20 F. 249.
Mo.—Osage Tie & Timber Co v. Gorg-Murphy Timber & Grain Co, App., 191 S.W. 1026.
10 C J. p 38 note 17 [e].

Owner of barge was bailee of cargo.—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co., D C.N.J., 90 F.Supp. 953, affirmed, C.A., 185 F.2d 675.

or to a special person is not a common carrier, unless a part of the ship is available to the public.

Ownership and control of the vessel are not essential in order to constitute one a common carrier by water.[23] An express company, considered generally in Carriers § 7, may be a common carrier by water although it does not own or control the vessel in which it forwards the goods intrusted to it for transportation.[24]

Lightermen and hoymen may be common carriers.[25]

Marine carrier. Under some statutes the term "marine carrier" is applied to carriers plying on the ocean, arms of the sea, the Great Lakes, and other navigable waters within the jurisdiction of the United States.[26]

Canal maintained by state. A state, which constructed, equipped, and maintains a barge canal for public use, furnishing it to common carriers by water without charge, is not a common carrier of commerce, intra-state or interstate.[27]

The term "carriage" includes the ability to lift a cargo and hold it afloat, and does not necessarily involve any translation of the vessel from one place to another.[28]

§ 102. Duty to Receive and Transport Property and Provide Facilities

As a general rule, a common carrier by water is under a duty to receive goods which it is able and accustomed to carry, within the limits of its facilities, and to carry and transport them for just compensation without unreasonable delay.

Both under the common law and under statute, the obligation of a common carrier by water is to receive goods which it is able and accustomed to carry, in the order of their tender,[29] without preference to any shipper,[30] and to carry and transport them for just compensation[31] over its regular route,[32] without unreasonable delay.[33] Such duty arises out of the relationship which the carrier sustains to the public,[34] and is imposed by law for the common good,[35] and is independent of any special contract.[36] While a steamboat leaving its terminal with a full cargo is not required to overload by taking additional freight tendered at lower landings,[37] on finding such freight at the lower landings, with notice that it will remain there for transportation, it is its duty to take such freight in its turn, and not to place itself with reference to subsequent consignments so as to render itself unable within a reasonable time to accept and transport the freight tendered at such lower landings.[38] Although a common carrier by water is not bound to inquire into the nature of the goods,[39] it may select the character of the goods it proposes to carry,[40] or discontinue to carry a particular class,[41] and it may voluntarily cease to do business as a common carrier and engage in the business of a special carrier;[42] but as long as it operates as a common carrier it cannot reject goods which it professes to carry and thereafter receive other goods where at the time of tender there is room in the vessel for the goods and the vessel's safety will in no way be imperiled.[43]

Embargo. A steamship company has been held to have the right to establish an embargo on shipments if the circumstances warrant it,[44] and the necessity for placing it is to be determined in the first instance by the steamship company.[45]

23. N.Y.—Spitzer v. Puerto Rican Express Co., 183 N.Y.S. 19, 112 Misc. 453.

24. N.Y.—Spitzer v. Puerto Rican Express Co., supra.

25. Ga.—Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am.D. 393.

26. Black L.D.

27. N.Y.—People ex rel. New York Cent. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 191 N.Y.S. 636, 198 App.Div. 436, affirmed 134 N.E. 590, 232 N.Y. 606, certiorari denied Public Service Commission of State of New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 42 S.Ct. 314, 258 U.S. 621, 66 L.Ed. 795.

28. U.S.—The Jungshoved, D.C.N.Y., 272 F. 122, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 290 F. 733, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 35, 263 U.S. 707, 68 L.Ed. 517.

29. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C. Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593.
58 C.J. p. 341 note 22.

30. Ga.—Ocean S.S. Co. v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co., 63 S.E. 577, 131 Ga. 831, 127 Am.S.R. 265, 20 L.R.A.,N.S., 867, 15 Ann.Cas. 1044.
58 C.J. p. 341 note 22.
Discrimination see infra § 104.

31. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C. Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593.

32. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, supra. Ala.—Tennessee River Nav. Co. v. Walls, 92 So. 202, 18 Ala.App. 305.

33. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C. Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593.

34. U.S.—The Henry W. Breyer, D.C. Md., 17 F.2d 423.

35. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C. Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593.

36. U.S.—The Henry W. Breyer, D.C. Md., 17 F.2d 423.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C.Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593.

37. Ala.—Tennessee River Nav. Co. v. Walls, 92 So. 202, 18 Ala.App. 305.

38. Ala.—Tennessee River Nav. Co. v. Walls, supra.

39. U.S.—The Buenos Aires, D.C.N.Y., 46 F.2d 693.

40. Ga.—Ocean S.S. Co. v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co., 63 S.E. 577, 131 Ga. 831, 20 L.R.A.,N.S., 867.

41. Ga.—Ocean S.S. Co. v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co., supra.

42. Ga.—Ocean S.S. Co. v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co., supra.

43. Ga.—Ocean S.S. Co. v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co., supra.

44. U.S.—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., D.C.Minn., 56 F.Supp. 585.

45. U.S.—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., supra.

Discontinuance of service. The obligation of a common carrier by water to continue the operation of its lines is not imposed by any principle of the common law.[46] The provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act have been held to impose no obligation to continue service,[47] since the requirement as to obtaining from the interstate commerce commission, before abandonment, of a certificate that present or future public convenience and necessity permit such abandonment applies only to lines of railroad;[48] and if the charter of such carrier or any other law of the state under whose laws such carrier was incorporated does not forbid a discontinuance of service, such carrier may properly discontinue.[49]

Receipt of goods as forwarder. A common carrier to whom, as such, goods are tendered for transportation, cannot, without the shipper's knowledge and consent, receive them as a forwarder merely.[50]

Duty to provide facilities. Although it has been said that there is no difference between a land and a water carrier,[51] there is a marked and well defined difference between a company operating boats on waters open to the free navigation of all crafts desiring to engage in serving the public and a railroad company granted certain powers under its charter, and serving exclusively a certain territory.[52] In the one case, the railroad must furnish sufficient facilities for the reasonably prompt transportation of goods tendered for carriage, as considered in Carriers § 35, and Railroads § 390, while a steamboat is required to accept shipments tendered only up to its ability to transport.[53] Thus, a navigation company, whose charter confers no power of eminent domain, nor imposes any public duties, is not a public or quasi-public corporation,[54] and is not bound to provide sufficient facilities to carry all goods offered, but may decline to receive goods in excess of its transportation facilities.[55] So it may withdraw one or more of its ships and reduce its carrying capacity,[56] although, at the time of making the reduction, it did not have sufficient carrying capacity to take all the freight offered.[57]

§ 103. Statutory Regulation Generally

a. In general
b. Freight rates
c. Regulatory bodies; their powers and proceedings

a. In General

The carriage of goods by water in interstate and foreign commerce is subject to regulation under various federal statutes.

The federal Transportation Act of 1940, 49 U.S C.A. §§ 901–923, together with the prior statutes,

Enforcement of embargo

Where a steamship company was forced to declare an embargo on shipping due to storms, and refused to accept any shipments for delivery and the embargo affected all shippers, no unfair enforcement of embargo was shown.—Holt Motor Co v Nicholson Universal S. S. Co, supra.

Exercise of due diligence

Where a steamship company, which agreed to transport five hundred automobiles from Detroit to Duluth between Nov. 7 and the 26, declared an embargo on shipping on Nov 13, because of storms, but transported all automobiles accepted for shipment prior to that time and made only three shipments following that date to the close of the season but established no regular service, and all boats were loaded to capacity, due diligence in attempting to move the automobiles was shown —Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S Co, supra.

Applicability of tariff provision

Tariff provision that shipments would be accepted from March 20 to Nov. 15 of each year, and from the later date until date announced by supplements to the tariff, referred to normal operations of a Great Lakes carrier and did not pertain to situation which exists as to the service afforded by carrier when an embargo has been declared —Holt Motor Co v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., supra

46. U S.—Lucking v. Detroit, etc, Nav. Co, Mich, 44 S Ct 504, 265 U S. 346, 68 L.Ed. 1047—McCormick S S. Co. v. U. S., D C Cal., 16 F Supp 45.
Obligation to continue service implied in contract see infra § 106

47. U.S —Lucking v. Detroit, etc, Nav. Co., Mich , 44 S.Ct. 504, 265 U S 346, 68 L Ed. 1047.

Power to compel continuance

Department of commerce was without power to compel steamship company to continue through service to two shallow-water ports pursuant to arrangement with barge carrier, on ground that such ports would be subjected to unreasonable disadvantage if rates and service thus established were discontinued —McCormick S. S Co v. U. S., D C Cal , 16 F.Supp. 45.

48. U.S.—Lucking v. Detroit, etc, Nav. Co., Mich, 44 S Ct. 504, 265 U S 346, 68 L Ed. 1047.

49. U.S.—Lucking v. Detroit, etc, Nav. Co., supra—McCormick S. S. Co. v. U. S., D C Cal, 16 F.Supp 45.

50. Mo —Mellier v. St. Louis, etc, Transp. Co, 14 Mo.App. 281.

51. Conn —Hale v. N J. Steam Nav Co., 15 Conn. 539, 39 Am D. 398
N Y —Elliott v. Rossell, 10 Johns 1, 6 Am D. 306.

52. Ala —Tennessee River Nav. Co v Walls, 92 So. 202, 18 Ala.App 305.

53. Ala —Tennessee River Nav. Co. v Walls, supra.
Ga.—Ocean SS. Co v Savannah Locomotive Works, etc, Co, 63 S E 577, 131 Ga 831, 127 Am S R 265, 20 L R A ,N S., 867, 15 Ann Cas. 1044.

54. Ga.—Merchants', etc., Transp. Co. v. Dixon, 82 S E. 141, 141 Ga 762—Ocean SS. Co. v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc, Co, 63 S E 577, 131 Ga. 831, 127 Am S.R 265, 20 L.R A.,N S., 867, 15 Ann.Cas 1044.

55. Ga.—Ocean SS. Co. v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co, supra.
58 C.J p 342 note 41.

56. Ga.—Merchants', etc, Transp. Co. v. Dixon, 82 S.E. 141, 141 Ga. 762.

57. Ga.—Merchants', etc., Transp. Co. v. Dixon, supra.

was intended to provide a completely integrated interstate regulatory system over motor, railroad, and water carriers,[58] and the field has been held to be entirely occupied by federal legislation and regulations.[59] Apart from the changes effected by the Transportation Act of 1940, the scheme created by the Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C.A. §§ 801–842, for the regulation of rates and practices of ocean carriers is, in its essential features, the same as that prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Act in the corresponding field for land carriers,[60] and should have a like interpretation, application, and effect in its own field,[61] unless something peculiar in the question under consideration, or dissimilarity in the terms of the act relating thereto, requires a different conclusion.[62] The Shipping Act cannot be deemed an exclusive enactment with respect to the regulation of common carriers by water in interstate commerce to the exclusion of the general Interstate Commerce Act.[63]

Statutes enacted to prevent fraud will not be construed to work fraud between shipper and shipowner.[64]

Shipment of explosives. The former federal statutes, making it a misdemeanor to pack or put up for shipment, or knowingly to ship or attempt to ship on vessels any gunpowder, etc., unless packed and marked as required by law, were enacted by congress in the exercise of its constitutional power to regulate foreign and interstate commerce,[65] and were applicable only to shipments on vessels engaged in such commerce.[66] The statutes applied to shipments on foreign private steam vessels carrying passengers from ports of the United States to any other place or country,[67] and the provisions of such sections as to gunpowder included metallic cartridges containing gunpowder.[68]

Persons subject to statute Only such persons as come within the terms of the Shipping Act are subject to, or come within the coverage of, its provisions.[69] As used in the act, "shipper" means the owner or person for whose account the carriage of goods is undertaken.[70] Independent freight forwarders for transshipment of goods in foreign commerce, acting as agents of shippers and assuming no responsibility for the transportation of the goods, are within its coverage as "other persons."[71]

58. U.S.—U. S. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., N.J., 65 S.Ct. 471, 323 U.S. 612, 89 L.Ed. 499

Regulation of water carriers in interstate commerce see Commerce § 2 et seq.

59. Wash.—Luckenbach S. S. Co. v. Denney, 278 P. 419, 152 Wash. 548

60. U.S.—Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Territory of Hawaii, by Public Utilities Commission of Hawaii, Hawaii, 59 S.Ct. 202, 305 U.S. 306, 83 L.Ed. 189—U. S. Navigation Co. v. Cunard S. S. Co., N.Y., 52 S.Ct. 247, 284 U.S. 474, 76 L.Ed. 408—S. L. Shepard & Co. v. Agwilines, Inc., D.C.S.C., 39 F.Supp. 528, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 130 F.2d 67

Regulation of vessels generally see supra §§ 2–12.

61. U.S.—Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Territory of Hawaii, by Public Utilities Commission of Hawaii, Hawaii, 59 S.Ct. 202, 305 U.S. 306, 83 L.Ed. 189—U. S. Navigation Co. v. Cunard S. S. Co., N.Y., 52 S.Ct. 247, 284 U.S. 474, 76 L.Ed. 408—Prince Line, Ltd. v. American Paper Exports, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.2d 242, affirmed, C.C.A., 55 F.2d 1053—S. L. Shepard & Co. v. Agwilines, Inc., D.C.S.C., 39 F.Supp. 528, 531, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 130 F.2d 67.

Identical provisions of both acts are construed alike.—Sands v. Calmar S. S. Corp., 296 N.Y.S. 590, 163 Misc. 757.

62. U.S.—U. S. Navigation Co. v. Cunard S. S. Co., N.Y., 52 S.Ct. 247, 284 U.S. 474, 76 L.Ed. 408.

63. N.Y.—South, etc., American Commercial Co. v. Panama R. Co., 199 N.Y.S. 92, 205 App.Div. 123, affirmed 142 N.E. 666, 237 N.Y. 287.

64. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Société De Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.

58 C.J. p. 342 note 53.

65. U.S.—U. S. v. Giordani, C.C.N.Y., 163 F. 772

58 C.J. p. 342 note 56.

66. U.S.—U. S. v. Giordani, supra

67. U.S.—U. S. v. Giordani, supra.

68. U.S.—U. S. v. Giordani, supra

69. Enumeration as not exclusive

Under the provisions of the Shipping Act that the term "person" includes corporations, partners, and associations existing under the laws of the United States, or any state, territory, district or possession thereof or of any foreign country, the statutory enumeration of the entities falling within the term is not exclusive.—State of California v. U. S., D.C. Cal., 46 F.Supp. 474, affirmed 64 S.Ct. 352, 320 U.S. 577, 88 L.Ed. 322, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 516, 321 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 1089, and City of Oakland v. U. S., 64 S.Ct. 516, 321 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 1089.

70. U.S.—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 31 F.2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 16, 280 U.S. 555, 74 L.Ed. 611.

71. U.S.—U. S. v. American Union Transport, N.Y., 66 S.Ct. 644, 327 U.S. 437, 90 L.Ed. 772.

Reason for rule

(1) Under the provision that the term "other person" subject to this Act means any person not included in the term "common carrier by water" carrying on business of forwarding in connection with a common carrier by water, the words "in connection with" do not limit coverage to forwarders actually affiliated with a common carrier.—U. S. v. American Union Transport, supra

(2) The design of the Shipping Act providing the term "other person subject to this Act" means any person not included in term common carrier by water carrying on business of forwarding in connection with a common carrier by water was not merely by indirection to forbid carriers or their affiliates to act as forwarders. The act is designed not only to prevent evasion of regulations by carrier through denying them immunity when they hide behind forwarders, but it also denies immunity to forwarders themselves when they commit acts or practices which carriers and others subject to the Act are forbidden to perform.—U. S. v. American Union Transport, supra.

Receipt of brokerage pursuant to a carrier's filed tariffs does not prove that the forwarder who receives it

Violation of Harter Act. The section of the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 194, imposing a penalty for violation of provisions regulating contractual stipulations and refusal on demand to issue the bill of lading provided for is a criminal statute[72] subjecting violators to prosecution by indictment;[73] but a suit for the penalty will only lie for the person injured.[74]

Excessive fines and penalties awarded against vessels or their owners for violation of regulatory statutes will not be sustained on appeal.[75]

b. Freight Rates

The federal statutes regulating rates and charges by common carriers by water in interstate commerce have been held to be full and complete, and to constitute the only remedy provided by law for such purpose.

In the absence of federal regulation, the reasonableness of rates for the carriage of goods by water, moving wholly in foreign commerce, is governed and controlled by common-law principles.[76] The Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C.A. §§ 801–842, and the Intercoastal Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C.A. §§ 843–848, providing means and processes for the adjustment of all rates, fares, and charges by common carriers by water in interstate commerce, have been held to be full and complete, and to constitute the only remedy provided by law for such purpose.[77] The provision of the Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 816, that every common carrier by water shall establish, observe, and enforce just and reasonable regulations and practices relating to, or connected with, the receiving, handling, storing, or delivery of property does not forbid the separation by a steamship company of a freight charge into some of its component elements, at least if the tariff clearly so provides.[78]

Filing rate schedules. Under the Intercoastal Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C.A. §§ 844, 845 b, providing that every common carrier by water in intercoastal and interstate commerce must file and keep open to public inspection schedules showing all the rates, fares, and charges for, or in connection with, transportation between intercoastal points on its own route, and, if a through route has been established, all the rates, fares, and charges for, and in connection with, transportation between intercoastal points on its own route and points on the route of any other carrier by water, no carrier may engage in transportation on routes as to which the required schedules are not filed.[79] The provision of the Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 817, requiring common carriers by water in interstate commerce to file schedules of their maximum rates applies to ocean carriers.[80] A common carrier by water may properly be ordered to file a schedule of its rates actually charged.[81] On due abandonment of a particular route by a carrier the schedule of rates filed with respect thereto may be withdrawn.[82] carries on the business of "forwarding in connection with the carriers" within the Shipping Act.—American Union Transport v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 55 F.Supp. 682, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 644, 327 U.S. 437, 90 L.Ed. 772.

72. U.S.—U. S. v. Cobb, D.C.Md., 163 F. 791.

73. U.S.—U. S. v. Cobb, supra. 58 C.J. p. 342 note 62.

74. U.S.—The Minnehaha, D.C.N.Y., 114 F. 672

Qui tam action would lie to collect the penalty.—U. S. v. James W. Elwell & Co., N.Y., 250 F. 939, 163 C.C.A. 189, certiorari denied Jones v. U. S. ex rel. Pressprich & Son Co., 39 S.Ct. 8, 248 U.S. 564, 63 L.Ed. 423

75. U.S.—U. S. v. Elwell, 250 F. 939, 163 C.C.A. 189, certiorari denied Jones v. U. S. ex rel. Pressprich & Son Co., 39 S.Ct. 8, 248 U.S. 564, 63 L.Ed. 423.
58 C.J. p. 342 note 64.

76. U.S.—Oliphant v. Florida East Coast Car Ferry Co., D.C.Fla., 4 F. Supp. 288.
Power of congress and the states to regulate rates for water transportation in interstate or intra-state commerce generally see Commerce § 91 c.

77. Alaska.—City of Nome v. Lomen Commercial Co., 10 Alaska 114.

Keeping of books
Territorial statute requiring persons supplying city with lighterage service to keep books of account open to inspection by the mayor and city council was not intended to regulate common carriers by water in interstate commerce as defined in federal statutes relating to such carriers.—City of Nome v. Lomen Commercial Co., supra

Regulation by city
A carrier which is a common carrier by water in interstate commerce within statutes which require such a carrier to file its schedules of rates with a federal commission is not subject to rate regulation by a city.—City of Nome v. Lomen Commercial Co., supra.

In Hawaii, the public utilities commission was held to have no jurisdiction to regulate the rates of common carriers by water for transporting property from port to port in the Territory, because such jurisdiction was vested in the federal administrative body.—In the Matter of the Investigation of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., 24 Hawaii 136.

78. U.S.—Sun-Maid Raisin Growers Ass'n v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 33 F.Supp. 959, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 830, 312 U.S. 667, 85 L.Ed. 1111, rehearing denied 61 S.Ct. 940, 313 U.S. 598, 85 L.Ed. 1551.

79. U.S.—McCormick S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 16 F.Supp. 45.

80. U.S.—U. S. Navigation Co., Inc. v. Cunard SS. Co., Ltd., D.C.N.Y., 39 F.2d 204, affirmed, C.C.A., 50 F.2d 83, affirmed 52 S.Ct. 247, 284 U.S. 474, 76 L.Ed. 408.—U. S. v. Munson SS. Line, C.C.A.Md., 37 F.2d 681, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 360, 283 U.S. 43, 75 L.Ed. 830.

81. U.S.—Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 14 F.Supp. 407, affirmed 57 S.Ct. 407, 300 U.S. 139, 81 L.Ed. 562.

82. U.S.—McCormick S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 16 F.Supp. 45.

Compelling continuance of schedule
(1) Department of commerce was held not entitled to compel steamship company to continue prior schedules for through rates to two shallow-water ports on ground that steamship company had no intention of discontinuing through service to such ports, where company's proposal to withdraw all schedules of rates to such Carrier conference agreements as to rates, filed with, and approved by, the proper federal administrative agency under the Shipping Act, 46 U.S. C.A. § 814, become the tariff for the regulation of freight, and for some purposes have the force of law.[83]

c. Regulatory Bodies; Their Powers and Proceedings

(1) In general
(2) Proceedings before regulatory body
(3) Proceedings to enforce, suspend, set aside, or enjoin orders

(1) In General

Under the federal statutes the Maritime Board possesses a primary jurisdiction to pass on prohibited or unlawful acts of carriers by water in interstate or foreign commerce.

Except in so far as the functions of the federal Maritime Board have been conferred on the Interstate Commerce Commission by the enactment of the Transportation Act of 1940, 49 U.S.C.A. §§ 901–923, the functions and authority of the board under the Shipping Act, 46 U.S C.A. §§ 801–842, are, in substance, the same as the functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission under the Interstate Commerce Act.[84] Accordingly, the board possesses a primary jurisdiction to pass on prohibited or unlawful acts of carriers by water in interstate or foreign commerce.[85] The board has power to prevent or prohibit acts detrimental to commerce,[86] such as carrier conference agreements prohibiting the payment of brokerage to freight forwarders by marine shippers.[87] Also, the board has power to investigate violations of the act on a sworn complaint or in proceedings instituted on its own motion,[88] and to make such orders thereon, after a full hearing, as it deems proper.[89] Only such persons as are within the coverage of the Shipping Act come within the jurisdiction of the board.[90] ports showed contrary intent—McCormick S S. Co. v U. S, supra

(2) Existence of contract between steamship company and barge company for through intercoastal carriage to two shallow-water ports was held not to justify department of commerce in compelling steamship company to continue prior schedules for joint rate service to such ports which company sought to discontinue, where contract concerned only "terminal rates" and not "joint rates" —McCormick S. S Co v U. S., supra.

83. U.S—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, C C.A.N.Y., 55 F. 2d 1053.
N Y—Black Diamond S S. Corporation v. S H. Kress & Co, 284 N.Y. S 310, 157 Misc 360.

84. U S—U. S Navigation Co, Inc v Cunard SS Co, Ltd, D.C N Y, 39 F.2d 204, affirmed, C C A., 50 F. 2d 83, affirmed 52 S Ct 247, 284 U S 474, 76 L Ed 408—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S Co., D C Minn, 56 F Supp 585
Jurisdiction and authority of Interstate Commerce Commission see Commerce §§ 141–148.

Transfer of functions

(1) The United States Shipping Board was created by the Shipping Act 1916, § 3 Through various steps its functions have come to the federal Maritime Board—Far East Conference v. U. S, N J., 72 S Ct 492, 342 U.S. 570, 96 L Ed. —— —— Pacific Westbound Conference v. U S., D C Cal, 94 F Supp. 649—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America & Mexico Conference v. U. S., D.C. N Y., 94 F.Supp. 138.

(2) Transfer of former functions of United States Shipping Board to Department of Commerce by executive order of the president under Reorganization Act was held legal and effective to confer on Secretary of Commerce all regulatory powers conferred by statute on the board—Swayne & Hoyt v. U. S, D C D C., 18 F Supp 25, affirmed 57 S Ct. 478, 300 U.S. 297, 81 L Ed. 659.

(3) Such transfer was held not invalid on ground that it was not authorized by statute permitting such transfers, where congress ratified transfer by appropriation acts and by statute stating that functions of former Shipping Board were vested in Department of Commerce pursuant to executive order—Isbrandtsen-Moller Co v. U. S., N Y, 57 S.Ct. 407, 300 U S. 139, 81 L.Ed 562.

85. U S—U. S. Navigation Co. v Cunard S. S Co, N Y, 52 S.Ct. 247, 284 U.S. 474, 76 L Ed 408

Monopolistic agreements between carriers

Failure of contracting ocean carriers to file alleged monopolistic agreement with Shipping Board does not deprive board of primary original jurisdiction to consider such agreement and disapprove, cancel, or modify it—U S Navigation Co. v. Cunard S S. Co, supra

86. U S.—Pacific Westbound Conference v U. S, D.C Cal, 94 F 649—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America & Mexico Conference (No 2743) v. U. S., D C N.Y., 94 F.Supp 138.

87. U S—Pacific Westbound Conference v. U. S., D C Cal, 94 F Supp. 649—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America & Mexico Conference (No. 2743) v. U. S., D.C.N. Y., 94 F Supp. 138.

88. U.S—Isthmian S S. Co. v. U. S, D C.N.Y, 53 F 2d 251.

Matters considered

(1) In proceeding before the United States Maritime Commission to determine legality of provisions of conference agreements against payment of brokerage to freight forwarders by marine shippers, evidence relating to foreign forwarding and carrying industries as a whole could be used as basis for findings and order affecting individual shippers, and it was not necessary to consider evidence relating to specific conferences of both shippers—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America and Mexico Conference (No 2743) v. U. S, D C N.Y., 94 F Supp. 138

(2) In such case, the commission could make rational inferences from experience of other segments of the industry and apply them to segments immediately involved—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America and Mexico Conference (No. 2743) v. U. S., supra.

89. U S—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America and Mexico Conference (No. 2743) v. U. S, supra.

90. U S.—U. S. v American Union Transport, N Y, 66 S Ct. 644, 327 U S. 437, 90 L Ed. 772

Independent forwarders of freight for transshipment in foreign commerce, acting as agents of the shipper and assuming no responsibility for the transportation of goods, are subject to the jurisdiction of the commission.—U. S. v. American Union Transport, supra.

Compelling filing of records. The Shipping Act authorizes the board to require a carrier or other person subject to the act to file records relating to the business of such carrier or person.[91]

State or territorial bodies. Under appropriate statutory provisions a state regulatory body may secure an injunction to prevent further violations of the law or the orders of the commission by local carriers by water.[92] The Public Utilities Commission of the Territory of Hawaii has been held to have jurisdiction to investigate the rates, classifications, acts, omissions, and practices of a carrier by water organized and existing in, and, under the laws of, Hawaii, and engaged in transporting freight between ports within the Territory [93]

(2) Proceedings before Regulatory Body

Proceedings involving violations of the Shipping Act may be instituted before the Maritime Board by complaint of one interested or injured, or on the board's own motion.

The Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 821, makes provision for the filing of complaints with the federal administrative body with respect to violations of the act,[94] and the Maritime Board may undertake such proceedings on its own motion [95] The administrative remedy must be exhausted before resort is had to the courts.[96] Prior resort to the board in matters within its jurisdiction is not excused because of another decision of such board in a similar case but not involving the same parties,[97] particularly where involved questions of fact must be determined and given effect.[98]

Parties. Any person may be a complainant in a proceeding attacking a violation of the act, although not directly affected by such violation.[99] In such a proceeding against a carrier, other carriers who are not necessary to the making of an order against the carrier complained of need not be joined as parties.[1] Where the party complained of in the complaint has been reorganized as a new corpora-

91. U S —Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v U. S , N Y., 57 S Ct. 407, 300 U S. 139, 81 L Ed 562.

Record of rates previously charged by particular carrier

Order issued by Secretary of Commerce requiring steamship operator, under provision of Shipping Act, to file record of rates previously charged, was not invalid merely because such operator was only carrier required to file such records —Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v U. S., supra.

92. Wash.—State ex rel Department of Public Works v Skagit River Navigation & Trading Co., 45 P. 2d 27, 181 Wash. 642.

Future violations

Department of public works was held not entitled to permanent injunction to restrain river carrier's future departure from published tariff schedules where carrier disclaimed intentional past violations or intent to commit future violations — State ex rel Department of Public Works of Washington v. Skagit River Navigation & Trading Co , supra.

93. Hawaii —Territory v. Inter-Island Steam Nav Co , 32 Hawaii 127

Statutory fees may be exacted from such corporation.—Territory v. Inter-Island Steam Nav Co , supra.

94. U S —Far East Conference v. U. S., 72 S Ct. 492, 342 U S 570, 96 L Ed. —— —Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S., D C N Y., 53 F.2d 251.

Reparation

One injured by a violation of the act may seek reparation before the board —Far East Conference v. U. S., 72 S Ct. 492, 342 U.S. 570, 96 L Ed. —— —Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S , D.C N.Y., 53 F.2d 251.

95. U S.—Isthmian S S. Co v. U. S , supra.

96. U S.—U. S. Navigation Co v. Cunard S S Co , N Y , 52 S Ct 247, 284 U.S 474, 76 L Ed 408

Other remedies superseded

Remedy provided by Shipping Act was held to supersede general jurisdiction of district court to decide matters arising under any law regulating commerce.—Swayne & Hoyt v. Kerr Gifford & Co , D C La , 14 F. Supp 805.

District court should not pass on validity of rate-fixing agreements entered into by members of conference of steamship carriers before United States Maritime Commission, in accordance with its established procedure, has had an opportunity to pass thereon in an adversary proceeding.—Isbrandtsen Co. v. U. S , D. C N.Y , 81 F.Supp 544.

Injunctive relief

(1) Application for interlocutory injunction against owner, charterer, and master of ship on ground that complainants had right of action under Shipping Act would be denied and bill dismissed, where complainants had adequate remedy under Shipping Act, so as to be required to first seek recourse from shipping board.—Swayne & Hoyt v. Kerr Gifford & Co , D C.La., 14 F.Supp. 805.

(2) Steamship owner could not maintain suit to enjoin competitor from operating proposed ships with unreasonably low tariff rates to ruin plaintiff's business, since question involved was within jurisdiction of United States Shipping Board —Wisconsin & Michigan Transp. Co. v Pere Marquette Line Steamers, C.C.A. Wis , 67 F 2d 937.

97. U S —U. S. Navigation Co v Cunard S S Co , N Y., 52 S.Ct. 247, 284 U S. 474, 76 L Ed. 408

Board's dismissal of similar case did not entitle shipowner to maintain injunction suit against competitor where question involved was within shipping board's jurisdiction.—Wisconsin & Michigan Transp. Co. v Pere Marquette Line Steamers, C.C A. Wis., 67 F 2d 937.

98. U S —Roberto Hernandez, Inc , v Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B H, C.C A N.Y , 116 F 2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc , 61 S Ct. 1101, 313 U S. 582, 85 L Ed. 1539

99. U S —Isthmian S S. Co. v. U S , D C.N Y., 53 F 2d 251.

"Person"

Word "person" is defined in the act as including corporations, partnerships, and associations existing under, or authorized by, the laws of the United States, or any state.—Isthmian S S. Co. v. U. S., supra.

Intervention

Action of shipping board in allowing intervention in proceedings to enjoin violations of act by carriers was held not erroneous.—Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S , supra.

United States is "person" within provision of Shipping Act permitting any person to file complaint with Maritime Board for reparations for violations of act —Far East Conference v. U S., N.J., 72 S.Ct. 492, 342 U.S. 570, 96 L Ed ——.

1. U S —Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C N Y , 53 F 2d 251.

tion which, as such corporation, answered the complaint and participated in the proceedings, failure to bring in the new corporation by supplemental petition is not fatal to the proceedings.[2]

Injunctive relief pending proceedings. Pending a decision by the commission on a complaint filed against a carrier seeking to put into effect rate reductions alleged to be unlawful, the court may, in a proper case, enjoin or restrain such carrier from putting the rate reductions into effect.[3]

Orders. A mistake in the designation of the complainant in a cease and desist order of the board is not fatal where no one is prejudiced thereby.[4]

(3) Proceedings to Enforce, Suspend, Set Aside, or Enjoin Orders

Actions to enforce or to annul or enjoin orders of the Maritime Board may be instituted in the federal district courts.

Under the Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C.A. §§ 828, 829, valid orders of the Maritime Board may be enforced by action in the federal district courts.[5] On the other hand, persons aggrieved by orders of the board may sue to set aside, annul, or enjoin them in appropriate proceedings in such courts;[6] it is otherwise as to persons who are not adversely affected by such orders.[7] Orders of the commission will not be set aside on the basis of bare predictions which the commission as an expert body did not foresee.[8] An injunction to restrain an order of the board will not be granted where no irreparable injury to the complainant can result from such order.[9]

Parties. Where the United States has given its consent to be sued and has been made a party to an action to enjoin an order issued by one of its departments, boards, or commissions, such department, board, or commission has no such interest in the suit different from the United States as will make it a proper party.[10] In such a case a government officer who has no connection with, or interest in, the subject matter of the suit is not a proper party.[11]

Scope and extent of review. In actions to enforce or to set aside or enjoin an order of the board, the court's function is to determine whether the order is supported by evidence.[12] Findings of the board are prima facie correct in such an action if

2. U.S.—Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S., supra.

3. U.S.—West India Fruit & S. S. Co. v. Seatrain Lines, C.A.N.Y., 170 F.2d 775, certiorari dismissed 69 S.Ct. 514, 336 U.S. 908, 93 L.Ed. 1072.

Commission as intervener

Where United States Maritime Commission intervened as party plaintiff in action to enjoin steamship company from putting into effect rate reductions pending decision in case before the commission, the district court had power to issue temporary injunction.—West India Fruit & S. S. Co. v. Seatrain Lines, supra.

Discretion of court

In action to enjoin steamship company from putting into effect rate reductions, pending decision in case before the United States Maritime Commission, the trial judge was required, in the exercise of its discretion, to balance the harms the injunction might do to the respective parties in determining whether a temporary injunction should issue, and, in view of statutory provision for award of damages by the commission, issuance of temporary injunction was not an abuse of discretion.—West India Fruit & S. S. Co. v. Seatrain Lines, supra.

4. U.S.—Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 251.

5. "Order," within provision of Shipping Act providing that district court may enforce obedience to order of board by injunction or other proper process, was held order which duly issues after hearing on complaint and answer, or which board issues on its own motion after first having instituted inquiry in matter.—Swayne & Hoyt v. Kerr Gifford & Co., D.C.La., 14 F.Supp. 805.

Orders for payment of money

U.S.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc. v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M.B.H., C.C.A.N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc., 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed. 1539.—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 31 F.2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 16, 280 U.S. 555, 74 L.Ed. 611.

6. U.S.—Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 251.

Orders exceeding statutory authority

The enforcement of orders of the commission which exceed its statutory authority or are otherwise invalid may be restrained by the court in a suit by persons adversely affected thereby.—American Union Transport v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 55 F.Supp. 682, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 644, 327 U.S. 437, 90 L.Ed. 772.

Sufficiency of petition

Allegation in petition to set aside order of shipping board that there was no evidence of prejudicial treatment by carriers was held mere conclusion, where testimony was before court.—Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 251.

7. U.S.—American Union Transport v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 55 F.Supp. 682, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 644, 327 U.S. 437, 90 L.Ed. 772.

8. U.S.—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America & Mexico Conference (No. 2743) v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 94 F.Supp. 138.

9. Penalty for violation of order

Steamship operator did not show irreparable injury entitling it to enjoin order issued on behalf of Shipping Board Bureau of Department of Commerce requiring operator to file rates charged by it, because penalty for disobedience was one hundred dollars per day.—Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 14 F.Supp. 407, affirmed 57 S.Ct. 407, 300 U.S. 139, 81 L.Ed. 562.

10. U.S.—Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. U. S., supra.

11. Bureau director

U.S.—Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. U. S., supra.

District attorney

U.S.—Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. U. S., supra.

12. U.S.—Sun-Maid Raisin Growers Ass'n v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 33 F.Supp. 959, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 830, 312 U.S. 667, 85 L.Ed. 1111, rehearing denied 61 S.Ct. 940, 313 U.S. 598, 85 L.Ed. 1551.

supported by substantial evidence,[13] and, if supported by evidence, will not be interfered with by the court,[14] even though the court might have a different opinion as to the weight of the evidence and come to a different conclusion on the same facts,[15] since the reviewing court is not authorized to substitute its judgment for that of the administrative body,[16] or to decide the question de novo on the evidence submitted to the administrative body.[17]

§ 104. Discrimination

a. In general
b. As to rates and charges
c. Powers and proceedings of regulatory bodies
d. Actions

a. In General

It is unlawful for a common carrier of goods by water to discriminate between shippers.

The obligation of a common carrier by water to serve the public impartially in the receipt and transportation of goods, considered supra § 102, prohibits unjust discrimination,[18] as does the United States Shipping Act,[19] the provisions of which against discriminatory acts apply to a common carrier by water in foreign commerce,[20] notwithstanding the bill of lading issued in a foreign country.[21] The prohibition against discrimination does not inhibit a carrier from granting privileges to shippers provided the privilege is indifferently extended to all.[22] While a contract which discriminates by conferring a preference in violation of the statute is invalid and unenforceable,[23] the mere fact that the carrier might violate the law with respect to preferences does not invalidate the contract if the carrier is not obligated thereby to grant any such preference.[24] Under the Shipping Act, a shipper who is injured as a result of discrimination by the carrier

13. U.S.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc. v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., C.C.A.N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc., 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed. 1539.

Absence of new evidence

Where no new evidence on the subject is introduced by either party at the trial, it is duty of court to accept and give such findings effect.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc., v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., C.C.A.N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc., 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed. 1539.

14. U.S.—Swayne & Hoyt v. U. S., App. D.C., 57 S.Ct. 478, 300 U.S. 297, 81 L.Ed. 650—Booth S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 29 F.Supp. 221.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To sustain finding that activity of freight forwarders had a substantial proximate bearing on development of American maritime commerce and that provision of conference agreements binding steamship companies not to pay brokerage to freight forwarders resulted in detriment to commerce of the United States, and justified order of board requiring such provision to be stricken from agreements.—Pacific Westbound Conference v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 94 F.Supp. 649—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America and Mexico Conference (No. 2743) v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 94 F.Supp. 138.

(2) To support finding that steamship companies' practice of making a separate charge for handling of freight after delivery on dock from point of delivery to ship's tackle, instead of including such handling charge in freight rate, was not an unjust or unreasonable practice in violation of the Shipping Act.—Sun-Maid Raisin Growers Ass'n v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 33 F.Supp. 959, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 830, 312 U.S. 667, 85 L.Ed. 1111, rehearing denied 61 S.Ct. 940, 313 U.S. 598, 85 L.Ed. 1551.

(3) To support findings that differential in rates of carriers by water between shipments under contracts, binding shippers to make all shipments by such carriers, and shipments by noncontract shippers was not necessary to assure stability of service and tended to create a monopoly by excluding competition from new lines.—Swayne & Hoyt v. U. S., App. D.C., 57 S.Ct. 478, 300 U.S. 297, 81 L.Ed. 659.

15. U.S.—Swayne & Hoyt v. U. S., supra—Booth S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 29 F.Supp. 221.

16. U.S.—Sun-Maid Raisin Growers Ass'n v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 33 F.Supp. 959, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 830, 312 U.S. 667, 85 L.Ed. 1111, rehearing denied 61 S.Ct. 940, 313 U.S. 598, 85 L.Ed. 1551.

17. U.S.—Sun-Maid Raisin Growers Ass'n v. U. S., supra.

18. Ga.—Ocean S. S. Co. of Savannah v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co., 63 S.E. 577, 131 Ga. 831, 127 Am.S.R. 265, 20 L.R.A., N.S., 867, 15 Ann.Cas. 1044.
58 C.J. p. 342 note 66.

19. It is unlawful, under the Shipping Act, for any common carrier by water subject to the act to make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, locality, or description of traffic in any respect, or to subject any particular person, locality, or description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect.—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 31 F.2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 16, 280 U.S. 555, 74 L.Ed. 611—Copper River Packing Co. v. Alaska S. S. Co., C.C.A.Cal., 22 F.2d 12—Isbrandtsen Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 96 F.Supp. 883, affirmed A/S. J. Ludwig Mowinckels Rederi v. Isbrandtsen Co., 72 S.Ct. 623, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L.Ed. ——, and Federal Maritime Board v. U. S., 72 S.Ct. 623, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L.Ed. ———State of California v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 46 F.Supp. 474, affirmed 64 S.Ct. 352, 320 U.S. 577, 88 L.Ed. 322, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 516, 321 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 1089, and City of Oakland v. U. S., 64 S.Ct. 516, 321 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 1089.

20. U.S.—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 31 F.2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 16, 280 U.S. 555, 74 L.Ed. 611.

21. U.S.—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co., supra.

22. Ga.—Ocean SS. Co. of Savannah v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co., 63 S.E. 577, 131 Ga. 831, 127 Am.S.R. 265, 20 L.R.A., N.S., 867, 15 Ann.Cas. 1044.
58 C.J. p. 343 note 67.

23. U.S.—Copper River Packing Co. v. Alaska S. S. Co., C.C.A.Cal., 22 F.2d 12.
Tex.—R. L. Heflin, Inc. v. Texas Oceanic S. S. Co., Civ.App., 53 S.W.2d 133, error dismissed.

24. U.S.—Copper River Packing Co. v. Alaska S. S. Co., C.C.A.Cal., 22 F.2d 12.

is entitled to reparations;[25] but reasonable steps to mitigate damages must be taken by the shipper.[26]

b. As to Rates and Charges

The federal statutes prohibit discrimination between shippers with respect to the rates and charges which common carriers by water may fix for their services.

It is unlawful under the federal statutes for a common carrier of goods by water governed thereby to give a preference to any shipper or discriminate between shippers with respect to the rates and charges for its services.[27] Accordingly, it is unlawful for any such carrier directly or indirectly to allow any person to obtain transportation for property at less than its regularly established rates by any unjust or unfair device whatsoever[28] No

"Sole discharge" clause does not invalidate contract.—R. L Heflin, Inc, v Texas Oceanic S S Co, Tex Civ App, 53 S W 2d 133, error dismissed

25. U.S.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc v Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B H, C.C.A N Y., 116 F 2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A, v Roberto Hernandez, Inc, 61 S Ct 1101, 313 U S. 582, 85 L Ed. 1539.

Computation of damages

(1) Damages are not rendered uncertain because they cannot be calculated with absolute exactness, and it is sufficient if reasonable basis for computation is afforded, although result is only approximate.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc, v Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M B. H, D C N Y., 31 F Supp 76, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v Roberto Hernandez, Inc, 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U S. 582, 85 L Ed. 1539.

(2) In computing damages, the carrier whose wrongful conduct and negligence have rendered difficult the estimate of precise damages suffered by plaintiff cannot complain that damages cannot be measured with same exactness as otherwise would be possible—Roberto Hernandez, Inc, v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., D.C N.Y, 31 F Supp. 76, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 116 F 2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc, 61 S Ct. 1101, 313 U S 582, 85 L Ed. 1539.

26. U.S.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc, v Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M B. H, C.C A N Y, 116 F 2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc., 61 S Ct 1101, 313 U S 582, 85 L.Ed 1539.

Availability of other space

(1) An automobile exporter was not precluded from recovering damages from common carriers by water for unjust discrimination in respect to cargo space accommodations accorded exporter because there was space for such shipments during the period of contract on other vessels not going directly to country of importer and that any automobiles so, sent would have been transshipped at same through freight rates where exporter introduced evidence before Maritime Commission that one reason for refusal of carriers to furnish space was the opposition of manufacturers of automobiles, and whether allotment of space generally available in ships not operated by carriers would have been prevented by the same opposition remained an untouched subject—Roberto Hernandez, Inc, v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M B. H., C.C A N.Y., 116 F 2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A v Roberto Hernandez, Inc, 61 S Ct 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L Ed. 1539.

(2) In such a case the exporter was not precluded from recovering damages where it would have broken its contract in delivering automobiles by transshipment by another route, and there was nothing to show that importer would have consented to the change, the route contracted for being a "material" part of exporter's contract—Roberto Hernandez, Inc, v Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H, C.C A N.Y., 116 F. 2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc, 61 S. Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L Ed 1539.

Shipment by other route

An exporter claiming reparations from common carriers by water for unjust discrimination in respect to cargo space accommodations accorded exporter was not precluded from recovering damages for failure to attempt to mitigate damages by requesting importer, who had contracted with exporter for the automobiles, for permission for transshipment by another route, where there was no proof of reasonable ground for belief that such attempt would have been successful, and hence failure to attempt to secure modification could not be held to be a breach of duty to take reasonable steps to avoid or diminish damages.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc, v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M B H, C C.A N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S A v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc., 61 S Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed. 1539.

27. U.S.—Prince Line v American Paper Exports, C C A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 1053—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S S. Co, D C Minn, 56 F Supp. 585.

N.Y.—Sands v. Calmar S. S Corp, 296 N Y S 590, 163 Misc. 757.

Common carrier in foreign commerce

The provisions in the Shipping Act against discriminatory rates apply to a common carrier by water in foreign commerce, notwithstanding the bill of lading was issued in a foreign country—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co, C.C A N.Y., 31 F 2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S Ct. 16, 280 U.S. 555, 74 L Ed 611.

Application to localities

The section of the Shipping Act prohibiting discriminatory rates was held to refer to discrimination between shippers and not to discrimination between localities—State of California v U. S., D C Cal, 46 F. Supp 474, affirmed 64 S Ct. 352, 320 U S 577, 88 L Ed 322, rehearing denied 64 S Ct 516, 321 U S 802, 88 L Ed. 1089, and City of Oakland v U S, 64 S Ct. 516, 321 U S. 802, 88 L Ed 1089.

Discrimination as to commodities

(1) The prohibition against discrimination does not require that charges for all commodities shall be the same—Booth S. S Co. v. U S, D C N.Y, 29 F Supp 221.

(2) However, a cease and desist order by Maritime Commission issued pursuant to authority given it by Shipping Act commanding ship companies to abstain from collecting at port of New York lower pier storage charges for coffee than for other commodities was not illegal as requiring ship companies to establish same pier storage rates for all commodities, since order only condemned preference accorded coffee over all other commodities in pier storage rates—Booth S. S. Co. v. U. S., supra

28. U.S.—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, D.C.N Y., 45 F.2d 242, affirmed, C.C.A., 55 F.2d 1053.

Billing paper without disclosing classification thereof to conceal contents from shipper's competitors, thereby facilitating preference was "unfair device or means" within statute, for it destroyed equality of treatment between shippers—Prince Line v American Paper Exports, C.C.A.N. Y., 55 F.2d 1053.

valid enforceable contract can be made between a carrier and a shipper which fixes a rate constituting an unlawful discrimination,[29] or which is less than those duly filed, established, and approved by the commission,[30] even though the shipper has no knowledge of the established published rates.[31] Any special arrangement between a common carrier and shipper calling for service other than that provided for in the published tariffs and bills of lading is violative of the Shipping Act and unenforceable.[32] A differential, pursuant to a steamship carrier conference, between rates for shippers agreeing to ship exclusively by vessels of conference members and rates for other shippers of the same commodities has been held to be prima facie discriminatory and violative of the Shipping Act.[33]

A carrier who has agreed to accept from a particular shipper less than the rates filed and approved by the board may recover the difference from the shipper.[34] Such an action is not an action for reparations within the provision of the statute requiring preliminary recourse to the commission before resort may be had to the courts.[35]

Rebates. The provision of the Shipping Act prohibiting payment or allowance of a deferred rebate[36]

Complaisance by carrier

Carrier, unless complaisant to unfair means used by a shipper to obtain lower rate, has not violated statute.—Prince Line v American Paper Exports, C C A N Y., 55 F 2d 1053

29. N Y—Belmont Iron Works v Pacific Coast Direct Line, 291 N.Y S 360, 249 App Div 156, motion denied 292 N Y S 960, 249 App.Div. 730, affirmed 11 N E 2d 297, 275 N Y. 461, certiorari denied 58 S Ct. 264, 302 U.S 747, 82 L Ed 577.

Charge above contract rate not recoverable

Shipper was not entitled to recover alleged overcharge under shipping contract which quoted rate by weight, but which omitted by error of shipper's agent to include shipper's option of rate by dimension which option steamer exercised, resulting in greater charge, since if contract were enforced it would result in unlawful discrimination—Belmont Iron Works v Pacific Coast Direct Line, supra.

30. U S.—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, D.C N Y., 45 F 2d 242, affirmed, C C A., 55 F 2d 1053—Holt Motor Co. v Nicholson Universal S. S Co., D C Minn., 56 F Supp 585.

N Y—Sands v Calmar S S. Corp., 296 N.Y S. 590, 163 Misc 757—Black Diamond S. S Corporation v. S H Kress & Co, 284 N Y S. 310, 157 Misc 360.

Exceptions as to government

A steamship corporation's contract to carry goods at rate less than that published in tariff was void under Intercoastal Shipping Act, and hence shipper could not recover for breach thereof, even though shipment was for delivery of goods sold to United States and act permitted rate reductions for government, the benefits of such exception being available only to the United States.—Sands v. Calmar S S. Corp., 296 N Y.S. 590, 163 Misc. 757.

31. N.Y.—Black Diamond S S Corporation v. S. H Kress & Co., 284 N.Y.S. 310, 157 Misc 360.

32. U S.—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co, D C Minn., 56 F.Supp 585—S. L. Shepard & Co v. Agwilines, Inc, D C S.C., 39 F Supp 528, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 130 F 2d 67.

Precooling agreement

Under provision in Shipping Act against common carriers by water discriminating between shippers, shippers seeking recovery for damage to shipment of melons could not rely on alleged breach of agreement to precool space on vessel in which melons were to be put, and to transport them under refrigeration, in absence of provision for such service in the published tariffs or payment of additional compensation therefor.—S L Shepard & Co. v. Agwilines, Inc., supra

Provision as to reservation of space

An alleged contract in which the carrier agreed to transport specified property between specified dates in the future at the regular tariff rate would be invalid under the Intercoastal Shipping Act as imposing a greater obligation on steamship company than the tariff provided and granting a privilege of reservation of space not granted to other shippers doing business with the company as a common carrier.—Holt Motor Co v Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., D C Minn, 56 F.Supp 585.

33. U S—Swayne & Hoyt v. U S, App D C., 57 S Ct. 478, 300 U S 297, 81 L Ed 659—Isbrandtsen Co. v. U. S, D C N.Y., 96 F Supp 883, affirmed A/S J. Ludwig Mowinckels Rederi v Isbrandtsen Co, 72 S Ct 623, 342 U S 950, 96 L Ed. ——, and Federal Maritime Board v. U S, 72 S.Ct 623, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L.Ed. ——.

Practice of group of intercoastal carriers operating lines from the Gulf to the West Coast in granting lower rates to shippers contracting to make all shipments by such lines than to others was held contrary to statute as giving undue preference to shippers entering into such contracts and subjecting gulf territory to unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage resulting from destruction of competition—Swayne & Hoyt v U S, D C D C, 18 F Supp 25, affirmed 57 S Ct 478, 300 U S 297, 81 L Ed. 659.

34. U S—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, D C N.Y., 45 F 2d 242, affirmed, C C.A., 55 F.2d 1053

Shippers are charged with knowledge of rates as filed and approved, for which they become liable if obtaining cheaper transportation by means unfair to competitors—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, C. C A N.Y., 55 F 2d 1053

Notwithstanding carrier's violation of statute, it may recover from shipper amount of preference obtained by shipper by means unfair to competitors.—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, C C.A.N.Y., 55 F 2d 1053

No estoppel

(1) No act or omission of the carrier can estop or preclude it from enforcing payment of the full amount by a shipper liable therefor—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, D. C N.Y., 45 F 2d 242, affirmed, C C A, 55 F.2d 1053.

(2) This is so, although prima facie a carrier could not take advantage of its violation of statute by recovering from shipper amount of preference—Prince Line v American Paper Exports, C C.A N.Y, 55 F 2d 1053.

35. U S.—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, supra.

Necessity for prior complaint to the commission generally see supra § 103 c (2).

36. Carrier's application of excess rate shown on bill of lading over that agreed on sale of cargo, to balance of freight on account of cargo stored, did not operate as rebate or refund within the prohibition.—Ambler v. Bloedel Donovan Lumber Mills, C.C.A Wash, 68 F 2d 268.

Soliciting rebates being an offense under Interstate Commerce Act, a shipper cannot successfully maintain a suit to obtain insurance benefits not covered by the freight rate paid by him, since this amounts to soliciting knowingly a concession by which his shipment was being "transported does not apply to an agreement made or goods shipped before the act went into effect.[37]

c. Powers and Proceedings of Regulatory Bodies

Power to prevent discrimination between shippers has been conferred on the Maritime Board. Persons injured by discrimination may seek reparations in a complaint proceeding before the board.

Under the Shipping Act, the Maritime Board, or similar administrative agency or officer, has power to prevent discrimination between shippers in any respect,[38] including discrimination with respect to rates and charges.[39] Thereunder the administrative body has power to remedy preferences as to rates accorded by a carrier to a shipper by requiring adherence to relative rates.[40] Provision is made in the act for the institution of complaint proceedings before the administrative body for consideration of acts of unlawful discrimination by a carrier.[41] One injured by unlawful discrimination may seek reparations in such a proceeding,[42] and the remedy provided thereby must be first exhausted before resort may be had to the courts.[43] Questions of fact involving extrinsic evidence which arise in claims of discrimination are to be determined by the administrative body,[44] and its findings will be upheld by a reviewing court if there is evidence at a less rate than that named in the tariffs published and filed by such carrier," within the statutory prohibition—Duplan Silk Co v. American, etc, Marine Ins. Co., N.Y., 205 F. 724, 124 C.C.A. 18.

37. N.Y.—Huttlinger v. Royal Dutch West India Mail, 167 N.Y.S. 158, 180 App.Div. 114

"Shall" as used in statute prohibiting rebates indicates the simple future tense—Huttlinger v. Royal Dutch West India Mail, supra.

38. U.S.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc., v Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., C.C.A.N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc, 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed. 1539—State of California v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 46 F.Supp. 474, affirmed 64 S.Ct. 352, 320 U.S. 577, 88 L.Ed. 322, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 516, 321 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 1089, and City of Oakland v. U. S., 64 S.Ct. 516, 321 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 1089.

Unjust discrimination as to cargo space

U.S.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., C.C.A.N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v Robert Hernandez, Inc, 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed 1539.

39. U.S.—Swayne & Hoyt v. U. S., App.D.C., 57 S.Ct. 478, 300 U.S. 297, 81 L.Ed. 659—State of California v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 46 F.Supp. 474, affirmed 64 S.Ct. 352, 320 U.S. 577, 88 L.Ed. 322, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 516, 321 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 1089, and City of Oakland v. U. S., 64 S.Ct. 516, 321 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 1089.

Congressional validation of act of secretary of commerce in finding rates of carriers by water unduly prejudicial, and ordering their cancellation, was held not ineffective because retroactive, where carriers' rights to an administrative hearing and determination and to a judicial review were fully preserved and proceedings were conducted by Secretary in the name of the United States—Swayne & Hoyt v. U. S., App.D.C., 57 S.Ct. 478, 300 U.S. 297, 81 L.Ed. 659

Pier storage charges

U.S.—Booth S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 29 F.Supp. 221

40. U.S.—Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 251.

Differential between carload and split delivery rates

U.S.—Isthmian S. S. Co. v. U. S., supra

41. U.S.—Isbrandtsen Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 96 F.Supp. 883, affirmed A/S J. Ludwig Mowinckels Rederi v. Isbrandtsen Co., 72 S.Ct. 623, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L.Ed. ——, and Federal Maritime Board v. U. S., 72 S.Ct. 623, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L.Ed. ——.

Who may complain

United States Department of Agriculture, as a shipper of agricultural commodities, would have standing to complain of unlawful discrimination between shippers sought to be imposed by members of conference of steamship carriers through agreement requiring shippers to contract to employ conference lines exclusively on pain of being charged higher tariffs upon failure to so contract—Isbrandtsen Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 96 F.Supp. 883, affirmed A/S J. Ludwig Mowinckels Rederi v. Isbrandtsen Co., 72 S.Ct. 623, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L.Ed. ——, and Federal Maritime Board v. U. S., 72 S.Ct. 623, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L.Ed. ——.

42. U.S.—Roberto Hernandez, Inc. v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., C.C.A.N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc., 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed. 1539.

43. U.S.—Robert Hernandez, Inc., v Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., C.C.A.N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v Roberto Hernandez, Inc., 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed 1539

Necessity for prior proceedings before the commission generally see supra § 103 c (2).

Proceedings involving technical knowledge

The United States Maritime Commission was not without jurisdiction of proceeding in which exporter sought reparations from common carriers by water in foreign commerce for unjust discrimination in respect to cargo space accommodations for automobiles to be shipped, on ground that issue was uncomplicated by technical and intricate factual matters which needed action of any expert commission to bring about uniformity in administration and prevent discrimination, where facts called for technical knowledge in solution of problem of deciding whether carriers were guilty of unjustly discriminatory practices in light of the tonnage and manner in which vessels should be loaded with automobiles which were to be shipped uncrated—Roberto Hernandez, Inc., v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., C.C.A.N.Y., 116 F.2d 849, reversing 31 F.Supp. 76, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc, 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U.S. 582, 85 L.Ed. 1539.

44. U.S.—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., D.C.Minn., 56 F.Supp. 585.

Discriminatory effect of embargo

Whether an embargo on shipping declared by steamship company due to a storm produced unjust discrimination among shippers, whether it was fair and reasonable, and whether it should have been continued after the storm abated, were questions of fact for determination by the United States Maritime Commission and not the federal district court—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., supra.

to sustain them.[45] However, the court will not uphold an ultimate determination as to a discrimination which is inconsistent with the findings.[46]

d. Actions

Administrative orders for the payment of reparations to one injured by a discrimination may be enforced by action.

Administrative orders for the payment of damages or reparations resulting from an unlawful discrimination by a carrier may be enforced by action.[47] An action for damages for discrimination may be brought by the consignee of freight, who has paid discriminatory freight charges thereon.[48] Such an action is not in the nature of one to recover an excessive charge under a mistake of law or fact;[49] nor is it an action for an overcharge.[50] Whether charges are reasonable or otherwise[51] and whether certain discriminations were due or undue[52] are questions of fact, to be passed on in the light of all the facts duly alleged and supported by competent evidence. When defendant fails to make answer to the prima facie evidence offered by plaintiff, it is the duty of the court to direct the verdict for plaintiff.[53] The burden of proving a failure to mitigate damages is on the carrier.[54]

§ 105. Damage to Vessel from Loading or Discharging Cargo

a. In general
b. Liability of charterer generally
c. Berth or mooring
d. Actions
e. Damages

a. In General

An owner of a vessel may recover for loss of, or injury to, the vessel caused by the negligence of others in loading, stowing, or discharging cargo, or in mooring or berthing the vessel for such purposes.

An owner of a vessel may recover for loss of, or injury to, a vessel caused by the negligence of others in loading, stowing, or discharging cargo, or in mooring or berthing the vessel for such purposes.[55] A person having the right or duty to load, stow, or discharge the cargo is under a duty to perform such act properly[56] in a reasonably prudent

45. U S—Booth S S Co v U. S., D C N.Y., 29 F.Supp. 221.

46. U.S—Isbrandtsen Co v. U S, D C N.Y., 96 F Supp. 883, affirmed A /S. J Ludwig Mowinckels Rederi v. Isbrandtsen Co, 72 S.Ct 623, 342 U S. 950, 96 L Ed —, and Federal Maritime Board v. U. S, 72 S.Ct 623, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L. Ed. —.

47. U S—Roberto Hernandez, Inc v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M. B. H., C C A N.Y., 116 F. 2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S. A. v. Roberto Hernandez, Inc, 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U S 582, 85 L. Ed. 1539—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co, C.C.A.N Y, 31 F 2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S Ct 16, 280 U. S. 555, 74 L Ed. 611.

48. U S—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co., supra.

49. U.S—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co, supra.

50. U.S—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co, supra.

51. U S—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v American Tobacco Co, supra.

52. U S—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co, supra

53. U.S.—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v American Tobacco Co, supra
58 C J. p 343 note 78.

54. U S—Roberto Hernandez, Inc, v. Arnold Bernstein Schiffahrtsgesellschaft, M B H., C C A N.Y, 116 F 2d 849, certiorari denied Compania Espanola de Navegacion Maritima, S A v Roberto Hernandez, Inc., 61 S.Ct. 1101, 313 U S. 582, 85 L Ed 1539

55. U S—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. American Stevedores, C.C. A N Y, 151 F. 2d 846—The Everett Fowler, C C A N.Y., 151 F 2d 662, motion denied 152 F.2d 657, certiorari denied U S. v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., 66 S. Ct 963, 327 U S. 804, 90 L Ed. 1029, certiorari denied 66 S Ct. 963, 327 U S. 804, 90 L Ed 1029—Gorman Leonard Coal Co v. Peninsular State S. S. Corp, C.C A.Mass., 66 F 2d 83—Florida Gravel Co. v. Tampa Sand & Shell Co., C C A. Fla, 49 F 2d 266—Dempsey v Merrit, Chapman & Scott Corporation, C C A N Y., 10 F.2d 687—O'Brien Bros. v. City of New York, C.C A.N. Y, 9 F 2d 542—Kelly v. Overseas Shipping Co, D.C N.Y, 7 F 2d 732, affirmed, C C.A., 7 F 2d 734—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co, D C.N.J, 90 F.Supp. 953, affirmed, C A., 185 F 2d 675—O'Boyle v. City of New York, D C N.Y, 85 F Supp 858—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp., D.C.N.Y., 68 F.Supp 392, affirmed, C C.A., 162 F.2d 624—The Henry E, D C N Y, 61 F.Supp. 327, affirmed, C C A, 162 F.2d 90—The Wilmer S Nickerson, D.C N Y., 58 F Supp. 777—The Green Leaf, D C N Y, 27 F Supp 911—The McAllister, D C N.Y., 7 F Supp. 470—Donovan v. Frederick Starr Contracting Co, D.C.N.Y., 290 F. 501.

N Y.—Neville v. Morrison Coal & Coke Co., 207 N.Y.S. 471, 211 App Div. 282.

N.C—Pate v. Greenville & R. R. Co, 35 N.C 325.

Loss of, or injury to, cargo from improper loading, stowing, or discharging see infra §§ 141, 142, 146.

Derrick barge used for loading and unloading

U S—Salmons Dredging Corp. v. Herma, C A S C, 180 F.2d 233.

56. U.S—The Scipio, D.C.N.Y., 73 F.Supp. 402.

Duty to stop loading exists when it it is discovered that vessel is in danger—Kelly v. Overseas Shipping Co, D C N.Y., 7 F 2d 732, affirmed, C.C.A., 7 F.2d 734.

Carrying capacity

In determining whether a vessel is loaded properly for purpose of fixing liability for damage resulting from capsizing of vessel, the "carrying capacity" of the vessel, is not the amount necessary to bring her decks awash, but the amount she could carry with safety allowing adequate free board for security against swamping—The S. C. L. No. 9, C.C.A. Pa, 114 F.2d 964.

manner,[57] using reasonable care and skill,[58] and is liable for any damage to the vessel resulting from a failure in this respect.[59] Thus, a person, such as a shipper, using a dangerous method of loading, instead of a safer method available, is liable for the resulting damage to the vessel,[60] and a person will be liable if he loads a vessel under circumstances which he knows, or should know, will place the vessel in a perilous position unless affirmative action is taken to eliminate the peril, and he, knowing or having reason to know that no one else will take such action, fails to take such action himself.[61] The master of the vessel is not bound to do more than protest against the method of loading to recover for the resulting damages,[62] and he is not obliged to interfere with the loading or withdraw the vessel from the charter service,[63] but the owner or the master is bound to use reasonable care to protect the vessel from injury where the danger is reasonably apparent,[64] and, where the damage is caused solely by his negligence, recovery will not be allowed.[65]

Stevedores. A stevedoring company is not an insurer as to the vessel,[66] and the stevedores loading or discharging the vessel are liable only for negligence.[67] In loading and discharging a vessel stevedores have the duty to use due care[68] or to act in a prudent manner,[69] and to refrain from committing affirmative acts of negligence,[70] and they are liable for any damage to the vessel resulting from a failure in this respect.[71] Stevedores are responsible for

57. U.S.—The S. C. L. No 9, supra —O'Donnell Transp Co v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co, D C N J., 90 F Supp. 953, affirmed, C.A., 185 F 2d 675.

58. U.S.—Gorman Leonard Coal Co v. Peninsular State S S. Corp, C C.A.Mass, 66 F.2d 83—O'Brien Bros v. City of New York, C C.A.N Y., 9 F.2d 542.

Knowledge of leaky condition of vessel

(1) One experienced in loading scows was charged with notice that wooden scow would leak and that water running aft in the scow might easily rise above the keelsons where it would be free to run from side to side and thereby cause the scow to list and the cargo to shift.—O'Brien Bros. v. U. S., C A N.Y., 171 F.2d 586

(2) Where dredging company loaded scow, which had no bargee on board, with wet sand and gravel, whether scow was unseaworthy because she leaked more than a scow should was a factor in determining what attention she required, but otherwise was not important in determining liability for injuries to scow which capsized.—F. E. Grauwiller Transp. Co. v. Exner Sand & Gravel Corp, C.C A N Y, 162 F 2d 90

59. U S—Westchester Fire Ins. Co v. Buffalo Housewrecking & Salvage Co, D.C N.Y., 40 F Supp 378, affirmed, C C A., 129 F.2d 319.

Loading report

The notation "no damage" contained in loading report signed by bargee did not exonerate company which loaded barge from liability for damage to barge resulting from negligent manner in which it was loaded —O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co., D.C.N.J., 90 F Supp. 953, affirmed, C.A., 185 F.2d 675.

Act of libelant's manager done in an emergency would not lessen respondent's liability for damages to libelant's barges by reason of negligence of loading pig iron thereon, where damages were caused by negligence of respondent's employees — The G. G. Post, D.C N Y., 64 F Supp 191.

60. U.S.—Arbor Shipping Co. v De La Guardia, Inc, C.C A.N.Y., 54 F 2d 984.

Safe working load

In libel for property damage due to breaking of sling, selection of 1⅛ inch steel wire sling for hoisting of load of twenty-one thousand three hundred pounds out of ship's hold was held not negligence where safe working load for such sling was 11½ tons —The McAllister No. 55, D C.N. Y., 7 F.Supp. 470.

61. U S—O'Brien Bros. v. U. S., C. A.N.Y., 171 F 2d 586—F. E. Grauwiller Transp. Co v. Exner Sand & Gravel Corp, C C A.N.Y., 162 F.2d 90.

62. U.S—Arbor Shipping Co v. De La Guardia, Inc, C C.A N Y., 54 F. 2d 984

63. U S—Arbor Shipping Co. v. De La Guardia, Inc, supra—The Richelieu, C.C A Md, 48 F.2d 497—British Maritime Trust v. Munson S S Line, D.C N.Y., 149 F. 533.

64. U S—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v Tidewater Iron & Steel Co, D C N J., 90 F Supp 583, affirmed, C.A., 185 F.2d 675—The Daly No 40, D C N Y, 76 F Supp 700—National Dredging & Lighterage Co. v Turney Transp. Co., C.C A Pa., 281 F. 315.

Bargee or master held negligent

U.S—O'Donnell Transp Co v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co, D C N J, 90 F.Supp 953, affirmed, C.A, 185 F 2d 675.

Bargee or master held not negligent

U.S—The Everett Fowler, C.C.A N. Y, 151 F.2d 662, motion denied 152 F 2d 657, certiorari denied U. S. v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, 66 S Ct 963, 327 U S 804, 90 L.Ed. 1029, certiorari denied 66 S Ct 963, 327 U.S. 804, 90 L.Ed 1029—The C. W Crane, D.C.N.Y, 64 F Supp. 627, affirmed, C.C.A., 155 F 2d 940.

65. U S—Friedland v The Empress, D.C Cal., 48 F.Supp. 348

66. U S.—The Richelieu, 27 F.2d 960, modified on other grounds, C C A, 48 F.2d 497, certiorari denied Baltimore & O. R. Co. v Cornec, 52 S.Ct 9, 284 U.S 621, 76 L Ed. 530

67. U S—New York Trap Rock Corp v Christie Scow Corp, C.C.A.N Y, 162 F 2d 624—O'Brien Bros. v Moran Towing Corp., D.C N.Y., 66 F Supp. 614, affirmed, C C A, Beard's Erie Basin v O'Brien Bros, 162 F.2d 176—The C. W Crane, D C N Y, 64 F Supp. 627, affirmed, C.C.A., 155 F.2d 940.

68. U S—Cornec v Baltimore & O R. Co., C C A Md, 48 F 2d 497, certiorari denied Baltimore & O. R Co v. Cornec, 52 S Ct. 9, 284 U.S 621, 76 L Ed 530.

69. U S—The S. C. L. No. 9, C C.A. Pa, 114 F.2d 964

70. U.S—U S Lighterage Corporation v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corporation, D C N.Y., 51 F. Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C.A., 142 F.2d 197.

71. U S—Salmons Dredging Corp v Herma, C.A S.C, 180 F.2d 233—The Moran No. 10, D C.N.Y., 41 F 2d 255—Chile S. S. Co. v. Nacirema Operating Co, D.C.N.Y, 79 F Supp 557—The Carbon Light, D C N.Y., 66 F.Supp. 292, affirmed, C.A., O'Brien Bros v. U. S, 171 F 2d 586 —The Seaboard No. 58, D C.N Y, 59 F Supp 975, affirmed, C.C.A., Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. American Stevedores, 151 F 2d 846—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. James Hughes, Inc, D C N.Y, 56 F Supp. 468—Smith v. Nicholson Transit Co., D C N Y., 39 F Supp. 795.

58 C.J. p 297 note 35.

Failure to eliminate peril

Stevedore will be liable if vessel is loaded under circumstances which the proper handling, loading, and discharging of a vessel,[72] including trimming the cargo;[73] the independent contracting stevedore is responsible for the selection and proper use of equipment,[74] even though the equipment is furnished by the vessel itself,[75] and the officers of the vessel owe no duty of supervision in this respect,[76] although the master must see that the cargo is properly stowed so that the vessel will be seaworthy.[77] The owner's agent who is in charge of the vessel is not required to give the stevedores instructions on the proper method of loading or to protest against the methods used,[78] although such agent has the duty to inform the stevedores when the vessel is fully loaded.[79]

Extent of liability. A person may be primarily,[80] or secondarily liable,[81] or in some cases a per-he knows, or should know, will place vessel in perilous position unless affirmative action is taken to eliminate peril, and he, knowing or having reason to know that no one will take such action, fails to take such action himself.—The Carbon Light, D C N Y, 66 F Supp. 292, affirmed, C.A., O'Brien Bros v. U. S., 171 F.2d 586

Man-power shortage

Though man-power shortage will be considered by court, such shortage cannot excuse negligence or relieve stevedoring company from obligation to use reasonable care in loading slag ballast on top of sand ballast to prevent listing and capsizing of scow.—The Seaboard No 21, D C N. Y, 61 F Supp. 596, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C C.A, 154 F 2d 399

72. U S—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. Moran Towing Corp, C.C A.N.Y., 154 F 2d 399—Smith v Nicholson Transit Co., D C N.Y., 39 F Supp 795
58 C.J. p 297 note 35.

Employer of stevedores engaged in unloading scow could not relieve itself from liability for damage to scow in a fire which resulted from smoking of stevedores on board scow near cargo of cork, on ground that smoking which was a violation of regulations was an individual act outside the scope of stevedores' authority.—U S. Lighterage Corporation v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., D C N Y, 51 F.Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C.A., 142 F 2d 197.

73. U S—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. Moran Towing Corp, C C. A.N Y, 154 F.2d 399—The H S No 60, D.C N Y., 52 F Supp 606.
58 C J. p 297 note 37 [b].

74. U S.—Cornec v Baltimore & O R. Co., C C A Md, 48 F 2d 497, certiorari denied Baltimore & O. R Co. v. Cornec, 52 S.Ct. 9, 284 U S 621, 76 L Ed. 530
58 C.J. p 297 note 37.

75. U.S.—Cornec v Baltimore & O R. Co., C C A.Md, 48 F 2d 497, certiorari denied Baltimore & O R Co. v. Cornec, 52 S.Ct. 9, 284 U S 621, 76 L Ed. 530.

Direction of use by master

Without some showing master directed use of instrumentalities and negligent methods in loading, or approved or consented thereto, stevedore cannot be absolved from liability to vessel—Cornec v Baltimore & O R Co., C C A Md, 48 F 2d 497, certiorari denied Baltimore & O R Co v Cornec, 52 S Ct 9, 284 U S 621, 76 L.Ed. 530

76. U S—Cornec v. Baltimore & O R Co, C C A Md, 48 F 2d 497, certiorari denied Baltimore & O R Co. v. Cornec, 52 S Ct. 9, 284 U S 621, 76 L Ed 530
58 C J p 297 note 39.

77. U S—Cornec v Baltimore & O R Co., C C A Md, 48 F 2d 497, certiorari denied Baltimore & O R Co. v Cornec, 52 S Ct. 9, 284 U S. 621, 76 L Ed 530

78. U S.—The G G Post, D C N.Y, 64 F Supp. 191—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. James Hughes, Inc, D C N.Y., 56 F Supp 468—Smith v Nicholson Transit Co., D C N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 795
58 C J p 297 note 37 [a]

Materiality of complaint

Where a stevedore company was employed to transfer a cargo of steel ingots from a steamship to libellants' barges, and barge master could have reasonably believed that company could load barges without instructions, whether master made complaint to company and steamship respecting loading of barges was immaterial in determining liability of company for damages to barges.—Smith v. Nicholson Transit Co., supra

Protest as notice of fault

Protest of master of vessel to stevedoring company's foreman against manner of loading was notice of fault for which company was liable.—The S C L No. 9, C C A.Pa, 114 F.2d 964—Kelly v. Overseas Shipping Co., D.C N.Y, 7 F 2d 732, affirmed, C.C.A., 7 F 2d 734.

79. U.S—Hastorf Contracting Co. v Ocean Transp Corp., D.C.N.Y., 4 F 2d 583, affirmed, C.C.A., 4 F.2d 584.
58 C J. p 235 note 31 [a].

80. U S—Roah Hook Brick Co v. Erie R. Co., C.A.N Y, 179 F 2d 601—The C. W Crane, C C A N.Y, 155 F 2d 940—The Everett Fowler, C C. A N Y, 151 F 2d 662, motion denied 152 F 2d 657, certiorari denied U S v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., 66 S Ct. 963, 327 U S. 804, 90 L Ed 1029, certiorari denied 66 S Ct 963, 327 U S. 804, 90 L Ed 1029—McGeeney v Moran Towing Corp, C C A.N Y, 149 F 2d 791—Gorman Leonard Coal Co v. Peninsular State S S Corp, C C A Mass, 66 F 2d 83—The Moran No 10, D C N Y, 41 F 2d 255—O'Brien Bros v. City of New York, C C A N Y, 9 F 2d 542—Shamrock Towing Co. v. Tully & Di Napoli, D.C.N Y, 91 F Supp 239, affirmed, C.A, Anthony O'Boyle, Inc v. The Louis W. Doyle, 187 F.2d 872—The Benjamin Williams, D.C.Mass, 74 F Supp. 119—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp., D C N.Y, 68 F.Supp. 392, affirmed, C C A, 162 F.2d 624—The Henry E, D C N Y, 61 F Supp. 327, affirmed, C C A, 162 F 2d 90—The Wilmer S. Nickerson, D.C.N.Y., 58 F Supp 777—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v James Hughes, Inc, D C N.Y., 56 F Supp. 468—U. S Lighterage Corporation v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, D C N.Y., 51 F Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C A, 142 F 2d 197—Producers Pipe Line Co. v. Douglas Guardian Warehouse Corp., D C.Tenn, 48 F.Supp 161—The Millwood, D.C N Y., 3 F.Supp. 156.
58 C J. p 234 note 28 [a].

81. U.S—Red Hook Brick Co. v. Erie R Co, C A.N.Y., 179 F.2d 601—The C. W. Crane, C.C.A N.Y, 155 F.2d 940—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. Moran Towing Corp., C.C. A N Y., 154 F 2d 399—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v American Stevedores, C C A N.Y., 151 F 2d 846—The Everett Fowler, C C.A.N.Y, 151 F.2d 662, motion denied 152 F 2d 657, certiorari denied U S v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., 66 S Ct. 963, 327 U.S. 804, 90 L Ed 1029, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 963, 327 U S 804, 90 L.Ed. 1029—McGeeney v. Moran Towing Corp, C.C.A N.Y., 149 F 2d 791—The Moran No. 10, D.C N.Y., 41 F. 2d 255—O'Brien Bros. v. City of New York, C C A N Y., 9 F.2d 542—Shamrock Towing Co. v. Tully & Di Napoli, D.C N.Y., 91 F.Supp 239, affirmed, C.A., Anthony O'Boyle, Inc v. The Louis W. Doyle, 187 F. 2d 872—The Benjamin Williams, D C Mass, 74 F. Supp. 119—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp, D C.N.Y, 68 F.Supp. 392, affirmed, C C A., 162 F.2d 624—Marine Operating Co. v. Lindgren, son may be thirdly liable[82] for the loss of, or injury to, the vessel caused by negligence in loading, stowing, or discharging a vessel, or in mooring or berthing a vessel for such purposes. A person may be held secondarily liable in the absence of a showing of any affirmative act of negligence on the part of such person,[83] although where the two parties are responsible for the injury to the vessel, each is primarily liable for one half of the damages,[84] and, if any part of the damages assessed against one of the parties cannot be collected from that party, the balance may be assessed against the other in addition to the one half that such a party is compelled to pay in the first instance.[85] Where an independent contractor is employed to do the loading, stowing, or discharging of a vessel, or the berthing or mooring of the vessel for such purposes, and, in the course of such work, injury is caused to the vessel as the result of the negligence of the independent contractor, the independent contractor alone is liable,[86] and not the employer,[87] but, if a bailment relationship exists, the employer of the independent contractor as bailee can be held accountable for the lack of proper care.[88]

b. Liability of Charterer Generally

In the absence of a contract between the parties to the contrary, the charterer is liable for the loss of, or injury to, the vessel caused by his negligence, or that of his servants or agents, or of anyone to whom he intrusts her, in loading, stowing, or discharging the cargo, or in mooring or berthing the vessel for such purposes, but he is liable only for negligence.

The liability for injury to the vessel from loading or unloading, as between the shipowner and the charterer, depends primarily on the contract,[89] and, in the absence of a contract between the parties to the contrary, the charterer is liable for the loss of, or injury to, the vessel caused by his negligence, or that of his servants or agents,[90] or of anyone to whom he intrusts her,[91] in loading, stowing, or discharging the cargo, or in mooring or berthing the vessel for such purposes, but he is liable only because of negligence[92] which was the proximate

Swinerton, Inc., D C N Y, 63 F Supp. 1007—The Henry E, D C N Y, 61 F Supp. 327, affirmed, C C A., 162 F.2d 90—The Wilmer S Nickerson, D C N.Y, 58 F Supp. 777—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v James Hughes, D C N Y., 56 F Supp. 468—U S Lighterage Corp v Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, D.C N Y., 51 F Supp 96, affirmed, C C A., 142 F 2d 197—Producers Pipe Line Co. v Douglas Guardian Warehouse Corp, D.C Tenn, 48 F Supp 161—The Henry McNamee, D C N.Y, 35 F Supp 936—The Millwood, D.C.N.Y, 3 F Supp. 156.

58 C.J. p 234 note 28 [a].

82. U.S.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. James Hughes, Inc., D.C. N.Y., 56 F Supp 468.

83. U.S —The Millwood, D.C.N Y., 3 F.Supp 156

84. U.S —Smith v. Nicholson Transit Co, D C N Y., 39 F.Supp. 795.

85. U.S.—Smith v. Nicholson Transit Co., supra.

86. U.S.—The S. C. L. No. 9, C.C.A. Pa., 114 F.2d 964.

87. U.S.—The S. C L. No. 9, supra

88. U.S.—The Comet, D.C Pa, 66 F. Supp. 231.

89. U.S.—The Gibraltar, C.C.A.Pa, 52 F.2d 787—Schoonmaker Conners Co. v. Lambert Transp. Co., C.C.A N.Y., 268 F. 102.

Liability of charterer for loss of, or injury to, vessel in general see supra § 52.

Custom

With respect to charterer's liability for injury to ship's mast, custom of hauling cargo cars to ship's side by ship gear would not relieve either party from legal responsibility.—The Gibraltar, C.C A.Pa, 52 F.2d 787

90. U.S —Roah Hook Brick Co v. Erie R Co, C A N.Y, 179 F 2d 601—Shamrock Towing Co. v Fichter Steel Corp, C C A.N.Y, 155 F 2d 69—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. American Stevedores, C.C A N Y, 151 F 2d 846—The Everett Fowler, C C A.N Y., 151 F 2d 662, motion denied 152 F 2d 657, certiorari denied U. S. v Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, 66 S Ct. 963, 327 U.S. 804, 90 L Ed 1029, certiorari denied 66 S Ct. 963, 327 U.S. 804, 90 L.Ed 1029—Conners Marine Co v. McClintic-Marshall Co., D C N Y, 59 F 2d 758—The Wilmer S Nickerson, D C N Y., 58 F Supp 777—The Green Leaf, D C N Y, 27 F Supp. 911—Donovan v Frederick Starr Contracting Co., D. C N Y, 290 F. 501—The Monongahela, C C A.Cal, 282 F. 17—Schoonmaker Connors Co v. Lambert Transp Co, C C.A N Y, 268 F. 102—White v. Schoonmaker-Connors Co, C C A N.J, 265 F. 465—The Olympic, D C N Y., 243 F 236, affirmed Healey v. Moran Towing & Transp Co, 253 F 334, 165 C.C.A 116

La —Interstate Transp Co. v. City of New Orleans, 28 So. 310, 52 La Ann. 1859

N Y.—Neville v. Morrison Coal & Coke Co, 207 N Y.S. 471, 211 App Div. 282.

58 C J p 230 note 91 [c], [d], [i].

Duty of care as to berth or mooring see infra subdivision c of this section

Stevedores

Where Cuban stevedores were employed by sugar company to load vessel chartered by steamship company, and vessel was damaged by falling of hatch beam into hold through negligence of stevedores when removing hatch beam, under Cuban law, by which such stevedores are employees of the charterer the steamship company charterer was held liable to vessel owner for resulting damages under charter obligation to return vessel in good order and condition, reasonable wear and tear excepted, and sugar company, as agent of charterer, was exempt from liability to vessel owner—The Rygja, D C N Y., 7 F. Supp. 85.

91. U S —Roah Hook Brick Co v. Erie R Co, C A N Y, 179 F 2d 601—Donovan v Frederick Starr Contracting Co, D C N Y, 290 F. 501—White v. Schoonmaker-Connors Co, C C.A N J, 265 F 465

N Y —Neville v Morrison Coal & Coke Co, 207 N Y S. 471, 211 App Div 282

58 C J. p 234 note 28 [a], [b]

Independent contractor

Fact that loading was being done by independent contractor does not relieve charterer from liability for negligence in loading, as he is liable for any damage to the vessel due to negligence of a third party whom he has permitted to use it or to perform any of the purposes for which it was chartered.—White v Schoonmaker-Connors Co, C C A N J., 265 F. 465.

92. U S.—Shamrock Towing Co v Fichter Steel Corp, C C.A N Y, 155 F.2d 69—The Roslyn, C C A N Y., 93 F.2d 278—Glasgow Shipowners' Co. v. Munson S. S Line, D C.Pa, cause of the injury,[93] and he is not liable for loss or injury attributable to the negligence of the owner, or of the owner's agents or employees,[94] or inevitable accident,[95] or for the ordinary wear and tear arising from the loading or discharging of the cargo.[96]

The owner has no recourse against a charterer for loss or injury due to loading, stowage, or unloading, which is caused by the unseaworthiness of the vessel for the use to which she was put, where he knew of such use when the charter was made, and the charterer is not otherwise shown to be negligent.[97] The charterer is justified in using the vessel with her masts and rigging for the purpose for which she was chartered up to the limit of the use prescribed and no more,[98] and is not bound to return in good condition a mast which was received in bad condition,[99] but a charterer, who subjects the vessel or a part thereof to strains far above its computed working strength, without the consent of the owner or the master, is responsible for damage to such vessel or its parts.[1] A covenant to return the vessel in the condition in which it is received, necessary or reasonable wear and tear excepted, does not render the charterer liable as an insurer for damage due to loading, stowage, or discharging of the vessel.[2]

c. Berth or Mooring

A charterer, shipper, or consignee, is required to exercise ordinary or reasonable care under the circumstances to provide a safe berth or mooring for loading or discharging cargo.

Although, there is no warranty or insurance of the safety of the vessel coming to a berth or mooring,[3] a charterer, shipper, or consignee has an obligation to provide a berth or mooring which is safe for loading or discharging cargo,[4] and in the fulfillment of this obligation he is required to exercise

44 F 2d 826, affirmed, C C A, The Gibraltar, 52 F 2d 787—C. F Harms Co v. Turner Const. Co, D C N Y, 290 F. 612—The Raymond M. White, D C.N.Y, 290 F. 454, affirmed, C C A, Simmons Transp. Co. v Wright & Cobb Lighterage Co, 296 F 1023—The Monongahela, C. C.A Cal, 282 F 17.

58 C J p 233 note 25 [c], [d] (3).

93. Negligent moving of vessel

Subcharterer which may have been negligent in moving scow before cargo was trimmed but which completed movement without mishap was without fault with respect to capsizing which occurred several hours thereafter as result of improper and uneven additional loading by stevedoring company.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. Moran Towing Corp., C C A.N.Y., 154 F 2d 399.

94. U.S —C F. Harms Co v. Turner Const Co, D C N Y, 290 F. 612—The Raymond M White, D C N Y., 290 F 454, affirmed, C.C A, Simmons Transp Co v. Wright & Cobb Lighterage Co, 296 F. 1023.

58 C J p 231 note 94 [a] (1), (5), p 235 note 30 [e]–[f], p 235 note 31 [a]

Ship trapped in ice

(1) Charterer could not be held liable because ship was caught in ice and damaged where captain decided to wait for cargo despite cold weather—The Terne, C C A N Y, 64 F.2d 502, certiorari denied Munson S S Line v Bergen Lloyd, 54 S Ct. 53, 290 U.S 635, 78 L Ed 552, and Bergen Lloyd v. Munson S S Line, 54 S Ct 63, 290 U.S 635, 78 L Ed. 552.

(2) Where port was safe when chartered steamship arrived, responsibility for waiting for cargo or departing to avoid being trapped by ice rested with captain as agent of owner and not as agent of charterer—The Terne, C C A.N Y., 64 F 2d 502, certiorari denied Munson S. S Line v Bergen Lloyd, 54 S Ct 53, 290 U S 635, 78 L Ed. 552, and Bergen Lloyd v. Munson S S Line, 54 S.Ct 63, 290 U.S. 635, 78 L Ed 552

95. U.S.—Booth v. City of New York, D C.N Y., 127 F 459.

96. U S.—The G. G Post, D C N.Y, 64 F.Supp. 191—Marine Operating Co v. Lindgren, Swinerton, Inc, D. C N Y., 63 F Supp 1007—The Federal No 1, D.C N.Y, 27 F.Supp. 907.

58 C J p 233 note 25 [c], p 235 note 35 [a].

97. U.S.—The Harper No 145, C.C A. N Y, 42 F.2d 161, certiorari denied Moran Towing & Transp Co. v. J. W. Higman Co., 51 S.Ct. 79, 282 U S 875, 75 L Ed 772

58 C J. p 235 note 32.

98. U S —Glasgow Shipowners' Co v. Munson S S Line, D C Pa, 44 F. 2d 826, affirmed, C.C.A., The Gibraltar, 52 F.2d 787.

Limitation of weight on ship's mast

Where a charter party limited the capacity of the ship's gear to three tons, there was held to be no corresponding limitation put on the ship's mast.—Scottish Nav. Co. v. Munson SS. Line, C.C A.N.Y, 10 F. 2d 708.

99. U.S —The Gibraltar, C C.A.Pa, 52 F 2d 787.

1. U S.—British Maritime Trust v. Munson SS. Line, D C.N.Y., 149 F 533.

58 C J p 230 note 91 [h].

2. U.S —U. S Lighterage Corp. v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, D C.N.Y., 51 F.Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C A., 142 F.2d 197—Donovan v. Benn Riegel Contracting & Supply Co., D C N Y., 273 F. 975.

Presumption of negligence from failure to return vessel in as good condition as received does not enlarge substantive obligations or liability.—White v. Schoonmaker-Connors Co., C C A N J., 265 F 465

3. U S —The Roslyn, C.C A N Y, 93 F.2d 278—The Mascot, D C N J, 28 F.Supp. 770—M & J Tracy v Marks, Lissberger & Son, C C A N Y., 283 F 100—Hastorf v O'Brien, N.Y, 173 F. 346, 97 C.C A. 606

Inevitable accident

(1) There is no liability where the injury to the vessel is caused by inevitable accident—Booth v City of New York, D C N.Y, 127 F. 459.

(2) Injury to vessel at berth which could have been foreseen, and might reasonably have been expected in the ordinary course of events, cannot be considered as happening through inevitable accident—Bleakley v. City of New York, D C N.Y, 139 F. 807—58 C.J. p 230 note 91 [i] (1), (2).

4. U S.—Bouker Contracting Co v. Williamsburgh Power Plant Corp, C C A N.Y., 130 F.2d 96—New York Trap Rock Corp v Christie Scow Corp, D C N Y., 68 F Supp 392, affirmed, C C A, 162 F.2d 624—The Jerr V Petrie, D C.N Y, 65 F.Supp 491—The Henry McNamee, D C N Y, 35 F.Supp. 936—The Mascot, D C N J, 28 F Supp. 770—C. F. Harms Co. v. Turner Const. Co., D.C N Y, 290 F. 612, affirmed, C.C.A., 3 F 2d 591—Donovan v. Frederick Starr Contracting Co., D C N Y., 290 F 501—Hastorf v. O'Brien, N.Y., 173 F. 346, 97 C C A. 606—Look v Portsmouth K & Y. St. Ry., D.C. Me, 141 F. 182.

N.Y —Neville v. Morrison Coal & Coke Co., 207 N.Y.S. 471, 211 App Div. 282.

68 C.J. p 228 note 96.

ordinary or reasonable care under the circumstances,[5] which means that he must exercise reasonable diligence in ascertaining the condition of the berth,[6] and give notice of any obstruction or danger;[7] and he is liable for any damage to the vessel resulting from a failure in this respect.[8]

Even though the employees or officers of the owner of the vessel may be justified in assuming the safety of the berth or mooring where it is designated by the person entitled to designate it,[9] they have a duty of care, and cannot knowingly intrude on danger,[10] and the negligence of employees of the owner proximately causing the injury may wholly preclude a recovery,[11] although their contributory negligence will not preclude recovery.[12] Where the master is the servant of the owner, and he has received express assurance from the charterer or consignee that the berth is fair and relies on it, he is not at fault in not sounding,[13] but if he receives such assurance and does not rely on it and undertakes to sound for himself, both are at fault,[14] and if he gets no express assurance, he must sound.[15] In the application of these rules, liability has been assessed for injury to vessels resulting from an uneven bottom[16] or from submerged obstructions.[17]

5. U S.—Waldie v. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp, C C.A.N.Y, 151 F.2d 129—The Mascot, D.C N.J, 28 F. Supp. 770—Northwestern Fire & Marine Ins Co v Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corporation, D C.N Y, 2 F Supp 1019, affirmed, C.C A., 64 F 2d 361—Hastorf v O'Brien, N.Y, 173 F. 346, 97 C C A 606—Look v Portsmouth K & Y. St. Ry., D C Me, 141 F 182.

68 C.J. p 228 notes 96–99.

Weather conditions

(1) One directing loading of vessel is under no obligation to ascertain facts respecting weather conditions by calling up weather bureau station somewhat remote where wind conditions are radically different if there are no indications of storm where vessel then is.—Northwestern Fire & Marine Ins Co v. Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corporation, D.C.N Y, 2 F.Supp. 1019, affirmed, C.C.A., 64 F.2d 361

(2) Charterer, in mooring empty scow to buoy when weather conditions were threatening to knowledge of charterer's officers and when scow could have been taken into harbor, was held solely at fault for loss of scow when it broke away and went on rocks—Northwestern Fire & Marine Ins Co v Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corporation, supra

6. U S.—The Mascot, D.C.N J., 28 F Supp. 770.

N.Y.—Neville v. Morrison Coal & Coke Co, 207 N Y S. 471, 211 App Div. 282

68 C.J p 228 note 97.

Mooring at stake boat

Duty which charterer of scow owed to owner was to use reasonable diligence to ascertain conditions at stake boat where scow was moored at time of injury to the end that the scow would have a safe berth.—The Roslyn, C C A N.Y., 93 F 2d 278.

7. U S.—The Mascot, D.C.N.J., 28 F. Supp. 770.

N.Y—Neville v. Morrison Coal & Coke Co, 207 N.Y.S. 471, 211 App. Div 282

68 C J. p 228 note 98.

8. U S—Waldie v. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp, C C.A.N.Y., 151 F. 2d 129—The Roslyn, C C.A N.Y., 93 F 2d 278—Schoonmaker-Conners Co v. New York Tidewater Gravel Corp., C C.A N Y., 11 F 2d 471—The Jerry V. Petrie, D C.N.Y., 65 F Supp. 491—The Dorothy G., D C N Y, 55 F Supp 318—L. R Connett & Co v. The Republic No. 5, D. C N Y, 43 F Supp. 245—The Mascot, D C N J, 28 F Supp. 770—M & J. Tracy v. Marks, Lissberger & Son, C.C A N Y, 283 F 100—Acme Scow Corporation v Phoenix Sand & Gravel Co, D C N Y, 271 F 1014—Dailey v City of New York, D C. N.Y, 128 F. 796

58 C J. p 230 note 91 [g], [i].

Assignees of bills of lading of the cargo of a vessel are under the same duty as the original consignees with respect to furnishing the vessel with a suitable place at which to discharge, and are liable for damages sustained by her by reason of their having assigned her to an unsafe berth—Carroll v. Holway, D.C.Me, 158 F 328.

Assumption of risk provision

Corporation, with which scow owner had contracted for removal of ashes to be loaded on scow by corporation and removed by owner, could not escape liability for loss of scow by sinking due to bad berth in which it was placed by corporation's employees on the ground of "assumption of risk" by the owner by virtue of contract provision whereby owner assumed all responsibility and risk incident to the work contemplated to be done by owner, particularly where contract further provided owner should not be liable for any negligence of the corporation or its employees.—Bouker Contracting Co v. Williamsburgh Power Plant Corp, C.C.A.N.Y., 130 F 2d 96.

Negligence not shown

U S.—The Cedar Cliff, C C.A.N.Y., 149 F.2d 964—The Cobalt, D C.N.Y., 26 F Supp. 5, affirmed, C.C.A, C. W. Crane & Co. v. Charles Dreifus Co, 107 F 2d 1011—Wright & Cobb Lighterage Co. v. New England N. Co, D C N Y., 189 F. 809, affirmed 204 F. 762, 125 C C A 129.

58 C J. p 233 note 25 [d]

9. U S—The A. F. Co. No 4, D C N.Y, 54 F 2d 145—The Henry McNamee, D C N.Y, 35 F.Supp 936

10. U.S—The Mascot, D.C N J, 28 F Supp. 770

11. U S—The Cobalt, D C N.Y., 26 F. Supp. 5, affirmed, C.C A., C. W. Crane & Co. v Charles Dreifus Co., 107 F 2d 1011—Elwell v. Tucker, Pa., 260 F. 365, 171 C.C.A. 231.

Knowledge of officers

(1) Owner of ship, whose officers failed to keep it proper distance from wharf, cannot recover from shippers for damages to bottom and bilge keel because of projections of which officers knew—Arbor Shipping Co v. De La Guardia, Inc., C C A N Y., 54 F 2d 984.

(2) Facts that ship's officers took their own soundings, became familiar with berth, and accepted it as satisfactory for loading cargo, precluded recovery from shippers by owner for damage due to foul berth.—Arbor Shipping Co. v. De La Guardia, Inc., supra.

12. U.S—Bouker Contracting Co. v. Williamsburgh Power Plant Corp., C C A.N.Y., 130 F.2d 96

Apportionment of damages see infra subdivision e of this section

Contributory negligence not shown

U S—The Mascot, D C N J, 28 F. Supp. 770.

13. U S—Cities Service Transp Co v. Gulf Refining Co, C C A N Y., 79 F 2d 521—The Henry McNamee, D.C N Y., 35 F Supp 936

14. U.S—Cities Service Transp. Co v. Gulf Refining Co, C.C A N Y, 79 F 2d 521.

15. U S—Cities Service Transp Co. v. Gulf Refining Co, C.C.A N Y, supra.

16. U S—The West Branch, D C N Y., 43 F 2d 834—The Jerry V Petrie, D.C N.Y, 65 F Supp 491.

17. U.S.—Kenny v. Venetian Contracting Co., D C.N.Y., 60 F 2d 1053

Where a charterer breaks a covenant to provide a proper and suitable berth, he is liable for the resulting damage to the vessel independently of any negligence in failing to ascertain that the berth was unsuitable,[18] as his liability in such a case does not rest on an implied contract, as does that of a wharfinger who is bound only to exercise reasonable care and diligence, but on a breach of the express terms of the charter thereby subjecting him to liability for the ensuing damage.[19] In like manner, where the charterer guarantees a particular depth of water alongside the dock to which the vessel is to be sent, he may be liable for damages sustained by the vessel where such depth of water is not afforded.[20] However, although there has been a breach of the covenant by the charterer to select a place of loading where vessel could always lie afloat, if the damage to the ship has been brought about by the act of the owner of the vessel or someone for whom the owner was responsible, the charterer is not liable.[21]

While a consignee, who maintains a wharf on which to receive goods for himself, is under the same duty to exercise care and skill as is a wharfinger who maintains a wharf for the purpose of collecting wharfage,[22] a distinction has been suggested between the standard of care required of a consignee and a wharfinger,[23] although the difference does not rest on any legal distinction that can be drawn between their respective standards of duty,[24] as both are bound to the exercise of care and diligence under the circumstances.[25] The means of ascertaining the existence of probable, or even possible, danger are not the same,[26] and the duty rests on a wharfinger to watch, maintain, and keep in order that which he asks the public to pay him for the use of, while the consignee is bound to acquaint himself with the reputation and commonly known characteristics of the wharf offered for hire.[27] A consignee has a right to act on the reputation of the wharf.[28]

d. Actions

In actions for loss of, or injury to, a vessel from loading, stowing, or discharging cargo, or from berthing or mooring the vessel for such purposes, general rules in civil actions, and, more particularly, those applied in 18. U.S.—Eastern Massachusetts Street Ry. Co. v. Transmarine Corp., C.C.A.Mass., 42 F.2d 58—The Mascot, D.C.N.J., 28 F.Supp. 770—Constantine & Pickering S. S. Co. v. West India S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 199 F. 464—Merritt v. Sprague, D.C.Me., 191 F. 627—Carroll v. Holway, D.C.Me., 158 F. 328.

58 C.J. p. 233 note 21 [a].

Safe place
In clause of charter party requiring charterer to procure safe "place" for discharge of cargo, quoted word meant spot selected to drop anchor plus area over which tanker might swing on tide, and charterer's duty was not fulfilled merely by selecting area containing safe and unsafe berths since clause required charterer to select safe berth in such area. —Park S. S. Co. v. Cities Service Oil Co., C.A.N.Y., 188 F.2d 804, certiorari denied Cities Service Oil Co. v. Park S. S. Co., 72 S.Ct. 87, 342 U.S. 862, 96 L.Ed. ——.

Employment of pilot
Where under safe berth clause of charter party authorizing charterer to discharge cargo at any safe place charterer was required to procure specific anchorage within bay containing both safe and unsafe berths, for purposes of determining charterer's liability for damages for grounding of vessel in such bay, pilot, employed by owner of vessel, in selecting anchorage in bay would be considered to be performing charterer's work as a "borrowed servant."—Park S. S. Co. v. Cities Service Oil Co., C.A.N.Y., 188 F.2d 804, certiorari denied Cities Service Oil Co. v. Park S. S. Co., 72 S.Ct. 87, 342 U.S. 862, 96 L.Ed. ——.

Guaranty of depth of water
U.S.—P. Dougherty Co. v. Bader Coal Co., D.C.Mass., 244 F. 267.
58 C.J. p. 236 note 41 [a].

19. U.S.—The Halo, D.C.N.Y., 9 F. Supp. 963, affirmed, C.C.A., Cities Service Transp. Co. v. Gulf Refining Co., 79 F.2d 521—Constantine & Pickering S. S. Co. v. West India S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 199 F. 964

20. U.S.—P. Dougherty Co. v. Bader Coal Co., D.C.Mass., 244 F. 267.
58 C.J. p. 236 note 41.

21. U.S.—The Halo, D.C.N.Y., 9 F. Supp. 963, affirmed, C.C.A., Cities Service Transp. Co. v. Gulf Refining Co., 79 F.2d 521—The Tynebridge, D.C.Va., 6 F.Supp. 941.

Overloading by master
(1) Charterer is not liable for damages which did not result from unsafe berth but from master's loading of too much cargo thereon to move it safely at low tide and failure to wait until water was sufficiently deep to enable him to move it safely.—The Tynebridge, supra.

(2) Charterer could not escape liability for damage to steamer caused by grounding on ground that grounding was caused by master who took excessive quantity of cargo on board, where owner was obliged to receive "a full and complete cargo" and master took on 81,000 barrels which was within warranted capacity of 75,000 barrels, with "10 per cent. margin more or less."—The Halo, D.C.N.Y., 9 F. Supp. 963, affirmed, C.C.A., Cities Service Transp. Co. v. Gulf Refining Co., 79 F.2d 521.

22. U.S.—Kenny v. Venetian Contracting Co., D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 1053—Kenny v. Balbach Smelting & Refining Co., D.C.N.Y., 6 F.2d 671.

Consignee and wharfinger were under duty to exercise due and reasonable care in discharging cargo from barge.—O'Boyle, Inc., v. City of New York, D.C.N.Y., 85 F.Supp. 858.

23. U.S.—Waldie v. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 151 F.2d 129—The Mascot, D.C.N.J., 28 F. Supp. 770—M. & J. Tracy v. Marks, Lissberger & Son, C.C.A.N.Y., 283 F. 100—Conklin v. R. P. & J. H. Staats Co., N.J., 161 F. 897, 88 C.C.A. 593.

24. U.S.—The Mascot, D.C.N.J., 28 F.Supp. 770—M. & J. Tracy v. Marks, Lissberger & Son, C.C.A.N.Y., 283 F. 100.

25. U.S.—Waldie v. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 151 F.2d 129—The Mascot, D.C.N.J., 28 F. Supp. 770—M. & J. Tracy v. Marks, Lissberger & Son, C.C.A.N.Y., 283 F. 100.

26. U.S.—The Mascot, D.C.N.J., 28 F.Supp. 770—M. & J. Tracy v. Marks, Lissberger & Son, C.C.A.N.Y., 283 F. 100.

27. U.S.—The Mascot, D.C.N.J., 28 F.Supp. 770—M. & J. Tracy v. Marks, Lissberger & Son, C.C.A.N.Y., 283 F. 100.

28. U.S.—M. & J. Tracy v. Marks, Lissberger & Son, supra.
68 C.J. p. 228 note 99.

admiralty where the suit is brought as a proceeding in admiralty, apply.

In actions for loss of, or injury to, a vessel from loading, stowing, or discharging cargo, or from berthing or mooring the vessel for such purposes, general rules in civil actions, and, more particularly, those applied in admiralty where the suit is brought as a proceeding in admiralty, apply [29]

Presumptions and burden of proof In accordance with general rules, the burden is on the owner of the vessel in an action for the loss of, or injury to, a vessel caused by negligence in loading, stowing, or discharging cargo, or in berthing or mooring the vessel for such purposes, to establish all the facts essential to the cause of action.[30] As a general rule, negligence is never presumed,[31] although the nature of the damage to the vessel may spell negligence [32] Thus, the mere occurrence of a fire with resultant injuries during the loading, stowing, or discharging of the cargo does not raise a presumption of negligence,[33] and, without any showing of negligence, does not make out a prima facie case,[34] but the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur has been held to apply where the circumstances under which the fire originated and spread are such as to show negligence in loading or stowing.[35] In like manner, where the charter is a mere contract of affreightment, there is no presumption of negligence against the charterer rendering him liable for unexplained injury to the vessel during loading,[36] the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur does not apply,[37] and the burden is on the shipowner to prove the negligence asserted as the cause of the injury, not on the charterer to disprove it [38] Furthermore, it has been stated that when a loaded vessel capsizes in calm water unseaworthiness and improper loading are the two possible causes for capsizing,[39] and, hence, when a seaworthy or tight boat capsizes in calm water, the inference is almost irresistible that her action is due to the disposition of her load,[40] and, with the elimination of unseaworthiness as a possible cause, a strong presumption remains that improper loading was the cause [41]

Where the delivery of the vessel constitutes a bailment, as where a vessel is demised to the charterer, there must be sufficient evidence to warrant a finding of negligence in the loading, stowing, or discharging of the cargo, or in berthing or mooring the vessel for such purposes, in order to fix liability on the charterer or bailee,[42] and the ulti-

29. Persons entitled to sue

U S —Westchester Fire Ins Co v Buffalo Housewrecking & Salvage Co., D C N Y, 40 F Supp 378, affirmed, C C A, 129 F 2d 319

Pleadings

Ala —Burton v. May, 103 So. 46, 212 Ala. 435

58 C J p 253 note 61 [b]

Issues, proof, and variance

U.S.—O'Boyle v. City of New York, D.C.N.Y., 85 F Supp. 858

30. U.S.—Waldie v. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp, C C A N Y., 151 F.2d 129—Arbor Shipping Co v De La Guardia, Inc., C C A N.Y., 54 F 2d 984—O'Brien Bros. v. City of New York, D C N.Y, 36 F 2d 102, affirmed, C C A, 36 F 2d 103—O'Brien Bros v City of New York, D C N. Y, 7 F.2d 485, affirmed, C C A, 7 F. 2d 488—The Daly No 40, D C N Y., 76 F.Supp 700—The H. S. No. 60, D.C.N.Y., 52 F Supp. 606.

Seaworthy or undamaged vessel

Burden is on owner to show vessel seaworthy or undamaged when delivered for loading —The Harper No 145, C C.A.N.Y., 42 F.2d 161, certiorari denied Moran Towing & Transp. Co. v. J. W. Higman Co, 51 S.Ct. 79, 282 U S. 875, 75 L.Ed. 772 —Kelly v. Overseas Shipping Co, D. C.N Y, 7 F.2d 732, affirmed, C.C.A, 7 F 2d 734—The Chippewa, D.C N.Y., 11 F Supp. 376.

31. U S —Glasgow Shipowners' Co v. Munson S S. Line, D.C.Pa., 44 F.2d 826, affirmed, C C A, The Gibraltar, 52 F 2d 787—O'Brien Bros v City of New York, D C N Y, 36 F 2d 102, affirmed, C C A, 36 F 2d 103—U S Lighterage Corporation v Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, D C N Y, 51 F Supp 96, affirmed, C.C A, 142 F.2d 197.

32. U S —The Benjamin Williams, D C Mass., 74 F Supp. 119—Marine Operating Co v. Lindgren, Swinerton, Inc, D C.N.Y, 63 F Supp 1007

33. U S —O'Brien Bros v. City of New York, D C.N.Y, 36 F.2d 102, affirmed, C C A, 36 F 2d 103

34. U.S —O'Brien Bros. v. City of New York, D C N Y, 7 F 2d 485, affirmed, C.C.A., 7 F 2d 488—U. S Lighterage Corporation v Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., D C N Y, 51 F Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C A, 142 F 2d 197.

35. U S —Bartley Scow Corporation v. J. V. Petrie & Sons, C C A N Y, 37 F 2d 58.

36. U S —Glasgow Shipowners' Co. v. Munson S. S Line, D C Pa, 44 F 2d 826, affirmed, C.C.A, The Gibraltar, 52 F.2d 787.

37. U.S.—The Gibraltar, C C.A.Pa., 52 F.2d 787

38. U.S —Glasgow Shipowners' Co. v Munson S S. Line, D.C.Pa., 44 F 2d 826, affirmed, C.C A, The Gibraltar, 52 F 2d 787

58 C J. p 257 note 89 [a].

39. U.S —The S. C. L No. 9, C.C.A. Pa, 114 F.2d 964

Presumption of unseaworthiness

(1) The presumption of unseaworthiness arising when a vesse sinks in calm water is merely a portion of the evidence and must be considered in the light of other evidence —The C W Crane, D C N Y, 64 F Supp 627, affirmed, C.C.A, 155 F.2d 940

(2) If any presumption of unseaworthiness arose from occurrence of accident, such presumption was overcome by evidence establishing that capsizing was caused by improper and uneven loading —Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v Moran Towing Corp, C C A N.Y., 154 F.2d 399

40. U S —The S. C L No 9, C.C.A Pa, 114 F 2d 964—O'Brien Bros v City of New York, C C.A.N.Y, 9 F.2d 542—The Adah, N.Y., 258 F. 377, 169 C.C.A 393

Sufficiency to overcome opinion evidence

A presumption that improper loading caused capsizing of vessel which resulted from elimination of unseaworthiness as a possible cause was held sufficient to overcome opinion of expert witness that it was physically impossible for vessel to capsize as result of manner in which she was loaded —The S C L. No 9, C C.A Pa, 114 F.2d 964.

41. U.S —The S C L No 9, supra

42. U S.—Richmond Sand & Gravel Corp v Tidewater Const. Corp, C.A Va, 170 F 2d 392—The Monongahela, C.C.A.Cal, 282 F. 17—mate burden of proof rests on the owner to show negligence;[43] but such necessary evidence can be supplied by presumption, where the owner proves delivery in a good or seaworthy condition and a failure to return or a return in a damaged condition,[44] as proof of delivery in a good or seaworthy condition and the failure to return or a return in a damaged condition brings the presumption into operation and makes out a prima facie case of negligence.[45] The burden of introducing evidence in avoidance thereof showing freedom from negligence is then on the charterer,[46] and if he introduces proof which is substantial enough to meet the presumption, or if he presents evidence to show what happened and the evidence shows no negligence, or more strictly fails to show negligence, the presumption disappears.[47] Proof by the owner of damage to a demised vessel and that it was moored in an unsafe place for the purpose of unloading makes out a prima facie case of negligence,[48] and it is then incumbent on the charterer to come forward with proof that the accident happened notwithstanding the exercise of reasonable care.[49]

Admissibility, weight and sufficiency of evidence. In actions for loss of, or injury to, a vessel from loading, stowing, or discharging cargo, or from berthing or mooring the vessel for such purposes, general rules in civil actions, and, more particularly, those applied in admiralty where the suit is brought as a proceeding in admiralty, apply with respect to the admissibility of evidence,[50] and the weight and sufficiency of evidence.[51] Accordingly, under the Schoonmaker-Conners Co. v. Lambert Transp. Co, C C A N Y, 268 F. 102.

Presumptions and burden of proof in actions against charterer for loss of, or injury to, vessel generally see supra § 56.

43. U.S.—Richmond Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Tidewater Const Corp, C A.Va., 170 F 2d 392—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v American Stevedores, C C A N Y, 151 F.2d 846—The Roslyn, C C A N.Y., 93 F.2d 278—The Moran No 10, D C N Y, 41 F.2d 255—New York Trap Rock Corp. v. Christie Scow Corp., D C. N Y, 68 F Supp 392, affirmed, C C. A., 162 F 2d 624—C. F. Harms Co v. Turner Const Co, D C N Y, 290 F. 612—The Monongahela, C.C.A. Cal., 282 F. 17.

44. U.S.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. American Stevedores, C C A N Y., 151 F.2d 846—The Roslyn, C C A.N.Y., 93 F 2d 278—C. F Harms Co. v. Turner Const Co, D C N Y., 290 F. 612—The John Carroll, C C.A.N Y, 275 F 302—Schoonmaker-Conners Co. v. Lambert Transp. Co, C C A.N.Y., 268 F 102

45. U.S —Richmond Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Tidewater Const Corp, C. A Va, 170 F 2d 392—The C W. Crane, C C A N.Y, 155 F 2d 940—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. American Stevedores, C C.A N Y, 151 F 2d 846—Waldie v Steers Sand & Gravel Corp, C C A N.Y., 151 F 2d 129—The Roslyn, C C.A N. Y., 93 F.2d 278—C. F. Harms Co v. Turner Const. Co, D C N.Y., 290 F. 612—The Monongahela, C C A. Cal, 282 F. 17—Schoonmaker Conners Co. v. Lambert Transp Co, C.C A.N.Y., 268 F. 102.

58 C J p 256 note 84 [c]

46. U.S.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. American Stevedores, C C. A.N Y, 151 F.2d 846—The Roslyn, C.C.A N.Y., 93 F.2d 278—The Gibraltar, C C A Pa., 52 F.2d 787—Shamrock Towing Co v. Tully & Di Napoli, D C N.Y., 91 F Supp 239, affirmed, C A, Anthony O'Boyle, Inc, v The Louis W Doyle, 187 F. 2d 872—New York Trap Rock Corp. v Christie Scow Corp, D.C.N.Y, 68 F.Supp 392, affirmed, C.C.A., 162 F 2d 624—C F. Harms Co v. Turner Const Co, D.C.N.Y, 290 F. 612—The John Carroll, C C A.N.Y, 275 F. 302—Schoonmaker Conners Co v Lambert Transp. Co., C.C.A N.Y., 268 F 102

47. U S.—Richmond Sand & Gravel Corp v. Tidewater Const Corp, C A Va, 170 F 2d 392—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. American Stevedores, C C A.N Y, 151 F.2d 846—The Roslyn, C C A N.Y., 93 F.2d 278

Proof of due care

Proof that bailee exercised due care in all that it did with respect to bailed scow not only served to rebut presumption of negligence of bailee but also tended to destroy bailor's initial proof that article was delivered in good condition.—Richmond Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Tidewater Const Corp, C A.Va., 170 F 2d 392

Evidence held sufficient to rebut presumption

U S —Richmond Sand & Gravel Corp. v Tidewater Const. Corp, supra—The Roslyn, C.C A N Y, 93 F 2d 278

Evidence held insufficient to rebut presumption

U S —Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v American Stevedores, C.C.A N.Y., 151 F 2d 846—The John Carroll, C. C A.N Y., 275 F. 302.

48. N Y —Neville v. Morrison Coal & Coke Co, 207 N.Y S. 471, 211 App Div 282

49. N.Y —Neville v. Morrison Coal & Coke Co., supra.

50. U S —Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v. Moran Towing Corp., C.C. A.N.Y., 154 F 2d 399.

58 C.J. p 257 note 95 [a] (5), [c] (2), [d] (3).

51. Preponderance of evidence is necessary to prove allegations.—The Cleary Bros. No. 61, C.C A.N.J., 61 F 2d 393—The Daly No 40, D.C.N.Y., 76 F Supp 700.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To justify holding stevedores employer primarily liable and charterer secondarily liable for fire damage to scow.—U. S. Lighterage Corp v Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp., C C A.N.Y., 142 F 2d 197.

(2) To show capsizing was not caused or contributed to by subcharterer.—Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v Moran Towing Corp., C.C.A N Y, 154 F 2d 399.

(3) To authorize an inference that fire started when stevedores were negligently permitted to smoke aboard scow so as to render their employer liable for damage.—U. S Lighterage Corp v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, D C.N Y., 51 F Supp 96, affirmed, C.C A, 142 F.2d 197.

(4) To show damages were only such as were rightfully classified as ordinary "wear and tear," for which respondents were not liable.—The G G Post, D.C.N.Y., 64 F Supp. 191.

(5) To show it was practice of dredging company when it had loaded scow which had no bargee on board, and had towed it out to stakeboat, to assign a dredge watchman to pump out scow.—F. E Grauwiller Transp Co. v. Exner Sand & Gravel Corp., C.C.A.N Y., 162 F.2d 90.

(6) To show that vessel could be repaired —Zeller Marine Corp. v. Nessa Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 166 F 2d 32.

(7) To show amount of damages.—Producers Pipe Line Co. v. Douglas Guardian Warehouse Corp., D.C Tenn, 48 F Supp. 161.

(8) To show other matters.—Salmons Dredging Corp. v. Herma, C.A. S C., 180 F.2d 233—Scottish Nav. Co. v. Munson S. S. Line, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.

facts and circumstances of the particular case evidence has been held sufficient or insufficient to establish seaworthiness[52] or unseaworthiness,[53] to establish negligence in loading, stowing, or discharging cargo,[54] or in using equipment,[55] or in mooring or berthing[56] for such purposes; or to establish negligence on the part of the owner of the vessel[57]

Trial. In actions for loss of, or injury to, a vessel from loading, stowing, or discharging the vessel, or from berthing or mooring the vessel for such purposes, general rules governing trials in civil actions, and, more particularly, those applied in admiralty where the suit is brought as a proceeding in admiralty, apply.[58]

e. Damages

The principle of compensation governing the measurement of damages generally is applicable in the case of the loss of, or injury to, a vessel from loading, stowing, or discharging cargo, or from berthing or mooring the vessel for such purposes. However, in admiralty, where the vessel injured is equally at fault the damages will be divided or apportioned.

2d 101, affirmed, C C A, 10 F 2d 708—The Zeller No 12, D C.N Y., 70 F. Supp 476—New York Trap Rock Corp. v Christie Scow Corp, D C N. Y, 68 F Supp 392, affirmed, C C A., 162 F.2d 624—Producers Pipe Line Co. v. Douglas Guardian Warehouse Corp, D C Tenn., 48 F Supp 161—58 C J p 258 note 98 [g] (32)

Evidence held insufficient to justify recovery

U S —O'Brien Bros. v. City of New York, D.C N.Y., 7 F.2d 485, affirmed, C C.A., 7 F.2d 488—The H. S. No 60, D C.N.Y., 52 F.Supp. 606—The Chippewa, D.C.N.Y., 11 F Supp. 376 —Bartley v. Borough Development Co, D.C.N.Y., 214 F. 296.

52. Evidence held sufficient

U S —The C. W. Crane, C C.A.N Y, 155 F.2d 940—The S. C. L. No. 9, C C A.Pa., 114 F 2d 964—Kelly v. Overseas Shipping Co., D.C.N.Y., 7 F 2d 732, affirmed, C.C.A., 7 F 2d 734—O'Donnell Transp Co. v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co., D C.N J, 90 F.Supp. 953, affirmed, C A, 185 F. 2d 675—The G. G. Post, D.C.N.Y, 64 F Supp 191.

53. Evidence held sufficient

U S —Scottish Nav. Co. v. Munson S. S. Line, D.C.N Y., 60 F 2d 101, affirmed, C.C A., 10 F 2d 708—New York, etc, Co. v. Delaware, etc, R. Co., C C.A.N.Y., 23 F 2d 487—The Daly No. 40, D.C N Y., 76 F. Supp 700—Penn Builders & Supply Co. v Braeburn Steel Co., C.C. A.Pa, 274 F 794—The Rosalie McLoughlin, D.C N.Y., 186 F. 255

58 C.J p 258 note 98 [g] (45), (46).

Evidence held insufficient

U S.—Salmons Dredging Corp. v Herma, C.A.S.C., 180 F 2d 233.

54. Evidence held sufficient

U.S —Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp. v. Moran Towing Corp., C.C.A N.Y., 154 F.2d 399—The S. C. L. No 9, C C A.Pa, 114 F 2d 964—Florida Gravel Co. v. Tampa Sand & Shell Co, C.C.A Fla., 49 F.2d 266—Kelly v. Overseas Shipping Co, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.2d 732, affirmed, C.C.A., 7 F 2d 734—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co, D C.N J., 90 F Supp. 953, affirmed, C.C.A., 185 F. 2d 675—The Benjamin Williams, D C Mass, 74 F.Supp 119—The Scipio, D.C N Y, 73 F Supp 402—The G G. Post, D C N Y, 64 F Supp. 191 —Marine Operating Co. v. Lindgren, Swinerton, Inc, D.C N Y, 63 F Supp. 1007—The Wilmer S Nickerson, D.C.N Y, 58 F Supp. 777—Smith v. Nicholson Transit Co, D.C N Y, 39 F Supp. 795—The Green Leaf, D C.N Y., 27 F Supp 911—Schoonmaker-Conners Co v. Lambert Transp. Co, C.C.A.N.Y., 268 F. 102

La —Interstate Transp Co. v. City of New Orleans, 28 So. 310, 52 La Ann. 1859.

Evidence held insufficient

U S —O'Brien Bros v. City of New York, D C N Y., 36 F 2d 102, affirmed, C C A., 36 F.2d 103—Stockard S. S Corp. v Jules S Sottnek Co, D.C N Y, 99 F.Supp 653—Compania De Vapores Arauco Panamena, S. A. v. Moore-McCormack Lines, D C N.Y., 91 F Supp. 545—Christie Scow Corp v. U S, D C.N Y, 85 F Supp 584—The Federal No. 1, D C N.Y., 27 F.Supp 907—Hastorf Contracting Co. v. Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, C C A N.Y., 272 F. 884—White v Schoonmaker-Connors Co, C C A N.J., 265 F. 465.

58 C.J. p 258 note 98 [h] (22), (41)

55. Evidence held sufficient

U S.—The L. & W B C. Co No. 11, D C N.Y., 53 F.Supp 326—Smith v Nicholson Transit Co., D C N Y., 39 F.Supp. 795

Evidence held insufficient

U S.—The Gibraltar, C.C.A.Pa., 52 F 2d 787—Stockard S S. Corp. v. Jules S Sottnek Co, D C N Y., 99 F.Supp 653.

56. Evidence held sufficient

U S —O'Boyle, Inc, v. City of New York, D C N.Y, 85 F Supp 858—The Zeller, No. 12, D C N Y, 70 F.Supp 476—The Jerry V. Petrie, D C N Y, 65 F Supp. 491—The Dorothy G., D C N Y, 55 F Supp. 318—The Henry McNamee, D C.N Y., 35 F.Supp 936.

Evidence held insufficient

U S.—Park S. S. Co. v Cities Service Oil Co., C.A.N.Y, 188 F 2d 804, certiorari denied Cities Service Oil Co. v. Park S S Co, 72 S.Ct. 87, 342 U S 862, 96 L Ed — —The Cleary Bros No. 61, C C A N.J, 61 F 2d 393—Arbor Shipping Co. v De La Guardia, Inc, C C A N Y., 54 F 2d 984—The Tynebridge, D C.Va, 6 F Supp 941.

57. Evidence held to show negligence

U S —Thorne, Neale & Co v. Reading Co, C C.A N.Y, 87 F.2d 694, certiorari denied Reading Co v Thorne Neal & Co, 58 S.Ct 10, 302 U S 690, 82 L.Ed 533—Bouchard Transp Co. v. Reading Co, C C.A N Y, 87 F 2d 694, certiorari denied Reading Co. v. Bouchard Transp Co, 58 S Ct. 10, 302 U S 690, 82 L Ed 533—Producers Pipe Line Co v. Douglas Guardian Warehouse Corp, D C Tenn, 48 F.Supp 161.

Evidence held to show absence of negligence

U.S —Seaboard Sand & Gravel Corp v Moran Towing Corp, C C.A N.Y., 154 F 2d 399

58. Instructions

(1) Should be confined to the issues —Dunwoody v Saunders, 39 So 965, 50 Fla. 202.

(2) Held proper.—Clyde v. Wood, 179 N.Y S 252, 189 App.Div. 737—58 C J. p 261 note 9 [b] (8).

(3) Held improper —Dunwoody v. Saunders, supra

Questions for court and jury

N Y.—Merrick, etc, Co v Terry, etc, Co, 174 N.Y.S 381, 106 Misc. 247 58 C.J. p 261 note 11 [d] (10), (11)

Judgment or decree

Where owner of scow in good repair, chartered it to scow company, which chartered it to stevedore company, which delivered it at bulkhead of concrete company to be loaded with concrete blocks, and scow became damaged while being loaded with concrete blocks by concrete company because of uneven bottom in the berth, owner of scow was entitled to a decree for the damage against scow company, scow company was entitled to decree over against stevedore company, and stevedore company was entitled to decree over against concrete company —The Jerry V. Petrie, D C.N.Y., 65 F.Supp. 491.

The principle of compensation governing the measurement of damages generally is applicable in the case of the loss of, or injury to, a vessel from loading, stowing, or discharging cargo, or from berthing or mooring the vessel for such purposes [59] If the vessel is totally lost, the measure of damages is the market value of the vessel at the time of her destruction.[60] Restitution or compensation is the measure of damages where the injured vessel is not a total loss, and repairs are practicable,[61] that is, the owner is entitled, in a proper case, to recover what it would cost to restore her to as good a condition as she was in before she was injured.[62] However, as the owner must do everything which may reasonably be expected of him to minimize his damage,[63] an award of damages must be calculated with recognition of this obligation to minimize damages,[64] and damages based on the replacement of an injured portion of the vessel will be denied where repairs made at a substantially lower cost will render her as serviceable as before.[65] The actual damages properly proved may be recovered although the vessel is not repaired [66] Damages may be awarded on satisfactory evidence of cost of reasonable and proper repairs,[67] even though such repairs have not been made,[68] and may never be made,[69] or the owner has made temporary repairs.[70]

Mutual fault. In admiralty, where the vessel injured is equally at fault the damages will be divided or apportioned.[71]

B. CONTRACTS OF AFFREIGHTMENT

§ 106. In General

a. Nature of contract
b. Form, requisites, and validity
c Construction
d. Rescission or cancellation

a. Nature of Contract

Contracts to carry or transport goods by water are contracts of affreightment.

Contracts of affreightment are maritime in nature,[72] and contracts to carry or transport goods by water are contracts of affreightment.[73] Such a con-

59. U.S.—The Zeller No 12, D C.N Y, 68 F.Supp. 795, affirmed, C C A, Zeller Marine Corp v. Nessa Corp, 166 F.2d 32—U. S Lighterage Corp. v Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, D C.N.Y, 51 F. Supp 96, affirmed, C C.A, 142 F 2d 197—The Bumble Bee, D C N.Y, 1 F.Supp 327, affirmed, C C A., Ira S. Bushey & Sons v. Huron Stevedoring Co, 64 F.2d 1014.

Ala.—Burton v. May, 103 So. 46, 212 Ala. 435.

Damage resulting from other causes

(1) A dock company improperly loading barge with coal was not liable to extent that damage to barge was aggravated by failure of barge's pumps.—The Scipio, D C.N Y, 73 F. Supp 402.

(2) Damages for any injury to scow caused by collision while being pushed by city fireboat were not recoverable in libel against charterer and employer of stevedores who were loading scow and whose negligence allegedly started fire in her cargo—U S Lighterage Corp v. Petterson Lighterage & Towing Corp, D.C N.Y, 51 F Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C.A., 142 F 2d 197.

Amount stipulated for delay

Where vessel is damaged by loading, amount provided in the charter for each day of delay in loading steamship was a fair, reasonable, and just measure of damages caused by delay.—Pateras v. Walsh Stevedoring Co., D.C Ala, 53 F Supp. 315.

60. U S.—The Zeller No. 12, D.C N. Y., 68 F.Supp. 795, affirmed, C.C.A., Zeller Marine Corp v. Nessa Corp., 166 F 2d 32

61. U S—The Zeller No. 12, D C N Y, 68 F Supp. 795, affirmed, C C.A, Zeller Marine Corp. v. Nessa Corp, 166 F 2d 32

62. U S—Zeller Marine Corp. v Nessa Corp., C C A N.Y., 166 F 2d 32

63. U S—Zeller Marine Corp. v. Nessa Corp., supra.

64. U S—Zeller Marine Corp. v Nessa Corp., supra

65. U.S.—Zeller Marine Corp. v. Nessa Corp, supra

66. U S.—The Bumble Bee, D C.N.Y, 1 F Supp. 327, affirmed, C.C.A, Ira S. Bushey & Sons v. Huron Stevedoring Co., 64 F 2d 1014.

67. U S.—The Zeller No. 12, D C.N Y., 68 F Supp. 795, affirmed, C C A, Zeller Marine Corp. v. Nessa Corp., 166 F 2d 32.

68. U S.—The Zeller No. 12, D C N Y, 68 F Supp. 795, affirmed, C.C.A, Zeller Marine Corp. v. Nessa Corp., 166 F.2d 32

69. U.S.—The Zeller No. 12, D.C.N. Y., 68 F.Supp. 795, affirmed, C.C.A., Zeller Marine Corp. v. Nessa Corp, 166 F.2d 32.

70. U S—The Bumble Bee, D C.N.Y, 1 F.Supp 327, affirmed, C C A., Ira S. Bushey & Sons v. Huron Stevedoring Co, 64 F.2d 1014.

71. U S—Smith Scow Corp. v. Seaboard Great Lakes Corp., C.C A.N. Y., 146 F 2d 535—Bouker Contracting Co v. Williamsburgh Power Plant Corp, C C A N Y., 130 F 2d 96—Bouchard Transp Co. v. Reading Co, C.C A N Y, 87 F.2d 694, certiorari denied Reading Co. v Bouchard Transp Co, 58 S Ct. 10, 302 U S. 690, 82 L Ed 533—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co, D C.N J, 90 F Supp 953, affirmed, C A., 185 F.2d 675—Pateras v. Walsh Stevedoring Co, D C Ala, 53 F Supp. 315—The Millwood, D C N.Y., 3 F Supp 156—National Dredging & Lighterage Co v Turney Transp. Co., C.C A Pa, 281 F. 315.

58 C J. p 234 note 30 [f].

Mitigation of damage

Contributory negligence of tank barge owner in failing to insulate exhaust pipe of engine operating pump used in discharging cargo of kerosene from barge was held properly taken into account in mitigating damages in libel for damage to tank barge caused by fire which occurred while cargo of kerosene was being discharged, and damages were mitigated by reducing them one third and by denial of interest on the entire claim.—Producers Pipe Line Co v. Douglas Guardian Warehouse Corp., D.C.Tenn., 48 F.Supp. 161.

72. U.S.—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S. A., C.A. Fla., 189 F.2d 148,

73. U.S.—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C.C.A.Va., 100 F.2d 971—Todd Shipyards Corp. v The City of Athens, D.C Md, 83 F.Supp. 67—The Commerce, D C N.Y., 46 F.Supp 360, affirmed, C.C.A., New England S. S.

tract establishes a relationship of shipper and carrier between the parties,[74] and creates mutual and reciprocal obligations between the ship and the cargo.[75] Neither the status of a contract to transport goods as a contract of affreightment[76] nor the relationship of shipper and carrier established thereby[77] is changed by the fact that some towage is involved in the transportation. A contract of hire is not one of affreightment;[78] but a contract entered into by the subcharterer of a steamship for transportation of a cargo for a designated voyage for a specified compensation, the subcharterer remaining in possession and control of the vessel, is a contract of affreightment, even though it is entitled a "charter party".[79]

Floating storage. While a contract for floating storage may, under certain circumstances, contemplate carriage in the limited sense of sustaining on water,[80] the relationship between a vessel owner and the cargo owner is not necessarily that of private carriage in every case of a contract for floating storage[81]

Contract to carry passengers compared. There is no distinction in principle between the liabilities of a ship under a contract to carry cargo and a contract to carry passengers.[82]

b. Form, Requisites, and Validity

A contract of affreightment must be based on a sufficient consideration, be mutual in obligation, and must not violate statutory restrictions on the right to contract.

In the absence of statute no particular form of agreement is required for a contract of affreightment.[83] It may be oral or written,[84] and may arise by implication of law on delivery of goods to a carrier for transportation[85] However, a contract of affreightment, in order to be enforceable, must, like other contracts, be supported by a sufficient consideration, either express or implied,[86] and there must be a meeting of the minds of the parties.[87] The contract must not be uncertain as to terms[88] In order to bind the ship the contract must be executed by a person authorized by the owner.[89] An unauthorized contract may, however, be rati-

Co. v. Howard, 130 F.2d 354
Or.—Marstaller v Albina Dock Co., 229 P 2d 269, 191 Or. 145.
58 C J. p 347 note 53
Contract of affreightment as basis for shipper's lien see infra § 110

In essence, shipowner under a contract of affreightment agrees to transport the goods—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co, D C Pa, 69 F Supp 61, motion denied 69 F Supp 1017.

74. U S.—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C. C A Va., 100 F.2d 971—Banks v. Chas. Kurz Co, D C Pa., 69 F.Supp 61, motion denied 69 F.Supp. 1017
Or.—Marstaller v Albina Dock Co, 229 P.2d 269, 191 Or. 145

75. U.S.—Krauss Bros Lumber Co v Dimon S. S Corp., Wash, 54 S. Ct 105, 290 U S. 117, 78 L Ed. 216—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S. A., C.A.Fla, 189 F.2d 148

76. U S—The Fred Smartley, Jr, C. C A.Va, 100 F 2d 971—The Independent, D C La, 37 F Supp 106, reversed on other grounds, C.C A., 122 F 2d 141.
58 C J. p 347 note 53.

77. Completion of voyage by tug
The relationship of "shipper" and "carrier" existing between barge owner and owner of cargo was not changed by fact that barge owner had voyage completed by tug operated by third persons with whom barge owner made contract of towage.—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C.C A.Va., 100 F 2d 971.

78. N.Y.—Sherman v. Fream, 30 Barb 478
58 C J p 347 note 54.
Charters see supra §§ 26–36.

Lease of barges
A contract, whereby towing company agreed to lease barges to oil company at certain rate per month and to furnish tug to tow barges at certain rate for each trip, and whereby no receipt or bill of lading was issued by towing company and oil company retained custody and control of oil until it was delivered to its customer, was one of "charter" of barges and a separate contract for towing whenever called on to do so, and was not a contract of "affreightment."—The Independent, C.C A La, 122 F 2d 141

79. U S—The Tampico, C.C.A.Cal., 286 F. 482
Demise charter and contract of affreightment distinguished see supra § 34.

80. U S—The Jungshovel, C C.A N. Y., 290 F. 733.

81. U.S—The Frank A Smith, D C. N.Y., 8 F Supp. 134.

Certificate delivered to owner of grain and signed by owner's agent, stating that grain had been delivered on board barge and would be delivered up on surrender of certificate did not show contract of private carriage, or that barge owner retained possession of barge, but was merely memorandum of delivery of grain and that delivery of receipt would be regarded as symbolic delivery of cargo.—The Frank A. Smith, supra.

82. U.S—Todd Shipyards Corp. v. The City of Athens, D.C Md., 83 F Supp. 67.

83. U.S.—Mackey v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 83 F Supp 14, affirmed, C.A., 197 F 2d 241

84. U S—Mackey v U. S, supra.
Oral contract held binding on parties
U S.—West India SS Co v. Chicago House Wrecking Co., N Y., 249 F 338, 161 C C.A 346, certiorari denied 38 S Ct. 580, 247 U S. 514, 62 L Ed 1244

85. U S—Mackey v U. S, D C.N Y, 83 F Supp 14, affirmed, C.A., 197 F 2d 241.

86. N.Y.—Transatlantic Rapid System v Decoulos, 62 N Y S 2d 529, 270 App Div. 987.

In the absence of express consideration or mutual promises the contract is unenforceable.—Transatlantic Rapid System v. Decoulos, supra.

Sufficient consideration
Alleged contract, whereby owner of vessel agreed to hold space available on steamer to meet freight contracts which shipper undertook to solicit and procure, was supported by adequate consideration.—Transatlantic Rapid System v. Decoulos, 66 N.Y S 2d 361, 271 App Div. 865.

87. U S.—Chapman v. Java Pac Line, Cal, 241 F. 850, 154 C C.A 552, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct 11, 245 U S. 650, 62 L Ed 531.

88. U.S—Liebes v Klengenberg, C C.A Cal., 23 F 2d 611, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct 559, 277 U.S. 596, 72 L Ed. 1006.

89. U.S—The Capitaine Faure, C.C. A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Société De Navigation A Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, fied,[90] or the carrier may be bound by estoppel.[91] A dock receipt is not the contract governing the right of the parties where a bill of lading is given.[92] Where the parties thought that the vessel whose services were contracted for could carry more than in fact it could, but agreed on a flat rate for a full load for a trip, the contract is not void for mutual mistake.[93]

Offer and acceptance. Where the owner offers to receive goods on board but the writing lacks mutuality, it will be construed as a mere offer to contract, and not as a contract of affreightment,[94] and the fact that he so receives part of the goods does not render him liable for refusal to receive the balance of the shipment.[95] So, negotiations between a prospective shipper and the carrier, which constitute nothing more than a good-faith opinion expressed by the carrier that it will be able to furnish facilities to transport the goods involved before the close of navigation, do not of themselves constitute a binding contract of affreightment.[96] Similarly, the quotation of a rate on a specified tonnage, in reply to an inquiry as to ocean freight rate on certain goods, is at most only an offer, requiring acceptance.[97] However, where the shipper has expressed satisfaction with rates quoted by the carrier and informed it that he would advise when he was ready to ship, the contract is complete notwithstanding the shipper at the same time makes further inquiry as to through rates involving transportation by rail to the point of loading on the carrier's boats.[98] An agent of a lighterage corporation will be deemed to have accepted a contract of carriage where he held in silence the letter and delivery order of the shipper who believed that he was contracting with the corporation, although the latter forwarded the order to another lighterman without informing the shipper.[99]

Mutuality. In accordance with general rules, unless both parties to a contract of affreightment are bound so that either has a cause of action for a breach thereof, neither is bound.[1] A contract, binding the shipper to pay for space unused in a vessel by reason of the shipper's failure to furnish a cargo according to contract, is not, it has been held, unilateral.[2]

Restrictions on right to contract. Within the limits prescribed by legislation and public policy, maritime contracts of carriage may, like any other contract, include provisions limiting and defining the relations of the parties.[3] A distinction has sometimes been made between a contract for private carriage by water and for public or common carriage.[4] In private carriage by water it has been said that the carrier and the shipper are free to contract as they choose, and make such terms as they can agree on.[5] On the other hand, in the case

46 S Ct 634, 271 U S 684, 70 L Ed 1150.

58 C J p 345 note 13.

Requisites and validity of:
Bill of lading see infra § 113.
Stipulations varying general rule as to time freight earned see infra § 160.

Who may execute bills of lading see infra § 112

90. U S —Morris v. Alvah, D.C N.Y., 59 F. 630.

91. La —Dunn v. Branner, 13 La Ann. 452.
Tenn.—Elett v. Embury, 217 S W 818, 142 Tenn. 444.

92. U S —The Capitaine Faure, C C. A N Y., 10 F 2d 950, certiorari denied Société De Navigation A Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U S 684, 70 L Ed 1150

93. Wis —Horn v. Schlosser, 215 N. W. 451, 193 Wis. 647.

94. N Y.—White v North German Lloyd SS. Co, 113 N Y S 805, 61 Misc. 268.

95. N.Y —White v North German Lloyd SS. Co, supra.

96. U S —Holt Motor Co v. Nicholson Universal S. S. Co., D.C Minn, 56 F Supp. 585.

97. Miss —Gulf, etc, R. Co v U. S Cast-Iron Pipe, etc, Co, 72 So 882, 112 Miss 141.

98. Ala —Payne v Zimmern, 92 So 433, 207 Ala. 155.
58 C J. p 346 note 29

99. U S —Waterbury Co. v. Sunset Lighterage Corp, C.C.A.N Y, 25 F 2d 621.

1. U S —Eastern Transp. Co v Blue Ridge Coal Corp, C C A N Y., 159 F 2d 642.
N Y —Transatlantic Rapid System v Decoulos, 62 N.Y S 2d 529, 270 App. Div 987.

Shipper not required to take any space

Alleged contract, whereby owner of vessel agreed that shipping space on vessel was to be used in any amount required by the defendant up to specified amount, but which did not require defendant to take any space on the vessel, was unenforceable for lack of consideration —Transatlantic Rapid System v. Decoulos, 62 N.Y S 2d 529, 270 App Div 987.

2. Tex —Clarkson v. Gans SS. Line, Civ App, 187 S W. 1106

3. Ga —Bloomberg-Michael Furniture Co v Urquhart, 143 S E 789, 38 Ga App 304
N.Y.—M. & T. Trust Co v. Export S S Corporation, 186 N.E. 214, 262 N.Y. 92, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct 70, 290 U.S. 650, 78 L.Ed. 563.

If a certain mode of carriage is not obviously unreasonable, any contract for such carriage is neither invalid per se nor invalid under the circumstances, in the absence of clear proof of knowledge of some fact that would establish it as unreasonable —The Idefjord, D C N.Y., 31 F Supp. 667, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A, 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinji, A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp, 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L Ed 459

4. U S —Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C C A N.Y, 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S.Ct 25, 302 U S. 706, 82 L Ed 545—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const Corp., D.C Conn, 89 F.Supp. 272.

5. U.S —Koppers Connecticut Coke Co v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C C A N.Y, 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S Ct 25, 302 U.S. 706, 82 L Ed 545—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp & Const Corp., D. C Conn, 89 F.Supp 272.

of contracts of common or public carriage, the parties are limited by, and subject to, the statutes regulating carriage by water.[6] Statutes governing contracts of common carriage have been held inapplicable to contracts of private carriage,[7] unless expressly incorporated therein.[8] Where a contract of private carriage is entered into, the existence of a tariff of rates published by the carrier does not transform the contract into one of public carriage,[9] even though the contract, by its terms, is made subject to the conditions of the published tariff.[10] Contracts of affreightment which violate governing statutes are invalid and unenforceable.[11] A contract to carry contraband goods is valid and binding,[12] and so is a contract to carry such goods to a blockaded port.[13] A provision that the ship is to have liberty to call at ports in or out of the customary route, in any order, to receive or discharge cargo or passengers, or for any other purpose, is valid, where a stop is for a purpose proper or necessary to the voyage in which the ship is engaged.[14] A statute, providing that "agreements existing at the time of the organization of the shipping board shall be lawful until disapproved by the board," applies to a continuing contract for carriage between a carrier and a shipper.[15]

Person in possession of goods

As a general rule, a carrier has the right to make any reasonable contract with the person in possession of goods.—The Idefjord, D C N.Y., 31 F Supp. 667, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 114 F 2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinji, A/S v Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S Ct 175, 311 U S 707, 85 L Ed. 459

6. U.S.—Calderon v. Atlas S S Co, N.Y, 18 S Ct 588, 170 U S 272, 42 L.Ed. 1033—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C C.A.N Y, 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S Ct 25, 302 U S 706, 82 L Ed 545—Prince Line v. American Paper Exports, D C N Y, 45 F 2d 242, affirmed, C.C.A., 55 F 2d 1053—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. American Tobacco Co., C C A N.Y., 31 F 2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S Ct. 16, 280 U S 555, 74 L Ed 611—Fiorita & Amoroso v. Cunard S. S. Co., D C N.Y, 10 F 2d 244—Atlantic & Gulf/West Coast of Central America & Mexico Conference (No. 2743) v. U. S., D C.N.Y, 94 F Supp. 138—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp & Const Corp, D C.Conn., 89 F Supp 272—The Monte Iciar, D C.Pa, 67 F Supp 201, affirmed, C C A, 167 F 2d 334—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S S. Co., D.C Minn, 56 F Supp 585—S. L. Shepard & Co. v Agwilines, Inc., D C S.C., 39 F Supp. 528, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 130 F 2d 67—Swift v Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd, D.C Mass, 87 F. 345.

N.Y.—Belmont Iron Works v. Pacific Coast Direct Line, 291 N Y.S 360, 249 App.Div 156, motion denied 292 N.Y.S. 960, 249 App Div. 730, affirmed 11 N E.2d 297, 275 N.Y 461, certiorari denied 58 S Ct. 264, 302 U.S. 747, 82 L Ed. 577—Sands v Calmar S. S Corp, 296 N Y.S 590, 163 Misc 757—Black Diamond S. S Corporation v. S. H. Kress & Co, 284 N.Y S. 310, 157 Misc. 360.

Discriminatory contracts see supra § 104.

Limitation of liability of carrier by contract see infra §§ 131–138.

Statute read into contract

U S—Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v American Tobacco Co, C C A N Y, 31 F.2d 663, certiorari denied 50 S Ct. 16, 280 U S 555, 74 L Ed 611.

Approval by Maritime Commission

Where shipping contract containing war clause between merchant and conference formed by ocean carriers and merchant's booking with carrier for transportation of particular commodity were parts of one transaction, in determining carrier's liability on refusing to transport commodity because of war, the shipping contract could not be disregarded on theory that, because journey of vessel was wholly outside United States, the United States Maritime Commission was without authority to sanction contract where carrier did not rely on any action by Maritime Commission and absence of approval by Maritime Commission would not render contract invalid.—Associated Metals & Minerals Corp. v. Swedish America Mexico Line, D C N Y., 48 F Supp. 819, affirmed, C C A., 140 F 2d 863.

7. U S.—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co v James McWilliams Blue Line, C.C A N.Y, 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S.Ct. 25, 302 U S 706, 82 L Ed 545—The Westmoreland, C C A N Y., 86 F 2d 96—The Robin Gray, C.C A.N.Y, 65 F 2d 376, certiorari denied Seas Shipping Co. v Approximately 3,251,000 Feet Board Measure of Lumber, 54 S Ct. 70, 290 U S. 653, 78 L Ed 566—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp & Const. Corp, D C Conn., 89 F.Supp. 272.

8. U.S.—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C.C A N Y., 89 F.2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co., 58 S.Ct 25, 302 U.S. 706, 82 L Ed 545—The Westmoreland, C C.A N Y., 86 F.2d 96—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const Corp, D.C.Conn, 89 F Supp. 272.

9. U S—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp & Const Corp, supra

10. U S—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const Corp, supra

11. U S—Prince Line v American Paper Exports, D C N.Y., 45 F 2d 242, affirmed, C C A., 55 F 2d 1053—Fiorita & Amoroso v. Cunard S. S Co., D.C N Y, 10 F.2d 244—Holt Motor Co v. Nicholson Universal S S. Co, D C.Minn, 56 F.Supp 585—S L Shepard & Co. v Agwilines, Inc., D C.S C., 39 F Supp 528, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A, 130 F 2d 67.

N.Y—Belmont Iron Works v. Pacific Coast Direct Line, 291 N Y.S 360, 249 App.Div. 156, motion denied 292 N.Y S. 960, 249 App Div. 730, affirmed 11 N E.2d 297, 275 N Y 461, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 264, 302 U.S. 747, 82 L Ed 577—Sands v Calmar S S. Corporation, 296 N.Y S. 590, 163 Misc 757—Black Diamond S. S. Corporation v S. H Kress & Co, 284 N.Y.S. 310, 157 Misc. 360.

12. U S—Northern Pac. R. Co. v American Trading Co, N.Y, 25 S Ct. 84, 195 U S 439, 49 L.Ed 269—M. A. Quina Export Co v. Seebold, D C.Fla., 280 F 147, affirmed, C.C A, 287 F. 626—Luckenbach S S Co v. W. R. Grace & Co, C.C.A Va, 267 F. 676, certiorari denied 41 S Ct. 14, 254 U S 644, 65 L Ed. 454

Citizen of a neutral state may lawfully contract to carry contraband of war and his undertaking will be enforced by the courts of the neutral state—Balfour, Guthrie & Co v. Portland & Asiatic S S. Co., D.C Or., 167 F. 1010.

13. U.S—M. A Quina Export Co. v. Seebold, D.C Fla, 280 F 147, affirmed, C C.A., 287 F 626

14. U.S.—South Atlantic SS. Line v London-Savannah Naval Stores Co, Ga, 255 F. 305, 166 C.C.A. 476

15. U S—Ellamar Min. Co. v. Alaska SS Co, C C A.Wash, 5 F 2d 890, certiorari dismissed 47 S Ct. 455, 273 U S. 780, 71 L Ed. 889.

Modification of a contract of affreightment, made without consideration, is ineffective.[16]

c. Construction

In general, contracts of affreightment are subject to construction, and are to be construed like other contracts.

Contracts of affreightment, like other commercial contracts, where the language employed is ambiguous or of doubtful meaning, are subject to judicial construction,[17] and general rules of construction prevail.[18] Thus, the intent of the parties is to be sought,[19] and, when found, is to be made effectual, if possible.[20] A liberal construction is to be given in furtherance of the real intention of the parties,[21] and, on motion to dismiss his suit, a party is entitled to the benefit of the construction most favorable to him;[22] but, although a party intended to insert a certain provision in the contract, if he fails to do so, the court cannot do it for him.[23]

Where several instruments are made as part of the same transaction they will be read together, in order properly to interpret them, as if they constituted a single document.[24] Thus, the mutual obligations of the parties must be governed by the written contract of affreightment and the bills of lading accepted by the shipper without objection,[25] although, where the bills differ from the contract prima facie, the latter governs,[26] it has been held, however, that any irreconcilable repugnancy between a prior written contract and the bill of lading must be resolved in favor of the former,[27] unless the parties clearly intended that the bill of lading should constitute a new contract.[28]

All provisions must be taken into consideration in determining the scope and effect of the contract as a whole,[29] every clause must be given effect, if possible,[30] and, where the meaning is not clear, regard should be had to all the attendant circumstances,[31] the nature of the instrument itself, the condition of the parties executing it, and the object and purposes they had in view,[32] and the court must hold the contract to have been made in light of, and

16. U S—Western Lumber Mfg. Co v. U S, D C.Cal, 9 F 2d 1004
Cal—Atlantic Fish Co. v. Dollar SS Line, 269 P. 926, 205 Cal. 65

17. U S—Bird of Paradise, Cal, 5 Wall 545, 18 L Ed 662—Metals & Minerals Corp. v. Swedish America Mexico Line, D C.N.Y, 48 F Supp 819, affirmed, C C A, 140 F 2d 863.
Construction of provisions as to freight rate see infra § 161.
"Privilege of reshipping" see infra § 115.

18. Tex—Perry v. Langbehn, 252 S W 472, 113 Tex. 72
58 C J. p 346 note 37, p 349 note 83

Contract construed
U S—Metals & Minerals Corp v Swedish America Mexico Line, D C N Y, 48 F Supp. 819, affirmed, C C A., 140 F 2d 863

19. U S—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v Colombian S S. Co., C.C.A Canal Zone, 88 F 2d 392
58 C J. p 346 note 37.

Cargo owner's agreement to insure vessels
Steamer towing barges was held within clause "tugs or other vessels," whose liability was excluded from open policies required of cargo owner—The J B Austin, Jr, C.C.A N.Y., 57 F 2d 80.

20. Tex—Perry v Langbehn, 252 S W. 472, 113 Tex. 72.
58 C.J. p 346 note 38.

21. U.S—Perry v. Langbehn, supra

22. N.Y.—Stearns v. Stollwerck Chocolate Co, 221 N Y.S. 512, 220 App.Div 265
58 C.J. p 347 note 40.

23. U S—Petroleum Export Corp. v Kerr SS Co., C.C A Cal, 32 F.2d 969.

24. U.S.—Associated Metals & Minerals Corp v. Swedish America Mexico Line, D.C N Y, 48 F.Supp 819, affirmed, C C A., 140 F 2d 863

Contracts with carrier conference and with carrier
Where shipping contract between merchant and conference formed by ocean carriers gave conference option to cancel contract in event of war and where booking for transportation of particular commodity did not contain all terms, the shipping contract and the booking were integral parts of a single arrangement and cancellation of the shipping contract by the conference released carrier from liability under the booking—Associated Metals & Minerals Corp v Swedish America Mexico Line, supra.

25. U S—Callister v. U. S. Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corp, D C N Y, 21 F 2d 447, affirmed, C. C A, 30 F 2d 1008
58 C J. p 347 note 42.
Bill of lading as constituting contract see infra § 113

Reference to regular form
Terms of carrier's regular form of bill of lading attached to shipping contract and referred to therein were held integral part of contract.—American-West African Line v. Socony Vacuum Corporation, D.C.N.Y., 4 F Supp 515.

Dock receipt stating that it was subject to carrier's bill of lading made bill part of contract.—Lawrence Leather Co. v. Norton, Lilly & Co, D C N Y, 15 F 2d 101—Bingham v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 12 F Supp. 35, affirmed, C C A., 88 F 2d 1004.

26. U S.—Swift v. Glasgow Steam Shipping Co, D C N Y, 280 F 910—The Citta Di Palermo, D C N Y, 153 F 378, affirmed 165 F 437, 91 C.C A. 592.
Merger of contract in bill of lading see infra § 113.

27. U.S—Toyo Kisen Kaisha v. W R Grace & Co, C.C.A Cal, 53 F 2d 740

28. U.S—Toyo Kisen Kaisha v. W R Grace & Co, supra.

29. U S—The Olympia, D C Or, 156 F. 252
Tex—Perry v. Langbehn, 252 S.W 472, 113 Tex 72.
58 C J p 347 note 44.

30. U S—Balfour, etc, Co v. Portland, etc, SS. Co, D C Or, 167 F. 1010.

31. U S—Toyo Kisen Kaisha v. W R Grace & Co, C C A Cal, 53 F 2d 740—The Wildwood, D C Wash, 41 F Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S Ct 1436, 319 U.S 771, 87 L Ed 1719—Pacific Coast Co v. Yukon Independent Transp. Co, C C A.Wash., 155 F. 29.

32. U S—Scott v U. S, Ct.Cl, 12 Wall. 443, 20 L Ed 438.
58 C J. p 347 note 46.

with reference to, known conditions, such as the existence of war.[33]

Words will be given a reasonable construction where that is possible, rather than an unusual one,[34] and should be given a meaning as used in the mercantile sense.[35] If ambiguities and inconsistencies can be avoided by construing words in the sense in which the parties apparently used them, such construction should be employed,[36] and if inharmonious provisions are found, the general intent and leading purpose of the contract should control minor provisions.[37] If ambiguous inferences in a contract prepared by the carrier are rationally conceivable, the one favorable to the shipper is controlling.[38] It is not to be supposed that contracts are entered into to be avoided at the will and pleasure of either of the parties, unless such a purpose be expressed by clear enunciation.[39] They are rather to be considered as mutually obligatory, and the construction, where the language is of doubtful import, that will give them that effect should be adopted.[40] A letter from a shipper to the carrier stating that he will arrange to place marine insurance on the cargo for the invoiced value of it, in addition to freight charges of a specified rate per gross tons, for account of the shipper, has been held not to constitute a contract to insure the cargo and freight for the benefit of both the shipper and carrier.[41]

Time of taking effect. A contract of affreightment takes effect from the loading of the vessel, from which time each party is bound to the other for the full performance of the contract;[42] and the date of the bill of lading is immaterial.[43]

Implied terms. Every contract for carriage by water implies that the boat is fit for the purpose at the time for its performance,[44] and that services performed under the contract will be performed in a workmanlike manner.[45] Specific terms of a contract may be implied from the words used, taken in connection with the previous dealings of the parties.[46] There is an implied understanding or term that the carrier will issue the customary bill of lading prescribing liability.[47] A contract by a carrier to transport goods in certain vessels during a stated period, and by the shipper to load such vessels, obligates the carrier by implication to continue the boats in service during the term.[48] Where a contract to carry freight from a certain port does not specify the place for loading, it is the carrier's duty to take the cargo at any reasonably accessible place in the harbor which might be designated by the shipper.[49] A contract for shipment on one of two specified steamships implies that the goods are to be shipped on the one first sailing if delivered in reasonable time for taking them on board thereof; otherwise on the other.[50]

Representations and warranties. A statement of the carrier's agent that there was little possibility of the steamer being tied up is not a warranty to deliver before close of navigation.[51] Also, a statement by the carrier or his agent as to the expected

33. U.S.—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

34. U.S.—Balfour, etc., Co. v. Portland, etc., SS. Co., D.C.Or., 167 F. 1010.

35. U.S.—Dorrance v. Barber, C.C.A. N.Y., 262 F. 489
58 C.J. p. 347 note 48

36. U.S.—Centrosoyus-America v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 31 F.2d 610
58 C.J. p. 347 note 49

37. Tex.—Perry v. Langbehn, 252 S.W. 472, 113 Tex. 72

38. U.S.—Pope & Talbot v. Guernsey-Westbrook Co., C.C.A.Cal., 159 F.2d 139.

39. U.S.—Balfour, etc., Co. v. Portland, etc., SS. Co., D.C.Or., 167 F. 1010.

40. U.S.—Balfour, etc., Co. v. Portland, etc., SS. Co., supra.

Contract to furnish barges shipper may require

A contract by which carrier was to furnish such barges as coal shipper "may require" would be illusory if quoted phrase meant only "may request," but would be valid if parties understood that shipper would employ carrier, or another carrier with which shipper had similar contract, to ship whatever coal shipper had for shipment.—Eastern Transp. Co. v. Blue Ridge Coal Corp., C.C.A. N.Y., 159 F.2d 642.

Subsequent understanding of parties

Where the conduct of the parties subsequent to execution of the contract shows an understanding which would make it valid and enforceable, such understanding will be given effect, although the contract might otherwise be unenforceable as not mutually binding.—Eastern Transp. Co. v. Blue Ridge Coal Corp., supra.

41. U.S.—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. Brooklyn & Buffalo Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 56 F.2d 271.

42. U.S.—McLeod Lumber Co. v. Crowley, D.C.Cal., 8 F.2d 283.
58 C.J. p. 345 note 9.
What constitutes delivery of cargo to vessel see infra § 109.

43. Ark.—Lee Line Steamers v. Craig, 164 S.W. 274, 111 Ark. 550.

44. U.S.—Morris v. The Alvah, D.C. N.Y., 59 F. 630
58 C.J. p. 348 note 58.

45. Tex.—Elder v. Weld-Neville Cotton Co., Com.App., 231 S.W. 102
58 C.J. p. 348 note 59.

46. U.S.—Balfour, etc., Co. v. Portland, etc., SS. Co., D.C.Or., 167 F. 1010

47. U.S.—The Orizaba, D.C.N.Y., 32 F.2d 326
Duty to issue bill of lading see infra § 112.

48. U.S.—Great Lakes, etc., Transp. Co. v. Scranton Coal Co., Ill., 239 F. 603, 152 C.C.A. 437
Duty to continue service generally see supra § 102.

49. Ala.—Payne v. Zimmern, 92 So. 433, 207 Ala. 155

50. N.Y.—Fowler v. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co., 87 N.Y. 190.
58 C.J. p. 348 note 66

51. U.S.—Grammer SS. Co. v. Richardson, D.C.N.Y., 37 F.2d 366, affirmed, C.C.A., 47 F.2d 186.

date of arrival of a vessel at its destination is a mere representation rather than a warranty,[52] as is a provision in the contract fixing the "expected time of loading;"[53] but a contract for transshipment and carriage of goods to be shipped from the first port at a specified time is a warranty that they will then be shipped.[54]

Agreements to furnish all transportation required between two points do not include through traffic, which does not require transshipment.[55]

Usage of port or trade. A contract for the shipment of goods from a specified port must be understood as having been made in view of the custom of the port with reference to loading;[56] and one peculiar to a certain export trade may be interpreted in the light of the custom of the business,[57] and the construction placed on it by the parties [58]

Liability of agent. In accordance with the general rule, an engagement of cargo space from a steamship line constitutes a contract, which binds the maker to furnish the cargo, or respond in damages, although it was in fact made in behalf of a third person, where such fact was not disclosed;[59] and so a shipping company, signing as "agents" a contract of carriage without disclosing the principal, is bound as carrier,[60] but not where the principal's identity is sufficiently disclosed;[61] and it has been held that an agent booking through brokers is not liable for a breach by the latter, although he failed to disclose the steamship with which the freight had been booked, he not having been able to ascertain the identity thereof and the shipper having made no objection to booking through brokers.[62]

d. Rescission or Cancellation

Contracts of affreightment may be canceled or terminated pursuant to an agreement of the parties or because of a mutual mistake of fact.

A right to cancel or terminate a contract of affreightment in the event of the occurrence of specified events may be conferred on the parties by the express terms thereof.[63] Accordingly, where so provided by the contract, it may be terminated in the event of the imminence or existence of war.[64] Apart from express agreement, a declaration or state of war between two countries has been held to put an end to a contract of affreightment between citizens or subjects of the countries involved,[65] such as a contract to carry cargo to the enemy country.[66] However, a declaration of war does not dissolve a shipping contract where the port of destination is domestic, even though transportation is rendered more hazardous thereby.[67]

52. N Y—Olavarria & Co. v Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., 33 N Y.S 2d 201, affirmed 36 N Y S 2d 422, 264 App.Div 845

53. U.S—Petroleum Export Corp. v. Kerr SS Co., C.C.A.Cal, 32 F 2d 969.

Belief or expectation

A shipping agent's letter to cargo shipper stating that a ship was "expected" to be ready to be loaded at a port on a stated date constituted a representation of a belief or expectation, and did not obligate agent to have the ship at the port on the stated date—L. N Jackson & Co v. Seas Shipping Co, 56 N Y S 2d 501, 185 Misc 94, affirmed 61 N Y S 2d 371, 270 App Div. 830, affirmed 68 N E 2d 605, 296 N.Y. 529, motion denied 69 N E 2d 483, 296 N.Y. 635

54. U.S—Dorrance v. Barber, C C A N Y., 262 F. 489.

55. U S—Scott v. U S, Ct Cl., 12 Wall. 443, 20 L.Ed. 438.
58 C.J. p 349 note 75.

56. U.S—New York, etc, Mail SS Co v Guayaquil, etc, R Co, C C A N Y, 270 F. 200, certiorari dismissed 42 S Ct. 51, 257 U S. 642, 66 L.Ed. 412.

57. Tex—Perry v Langbehn, 252 S. W 472, 113 Tex 72.
58 C.J. p 349 note 77.

58. Tex—Perry v Langbehn, supra.

59. U.S—Baltimore Steam-Packet Co v. Patterson, Md, 106 F. 736, 45 C C.A. 575, 66 L R A. 193.
58 C J p 349 note 80

60. U.S—Eccles v. Strachan Shipping Co, D C Ga, 21 F 2d 653.

61. La—Wichita Falls Motor Co. v. Kerr SS Co., 107 So. 777, 160 La. 992.
N.Y—Olavarria & Co v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co, 33 N Y S 2d 201, affirmed 36 N Y S 2d 422, 264 App. Div 845

62. U S—Baldwin Shipping Co v. Southern Pac. Co, C C.A.Cal., 274 F. 347.

63. U S—Associated Metals & Minerals Corp v. Swedish America Mexico Line, D C N Y, 48 F Supp. 819, affirmed, C C.A., 140 F 2d 863
N.Y—Olavarria & Co. v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co, 33 N Y.S 2d 201, affirmed 36 N Y.S 2d 422, 264 App. Div. 845.
Excuses for nonperformance see infra § 108.

64. U S—Associated Metals & Minerals Corp v Swedish America Mexico Line, D C N Y, 48 F Supp 819, affirmed, C C A., 140 F 2d 863.
N Y—Olavarria & Co. v Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., 33 N Y S.2d 201, affirmed 36 N.Y S 2d 422, 264 App. Div. 845.

Construction of contract

(1) Where freight contract to carry sugar from the United States to Bordeaux, France, provided that, in the event of the imminence or existence of war between any nation affecting the operations of the carrier, the carrier shall have the right to cancel the engagement, and the carrier was a citizen of Norway which was at war with Germany, and the Germans had occupied Bordeaux under armistice terms with France, the carrier had the right to cancel the agreement—Olavarria & Co. v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co, supra.

(2) Under provision of shipping contract between merchant and conference formed by ocean carriers giving conference option of canceling agreement in event of "existence of war," existence of war justified termination of shipping contract as against contention that right of refusal to go on with the contract related only to future commitments.—Associated Metals & Minerals Corp. v. Swedish America Mexico Line, D C N Y, 48 F Supp 819, affirmed, C C. A, 140 F.2d 863.

65. U S—The Francis, C.C R I, 9 F.Cas.No.5,032, 1 Gall. 445, affirmed 8 Cranch 354, 3 L Ed 587 and 9 Cranch 183, 3 L.Ed. 590.

66. U.S.—The Francis, supra.
Mass.—Brown v. Delano, 12 Mass. 370.

67. N Y—Graves v. Miami Steamship Co., 61 N.Y.S. 115, 29 Misc. 645.

A contract of carriage may be rescinded because of mutual mistake of fact;[68] but a carrier cannot cancel its contract, as far as it imposes obligations on it, and hold the cargo in order to keep or earn freight.[69] The fact that a shipper and carrier are both subsidiaries of the same company does not constitute ground for vacating a shipping contract between them, which was fair and advantageous when entered into.[70]

§ 107. —— What Law Governs

In the absence of an intention of the parties to the contrary, the law of the place where the contract is made ordinarily will govern a contract of affreightment, although the law of the place of performance will govern with respect to performance of the contract.

In determining the law applicable with respect to the construction and effect of a shipping contract the court must look to the intention of the parties,[71] and reference should be had to the character of the contract, the parties thereto, and where entered into.[72] The rights and liabilities of the parties under the contract have been variously said to be governed by the law of the place where it was made or where it was to be executed,[73] or by the law of the flag,[74] unless the intention of the parties appears to be that some other law should govern;[75] and a contract of affreightment made in one country, the performance of which begins there, is governed by the law of that country, unless the parties when entering into the contract clearly manifest a mutual intention that it shall be governed by the law of some other country.[76] A contract of carriage made outside the United States, involving loading and carriage between foreign ports, is governed by foreign law.[77]

Provisions in a bill of lading that all questions arising thereunder against the ship or her owners should be governed by the law of the country under whose flag the ship is sailing have been held valid;[78] but the law of the flag as far as it differs from the general maritime law is but a mere municipal law of the ship's home and has no authority abroad except by comity, and will not be adopted in a foreign forum when against the policy, or prejudicial to the citizens of the country, of the forum,[79] even though the parties have so stipulated in the shipping contract,[80] this rule being especially applicable to contracts exempting the carrier from liability for negligence and also providing that the stipulation shall be governed by the law of a country where such a stipulation is sustained.[81]

Questions of initial validity and of interpretation of the terms of a bill of lading are governed by the law of the place where the bill of lading is issued,[82] but questions relating to the performance

Transportation from neutral foreign port to domestic port

U.S.—Luckenbach S. S. Co v. W. R. Grace & Co., C.C.A.Va., 267 F. 676, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 14, 254 U.S. 644, 65 L.Ed. 454.

68. U.S.—Ontario Paper Co. v. Neff, C.C.A.Ill., 261 F. 353
58 C.J. p 349 note 85.

69. U.S.—Cohn v. U. S. Shipping Board, C.C.A.Tenn., 20 F.2d 56

70. N.Y.—Austin v. Pacific Coast Co., 102 N.Y.S.2d 914, 278 App.Div. 640.

71. U.S.—The Steel Inventor, D.C. Md., 35 F.Supp. 986
What law governs lien of shipper see infra § 110.

Maritime law

In entering on a contract of affreightment the parties are presumed to have had in contemplation the maritime law—M. & T. Trust Co. v. Export S. S. Corporation, 256 N.Y.S. 590, 143 Misc. 1, reversed on other grounds 259 N.Y.S. 393, 236 App.Div. 415, reversed on other grounds 186 N.E. 214, 262 N.Y. 92, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 70, 290 U.S. 650, 78 L.Ed. 563.

72. U.S.—The Pehr Ugland, D.C.Va., 271 F. 340, appeal dismissed, C.C.A., 277 F. 1019.

Provision rubber-stamped on bill to the effect that the bill of lading shall be subject to the United States Carriage by Sea Act prevails over printed provision that Indian Carriage by Sea Act shall govern.—The Steel Inventor, D.C.Md., 35 F.Supp. 986.

73. U.S.—Naylor v. Baltzell, C.C. Md., 17 F.Cas.No.10,061, Taney 55.

74. U.S.—The Titania, D.C.N.Y., 19 F. 101.
58 C.J. p 343 note 83.
Application of federal statutory limitation of liability to foreign vessels see infra § 240

75. N.Y.—The President Monroe, 286 N.Y.S. 990, 159 Misc. 432.
58 C.J. p 343 note 84.

Indorsement stamped on face of bills of lading that they were subject to Straits Settlement Act required their construction according to laws of Straits Settlement—The President Monroe, supra.

76. U.S.—Jansson v. Swedish American Line, C.A.Mass., 185 F.2d 212
58 C.J. p 344 note 85.

Federal law

Where contract for shipment to nonadjacent foreign destination was made in United States, lex loci contractus was federal law—M. & T. Trust Co. v. Export S. S. Corporation, 256 N.Y.S. 590, 143 Misc. 1, reversed on other grounds 259 N.Y.S. 393, 236 App.Div. 415, reversed on other grounds 186 N.E. 214, 262 N.Y. 92, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 70, 290 U.S. 650, 78 L.Ed. 563.

77. U.S.—Cerro De Pasco Copper Corp. v. Knut Knutsen O.A.S., D.C. N.Y., 94 F.Supp. 60.

78. U.S.—The Oranmore, C.C.Md., 92 F. 396.
58 C.J. p 344 note 86.

79. U.S.—The Kensington, N.Y., 22 S.Ct. 102, 183 U.S. 263, 46 L.Ed. 190.
58 C.J. p 344 note 87.

80. U.S.—Strauss v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 172 N.E. 564, 254 N.Y. 407
58 C.J. p 344 note 88.

81. U.S.—Botany Worsted Mills v. Knott, N.Y., 82 F. 471, 27 C.C.A. 326, affirmed 21 S.Ct. 30, 179 U.S. 69, 45 L.Ed. 90.
58 C.J. p 344 note 89.

82. U.S.—Bank of California, N.A. v. International Mercantile Marine Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 64 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U.S. 649, 78 L.Ed. 563.

Charterer as carrier or agent of shipowner

Where bills of lading by which cargo, originating in Canada, was carried on Norwegian ship, were signed or breach and its effect are governed by the law of the place of performance.[83] A specific limitation of liability clause in a bill of lading drawn and issued in one foreign country has been held to prevail over a general clause that the contract shall be governed by the law of another foreign country.[84]

Where the contract is to be performed at a place other than at which it is made, the parties are presumed to adopt the law of the place of performance as the law of the contract.[85] The presumption that a contract valid where made is valid everywhere, considered generally in Contracts § 20, is applicable to contracts of affreightment.[86] With respect to goods shipped from one country to another the law of a third country is inapplicable, although some of the cargo was shipped from there.[87] Foreign vessels, being entitled to the benefit of the Harter Act, as considered infra §§ 127–129, will be held subject to its limitations by courts of the United States in suits for damages to cargo arising on the high seas on voyages to this country,[88] but not in actions for cargo damage occurring during carriage exclusively between foreign ports.[89]

Domicile of party. The law of domicile of the party does not govern the contract or determine his rights or obligations when it was neither made nor to be performed there.[90]

Abandonment of voyage. Where the voyage has been ended or abandoned before it has been successfully completed, it has been held that the rights of shipowners and shippers are governed by the laws of the country in whose waters the voyage was thus terminated.[91]

Interstate commerce. Although it has been held that the rights and liabilities of the parties under a contract limiting liability in the shipment of goods by sea from one state to another depend not on the state statutes, but on the acts of congress, the bill of lading, and the principles of the common and maritime laws as accepted and enforced by the federal courts,[92] a contract in one state for the carriage of goods from there to a point in another state is governed by the laws of the former, unless a different intention clearly appears.[93] Statutes of the state where the contract was made, which pertain to carriage by rail, do not affect the validity of an ocean bill of lading clause with respect to notice of claim.[94]

Liability on inland waters. The liability of a general ship employed by the owners in transporting goods under contracts for freight, on navigable waters between ports and places in different states, receiving goods under a contract of shipment corresponding in terms to the usual bill of lading for the transportation of goods on inland navigable waters, must be determined by the rules of law applicable to carriers of goods on such inland waters.[95]

Negligence within foreign jurisdiction. Where a bill of lading contains, besides the ordinary exception of the perils of the sea, an exception against liability for loss occasioned by leakage or stowage, or by negligence of any person in the service of the ship, and this latter exception is valid both by the law of the flag and the law of the place of shipment, the law of the place of shipment governs as by charterer, question whether charterer, by signing bills, bound itself as a carrier or merely signed as agent for shipowner, by authority of master, would be determined according to Canadian law—The Iristo, D. C N Y, 43 F.Supp. 29, affirmed, C C A., Middleton & Co. (Canada) Limited v Ocean Dominion S. S Corp., 137 F 2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S Ct. 432, 320 U S. 802, 88 L Ed. 484.

83. U.S—Bank of California, N. A., v International Mercantile Marine Co, C C A N Y, 64 F 2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S Ct. 66, 290 U S 649, 78 L Ed 563—The Cypria, D C N Y., 46 F Supp 816, affirmed, C C A., Ore S. S Corp v. D/S A/S Hassel, 137 F.2d 326.
58 C J. p 344 note 90.

Loss of claim by failure to give notice

Where cargo was deliverable in Germany, German law determines whether claim for misdelivery was lost by failure to give notice as required by bill of lading—Bank of California, N. A., v. International Mercantile Marine Co., C C A.N Y, 64 F 2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct 66, 290 U S. 649, 78 L.Ed. 563.

Misdelivery as excusing notice

Where cargo was deliverable in Germany, German law determines whether misdelivery excused owner from giving notice of claim as provided by bill of lading—Bank of California, N. A., v. International Mercantile Marine Co., supra.

84. U.S—E. Gerli & Co. v Cunard S. S Co, C.C A.N Y., 48 F 2d 115.

85. U S—The Pehr Ugland, D.C. Va., 271 F 340, appeal dismissed, C.C. A., 277 F 1019.
58 C.J. p 344 note 91.

86. U S—The Miguel di Larrinaga, D C N.Y, 217 F. 678.
58 C.J. p 344 note 93.

87. U S—Duche v. Brocklebank, D C N Y, 35 F.2d 184, affirmed, C.C A., 40 F 2d 418.
58 C J p 344 note 94.

88. U S—The Frey, D C.N.Y., 92 F 667.

89. U S—Franklin Fire Ins Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co, D C N Y, 54 F 2d 807, reversed on other grounds, C C.A, 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins Co, 53 S Ct 82, 287 U S. 630, 77 L. Ed 546.

90. U S—Naylor v Baltzell, C C Md, 17 F Cas No 10,161, Taney 55

91. U S—The Appam, D.C N.Y., 243 F 230.
58 C J p 345 note 98.

92. Ga.—Bloomberg-Michael Furniture Co v. Urquhart, 143 S E 789, 38 Ga App. 304.

93. U.S.—Montague v. The Henry B. Hyde, D C.Cal., 82 F. 681.
Wash—Shaw Supply Co. v Charles Nelson Co., 214 P. 19, 124 Wash 305.

94. U S—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Munson SS. Line, C.C A N Y, 22 F. 2d 898, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 433, 277 U S 586, 72 L Ed. 1000

95. U S.—The Niagara v. Cordes, Wis., 21 How. 7, 16 L.Ed 41.

to any negligence within that jurisdiction, and whether the damage was occasioned by perils of the sea, or by negligent stowage at the place of shipment, the shipper cannot recover, where there is no negligence shown or presumed from acts or omissions in this country or on the high seas,[96] and so, where a bill of lading stamped at an interior town of a foreign country for transportation of goods from there to this country, via a port of the foreign country, exempted the carrier from liability for negligence of its servants and agents, which exemption is valid by the foreign law, the carrier cannot be held liable for breakage occurring before the goods reached port[97]

Procedural rules. While local procedural rules may be applied in cases triable under foreign law,[98] it is otherwise with respect to local rules which are more than procedural and affect substantive rights of the parties[99]

Limitations of actions. A provision in the bill of lading that litigation arising out of the interpretation or execution of such bill shall be judged according to a specified foreign law does not require application of the foreign statute of limitations to suits arising thereunder.[1]

Proof of foreign law. Where a contract or bill of lading is to be construed and governed by foreign law, such law must be pleaded and proved like any other essential fact.[2] In the absence of such proof the bill or contract will be construed in accordance with American general mercantile law[3] as affected by the statutes,[4] or the law of the forum[5] Where a bill of lading issued in a foreign country is not clearly against the public policy of the United States, it should not be assumed to be invalid in the absence of proof of the law of that country.[6]

§ 108. —— Performance and Breach in General

a. Of owner or carrier generally
b Of shipper generally
c. Excuses for nonperformance
d. Remedies

a. Of Owner or Carrier Generally

As a general rule a carrier by water is held strictly to the contract of affreightment, and is liable for any breach thereof.

As a general rule, the owner or carrier is held strictly to the contract of affreightment,[7] and is liable for any breach thereof.[8] The justifiable abandonment of the vessel in consequence of the danger of the seas is such a renunciation of the contract of affreightment as to entitle the cargo owners to go on with the voyage, at least where the master has not rejoined the ship before salvors have taken possession, or has not obtained the vessel and cargo from the salvors before the cargo owners have announced their decision to renounce the contract[9]

96. U S —The Trinacria, D C N.Y., 42 F. 863.
58 C.J p 345 note 4.

97. U.S —Baetjer v. La Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, D C.N. Y, 59 F 789
58 C.J. p 345 note 5

98. U S —The Aakre, C C A N Y, 122 F.2d 469, certiorari denied Waterman v The Aakre, 62 S Ct 360, 314 U.S. 690, 86 L Ed 552.

99. U S —The Aakre, C C A N Y, 122 F.2d 469, certiorari denied Waterman v The Aakre, 62 S Ct 360, 314 U S. 690, 86 L Ed 552.

Proof as to statutory violation
If rule making it incumbent on a vessel shown to have been guilty of violating a statutory rule of navigation to prove that violation could not have contributed to the ensuing collision was applicable as well to strandings, and if it prescribed anything more than a shift in the burden of proof with respect to the causal relation of default to injury, rule would be more than a rule of evidence and would affect substantive rights of the parties, and, therefore, would not be applicable to a cause triable under foreign law.—The Aakre, C C A N Y., 122 F.2d 469, certiorari denied Waterman v The Aakre, 62 S Ct. 360, 314 U.S. 690, 86 L Ed 552

1. U S —A Salomon, Inc v Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, D.C.N Y., 32 F.2d 283, affirmed, C. C A., 43 F 2d 941.
58 C.J. p 345 note 7.

2. U S.—Liverpool & G W. Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins Co., N.Y, 9 S Ct. 469, 129 U S. 397, 32 L Ed. 788—Blumenthal Import Corp. v. Thos. & Jno Brocklebank, C.C.A.Pa, 148 F 2d 727.

Issue held raised
U S —The Iristo, D C N Y, 43 F Supp 29, affirmed, C C.A, Middleton & Co (Canada) Limited v. Ocean Dominion S S Corp., 137 F 2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S Ct. 432, 320 U S 802, 88 L Ed 484

3. U S —Blumenthal Import Corp v Thos & Jno Brocklebank, C C A Pa, 148 F 2d 727—Franklin Fire Ins Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., D C N.Y., 54 F 2d 807, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A, 58 F 2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co v. Franklin Fire Ins Co., 53 S.Ct. 82, 287 U S 630, 77 L Ed. 546.

4. U S.—The Ferncliff, D C.Md, 22 F Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed. 862, affirmed, C.C A, 105 F 2d 1021.

5. N Y —The President Monroe, 286 N.Y.S 990, 159 Misc 432

6. U S —The Ferncliff, D C Md, 22 F.Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed 862, affirmed, C C A, 105 F.2d 1021

7. U S —The Maui, C C A Cal., 113 F. 2d 1018, certiorari denied John Demartini Co. v. The Maui, 61 S Ct. 317, 311 U S 709, 85 L Ed 461.
58 C.J p 349 note 87

Primary obligation of ship was to fulfill the contracts of carriage —The Maui, C.C A Cal., 113 F 2d 1018, certiorari denied John Demartini Co v. The Maui, 61 S Ct 317, 311 U S 709, 85 L Ed. 461.

8. U.S.—Ellamar Min Co v. Alaska S S. Co., C.C A Wash, 5 F 2d 890, certiorari dismissed 47 S Ct 458, 273 U S 780, 71 L Ed 889.
N Y.—Zonite Products Corp v. Mediterranean Nav Co, 52 N Y S 2d 603, 183 Misc 962.
58 C.J p 349 note 88, p 350 note 5.

9. U S —The Eliza Lines, Mass., 26

A change of destination made without the assent of the other party constitutes a breach,[10] but not one made with the shipper's consent;[11] and the reservation in the tender of a vessel of an option of forwarding the cargo via other ports than those designated does not constitute a breach of a contract conditioned to be subject to the provisions of a bill of lading, one of which gave liberty to call at any port.[12] Mere notice to the shipper that the owner might not be able to carry out his contract does not, as a matter of law, constitute an abandonment thereof.[13] Where a shipper of cattle refuses to transport them in a part of the vessel insufficiently ventilated and not covered by insurance provided by the carrier as required by the contract, the ship is liable for failure to transport the cattle thus shut out.[14] The owner is not required to discontinue performance because of a breach of the covenant of seaworthiness on sailings.[15]

Time of performance. Where a contract to furnish a vessel does not fix the time within which the service was to be performed, the law contemplates performance within a reasonable time.[16] Where a statement by the carrier or its agent to a prospective shipper as to the expected date of arrival of a vessel for loading constitutes a representation, rather than a warranty, no liability is incurred by the carrier or its agent because the vessel arrives a few days later than the date stated.[17]

Conditions precedent. When the time of the arrival of the vessel at port of shipment is specified in the contract and both parties contract with respect to it, it is in the nature of a condition precedent to the enforcement of the contract by the owner.[18]

Notice of readinesss to perform. Where a contract to ship goods on a certain trip of a specified vessel does not fix a definite time for performance, it is the carrier's duty to notify the shipper of the time the vessel is ready to receive the goods,[19] and notices of the steamer's departure by advertisements, and the posting of handbills, are not sufficient.[20] A carrier having, in accordance with the terms of the contract, given notice of readiness to load is bound thereby,[21] and, if the boat is not ready at the specified time, the shipper is only bound to furnish a cargo within a reasonable time thereafter.[22]

Requisitioning of vessels by government. A contract by a shipowner to carry the ore from a mine to the smelter for a stipulated term has been held terminated by the requisitioning of the carrier's vessels by the government for war purposes before expiration of the term,[23] but the rule does not apply where the contract provides that, if by reason of force majeure either of the parties is unable to carry out the agreement in whole or in part, such inability by either party will not subject such party to any claims for damages or void the agreement.[24]

Waiver of contractual rights. A steamship company, unqualifiedly denying any obligation on its part to transport goods at the rate fixed in a contract and refusing to transport until an additional amount is paid, waives its right to invoke an arbitration clause of such contract.[25]

b. Of Shipper Generally

The shipper under a contract of affreightment is liable for a failure or refusal to use the space reserved.

The shipper under a contract of affreightment is liable for failure or refusal to use space reserved,[26] or for using more space than he has

S.Ct. 8, 199 U.S. 119, 50 L.Ed. 115, 4 Ann.Cas. 406

10. U.S.—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.
La.—Boyle v. Dickenson, 6 Mart., N.S., 100.

11. U.S.—Thatcher v. McCulloh, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.Cas.No.13,862, Olcott 365.

12. U.S.—South Atlantic SS. Line v. London-Savannah Naval Stores Co., Ga., 255 F. 306, 166 C.C.A. 476.

13. N.Y.—Clyde v. Wood, 179 N.Y.S. 252, 189 App.Div. 737.

14. U.S.—Morris v. The Alvah, D.C.N.Y., 59 F. 630.

15. U.S.—The Malcolm Baxter, Jr., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 304, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901.

16. Ala.—Payne v. Zimmern, 92 So. 433, 207 Ala. 155
Deviation and delay in transportation and delivery see infra § 123.

17. N.Y.—Olavarria & Co. v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., 33 N.Y.S.2d 201, affirmed 36 N.Y.S.2d 422, 264 App.Div. 845

18. U.S.—Gray v. Moore, C.C.La., 37 F. 266.

19. La.—Jones v. Smalley, 5 La. 28.

20. La.—Jones v. Smalley, supra.

21. U.S.—New York, etc., Mail SS. Co. v. Guayaquil, etc., R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 270 F. 200, certiorari dismissed 42 S.Ct. 51, 257 U.S. 642, 66 L.Ed. 412.

22. U.S.—New York, etc., Mail SS. Co. v. Guayaquil, etc., R. Co., supra.

23. U.S.—Ellamar Min. Co. v. Alaska SS. Co., C.C.A.Wash., 5 F.2d 890, certiorari dismissed 47 S.Ct. 458, 273 U.S. 780, 71 L.Ed. 889.
Restraint of princes, rulers, or peoples as excuse for nonperformance see infra subdivision c of this section

24. U.S.—Société Anonyme des Sucreries de Saint Jean v. Bull Insular Line, C.C.A.Puerto Rico, 276 F. 783, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 273, 258 U.S. 621, 66 L.Ed. 795.

25. Tenn.—Ellett v. Embury, 217 S.W. 818, 142 Tenn. 444.

26. U.S.—St. Louis Coke, etc., Co. v. Goltra, C.C.A.Ill., 41 F.2d 134—Churchill Line v. Gulf Naval Stores Supply Co., D.C.La., 12 F.2d 131.

reserved;[27] but an action for breach of the contract cannot be maintained until the breach occurs.[28] A contract to ship by the owner's vessels all goods required in the shipper's business is not breached by failure to ship any, if none was needed in the business.[29]

Withdrawal of cargo. On payment of all lawful charges of the vessel against him, a shipper may withdraw his cargo at any time before the termination of the voyage,[30] notwithstanding he does so for the purpose of avoiding contribution in general average.[31] What charges must be paid will depend on the circumstances of the case,[32] and payment of freight for the entire voyage has been held sufficient under some circumstances.[33]

c. Excuses for Nonperformance

No liability attaches for failure to perform a contract of affreightment which has been rightly canceled pursuant to its terms. Impossibility of performance may under some circumstances excuse nonperformance.

Neither party is at liberty to abandon the contract except for legal cause or with the consent of the other.[34] However, no liability attaches to a carrier for its failure to perform under a contract which has been rightly canceled pursuant to its terms,[35] notwithstanding, in the case of the carrier's refusal to accept a cargo for carriage, the shipper has performed all the conditions of the contract on his part to be performed.[36]

Impossibility of performance amounts to an excuse such as will relieve the parties to the contract from all liability for its nonperformance.[37] In order to excuse performance altogether and leave the promisee without remedy for his loss, it is necessary that the intervening event which prevents performance shall be so improbable as to be outside any contingency, which, had the parties been faced with it, they would have agreed that the promisor should undertake.[38] The owner of a vessel is not excused from performing his contract by the freezing in of the vessel and the death of the master,[39] but in such case is entitled to a reasonable time to procure a new master and to await the relief of the vessel.[40] If navigation becomes impracticable in consequence of seasonal cold, storms, or ice, a vessel is excused from fulfilling the contract during the season.[41]

Abandonment of cargo to insurers. Where shippers abandon to their insurers a cargo damaged by the fault of the carrier before its arrival at the place of destination, and insurers take possession and sell the goods at the port of disaster, such action terminates the responsibility of the carrier, and he cannot be held liable for nondelivery.[42]

Default of one party rendering performance by the other impracticable is sufficient excuse for nonperformance,[43] and, accordingly, the shipper may justifiably refuse to ship on a vessel not ready within the time required by the contract.[44] So, a ship may refuse to receive goods under a contract if the other party thereto refuses to be responsible for the freight;[45] but nonperformance of an unqualified

27. Tex.—Elder v. Weld-Neville Cotton Co., Com.App., 231 S.W. 102.
58 C.J. p. 350 note 8

28. U.S.—Grace v. Ford Motor Co., C.C.A.Cal., 278 F. 955.

29. U.S.—Grimwood v. Munson SS. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 273 F. 166.
58 C.J. p. 350 note 10.

30. U.S.—The Julia Blake, N.Y., 2 S.Ct. 692, 107 U.S. 418, 27 L.Ed. 595
58 C.J. p. 350 note 11.

31. U.S.—Willcox v. Weil, D.C.N.Y., 24 F.2d 587.
58 C.J. p. 350 note 12.
General average generally see infra §§ 224–238.

32. U.S.—The Julia Blake, N.Y., 2 S.Ct. 692, 107 U.S. 418, 27 L.Ed. 595.
58 C.J. p. 350 note 13.

33. U.S.—Willcox v. Weil, D.C.N.Y., 24 F.2d 587.

34. U.S.—Simmons Transp. Co. v. Alpha Portland Cement Co., D.C.N.Y., 286 F. 955.
58 C.J. p. 352 note 51.
Excuse for delay in transportation and delivery see infra § 123.

35. U.S.—Associated Metals & Minerals Corp. v. Swedish Mexico Line, D.C.N.Y., 48 F.Supp. 819, affirmed, C.C.A., 140 F.2d 863.
N.Y.—Olavarria & Co. v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., 33 N.Y.S.2d 201, affirmed 36 N.Y.S.2d 422, 264 App. Div. 845.
Rescission or cancellation see supra § 106.

Good faith

Where shipping contract between merchant and conference formed by ocean carriers contained clause permitting cancellation in event of war, cancellation of the shipping contract and booking thereunder for transportation of particular commodity because of war was not in bad faith so as to permit merchant to recover damages, notwithstanding carrier, after the cancellation, transported other goods at freight rate approximately double that provided for by the contract.—Associated Metals & Minerals Corp. v. Swedish America Mexico Line, D.C.N.Y., 48 F.Supp. 819, affirmed, C.C.A., 140 F.2d 863.

36. N.Y.—Olavarria & Co. v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., 33 N.Y.S.2d 201, affirmed 36 N.Y.S.2d 422, 264 App. Div. 845.
Liability of carrier for failure or refusal to deliver goods see infra § 120.

37. U.S.—The Tornado, La., 2 S.Ct. 746, 108 U.S. 542, 27 L.Ed. 747.
58 C.J. p. 352 note 52.

38. U.S.—The Poznan, D.C.N.Y., 276 F. 418
58 C.J. p. 352 note 53.

39. U.S.—The Flash, D.C.N.Y., 9 F. Cas.No. 4,858, Abb.Adm. 119

40. U.S.—The Flash, supra.

41. Iowa.—West v. The Berlin, 3 Iowa 532

42. U.S.—The Mohawk, Ill., 8 Wall. 153, 19 L.Ed. 406.

43. U.S.—South Atlantic SS. Line v. London-Savannah Naval Stores Co., Ga., 255 F. 306, 166 C.C.A. 476.
58 C.J. p. 353 note 58.

44. La.—La Compagnie Commerciale de Transports a Vapeur Francais v. Gomila, 36 La.Ann. 280
58 C.J. p. 353 note 59

45. U.S.—The A. Cheesebrough, C.C. N.Y., 1 F.Cas.No. 25, 3 Blatchf. 305.
58 C.J. p. 353 note 61.

contract to ship is not excused by the cancellation by a third person of another contract which made the shipment imperative,[46] and a shipper agreeing to load his cargo within a certain time after the vessel is in the dock is not excused from performance by the fact that the vessel was not at the dock for the stipulated period in consequence of the dock master ordering it to give place to other ships ready to load.[47]

A declaration of war does not excuse performance under a contract between domestic companies for the carriage of cargo from neutral foreign ports to domestic ports, notwithstanding performance after the declaration of war is subject to greater hazards.[48]

Governmental restraints. Governmental interference or restraint which renders performance impossible may excuse nonperformance of a contract of affreightment.[49] A person, agreeing to transport goods under a general carrying contract, not limited to carriage in steamers of which he is owner or manager at the date thereof, is not excused from performance by the fact that the government requisitioned his ships for war purposes.[50] The carrier may abandon the voyage where the hazard of loss or seizure by a belligerent has become substantially greater during the voyage than anticipated by the parties at its beginning,[51] particularly where the bill of lading expressly so provides.[52] Likewise, under a bill of lading excepting liability for the loss or damage occasioned by arrest and restraint of princes, or people, a master acting in good faith and on his own judgment in abandoning a voyage because of the imminent danger of war and capture does not render the carrier guilty of an actionable breach of the contract,[53] but such a 46. Va.—Lehigh Portland Cement Co. v. Virginia SS Co., 111 S.E. 104, 132 Va. 257.

58 C.J. p. 353 note 62

47. N.Y.—Hassett v. McArdle, 28 N.Y.S. 48, 7 Misc. 710.
58 C.J. p. 353 note 63

48. U.S.—Luckenback S.S. Co. v. W. R. Grace & Co., C.C.A.Va., 267 F. 676, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 14, 254 U.S. 644, 65 L.Ed. 454.

49. U.S.—L. N. Jackson & Co. v. Royal Norwegian Government, C.A.N.Y., 177 F.2d 694, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 574, 339 U.S. 914, 94 L.Ed. 1340.
N.Y.—L. N. Jackson & Co. v. Seas Shipping Co., 56 N.Y.S.2d 501, 185 Misc. 94, affirmed 61 N.Y.S.2d 371, 270 App.Div. 830, affirmed 68 N.E.2d 605, 296 N.Y. 529, motion denied 69 N.E.2d 483, 296 N.Y. 635.

Executive order

Where owner of foreign vessel applied to United States Maritime Commission for priority warrants for all of its ships, and thereafter contracted with buyer of copra to carry copra from Africa to United States, but before owner of vessel could perform contract, attack on Pearl Harbor occurred, and United States was precipitated into World War II, and Assistant Director of Division of Emergency Shipping of Maritime Commission ordered owner of vessel to substitute wool for copra, contract to carry copra was discharged, and owner of vessel was not liable for breach thereof.—L. N. Jackson & Co. v. Royal Norwegian Government, C.A.N.Y., 177 F.2d 694, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 574, 339 U.S. 914, 94 L.Ed. 1340.

50. U.S.—Société Anonyme des Sucreries de Saint Jean v. Bull Insular Line, C.C.A.Puerto Rico, 276 F. 783, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 273, 258 U.S. 621, 66 L.Ed. 795.
58 C.J. p. 353 note 65.

51. U.S.—The Wildwood, C.C.A. Wash., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

Apprehension of danger

A reasonable apprehension of seizure of vessel authorizing an abandonment of voyage arises when degree of danger gets beyond category of rumors or fanciful danger and may be properly called actual and substantial; but the reasonableness of carrier's or master's apprehension of increased hazard resulting in an abandonment of voyage may not be determined by subsequent events.—The Wildwood, C.C.A.Wash., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

Change in conditions

(1) A shipowner could not justify frustrating contract to carry cargo to its destination because of threatened blockade by a belligerent, unless there were increased hazards to shipping greater than those which existed at inception of voyage to such a degree as would have deterred a reasonably prudent sailor from proceeding.—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

(2) Where at time carrier undertook voyage to Russian port from United States, British had intercepted a ship carrying German owned cargo en route to Russia but British minister had declared that there was no contraband control in Pacific, voyage was not undertaken in contemplation of running a blockade, and when, during course of voyage, neutral Russian ship en route from Mexico to Russia with similar cargo was seized and consensus of news reports was that British blockade had been extended and carrier could obtain no additional information from Russian Embassy, British Embassy or Department of State, carrier was justified in abandoning voyage because of increased hazard.—The Wildwood, C.C.A.Wash., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

52. U.S.—The Wildwood, C.C.A. Wash., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

"Impracticable to proceed"

Torpedoing of freighter by Japanese submarine only five miles from Los Angeles on Dec. 24, 1941, resulting in submersion of lumber cargo and its soaking with fuel oil, and requiring that freighter be drydocked for repairs which, because of their nature and war conditions are not in fact completed until May 9, 1942, justifies abandonment of voyage on Feb. 5, 1942, under provisions of bill of lading issued on Dec. 13, 1941, permitting abandonment for conditions, existing or anticipated, causing master to decide that it will be unsafe or "impracticable to proceed" or that carriage will be likely to be delayed.—Pope & Talbot v. Blanchard Lumber Co. of Seattle, C.C.A.Cal., 159 F.2d 134.

53. U.S.—North German Lloyd v. Guaranty Trust Co., Mass., 37 S.Ct. 490, 244 U.S. 12, 61 L.Ed. 960.
58 C.J. p. 354 notes 68, 69.

clause in a contract by a neutral to carry contraband of war, made when conditions of war exist and are known to both parties, affords no ground for repudiation of the contract by the carrier because of the danger of seizure.[54] A clause that, owing to war conditions, a shipment is accepted at the shipper's risk of interference by any power excuses the carrier where the government of the country of destination takes all the space on the boat and refuses to allow the shipment,[55] and, under a provision that the contract is subject to approval of a certain government, the carrier is protected from liability for noncarriage by such government's withdrawal of its original approval.[56]

Embargo. A vessel under embargo is ordinarily excused from performance of its contract of carriage,[57] but a carrier may not plead, in excuse, an embargo to which it has been voluntarily subjected.[58]

Riots and strikes in the port of destination will justify the master's failure to deliver there under a bill of lading excusing performance if, in his judgment, it is impracticable to discharge the goods while the ship is at such port.[59]

Title in third person may be asserted to excuse the owner of a vessel from delivering in accordance with the terms of the contract.[60]

d. Remedies

(1) In general

(2) Procedure

(3) Damages recoverable by shipper

(4) Damages recoverable by carrier

(1) In General

An action in personam against the carrier and in rem against the vessel may lie for a breach of a contract of affreightment.

An action in personam will lie against the carrier for a breach of a contract of affreightment,[61] even though the contracting carrier is not the owner of the vessel,[62] and an action in rem against the vessel will lie for a breach of such a contract,[63] but in order to subject a vessel through a process in rem the goods must have been actually delivered and received on board,[64] and, except where it is provided otherwise by statute,[65] a libel in rem against a vessel will not lie to recover damages caused by the refusal to receive on board the vessel goods which its agents had agreed should be received and carried as freight.[66] An action in personam for the breach will not lie against one not a party to the contract,[67] or against an authorized agent who signed the contract or bill of lading as such.[68] Where the defense pleaded in a suit for breach of a contract to carry cargo is a denial of the breach, respondent will not ordinarily be allowed to change his ground to excuse the breach,[69] and the mere fact that libelant has claimed vis major in excuse of his breach of contract with the consignee does not justify respondent's defense on that ground in the absence of

54. U S—Balfour, etc, Co v. Portland, etc, SS Co., D.C Or, 167 F. 1010.

55. U S—N P. Sloan Co. v. Churchill Line, C.C A N Y, 5 F.2d 153

56. U S—N. P. Sloan Co. v. Churchill Line, supra

57. U S—Allanwilde Transp. Corp. v. Vacuum Oil Co., N.J., 39 S Ct 147, 248 U S 377, 63 L.Ed 312, 3 A. L R 15, answers to certified questions conformed to 256 F. 987, 167 C.C.A 663.

58 C J p 354 note 73

Acceptance prior to embargo

Where some of the automobiles, which steamship company had allegedly agreed to transport for dealer, were not even in existence on date alleged contract was made, there was no "acceptance" of the automobiles for transportation imposing a duty on the carrier to transport notwithstanding subsequent imposition of an embargo, either under the ordinary understanding of the word, or under the tariff provision that shipments would be accepted during a certain period each year and that date on which final instructions for transportation were received should be considered date of acceptance—Holt Motor Co. v. Nicholson Universal S S Co., D C Minn, 56 F.Supp. 535

58. U.S.—The Henry W. Cramp, D. C.Pa, 6 F.2d 900, affirmed, C.C.A., 20 F 2d 320.

59. U.S.—Tatsuuma Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha v. Robert Dollar Co., C. C.A Or, 31 F 2d 401.

60. N Y—Bates v Stanton, 8 N.Y. Super. 79

61. U S.—Ellamar Min. Co. v. Alaska S. S Co, C C.A Wash, 5 F.2d 890, certiorari dismissed 47 S.Ct. 458, 273 U.S. 780, 71 L Ed 889.

N Y.—Zonite Products Corp. v Mediterranean Nav. Co., 52 N Y S 2d 603, 183 Misc 962.

58 C.J p 354 note 78

Liability of charterer on bill of lading signed by master see infra § 113.

Jurisdiction in admiralty for breach of contract of affreightment see Admiralty § 30.

62. U.S—The Lake Fabyan, C.C.A. Va, 283 F 771.

58 C J. p 354 note 78 [a], [b].

63. U S—Bulkley v. Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co, Mass, 24 How 386, 16 L Ed. 599.

58 C J. p 354 note 79.

64. U S—The Capitaine Faure, C C A N Y, 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L Ed 1150 and Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U S. 684, 70 L Ed 1150.

58 C J p 354 note 80.

65. Mo—Taylor v. The Robert Campbell, 20 Mo. 254.

58 C.J. p 355 note 81

66. U S—Herbert v. The James Leakman, D C.N Y., 12 F.Cas.No 6,397a.

58 C J p 355 note 82.

67. U S—The Poznan, D C N.Y., 276 F. 418

58 C.J. p 355 note 83.

68. U.S.—E I. Dupont De Nemours & Co. v. Barge Carriers, D C.Fla., 55 F.Supp 728

69. U.S.—Gottesman v Canada, etc., SS. Co., D C N.Y., 259 F 298.

proof thereof.[70] The fact that plaintiff shipper in an action for breach shipped on another ship part of the material defendant had agreed to carry, the contract not having been rescinded, is not matter in bar of recovery of general damages, but only matter of offset.[71]

Waiver of defense. A previous breach of a contract by the shipper is waived where the owner assigns as its sole reason for refusing to supply ships to the shipper the unsettled conditions in the country to which the goods are destined,[72] and a carrier notifying the consignee that its vessel is discharging on a certain pier waives its right to rely on any contradictory provisions in the contract.[73] So the carrier's breach in failing to have its barges in place for loading in time is waived by the shipper's inducing the carrier to remain after the arrival of the barges pending negotiations for delivery by a third person of the goods to the shipper.[74]

Interest of consignee or assignee to support suit. A consignee who has never become the owner of the consignment so as to sustain a contract relationship with the carrier has no interest which will support a suit in rem against the vessel for breach of the contract of affreightment;[75] but where the freight was prepaid, there is a presumption that the consignee duly named in the bill of lading became the owner of the property.[76] The transferee of a bill of lading may sue the carrier[77] or libel the vessel on which the goods are shipped[78] for failure to deliver them,[79] although he may be but an agent or trustee of the goods for others,[80] and he is not precluded from proceeding against the carrier by the fact that he also had a cause of action against his assignor.[81] Notwithstanding the pledgee to whom a bill is given as security does not ordinarily hold title to the goods, it has been held that he may sue for wrongful delivery of the goods.[82]

(2) Procedure

General rules of procedure apply in actions for breach of contracts of affreightment.

General rules as to pleadings are applicable to actions, suits, or libels for breach of an affreightment contract,[83] and as to evidence,[84] questions of law and fact,[85] instructions,[86] and findings.[87] Failure of plaintiff to tender performance of the contract on the date specified therein is not ground for a nonsuit if it appears that defendant was not ready to perform;[88] but refusal to redeliver inferior goods

70. U S—Gottesman v. Canada, etc, SS Co, supra.

71. Wash—Revett v. Glove Nav. Co., 106 P. 176, 56 Wash 550.

72. U S—Grimwood v. Munson SS. Line, C C.A N.Y, 273 F. 166.

73. U S.—E J. Keller Co. v Cosmopolitan Shipping Co, D C N.Y., 26 F.2d 838

74. U S—St Louis Coke, etc, Co v. Goltra, C C.A.Ill, 41 F 2d 134.

75. U S—The Prussia, D C.Wash, 100 F 484
58 C J. p 356 note 97.

76. Ala—Munson SS Line v. Turner, 81 So 76, 202 Ala 574

77. U S—Olivier Straw Goods Corp v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, C C A N. Y, 27 F 2d 129, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 22, 278 U.S. 618, 73 L Ed 540—Higgins v. Anglo-Algerian SS. Co, N Y., 248 F. 386, 160 C C A 396.
Negotiability and transfer of bills generally see infra § 114.

78. U S—The Thames, N.Y, 14 Wall. 98, 20 L Ed 804.

79. U S—The Thames, supra—Olivier Straw Goods Corp v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, C C A N.Y, 27 F 2d 129, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 22, 278 U S. 618, 73 L Ed 540.

80. U.S.—The Thames, N.Y., 14 Wall. 98, 20 L Ed. 804.

81. U S—Olivier Straw Goods Corp v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, C C A N. Y, 27 F 2d 129, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 22, 278 U S 618, 73 L.Ed 540.

82. U S.—California Bank v. International Mercantile Marine Co, D C N Y, 40 F.2d 80, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 64 F 2d 100, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct 66, 290 U S. 649, 78 L Ed 563.

83. U S—Overseas Shipping Co. v Struthers, C C A Cal, 265 F. 612.
58 C.J. p 355 note 88.

Arbitration

Barge owner, party to contract of carriage providing for arbitration of disputes before produce exchange's grain committee, may move under federal statute for reference of controversy with shipper with respect to liability for damage to, and destruction of, grain cargo to proper arbitration board.—The F Y. Robertson, D C N Y, 7 F.Supp. 38.

Separate statement of each cause of action

Where shipments are made under separate bills of lading, each bill of lading is separate contract, breach of which constitutes separate and distinct cause of action, which must be separately stated and numbered —Leveille v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, 244 N.Y.S. 112, 137 Misc. 873.

84. Burden of proof
(1) In general—Revett v. Globe Nav. Co, 106 P. 176, 56 Wash. 550—58 C J p 355 note 89 [a].

(2) Since, as discussed supra § 106 c, every contract of a carrier for carriage by water implies that the boat is fit for the purpose at the time for its performance, it is incumbent on the carrier, in bringing an action for breaking the contract, to prove that at such time its boat was capable of performing it—McClintock v Lary, 23 Ark 215

Admissibility of evidence
Va.—Lehigh Portland Cement Co. v Virginia SS. Co., 111 S E. 104, 132 Va. 257.
58 C J. p 355 note 89 [b], [c], [d].

Sufficiency of evidence
U S—St Louis Coke, etc, Co v. Goltra, C C A Ill, 41 F 2d 134.
58 C J. p 355 note 89 [e], [f].

85. U S—Empire Fuel Co v Lyons, Ohio, 257 F 890, 169 C C A 40, certiorari denied 40 S Ct. 393, 252 U S 582, 64 L.Ed 727.
58 C J. p 356 note 90

86. Instructions presenting issue
Ala—Tennessee River Nav. Co v Walls, 85 So. 711, 204 Ala. 285.
58 C J p 356 note 91.

87. U S—Herr v. Tweedie Trading Co, N.Y., 181 F. 483, 104 C.C.A. 231
58 C.J. p 356 note 92.

88. Wash.—Revett v. Globe Nav Co, 106 P. 176, 56 Wash 550.

claimed to have been wrongfully delivered to the consignee amounts to an acceptance precluding recovery for the alleged misdelivery.[89]

(3) Damages Recoverable by Shipper

As a general rule, damages recoverable by the shipper in an action for breach of a contract of affreightment are limited to those which naturally and directly result from the breach or may fairly be presumed to have been within the contemplation of the parties on entering into the contract.

In accordance with the general rule, discussed in Damages § 24, damages for breach of a contract of affreightment by the carrier must be confined to those which naturally and directly result from the breach or may fairly be presumed to have been within the contemplation of the parties when the contract was made.[90] Where a vessel is to arrive at a port and receive a cargo by a certain day specified, and she does not arrive until after the appointed time, the only damages that can be recovered because of the delay, when the vessel is accepted and the cargo shipped, are such expense as may have been incurred for keeping the cargo during the period of delay and the additional insurance the shipper may have had to pay by reason of the increased risk caused thereby.[91] Where the vessel on which the goods are received never sails because of the fault of the carrier, the shipper may recover as special damages the cost of delivery to the vessel and return to the shipper's place of business,[92] as well as other costs necessarily involved in the shipment.[93] When the ship, after receiving goods for a particular port, changes her destination and refuses to deliver them up, she is liable at least for their full value;[94] and so, where performance is interrupted while loading is going on and the owner repudiates the contract, refusing to take on board the residue or deliver up that already loaded, the shipper may recover damages for the value of the goods taken on board and withheld,[95] for the cost of transporting the residue from the storehouse to the dock,[96] for injuries received by them while they lay there awaiting the owner's acceptance,[97] and for the difference between the contract price of transportation and any greater expense incurred in obtaining another mode of conveyance,[98] but not for injuries received by the property after notice of the owner's refusal to complete the contract.[99] Where a shipper is induced to hold the goods ready for shipment on representations of transportation companies that he would be able to ship on vessels presently leaving port, he is entitled, on breach of the contract, to recover demurrage,[1] interest on value of goods during delay,[2] and additional damages for transportation through another carrier.[3] Where the breach of the contract has resulted in no loss to the shipper[4] or indorsee of the bill of lading,[5] or where there is no evidence of loss and the amount thereof,[6] he is not entitled to recover in excess of nominal damages.

Costs of substituted performance. The measure of damages of a shipper suing for breach of contract to transport his goods is the difference between the cost of transportation at the agreed rate and the cost reasonably incurred in procuring a substitutionary performance.[7] Thus, he is entitled to recover the increased cost of freight,[8] the expense of storage,[9] and the cost of fire protection until a bottom can be procured.[10]

Difference in value at ports of shipment and destination. Where shipowners without legal justification refuse to perform the voyage, the damage to the owners of the goods is the difference in value between the goods at the port of shipment and the price they would have commanded at the port of

89. U S —The Cardiganshire, D C Cal., 9 F 2d 416.

90. U S —The Georg Dumois, N.Y., 115 F 65, 52 C.C A. 659.
58 C.J. p 357 note 12, p 358 note 36

91. U S —The J. C. Stevenson, D C Md., 17 F. 540.
58 C.J. p 357 note 13.

92. N.Y.—Zonite Products Corporation v. Mediterranean Nav Co, 52 N Y.S 2d 603, 183 Misc 962.

93. Costs of insurance and consular invoices
N.Y —Zonite Products Corporation v. Mediterranean Nav. Co., supra.

94. La.—Boyle v. Dickenson, 6 Mart, N S., 100.
Damages for nondelivery or misdelivery by carrier generally see infra § 124.

95. U S —The Flash, D C N Y, 9 F. Cas No 4,858, Abb Adm 119

96. U S —The Flash, supra.

97. U S.—The Flash, supra.

98. U S —The Flash, supra.

99. U S —The Flash, supra

1. U S —Rotterdamsche Lloyd v Gosho Co., C C A Cal, 298 F 443, certiorari denied 45 S Ct. 99, 266 U S. 621, 69 L Ed 472.

2. U S.—Rotterdamsche Lloyd v. Gosho Co., supra.

3. U S —Rotterdamsche Lloyd v. Gosho Co, supra.

4. U S —The West Cawthon, D C Md, 281 F 894—Munson SS Line v Grimwood, N.Y., 249 F. 722, 161 C.C A. 632.
58 C.J. p 357 note 23.

5. U S —Goepel v. Hamburg American Packet Co, D.C N.Y., 191 F. 744
58 C J p 357 note 24.

6. Ala —Munson SS Line v. Turner, 81 So. 76, 202 Ala 574

7. U S —U. S v. Shaw, D C Pa, 15 F.2d 888
58 C.J. p 357 note 26.

8. U S —London-Savannah Naval Stores Co v. South Atlantic SS. Line, D C Ga., 248 F. 949, reversed on other grounds 255 F. 306, 166 C C.A. 476.

9. U S.—London-Savannah Naval Stores Co. v. South Atlantic SS. Line, supra.

10. U S.—London-Savannah Naval Stores Co v. South Atlantic SS. Line, supra.

destination, if the contract had been performed.[11]

Differences in value at destination. Where, after loading goods, a ship fails to sail, the measure of damages with respect to goods reshipped is the difference between the market value at destination at the time the goods would have arrived if the contract had not been breached and the value there at the time they were actually received in ordinary course, plus the freight and other necessary expenses incurred in connection with such reshipment,[12] and as to goods not reshipped the measure is the difference between the value at the time the ship should have arrived at her destination, if she had sailed, and the market value of the same goods at such ports on the arrival of the next available vessel.[13]

Remote or speculative damages. Remote[14] or speculative[15] damages are not recoverable; and profits which the shippers might have made by ulterior speculations[16] or by shipping the goods from the port of destination to other places and better markets[17] are too remote to be considered.

Mitigation of damages. The shipper should mitigate damages by forwarding the goods by other means, if possible, where the ship wrongfully discharges the cargo.[18]

(4) Damages Recoverable by Carrier

The damages recoverable by a carrier for the shipper's breach of contract to furnish freight is the actual loss sustained by the carrier, and not the contract price.

Where a carrier has a contract to transport a cargo at an agreed price to a designated point, and the shipper fails to deliver the cargo, the carrier's measure of damages is the difference between the cost of transportation and the contract price.[19]

The measure in all cases where the shipper breaks the contract to furnish freight is the actual loss, and not the contract price.[20] The contract price should be credited with the sum received,[21] or which might, with reasonable diligence, have been received,[22] for transporting goods other than those the shipper contracted to furnish; and, accordingly, the shipper may reduce the damages by showing that the carrier received freight from others in lieu of that which the shipper failed to furnish, or by proving in any other way that the injury was less than the contract price.[23] The master cannot recover for failure to furnish the freight merely by showing that no other freight was offered to him at the port at which the shipper breached his contract; it must appear that none was to be had at that port, but the master is not bound to go to another port in search of freight.[24] Where the breach consisted of shipping compressed cotton of less density than that stipulated in the contract, the shipper should pay for the additional space at the contract rate for the smallest amount of cotton by weight of the required minimum density necessary to fill it,[25] and where, through defendant's breach of contract, plaintiff's barge was sunk, plaintiff may recover, not only the loss on his contract with defendant to transport the goods, but the difference between the value of the barge before and after it sunk.[26]

Effect of embargo. Where, after a vessel had taken on board a cargo to be carried, the embargo law prevented it from sailing, and the cargo remained on board for some time, when it was sold at the place of shipment, the owner of the vessel can recover nothing in the way of damages, on the theory that had it not been for its possession of

11. U.S.—Harrison v. Stewart, C.C. Md., 11 F.Cas.No.6,145, Taney 485

12. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C. A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150 and Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150

Measure of damages arising from deviation and delay see infra § 124.

13. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C. A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150 and Societe de Navigation A Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.

14. U.S.—Letts v. Hackett, D.C. Mich., 15 F.Cas.No.8,283, Brown Adm. 480.

15. Ala.—Payne v. Zimmern, 92 So. 433, 207 Ala. 155.
58 C.J. p. 358 note 34.

16. U.S.—Harrison v. Stewart, C.C. Md., 11 F.Cas.No.6,145, Taney 485.

17. U.S.—Harrison v. Stewart, supra.

18. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C. A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150 and Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.

19. U.S.—Boland v. Northwestern Fuel Co., C.C.Minn., 34 F. 523.
N.Y.—Stearns v. Stollwerck Chocolate Co., 221 N.Y.S. 512, 220 App. Div. 265

20. N.Y.—Shannon v. Comstock, 21 Wend. 457, 34 Am.D. 262.

21. U.S.—St. Louis Coke, etc., Co. v. Goltra, C.C.A.Ill., 41 F.2d 134
Mass.—Bailey v. Damon, 3 Gray 92.

22. U.S.—Bailey v. Damon, supra.
58 C.J. p. 358 note 40.

23. N.Y.—Shannon v. Comstock, 21 Wend. 457, 34 Am.D. 262.

24. Wis.—Bradley v. Denton, 3 Wis. 557.

25. Tex.—Elder v. Weld-Neville Cotton Co., Com.App., 231 S.W. 102.

26. Ala.—Doran v. Gilreath, 72 So. 94, 196 Ala. 377.

this cargo it might have been employed in the coast trade.[27]

Excessive damages should not be awarded [28]

§ 109. —— Delivery of Cargo to Vessel

Responsibility of a carrier for goods to be carried under a contract of affreightment commences on delivery of the goods to the carrier. What constitutes a sufficient delivery depends in general on the facts of each case.

The receipt of goods by the carrier has been said to lie at the foundation of the contract to carry and deliver, and if actually no goods are received there can be no such contract.[29] The liability and responsibility of the carrier under a contract for the carriage of goods commence on their actual delivery to, or receipt by, the carrier or an authorized agent.[30] What is a sufficient delivery to the carrier or vessel depends in general on the facts in each case [31] Giving the goods to the mate for transportation and taking his signed receipt therefor has been held to be a good delivery to, and binding on, the vessel,[32] and delivery to a lighter in charge of a vessel for shipment on the vessel, where it is the custom to deliver in that way, is a good delivery and binds the vessel receiving the freight, the liability commencing at the time of delivery to the lighter.[33] Delivery at a wharf may be sufficient;[34] but such delivery on the dock must be accompanied with notice to the master in order to render him liable for failure to deliver the goods at their destination;[35] and, similarly, where there is a contract to carry goods from one port to another, and they cannot be loaded directly on the vessel, and lighters are sent by the vessel to bring the goods to it, the lighters are for the time its substitutes, so that the bill of lading is applicable to the goods as soon as they are placed on the lighters [36] Where the contract provides for delivery of the cargo at the port of shipment within reach of the vessel's tackle, there is a sufficient delivery within the terms of the contract if the cargo is on a pier or lighter within reach of such tackle and thus is in the custody of the master.[37] Where the lighter is employed by the shipper, and the cargo is transferred from the lighter to the ship by slings and horses belonging to the ship, or the stevedores in the employ of the ship, the responsibility of the lighterman ceases when the cargo is properly placed on the slings and hooked to the tackle;[38] and the duty of the ship begins with the hoisting of it to the deck of the ship.[39] Delivery on the wharf at the shipowner's request is sufficient,[40] but delivery there to an agent of the charterer, while constituting a delivery to the charterer,[41] is not, in the absence of authority in him to receive it as such, delivery to the vessel.[42]

27. U S.—Kelly v. Johnson, Pa., 14 F Cas.No 7,672, 3 Wash.C C 45.

28. Va —Lehigh Portland Cement Co v Virginia SS. Co, 111 S E 104, 132 Va 275.
58 C J p 358 note 47.

29. U S —Pollard v. Vinton, Ky, 105 U S. 7, 26 L Ed. 998—Ortega & Emigh v. Grace Line, D C Cal, 72 F Supp 302.

30. U.S —Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. v American Line S S. Corp, C.C.A N Y, 97 F 2d 360—Inland Waterways Corporation v Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., C C A La, 65 F.2d 715—The Robin Gray, C.C A.N Y, 65 F 2d 376, modified in part on other grounds 65 F 2d 376, certiorari denied Seas Shipping Co. v. Approximately 3,251,000 Feet Board Measure of Lumber, 54 S.Ct. 70, 290 U S 653, 78 L Ed. 566—Archibald McNeil & Sons Co. of New York v. Western Maryland Ry. Co, D.C Pa, 42 F 2d 669, affirmed, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 1073, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S 665, 76 L.Ed 563 —Crenshawe v. Pearce, D C.N.Y, 37 F. 432.

Delivery to, and acceptance by, carrier in order to charge it for loss or injury to goods see infra § 125.

On delivery and storage of cargo on shipboard, the ship becomes bound to cargo and cargo to the ship—The Pacific Spruce, D.C Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593.

Delivery to carrier must be complete, so that carrier has full dominion over the property to be carried —Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. v. American Line S. S Corporation, C.C A N Y, 97 F.2d 360

In order to bind carrier, the delivery is sufficient only when the goods are delivered to it or its authorized agent.—The Capitaine Faure, C C A N Y, 10 F 2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v Cooper, 46 S Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L Ed 1150, and Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150—58 C.J. p 351 note 27

31. U S —Strohmeyer & Arpe Co v. American Line S S Corp., C.C.A N. Y, 97 F 2d 360.
58 C J p 350 note 16.

Taking of a receipt for the cargo is not essential to complete delivery of the cargo to a carrier.—Mackey v. U. S, D C.N.Y., 83 F Supp. 14.

Issuance of dock receipts

Where dock receipts issued by charterer when goods were delivered to it provided that goods were accepted for shipment subject to provisions of company's usual bill of lading, the terms of bill of lading were binding on cargo from time receipt was executed, irrespective of whether goods were loaded, or bills of lading were actually issued —The Toledo, D C N Y, 30 F Supp 93, affirmed, C C A., 122 F 2d 255.

32. U S.—Burdoin v The Harriet Smith, D C N Y., 4 F.Cas No 2,147a.

33. U.S.—Bulkley v. Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co, Mass, 24 How. 386, 16 L Ed 599
58 C J p 351 note 18.

34. U S —Petersburg, etc., Steamboat Line v Norfolk-Virginia Peanut Co, Va, 172 F. 321, 96 C.C A. 383, 24 L R A.,N S, 569.
58 C J p 351 note 19.

35. N Y—Packard v Getman, 6 Cow 757, 16 Am D 475

36. U S —Insurance Co. of North America v. North German Lloyd Co., D C.Md, 106 F. 973, affirmed 110 F 420, 49 C C A. 1.

37. U S —The Robin Gray, C.C.A.N. Y., 65 F 2d 375.

38. U S —The Cordillera, C C N Y, 6 F.Cas No 3,229a, 5 Blatchf 518.

39. U S —The Cordillera, supra

40. U S —American Mills Co. v. Luckenbach S. S. Co, D.C.La, 20 F. 2d 217, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., Luckenbach S S. Co. v. American Mills Co, 24 F 2d 704.

41. U S —The Arabien, D.C Cal., 11 F.2d 304.

42. U S —The Arabien, supra.
58 C.J. p 351 note 26.

Accepted delivery to ship's side is sufficient to put the cargo at the vessel's risk,[43] notwithstanding the shipper reserved the right to reject and unload undesirable goods after loading;[44] but delivery to an adjacent dock is insufficient.[45]

Time of delivery. Where the contract does not stipulate a time for delivery of the goods on the vessel, the carrier may fix it,[46] although the shipper is entitled to a reasonable time after the vessel is ready to receive the goods on board.[47]

Authority to accept delivery for, and to bind, the vessel, may be conferred by express grant, or the conduct and relations of the parties may establish such an apparent authority that the carrier will be estopped to deny its existence to a shipper who has been misled thereby;[48] but such apparent authority to accept delivery must be actually shown, delivery to an unauthorized person not binding the boat.[49]

Inspection. A ship, like any other consignee, is entitled to inspect the goods before accepting them for carriage.[50]

§ 110. —— Lien of Shipper

As a general rule, the shipper has a maritime lien on the vessel for the execution of the contract of affreightment, which attaches at the time of delivery of the cargo to the owner or agent.

The shipper has a lien on the vessel for the execution of the contract of affreightment which may be enforced by process in rem in admiralty,[51] and which attaches at the time of the delivery of such goods to her agents and owners;[52] the failure of the ship to break ground, although it may defeat the ship's lien for freight, as considered infra § 170, does not defeat the shipper's lien for the safe transfer of his goods.[53] This lien has its source in the contract of affreightment,[54] and is justified as a means by which the vessel, treated as a personality or as impliedly hypothecated to secure performance of the contract, is made answerable for nonperformance.[55] The lien operates alike whether the contract of affreightment be by charter party, bill of lading, or parol,[56] but, where there is no agreement or contract of affreightment between the parties, a vessel is not subject to a maritime lien as security for the performance of a contract to transport a cargo.[57]

The lien on the vessel does not ensue on the mere execution of the contract,[58] and under the rule, discussed in Admiralty § 26, that no right in rem exists where the contract remains wholly executory, as long as a contract of affreightment remains wholly executory, the vessel and cargo are subjected to no lien which can be enforced by a libel in rem[59]

43. U.S.—The Olga S., C.C.A.La., 25 F.2d 229—McLeod Lumber Co. v. Crowley, D.C.Cal., 8 F.2d 283.
58 C.J. p. 351 note 28

44. U.S.—McLeod Lumber Co. v. Crowley, supra
58 C.J. p. 351 note 29

45. U.S.—McLeod Lumber Co. v. Crowley, supra.
58 C.J. p. 351 note 30

46. U.S.—Aron v. Luckenbach SS. Co., D.C.N.Y., 282 F. 937

47. U.S.—Aron v. Luckenbach SS. Co., supra
58 C.J. p. 348 note 68

48. U.S.—The Arabien, D.C.Cal., 11 F.2d 304—The City of Alexandria, C.C.N.Y., 28 F. 202

49. U.S.—The Arabien, D.C.Cal., 11 F.2d 304.
58 C.J. p. 351 note 32.

50. U.S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., C.C.A.La., 65 F.2d 715

51. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, Wash., 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S.A., C.A.Fla., 189 F.2d 148.
58 C.J. p. 351 note 34.
Lien of:
Parties under charter see supra §§ 45, 49.
Shipowner for freight see infra § 170
Shipper for loss occasioned by deviation and delay see infra § 123
Shipper for loss of, or injury to, goods see infra § 159.

Liens as mutual

(1) It has been said that only the obligations of ship and cargo under contract of affreightment are mutual and reciprocal, not the lien resulting from breach of those obligations; the one lien may come into existence without the other—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, Wash., 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216

(2) It has also been said that the lien of a cargo owner on the ship is limited by the corresponding and reciprocal rights of the shipowner to the cargo—Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Pacific Export Lbr. Co., Or., 43 S.Ct. 172, 260 U.S. 490, 67 L.Ed. 364—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S.A., C.A.Fla., 189 F.2d 148.

52. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150—Pearce v. The Thomas Newton, D.C.N.C., 41 F. 106.

53. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150

54. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, Wash., 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216

55. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, supra

56. Alaska.—Miners' Co-op. Assoc. v. The Monarch, 2 Alaska 383

57. U.S.—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S.A., C.A.Fla., 189 F.2d 148
58 C.J. p. 352 note 44.

58. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, Wash., 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216—Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Pacific Export Lbr. Co., Or., 43 S.Ct. 172, 260 U.S. 490, 67 L.Ed. 364—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S.A., C.A.Fla., 189 F.2d 148

59. U.S.—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S.A., supra—Todd Shipyards Corporation v. The City of Athens, D.C.Md., 83 F.Supp. 67, petition denied, C.A., Acker v. The City of Athens, 177 F.2d 961.
38 C.J. p. 1230 note 80.

Accordingly, there is no lien on a vessel for breach of a contract of affreightment unless the goods are delivered to the ship or to someone authorized to act for her.[60] Thus, the vessel is not subject to a maritime lien for breach of contract by failing to call for the cargo[61] or proceed to the designated berth for loading,[62] or receive and load the cargo in whole or in part,[63] even though the cargo was later loaded thereon.[64] Receipt of part of the cargo called for by the contract does not entitle the shipper to a lien on the vessel for damages caused by its refusal to receive the rest of the cargo called for by the contract.[65]

A state statute may create a lien in rem on a domestic vessel for breach of such contracts of the owner as would give a right of suit in personam.[66]

What law governs. Since the right to a maritime lien is generally controlled by the lex loci contractus, where the lien does not exist in the place of the contract, it will not be allowed in another country, although the law of the place where suit is brought would otherwise sustain it.[67] Thus, in order that a lien may attach under the provisions of a state statute, the contract must arise in the state,[68] and the lien does not attach where there is a breach of a contract, which, although to be performed within the state, was made in another state.[69]

§ 111. Bills of Lading

As a general rule, the bill of lading in transportation of goods by water is an acknowledgment by the master or owner of the vessel of the receipt of specified goods to be carried on the terms stated. It is both a receipt and a contract.

The bill of lading in transportation of goods by water generally is in substance a written acknowledgment by the master or owner of the vessel that he has received such goods as it describes for the voyage stated, to be carried on the terms stated, and delivered to the persons specified in the bill.[70] It is twofold in its character: It is a receipt as to the quantity and description of the goods shipped; and it is a contract to transport and deliver the goods to the consignee or other person therein designated on the terms specified in the instrument;[71] and its office is to provide for the rights and liabilities of the parties with reference to the contract to carry.[72] It is a contract of bailment,[73] one of the most distinctly maritime of all contracts.[74] A bill of 60. U.S.—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S. A., C.A. Fla., 189 F.2d 148—Todd Shipyards Corp. v. The City of Athens, D.C. Md., 83 F. Supp. 67, petition denied, C.A., Acker v. The City of Athens 177 F.2d 961—The Garonne, Alaska, 160 F. 847, 87 C.C.A. 651—The Caroline Miller, D.C.N.Y., 53 F. 136.

Union of ship and cargo

Affreightment contract gives cargo right to lien on vessel only where there is union of ship and cargo—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, Wash., 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S. A., C.A. Fla., 189 F.2d 148.

Cost of making delivery

There is no lien for the cost of making delivery, where the goods are not received or carried—The Garonne, Alaska, 160 F. 847, 87 C.C.A. 651

Owner of a cargo has no lien on the vessel until the cargo or some portion thereof has been laden on board or delivered to the master—The Arabien, D.C. Cal., 11 F.2d 304—58 C.J. p. 352 note 39.

61. U.S.—The Trader, D.C. S.C., 17 F.2d 623

62. U.S.—The Saturnus, D.C.N.Y., 242 F. 173, affirmed 250 F. 407, 162 C.C.A. 477, 3 A.L.R. 1187, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 583, 247 U.S. 521, 62 L.Ed. 1247.

63. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, Wash., 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216—Belvedere v. Compania Plomari De Vapores, S. A., C.A. Fla., 189 F.2d 148

64. U.S.—The Saturnus, D.C.N.Y., 242 F. 173, affirmed 250 F. 407, 162 C.C.A. 477, 3 A.L.R. 1187, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 583, 247 U.S. 521, 62 L.Ed. 1247

65. U.S.—Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Pacific Export Lumber Co., Or., 43 S.Ct. 172, 260 U.S. 490, 67 L.Ed. 364.

66. U.S.—The Energia, D.C. Wash., 124 F. 842

67. Mich.—Turner v. Lewis, 2 Mich. 350

What law governs:

Contracts of affreightment generally see supra § 107

Maritime liens generally see Maritime Liens § 4.

68. Ind.—Coplinger v. The David Gibson, 14 Ind. 480.

58 C.J. p. 352 note 48

69. Mich.—Turner v. Lewis, 2 Mich. 350.

70. U.S.—Bank of Taiwan v. Union Nat. Bank of Philadelphia, C.C.A. Pa., 1 F.2d 65.

58 C.J. p. 358 note 50.

Master's copy or ship's bill see infra § 113.

What law governs see supra § 107

Bill of lading imports receipt of goods to be transported and delivered at place of destination—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. v. American Line S. S. Corp., C.C.A. N.Y., 97 F.2d 360.

As contract

(1) Bill of lading under which shipment moved constitutes a contract between parties—Fadex Chemical Corporation v. Lorentzen, 44 N.Y.S.2d 789.

(2) Other similar statements or definitions see 58 C.J. p. 358 note 50 [a].

"Manifest" distinguished

"A manifest is a declaration of the entire cargo, a bill of lading is a declaration of a specific part of the cargo. A manifest is essentially a summary of all the bills of lading."—New York, etc., SS Co. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 125 F. 320, reversed on other grounds 26 S.Ct. 327, 200 U.S. 488, 50 L.Ed. 569.

71. U.S.—Pollard v. Vinton, Ky., 105 U.S. 7, 26 L.Ed. 998—Ortega & Emigh v. Grace Line, D.C. Cal., 72 F. Supp. 302—The Jean Jadot, D.C. N.Y., 14 F. Supp. 161.

58 C.J. p. 359 note 51.

72. U.S.—The Santa Ana, Wash., 154 F. 800, 84 C.C.A. 312.

73. U.S.—The Idefjord, D.C.N.Y., 31 F. Supp. 667, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459

Mass.—Blanchard v. Page, 8 Gray 281.

74. U.S.—Hidalgo Steel Co. v.

lading is a document of dignity,[75] and courts should do everything possible to preserve the integrity thereof in international trade.[76] While, as considered infra § 113, no particular form may be required for a bill of lading, a dock receipt is not in legal effect a negotiable bill of lading.[77]

As receipt exclusively. A bill of lading which both parties intend shall operate as receipt rather than as a contract of carriage has the legal effect of a receipt.[78] Such an intent is found when the shipper is the charterer,[79] and may equally be found where the shipper is a subcharterer.[80] Thus, a bill of lading, issued after the contract of carriage was entered into,[81] or one issued by a master to a charterer, who has contracted for the full capacity of the ship,[82] is merely a receipt for goods to be transported, and not a contract. Likewise, a bill of lading, given by the master to a subcharterer which left blank the space provided for insertion of the freight rate, is a receipt rather than a contract of carriage.[83]

Ship's bill is a bill of lading retained by a ship, designed only for information and convenience, and not for evidence, as between the parties, of what constituted their agreement.[84]

Clean bills of lading. A clean bill of lading has been variously defined as one which contains nothing in the margin qualifying the words in the bill of lading itself,[85] or one which is silent as to the mode of stowing the goods,[86] and which contains no exceptions as to the liability of the master except the usual one of the dangers of the sea.[87] It imports that the goods are to be safely and properly stowed under deck.[88]

§ 112. —— Issuance

a. Duty to issue
b. Persons entitled to receive bill
c. Who may execute

a. Duty to Issue

A shipper of goods is entitled to a bill of lading as a matter of right.

Moore, etc., Co, D C N Y, 298 F 331.
Admiralty jurisdiction over contracts of affreightment generally see Admiralty § 30.

75. U S—The Carso, D C N Y, 43 F 2d 736, modified on other grounds, C C A., 53 F.2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli Giannusa & Rao, Inc., 52 S Ct. 140, 284 U S 679, 76 L Ed 574—The Idefjord, D C N.Y, 31 F Supp 667, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 114 F 2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp, 61 S Ct. 175, 311 U S. 707, 85 L Ed. 459.

Sanctity of bill of lading

U.S—General Foods Sales Co. v. The Felipe Camarao, D.C.N.Y., 82 F. Supp 622.

76. U S—The Carso, D C N Y, 43 F 2d 736, modified on other grounds, C C A., 53 F 2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli Giannusa & Rao, Inc, 52 S.Ct 140, 284 U S. 679, 76 L.Ed 574—The Idefjord, D C N.Y., 31 F. Supp. 667, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed 459.

77. N.Y—Chandler Motor Car Co. v United Fruit Co., 216 N.Y.S. 413, 127 Misc 432.
58 C J. p 359 note 59.

78. U S.—Flat-Top Fuel Co. v Martin, C C A N.Y., 85 F.2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S Ct. 110, 299 U S 585, 81 L Ed. 431.

Bill sent to shipper after loss

Where evidence failed to show that original bill of lading which was mailed to shipper of cargo subsequent to sinking of barge was a part of the contract of carriage, bill of lading could be regarded only as a receipt for the cargo and its provisions would not apply—American Agr. Chemical Co. v O'Donnell Transp. Co., D C.N Y, 62 F Supp 239.

79. U S—Flat-Top Fuel Co v Martin, C C.A N Y, 85 F 2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S Ct. 110, 299 U S 585, 81 L Ed 431.
Effect and construction of charter party in connection with bill of lading see supra § 32
". . . a bill of lading, while in the hands of the charterer [supplying his own cargo] is usually merely a receipt of goods, but may be evidence of a contract adding to or varying the contract . . . contained in the charter party."—The Iristo, D C N Y, 43 F Supp 29, 32, affirmed, C.C A, Middleton & Co (Canada) Limited v. Old Dominion S. S. Corp, 137 F 2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S Ct. 432, 320 U S. 802, 88 L Ed 484

Charter party containing terms for barge service

U S—Petition of Howard, D.C.N Y, 53 F.Supp 556.

80. U.S—Flat-Top Fuel Co. v. Martin, C C A N Y, 85 F 2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S Ct. 110, 299 U S 585, 81 L.Ed. 431.

81. U.S—The Mar Mediterraneo, D. C.N.Y., 1 F 2d 459.

82. U.S.—Petition of Howard, D C N Y, 53 F Supp. 556.
58 C J p 359 note 61.

83. U S—Flat-Top Fuel Co v Martin, C C A N Y, 85 F 2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S Ct. 110, 299 U S 585, 81 L Ed 431.

84. U S—The Thames, N.Y., 14 Wall 98, 105, 20 L Ed. 804.
Operation and effect of ship's bill see infra § 113.

85. U S.—Givaudan Delawanna, Inc v. The Blijdendijk, D.C N Y., 91 F Supp 663—Thomas Roberts & Co v. Calmar S. S Corp., D.C.Pa., 59 F Supp. 203
58 C.J. p 359 note 62.

86. U S—Givaudan Delawanna, Inc v. The Blijdendijk, D.C.N.Y., 91 F. Supp. 663.
58 C J. p 359 note 63.

Bill with no reference to loading on deck

U S—The St. Johns N. F., C C A N Y., 272 F. 673.

87. U S—The Delaware, Cal., 14 Wall. 579, 20 L Ed 779.

88. U S.—Givaudan Delawanna, Inc v. The Blijdendijk, D C N.Y., 91 F Supp. 663—Thomas Roberts & Co v Calmar S. S. Corp., D C.Pa, 59 F Supp 203.
58 C J p 359 note 65.

On-deck carriage of goods such as wool is negatived by clean bill of lading.—The Idefjord, C C A.N.Y, 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp, 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459.

Sometimes by reason of statute or long established usage,[89] a shipper of goods on a vessel is entitled as a matter of right to a bill of lading,[90] and the master is bound to give one when goods are laden on board, even if the freight is not agreed on,[91] or there is a dispute about it,[92] or the shipper has not submitted a correct bill as required by the contract of affreightment.[93] Where the quantity of a cargo is uncertain, however, the master is not bound to sign bills of lading stipulating freight on a fixed amount, but may tender the usual bill of lading, specifying the quantity of the cargo as "more or less,"[94] or inserting in the bill, "vessel not responsible for difference in weight,"[95] a phrase substantially equivalent to "weight unknown;"[96] and although, when true bills of lading are presented, the master cannot make any indorsement impairing their negotiability, he may, before signing, indorse a correction of any errors in bills of lading presented to him,[97] and, where the master claims demurrage, he has the right to give notice of the claim in, or by indorsement on, such bill, so as to charge a transferee with such notice.[98] If the bill is not issued when the goods are loaded, the shipper is entitled to the bill as it would have been at that time,[99] although in the meantime the goods have been damaged or destroyed.[1] Where a shipper had the option of shipping under a regular bill of lading or under a parcel tariff, but chose the latter course, he is not entitled to receive the bill of lading contract.[2]

b. Persons Entitled to Receive Bill

The bill of lading should be given to the person entitled thereto.

The bill of lading must be given to the person entitled to it, who is ordinarily the owner of the cargo,[3] or the person who has the usual evidence on which such bills are customarily delivered.[4] However, the bill of lading does not represent goods or merchandise, when shipped on board a vessel, unless it has been delivered to the true owner of the merchandise.[5]

89. U S —Aktieselskabet Bruusgaard v Standard Oil Co, C C A N Y, 283 F 106—U S v. Elwell, N Y, 250 F 939, 163 C C A 189, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct 8, 248 U S 564, 63 L Ed 423
58 C J p 359 note 67 [a].

Harter Act

The policy declared in the provision of the Harter Act, 46 U S C A. § 193, making it the duty of the owner, master, or agent of any vessel transporting merchandise to issue to the shipper a bill of lading was held to be inapplicable to private carriers — Koppers Connecticut Coke Co v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C C A N Y, 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S Ct. 25, 302 U S 706, 82 L Ed. 545
Penalty under Harter Act see supra § 103 a.

90. U S —The Capitaine Faure, C C A.N.Y., 10 F 2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation A Vapeur France Indo-Chine v Cooper, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U S. 684, 70 L Ed. 1150.
58 C.J p 359 note 67.
Implied agreement to issue customary bill of lading see supra § 106 c.

Clean bill of lading

Where nothing appeared on government bill of lading to qualify its printed terms, and according to printed terms conditions in carrier's usual bill of lading were incorporated therein, bill of lading issued by carrier was a "clean bill of lading" and complied with agreement that no goods were to be loaded unless carrier could supply government with clean bill of lading, and it was none the less so because of the incorporation —Thomas Roberts & Co. v. Calmar S S Corp., D C Pa., 59 F Supp. 203

Cargo on lighter necessary for loading

Where it was necessary in order to load cargo on ship to use lighters, shippers became entitled to bills of lading at time lighters were secured alongside the ship and the loading operations commenced —Mackey v. U S, D C N Y, 83 F Supp 14, affirmed, C.A., 197 F.2d 241.

91. U S —The May Flower, D.C.Me, 16 F.Cas No 9,346, 3 Ware 300.

92. U.S —The May Flower, supra

93. U S —Hansen v American Trading Co, Me, 208 F 884, 126 C C A. 44
58 C J. p 360 note 71

94. U S —The Alonzo, D C Me, 1 F Cas No 257, 1 Hask 184—The May Flower, D C Me, 16 F Cas No 9,346, 3 Ware 300.

95. U S —McKay v Ennis, D.C N.Y, 37 F 229
58 C J. p 360 note 73.

96. U S —McKay v. Ennis, supra
Operation and effect of recitals as to quantity and weight generally see infra § 113

97. U S.—Lightburne v. The Tongoy, D C Ala., 55 F. 329.

98. U.S —Watt v Cargo of Lumber, N Y, 161 F. 104, 88 C.C.A 268

99. U.S —Ocean SS. Co, Ltd. v. U. S Steel Products Co, N.Y, 239 F. 823, 152 C C A 609, certiorari denied 37 S Ct 650, 244 U.S. 652, 61 L Ed 1373.

1. U S.—Ocean SS Co., Ltd. v. U S Steel Products Co., supra
58 C J. p 360 note 78.

Damage to cargo on lighter secured to ship

Where the use of a lighter was necessary to load cargo on the vessel, the bill of lading is presumed issued and dated as of the time the lighter was secured alongside the vessel and loading operations commenced, free of notations written on the face of the bill concerning loss and damage which occurred while the lighter was secured to the ship and in the control and custody of the charterer.—Mackey v. U. S, D C N Y, 83 F Supp. 14, affirmed, C.A, 197 F.2d 241.

2. U S —Hugetz v Compania Trasatlantica, C C.A.N.Y, 270 F. 90

3. N Y.—Blossom v. Champion, 37 Barb 554

4. U S —Blossom v Champion, supra

Master's receipt

Where such an established custom has long prevailed at the port of shipment the bill should be delivered only to the person holding the receipt of the master or agent.—Blossom v Champion, supra

5. U S —Blossom v. Champion, supra.

Power to change title

It is not in power of a common carrier to change the title to merchandise shipped on board a vessel by the delivery of a bill of lading to one not the owner or possessed of the apparent right of ownership or of disposal as agent —Blossom v. Champion, supra.

c. Who May Execute

(1) In general
(2) Master
(3) Charterers and subcharterers
(4) Ratification

(1) In General

In order to be effective to bind the owner of the vessel, the bill of lading must be executed by the owner or his duty authorized agent.

While a shipper has an absolute right to a bill of lading, he must secure it from the properly authorized person.[6] In general the bill may be executed by the owner of the vessel,[7] or by anyone duly authorized by the owner;[8] and, so where the government has authorized the operator of a government-owned vessel to sign and deliver a bill of lading, it is bound by the bills issued.[9] Where it was apparently done in the general course of business, the agent of a railroad carrier has been held authorized to sign export bills of lading for an ocean carrier,[10] and a bill issued by a railroad carrier for transportation of goods by rail and water is binding on the connecting carrier by water.[11] An instrument signed only by the shipper[12] or his agent[13] is not ordinarily a good bill of lading, although purporting to be one;[14] and a bill of lading signed only by the brokers who procured the cargo is of no effect as against a prior regular bill of lading signed by the master and owner of the boat.[15] A bill of lading signed by a duly authorized agent as such binds the principal,[16] but imposes no personal liability on such agent.[17]

(2) Master

Ordinarily a bill of lading signed by the master of the vessel binds the owner and the vessel.

Although it has been held that the captain of a vessel cannot bind the owner by signing bills of lading, unless he is clothed with express authority for that purpose, or authority implied by the usual course of employment or a subsequent assent,[18] masters are commonly held to be authorized to execute bills of lading, binding on the owner and the vessel,[19] notwithstanding the ship is under charter to a third person,[20] where the bill contains no reference to the charter party or to the owner;[21] and a bill of lading, signed by the master of a ves-

6. U.S.—Aktieselskabet Bruusgaard v Standard Oil Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 283 F. 106

7. N.Y.—Rawls v. Deshler, 4 Abb. Dec. 12, 3 Keyes 572, 3 Transcr.A. 91, 33 How.Pr. 611.
58 C.J. p. 360 note 89.

8. U.S.—U.S. v. Middleton, C.C.A.S.C., 3 F.2d 384, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809
58 C.J. p. 360 note 90.

Proof of authority

Where it was conceded that many other bills of lading in evidence were issued by shipowner's agent and that they were signed by the same person who signed clean bill of lading purchased by libelant in due course, relying on statements in bill that goods were on board vessel, that person's agency and authority to issue bills of lading in behalf of shipowner was established.—The Manuel Arnus, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.Supp. 770

9. U.S.—U.S. v. Middleton, C.C.A.S.C., 3 F.2d 384, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809

10. U.S.—Loma Fruit Co. v. International Nav. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 11 F.2d 124, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 471, 270 U.S. 662, 70 L.Ed. 787

11. N.Y.—D'Utassy v. Mallory S.S. Co., 147 N.Y.S. 313, 162 App.Div. 410

12. Ind.—Babcock v. Orbison, 25 Ind. 75
N.Y.—Gage v. Jaqueth, 1 Lans. 207.

13. N.Y.—Covill v. Hill, 4 Den. 323, reversed on other grounds 1 N.Y. 522.

14. Ind.—Babcock v. Orbison, 25 Ind. 75.
58 C.J. p. 360 notes 94, 95

15. U.S.—Vandover v. Wilmot, D.C.N.Y., 28 F.Cas.No.16,848, 10 Ben. 223.

16. U.S.—Dietrich v. U.S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, C.C.A.N.Y., 9 F.2d 733.

17. U.S.—E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. v. Barge Carriers, D.C.Fla., 55 F.Supp. 728.
Liability of agent under contract of affreightment generally see supra § 106 c.

War Shipping Administration as agent

Where bill of lading was signed by defendant as agent for master, who was agent for federal government and bill of lading was labeled war-shiplading and provided that if ship was not owned by or chartered by demise to the War Shipping Administration or company designated, bill of lading would take effect only as a contract with owner or demise charterer as principal, made through agency of War Shipping Administration or company designated which acted as agent only and was under no personal liability, shipper was put on notice that ship was not owned or chartered by demise to defendant and having accepted bill of lading plaintiffs could not predicate defendant's liability thereon.—Federated Trading Corp. v. United Fruit Co., 93 N.Y.S.2d 841.

18. R.I.—Nichols v. De Wolf, 1 R.I. 277

19. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150 and Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150—Epstein v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 86 F.Supp. 740.
58 C.J. p. 361 note 99

Master, as used in definition of bill of lading, as a written acknowledgment, signed by the master, that he has received goods, etc., stands for anyone authorized to bind the vessel or carrier.—The Guiding Star, Ohio, 62 F. 407, 10 C.C.A. 454.

20. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150—Gans S.S. Line v. Wilhelmsen, C.C.A.N.Y., 275 F. 254, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 97, 257 U.S. 655, 66 L.Ed. 419.

As between shipper and owner master acts for owner.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U.S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379.

21. U.S.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U.S., supra

Master acting for charterer

(1) Shipowner was bound to shipper under bills of lading signed by master of vessel, as regards liability of owner for damage to cargo, even sel in his own name in the usual course of employment, will bind the owner,[22] although the vessel at the time is under a charter under which there is no provision for the signing of such bills by him.[23] Where, however, the charter is a demise of the ship, as considered supra § 34, it has been said that the shipowner is not liable on bills of lading signed by the master.[24] When the owner signs, the signature of the master is unnecessary.[25]

The authority of the master to issue bills of lading is for ordinary bills.[26] The master has no implied authority to sign a blank bill of lading, and, if he does, it is not binding on the owner;[27] nor has he authority to contract on the owner liabilities properly devolving on others.[28] So a master has no power to bind the owners or the ship by a false bill of lading, whether the falsity is with relation to the amount of goods shipped or the date of the shipment,[29] and under no circumstances can a master of a vessel charge the vessel or her owner by signing a bill of lading for goods which are not on board.[30]

Proof of authority. Proof of a practice of the captain of a vessel to sign bills of lading for articles delivered at one port is no proof of authority to sign bills for a different port.[31]

Liability of charterers on master's bill. The charterers of a vessel are liable on a bill of lading signed by the master under their authority,[32] or with their consent.[33]

(3) Charterers and Subcharterers

A charterer as such is not an agent to sign a bill of lading.

A charterer, as such, is not an agent to sign bills of lading,[34] and so a subcharterer is without power to bind the ship by bills of lading signed by him.[35] A bill of lading signed by a charterer is not equivalent to one signed by the master, with respect to the liability of the ship, although the charter party required the master to sign bills of lading, and, under the owner's instructions, he refused to do so.[36] A loading agent of the charterer has no authority to issue a bill.[37]

(4) Ratification

An unauthorized bill of lading may be made binding and effective by ratification.

Bills of lading which have been issued by unauthorized persons and before arrival of the ship may be ratified by the master,[38] and his approval with full knowledge of all the facts by signing,[39] or if under charter party master was acting for charterer only, since shipper, who had no knowledge of terms of charter party, could assume that master was shipowner's general agent and had general authority to sign bills of lading on behalf of shipowner.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co v. U. S, supra.

(2) Charter party provisions that charterers agreed to indemnify owners from liabilities arising out of signing of bills of lading by master and that master would act as agent of charterers in signing bills of lading are immaterial.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v U. S, supra

22. U.S.—The Niagara, D.C.N.Y., 297 F. 667, affirmed, C.C.A., 297 F. 670 Ala.—McTyer v Steele, 26 Ala 487. 58 C.J. p 361 note 2.

23. U.S—The Mary Bradford, D.C. N.Y., 18 F. 189, affirmed, C.C., 23 F 733

24. U.S—The Capitaine Faure, C.C A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L.Ed 1150 and Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S.Ct 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.

25. N.Y.—Rawls v. Deshler, 4 Abb. Dec. 12, 3 Keyes 572, 3 Transcr.A. 91—Dows v. Greene, 32 Barb. 490, 16 Barb. 72, affirmed 24 N.Y. 638.

26. U.S—Epstein v. U. S, D.C.N.Y., 86 F.Supp 740

27. U.S—The Joseph Grant, D.C. Wis., 13 F.Cas.No 7,538, 1 Biss 193

28. U.S—Epstein v. U. S, D.C.N.Y., 86 F.Supp. 740.

29. U.S—The Isola di Procida, D.C. N.Y., 124 F 942.
58 C.J. p 361 note 11

30. U.S—Missouri Pac R. Co. v McFadden, Tex., 14 S.Ct 990, 154 U.S 155, 38 L.Ed 944
La.—Fearn v. Richardson, 12 La.Ann 752
58 C.J. p 361 note 12.

31. R.I—Nichols v. De Wolf, 1 R.I 277

32. U.S—Pendleton v. Benner Line, N.Y., 38 S.Ct 330, 246 U.S. 353, 62 L.Ed 770
N.Y—McPherson v Cox, 86 N.Y 472
Agent for master
Where bills of lading were on charterer's regular forms and bore signature of charterer's agent over the words "agents for Master," and such agent had been authorized in writing by captain to sign bills of lading on behalf of vessel, and agent had attended to detail work of clearing shipments for charterer, and issuance of bills had been preceded by freight contracts entered into by charterer in the United States covering more than 90 per cent of the cargo, such bills were binding not only on the vessel and owner but also on charterer.—Mente & Co. v. Isthmian S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 36 F.Supp 278, affirmed, C.C.A., The Quarrington Court, 122 F.2d 266

33. U.S—The Poznan, D.C.N.Y., 276 F 418

34. U.S—Aktieselskabet Bruusgaard v Standard Oil Co., D.C.N.Y., 274 F. 996, affirmed, C.C.A., 283 F. 106.

35. U.S—The Capitaine Faure, D.C. N.Y., 1 F.2d 406, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L.Ed 1150

36. U.S—The Esrom, C.C.A.N.Y., 272 F 266, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct 47, 257 U.S. 634, 66 L.Ed 408

37. U.S—Aktieselskabet Bruusgaard v Standard Oil Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 283 F 106

38. U.S—The Capitaine Faure, C.C A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v Cooper, 46 S.Ct 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150 and Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.
58 C.J. p 362 notes 20–26.

39. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C. A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, verbally assenting to,[40] or subsequently saying that he authorized[41] such bills, constitutes a ratification binding on the vessel. The master ratifies unauthorized bills of lading covering goods on board by sailing,[42] but such ratification does not extend to bills issued for goods not laden.[43] A carrier ratifies and is bound by export bills requiring refrigeration of goods to their destination by receiving and carrying the shipments.[44]

§ 113. —— Validity, Construction, Operation, and Effect

a Requisites and validity
b. Construction
c Operation and effect

a. Requisites and Validity

Bills of lading in the carriage of goods by water must be just and reasonable and conform to statutory requirements.

Although a bill of lading is subject to statutory requirements,[45] and must conform to and not violate such requirements,[46] in the absence of a statute to the contrary no particular form is prescribed for a valid bill of lading[47] A bill of lading must be just and reasonable,[48] and if unjust or unreasonable, the court has power to excuse compliance therewith,[49] or, under some statutes, it may be corrected by the supervising board[50] A bill issued by an unauthorized person is invalid,[51] but the fact that the master does not place the word "master" after his signature does not affect the validity.[52] The bill

46 S Ct 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L Ed. 1150 and Societe de Navigation à Vapeur Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U S 684, 70 L Ed. 1150

40. U.S —The Capitaine Faure, C C. A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L Ed. 1150 and Societe de Navigation à Vapeur Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S Ct. 634, 271 U S. 684, 70 L.Ed 1150.
58 C.J. p 362 note 21.

41. U S.—The Capitaine Faure, C C. A N.Y., 10 F 2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L Ed 1150 and Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L Ed. 1150.
58 C J. p 362 note 22.

42. U S —The Arabien, D.C.Cal, 11 F 2d 304
58 C J p 362 note 24

43. U S —The Arabien, supra

44. U S.—Loma Fruit Co v. International Nav. Co., C C.A.N Y, 11 F. 2d 124, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 471, 270 U S. 662, 70 L Ed. 787

45. U S —George F Pettinos, Inc. v Thos & Jno Brocklebank, Limited, D C Pa, 65 F Supp. 102—The Vale Royal, D.C Md, 51 F Supp 412—The Ferncliff, D.C.Md, 22 F Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U.S. 444, 83 L Ed. 862, affirmed, C.C A, 105 F 2d 1021—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co v American Line S S Corp., D C N.Y, 19 F Supp. 188—U S v Elwell, N Y, 250 F. 939, 163 C C A 189, certiorari denied 39 S Ct 8, 248 U.S. 564, 63 L.Ed. 423.
N.Y.—Zonite Products Corp. v Mediterranean Nav. Co., S. A., 52 N Y. S.2d 603, 183 Misc. 962.

Carriage of Goods by Sea Act

Ocean bill of lading was held subject to requirements of Carriage of Goods by Sea Act —Zonite Products Corp. v. Mediterranean Nav Co, S A, supra.

Federal Bills of Lading Act

(1) Act was held not applicable to a bill of lading originating in a foreign country.—Archibald, etc, Co v Banque Internationale de Commerce, 214 N.Y.S. 366, 216 App Div 322

(2) Act was also held not to be applicable to a bill of lading issued by the carrier as a private carrier for private carriage —The Robin Gray, C C A N Y., 65 F 2d 376, certiorari denied Seas Shipping Co v. Approximately 3,251,000 Feet Board Measure of Lumber, 54 S Ct 70, 290 U S. 653, 78 L Ed 566.

Harter Act

Negotiable bills of lading issued by a ship's master in international commerce with the United States must be held subject to Harter Act, in absence of knowledge to the contrary by holder for value —The Ferncliff, D C Md., 22 F Supp 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed 862, affirmed, C C.A., 105 F 2d 1021.

The Shipment Act

(1) The act was held not to attempt to modify, repeal, or in any manner regulate or correct the nature, extent, or provisions of bills of lading in any interstate commerce shipments —South, etc., American Commercial Co. v. Panama R. Co, 199 N Y S 92, 205 App Div 123, affirmed 142 N E 666, 237 N Y. 287.

(2) Its failure to make regulations with respect to bills of lading and their restrictions and limitations cannot be held to be a removal of the restrictions of the first Cummins Amendment to the general Interstate Commerce Act.—South, etc, American Commercial Co. v. Panama R Co, supra.

Through bill of lading issued under the former provision of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U S C A. § 25 (4, 5) was held not to constitute "an arrangement for continuous carriage or shipment" within the meaning of the Act —Great Northern Ry Co v Sullivan, Minn, 55 S Ct. 472, 294 U S 458, 79 L Ed. 992.

46. U S —Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v James McWilliams Blue Line, C C A N.Y., 89 F.2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S Ct. 25, 302 U.S 706, 82 L Ed 545.

Statute prohibiting false bills of lading

U S —The Capitaine Faure, C C.A N. Y, 10 F 2d 950, certiorari denied Société De Navigation Á Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.

47. Philippine —Wise v. Insular Collector of Customs, 49 Philippine 966.

48. N Y.—South, etc, American Commercial Co. v Panama R. Co., 142 N.E. 666, 237 N Y 287.
58 C J. p 364 note 69.

49. U S —The Carso, D C N.Y, 43 F. 2d 736, modified on other grounds, C C A, 53 F 2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc, 52 S Ct. 140, 284 U S. 679, 76 L Ed. 574—Gelderman v Dollar SS. Lines, D.C N Y., 41 F.2d 398.

50. N Y —South, etc., American Commercial Co v. Panama R Co., 142 N E. 666, 237 N.Y. 287.

51. U.S.—Crenshawe v Pearce, D C. N Y., 37 F. 432, reversed on other grounds, C C, 43 F 803.
Who may execute see supra § 112 c.

52. U.S —Fox v Holt, D.C., 9 F Cas. No.5,012, 4 Ben 278, 36 Conn 558.

must be dated,[53] and is effective as of the date of receipt of the shipment on board the ship,[54] and the contract of the parties is not changed by a subsequent notation of short shipments.[55] Bills showing receipt for shipment dated before arrival of the vessel, and stamped "On board," after the goods were placed on board without indicating the date thereof, are issued unlawfully.[56] The master cannot be required to state in his bill of lading the precise chemical character of the cargo, having no authority to do so,[57] nor has he authority to estimate and determine and state in the bill of lading the particular mercantile quality of the goods before they are put aboard;[58] but the shipper may require the master to state on the bill the condition of the cargo ascertainable by the senses.[59]

A bill of lading issued for goods not actually received on board the vessel has been held to be void[60] even, as discussed infra § 114, as against a bona fide transferee in good faith and for value. As considered infra § 123, a bill reserving broad rights in the matter of deviation and delay is not void as against public policy.

Consideration for change in bill. Receiving freight in advance is a sufficient consideration to render a change in the original bill of lading binding on the parties.[61]

b. Construction

(1) In general

(2) Particular clauses

(1) In General

Bills of lading in the carriage of goods by water are construed in accordance with the general rules applicable to the construction of contracts.

Since, as considered infra subdivision c of this section, the bill of loading constitutes the contract of the parties, the rules as to the construction of contracts in general, and contracts of affreightment in particular, are applicable to the construction of the bill of lading.[62] Accordingly, a bill of lading, like any other commercial instrument, when indefinite in its terms, is to be construed reasonably according to the presumed intention, to be gathered from the situation of the parties and their relations to the ship and to each other,[63] and in construing and giving effect to the provisions, the conditions and circumstances which the evidence proves were known to the parties and contemplated by them in making it are to be taken into consideration.[64] The provisions must all be construed together[65] and as consistent with each other, if possible.[66] It is the intention of the parties as expressed in the contract which must be regarded, and no exception of a private nature not contained in the contract itself or arising therefrom by implication of law can be engrafted on it.[67] It must be so construed as to preserve to each of the contracting parties the rights which have been conceded by one to the other in the instrument itself.[68] Where there is a custom to

53. U.S.—The Orizaba, C.C.A.N.Y., 33 F.2d 326

54. U.S.—The Orizaba, supra.

55. U.S.—The Orizaba, supra.

56. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150 and Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.

57. U.S.—The Kate V. Aitkin, D.C.S.C., 39 F. 328.
58 C.J. p. 364 note 79.

58. U.S.—The Kate V. Aitkin, supra.

59. U.S.—The Kate V. Aitkin, supra.
58 C.J. p. 364 note 81.

60. U.S.—Archibald McNeil & Sons Co. of New York v. Western Maryland Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 42 F.2d 669, affirmed, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 1073, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 665, 76 L.Ed. 563.

Bill held not to bind vessel or owner
U.S.—Archibald McNeil & Sons Co. of New York v. Western Maryland Ry. Co., supra.

61. Iowa.—Baker v. The Milwaukee, 14 Iowa 214

62. U.S.—The Marianne, D.C.La., 24 F.Supp. 786—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S., D.C.Md., 12 F. Supp. 379
58 C.J. p. 362 note 33–p. 364 note 67.
What law governs see supra § 107.
Construction of bill of lading with contract of affreightment see supra § 106 c.

Words of general significance
Meaning of words having a general significance is confined within the particular purpose of the agreement, but in ascertaining the true sense in which general words are used, the words themselves cannot be deprived of all meaning.—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F. Supp. 232

63. U.S.—Grace v. Waterhouse, C.C.A.Wash., 264 F. 422.
58 C.J. p. 362 note 33.

64. U.S.—W. R. Grace & Co. v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L.Ed. 856—Pacific Coast Co. v. Yukon Independent Transp. Co., Wash., 155 F. 29, 83 C.C.A. 625—Marx v. National Steamship Co., D.C.N.Y., 22 F. 680
"In construing ocean bills of lading, . . . , it is the right and duty of the court to look not only to the language employed, but also to the subject matter, and to the surrounding circumstances, in order to determine the proper effect of the language used, by putting itself, so far as possible, in the place of the contracting parties."—The Marianne, D.C.La., 24 F.Supp. 786, 789.

65. U.S.—Herr v. Tweedie Trading Co., N.Y., 181 F. 483, 104 C.C.A. 231

66. U.S.—Herr v. Tweedie Trading Co., supra.

Retention of purpose of each provision
Provisions of bill of lading, one of which allegedly nullified the other, are to be construed so that each retains its purpose.—Pope & Talbot v. Blanchard Lumber Co. of Seattle, C.C.A.Cal., 159 F.2d 134.

67. U.S.—Kuhnhold v. Deutsch-Australische Dampfschiffs Gesellschaft, D.C.N.Y., 265 F. 805

68. Puerto Rico.—Pagan v. Maya-sign bills of lading before the goods are delivered, the bills must be considered as conditional and only binding in the event the goods are really delivered to the boat.[69] A printed paper pasted on a bill of lading has been held to be a part of the bill binding on the consignee, at least where he received the cargo without objection;[70] and so stipulations stamped on the face of a bill of lading, before its delivery to the shipper, and by express terms included therein, become a part of the contract.[71] Typewritten recitals in the bill will prevail over inconsistent printed recitals,[72] as for example a typewritten statement giving the weight of the goods received as against a printed recital that the weight is unknown.[73] When a statute is expressly incorporated in a bill of lading, not otherwise subject thereto, the provisions of the statute prevail over other inconsistent provisions of the bill.[74] Covenants in a bill of lading requiring the shipper to pay freight and the carrier to compensate for lost cargo have been held to be independent covenants.[75]

Construction against carrier. In cases of doubt as to its meaning, the bill, having been drawn by the carrier, must be construed most strongly against it[76] or strictly in favor of the shipper.[77] However, where a bill of lading prepared by the government as shipper permits of more than one interpretation, the carrier is entitled to the more favorable interpretation.[78]

Implied provisions. If nothing is expressed to the contrary in the bill of lading, established usages relating to a voyage are impliedly made part of the contract,[79] and, in default of a special provision, there is an implied warranty that the voyage will be prosecuted without unnecessary delay or deviation.[80] A carrier, by issuing bills of lading with no statement as to the condition in which the goods were received, does not affirmatively represent that they were received in good order and condition.[81]

(2) Particular Clauses

Particular clauses of a bill of lading should be construed with reference to the general purpose of the bill, as indicated by its various clauses taken together, the surrounding circumstances, and the usages and customs of business.

Particular clauses of a bill of lading should be construed with reference to the general purpose of the bill, as indicated by its various clauses taken together, the surrounding circumstances, and the usages and customs of business.[82]

A recital of "good condition" means that condition in which sound cargo is usually shipped.[83] A recital that the goods were received in good order, or in good condition, is not contractual and is not a warranty as between the immediate parties,[84] but, guez Dock, etc., Co., 18 Puerto Rico 387.

69. La.—Fearn v Richardson, 12 La. Ann. 752.

Delivery to different vessel

Where the agent delivered a bill of lading for merchandise, which was subsequently delivered to a different vessel from the one from which the bill of lading had been taken, it was held that the bill of lading was conditional, and did not bind the vessel for which the bill was issued, there having been no actual delivery of the goods.—King v The Lady Franklin, Ill, 8 Wall 325, 19 L Ed 455.

70. R I.—Falkenburg v Clark, 11 R. I 278.
58 C.J. p 362 note 40.

71. U S —Toyo Kisen Kaisha v W. R Grace & Co., C C A.Cal, 53 F 2d 740—Montague v. The Henry B Hyde, D.C Cal, 82 F 681

72. U.S —George F. Pettinos, Inc v Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C Pa, 65 F.Supp. 102—The Steel Inventor, D.C.Md., 35 F Supp 986

Superseding paramount clause

Where bill of lading issued by carrier by sea contained printed paramount clause but in margin of the bill of lading there was placed by a rubber stamp a paramount clause stating that the bill of lading should have effect subject to the provisions of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, the physical appearance of the bill of lading indicated that it was the intention of the parties to supersede the printed so-called paramount clause by the United States Carriage of Goods by Sea Act.—The Steel Inventor, supra.

73. U.S —George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. Thos. & Jno Brocklebank, Limited, D C Pa, 65 F Supp. 102.

74. U.S —The Vale Royal, D.C Md, 51 F Supp. 412.

75. Cal —Transmarine Corporation v R W. Kinney Co, 11 P 2d 877, 123 Cal.App. 411.

76. U S —Toyo Kisen Kaisha v W R. Grace & Co., C.C.A Cal., 53 F 2d 740—E Gerli & Co v. Cunard S. S. Co, C C A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 115.
58 C J. p 362 note 42

77. U S —Marx v National S. S Co, D C N Y, 22 F 680.

78. U S —Alcoa S. S Co. v. U S., D. C N Y, 80 F Supp 158, reversed on other grounds, C.A, 175 F 2d 661, affirmed 70 S Ct. 190, 338 U S 421, 94 L Ed. 225

79. U S —Richardson v Jenkins SS. Co, C C A Mich, 44 F 2d 759, certiorari denied 51 S Ct 345, 283 U S. 821, 75 L Ed 1436.
58 C J. p 363 note 43.

Admissibility of evidence of usage to explain the meaning of bills of lading and shipping contracts see Customs and Usages § 27 a

80. U S —The Pelotas, D C La, 43 F 2d 571, affirmed, C C A, 66 F 2d 75
Time for delivery generally see infra § 123.

81. U.S —Nichols v The Isla De Panay, N Y, 45 S Ct 269, 267 U S. 260, 69 L.Ed. 603.

82. U.S —W R Grace & Co. v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D C Cal, 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C C.A, 12 F 2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S Ct 109, 273 U S 717, 71 L Ed. 856—The Marianne, D C La., 24 F.Supp 786—Marx v National Steamship Co, D. C N.Y, 22 F. 680.

83. U S —The Dondo, D C.N.Y., 287 F. 239.

84. U S —Cheek Neal Coffee Co. v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D.C La, 36 F 2d 256—Amerlux Steel Corporation v Johnson Line, C C A.Cal., 33 F.2d 70—Lawrence Leather Co. v. Norton Lilly & Co, D.C.N Y., 15 F. 2d 101—Orient Ins. Co. v. Flota Mercante del Estado, D C La., 102 F Supp 729—The Ciano, D C Pa., 69 F.Supp 35—Thomas Roberts & Co. v. Calmar S. S. Corp., D C Pa., 59 F.Supp 203.

as considered infra § 154, is only prima facie evidence, the carrier being free to prove the contrary.[85] Such a recital relates only to the external appearance of the things received,[86] especially where there is also a recital that the weight, measure, quality, contents, and value are unknown.[87] So the admission by the carrier in a bill of lading reciting that the goods were received in apparent good order applies to the visible aspect of the subject matter.[88] Such a recital is not an admission that there were no stains on the covering of the goods when it was customary to use secondhand coverings which frequently were stained by use;[89] but it does admit that externally the goods appeared to be in good condition when received.[90] A good order receipt or clean bill of lading cannot properly be read to mean standard shipping condition where it would tend to contradict the apparent good order clause of the bill or receipt.[91]

Date. The date of a bill of lading is merely the date on which the owner of the vessel receives property on board.[92] Where an "on board" indorsement on the bill bears no date, the date of the bill itself should be taken as the date of indorsement.[93]

Deviation. A provision in a bill of lading that the carrier shall not be charged with deviation under conditions set out must be given a reasonable interpretation.[94]

Insurance. Where through bills of lading for railroad and steamship transportation are signed by an agent of the connecting lines as agent severally, but not jointly, a provision in the land-transportation clause giving the carrier full benefit of any insurance effected on the goods does not apply to the ocean carriage.[95] A provision in a bill, in consideration of a higher freight rate, that the cargo is covered by marine insurance while on board, under, and in accordance with, and subject to, the conditions of policies of marine insurance held by the carrier, must be construed as an obligation on the part of the carrier to pay the shipper's loss under the same contingencies as permitted it, through its reinsurance, to throw the loss on its own insurers.[96]

Lighterage. A provision giving the master or

85. U.S.—Cheek Neal Coffee Co. v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C La, 36 F 2d 256—Orient Ins Co v Flota Mercante del Estado, D.C La, 102 F.Supp 729.

86. U S—The Ciana, D.C Pa, 69 F Supp. 35—The Magdapur, D C N.Y, 46 F Supp 517—Bingham v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D.C N.Y, 12 F Supp. 35, affirmed, C C A., 88 F.2d 1004—The Tymeric, D C N.Y., 3 F Supp. 773.
La—Gauche v. Storer, 14 La Ann 411.

Straight as well as order bills of lading are within rule—Munson S S Line v. Rosenthal, D.C.N Y, 6 F Supp. 374.

Cloth

Bare recital in bill of lading that cargo of cloth was shipped in good order and condition was only proof of external condition of bales at time of shipment, and did not justify inference that contents were free from moisture—The Tymeric, D.C N Y., 3 F Supp 773.

Corn

In libel for damages to cargo of corn, receipt reciting that corn was in "apparent good order and condition" when loaded implied no more than that corn was in that condition as far as inspection of outside of grains could indicate.—Albers Bros. Milling Co v. Hauptman, C.C.A Cal, 95 F.2d 286.

Damage to outer covers

Recital of bill of lading that goods were received in good condition was satisfied, even though burlap was spotted, and hoops rusted on bales of salted skins, since such recital refers only to external condition—Cohen v. Holland-America Line, D C.N. Y, 6 F Supp 247.

87. U S—The Magdapur, D.C.N.Y., 46 F Supp 517.

Contents unknown

Where the bill of lading acknowledging receipt of the goods contains recitals of a nature which indicates that the contents are unknown, the acknowledgment is generally taken to refer to the external condition of the goods and to preclude any admission or inference as to the condition, quality, quantity, or contents of the shipment beyond what is externally apparent or visible.—Clark v Barnwell, S.C, 12 How. 272, 13 L Ed 985—13 C.J. p 109 note 26.

Receipt referring to bill of lading

Where mate's receipt for goods stated they were "in good order" and also stated that receipt was subject to all conditions inserted in bill of lading, one of which conditions was that contents, quality, and value were unknown, admission in receipt that goods were in good order applied only to external condition of bales—Bingham v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 12 F Supp 35, affirmed, C C.A., 88 F.2d 1004.

88. U S—Clark v. Barnwell, S C., 12 How. 272, 13 L Ed 985.
58 C.J p 363 note 54.

89. U.S—The Dondo, D.C.N.Y., 287 F. 239.

90. U.S.—Gulden v. Hijos de Jose Taya S. en C., N Y, 252 F. 577, 164 C C A. 493
58 C J. p 363 note 56.

91. U S—John R Evans & Co v The Express, D C.Pa, 100 F.Supp 347.

92. U S—Archibald McNeil & Sons Co. of New York v. Western Maryland Ry. Co, D C.Pa, 42 F.2d 669, affirmed, C C A, 51 F 2d 1073, certiorari denied 52 S Ct. 41, 284 U S 665, 76 L Ed. 563.

93. U S—The Capitaine Faure, D C N Y, 1 F 2d 406, modified on other grounds, C C A, 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation A Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S Ct. 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L. Ed 1150 and Societe de Navigation A Vapeur France Indo-Chine v Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S Ct. 634, 271 U S 684, 70 L Ed. 1150.

94. U S—Romano v. West India Fruit & S S. Co, C C.A Fla, 151 F 2d 727.

Discretion of master

Discretion given to master by such a provision may not be exercised in an unreasonable manner or without substantial grounds and master's good faith alone will not suffice.—Romano v. West India Fruit & S. S. Co., supra

95. U.S—The Montana, C C.N Y, 22 F. 715, 22 Blatchf 372, affirmed 9 S Ct 469, 129 U S. 397, 32 L Ed 788 and 9 S Ct 480, 129 U.S. 397, 32 L Ed 800 agent of the ship the option of hiring lighters at the port of discharge for the landing of the goods at the expense and risk of the shipper or consignee does not give him the right to do so when the shipper or consignee is there ready and demanding his goods on the ship's arrival,[97] and a clause that lighterage, if required, should be at the expense of the cargo, is inapplicable where the conditions do not necessitate lighters.[98]

96. U S.—Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Merchants', etc, Transp. Co., D C. N Y., 179 F. 133.

Reference to charter party. Where a charterer with whom a shipowner enters into a contract of affreightment intends to enter into subcontracts of carriage with other shippers, bills of lading issued to the individual shippers constitute contracts between the shippers and the shipowner or charterer independent of the contract expressed in the charter party, except in so far as the bills expressly incorporate it.[99] In determining whether the bill is the contract of the shipowner or of the charterer, the documents and circumstances in each case will govern.[1] Where the bill refers to the charter party by such words as "all conditions as per charter party," such a clause brings in only those provisions of the charter party which are applicable to the contract contained in the bill,[2] and not specifically covered thereby.[3] A shipper may claim rights under a charter party clause incorporated in the bill of lading, although he is not a party to the charter.[4]

Towage of vessel. A provision in a bill, which required the consignee to tow the vessel in and out of the bay free, is not a contract to pay for the towage merely, but to provide it.[5]

Delivery to ship. A provision in the bill that the cargo shall be delivered to the ship has been construed to mean that there shall always be accorded to the carrier a reasonably immediate access to the point of loading or unloading.[6]

"Short-shipped" is an expression in a bill of lading said to mean a deduction from the amount or number previously stated.[7]

c. Operation and Effect

(1) In general
(2) Recitals as to quantity and weight
(3) Effect as to consignee in general
(4) Effect as estoppel

(1) In General

As a general rule, the bill of lading, properly signed by the carrier and accepted by the shipper, constitutes the contract which binds them.

The contract between a ship and the shipper is that which is contained in the bills of lading delivered to the shipper.[8] The original parties to a bill of lading are the shippers and the captain, or carrier,[9] who are presumed to know its provisions,[10] and the relations between them are governed thereby.[11] A bill signed by the carrier, and delivered to, and accepted by, the shipper without objection, in the absence of fraud, although not signed by him, binds the shipper,[12] according to the decisions

97. Puerto Rico—Pagan v Mayaguez Dock, etc, Co, 18 Puerto Rico 387.

98. U.S—E. J. Keller Co v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D.C.N.Y, 26 F 2d 838

99. U S—The Iristo, D C N Y, 43 F Supp 29, affirmed, C C.A, Middleton & Co. (Canada) Limited v Ocean Dominion S S. Corp, 137 F. 2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S Ct 432, 320 U.S. 802, 88 L Ed 484

1 U S—The Iristo, D.C.N Y, 43 F Supp. 29, affirmed, C.C A., Middleton & Co (Canada) Limited v. Ocean Dominion S S. Corp, 137 F. 2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S Ct. 432, 320 U S 802, 88 L Ed 484.

2. U S—The Albert F. Paul, C.C A. N.Y, 1 F 2d 16.

3. U.S—The Robin Gray, C C.A.N. Y., 65 F.2d 376, certiorari denied Seas Shipping Co v Approximately 3,251,000 Feet Board Measure of Lumber, 54 S.Ct 70, 290 U S 653, 78 L Ed 566.

4. U.S—Centrosoyus-America v U S., D C N Y, 30 F 2d 302, reheard 31 F.2d 610.
58 C.J. p 364 note 66.

5. U.S.—Thompson v. Winslow, D C Me, 130 F 1001, affirmed 134 F 546, 67 C C A. 470.

6. U.S.—Roah Hook Brick Co. v. Erie R Co, C A.N.Y., 179 F.2d 601

7. U S.—Abbott v. National Steamship Co, D.C N Y, 33 F. 895

8. U S—The Eva D Rose, D.C N C, 151 F 704, modified on other grounds 153 F. 912, affirmed 166 F 101, 92 C C A 85
58 C J p 364 notes 87, 88.
Operation and effect of provisions limiting liability see infra § 131
What law governs see supra § 107

Presumption of contract
Ship's bill of lading, delivered to, and accepted without objection by, consignee, is presumed to constitute contract of carriage.—Yorke v Pickwick Stages System, 298 P. 831, 113 Cal App 566

Rights of cargo owner are governed by bill of lading.—The Toledo, C. C A N Y, 122 F.2d 255, certiorari denied Isbrandtsen-Moller Co v The Toledo, 62 S Ct. 302, 314 U.S 689, 86 L Ed 551.

Provisions of other instruments to which the bill refers and makes the property covered subject constitute parts of the contract by incorporation by reference.—Bank of California, N. A, v International Mercantile Marine Co, C C A.N Y, 64 F 2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S Ct. 66, 290 U S. 649, 78 L.Ed 563

Shipments under separate bills
Where shipments are made under separate bills of lading each bill is a separate contract.—Leveille v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, 244 N.Y S 112, 137 Misc 873.

9. La—Hall v. The Chieftain, 9 La. 318.

10. U.S.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S, D C Md, 12 F Supp. 379.

11. U.S—The Vale Royal, D C Md, 51 F Supp. 412.

12. U.S.—The Caledonier, C.C.A.N.Y, 42 F.2d 856.
58 C J. p 364 note 88.
Effect of bills signed only by charterer see supra § 112 c (3).

Cause of action based on bill of lading
Where shipper accepted bill of lading for goods shipped, and based its cause of action thereon, plaintiff was on the question, as of the date of shipment;[13] but the bill must have been received and accepted by the shipper as a contract,[14] and, under some statutes, assent to the bill of lading, in so far as it contains special stipulations for the benefit of the carrier, must be shown by the shipper's signature thereto.[15] Prior negotiations, understandings, and oral agreements between the parties are generally merged in the bill of lading,[16] unless the goods are beyond recall when the bill of lading is issued and accepted.[17] Where, however, the carrier and the shipper have entered into a contract of affreightment, a bill of lading which differs therewith will not bind the shipper without his express agreement to the change.[18]

Where a loss has occurred to a cargo before the signing of the bill by the master, it is inoperative as to the liability of the vessel, the rights of the parties having been previously fixed at the time the damage occurred;[19] but where a bill is signed by the master after the damage to the cargo, and the owner repudiates its validity for that reason, the latter cannot deny the liability of the vessel on the ground that the contract under which the goods were received by the vessel was merged in such bill, the validity of which he denies.[20] The effect of provisions giving the shipper the benefit of any insurance the carrier may have is to restore the latter's common-law liability for fire abrogated by statute to the amount of such insurance,[21] and, in an action based on such provision, the carrier cannot, in order to discharge or lessen its liability, invoke a policy held by the shipper.[22]

The bill of lading extends only to goods actually received or within control of the carrier or his representative.[23]

Shipping bill, executed by an owner of merchandise and of the canal boat on which it was placed for carriage, stating that it was to be delivered according to the marginal address, has the legal force and effect of a regular bill of lading.[24]

Master's copy or ship's bill is, in legal effect, a simple memorandum for the convenience of the master, and not the contract by which the goods were to be delivered,[25] and, if it differs from the bill delivered to the shipper, the latter controls.[26] Where, however, two bills of lading are made out, but neither is signed by the master, and one is delivered to the master and the voyage performed thereunder, the second not being seen by him until the end of the voyage, the former is the contract binding on the parties.[27]

Through bill. The fact that a carrier is not the initial carrier under an ordinary through bill of lading does not prevent it from being a party to the bill,[28] and, if it is a party, the fact that it does not carry the cargo does not necessarily relieve it of responsibility under the bill.[29]

Persons protected. A bill of lading protects all bound by its terms—Federated Trading Corp. v. United Fruit Co., 93 N.Y S 2d 841

13. U S—The Orizaba, D C N Y, 33 F.2d 326

14. Wash—Revilla Fish Products Co v. American-Hawaiian SS Co., 137 P 337, 77 Wash. 49
58 C.J. p 365 note 90.

15. Cal—Schroeder v. Schweizer Lloyd Transport Versicherung's Gesellschaft, 5 P 478, 66 Cal 294.

16. U S—Transmarine Corporation v. Charles H Levitt & Co, C.C A N.Y., 25 F.2d 275—American Tobacco Co v The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C N Y, 81 F Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C A., 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct 1076, 343 U.S 978, 96 L Ed —— —— The Jean Jadot, D C N Y., 14 F. Supp 161
58 C J. p 364 note 88 [a].

Stowage agreement

Where there was no proof that at time bills of lading, which did not specify tweendeck stowage, were issued and accepted goods were beyond recall or that any protest was made with respect to place of stowage carrier could not be held liable for breach of alleged prior agreement for tweendeck stowage—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C N.Y., 81 F.Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C A, 194 F. 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct 1076, 343 U S. 978, 96 L Ed. ——

17. U S—Transmarine Corporation v Charles H Levitt & Co., C C A N Y, 25 F 2d 275—American Tobacco Co v The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C N Y, 81 F Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C A, 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct 1076, 343 U S 978, 96 L Ed. ——

18. U S.—The Citta di Palermo, D.C N.Y, 153 F 378, affirmed 165 F. 437, 91 C.C A. 592

Insertion of restrictive provisions

Where parties have entered into contract of affreightment, the shipper is not bound by terms restrictive of the usual liability of carriers inserted in the bill of lading without his express agreement and in the absence of custom or usage sanctioning it.—The Arctic Bird, D.C Cal., 109 F 167—58 C J. p 365 note 90 [b].

19. U S.—The Edwin, D C Mass., 7 F Cas.No 4,300, 1 Sprague 477, affirmed 24 How. 386, 16 L.Ed. 599.

20. U S.—The Edwin, supra.

21. U S—Southern Cotton Oil Co v Merchants', etc, Transp Co, D C.N Y., 179 F 133.

22. U S.—Southern Cotton Oil Co v Merchants', etc, Transp Co., supra
58 C.J. p 365 note 94

23. U S—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co v American Line S. S Corp, C.C.A. N Y, 97 F 2d 360

24. N.Y—Dows v Greene, 24 N.Y 638

25. U S—The Thames v Seaman, N Y., 14 Wall 98, 20 L Ed. 804—The Mary Bradford, D C N Y., 18 F 189, affirmed, C C, 23 F, 733.

26. U S.—The Thames v Seaman, N. Y., 14 Wall. 98, 20 L Ed 804
N Y—Ontario Bank v. Hanlon, 23 Hun 283.

27. U S—Costello v 734,700 Laths, D C N Y, 44 F. 105.

28. U.S.—Blumenthal Import Corp v Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, C.C.A. Pa, 148 F 2d 727.

29. U S—Blumenthal Corp. v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, supra.

persons who by means of, or under, it become the owners or custodians of the goods.[30]

Notice of terms of charter. A shipper is not, in accepting a bill of lading, under the duty of inquiring whether the ship was chartered or owned by the person soliciting the shipping, although, if actual knowledge of the terms of the charter were brought home to him, he is bound thereby.[31]

(2) Recitals as to Quantity and Weight

As a general rule, recitals in a bill of lading as to the weight or quantity of goods received by the carrier are not conclusive but are open to explanation.

The estimated weight of a cargo stated in bills of lading prepared by the shipper and signed by the master constitutes an agreement binding on the parties for the purpose of computing freight, unless impeached by proof of a difference in the actual weight;[32] and the shipowner is bound to deliver the full amount specified in the bill, unless he can show that the whole, or some part of it, was in fact not received.[33] However, on the ground that, as to matters relating to the quantity of goods shipped, a bill of lading operates merely as a receipt,[34] and on the further ground that a bill of lading cannot be given by an agent of the owner for goods not actually received,[35] it is held that an ordinary bill of lading is not conclusive as between the original parties as to the quantity of goods shipped, and is open to explanation like other receipts,[36] and there can be no recovery for goods indicated in the bill of lading but not actually laden on board.[37] Where the cargo as received is all delivered by the carrier at the port of destination, the weight officially ascertained at that place is the conclusive measure of the carrier's accountability, and the fact that the bill of lading calls for a greater tonnage is immaterial.[38] A fortiori a bill of lading which states that the vessel is not responsible for the number of pieces or the weight removes the ship's presumptive liability for the weight stated therein, and leaves her liable only for what is actually put on board;[39] and she cannot be held liable for shortage, without further proof than the statements of the bill as to the actual amount delivered by the shipper.[40] Similarly, when the bill of lading states "weights unknown," in the absence of proof of the weight shipped on a vessel, other than the recitals of the bill of lading, the vessel cannot be held for shortage,[41] the rule that the recital of quantity prima facie binds the ship being inapplicable where the recital is qualified by such terms as "more or less," "weight unknown," and "weight subject to correction."[42] Although the master of a vessel has no power to bind it by such an agreement,[43] a carrier may agree that he will be bound by the quantity specified or that the bill shall furnish the only evidence of the quantity, and in that case will be liable.[44]

(3) Effect as to Consignee in General

Contractual relations between the carrier and a consignee ordinarily are established by the latter's acceptance of the bill of lading from the shipper. The consignee's rights under the bill are not complete until it comes into his hands.

The consignee of a shipment of goods by water is designated by the shipper in the bill of lading,[45] and he is presumed to be the agent[46] or factor[47]

30. N Y—Woodruff v Havemeyer, 12 N.E 628, 106 N.Y. 129.
58 C J. p 365 note 99.

31. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, D.C N.Y., 1 F 2d 406, modified on other grounds, C C A., 10 F 2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v Cooper, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U.S 684, 70 L Ed 1150 and Societe de Navigation À Vapeur France Indo-Chine v Harrisons & Crossfield, 46 S Ct 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L Ed 1150.
58 C J. p 365 note 1.

32. U.S—Symons v. 10,466 Barrels of Cement, D C.Wash., 195 F. 1017
Bill as prima facie evidence of receipt of quantities named therein see infra § 154.

33. U S.—The John Twohy, C.C A. Pa., 279 F. 343, reversed on other grounds 41 S Ct. 251, 255 U.S. 77, 65 L.Ed. 511.

34. U.S—James v. Standard Oil Co, N Y, 191 F 827, 112 C.C A. 341.
58 C.J. p 366 note 11.

35. La—Kirkman v. Bowman, 8 Rob. 246
Authority of master to sign bill for goods not on board see supra § 112 c (2).

36. U S—The Seefahrer, D C Cal, 133 F. 793—Sawyer v. Cleveland Iron Min. Co, C C.A N Y., 69 F. 211.
58 C J. p 366 note 13.

37. U S—James v Standard Oil Co of New York, N.Y, 191 F. 827, 112 C C A 341
58 C J. p 366 note 14.

38. U S—Cafiero v Welsh, C.C., 4 F.Cas No.2,286, 8 Phila. 130.

39. U S—Eaton v. Neumark, D.C N. Y., 33 F. 891, affirmed, C C., 37 F. 375.

40. U S—Abbott v. National Steamship Co, D C N Y., 33 F. 895.
58 C.J p 366 note 17.
Short delivery generally see infra § 122.

41. U S—The Seefahrer, D C.Cal, 133 F. 793.
58 C J. p 366 note 18.

42. U S—Vanderbilt v. Ocean SS Co, N Y, 215 F 886, 132 C C A. 226—The Dixie, D C.N.Y., 46 F 403
58 C J p 366 note 19.
Burden of proving actual weight or quantity when bill recites weight and quantity are unknown see infra § 154.

43. U S—Law v. Botsford, D.C Mich, 26 F. 651.
58 C.J p 366 note 21.

44. U S—Sawyer v Cleveland Iron Min. Co., N.Y., 69 F. 211, 16 C.C.A 191.
58 C J. p 366 note 22.

45. La—Hall v. The Chieftain, 9 La 318

46. U S—Conard v. Atlantic Ins. Co., Pa, 1 Pet. 386, 7 L Ed. 189.
La—Hall v. The Chieftain, 9 La 318

47. La.—Hall v. The Chieftain, supra.

of the shipper, but his right is not complete, at all events before the bill of lading comes into his hands.[48] Contractual relations between the carrier and the consignee are ordinarily established by the latter's acceptance of the bill of lading from the shipper,[49] and the carrier's duty to the consignee rests on such accepted bills, and not on a special agreement between the shipper and the carrier.[50] If, before the bill of lading comes into the hands of the consignee, the shipper chooses to vary, or modify the contract between himself and the carrier, or to acknowledge that there was error as to the description of the goods, in the bill of lading signed, the consignee has no right to complain,[51] and, when the cargo specified in a bill of lading was never received by the carrier, the original consignee cannot hold it liable for the loss of the cargo, unless it appears that the bill of lading was issued with intent to defraud.[52]

(4) Effect as Estoppel

(a) In general

(b) Receipt on board

(c) Condition of goods

(a) In General

A bill of lading in the transportation of goods by water may contain elements of an estoppel against the carrier.

A bill of lading in the case of shipments of goods by water may contain elements of an estoppel against the carrier.[53] However, the carrier is not estopped by the signature of the master to deny that the bill contains the contract under which the goods were shipped where the master prominently indorsed the words "Signed under protest" on the bill;[54] and the general owner of a vessel is not estopped to deny the validity of bills of lading fraudulently signed by the master of a vessel, appointed by a special owner, in a suit against the vessel by a bona fide holder of the bills, who has made advances on the faith of them.[55] Connivance with the shipper with respect to the false issuance of clean bills of lading is unnecessary in order to render the shipowner liable to the consignee by estoppel.[56]

Weight and quantity. Although, as between the original parties to a bill, recitals as to quantity and weight are not conclusive, as considered supra subdivision c (2) of this section, as against an assignee for value relying thereon, the owner of a vessel is estopped to set up a state of facts different from that set forth in a bill signed by him.[57]

Estoppel of shipper. The shipper is estopped to complain of the form of the bill of lading, constituting but a mere receipt for the cargo, where such bill was prepared by the shipper's agent at the shipper's request, a copy of which was received by the shipper soon after the loading of the cargo.[58]

(b) Receipt on Board

A carrier by water may be estopped to deny the receipt of goods on board by statements in the bill of lading.

A carrier by water may be estopped to deny receipt on board of goods as stated in its bill of lading,[59] as against a purchaser of the bill who has been misled by the representation and has altered his position to his detriment on the faith of the representation.[60] However, since the master has no authority to charge the vessel or its owner for goods not on board, as considered supra § 112 c (2), the owner is not estopped by the signature of the master to the bill to show that the goods were never actually on board,[61] and a verified statement, signed by the master of a vessel, admitting delivery to the vessel for loading of goods, which were sub-

48. La.—Hall v. The Chieftain, supra.

49. U.S.—Mowinckel v Dewar, D C. Cal, 173 F. 544, affirmed 179 F. 355, 102 C C A 539
58 C.J. p 367 note 28

50. U S.—American Steel Co. v. Transmarine Corp., D.C N Y, 36 F. 2d 246.

51. La.—Hall v. The Chieftain, 9 La. 318

52. Ga.—McIntyre v. South Atlantic Steamship Line, 78 S.E 347, 12 Ga App. 399.

53. U.S —The Ciano, D.C.Pa., 69 F. Supp. 35.

54. U.S —Nine Hundred and Seventy-Nine Boxes of Sugar, D C.N.Y., 18 F Cas No 10,271, 7 Ben. 242.
58 C J. p 367 note 35.

55. U S —The Freeman v. Buckingham, N Y, 18 How 182, 15 L Ed. 341
58 C J p 367 note 36.

56. U.S —The Carso, D C.N Y., 43 F.2d 736, modified on other grounds, C C.A., 53 F 2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli Giannusa & Rao, Inc., 52 S Ct. 140, 284 U.S 679, 76 L Ed 574.

57. N.Y.—Byrne v. Weeks, 4 Abb Dec. 657.
58 C J p 368 note 56

Buyer paying sight draft on bill of lading
U S —General Foods Sales Co. v. The Felipe Camarao, D.C N.Y., 82 F Supp. 622.

58. U.S.—Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha, Limited v. Societe Purfina Maritime, C C A N Y, 133 F 2d 552, certiorari denied 63 S Ct. 858, 318 U S 781, 87 L.Ed. 1148.

59. U S —General Foods Corp v The Felipe Camarao, C A.N Y., 172 F 2d 131, certiorari denied Republic of the U S of Brazil v General Foods Corp., 69 S.Ct 1047, 337 U S 908, 93 L Ed. 1720—Olivier Straw Goods Corp v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N.Y, 27 F 2d 129, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 22, 278 U S. 618, 73 L Ed 540.

60. U S.—Ortega & Emigh v. Grace Line, D.C.Cal., 72 F.Supp. 302—The Manuel Arnus, D.C.N.Y, 23 F. Supp. 770.

61. Mass.—Sears v. Wingate, 3 Allen 103.

sequently lost, signed under the belief that it was to enable the shipper to collect insurance, does not estop respondents in a libel in personam to assert that no delivery had in fact been made to the vessel.[62] So, where the bill of lading clearly states that the goods were lost before receipt thereof by the ship was effected, either actually or constructively, a certificate stating that the goods were on board signed by the captain in contemplation of receipt of the goods in regular course does not estop the carrier to deny liability as against a consignee who paid the draft accompanying the bill of lading with knowledge of the facts[63] Bills of lading signed by the master before the goods are on board, however, operate on the goods as received, as against the shipper and master, by way of relation and estoppel,[64] and thus if in anticipation of the delivery of goods to the vessel the master signs a bill of lading and goods are subsequently delivered as and for the goods intended to be embraced in it, if there be no intervening title to the goods between the issuing of the bill of lading and the delivery on board, the bill will cover the goods.[65] A statute making every bill of lading acknowledging the receipt of goods conclusive evidence, in the hands of bona fide holders, that the goods were actually received for transportation does not apply to bills issued for a steamboat line, but not naming or designating any particular boat[66]

Mutuality of estoppel. Although a steamship company, because of its misrepresentation in the bill of lading, is estopped to assert a defense based on the actual fact that the goods were never shipped, the assignee of the bill is not thereby through any doctrine of mutuality estopped to base his claim to damages on the failure to make the shipment, with the resulting failure to make proper delivery.[67]

Under the Federal Bill of Lading Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 102, providing for liability of the carrier in the case of nonreceipt of the goods described in the bill of lading or in the case of failure of the goods to conform to the description in the bill, the whole basis of liability of the carrier is estoppel,[68] and, unless something was advanced or some loss sustained on faith of the recitals of the bill, there can be no recovery.[69]

(c) Condition of Goods

The carrier may be estopped to contradict recitals in a bill of lading with respect to the condition of the goods.

As against the original shipper,[70] it has been said to be well settled that ordinarily the carrier is free to contradict an acknowledgment in a bill of lading that the shipment is in apparent good order.[71] Special circumstances, however, may operate to create an estoppel;[72] but, in order to furnish a basis for an estoppel, it is essential that the recital be false,[73] and that there be reliance thereon resulting in injury[74] A carrier which, although knowing that shipments when received appeared to have been damaged, executes bills reciting that the shipments had been received in good condition is, as against holders of the bills of lading who acquired them in course of trade, estopped to deny that it received the shipments in good order.[75] Such a recital does not

62. U S—McLeod Lumber Co v Crowley, D.C Cal, 8 F 2d 283

63. U S—Ortega & Emigh v Grace Line, D C.Cal., 72 F.Supp 302.

64. U S—The Delaware, Cal, 14 Wall 579, 20 L Ed 779.
Mass—Rowley v Bigelow, 12 Pick. 307, 23 Am D 607
58 C J p 367 note 42.
Construction of bill of lading signed by custom before delivery as conditional see supra subdivision b (1) of this section

65. U S—The Idaho, N.Y., 93 U S 575, 23 L Ed. 978—The John K. Shaw, D C Md, 32 F. 491.
Rights and obligations of all concerned are the same as if the goods had been actually shipped before the bill of lading had been signed
U.S—The Delaware, Cal, 14 Wall 579, 20 L.Ed. 779.
Mass.—Rowley v Bigelow, 12 Pick. 307, 23 Am.D. 607.

66. U S.—The Guiding Star, Ohio, 62 F. 407, 10 C.C A. 454.
58 C.J. p 367 note 44.

67. U S.—Olivier Straw Goods Corp v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N.Y., 42 F 2d 717, affirmed, C C.A., 47 F 2d 878, 74 A L R 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v Olivier Straw Goods Corp, 51 S Ct. 648, 283 U S. 856, 75 L Ed 1462

68. U S—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co v. American Line S S. Corp, D C N Y, 19 F Supp. 188.

69. U S—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. v. American Line S. S. Corp, supra
Owner of goods or holder of bill
In libel proceeding arising from carrier's nonreceipt of goods described in bills of lading, libelant could recover only under provision of Bill of Lading Act providing for recovery in such cases by owner of goods or holder of bills of lading who has given value in reliance on description in bills of lading.—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. v. American Line S S. Corp., supra.

70. U S.—Munson S. S Line v. Rosenthal, D C N.Y, 6 F Supp. 374.
Clean bill of lading does not estop carrier to show as against original shipper the true condition of the goods when received.—The Georgian, D C Fla, 4 F Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C A, 76 F.2d 550.

71. U S—The Ciano, D C Pa., 69 F Supp. 35—Thomas Roberts & Co. v. Calmar S. S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 59 F.Supp 203.
Reason for rule
The recital is neither contractual nor a warranty—The Ciano, D.C Pa, 69 F Supp 35—The Georgian, D C Fla., 4 F Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C A, 76 F 2d 550.

72. U S—The Ciano, D.C.Pa., 69 F Supp. 35.

73. U S.—The Sophocles, D.C.N.Y., 51 F Supp. 953.

74. U.S—The Carso, C C.A N Y., 53 F.2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli Giannusa & Rao, Inc., 52 S.Ct. 140, 284 U S. 679, 76 L Ed. 574—The Ciano, D C.Pa, 69 F.Supp. 35.

75. U.S—Baltic Cotton Co. v. U. S., C C A.Ala, 55 F.2d 568—The Carso, C C.A.N.Y., 53 F.2d 374, cer-estop the carrier where the bill contains other notations sufficient to put one seeing them on notice as to the possible poor condition of the goods,[76] or as to one who had knowledge of the damaged condition of the goods,[77] or who did not rely on the recital.[78] With respect to the right of the consignee, it is immaterial that the bill is not negotiable,[79] and the fact that the consignees learned of the damaged condition of the cargo after acceptance of the draft, but before payment thereof, and nevertheless paid it, does not relieve the shipowner from the estoppel.[80] Where the bill contains no recital that the shipment was received in good condition, failure to note therein any insufficiency in the containers does not estop the carrier to assert such insufficiency as the cause of the damage as against a consignee suing for damage.[81] Likewise, where the bill or receipt contains a general writing-off notation going to the entire shipment indicating that the wrappers on the packages of goods were damaged and the condition of the contents unknown, the fact that only some of the packages were listed by number as badly damaged does not limit the general character of the writing-off notation or constitute an implied representation that the packages not listed were in good order so as to estop the carrier to deny that such unlisted packages were in good order.[82] A carrier accepting broken cases but issuing a clean bill of lading has been held not estopped to assert against a buyer-consignee, accepting drafts attached to the bill, that the goods were damaged by causes other than breakage.[83]

§ 114. —— Negotiability and Transfer

While the transfer of a bill of lading may pass title to the property represented thereby, apart from statute, defenses available between the original parties usually are available as to the transferee.

Even though a bill of lading in the transportation of goods by water is designed to pass from hand to hand, with or without indorsement, and is efficacious for its ordinary purposes in the hands of the holder,[84] it has been held not to be a negotiable instrument in the sense that a bill of exchange or promissory note is.[85] Hence, in the absence of a statute removing the restrictions on the full negotiability of a bill of lading,[86] such a bill is merely assignable and quasi-negotiable,[87] passing title to the property.[88] The assignment and delivery of a bill of lading and invoice of goods in transitu for a valuable consideration convey the legal title, and the goods cannot be attached[89] or replevied[90] as the property of the assignor. However, in the absence of a statute providing otherwise, a bill is negotiable only in a qualified sense;[91] everyone dealing with tiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc, 52 S Ct 140, 284 U S 679, 76 L Ed 574—The Sophocles, D C.N.Y, 51 F Supp 953—New England Newspaper Pub Co v. U S, D C Mass, 18 F.Supp 674.

58 C J. p 368 note 46

As to subrogee of consignee
U S —Switzerland General Ins Co. of Zurich v Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., C C A N.Y., 91 F.2d 960.

As to purchaser of bill
Carrier, giving clean bill of lading, stating that cargo, manifestly damaged when received, was received in good order, is estopped to deny truth of such statement as against purchaser of bill, who is misled by and alters his position on faith thereof —Munson S S Line v. Rosenthal, D C.N Y., 6 F.Supp 374.

76. Notation, "not responsible for condition"
U S —Munson S. S Line v. Rosenthal, supra.

77. U S.—Munson S S. Line v. Rosenthal, supra.

78. U S —Munson S S. Line v. Rosenthal, supra.

Shipper's agent
Commission merchant, accepting vegetables, consigned to him as shipper's agent, with knowledge of their damaged condition, and paying tariff duty for principal's account was held not entitled to set up carrier's estoppel by recital in bill of lading as to good condition thereof when received for shipment to show their poor condition at such time, such payment not having been made in reliance on the recital —Munson S. S Line v Rosenthal, supra.

79. U S —The Carso, D C N Y, 43 F 2d 736, modified on other grounds, C C A, 53 F 2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc, 52 S Ct. 140, 284 U.S. 679, 76 L Ed. 574.
58 C J. p 368 note 50.

80. U.S.—The Carso, D C.N Y., 43 F. 2d 736, modified on other grounds, C C A, 53 F 2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc, 52 S Ct. 140, 284 U.S 679, 76 L Ed 574.
58 C J. p 368 note 51.

81. U S —The Isla De Panay, D.C N Y, 8 F.2d 91, affirmed, C.C.A., 292 F. 723, affirmed 45 S Ct. 269, 267 U S 260, 69 L.Ed. 603.

82. U S —New England Newspaper Pub. Co. v. U. S, D C.Mass., 18 F. Supp. 674.

83. U.S —The Carso, C.C A.N Y., 53 F 2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc, 52 S.Ct 140, 284 U S 679, 76 L Ed 574.

84. U S —Pollard v. Vinton, Ky, 105 U.S. 7, 26 L Ed. 998.

85. U S —Pollard v. Vinton, supra—The St Johns N. F., C C A N.Y., 272 F. 673.

86. U S —The Ferncliff, D C.Md, 22 F Supp. 728

Substantially full negotiability has been given to bills of lading by the Federal Bill of Lading Act, and the Uniform Bills of Lading Act in effect in many states.—The Ferncliff, supra

87. U.S —Corpus Juris cited in The Ferncliff, D.C.Md, 22 F Supp. 728, 739.
58 C.J. p 368 note 63.

88. U S.—The Vaughan and Telegraph, N.Y., 14 Wall. 258, 20 L Ed 807.
58 C J. p 368 note 63.
Right of transferee of bill to maintain suit against carrier see supra § 108 d.

89. U.S —Balderston v Manro, D C., 2 F.Cas No 793, 2 Cranch C.C. 623.

90. U S.—The Mary Ann Guest, C C. N.Y., 16 F Cas.No.9,196, 1 Blatchf. 358.

91. U S —The Idefjord, D C N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 667, reversed on other such a bill is charged with knowledge that the merchandise described therein is in transit and may be handled and treated by many persons whom he may not know and who may not know him,[92] and a purchaser thereof takes it subject to all provisions appearing on its face.[93] While transferring title, transfer of the bill does not shut out any defenses as between the carrier and the original holder,[94] and since, as considered supra § 112 c (2), the master cannot bind the vessel's owner in receipting for goods not actually in his custody, this defense can be set up against a bona fide holder of the bill of lading[95] for value,[96] and against one who in reliance on the bill of lading had lent money on the cargo,[97] but the title of a person who makes a bona fide advance on a bill of lading of goods subsequently delivered alongside the vessel is not affected by the removal of the goods by the owner from the custody of the vessel, and shipping them in another vessel under a new bill of lading.[98] The transferee of a bill not indorsed by the consignee of the goods presumptively holds the bill subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor.[99]

Issuance of several originals. Where several originals of the bill of lading are issued, the delivery of one or more of them for value transfers title to the goods, regardless of the retention of one of the originals by the transferor.[1]

Pledge of bill. A pledgee to whom a bill of lading is given as security gets the legal title to the goods only if such is the intention of the parties.[2]

Transfer of the master's copy of the bill of lading does not entitle the holder to delivery of the goods to him.[3]

Apportionment of deficient shipment. Where two bills of lading are issued at different times for goods not then delivered and only a part of the goods for which the bills are issued is shipped, bona fide holders of the bills are, in the absence of designation by the shipper of any portion of the goods as intended to fill either bill, entitled to the pro rata quantity called for by their bills.[4]

Requisites and sufficiency. The delivery of the bill of lading and policy of insurance is a sufficient assignment of goods shipped to a foreign port, provided the assignee follows up his claim with due diligence.[5] It is not absolutely necessary that a bill of lading should have been actually indorsed or delivered to the buyer in order to make him the assignee thereof;[6] other circumstances may be equally sufficient to show the relationship.[7] Where, however, a statute provides that title of the first holder of a bill drawn to order passes by indorsement, and of a bill drawn to bearer, by delivery, in the absence of estoppel, no title passes when an order bill is transferred without indorsement.[8]

C. TRANSPORTATION AND DELIVERY

§ 115. Transshipping and Forwarding

Where a vessel is disabled in the course of a voyage, it is the duty of the master if the ship cannot be repaired within a reasonable time to transship the goods by another vessel if one is available.

Where a vessel is disabled in the course of a voygrounds, C C A., 114 F 2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S Ct 175, 311 U S 707, 85 L Ed. 459—The Treasurer, D C. Mass., 24 F.Cas.No 14,159, 1 Sprague 473.

92. U S —The Idefjord, D C N Y., 31 F Supp 667, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 114 F 2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje A/S v Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S Ct 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L Ed. 459.

93. U S.—Givaudan Delawanna, Inc v The Blijdendijk, D.C N.Y., 91 F Supp 663.

Reason for rule

The purchase of a bill of lading ordinarily constitutes a commercial transaction between experienced business men or companies and they must be held to take with notice of provisions of the bill.—Givaudan Delawanna, Inc. v. The Blijdendijk, supra.

94. U S —Pollard v. Vinton, Ky., 105 U S 7, 26 L Ed 998.
58 C J p 369 note 66.

Doctrines favoring an innocent holder for value of negotiable paper do not wholly apply to holders of bills of lading —The St. Johns N. F., C C.A N.Y., 272 F 673.

95. U.S —Missouri Pac R. Co. v McFadden, Tex., 14 S Ct 990, 154 U S 155, 38 L.Ed 944
58 C.J p 369 note 68

96. U.S —Archibald McNeil & Sons Co. of New York v Western Maryland Ry Co, D.C Pa., 42 F 2d 669, affirmed, C C A., 51 F 2d 1073, certiorari denied 52 S Ct 41, 284 U S 665, 76 L Ed 563

97. U S —The Loon, C C N.Y., 15 F. Cas No 8,499, 7 Blatchf. 244.

98. U S —The Idaho, D C.N Y, 12 F Cas No 6,997, 5 Ben 280, affirmed 93 U S. 575, 23 L Ed. 978.

99. N Y —Neumann v Reiss, 245 N Y.S. 464, 138 Misc 576.

1. U S.—Merchants Transfer & Storage Co. v First Federal Foreign Banking Corporation, C.C A.N.Y., 79 F 2d 243.

Transfer to secure loan

U S —Merchants Transfer & Storage Co. v. First Federal Foreign Banking Corporation, supra

2. U S —The Carlos F Roses, Fla., 20 S Ct 803, 177 U S. 655, 44 L Ed 929.
58 C.J p 369 note 80

3. U.S.—The Mary Bradford, D C.N Y., 18 F. 189, affirmed, C.C., 23 F. 733

4. U S —The L. J Farwell, D C Wis., 15 F Cas No 8,426, 8 Biss. 61.

5. Pa.—Dawes v. Cope, 4 Binn 258

6. U S —Philadelphia, etc., R Co v. Barnard, D.C N Y., 19 F.Cas.No.11,086, 3 Ben 391.

7. U S —Philadelphia, etc., R Co. v Barnard, supra.

8. U S —Sheppard v Newhall, Cal., 54 F. 306, 4 C.C A. 352.

age and is compelled to seek a port of refuge, it is the duty of the master if the ship cannot be repaired within a reasonable time to transship the goods by another vessel if one is available,[9] and his duty as carrier is not ended until they are delivered at the place of destination, or are returned to the possession of the owner, or kept safely until the owner can resume them, or otherwise carefully disposed of.[10] In the absence of provisions in the contract so permitting,[11] a master has no right, without necessity, to transship goods shipped for the voyage on freight,[12] although a moral necessity is sufficient to justify transshipment.[13] So on a temporary detention the vessel is not bound to transship cargo unless damage is to be expected from the probable delay.[14] Where goods are to be transported by water and it becomes impossible to do so, the carrier is not bound to forward them overland,[15] and, similarly, when it becomes impossible to fulfill a contract to transport by sailing vessel, the carrier is not bound to transship them and send them on by steamboat.[16] A carrier which has performed its contract by delivering goods at their destination is not bound to reship them to any other point free of charge.[17] A transshipment without legal excuse, however competent and safe the vessel into which the transfer is made, is a violation of the contract and subjects the carrier to liability if the freight is lost;[18] but, where goods are properly transshipped from one vessel to another under circumstances which justify such transshipment, the owners of the first vessel are not liable for the subsequent loss of the goods on the other vessel,[19] although they could have received them again on their own vessel after the danger which caused the transshipment was passed.[20]

Transshipment by ordinary methods does not constitute conversion where the carrier has the right to transship,[21] and, where goods were to be shipped by water, the mere transshipment by rail and deposit in a warehouse subject to charges, and without notice to the consignee, is not a conversion by the carrier, entitling the consignee to recover the full value of the goods.[22] Where a bill of lading which contains provisions allowing transshipment at a certain port is stamped with a clause indicating that forwarding beyond such port is to be in connection with a certain company, the terms "transshipment" and "forwarding" are interchangeable and must be construed together.[23] Where goods become contaminated on their transfer from one vessel to another, the consignee, after receiving a portion of such goods, can reject further deliveries of the total consignment.[24] A connecting carrier which is in possession and control of a barge and its cargo delivered to such carrier by the initial carrier is under a primary duty to care for such barge and cargo.[25] Where a succeeding carrier refuses to accept goods from an intermediate carrier and the consignee instructs the latter to store the goods, the liability of the intermediate carrier for subsequent

9. U.S.—The Plow City, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Supp. 548.
58 C.J. p. 369 note 85

10. U.S.—King v. Shepherd, C.C. Mass., 14 F.Cas.No. 7,804, 3 Story 349

11. U.S.—Marx v. National SS. Co., D.C.N.Y., 22 F. 680.
58 C.J. p. 370 note 88.

12. Ala.—Cox v. Foscue, 37 Ala. 505, 79 Am.D. 69
58 C.J. p. 370 note 89

13. U.S.—The Fortitude, C.C.Mass., 9 F.Cas.No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228
58 C.J. p. 370 note 90

14. U.S.—Murray v. Ætna Ins. Co., C.C.Ill., 17 F.Cas.No. 9,955, 4 Biss. 417
58 C.J. p. 370 note 91.

15. Mo.—Silver v. Hale, 2 Mo.App. 557.

16. U.S.—Allanwide Transport Corp. v. Vacuum Oil Co., N.J., 39 S.Ct. 147, 248 U.S. 377, 63 L.Ed. 312, 3 A.L.R. 15, answers to certified questions conformed to 256 F. 987, 167 C.C.A. 663

17. Ark.—Lee Line Steamers v. Tucker, 165 S.W. 961, 112 Ark. 301.

18. U.S.—Trott v. Wood, C.C.R.I., 24 F.Cas.No.14,190, 1 Gall. 443.
58 C.J. p. 370 note 96

19. Ala.—Cox v. Foscue, 33 Ala. 713
58 C.J. p. 370 note 97.

20. Ala.—Cox v. Foscue, supra.

21. U.S.—Louis-Dreyfus v. Paterson Steamships, C.C.A.N.Y., 43 F.2d 824, 72 A.L.R. 242.

22. U.S.—Howe v. Lexington, D.C.N.Y., 12 F.Cas.No. 6,767a

23. U.S.—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S. S. Co., C.C.A., 88 F.2d 392.

Prima facie import of stamped clause

Where bill of lading allowing transshipment at certain port was stamped with clause indicating that forwarding beyond such port was to be "in connection with" named carrier, stamp imported prima facie that agreement contemplated forwarding by or through such carrier.—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S. S. Co., supra.

Liability of initial carrier

Initial carrier, even if mere forwarding agent, would still be liable for its own negligence, regardless of alleged deviation by forwarding goods by connecting carrier other than carrier named in bill of lading contemplating transshipment.—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S. S. Co., supra.

24. U.S.—Connecticut Fire Ins. Co. v. Lake Transfer Corporation, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 172.

Evidence of negligence in transfer

Evidence in suit for loss resulting from consignee's rejection of barge load of sulphur was held to show that cargoes previously delivered were contaminated by iron ore because of impleaded respondent's negligence in transferring them to other barges.—Connecticut Fire Ins. Co. v. Lake Transfer Corporation, supra.

Liability for damages

Corporation employed to transfer sulphur to other barges held liable for damages resulting from contamination thereof with iron ore because of negligence of pig iron manufacturer, engaged by it to make transfers.—Connecticut Fire Ins. Co. v. Lake Transfer Corporation, supra.

25. U.S.—Palmer v. Agwilines, Inc., C.C.A.N.Y., 135 F.2d 689.

damage to the goods terminates on storage of the goods as instructed [26]

The payment of brokerage to freight forwarders in ocean commerce has been held not to be unlawful or against congressional policy.[27] An action against a freight forwarder for breach of contract is governed by the usual rules relating to civil actions.[28]

Reservation of privilege in contract. Privilege to reship may be reserved in the contract of carriage,[29] and while it has been held that words "privilege of reshipping," in a bill of lading, are for the benefit of the carrier, and place no obligations on him to reship,[30] it has also been held that the phrase is to be construed as granting to the vessel the privilege of reshipping during the voyage, according as its interest or convenience may advise, and is at the same time imposing on it the duty to do so when practicable and necessary,[31] but the carrier is not bound to transship on any other vessels than its own, although it must avoid unreasonable delay, and is liable for damages caused thereby.[32] A carrier or forwarder of goods is not the general agent of the owner, and after delivery, pursuant to contract, to another carrier, it has no authority subsequently to dispense with any of the conditions for safe transportation, and the shipper will not be bound thereby;[33] nor does the privilege of reshipping reserved in a bill of lading discharge the vessel from any liability not excepted in the contract, and although the right is secured of transshipping on another vessel, the liability continues until the goods are safely delivered at the port of destination, if under like circumstances the carrier would be liable had the loss occurred on its own vessel.[34] The reservation confers only the simple right to transfer from one vessel to another,[35] and it cannot be exercised before the voyage has been undertaken or commenced by the original vessel.[36] By reshipping under such a clause the master does not lessen his liability to transport to the port named in the bill, and must show that the goods were put in a good ship.[37]

Agency of master In reshipping cargo, if the master can save a part of the freight to the owner, he will be considered his agent as well as the shipper's, otherwise, the shipper's alone.[38]

Through carriage. A carrier under a through bill of lading is presumably authorized to transship the goods when the shipper has notice that the carrier's vessel does not go all the way to the port of ultimate destination,[39] and where a bill of lading shows that a voyage to a particular place named on it is but part of a longer transit, which it is understood is to be made by the cargo shipped, and that the cargo is to be carried forward in a continuous way on its further voyage, the master must be presumed to have contracted with reference to the course of trade connected with getting the cargo forward.[40] A steamship company which issues a through bill of lading cannot limit its liability by accepting a local bill of lading which contains an agreed valuation clause for an amount less than that contained in the through bill of lading.[41] The terms of a through bill of lading providing for transshipment has been held to demonstrate that an ocean bill of lading was in the contemplation of the parties and was intended to become an integral part of the contract of carriage.[42] A provision in a through bill of lading that a forwarding shipment

26. Ala.—Ocean S. S. Co. of Savannah v. People's Shoe Co., 81 So. 241, 202 Ala. 594, opinion conformed to 81 So. 245, 17 Ala. App. 34

27. U.S.—Atlantic & Gulf West Coast of Central America and Mexico Conference (No. 2743) v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 94 F. Supp. 138

28. Questions of fact should be submitted to the jury.—Beol, Inc., v. H. S. Dorf Co., 105 N.Y.S.2d 323, 278 App.Div. 896, appeal and reargument denied 105 N.Y.S.2d 1020, 278 App. Div. 942.

29. Particular provisions construed
U.S.—Grace v. Waterhouse, C.C.A. Wash., 264 F. 422

30. U.S.—Broadwell v. Butler, C.C. Ohio, 4 F. Cas. No. 1,910, 6 McLean 296, Newb. Adm. 171.
58 C.J. p. 370 note 3.

31. U.S.—Dorris v. Copelin, D.C.Mo., 7 F. Cas. No. 4,011
58 C.J. p. 371 note 4.

32. U.S.—Mina v. I. & V. Florio SS Co., D.C.N.J., 23 F. 915

33. U.S.—The T. A. Goddard, D.C.N.Y., 12 F. 174

34. Mo.—Carr v. The Michigan, 27 Mo. 196, 72 Am.D. 257.
Pa.—Whitesides v. Russell, 8 Watts & S. 44

35. Mo.—Carr v. The Michigan, 27 Mo. 196, 72 Am.D. 257
58 C.J. p. 371 note 9

36. U.S.—Dorris v. Copelin, D.C.Mo., 7 F. Cas. No. 4,011.

37. Ill.—Dunseth v. Wade, 3 Ill. 285

38. Pa.—McLoon v. Cummings, 73 Pa. 98.
58 C.J. p. 371 note 13.

39. U.S.—Pacific SS. Co. v. Washington, C.C.A.Wash., 284 F. 712.
58 C.J. p. 371 note 14

40. U.S.—The Convoy's Wheat, 3 Wall. 225, 18 L.Ed. 194.
58 C.J. p. 371 note 15.

41. U.S.—The Cayo Mambi, C.C.A.N.Y., 62 F.2d 791.

Liability of second carrier is measured by its own contract, not by through bill of lading.—The Cayo Mambi, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 116, affirmed, C.C.A., 62 F.2d 791

42. N.Y.—Kachurin v. Barr, 71 N.Y.S.2d 629, 272 App.Div. 391, appeal denied 75 N.Y.S.2d 281, 272 App. Div. 1048, affirmed 79 N.E.2d 736, 297 N.Y. 889

Two bills of lading as single document
Where terms of ocean bill of lading were incorporated by reference into through bill of lading for cargo issued by master of ship transporting cargo from Cyprus to Port Said, Egypt, for transshipment to New York, they were a part of the contract of affreightment and the two bills would be read together as if they constituted a single document.—Kachurin v. Barr, supra.

is subject to the conditions of bills of lading at present in use by on-carrying vessels is of no help to an on-carrying vessel with respect to its liability for damage to cargo stowed on deck where a provision for on-deck carriage is typed over the printed form for the particular contract of affreightment.[43]

§ 116. Goods Sent C. O. D.

Bills of lading C. O D are not a lien on the vessel to secure payment of the money collected from the consignee on delivery of the goods.

In the absence of a statute providing otherwise, bills of lading C O. D. are not a lien on the vessel to secure payment of the money collected from the consignee on delivery of the goods.[44]

§ 117. Delivery

The liability of a carrier under a bill of lading continues until the merchandise is safely delivered to the consignee at the port of discharge, or placed in such a situation as to equal a safe delivery, and the carrier is not discharged of the custody of the goods until this is done.

The liability of a carrier under a bill of lading continues until the merchandise is safely delivered to the consignee at the port of discharge, or placed in such a situation there as to be equivalent to a safe delivery, and the carrier is not discharged of the custody of the goods until this is done.[45] Where the owner of a vessel agrees, for a single price, to transport a cargo from one port to another, and allow storage thereof in the vessel following the voyage, his liability as carrier ceases on arrival at the port of destination, and he is thereafter liable as a warehouseman only.[46]

§ 118. —— Mode and Place

a. In general
b. Constructive delivery; notice to shipper or consignee
c. Place

a. In General

It is the duty of a vessel and its owners to make delivery of its cargo at the port of destination. Delivery must be in accordance with any reasonable provisions with respect to it in the contract and, if the bill of lading or contract is silent as to the delivery, it must be according to the reasonable usages and regulations of the port or according to the custom of trade between the parties.

It is the duty of a vessel and its owners to make delivery of its cargo[47] at the port of destination.[48] Delivery must be in accordance with any reasonable provisions with respect to it in the contract.[49] Where the contract or bill of lading is silent as to the delivery, it must be according to the reason-

Inconsistent provisions

If terms of through bill of lading and subsequent ocean bill of lading are inconsistent, under English rule the provisions of the ocean bill of lading must prevail.—Kachurin v Barr, supra

"Freight prepaid" in through bill of lading

The legend "freight prepaid" in through bill of lading for cargo issued by master of ship transporting cargo from Cyprus to Port Said, Egypt, for transshipment to New York, was not conclusive evidence that full freight from Cyprus to New York including any additional freight of the on-carrying steamer was paid.—Kachurin v. Barr, supra.

43. U.S.—The Idefjord, C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459.

Reasonableness of variation

The reasonableness of a variation inserted into a contract of carriage by an on-carrying conveyance depends on the circumstances of the particular case and on whether a clean negotiable document of title is outstanding.—The Idefjord, C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459.

Liability in rem for right delivery

An on-carrying steamer by accepting a cargo of wool for carriage on deck with knowledge of clean negotiable through bills of lading made the issuer of those bills its agent, and it could not then accept the goods under its own conditions, and it was bound in rem for right delivery.—The Idefjord, C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459.

44. U.S.—The Illinois, D.C.Tenn., 12 F.Cas.No.7,005, 2 Flipp. 383.
58 C.J. p. 371 note 17.
Abbreviation "C. O. D." defined see 1 C.J.S. p. 276 note 5
Goods carried C. O. D. by carriers in general see Carriers § 186

45. U.S.—Vose v. Allen, D.C.N.Y., 28 F.Cas.No.17,005, affirmed, C.C., 28 F.Cas.No.17,006, 3 Blatchf. 289.

46. U.S.—Norton v. The Richard Winslow, D.C.Wis., 67 F. 259, affirmed 71 F. 426, 18 C.C.A. 344

47. U.S.—Irzo v. Perkins, D.C.N.Y., 10 F. 779—Crosby v. Grinnell, D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Cas.No.3,422.

48. U.S.—The Elvaston, C.C.A.La., 279 F. 935
58 C.J. p. 371 note 22

Authority to deliver at different port

Ocean carrier could not justify nonperformance under bill of lading providing that goods should be delivered at designated port, or as near thereto as she may safely get, upon ground that shipper by reason of his conduct in certain previous transactions had impliedly authorized carrier to deliver goods elsewhere.—The Jean Jadot, D.C.N.Y., 14 F.Supp. 161

Risks at destination known to consignee

The United States is not liable to consignee of merchandise, shipped on its vessel to Manila, P. I., for value of part of cargo lost, on ground of its negligence in discharging cargo at such port into custody of Philippine customs' corporate agent, which was unable to handle cargo properly, where consignees knew of risks inherent in discharging cargo at Manila because of looting on piers and failed to show that parties contemplated unloading of cargo elsewhere if conditions had not improved at time of its arrival.—Tan Hi v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 94 F.Supp. 432

49. U.S.—E. J. Keller Co. v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D.C.N.Y., 26 F.2d 838
58 C.J. p. 372 note 23.

able[50] usages and regulations of the port,[51] or according to the custom of trade between the parties,[52] without confusion,[53] and in proper landing order;[54] but the carrier is not bound to deliver the goods in any particular position on the dock.[55] In the absence of a special contract to the contrary, a shipowner has delivered his cargo when he has put it over the rail of his ship,[56] but it has been said that ordinarily a ship has not performed her obligation to deliver the cargo until it has been placed on the wharf.[57] Different consignments must be properly separated[58] so as to be open to inspection by their respective owners, and a fair opportunity afforded the consignee to remove his goods,[59] and a mere deposit of goods on the carrier's own wharf, the goods not being separated and set apart from the rest of the cargo, and there being no acceptance by the consignee, and no reasonable time or opportunity for their removal, is not a delivery to the consignee.[60] A vessel is not ordinarily bound to count or weigh the cargo on delivery.[61]

Delivery on the wharf alone may be sufficient where it is by direction of the consignee.[62]

Physical possession of consignee. Delivery is complete when the consignee has surrendered documents of title and the cargo is physically in his possession,[63] and the fact that the consignee or his agent is required to sign a delivery book does not make the delivery incomplete until it is signed.[64]

b. Constructive Delivery; Notice to Shipper or Consignee

In the absence of a special contract goods will be regarded as properly delivered when deposited on the proper wharf at their place of destination, at a proper time, and notice given to the consignee, after which he has had a reasonable time and opportunity to remove them.

In the absence of a special contract goods will be regarded as properly delivered when deposited on the proper wharf at their place of destination, at a proper time, and notice given to the consignee, after which he has had a reasonable time and opportunity to remove them.[65] Although it has been said that notice to the consignee of the arrival of the goods may be dispensed with by usage of the port[66] and the established course of business between the parties,[67] ordinarily, in case of carriage by water, otherwise than by steamboats having a regular schedule time for arriving and departing, the liability of the carrier as such continues until the consignee has been notified that the goods are ready for delivery, and he has had a reasonable opportunity to receive them,[68] and it has been held that usage

50. U S.—Tan Hi v. U. S., D C.Cal., 94 F Supp 432.
58 C J. p 372 note 24.

Requirement held reasonable
A requirement of Philippine law that all cargo unloaded at Manila be delivered to consignee through terminal company acting as Philippine customs' agent under contract with Philippine government, was not unreasonable, in view of general disorder, subjecting cargo lying on Manila piers awaiting removal by consignee, to risk of looting, which local government authorities were powerless to prevent.—Tan Hi v. U. S., supra.

51. U S.—Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S S. Co., C C.A Mich., 44 F.2d 759, certiorari denied James Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S S. Co., 51 S Ct 345, 283 U S 821, 75 L Ed 1436.
58 C.J. p 372 note 25.

Common law
The common law elements of proper delivery of goods by water carrier apply only when custom regulations, or law of port of destination do not otherwise provide, as delivery must be according to custom and usage of port and such delivery will discharge carrier of responsibility.—Tan Hi v. U. S., D C.Cal., 94 F Supp. 432.

Delivery subject to risks
(1) The rule that delivery of cargo according to usage or law of port of destination is not proper delivery, if cargo is thereby subjected to risks which are unusual with relation to those ordinarily involved in making such delivery, is inapplicable where inherent risks of delivery at certain port have long existed and are well known to both consignees and carrier.—Tan Hi v. U. S., supra.

(2) The fact that usage or law at port of delivery of cargo may subject it to risks not incident to normal delivery at other ports is immaterial in determining propriety of delivery at such port.—Tan Hi v. U. S., supra.

52. N.Y.—Jameson v. Sweeney, 66 N. Y S. 494, 32 Misc. 645

53. U.S.—The Cardiganshire, D C. Cal., 9 F 2d 416
58 C J p 372 note 28.

54. U S.—The Harold Haarfager, D C N.Y., 11 F.Cas No.6,083, 8 Ben. 216.
58 C.J p 372 note 29

55. U.S.—Hudson River Lighterage Co. v. Wheeler Condenser, etc., Co., D C N Y, 93 F 374.
58 C J p 373 note 30

56. U S.—The No 34, C C.A N.Y., 25 F 2d 602, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct 11, 278 U S. 606, 73 L.Ed. 533.
58 C J. p 373 note 32

57. U.S.—The Iossifoglu, D C Md., 32 F 2d 928.—Tan Hi v. U. S., D C Cal., 94 F.Supp. 432.

58. U S.—Tan Hi v. U. S., supra
58 C J p 373 note 34.

59. U S.—Tan Hi v. U. S., supra
58 C.J. p 373 note 35.

60. U S.—Warner v The Illinois, C C Pa., 29 F.Cas No 17,184a.
58 C J p 373 note 36.

61. Puerto Rico.—Hansen v. Nine Hundred and Ninety-Eight Tons Coal, 6 Puerto Rico Fed. 394.

62. U S.—Howland v The Henry Hood, D C N Y, 12 F.Cas No 6,795

63. U S.—Priestley v. Cunard SS. Co, C C.A N Y, 29 F 2d 39.

64. U.S.—Priestley v. Cunard SS Co., supra.

65. U S.—Southern Pac Co. v. Van Hoosear, C C A Cal., 72 F.2d 903
58 C J. p 373 note 41.

Where owners cannot be notified
If consignees or owners cannot be notified of delivery on wharf, goods should be stored safely until delivery can be accomplished.—Clifford v. Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, C C A Fla., 57 F 2d 1021.

66. N.Y.—Atlantic Nav. Co. v. Johnson, 27 N.Y.Super. 474.
58 C J. p 374 note 42.

67. N.Y.—Russell Mfg Co v. New Haven Steamboat Co., 50 N Y. 121.
58 C.J. p 374 note 43.

68. U S.—Tan Hi v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 94 F.Supp. 432.

or custom of a port cannot dispense with notice of the landing of the goods.[69] The notice to take the place of actual delivery must be a reasonable one,[70] properly directed to the consignee's business address.[71] The obligation to give notice is not increased or modified by the fact that the carriers discharge at a wharf other than the usual one if the consignee is not prejudiced by the change,[72] and where the unloading is temporarily interrupted by the crowded state of the wharf, because of other consignees not removing their goods, no new notice need be given on resumption of the work.[73] A master cannot avail himself of his own wrong as an excuse for not giving notice.[74]

Notice may be rendered unnecessary by the terms of the bill of lading,[75] and, in such case, if the goods are landed in suitable weather with opportunity to remove them without injury, the vessel is absolved from all further liability, although no notice is given,[76] but even under such a bill if the goods are discharged at an improper time, or exposed to known and imminent peril of loss, without due notice, the ship will be held liable for breach of duty,[77] and any right of the carrier under the contract to compel consignees to take goods shipped "from alongside" is waived by the carrier unloading the goods onto the dock.[78]

c. Place

While the place of delivery of a cargo depends much on the usage of the particular port, generally the goods need not be tendered personally to the consignee or delivered at his warehouse. A vessel is bound to land her cargo at some suitable wharf; the place selected must be fit and safe for its deposit.

While the place of delivery of a cargo depends much on the usage of the particular port,[79] generally the goods need not be tendered personally to the consignee,[80] or delivered at his warehouse[81] or residence,[82] nor is the ship obliged to deliver freight at a pier nearest to the address of the consignee as given in the bill of lading.[83] In the absence of any different usage of the port, or other indication in the bill of lading, a vessel is bound to land her cargo at some suitable wharf;[84] the place selected must be fit and safe for its deposit,[85] but the carrier is not bound to provide a heated wharf unless it has so contracted.[86] The place selected for discharge of cargo must, if possible, be the customary wharf,[87] but the customary discharge of goods by a carrier at its own wharf raises no liability for loss occasioned solely by the discharge of goods at another wharf, unless the custom is clearly long established, and without exception.[88]

A vessel must deliver her cargo within such parts of the port as have become fixed by established usage, if a customary berth can be obtained there within a reasonable time,[89] and if the vessel discharges at the wrong place she is liable for the additional expense thereby caused to the consignee.[90] While the master may, in the absence of instructions, lawfully proceed to any usual and convenient wharf at the port of discharge, without consulting the shippers,[91] the sole consignee, or all the con-

N Y —Murphy v. Export S S. Corporation, 271 N.Y.S. 880, 151 Misc 655.
58 C J p 374 note 44.

Carrier held liable
Steamship owner failing to give notice of discharge of goods into lighter as required by contract of carriage was liable for loss when lighter sank.—Murphy v. Export S S Corporation, supra

Construction of bill of lading
Lighterage and end-of tackle clauses of bill of lading and clause requiring notice of discharge to be given consignees or shipper must be read together.—Murphy v. Export S. S. Corporation, supra.

69. Tenn —Dean v. Vaccaro, 2 Head 488, 75 Am D. 744.

70. Mass —Ideal Leather Goods Co v Eastern SS. Corp, 107 N E. 525, 220 Mass. 133
58 C J p 374 note 46.

71. Ill —Union Steamboat Co v. Knapp, 73 Ill. 506.

72. U S —Constable v. National SS Co, N Y, 14 S.Ct. 1062, 154 U.S. 51, 38 L Ed. 903.

73. U S.—Salmon Falls Mfg. Co v The Tangier, D C Mass, 21 F Cas No 12,267, 3 Ware 110, affirmed, C. C, 21 F Cas No 12,266, 1 Cliff 396

74. U S —The Peytona, C C.Me, 19 F Cas No 11,058, 2 Curt. 21.
58 C J. p 375 note 50

75. U S —Constable v National SS Co, N Y, 14 S Ct 1062, 154 U S 51, 38 L Ed 903
58 C.J p 375 note 51

76. U S —The Boskenna Bay, C C N Y, 40 F 91, 6 L R A 172—The Surrey, C.C N Y, 40 F 90

77. U S.—The Surrey, D C N Y, 26 F 791, reversed on other grounds, C.C, 40 F 90.
58 C J p 375 note 53.

78. U S —The Titania, N.Y., 131 F. 229, 65 C C A 215.

79. U S —The G A Tomlinson, D C N Y, 293 F 51.
58 C J. p 375 note 55.

80. U S.—The Eddy, S C., 5 Wall. 481, 18 L Ed 486
58 C J. p 376 note 57.

81. U.S —Tan Hi v U. S, D.C.Cal., 94 F.Supp. 432.
58 C.J. p 376 note 58.

82. La —Kohn v. Packard, 3 La. 224, 23 Am D 453.

83. N.Y —Western Transp Co v Hawley, 1 Daly 327.

84. U.S —Devato v. Eight Hundred and Twenty-Three Barrels of Plumbago, D C N.Y, 20 F 510.
58 C J. p 376 note 61

85. U S.—The City of Lincoln, D C. N Y, 25 F. 835
58 C J p 376 note 62

86. N Y —Kronman v Texas Transport, etc, Co, 191 N.Y.S 380, 117 Misc 300

87. U S.—The Port Adelaide, D C N Y, 38 F 753
58 C J. p 376 note 64.

88. U.S —Arnold v National SS Co., D C N Y, 29 F. 184, affirmed 14 S Ct 1062, 154 U S 51, 38 L Ed 903.
58 C J p 376 note 65.

89. U S —The Port Adelaide, D C N Y., 38 F. 753.

90. U.S —The Port Adelaide, supra.
58 C.J p 376 note 67.

91. U S —The E H. Fittler, D.C Mass, 8 F.Cas No 4,311, 1 Lowell 114.

signees, if unanimous,[92] or a majority of them when it is the custom,[93] or any one of them when this is the usage of the port,[94] may direct the master to unload at any usual and convenient wharf at the port of discharge; but a vessel is not bound, at the consignee's direction to unload at a wharf which is unreasonably inconvenient, inaccessible, or extra-hazardous to the vessel.[95] Where a cargo is sent to a foreign country, and the consignor does not designate any particular port of delivery, the presumption is that the general port of delivery of such cargoes was intended.[96] If a vessel goes aground not far from a port of delivery, consignees who receive cargo where she lay thereby waive a delivery in strict compliance with the contract.[97]

By special agreement a carrier may be bound to deliver at a special wharf,[98] and, under a bill of lading requiring goods to be landed at a certain place, the goods must be landed there from the ship, if it can be done with safety to her,[99] the consignee not being required to accept delivery elsewhere.[1] So, where the bill reserves to the consignee the right to choose the wharf, delivery must be made at the wharf chosen if it is ready to receive the cargo.[2] A contract to deliver to the consignee or his assigns is not an undertaking to deliver at the consignee's wharf;[3] and where the carrier has agreed to transport a cargo of goods and deliver them at a certain wharf, and on arrival at the designated place no wharf exists, the refusal of the carrier to build one constitutes no defense to an action for the freight.[4] If the consignee fails to provide a convenient place for unloading in accordance with the specifications of the contract, the carrier may treat the contract as broken and land the cargo at the usual place.[5]

§ 119. —— To Whom Made; Misdelivery

His proper share of the cargo must be delivered to the consignee or owner of the goods or to one duly authorized to receive it. A wrongful delivery constitutes a conversion.

His proper share of the cargo[6] must be delivered to the consignee[7] or owner of the goods,[8] or to one duly authorized to receive it,[9] the primary duty of the carrier being to deliver the goods to the right person.[10] A wrongful delivery constitutes a conversion.[11] A carrier has no right under any circumstances to deliver goods to a stranger,[12] and where an order bill of lading has been issued, delivery should be made only to the holder thereof.[13] A carrier, which agrees to deliver cargo to a foreign consignee on the surrender of the bill of lading, but delivers the cargo to customs officials at the port of destination who, in turn, deliver such cargo to 92. U.S.—The Cervin, D.C.Md., 17 F. 462.

58 C.J. p. 376 note 69

93. U.S.—Devato v. Eight Hundred and Twenty-Three Barrels of Plumbago, D.C.N.Y., 20 F. 510.
58 C.J. p. 376 note 70

94. U.S.—The G. A. Tomlinson, D.C.N.Y., 293 F. 51.
58 C.J. p. 376 note 71.

95. U.S.—O'Rourke v. Two Hundred and Twenty-One Tons of Coal, D.C.N.Y., 1 F. 619
58 C.J. p. 376 note 72

96. Me.—Smith v. Davenport, 34 Me. 520

97. U.S.—The Eva D. Rose, D.C.N.C., 151 F. 704, 153 F. 912, affirmed 166 F. 101, 92 C.C.A. 85.

98. Mass.—Shaw v. Gardner, 12 Gray 488

99. Mass.—Shaw v. Gardner, supra.

1. U.S.—Liebes v. Klengenberg, C.C.A.Cal., 23 F.2d 611, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 559, 277 U.S. 596, 72 L.Ed. 1006.

2. La.—Manson v. Harrison, 2 La.A., Orleans, 95.

3. U.S.—Smith v. Lee, Mass., 66 F. 344, 13 C.C.A. 506.

4. Miss.—McCaughn v. Milliot, 29 So. 818, 78 Miss. 976.

5. Conn.—Wordin v. Bemis, 32 Conn. 268, 85 Am.D. 255.

6. U.S.—The Pietro G., D.C.N.Y., 38 F. 148.

7. N.Y.—Tarbell v. Royal Exch. Shipping Co., 17 N.E. 721, 110 N.Y. 170, 6 Am.S.R. 350
58 C.J. p. 377 note 84.

"To consign" defined
When used in connection with a vessel, the term "to consign" generally refers to the goods which are shipped by her.—Gillespie v. Winberg, 4 Daly, N.Y., 318—12 C.J. p. 528 note 38

"Consignee" defined
The word "consignee" in its ordinary and usual significance indicates a person residing at the port of delivery to whom the goods are to be delivered when they arrive.—The Arizpa, C.C.A.Md., 63 F.2d 42.
"Consignee" defined generally see 15 C.J.S. p. 988 note 25-p. 989 note 33.

8. U.S.—The Boskenna Bay, C.C.N.Y., 40 F. 91, 6 L.R.A. 172.
58 C.J. p. 377 note 85

9. U.S.—Tan Hi v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 94 F.Supp. 432.
58 C.J. p. 377 note 86.

When bill of lading "accomplished"
A bill of lading is "accomplished" not by transportation of shipment to its destination but delivery at destination must be made bona fide to person apparently having right to receive shipment.—Alcoa S. S. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 80 F.Supp. 158, reversed on other grounds, C.A., 175 F.2d 661, affirmed 70 S.Ct. 190, 338 U.S. 421, 94 L.Ed. 225.

10. Cal.—Webb v. Winter, 1 Cal. 417.

11. N.Y.—M. & T. Trust Co. v. Export S. S. Corporation, 259 N.Y.S. 393, reversed on other grounds 186 N.E. 214, 262 N.Y. 92, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 70, 290 U.S. 650, 78 L.Ed. 563
58 C.J. p. 377 note 88.

12. U.S.—The Thames v. Seaman, N.Y., 14 Wall. 98, 20 L.Ed. 804—Bank of California, N.A. v. International Mercantile Marine Co., D.C.N.Y., 40 F.2d 80, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 64 F.2d 100, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U.S. 649, 78 L.Ed. 563.

13. U.S.—Israel v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., C.C.A.La., 23 F.2d 786
58 C.J. p. 377 note 90.

Necessity of notice
Shipowner's failure to notify shipper or holder of bill of lading of arrival of goods or of time of completion of vessel's discharge are not defenses in libel for misdelivery of cargo, since consignee is bound to be on hand to take goods when they come to hand.—The Jean Jadot, D.C.N.Y., 9 F.Supp. 162.

the consignee without a surrender of the bill of lading, is liable to the shipper for loss consequent on its breach of the shipping agreement where it knows that the law at such port requires delivery of dutiable goods to customs officials.[14] Where the shipper has delivered goods to a carrier on a dock receipt running to the consignee and not to his order, the carrier is justified in delivering to the consignee without surrender of the dock receipt.[15] The carrier is not liable where a misdelivery results from reliance on the bill of lading accepted by the shipper,[16] or where the loss results as a consequence of the negligence of the person properly entitled to delivery.[17] If a vessel strands on a voyage near her port of delivery, and on being released starts back with the intention of delivering the cargo back to the consignors, in violation of the contract of carriage, the consignees are entitled to sue the vessel in admiralty to recover the cargo and damages for its nondelivery.[18]

Ratification. The delivery of bills of lading by shippers to importers after the latter have wrongfully obtained the goods from the carrier does not operate as a ratification of the previous deliveries, of which the shippers had no knowledge.[19]

§ 120. —— Failure or Refusal to Deliver

A carrier's primary duty is to carry and deliver, and failure or refusal to deliver will render it liable unless justified by some legal excuse. The act of a carrier in failing, without lawful excuse, to deliver goods may constitute a conversion or breach of contract.

A carrier's primary duty is to carry and deliver, and failure or refusal to deliver will render it liable,[20] unless justified by some legal excuse.[21] A carrier who contracted to carry under an agreement that it should not be liable for loss or damage to the goods is liable for failure to deliver, unless it shows that such failure was caused by the goods being lost.[22] The duty to deliver is, however, a duty to all the shippers,[23] and the case cannot be disposed of as though plaintiff's goods were the only goods on board;[24] the extent of the duty must be determined by a consideration of all the surrounding circumstances.[25] The act of a carrier in failing, without lawful excuse, to deliver goods constitutes a conversion,[26] and a breach of contract.[27]

Abandonment of goods defeats a claim for nondelivery thereof.[28]

14. Tex.—South Texas Lumber Co v. Wolvin Line, Civ.App., 199 S.W. 1129.
58 C.J. p. 377 note 86 [a]

15. N.Y.—Chandler Motor Car Co v. United Fruit Co., 216 N.Y.S. 413, 127 Misc. 432

16. Mass.—Porter v. Ocean SS Co., 111 N.E. 864, 223 Mass. 224.

17. U.S.—MacAndrews, etc., Co., v. U.S., C.C.A.N.J., 23 F.2d 667
58 C.J. p. 377 note 93.

18. U.S.—The Eva D. Rose, D.C.N.C., 151 F. 704, modified 153 F. 912, affirmed 166 F. 101, 92 C.C.A. 85.

19. U.S.—Goepel v. Hamburg American Packet Co., D.C.N.Y., 191 F. 744.

20. U.S.—Herschel Jones Marketing Service v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 32 F.2d 530
58 C.J. p. 378 note 2.

Unloading cargo

(1) A vessel refusing to discharge cargo or deliver it to owners until ordered to do so by court on ground that contract venture had been frustrated by war was liable for cost of unloading cargo at port where vessel was interned after calling thereat for coal bunkers as authorized by bills of lading, notwithstanding provisions therein authorizing vessel, in event of war, to proceed to or remain at any other port than that of discharge and retain goods on board or discharge them at owners' risk and expense.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A.Va., 122 F.2d 579.

(2) A provision of war risk clause in foreign vessel's time charter that if port at which it is ordered to discharge cargo be one to which it is prohibited from going by government of nation under whose flag it sails, owner shall discharge cargo at any other port covered by charter party as ordered by charterers, imposed on vessel and her owners burden of unloading cargo at port covered by charter, as ordered by court on cargo owners' motion, after foreign government prohibited vessel from going to port of discharge named in bills of lading.—The San Giuseppe, supra.

Liability of agent

Where shipping company's agent refused to surrender carrier certificates to shipper except upon payment of additional freight charges wrongfully imposed by connecting carrier, the agent abandoned any status he may have possessed as a disinterested intermediary and identified himself as an agent whose liability for his conduct in assuming dominion over the property of the shipper could not be distinguished from that of the principal.—Kachurin v. American Iraq Shipping Co., 61 N.Y.S.2d 414, 187 Misc. 178.

Payment of additional charges under protest

Owner of goods was not required to pay additional freight charges under protest, in order to obtain possession of the goods, since he was not bound to submit to an improper exaction of fees or charges in order to obtain his own property.—Kachurin v. American Iraq Shipping Co., supra

21. U.S.—Ortega & Emigh v. Grace Line, D.C.Cal., 72 F.Supp. 302.
Excuses for nonperformance of contract generally see supra § 108.

No goods received

Carrier was not liable for failure to deliver goods which it never received.—Ortega & Emigh v. Grace Line, D.C.Cal., 72 F.Supp. 302.

22. N.Y.—Newstadt v. Adams, 12 N.Y.Super. 43

23. U.S.—New York, etc., SS Co. v. Guanica Centrale, N.Y., 231 F. 820, 145 C.C.A. 649.

24. U.S.—New York, etc., SS. Co. v. Guanica Centrale, supra.

25. U.S.—New York, etc., SS Co. v. Guanica Centrale, supra.

26. N.Y.—Kachurin v. American Iraq Shipping Co., 61 N.Y.S.2d 414, 187 Misc. 178
58 C.J. p. 378 note 8.

If there is no suitable place for storage, the carrier transporting the goods by boat may, without liability for conversion, retain them in possession on the boat.—The Hattie Palmer, N.Y., 68 F. 380, 15 C.C.A. 479.

27. N.Y.—Winkler v. Compania Sud Americana De Vapores, 41 N.Y.S.2d 67, 180 Misc. 181
58 C.J. p. 378 note 9.

28. U.S.—The Baltic, D.C.N.Y., 212 F. 759
58 C.J. p. 378 note 10.

Penalties. Where the statutes so provide, failure to deliver cargo manifested for delivery at a port subjects the carrier to penalties imposed by the collector of customs.[29]

§ 121. —— Failure or Refusal to Receive

A consignee cannot decline to receive cargo on the ground of adverse weather conditions if the weather is reasonably fit for unloading. Where a consignee refuses to accept goods, the carrier must keep the goods for the owner or land and store them with a competent third person.

A consignee cannot, if the weather is reasonably fit for unloading, decline to receive cargo on the ground of adverse weather conditions[30] or in apprehension of bad weather,[31] and a refusal to receive cargo after due notice, and after the lapse of a reasonable time given the consignee to accept, dispenses with the necessity of a formal tender.[32] If the goods are damaged or deteriorated, the consignee cannot refuse to receive them and then sue for conversion, but must accept the tender and claim for the difference in quality or quantity.[33]

Storage of goods. Where a consignee refuses to receive goods,[34] or pay the freight,[35] or if they are not called for,[36] the carrier must keep the goods for the owner[37] or land them and store them with a competent third person, subject to the consignee's order on performance of the conditions,[38] or for the account of the owner,[39] and, having done this, it has fulfilled its full duty as a carrier;[40] and, if the consignee is bound to receive them, the goods are thereafter at his risk.[41] If it is impossible to store the goods at the port of destination, the master may take them to the nearest port where it is possible.[42]

§ 122. —— Short Delivery

A carrier is liable for a short delivery, in the absence of a valid exception in the bill of lading, unless shrinkage of cargo is caused by its own inherent nature and quality and not by any negligence of the carrier.

A carrier is liable for a short delivery,[43] in the absence of a valid exception in the bill of lading,[44] unless shrinkage of cargo is caused by its own inherent nature and quality and not by any negligence of the owners of the ship,[45] and the carrier cannot avoid liability by a provision in the bill of lading that weight, contents, and material are unknown.[46] However, a vessel is not liable for a shortage in the number of packages set out in the bill of lading signed by the master, although such bill and the cargo represented by it have passed to a bona fide purchaser, where no fraud is charged, and it is conceded that all the cargo actually received on board, or which came into the hands of the master, was delivered.[47] In determining whether there is a shortage of cargo, both the consignee's output count and the intake counts as shown by the bill of lading are controlled by proof that the hatches were sealed after the cargo was in, and opened only by the port wardens on the vessel's arrival, and that there was no opportunity for loss or abstraction;[48] and in determining a question of shortage of weight of 29. Philippine—Smith v. Insular Collector of Customs, 37 Philippine 97.

58 C.J. p 378 note 12.

30. U S—Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Suitter, D C N Y, 17 F. 695, affirmed, C C., 22 F 560.
58 C J. p 378 note 13

31. U S—The Grafton, D C N.Y., 10 F Cas No 5,656, Olcott 43, affirmed, C C, 10 F.Cas No 5,655, 1 Blatchf 173.

32. U S—O'Rourke v. Two Hundred and Twenty-One Tons of Coal, D C N.Y., 1 F. 619.

33. U S—The Timor, D C N.Y, 61 F. 633.

34. U S—The Eddy, S C., 5 Wall. 481, 18 L Ed 486.
58 C J. p 379 note 20.

35. U.S.—The Adella S Hills, D C N Y, 47 F. 76—Fox v Holt, D C, 9 F Cas No 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn 558.

36. Ill—Crawford v. Clark, 15 Ill 561.
N.Y.—Redmond v. Liverpool, etc., Steamboat Co, 46 N Y. 578, 7 Am R 390

37. U S—Wilson v Royal Exch Shipping Co., D C N Y., 24 F. 815.

38. U S—The Eddy, S C., 5 Wall. 481, 18 L Ed 486.
58 C J p 379 notes 20–22.

39. U S—California Bank v. International Mercantile Marine Co, D C N Y, 40 F.2d 80.
58 C J p 379 note 25

40. U.S—Brittan v. Barnaby, Cal, 21 How 527, 16 L Ed. 177.
58 C J. p 379 note 26.

41. U S—Knott v. One Hundred Bales of Rags, D C N J., 60 F 634
Mass—Chickering v. Fowler, 4 Pick. 371.

42. U S—Fox v. Holt, D C, 9 F Cas. No 5,012, 4 Ben 278, 36 Conn. 558.
58 C J p 379 note 33

43. U S—American Trading Co. v. The Harry Culbreath, D C N Y, 95 F Supp 312, affirmed, C A, 187 F 2d 310—The Rita Sister, D C Pa., 69 F Supp. 480—Shackman v Cunard White Star, D C N Y., 31 F.Supp 948.
58 C.J p 379 note 35.

Establishment of lawful excuse by carrier

Where ship was required to be considered as having been loaded by carrier within Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, carrier, to establish lawful excuse for its failure to deliver goods in quantities stated in bills of lading, was required to show that there could have been no loss of goods after ship docked at end of voyage—American Trading Co v The Harry Culbreath, C A N Y., 187 F.2d 310

44. U S.—The Seneca, D.C N Y, 163 F. 591, reversed on other grounds 172 F. 370, 97 C.C A. 68.

45. U S—Janney v. Tudor Co., D.C. Mass, 3 F 814
58 C J. p 379 note 37.

46. U S—The Nora, D C Pa., 14 F. 429.

47. U S—Maddock v. American Sugar Refining Co, D C Mass., 91 F 166, affirmed 93 F. 980, 36 C.C A. 42

48. U S.—The Ethel, D.C.Pa., 59 F. 473.

cargo the customhouse weight is entitled to superior credit as against a subsequent unofficial weight, taken after the cargo had been stored for months.[49] Where there has been a short delivery and the consignee withholds filing claim because delivery to make up the shortage is guaranteed from another shipment by the shipper but such other shipment is lost at sea, the consignee may enforce the original duty of the carrier,[50] and the fact that the consignee has received satisfaction from his insurer furnishes no valid ground of defense to the carrier.[51]

§ 123. Deviation and Delay

The general rule as to when a vessel for hire shall proceed from her port of loading is that she is to deliver the goods carried within a reasonable time and the carrier is liable for loss caused by unjustifiable delay in transportation and delivery of the goods.

The general rule, in the absence of a clear agreement, as to when a vessel for hire shall proceed from her port of loading is that she is to deliver the goods carried or fulfill her engagement within a reasonable time,[52] and the shipowner is bound to prosecute the voyage with due diligence.[53] Although it has been held that delay in discharging through default of the vessel does not entitle the charterer or consignee to damages, in the absence of a contract for delivery by a particular day, but simply extends the time within which the discharge may be made without liability of the charterer or consignee for demurrage,[54] the general rule is that the carrier is liable for loss caused by unjustifiable delay in transportation and delivery of the goods,[55] and shippers have a lien on the vessel for the loss occasioned thereby.[56] While it may be the duty of a common carrier receiving freight for transportation by rail and beyond the seas ordinarily to provide for the clearance of the vessel in which the goods are to be shipped, the shipper cannot complain of failure to obtain such clearance when it is prevented by the nature of the shipment.[57] Similarly, a bill of lading for the transportation of goods from one port to another prima facie imports a direct voyage,[58] unless there is a known usage of trade to touch at intermediate ports,[59] or deviation is permitted in the contract of affreightment,[60] and an unjustifiable deviation renders the carrier liable for the delay[61] and deprives him of the benefit of an insurance clause in the bill.[62] An overcarriage of cargo is a deviation,[63] and a carrier which carries a shipment beyond its destination is liable to the shipper for additional expenses incurred by him because of such deviation.[64]

The master may deviate where stress of weather makes it apparently necessary for a reasonable mariner to lay in,[65] or to make necessary repairs[66] with-

49. U S —Linklater v. Howell, D C N.Y, 88 F 526.

50. U S —General Foods Corp. v. The Felipe Camarao, C A N Y, 172 F 2d 131, certiorari denied Republic of the U. S. of Brazil v. General Foods Corp., 69 S Ct. 1047, 337 U S. 908, 93 L Ed. 1720.

51. U.S —General Foods Corp. v. The Felipe Camarao, C.A N Y, 172 F 2d 131, certiorari denied Republic of the U S. of Brazil v. General Foods Corp, 69 S.Ct. 1047, 337 U S 908, 93 L Ed. 1720.

52. U S —Grammer S S. Corporation v James Richardson & Sons, C C A N.Y, 47 F.2d 186—The Terne, D C.N.Y, 1 F Supp 537.
58 C.J. p 380 note 44

Determination of reasonable time

What is reasonable time for delivery, where neither charter nor bills of lading specify time, must be determined in light of possibilities, including stoppage of channel by ice.—Grammer S S Corporation v James Richardson & Sons, C.C.A N Y., 47 F. 2d 186.

Customary expedition

Shippers are entitled to have goods carried to destination with customary expedition —The Salvore, C C.A. N Y., 60 F 2d 683, certiorari denied U. S. Steel Products Co. v. Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S Ct 117, 287 U S 653, 77 L Ed. 565

Warranty

The fact that the parties to freight charter expected delivery before close of navigation for season did not constitute warranty, and the statement of the carrier's agent that steamer would get through before navigation closed for season was a mere expression of opinion, not a warranty —Grammer S S. Corporation v James Richardson & Sons, C C A.N Y., 47 F 2d 186.

53. U S.—Grammer S. S Corporation v. James Richardson & Sons, supra

54. U S.—Milburn v. Federal Sugar Refining Co, N Y., 161 F. 717, 88 C C.A. 577.

55. U S —Wayne v Inland Waterways Corp, D C Ill, 92 F Supp 276.
58 C J. p 380 note 46.

56. U S —The J. C Stevenson, D C. Md, 17 F 540
58 C J p 380 note 47.

57. U.S —Farmers' L & T. Co v. Northern Pac. Co, C.C N.Y, 112 F. 829, reversed on other grounds 120 F 873, 57 C C A. 533, affirmed 25 S.Ct 84, 195 U S 439, 49 L Ed. 269
58 C.J. p 380 note 48.

58. U S.—The City of Brunswick, D. C Mass, 4 F Supp 908
Mass.—Lowry v Russell, 8 Pick. 360.

59. U S.—Thatcher v McCulloh, D. C N Y, 23 F Cas No 13,862, Olcott 365

60. U S.—Blank v. U. S, C.C.A N.Y, 13 F 2d 394.
58 C J. p 380 note 51.

61. Ga —Robinson v. Holst, 23 S E. 76, 96 Ga 19
58 C J p 381 note 52.

62. U S —Rosenberg v. U S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., D C Cal, 7 F.2d 893, affirmed, C C. A, U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation v Rosenberg Bros & Co., 12 F.2d 721, reversed on other grounds 48 S Ct. 256, 276 U S 202, 72 L Ed 531.

63. N Y —Fadex Chemical Corp. v. Lorentzen, 44 N.Y S 2d 789.

64. N Y —Fadex Chemical Corp v. Lorentzen, supra.

65. U S —Wilcox v Five Hundred Tons of Coal, C.C Ill, 14 F 49
58 C J p 381 note 53.

66. U S —The Malcolm Baxter, Jr, C C A N Y, 20 F 2d 304, affirmed France v French Overseas Corp, 48 S Ct 516, 277 U S. 323, 72 L Ed. 901
La —Rathbone v. Neal, 4 La.Ann. 563, 50 Am.D. 579.

in a reasonable time.[67] Delay does not render the owner liable to the shipper's agents where the latter had no property at risk in the venture.[68] A shipping agent is not liable as a guarantor if a ship's arrival is delayed where such delay has been provided for by the contracting parties.[69] A bill reserving broad rights in the matter of deviation and delay is not void, as against public policy.[70]

Excuse for delay. The extent of the carrier's obligation to a consignee of goods is to use reasonable efforts to make an early delivery with such facilities as the port affords,[71] and delay in transportation and delivery may be excused by the circumstances of the case, in which event no liability therefor attaches to the carrier,[72] but where there is no valid excuse for the delay the carrier is liable.[73] Wrongful cancellation[74] or postponement[75] of sailing is not within the benefit of exceptions excusing a reasonable delay.

Restraint of princes. Stipulations exempting the carrier from liability for loss resulting from "arrest or restraint of princes, rulers, or people" relate to future restraints[76] and not to those already in effect.[77] Unauthorized restraints imposed by subordinate government officials are not within the exemption.[78] Where the contract is made during existence of a state of war, the clause as to restraint of princes will be construed as contemplating exemption from loss caused by actual physical restraint,[79] and not as exempting from loss due to the carrier's refusal to carry contraband.[80] Commandeering of ships by the government in time of war is a risk within exceptions as to restraint of princes.[81]

War conditions Stipulations as to war conditions operate to relieve the carrier from liability for loss or damage resulting therefrom,[82] unless it is shown that the carrier was at fault.[83] Under exceptions excusing the carrier for delay if occasioned by "conditions of war or hostilities, actual or threatened," such as render it unsafe for vessels to sail, a revolution in the country of destination, confined to a portion thereof distant from the port of destination, will not excuse delay.[84] Under exceptions exempting the carrier from liability for damages resulting from failure to operate ships during war, the carrier will not be liable where, in good faith and reason, it refuses to carry cargo contracted for shipment subject to the war clause,[85] but in order to serve as an excuse the refusal to carry goods

67. U S—The Louise, D.C.Md., 58 F Supp 445—The Plow City, D C.Pa., 28 F Supp. 548

Shipper's failure to await repairs

Where it was apparent when vessel left convoy to return to port that vessel had been unseaworthy at start of voyage, and it was very uncertain that vessel could be made seaworthy to resume carriage of cargo to destination, and ship was libeled and in custody of court and had not been released upon stipulation, and shipowner had stated financial inability to care for cargo, thus forcing cargo owners to resume possession of cargo, and shipowner had unjustifiably demanded a general average adjustment, cargo owners were justified in making prompt reshipment of their respective goods to avoid further loss without giving ship a reasonable time within which to complete repairs.—The Louise, D.C Md, 58 F. Supp. 445

68. U S—U. S v. Middleton, C.C A. S C, 3 F 2d 384, certiorari denied 45 S Ct. 463, 267 U S. 603, 69 L Ed. 809.

69. N.Y—L N. Jackson & Co. v. Seas Shipping Co., 56 N.Y.S.2d 501, 185 Misc. 94, affirmed 61 N Y S 2d 371, 270 App Div. 830, affirmed 68 N E 2d 605, 296 N Y 529, motion denied 69 N E 2d 483, 296 N.Y. 635.

70. U S.—Dietrich v U. S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, C.C. A N.Y., 9 F.2d 733, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct 82, 278 U S. 647, 73 L.Ed. 560
58 C J p 364 note 78.

71. U S—American Steel Co v. Transmarine Corp, D C N Y, 36 F 2d 246.

72. U S.—Grammer S S Corporation v James Richardson & Sons, C C A N Y., 47 F 2d 186.
58 C J p 381 note 60.

Ice blockade

Carrier was under no obligation to make efforts in advance of sailing to prevent formation of anticipated ice blockade—Grammer S S. Corporation v. James Richardson & Sons, supra.

73. U.S.—Cohn v U S Shipping Board, C C A Tenn, 20 F 2d 56
58 C J p 381 note 62.

74. U S.—Cohn v. U. S. Shipping Board, supra.

75. U.S.—Cohn v. U. S Shipping Board, supra.
58 C.J p 381 note 64.

76. U.S.—Rotterdamsche Lloyd v. Gosho Co, C C.A Cal, 298 F 443, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 99, 266 U. S 621, 69 L Ed. 472

77. U S—Rotterdamsche Lloyd v. Gosho Co, supra.

78. U S—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. American Trading Co., N Y., 25 S. Ct 84, 195 U S 439, 49 L Ed 269.
58 C J. p 381 note 67.

79. U S—Balfour v. Portland, etc, SS Co, D C.Or., 167 F. 1010.

80. U S—Balfour v. Portland, etc, SS Co, supra.
58 C J. p 382 note 69.

81. U S.—Vacuum Oil Co. v Luckenbach SS. Co, D C Va., 275 F 998

82. La—General Mills v. United Fruit Co, 44 So 2d 303, 216 La 579
58 C J p 382 note 71.

Notice to shipper of delay

Where receipt stipulated that carrier would not be responsible for any delay or default in making shipment because of lack of conveyances, and bill of lading, customarily used by carrier, stipulated acceptance by carrier was subject to delays occasioned by war, rule that a carrier which agrees during existing war conditions, to transport merchandise, is liable for damage suffered by merchandise while in its possession due to delay in loading and transporting it, did not apply where shipper was advised of delays and conditions causing them—General Mills v. United Fruit Co, supra.

83. U S—Aron v Luckenbach SS Co., D C.N Y, 282 F 937.
58 C J. p 382 note 72.

84. U.S.—Cohn v. U. S Shipping Board, C C A Tenn, 20 F.2d 56
58 C J. p 382 note 73.

85. N Y.—Compagnie de Trefileries, etc v. France, etc., SS. Co, 183 N. Y.S 169, 192 App Div 709, affirmed 135 N.E. 932, 233 N.Y. 596.
58 C.J. p 382 note 74.

under the war clause must be based on actual conditions reasonably inducing belief that the voyage cannot be safely completed.[86]

§ 124. Remedies of Shipper

a. In general
b. Damages

a. In General

Where goods shipped on board were not delivered, the holder of a bill of lading has a remedy in admiralty against the master on his undertaking, against the owners of the vessel in personam, or against the vessel in rem.

Where goods shipped on board were not delivered, the holder of a bill of lading has a remedy in admiralty against the master on his undertaking[87] or generally against the owners of the vessel in personam,[88] against the vessel in rem,[89] or in tort against one not a party to the contract who procures the obligor to break it.[90] A carrier under a subcontract with the carrier contracting with the shipper to transport the goods is not, however, liable to the shipper for damages for failure to perform its contract.[91] A party's acceptance of a shipment with knowledge that there has been a deviation or delay does not constitute a waiver of his right of action for damages.[92] Where a shipping company's agent attempts to exact improper freight charges on a shipment of goods, the owner of such goods may abandon them from the moment of their conversion by the agent and sue for their value.[93]

The general rules governing actions for loss or injury to goods carried, discussed infra §§ 150–157, apply to actions by shippers against carriers by water for damages arising out of breach of the duty to transport and deliver, for example, the rules relating to what law governs in enforcing a contract,[94] or the rules relating to the parties,[95] pleading,[96] presumptions and burden of proof,[97] and admissibility,[98] and weight and sufficiency[99] of the evidence introduced.

b. Damages

(1) Nondelivery or misdelivery
(2) Deviation or delay

(1) Nondelivery or Misdelivery

In an action against a carrier for nondelivery of cargo, the measure of damages is the value of the articles at the port of delivery less whatever the cargo owner would have been obliged to pay to get them.

The general rules governing the measure of damages for loss of, or injury to, cargo, discussed infra § 158, apply to actions for failure on the part of the carrier to deliver according to the contract of affreightment.[1] Thus, in an action against a carrier for nondelivery of a cargo, the measure of damages is the value of the articles at the port of delivery,[2] less whatever the cargo owner would have been obliged to pay to get them[3] with interest from the time the delivery ought to have been made[4] or

86. U S—Cohn v. U S. Shipping Board, C C A.Tenn., 20 F.2d 56.

87. U S—The Leonidas, D C N Y., 15 F Cas.No.8,262, Olcott 12

88. U.S.—The Leonidas, supra.
58 C J p 382 note 78

89. U S—The Leonidas, supra

90. U S—The Poznan, D.C N Y, 276 F. 418.
58 C J. p 382 note 80.

91. U S—Vital v Kerr, C C A.N Y., 297 F 959, certiorari denied 44 S Ct 637, 265 U S 592, 68 L Ed 1196
58 C J. p 382 note 81.

92. U S.—Cohn v. U. S Shipping Board, C C.A.Tenn, 20 F.2d 56.
58 C.J p 384 note 89.

93. N Y—Kachurin v American Iraq Shipping Co, 61 N.Y.S 2d 414, 187 Misc. 178.

94. Ohio—The Steamboat Baltimore v. Levi, 12 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 314, 2 Handy 30.
58 C.J. p 383 note 83.

95. Mass—Driscoll v. Nicholls, 5 Gray 488.
58 C.J. p 383 note 84

Suit by indorsee of bill of lading
Indorsee of bill of lading reciting goods were shipped acquired direct obligation of carrier and right to sue for carrier's failure to deliver—Olivier Straw Goods Corporation v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, C C A N.Y, 47 F 2d 878, 74 A L R 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Olivier Straw Goods Corporation, 51 S.Ct 648, 283 U S. 856, 75 L Ed 1462.

96. N.Y—Boera v. Hijos De Jose Taya S. En C., 176 N.Y.S. 47, 107 Misc. 231
58 C.J. p 383 note 85.

Suit brought under statute
Wis—The Galena v Beals, 5 Wis 91.

97. U S—U S v Middleton, C.C A S C, 3 F 2d 384, certiorari denied 45 S Ct. 463, 267 U S. 603, 69 L Ed 809.
58 C J. p 383 note 86.

98. La—Evart v. Lowndes, 5 La Ann. 426.
58 C.J. p 383 note 87.

99. U S—Struver v The Roderick Dhu, D C N Y., 23 F.Cas No.13,552
58 C J p 383 note 88

Recital in bill of lading
A recital in a bill of lading as to the receipt of a certain quantity of goods controls in the absence of convincing testimony establishing mistake.—Goodrich v. Norris, D.C.N Y., 10 F Cas No.5,545—10 C J. p 200 note 2.

1. Delivery without payment
Where a steamship company delivered potatoes without bill of lading to buyer to whom shipper had sold potatoes, after a part thereof had rotted because of nonarrival of bill of lading, without requiring the buyer to pay therefor, the shipper's refusal to collect check sent by the buyer for unrotted potatoes, without agreement on shipper's part to release the steamship company and look to buyer for payment, did not entitle the carrier to credit for amount of check on amount for which it was liable to the shipper for delivery of goods to buyer—Merchants' & Miners' Transp Co. v Branch, C C.A Va., 282 F. 494.

2. U.S.—The Cabo Villano, C C A N. Y., 18 F.2d 220.
58 C J p 384 note 93.

3. U.S.—The Cabo Villano, supra.
58 C.J. p 384 note 94

4. U S—The Cabo Villano, supra—The Nith, D C Or., 36 F 86, 13 Sawy 368, affirmed, C C., 36 F. 383, 13 Sawy. 481.

from the time the damages were ascertained.[5] The ordinary measure of damages for failure to transport has also been said to be the difference between the value of the goods at the place of shipment and the place of delivery where they should have arrived, deducting the freight or price of carriage.[6] On a libel for not delivering according to the bill of lading, the measure of damages is the value of the cargo less the freight charges,[7] and if, on reaching port, the master refuses to deliver the goods until he has been paid excessive charges and the consignee, after tendering what was due, notifies the master that he abandons the goods to the vessel, the consignee is entitled to recover from the vessel the value of the goods less the lawful charges.[8] Where but a portion of the cargo stated on a false bill of lading was actually shipped, and the owner of the vessel is not shown to have been a party to the fraud, the only damages to be found in an action in rem against the vessel are for the nondelivery of the cargo shown to have been put on board.[9] The counsel fees of a replevin suit by the shipper to recover the cargo are not to be included in the damages assessed in the action for nondelivery,[10] but the assessment of damages will be postponed until the replevin suit shall be determined.[11] If the owner of a cargo of a sunken vessel raises it, after notice to the owner of the vessel, the expense of such raising, with interest, may be allowed as damages in a suit for nondelivery.[12] A carrier, having knowingly and falsely represented that goods were being carried on the vessel, loses the benefit of a valuation clause in the bill[13] and cannot set it up to reduce damages for failure to deliver.[14] A provision in a bill of lading that a carrier is not required to deliver goods at the port of discharge or destination at any particular time, or to meet any particular market, or in time for any particular use, relates to the measurement of damages.[15]

Refusal of consignee to receive. Where the master by his agreement with the shipper is to deliver the cargo at a certain port, but on his arrival there the consignee refuses to receive it, and the master, instead of landing the cargo and storing it for the shipper's benefit at such port, carries it to another port, and sells it, the measure of damage, in an action by the shipper to recover damages for the nondelivery by the master, is the actual value of the cargo at the port where the master agreed to deliver it at the time when it might have been landed, deducting all duties and charges and freight for the voyage.[16]

Time of accrual. The carrier's liability for a wrongful delivery should be fixed as of the time it made it possible for the person receiving the goods to do so, although the actual delivery was later.[17]

(2) Deviation or Delay

In the ordinary case of deviation or delay, the measure of damages is the difference in the market value of the goods at the time when actually delivered and when they should have been delivered, with interest.

In the ordinary case of deviation or delay by a

5. U S—W R. Grace & Co v Luckenbach S S. Co, D C Va, 258 F. 49, C C.A, affirmed Luckenbach S S Co v. W. R. Grace & Co, 267 F 676, certiorari denied 41 S Ct. 14, 254 U S. 644, 65 L Ed 454.

6. U S—L N Jackson & Co v. Lorentzen, D C N.Y, 83 F Supp 486, reversed on other grounds, C.A, L N Jackson & Co. v Royal Norwegian Government, 177 F 2d 694, certiorari denied 70 S Ct 574, 339 U S 914, 94 L Ed 1340—Lindsay v U. S, 69 Ct Cl. 34.

Measurement of arrival time of goods

Where contract for carriage of goods was cancelled by shipowner, time for arrival of the goods at destination was to be measured from date of cancellation, in computing damages for breach—L N Jackson & Co. v Lorentzen, D C.N Y, 83 F Supp. 486, reversed on other grounds, C.A., L. N. Jackson & Co. v. Royal Norwegian Government, 177 F 2d 694, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 574, 339 U. S. 914, 94 L.Ed. 1340.

Contract of carriage in advance of purchase

Where there is a firm contract for purchase at place of loading and commodity is ready for shipment at such point, the fact that contract of carriage is made in advance of purchase does not destroy purchaser's right to recover customary measure of damages for failure to transport —L N Jackson & Co. v. Lorentzen, D C N.Y, 83 F Supp 486, reversed on other grounds, C A, L. N. Jackson & Co. v Royal Norwegian Government, 177 F 2d 694, certiorari denied 70 S Ct 574, 339 U S. 914, 94 L Ed 1340.

7. U S—Atlantic, etc, Guano Co. v The Robert Center, D C N.Y, 2 F Cas.No 630
58 C J. p 384 note 96.

8. U S—Hoxsie v The Reuben Doud, D C Mich, 46 F. 800

9. U S.—The Alice, D.C.Fla, 12 F 496.

10. U.S.—The Boston, D C Mass, 3 F.Cas No 1,671, 1 Lowell 464.

11. U.S—The Boston, supra
58 C J. p 384 note 1

12. U S—The Sunswick, C C.N.Y, 23 F.Cas No 13,625, 5 Blatchf 280

13. U S.—Olivier Straw Goods Corp v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 42 F 2d 717, affirmed, C C A, 17 F 2d 878, 74 A.L R 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Olivier Straw Goods Corporation, 51 S Ct. 648, 283 U S 856, 75 L Ed 1462.

14. U.S.—Olivier Straw Goods Corp v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N.Y., 42 F 2d 717, affirmed, C.C A., 47 F 2d 878, 74 A L R 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Olivier Straw Goods Corporation, 51 S Ct 648, 283 U.S 856, 75 L Ed 1462.

15. U S—Pope & Talbot v Blanchard Lumber Co. of Seattle, C C A Cal, 159 F 2d 134

16. U S—Arthur v The Cassius, C C Mass, 1 F.Cas.No.564, 2 Story 81.

17. U S—Bank of California, N. A v. International Mercantile Marine Co, D.C N.Y, 40 F 2d 80, reversed on other grounds, C.C A, 64 F.2d 100, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U S. 649, 78 L.Ed. 563.

common carrier in delivering goods, the measure of damages is the difference in their market value at the time when actually delivered and when they should have been delivered,[18] with interest[19] from the date the damages were certainly calculable[20] or from the date the liability became fixed to satisfaction of the decree.[21] The damages are to be reckoned on the basis of the market value of the goods when they are discharged on the wharf, and not when they arrive in port,[22] and the measure of damages is not changed by a stipulation in the bill of lading that the shipowner is not to be liable in any case for more than the invoiced or declared value of the goods, the purpose of which is only to fix the outside limit of liability.[23] The value of the goods[24] or expenses incurred by a person in preparation and assertion of his claim[25] are not properly to be considered in fixing the amount of damages, and loss incurred through breach of the shipper's contract of sale to a third person is not a proper element of damages where the shipper has been awarded damages based on the market value of the goods when they should have been delivered.[26] The owner of goods delayed in transit is entitled to compensation for their detention,[27] that is, interest on the value of the goods, after deducting freight, commissions, and other expenses which the shipper is bound to pay, from the time they should have been delivered until settlement is made.[28]

Special damages for delay in delivery with respect to which the parties have not contracted are not recoverable,[29] and, thus, special damages will not be allowed unless the carrier had notice of the special use to which the goods were to be put,[30] which notice must have been given under such circumstances as to make it a term of the contract that such damages are to be met in case of breach.[31]

Uncertain or speculative claims for damages will not be allowed.[32]

D. LOSS OF, OR INJURY TO, CARGO

§ 125. Liability of Carrier in General

a. General rules
b. Act of God
c. Perils of sea and of navigation
d. Jettison
e. Seizure of cargo under legal authority

a. General Rules

In the absence of a special contract or a statute providing otherwise, common carriers of goods by water are liable for loss or destruction of, or injury to, such goods not occasioned by act of God or of the public enemy, and not due to the fault of the shipper or consignee or the inherent nature of the goods carried, or necessarily incident to water carriage.

In accordance with the rule applicable to common carriers of goods generally in the absence of a special contract or a statute providing otherwise, common carriers of goods by water are liable for loss or destruction of, or injury to, such goods, not occasioned by act of God or of the public enemy,[33]

18. U S—The Iossifoglu, D C Md, 32 F.2d 928
58 C J p 385 note 7.
19. U S—The Iossifoglu, supra.
58 C.J. p 385 note 8.
20. U S—Transmarine Corp v. Levitt, C C.A.N Y, 25 F 2d 275.
21. U S—U. S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp v. Florida Grain, etc., Co, C C A Fla, 20 F.2d 583
58 C J. p 385 note 10
22. U S—The Iossifoglu, D C Md, 32 F.2d 928
58 C.J p 385 note 11.
23. U S.—The Styria, N Y, 101 F. 728, 41 C C A. 639, modified on other grounds 22 S.Ct. 731, 186 U S. 1, 46 L Ed. 1027.
24. Ark—Lee Line Steamers v. Tucker, 165 S W 961, 112 Ark. 301.
25. U S—Middleton v U. S., D C.S. C, 286 F. 548, modified on other grounds, C C A, 3 F 2d 384, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U S 603, 69 L Ed 809
26. U.S.—Middleton v. U. S., supra.
27. U S—The Iossifoglu, D.C Md, 32 F 2d 928.
28. U S—The Iossifoglu, supra.
29. U S—American Steel Co v Transmarine Corp, D C N Y, 36 F. 2d 246—Earn Line SS Co v. Manati Sugar Co, 269 F 774.
30. U S—U S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp v Florida Grain, etc, Co, C C A Fla, 20 F 2d 583.
58 C J p 385 note 20.
31. U S—Holland v Seven Hundred and Twenty-Five Tons of Coal, D C.Wis, 36 F. 784.
32. U S—Middleton v. U S, D C S. C., 286 F 548, modified on other grounds, C C A, 3 F.2d 384, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S 603, 69 L.Ed. 809.
58 C J. p 386 note 22.
33. U S.—Isthmian S. S. Co v Martin, C A Md, 170 F 2d 25—Remington Rand, Inc. v U S, D.C.N Y., 98 F.Supp. 334—Petition of Pennsylvania R. Co., D C N.Y, 44 F Supp 617—Export S. S. Corp. v. American Ins. Co., Newark, N. J., D.C N.Y, 26 F Supp. 79, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 106 F 2d 9, opinion adhered to 108 F 2d 1013, certiorari denied American S S Owners Mut Protection and Indemnity Ass'n v Export S. S. Corp. and American Export Lines, 60 S Ct. 809, 309 U.S 686, 84 L Ed. 1029—The Ella Pierce Thurlow, D.C.N. Y., 300 F 103, affirmed, C.C A., Drisko v. Barber S S Lines, 300 F 106
58 C J p 386 note 28—10 C J. p 111 note 13 [a].

Liability of carrier for loss of, or injury to, goods carried generally see Carriers §§ 71–118

Contractual exemption from liability of carrier by water see infra §§ 131–138.

Statutory exemption from liability of carrier by water see infra §§ 126–129

Liability for act of God see infra subdivision b of this section.

Ownership of cargo

Liability of barge owner for damages to grain transported was not dependent on libelant shipper's ownership thereof.—Canadian Co-op. Wheat and their liability to that extent is that of an insurer.[34] The high standard of care required and the burden usually imposed of disproving negligence work the practical result that the obligation of such a carrier is little short of insurance,[35] but strictly speaking a carrier is not an insurer,[36] and the basis of its liability is negligence.[37] Where a shipment is received aboard in good condition the carrier is bound to discharge it in the same condition, unless it is excused by reason of some provision in the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act[38] or by some other provision of the law,[39] and so at common law the shipowner was liable as an insurer for fire damage to cargo,[40] prior to modification of the rule by statute, as discussed infra § 129.

A carrier is, in the absence of contractual exemption, liable in any event for injuries resulting from its failure to exercise ordinary care,[41] and until the enactment of the Harter Act, a shipowner was not at liberty by any contract with the shipper to rid himself of liability to the owners of the cargo for damages resulting from the negligence of the master or crew.[42] The owners of vessels, their masters and other officers, are required to exercise the highest degree of care and skill safely to transport the cargo,[43] and the fact that damage to the cargo arises out of its inherent nature constitutes no defense to the carrier if it appears that the damage would not have occurred were it not for the carrier's negligence.[44] Where the cargo has been damaged aboard ship during the voyage, the question of the condition of the cargo at the time it was received by the vessel is not material.[45]

The carrier is charged with the responsibility of making proper inquiry as to the characteristics of the cargo which it accepts.[46] It is charged with whatever knowledge it would have acquired by the exercise of reasonable care to acquaint itself with the facts,[47] and bound to take reasonable precautions in the light of such knowledge to protect the car-

Producers v Murphy & Hoffman, D C N.Y, 52 F 2d 496

34. U.S—Commercial Molasses Corp. v New York Tank Barge Corp, N Y, 62 S Ct. 156, 314 U.S 104, 86 L Ed 89—U. S. v Farr Sugar Corp, C A N Y., 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U S. v Atlantic Mut Ins Co, 72 S Ct. 666, 343 U S. 236, 96 L Ed —
Mass —Goodman v. New York, N. H & H. R Co., 3 N E 2d 777, 295 Mass 330, 106 A.L.R. 1151.
58 C J. p 386 note 28

35. U S—Krebs Pigment & Chemical Co v. Sheridan, D.C.Pa, 12 F. Supp 254, affirmed, C C.A., 79 F.2d 479.

36. U.S—Krebs Pigment & Chemical Co v. Sheridan, supra.

37. U S—Krebs Pigment & Chemical Co v. Sheridan, supra.

38. U.S—E S Ullmann-Allied Co. v. The George E. Pickett, D.C N.Y., 77 F Supp 988

39. U.S—Anglo-American Fur Merchant Corp v. U S., D C N.Y, 77 F Supp. 1000

40. U S—Consumers-Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosen-jo, N Y, 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L Ed. 30
58 C.J. p 390 note 78.
Validity of contractual stipulation exempting carrier from liability for damages by fire see infra § 133

41. U S—Isthmian S. S. Co. v Martin, C A.Md, 170 F 2d 25—The John J. Grimes, D C.N.Y., 57 F 2d 321—Export S S. Corp. v American Ins. Co., Newark, N. J, D C.N Y., 26 F.Supp 79, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 106 F.2d 9, opinion adhered to 108 F.2d 1013, certiorari denied American S. S Owners Mut. Protection and Indemnity Ass'n v Export S S Corp and American Export Lines, 60 S Ct 809, 309 U S. 686, 84 L Ed. 1029—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U S, D.C Md, 12 F.Supp. 379
58 C J p 387 note 38
Validity of contractual exemption from negligence see infra § 132.

Negligence of government

Vessel which on dark rainy morning proceeded at full speed on course dangerously close to known locality of unlighted sunken wreck without reducing speed or having lookout in the bow was at fault for collision with respect to liability for cargo damage, regardless of government's negligence in not lighting wreck.—The E Madison Hall, C.C A.Md., 140 F.2d 589, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1159, 322 U.S. 748, 88 L Ed. 1579.

Carrier held not negligent

(1) Shipowners were held not negligent in sailing shortly after receipt of Weather Bureau warning, indicating storm at sea of no great intensity some two thousand miles away, but not its probable course.—The Velma Lykes, D.C.Tex., 6 F.Supp. 886.

(2) Carrier by water was held not negligent as to fire destroying cotton at landing, where it provided watchman who made rounds every hour.—American Cotton Co-op. Ass'n v. New Orleans & Vicksburg Packet Co., 157 So. 733, 180 La. 836

42. U.S.—May v. Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktiengesellschaft, N.Y., 54 S.Ct. 162, 290 U. S. 333, 78 L Ed. 348.

43. U.S.—Peninsular & Occidental S. S. Co v. N. L. R. B., C.C.A.5, 98 F.2d 411, certiorari denied N. L R B. v. Peninsular S. S. Co, 59 S Ct. 248, 305 U S. 653, 83 L.Ed. 423

Negligence imputable to carrier

Negligence of captain of barge, owner's servant, resulting in damage to cargo, is imputable to carrier—The Supreme, C C A.N J., 61 F 2d 334

44. U S.—The Vallescura, N Y, 55 S Ct. 194, 293 U S. 296, 79 L Ed 373—Isthmian S S Co. v. Martin, C A Md, 170 F 2d 25—Bank Line v Porter, C C A.Va., 25 F 2d 843.

Goods susceptible to damage by sea water

Fact that inherent character of cargo was such that it was susceptible to damage from sea water did not relieve carrier from liability for damage by sea water, where carrier's negligence unnecessarily exposed the cargo to that damage—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, D C.N.Y, 49 F Supp. 559, affirmed, C C.A, 138 F 2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v Pioneer Import Corp, 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L Ed 1063.

45. U.S.—The Vizcaya, D C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898.

46. U S.—The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A Md., 89 F.2d 539—Accinanto, Limited v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D C Md, 99 F.Supp. 261—The Ferncliff, D C Md., 22 F Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U S. 444, 83 L.Ed. 862, affirmed, C C A., 105 F.2d 1021—The Niel Maersk, D.C.N.Y., 18 F Supp. 824, reversed on other grounds, C.C A., 91 F.2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v. The Niel Maersk, 58 S Ct. 281, 302 U S 753, 82 L Ed. 582.
58 C J. p 451 note 22.

47. U.S.—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C. C.A.N.Y., 160 F.2d 173.

go;[48] but a ship's captain is not expected to be familiar with the minutiae of trading in the adoption of precautions to avoid damage to cargo, but can only be called on to meet the situation that is overtly presented to him.[49] A carrier operating a tug is charged with notice of all information available to those in its employ on shore,[50] and its liability is not limited by what the tug's master knew,[51] an adequate system of communication with its tugs when they touch shore being as much a necessity as that they should be well found in hull and gear;[52] and where a tug touches shore or otherwise gets in touch with her owner, any information then possessed by him, or available to him through ordinary care, is to be as much charged against him as though the master of the tug himself had it or could have obtained it.[53] The carrier may be held liable for goods saved from a cargo partly destroyed by inherent defect.[54]

A carrier by water is not liable for loss or injury occasioned by act of the public enemy,[55] or which is due to the fault of the shipper,[56] or consignee as owner,[57] or the inherent nature, qualities, or defects of the goods carried,[58] or their having been shipped in an unfit condition,[59] or in improper containers,[60] or which is necessarily incident to water carriage and in no way occasioned by its fault.[61] The carrier is not liable for damages to goods shown to have been delivered at destination in substantially the same condition as they had been when received by the carrier.[62] A ship must not

Matters irrelevant to general knowledge

In suit for damages to cargo resulting from fire which was result of spontaneous combustion of ammonium nitrate fertilizer which was part of cargo, finding in other suits that fire which caused damages for which such other suits were brought was due to spontaneous combustion of same kind of fertilizer was not relevant to general knowledge relative to possibility of spontaneous combustion which existed when fire involved in present suit started which was prior to time such other fire started —Accinanto, Limited v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co, D.C.Md, 99 F.Supp 261.

48. U.S.—Anderson v. Lorentzen, C C.A.N.Y., 160 F.2d 173.

49. U S —The M V Silversandal, D. C N.Y., 26 F.Supp 61, affirmed, C C A., Bache v. Silver Line, 110 F.2d 60.

50. U.S —Sidney Blumenthal & Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C C. A.N Y, 139 F 2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R Co. v. Sidney Blumenthal & Co., 64 S.Ct. 848, 321 U.S. 795, 88 L Ed. 1084.

51. U.S —Sidney Blumenthal & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C C. A.N Y., 139 F.2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R. Co. v Sidney Blumenthal & Co., 64 S.Ct. 848, 321 U.S 795, 88 L.Ed 1084.

52. U S —Sidney Blumenthal & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C.C. A.N.Y., 139 F 2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R Co. v Sidney Blumenthal & Co., 64 S Ct. 848, 321 U S. 795, 88 L.Ed 1084.

53. U.S —Sidney Blumenthal & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, C C. A.N.Y., 139 F.2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R. Co. v Sidney Blumenthal & Co., 64 S.Ct. 848, 321 U.S. 795, 88 L Ed. 1084.

Knowledge of impending storm

(1) Where, at time carrier's tug put off the carrier's shore, employees knew or should have known that extremely high winds and plunging seas would be encountered and the tug's master was within reach of carrier's shore employees for 50 minutes before the tug put off, carrier's liability for damage to shipment in hurricane was not limited by what the tug's master knew —Sidney Blumenthal & Co v Atlantic Coast Line R Co., C C A.N Y, 139 F 2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R Co. v. Sidney Blumenthal & Co, 64 S Ct. 848, 321 U S. 795, 88 L Ed. 1084

(2) Carrier's fault, in permitting its tug to leave the pier in the face of information that should have led carrier to believe that a hurricane would be encountered, was not excused by fact that hurricane signal had been hauled down and another weather report given, after the tug had left the pier and it was then too late to stop her —Sidney Blumenthal & Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, C C A N Y., 139 F 2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R. Co. v Sidney Blumenthal & Co, 64 S.Ct 848, 321 U S 795, 88 L Ed 1084

54. U.S —The Gomez de Castro, D C N.Y, 10 F.Cas.No 5,525, 10 Ben 540

58 C J p 387 note 39.

55. La —Hedricks v. The Morning Star, 18 La.Ann 353

56. U.S.—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C A.N Y., 106 F 2d 32— The Kawsar, D.C.N.Y, 53 F.Supp 323.

58 C.J. p 387 note 31.

57. U.S.—The Annie Harjes, D.C.N. Y, 45 F. 900.

58. U.S.—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A N Y., 106 F 2d 32

58 C.J. p 387 note 33.

Statutory exemption see infra § 128 g.

59. U.S.—The Muskegon, D.C.N.Y., 10 F 2d 817—Ordt v. Ocean Steam Nav Co, D C Conn., 18 F Cas No 10,551.

58 C J p 387 note 34

60. N Y —Nelson v Stephenson, 12 N.Y Super 538

Wash.—Revilla Fish Products Co. v American-Hawaiian SS. Co., 137 P. 337, 77 Wash 49.

Goods held not insufficiently packed

Baled rubber packed in burlap bags, customarily used for rubber shipments from the Far East and received in good condition on board vessel, was not insufficiently packed so as to exempt carrier from liability for damage thereto, notwithstanding absence of talc or other protective material underneath covers to prevent burlap from adhering to rubber, in absence of showing of established practice of using talc or other protective material —The City of Khios, D C N.Y., 16 F Supp. 923.

61. U S —Baxter v. Leland, D.C N. Y, 2 F.Cas No.1,124, Abb Adm 348, affirmed, C C, 2 F Cas.No.1,125, 1 Blatchf 526

58 C J. p 387 note 36.

Sweating of vessel or cargo

(1) The vessel or carrier is not liable for injury to the cargo caused by a dampness or sweating of the hold if the sweating is not augmented by improper stowage.

U.S.—Cohen v. Holland-America Line, D C N Y, 6 F Supp 247.

Hawaii.—La Motte v. Angel, 1 Hawaii 237.

58 C J p 387 note 36 [b].

(2) Dampness, decay, and sweating as peril or danger of sea within contractual exemption see infra § 134

(3) Sweating as danger of sea within statutory exemption see infra § 128 d (1).

62. U.S.—The Carso, C.C.A.N.Y., 53 F.2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli Giannusa & Rao, Inc., 52 S.Ct 140, accept a shipment of perishable goods unless it is equipped to carry them safely,[63] but if the carrier fully explains the inadequacy of equipment on the ship and the shippers express their willingness to take the risk of damages to the shipment, the carrier will not be liable for damage caused by the inadequacy of the equipment.[64]

Private carriers are not insurers.[65] They are obligated to exercise due care for the protection of the cargo,[66] and to perform the obligations of their contracts,[67] and are liable for negligence,[68] and only for negligence.[69] A private carrier who has complied with his duty to furnish a seaworthy vessel is not liable for a loss of cargo due to the sinking of the vessel because of an unforeseen accident.[70]

Inland water or coasting voyages. The rule as to the carrier's liability applies to carriers on inland as well as on other waters,[71] whether on coasting or ocean voyages.[72]

Delivery to, and acceptance by, carrier. In order to charge the carrier as such for loss or injury, the goods must have come into its possession as a carrier,[73] and, unless something still remains to be done by the shipper before they are to be transported, liability attaches on receipt of the goods for transportation,[74] although they may not have been placed on board the vessel.[75]

Necessity of bill of lading. The liability of the carrier exists independently of any bill of lading,[76] although it has been held that, where bills of lading were issued on the day barges were loaded with goods for shipment, the responsibility of the barge owner commenced on the date of the issuance of the bills of lading.[77]

Custom or usage. If it is not in conflict with express provisions of the contract of the parties,[78] or settled rules of law,[79] and if it is of long con-

284 U S 679, 76 L.Ed. 574—Munson S S. Line v. Rosenthal, D.C N Y, 6 F Supp. 374.

63. U S.—S L Shepard & Co. v. Agwilines, Inc, C C.A.S C, 130 F.2d 67.

64. U.S—S. L. Shepard & Co v. Agwilines, Inc, supra.

65. U.S—Schuylkill Transp Co v Banks, C.C A Pa, 152 F 2d 405—The W H Davis, D.C.N Y, 56 F Supp. 564—The Dan, D C N Y, 40 F. 691.
Mo—Osage Tie & Timber Co. v Gorg-Murphy Timber & Grain Co, App., 191 S.W 1026.

Private bailment
In case of a private bailment of merchandise on a barge in a harbor, bailee is not an insurer of delivery of merchandise, but is free to stipulate for such insurance or for any lesser obligation, in which case the bailor cannot recover without proof of its breach—Commercial Molasses Corp v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N Y, 62 S Ct 156, 314 U S. 104, 86 L Ed 89.

Explosion
Owner of vessel was not insurer of cargo and was not liable for loss from explosion where circumstances did not warrant inference of negligence—Cruse v. Sabine Transp Co, C.C A Tex, 88 F 2d 298, certiorari denied 58 S Ct 20, 302 U S. 701, 82 L Ed 541, rehearing denied 58 S Ct. 134, 302 U S 775, 82 L.Ed 600

66. U.S—Commercial Molasses Corp. v New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y, 62 S.Ct 156, 314 U.S 104, 86 L Ed. 89—Schuylkill Transp Co v. Banks, C.C.A.Pa, 152 F.2d 405.
Mo.—Osage Tie & Timber Co. v Gorg-Murphy Timber & Grain Co., App, 191 S.W. 1026.

Liability held that of bailee
U S—The W. H Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp 564—The Frank A. Smith, D.C N Y, 8 F Supp. 134

67. U.S—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N Y, 62 S Ct. 156, 314 U S 104, 86 L Ed. 89—California & Hawaiian Sugar Refining Corporation v. Rideout, C.C.A.Cal, 53 F 2d 322—The W H Davis, D C N Y., 56 F Supp 564—Sumner v. Caswell, D C N.Y, 20 F. 249.

68. U.S—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C C.A.N Y., 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S Ct 25, 302 U S. 706, 82 L Ed. 545—The Joseph J Hock, C C A.N Y., 70 F 2d 259—The Raleigh, D C Md, 50 F Supp. 961.

Liability of barge for negligence of tug
Barges which are private carriers and bailees of cargo are liable for loss or damage due to negligence of tug helping barges perform their contract.—Tice Towing Line v James McWilliams Blue Line, D.C N Y., 51 F 2d 243, modified on other grounds, C C A, 57 F.2d 183.

69. U S—The Chehaw, D.C N Y, 54 F 2d 645—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp & Const. Corp, D C Conn, 89 F Supp. 272—The Dan, D.C N.Y., 40 F 691.

70. U S—Southern Pac. SS Co v. New Orleans Coal, etc, Co., D C. La, 43 F 2d 177.
58 C J. p 388 note 47.

71. U.S.—U S v. Farr Sugar Corp, C A.N.Y, 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U S. v. Atlantic Mut Ins. Co, 72 S. Ct 666, 343 U S 236, 96 L Ed —
58 C J. p 387 note 41.

72. U.S—U. S v Farr Sugar Corp, C A.N.Y, 191 F 2d 370, affirmed U S. v Atlantic Mut Ins Co., 72 S Ct. 666, 343 U.S. 236, 96 L Ed. —.
58 C.J. p 388 note 42

73. U.S—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co v American Line S. S Corp., C C.A.N Y, 97 F 2d 360
58 C.J. p 388 note 43—6 C.J. p 1187 note 25 [a].

74. La.—Barrett v. Salter, 10 Rob 434.
58 C.J p 388 note 44.

75. U S—Bulkley v Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co, Mass., 24 How 386, 16 L Ed 599
58 C.J. p 388 note 45

Carriage to ship
(1) Fact that shipowner, after receiving goods, delegated carriage to ship to another, was held not to affect liability for cargo damage during such carriage—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D C N Y., 54 F 2d 925, affirmed, C C A., 57 F 2d 1081.

(2) Thus, shipowner was liable for cargo damage while taking goods to steamer on a lighter.—Morris v Lamport & Holt, supra—58 C J. p 388 note 45 [c].

76. U.S—The Esrom, C.C.A.N Y., 272 F. 266, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct 47, 257 U S. 634, 66 L Ed. 408.
58 C.J. p 388 note 46.

77. U.S—Wayne v. Inland Waterways Corp., D.C Ill., 92 F Supp. 276.

78. U.S—The Reeside, C.C.Mass., 20 F.Cas No 11,657, 2 Sumn. 567.

79. U.S.—The Charles Rohde, D.C. Md, 8 F.2d 506, appeal dismissed

tinuance and notoriety,[80] a custom or usage in a particular trade or between particular ports may qualify the responsibility of the carrier.[81] Custom does not, however, excuse negligence.[82] A custom or usage may always be waived by the parties.[83]

Gratuitous carriage of money. The probability that the carriage of money by an officer of the boat will ultimately result in increased freight business is insufficient to fix the liability of the carrier as a carrier for hire,[84] and the federal statutes concerning the duties and liabilities of steamboats engaged in carrying the mail do not impose on the owners of steamboats the responsibilities of common carriers, in favor of a third person who has contracted for no more than the diligence of a mandatary in the carrying of bank bills.[85]

Detention by act of consignee. Where a vessel is detained, after the expiration of the time for unloading, by the act of the consignee, her strict liability as a carrier ceases, and she is liable as a warehouseman only for reasonable care in keeping the cargo [86]

Attempt to save goods from wreck. The right to recover damages is not waived by making an effort to save a portion of the goods from the wreck of the vessel containing the consignment.[87]

b. Act of God

Carriers by water are not liable for loss or damage arising solely and immediately from acts of God.

It is a general rule that carriers by water, as is the case with other carriers, are not liable for loss or damage arising from acts of God.[88] The act of God which excuses the carrier within this rule must be a direct and violent act of nature,[89] and it may consist, for example, of such occurrences as an unprecedented storm,[90] a hurricane,[91] a snowstorm with accompanying wind,[92] a tidal wave and flood,[93] or even a sudden failure of the wind.[94]

An injury has been held not attributable to an act of God where it is due to a leak caused by stranding because of mistaking a light on a stranded vessel for a beacon which was generally exhibited,[95] or to the vessel's being thrown against the shore by a river current,[96] or striking a submerged log in a river,[97] or striking the mast of a sunken vessel, visible at low water,[98] or stranding on a river bar known to the navigators,[99] or running on a sunken rock, the position of which is generally known,[1] or stranding on a bar in a river, of which the navigators were ignorant;[2] but it has also been held that an injury occasioned by striking a snag or rock, not theretofore known, and not actually known to the master, may be regarded as due to an act of God.[3]

Collision between vessels, although without the fault of either, causing a loss or injury to goods shipped is not an act of God.[4]

Fire. While a fire occasioned by lightning is an act of God within the rule exempting the carrier from liability,[5] other fires have been held not within the rule.[6]

Johnson & Wimsatt v Hax, C.C.A., 15 F.2d 1009
58 C.J. p 389 note 50

80. U.S.—Crosby v. Grinnell, D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Cas.No 3,422.
58 C.J. p 389 note 51.

81. U.S.—Crosby v. Grinnell, supra
58 C.J. p 389 note 52

82. U.S.—The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A. Md, 89 F.2d 539

83. U.S.—The Reeside, C.C.Mass., 20 F.Cas.No.11,657, 2 Sumn. 567.
58 C.J. p 389 note 53

84. Ind.—Cincinnati, etc., Mail Line Co. v. Boal, 15 Ind. 345.
Mo.—Whitmore v. The Caroline, 20 Mo. 513.

85. Ala.—Haynie v. Waring, 29 Ala. 263.

86. U.S.—The M. C. Currie, D.C.N.Y., 132 F. 125.

87. La.—Lengsfield v. Jones, 11 La. Ann. 624.

88. U.S.—Sidney Blumenthal & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 139 F.2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R. Co. v. Sidney Blumenthal & Co., 64 S.Ct 848, 321 U.S. 795, 88 L.Ed 1084.
58 C.J p 389 note 56—13 C.J p 817 note 28 [c].
Liability of carrier for loss or injury caused by act of God generally see Carriers § 76.

89. Va.—Friend v. Woods, 6 Gratt. 189, 47 Va 189, 52 Am.D. 119.
58 C.J p 389 note 57.

90. U.S.—Pearce v. The Thomas Newton, D.C.N.C., 41 F 106

91. U.S.—Sidney Blumenthal & Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 139 F.2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R. Co. v. Sidney Blumenthal & Co., 64 S.Ct 848, 321 U.S. 795, 88 L.Ed 1084

92. U.S.—The Cape Charles, D.C.N.C., 198 F. 346.

93. U.S.—Pearce v. The Thomas Newton, D.C.N.C, 41 F. 106.
58 C.J. p 389 note 61.

94. N.Y.—Colt v. McMechen, 6 Johns. 160, 5 Am.D 200.

95. N.Y.—McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. 190.

96. Tenn.—Craig v. Childress, Peck 270, 14 Am.D 751

97. Ala.—Steele v. McTyer, 31 Ala. 667, 70 Am.D 516.

98. N.Y.—Merritt v. Earle, 29 N.Y. 215, 86 Am.D 292.

99. Ky.—Bentley v Bustard, 16 B. Mon 643, 63 Am.D. 561.

1. Md.—Fergusson v Brent, 12 Md. 9, 71 Am.D. 582

2. Va.—Friend v Woods, 6 Gratt. 189, 47 Va 189, 52 Am.D 119

3. Conn.—Williams v. Grant, 1 Conn. 487, 7 Am.D 235.
58 C.J p 389 note 75.

4. Me.—Plaisted v. Boston and Kennebec Steam Nav. Co., 27 Me. 132, 46 Am.D. 587.
58 C.J. p 389 note 76.

5. U.S.—New Jersey Steam Nav Co. v. Merchants' Bank, R.I., 6 How. 344, 12 L.Ed 465.
58 C.J p 390 note 77.

6. N.Y.—Miller v. Steam Nav. Co., 10 N.Y. 431.
58 C.J. p 390 note 78.

Proximate cause. In order that the act of God may excuse the carrier, it must be not only the sole, but the immediate, and not the remote, cause of the loss.[7] The carrier is not excused where his negligence is a concurring cause, although an act of God may have been the immediate cause.[8]

c. Perils of Sea and of Navigation

In the absence of an exception to the carrier's liability by statute or by an express provision of the bill of lading, it has been held that there is no implication that the ship is not responsible for perils of the sea, at least where the cause of the injury does not come within the definition of an act of God.

In the absence of statutory exception or an exception to the carrier's liability by express provisions of the bill of lading, there is no implication that the ship is not responsible for perils of the sea,[9] at least where the cause of the injury does not come within the definition of an act of God.[10]

d. Jettison

In the case of extreme necessity and danger occasioned by act of God or excepted causes the master may jettison cargo, but the carrier is liable if the jettison is made without sufficient cause or where the peril is directly attributable to the want of diligence or skill on the part of the master or crew.

In cases of extreme necessity and danger occasioned by act of God or excepted cause the master may jettison cargo.[11] He may select what articles he pleases, and whatever proportion he deems proper, and, if necessary, he may jettison the whole cargo.[12] Jettison is not justifiable if made merely to prevent harm to the boat or to expedite the voyage.[13] While hazard of life is not essential to justify jettison,[14] the carrier is responsible if the jettison is made without sufficient cause;[15] and where a jettison of cargo becomes necessary for the safety of the vessel, the owner and vessel are liable for the loss, if the peril of the ship is directly attributable to want of diligence or skill on the part of the master or crew.[16] Jettison rendered necessary by unseaworthiness existing at the commencement of the voyage makes the ship liable.[17] The vessel is liable for a jettison of a cargo which the master might have saved by lighters.[18]

e. Seizure of Cargo under Legal Authority

Where the goods are taken from the carrier by valid legal process against the owner, if the carrier acts in good faith he is not liable.

Where the goods are taken from the carrier by valid legal process against the owner, if the carrier acts in good faith he is not liable,[19] but he must immediately notify the owner.[20] An illegal seizure will not absolve the carrier.[21]

7. U S—King v. Shepherd, C.C Mass, 14 F.Cas No 7,804, 3 Story 349
N.Y.—Merritt v. Earle, 29 N.Y. 115, 86 Am D. 292

8. U S—Sidney Blumenthal & Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, C.C.A N Y, 139 F.2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R. Co v Sidney Blumenthal & Co,, 64 S Ct 848, 321 U S 795, 88 L Ed. 1084
58 C.J. p 390 note 82.

Failure to have a barometer was a fault on part of a carrier engaged in extensive maritime operations.—Sidney Blumenthal & Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co., C C A N Y., 139 F. 2d 288, certiorari denied Atlantic Coastline R Co. v Sidney Blumenthal & Co, 64 S Ct. 848, 321 U.S. 795, 88 L Ed. 1084.

9. Me—Plaisted v. Boston and Kennebec Steam Navigation Co., 27 Me. 132, 46 Am D. 587.
58 C.J p 390 note 84.
Contractual limitation of liability for loss resulting from perils of the sea see infra § 134.
Dangers of sea as cause of loss within statutory exemption from liability see infra § 128 d.

10. Me—Plaisted v. Boston and Kennebec Steam Navigation Co., supra.
58 C J. p 390 note 85.

11. U S—Lawrence v Minturn, Cal., 17 How 100, 15 L Ed 58.
58 C.J. p 390 note 87.
"Jettison" defined see 48 C J S. p 793.
Claim for contribution in general average see infra § 228.

12. U S—The Milwaukee Bridge, C C A S D., 26 F 2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v. U. S., 49 S.Ct. 31, 278 U S 632, 73 L Ed 550
58 C J. p 391 note 88

13. Ky—Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. 643, 63 Am.D. 561.

14. Ky—Bentley v. Bustard, supra

15. U.S.—Van Syckel v. The Thomas Ewing, D.C Pa., 28 F Cas.No.16,877, Crabbe 405.
58 C.J. p 391 note 91.

16. U.S.—The Portsmouth, D.C Ill., 19 F Cas No.11,295, 2 Biss. 56, affirmed 9 Wall 682, 19 L.Ed. 754.
58 C J. p 391 note 92.

17. U S—The Planter, C C.Ala., 19 F Cas No 11,207a, 2 Woods 490.
58 C.J. p 391 note 93.

18. U.S—The Portsmouth, D.C.Ill., 19 F Cas No.11,295, 2 Biss. 56, affirmed 9 Wall. 682, 19 L Ed. 754.
58 C.J. p 391 note 94.

19. U S.—The Baltic, D C.N.Y., 212 F 759.
58 C J. p 391 notes 95, 97 [a].

Detention by belligerent government
Where a neutral ship, bound for a neutral port in time of war was detained by a belligerent government and allowed to proceed only on agreement of the owner to return a part of the cargo for action of the prize court, such action amounted to a seizure of the property.—Furness Shipping & Agency Co. v. Barber & Co, C C.A.N.Y., 6 F.2d 779.

Stipulation with sheriff
Where a stipulation is made with the sheriff that goods loaded will be delivered to him on the return voyage, it was held that the custody of the master was the custody of the sheriff, and the consignee had no right to delivery at destination—The Lord, C C.N.C., 15 F.Cas No.8,504, Chase 527.

20. U S.—The M. M. Chase, D.C.N.Y., 37 F. 708.
58 C.J. p 391 note 96.

21. U.S.—The Matilda A. Lewis, C.C. N.Y, 16 F.Cas No 9,281, 5 Blatchf. 520.

Contest of claim
The carrier has been held liable where the master had the right to hold the goods against the sheriff and should have contested the claim to take goods from his possession.—The Mary Ann Guest, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.Cas No.9,197, Olcott 498.

§ 126. Statutory Exemptions from Liability

a. In general
b. Carriage of Goods by Sea Act in general

a. In General

An action for damage to goods shipped is governed by maritime law as relaxed by the statutes A statutory exemption from liability does not apply where the conditions of the statute are not fulfilled.

An action for damage to goods shipped is governed by maritime law as relaxed by the statutes.[22] Under statutes exempting the shipowner from liability for damage to cargo while the ship is under control of a compulsory pilot, exemption cannot be secured if, at the time of the damage, the presence of the pilot was not required by law.[23]

Shipper's failure to give notice of character and value of articles carried. Under statutes exempting the master and shipowner from liability for loss of enumerated classes of valuables, unless prescribed requirements as to notice of their character and value are followed, noncompliance with the statutory requirements exempts the vessel from liability for loss of such valuables to the extent provided by statute.[24] Where the statute exempts the master or owners from liability unless the shipper at the time of lading the valuables on board the vessel gives to the master, agent, or owners of the vessel, a note in writing of the true character and value thereof, and has it entered on the bill of lading therefor, it has been held that a literal compliance with the statute is not necessary to render the master or owner liable,[25] and that the exemption will not apply if the true character and value of the articles shipped were fairly and clearly on the bill of lading,[26] even though such entry was not preceded by a written note.[27]

Under a statute which provides that, on noncompliance with its provisions as to notice, the master or owner shall not be liable as "carriers" in any form or manner, the shipowner may still be held liable for loss of valuables resulting from his negligence as bailee.[28]

Parties' failure to stipulate against transportation at shipper's risk. Under statutes providing that, in the absence of the carrier's negligence or failure to take customary precautions, all merchandise shall be transported at the risk and venture of the shipper, unless the contrary be expressly stipulated, where there has been no such stipulation, all damages and impairment are for the account and risk of the shipper where suffered by reason of accident[29] or force majeure,[30] or by virtue of the nature[31] or defect[32] of the articles.

Loss occasioned by accidental and uncontrollable events. Under statutes providing that carriers and watermen are liable for the loss or damage of things intrusted to their care, unless they can prove that such loss or damage has been occasioned by accidental and uncontrollable events, a loss caused by the nonnegligent striking of the ship against an obstruction is within the exemption of the statutes,[33] as is also loss arising from collision for which the carrier was not to blame,[34] or from perils of the sea.[35] Exemption will be denied, however, where loss resulted from the carrier's fault,[36] as from defective condition of the vessel.[37]

b. Carriage of Goods by Sea Act in General

The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, which was enacted to mitigate the carrier's "insurer's" liability, establishes numerous exceptions from liability which the act does not condition on due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy.

The carriage of Goods by Sea Act of 1936, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1300 et seq, expresses adherence to the Brussels Convention of 1924, embodying substantially the provisions of the earlier Harter Act of 1893, 46 U.S.C.A. § 190 et seq.[38] The purpose of the act

22. U.S.—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 168, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999.
Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App. Supp. 775.
Liability as insurer is not imposed on a common carrier by water under the statutes.—Accinanto, Limited v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D.C.Md., 99 F.Supp. 261.

23. N.Y.—Guiterman v. Liverpool, etc., SS. Co., 83 N.Y. 358.
58 C.J. p. 408 note 37

24. U.S.—The Island Queen, D.C. Mich., 13 F.Cas.No.7,110, Brown Adm. 279.
58 C.J. p. 407 note 20.

25. N.Y.—Reid v. Luckenbach SS Co., Inc., 230 N.Y.S. 602, 133 Misc. 21
58 C.J. p. 407 note 23.

26. U.S.—Wattson v. Marks, D.C.Pa., 29 F.Cas.No.17,296.

27. U.S.—Wattson v. Marks, supra

28. U.S.—Kuhnhold v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, D.C.N.Y., 251 F. 387.
58 C.J. p. 407 note 26.

29. Philippine.—Tan Chiong Sian v. Inchausti, 22 Philippine 152.
58 C.J. p. 408 note 27.

30. Philippine.—Tan Chiong Sian v. Inchausti, supra.

31. Philippine.—Tan Chiong Sian v. Inchausti, supra

32. Philippine.—Tan Chiong Sian v. Inchausti, supra.

33. La.—Kirk v. Folsom, 23 La.Ann. 584
58 C.J. p. 408 note 31.

34. La.—Van Hern v. Taylor, 7 Rob. 201, 41 Am.D. 279
58 C.J. p. 408 note 32

35. La.—Medina v. Hansen, 17 La. Ann. 290.
58 C.J. p. 408 note 33

36. La.—Darrall v. Southern Pac. Co., 17 So. 884, 47 La.Ann. 1455.
58 C.J. p. 408 note 34.

37. La.—The Tennessee v. Tardos, 7 La.Ann. 28
58 C.J. p. 408 note 35.

38. U.S.—Scarburgh v. Compania was to carry over into the international sphere the uniformity achieved for American voyages in the Harter Act by mitigating the common-law "insurer's" liability of carriers in exchange for a prohibition of clauses in the contract of carriage lessening the carriers' liability,[39] to regulate rights and liabilities between carriers and cargo interests[40] in an attempt to create international uniformity,[41] to enable the consignee to rely on the facts stated in the bill of lading,[42] and to accomplish uniformity and agreement with many other nations as to the text of those clauses of ocean bills of lading with which the act deals.[43] The act does not give the carrier the right to relieve itself from any of its responsibilities and liabilities[44] and the effect of the so-called British Ordinances which is to increase the immunities of the carrier will not be considered in determining the liability of the carrier under the act.[45]

Section 4 of the Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1304, establishes sixteen exceptions from liability,[46] and the act does not condition its exemptions on due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy,[47] but only exemption from liability for loss due to unseaworthiness is so conditioned.[48] In this respect the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act differs from the Harter Act,[49] which, as shown infra § 127 b (1) makes immunities dependent on the exercise of due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy.

The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act expressly relates to foreign trade, that is, to the transportation of goods between ports of the United States and ports of foreign countries.[50] It does not apply to carriage of goods not in foreign trade[51] or to cargo carried on deck under provisions in the bill of lading for on-deck carriage.[52] Provision is made, however, for adoption of the act by express agreement in cases of domestic trade,[53] in which event it supersedes the earlier Harter Act,[54] and the parties may by the terms of their bill of lading agree that its provisions shall apply to cargo carried on deck between ports of the United States.[55] It has been held that, in the absence of contract to that effect, the provisions of the act do not operate to relieve a private carrier from liability for damage to cargo.[56] Although the contract by its terms is subject

Sud-Americana De Vapores, C.A., N.Y., 174 F.2d 423.

39. U.S.—Scarburgh v. Compania Sud-Americana De Vapores, supra.
Exemption provisions of the Harter Act see infra §§ 127–128

Same underlying purpose of statutes
"Both the Harter Act and the 1936 Act have the same underlying purpose."—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, 613, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293.

40. U.S.—Lyons-Magnus, Inc., v. American-Hawaiian S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 41 F.Supp. 575.

41. U.S.—Uniao De Transportadores Para Importacao E Comercio, Ltda. v. Companhia De Nevegacao Carregadores Acoreanos, D.C.N.Y., 84 F.Supp. 582

Counterpart of British act
"The purpose of the Act is to create international uniformity. It is a counterpart of the British Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 1924, and the Barbadoes Carriage of Goods by Sea Act of 1926."—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 168, 169, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999.

42. U.S.—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247.

43. U.S.—Pan-Am Trade & Credit Corp. v. The Campfire, C.C.A.N.Y., 156 F.2d 603, certiorari denied Waterman S. S. Corp. v. P-A. T. & C. Corp., 67 S.Ct. 194, 329 U.S. 774, 91 L.Ed. 666.

44. U.S.—The Vermont, D.C.N.Y., 47 F.Supp. 877.
Extension of liability see infra § 139

45. U.S.—The Zarembo, D.C.N.Y., 44 F.Supp. 915, affirmed, C.C.A., Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. The Zarembo, 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U.S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486.

46. U.S.—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247.
Particular causes of loss or damage within Carriage of Goods by Sea Act see infra § 128.

47. U.S.—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F.Supp. 412.

Under similar provisions of Canadian Water Carriage of Goods Act of 1936, due diligence by shipowner is not made a proviso of any of the exceptions, but is to be considered separately therefrom.—The Iristo, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.Supp. 29, affirmed, C.C.A., Middleton & Co. (Canada) Limited v. Ocean Dominion S. S. Corp., 137 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 432, 320 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 484.

48. U.S.—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F.Supp. 412.
Exemption from liability for unseaworthiness see infra § 128 b (2)

49. U.S.—The Vale Royal, supra.

50. U.S.—The Vale Royal, supra—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293.

Act held applicable to:
(1) Voyage from a foreign port to the United States, even if bill of lading had not been expressly made subject to such act.—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F.Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470.

(2) A libel for damages to cargo which was carried from Spain to Philadelphia, Pa., even though bill of lading was issued in Spain.—The Ciano, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 35.

51. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293.

52. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.

53. U.S.—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F.Supp. 412.—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293.

54. U.S.—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F.Supp. 412.

55. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.

56. U.S.—The Raleigh, D.C.Md., 50 F.Supp. 961.

to the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act and the Harter Act, the exemption of liability provisions in those acts do not operate where the carrier has not been negligent.[57]

Time of loss or damage. The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act does not cover the period of time prior to loading or the period of time subsequent to discharge of the cargo, until delivery thereof to the consignee.[58] Where the cargo has been damaged on lighters while secured alongside the vessel but before the goods have reached the ship's tackles, the provisions of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act are not applicable proprio vigore,[59] but they are made applicable and control the relations of the parties by virtue of a clause of the bill of lading which provides that the act shall govern before the goods are loaded on, and after they are discharged from, the ship, and throughout the entire time the goods are in the custody of the carrier.[60] The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act supersedes the Harter Act as far as the rights and liabilities with respect to a shipment between a foreign and a domestic port during the voyage, and not before its loading or after its discharge from the vessel, are concerned,[61] but, as shown infra § 127 d, the Harter Act may be applicable to the period subsequent to discharge and until delivery of the cargo.

Fraudulent Misstatement of Nature or Value of Goods. Under the provision of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1304(5), that neither the carrier nor the ship shall be responsible for loss or damage to or in connection with the transportation of the goods if the nature or value thereof has been knowingly and fraudulently misstated by the shipper in the bill of lading, the exemption does not apply where the shipper, without stating any value, has employed the term "used removal goods" as descriptive of usual household furniture, silverware, etc.[62]

§ 127. —— In Case of Seaworthiness of Vessel or Exercise of Diligence with Respect Thereto in General

a. Purpose, effect, and construction of Harter Act in general
b. Necessity of seaworthiness or diligence
c. Character and extent of seaworthiness or diligence
d. Time of loss or damage
e. Carriers and other persons entitled to exemption
f. Vessels within exemption provision; character of voyage
g. Availability of exemption as against third persons; collision
h. Effect of deviation
i. Proceedings in which exemption may be claimed
j. Waiver of benefits

a. Purpose, Effect, and Construction of Harter Act in General

The exemption provision of the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 192, which operates to relieve the shipowner from liability for damage arising from the causes specified therein, was enacted to encourage shipping in the United States by modifying the stringent rule of liability theretofore imposed by the maritime law, and, being in derogation of common law, it must be strictly construed.

The exemption provision of the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 192, which operates to relieve the shipowner from liability for damage arising from the causes specified therein,[63] was enacted in the interest of the carrier,[64] and intended as a compensation for the loss of his right to limit his liability by contract, as provided by other sections of the act.[65]

57. U.S.—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const. Corp., D.C. Conn., 89 F.Supp. 272.

58. U.S.—The Monte Iciar, D.C.Pa., 67 F.Supp. 201, affirmed, C.C.A., 167 F.2d 334.

Discovery of damage after discharge of cargo

Where an inspection of the 'tween decks, where libellant's cargo of wine had been stowed, showed that the space was clean and dry and first evidence of any loss of wine from shipment was the gauging of seven of the barrels on the pier by United States Customs authorities when shipment was delivered to libellant several days after discharge of cargo, and there was nothing to show any act or omission of respondent carrier with respect to custody, care, or handling of cargo from loading thereof to discharge thereof that contributed to loss, loss was not within purview of Carriage of Goods by Sea Act.—The Monte Iciar, supra

59. U.S.—Mackey v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 83 F.Supp. 14, affirmed, C.A., 197 F.2d 241.

60. U.S.—Mackey v. U. S., supra.

61. U.S.—The Monte Iciar, D.C.Pa., 67 F.Supp. 201, affirmed, C.C.A., 167 F.2d 334.—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293.

62. U.S.—Kratina v. South Atlantic S. S. Co., D.C.Ga., 63 F.Supp. 895.

63. U.S.—U. S. v. Farr Sugar Corp., C.A.N.Y., 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U. S. v. Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co., 72 S. Ct. 666, 343 U.S. 236, 96 L.Ed. ——.—Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Howard, C.C.A.N.Y., 155 F.2d 780

N.Y.—Gelderman v. Munson S. S. Line, 254 N.Y.S. 537, 234 App.Div. 889.

58 C.J. p. 392 note 2.

Exemption as to particular causes see infra § 128.

64. U.S.—The Germanic, N.Y., 124 F. 1, 59 C.C.A. 521, affirmed 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed. 610

65. U.S.—The Germanic, supra.

Limitation of liability by contract or bill of lading see infra §§ 131–138.

Remedy of abuses

U.S.—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 89 F.2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue

The purpose of the act was to encourage shipping in the United States[66] by modifying the stringent rule of liability theretofore imposed by maritime law,[67] and relieving the diligent shipowner from his former responsibility for extraordinary risks,[68] such as fault or error of those beyond his personal control[69] with respect to navigation or management of the ship.[70] It was not repealed by the Interstate Commerce Act.[71]

Construction. The rule of strict construction applicable to statutes in derogation of common law or common right applies to the exemption provision of the Harter Act.[72] Accordingly, the exemption from liability will be limited to the relief afforded by the express language of the statute;[73] but the rule of strict construction is not violated by permitting the words of the statute to have their full meaning,[74] or the more extended of two possible meanings.[75]

Retroactive effect. The Harter Act has no retroactive effect, so as to apply to damages occasioned before its passage.[76]

b. Necessity of Seaworthiness or Diligence

(1) In general
(2) Causal connection with loss

(1) In General

In order to secure the statutory exemptions under the Harter Act it is necessary either that the ship was in fact seaworthy and properly manned or that the owner used due diligence to make her so.

In order to secure the statutory exemption under the Harter Act it is necessary either that the ship was in fact seaworthy[77] and properly manned[78] or that, whether or not seaworthy, the owner used due diligence to make her so.[79] While due diligence is all that is required,[80] the owner must establish the existence of one or the other of these facts,[81] as a Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co., 58 S.Ct. 25, 302 U.S. 706, 82 L.Ed. 545.

66. U.S.—The Humarock, D.C.Ga., 234 F. 716

67. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App. Supp. 775.
58 C.J. p. 392 note 7.

68. U.S.—The Humarock, D.C.Ga., 234 F. 716—Great Lakes Towing Co. v. Mills Transp. Co., Mich., 155 F. 11, 83 C.C.A. 607, 22 L.R.A.,N.S., 769, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 262, 207 U.S. 596, 52 L.Ed. 357.

69. U.S.—The Humarock, D.C.Ga., 234 F. 716.

70. U.S.—The Irrawaddy, N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 831, 171 U.S. 187, 43 L.Ed. 130.
58 C.J. p. 392 note 11.

71. U.S.—Alaska SS. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 259 F. 713, reversed on other grounds 40 S.Ct. 448, 253 U.S. 113, 64 L.Ed. 808.

72. U.S.—U. S. Steel Products Co. v. American & Foreign Ins. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 752—California & Hawaiian Sugar Refining Corporation v. Rideout, C.C.A.Cal., 53 F.2d 322
58 C.J. p. 392 note 13.

Trend of judicial decision has been to construe the Harter Act strictly and not to extend the carrier's exemption from liability to doubtful and uncertain cases, but to leave such liability as it was defined and enforced by the law maritime and by the common law unless the act plainly and unequivocally asserts a different liability.—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v. James McWilliams Blue Line, D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 992, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F.2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co., 58 S.Ct. 25, 302 U.S. 706, 82 L.Ed. 545—The Germanic, N.Y., 124 F. 1, 59 C.C.A. 521, affirmed 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed. 610

73. U.S.—The Irrawaddy, N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 831, 171 U.S. 187, 43 L.Ed. 130

74. U.S.—Sacramento Nav. Co. v. Salz, Cal., 47 S.Ct. 368, 273 U.S. 326, 71 L.Ed. 663.

75. U.S.—Sacramento Nav. Co. v. Salz, supra
58 C.J. p. 392 note 16.

76. U.S.—The Edith, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 684—Humboldt Lumber Manufacturers' Assoc. v. Christopherson, Cal., 73 F. 239, 19 C.C.A. 48, 46 L.R.A. 264.

77. U.S.—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853—Spencer, Kellogg & Sons v. Buckeye S. S. Co., C.C.A. Ohio, 70 F.2d 146, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 74, 293 U.S. 562, 79 L.Ed. 663—U. S. v. City of New York, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.2d 270—The Iowa, D.C.Or., 34 F.Supp. 843—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550.
58 C.J. p. 392 note 21.
Burden of proving diligence or seaworthiness under exemption claim see infra § 154.
Seaworthiness generally see infra § 140.

78. U.S.—The Denali, C.C.A.Wash., 105 F.2d 413, adhered to 112 F.2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska S. S. Co. v. Pacific Coast Coal Co., 61 S.Ct. 65, 311 U.S. 687, 85 L.Ed. 444—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 900—The Iowa, D.C.Or., 34 F.Supp. 843—The Condor, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 929, affirmed, C.C.A., The Nordpol, 84 F.2d 3, certiorari denied Grace S. S. Co. v. Anglo-Chilean Nitrate Sales Corporation, 57 S.Ct. 111, two cases, 299 U.S. 586, 81 L.Ed. 432.

Licensed pilot on motorboat
Motorboat only 62.2 feet in length and propelled by diesel engine was not required by Motor Boat Act to have licensed pilot and therefore failure to have licensed pilot on board did not preclude exemption from liability under Harter Act.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P.2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491.

79. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F.2d 248, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 840, 313 U.S. 541, 58 L.Ed. 1510, vacated on other grounds 61 S.Ct. 938, 313 U.S. 596, 85 L.Ed. 1550, affirmed 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 72 F.2d 212—U. S. v. Charbonnier, C.C.A.S.C., 45 F.2d 174—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. O'Donnell Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 239—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F.Supp. 412—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558—The Venice Maru, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., Consumers Import Co. v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L.Ed. 30—The Iowa, D.C.Or., 34 F.Supp. 843—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550.
58 C.J. p. 392 note 23.

80. Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P.2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491.

81. U.S.—The Iowa, D.C.Or., 34 F.Supp. 843
58 C.J. p. 392 note 24.

distinct condition of,[82] or condition precedent to,[83] or preliminary condition to[84] exemption An owner who consciously sends a vessel to sea in an unseaworthy condition may not claim a defense under the Harter Act.[85] Financial straits of owner, rendering him unable to meet the necessary expense of making the ship seaworthy, are not a legal excuse for failure to exercise due diligence in such respect.[86]

When and where requirement must be met. The requirement that the ship must be seaworthy or that due diligence must be exercised to make her so applies to seaworthiness at the beginning of the voyage,[87] at the place where the ship broke ground.[88] Where voyage is divided into stages, the requirement applies to the beginning of each separate stage of the voyage,[89] as where the major portion of the voyage is to be undertaken after fueling and the ship is unseaworthy on leaving the fueling port.[90] Merely dropping anchor after proceeding a short distance does not create a new stage of the voyage.[91]

(2) Causal Connection with Loss

Under the Harter Act, if the condition as to seaworthiness or diligence is not performed, exemption will be denied irrespective of whether failure to perform such condition contributed to the loss or damage.

Under the Harter Act, if the condition as to seaworthiness or diligence is not performed, exemption will be denied irrespective of whether failure to perform such condition contributed to the loss or damage,[92] as where exemption is denied for loss result-

82. U.S.—The Wildcroft, Pa., 26 S Ct. 467, 201 U.S. 378, 50 L.Ed 794—Compagnie Maritime Francaise v. Meyer, Cal., 248 F. 881, 160 C.C.A. 639

83. U.S.—California & Hawaiian Sugar Refining Corporation v. Rideout, C.C.A.Cal., 53 F.2d 322—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F. Supp 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F 2d 550

Wash.—National Grocery Co. v Olsen, 108 P.2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491

58 C.J. p 392 note 26.

84. U.S.—Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v Insurance Co of North America, Md., 110 F. 420, 49 C.C.A. 1.

85. U.S.—The Denali, C.C.A.Wash., 112 F.2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska S. S. Co. v. Pacific Coast Coal Co., 61 S.Ct 65, 311 U.S. 687, 85 L.Ed. 444—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853

86. U.S.—Palmer, etc., Co. v. U. S., D.C.Mass., 10 F.2d 214.

87. U.S.—Spencer, Kellogg & Sons v. Buckeye S. S. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 70 F.2d 146, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct 74, 293 U.S. 562, 79 L.Ed. 663—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. O'Donnell Transp Co., D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 239—The Havana, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp 244.

58 C.J. p 393 note 34.

Shifting barge between docks

Where barge was being shifted from one dock to another by hand when it was damaged by striking hard against steel pier, voyage had not yet "commenced," and hence barge owner could not escape liability for loss of cargo under exception provision of the Harter Act.—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. O'Donnell Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 239.

Port from which cargo was shipped

Voyage, with respect to vessel's liability for error in management, commenced as to cargo owner at port from which cargo was shipped—The J. L. Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 692, affirmed, C.C.A., 65 F.2d 570

88. U.S.—Yokohama Specie Bank v. Mitsui & Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 73 F.2d 526, certiorari denied Yokohama Specie Bank v Mitsui & Co., 55 S.Ct. 648, 295 U.S. 736, 79 L.Ed. 1684.

89. U.S.—The Willdomino, C.C.A.N.J., 300 F 5, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 261, 272 U.S. 718, 71 L.Ed 491.

90. U.S.—The Viking, C.C.A.Ohio, 271 F. 801

58 C.J. p 393 note 36.

91. U.S.—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F. 2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075.

58 C.J. p 393 note 37.

92. U.S.—May v. Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktiengesellschaft, N.Y., 54 S.Ct 162, 290 U.S. 333, 78 L.Ed 348—U. S Steel Products Co. v. American & Foreign Ins. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 752—The Indien, C.C.A.Cal., 71 F.2d 752—Spencer, Kellogg & Sons v. Buckeye S. S. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 70 F.2d 146, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 74, 293 U.S. 562, 79 L.Ed. 663—The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S. Ct 860, 292 U.S 651, 78 L.Ed 1500—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F. Supp. 412—The Havana, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 244—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558—The Iowa, D.C.Or., 34 F.Supp. 843—Daisy Philippine Underwear Co. v. U. S. Steel Products Co., D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Supp. 175, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S Steel Products Co., v. American & Foreign Ins. Co., 82 F.2d 752.

Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P.2d 320, 6 Wash 2d 491.

58 C.J. p 393 note 29

Exemptions of Carriage of Goods by Sea Act as not conditioned on due diligence to make vessel seaworthy see supra § 126 b.

Unseaworthiness as exempted cause of loss or damage under Carriage of Goods by Sea Act see infra § 128 b (2).

Contrary authority

(1) There are some decisions and dicta which are contrary to the rule of the text.—Hartford & New York Transp. Co. v. Rogers & Hubbard Co., C.C.A.Conn., 47 F.2d 189, certiorari denied Rogers & Hubbard v. Hartford & New York Transp. Co., 51 S.Ct 483, 283 U.S. 835, 75 L.Ed. 1446—58 C.J. p 393 notes 31, 32.

(2) These decisions and dicta have been disapproved by the United States supreme court which, taking note of the discord in the cases, stated that the rulings and dicta favoring the view that the benefit of the act is lost without reference to any causal relation between the defect and the disaster are supported by the better reasons—May v Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktiengesellschaft, N.Y., 54 S.Ct. 162, 299 U.S 333, 78 L.Ed. 348.

(3) However, it has been said, citing May v. Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktiengesellschaft, supra, that if unseaworthiness of vessel is not the proximate cause of loss of cargo, the vessel may not be charged with damages for the loss—Interlake Iron Corp. v. Gartland S. S Co., C.C.A.Mich., 121 F.2d 267, certiorari denied Gartland S. S Co. v. Interlake Iron Corp., 62 S.Ct. 181, 314 U.S 681, 86 L.Ed. 545.

Fatigue in navigation

In the causal and contributing chain of events leading to the wreck of a vessel being navigated by a mate in violation of the requirements of a statute to prevent fatigue in navigation, the last link was the mind and body of the navigator affected by the violation.—The Denali, C.C.A.Wash., 112 F.2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska

ing from improper navigation or management,[93] or from a storm of violent intensity.[94] A like rule has been applied under similar controlling provisions of the Canadian Water Carriage of Goods Act.[95]

c. Character and Extent of Seaworthiness or Diligence

(1) In general
(2) Factors considered

(1) In General

Seaworthiness under the Harter Act involves no more than a reasonable fitness for the purpose of the voyage. The requisite diligence must be exercised in all respects necessary to make the ship in fact seaworthy at the beginning of her voyage and should be of a character adequate to accomplish the result intended.

Seaworthiness under the Harter Act involves no more than a reasonable fitness for the purpose of the voyage.[96] A ship may be seaworthy, although not in all respects fit for her service, when she breaks ground,[97] as where she is well found in hull and gear, but the master and crew know that she is not made ready as she rides, and expect to fit her with what is at hand when the occasion arises,[98] but the existing unfitness must be so known at the outset.[99]

The requisite diligence must be exercised in all respects necessary to make the ship in fact seaworthy at the beginning of her voyage,[1] and an ineffectual practice furnishes no excuse for omission to use all reasonable precautions.[2] It is not sufficient to provide her with proper structures and equipment, but due diligence must also be exercised by the owner's servants in the use of such equipment before and up to the time of the beginning of the voyage,[3] as by making such inspection as circumstances may require[4] and effecting necessary re-

S. S. Co. v. Pacific Coast Coal Co., 61 S.Ct. 65, 311 U.S. 687, 85 L.Ed. 444.

93. U.S.—May v. Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktiengesellschaft, N.Y., 54 S.Ct. 162, 299 U.S. 333, 78 L.Ed. 348—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853—The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L.Ed. 1500—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 900—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 553—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C.Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520—The Harry Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 507.
58 C.J. p. 393 note 30.

94. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775

95. U.S.—In re Great Lakes Transit Corp., C.C.A.Ohio, 81 F.2d 441.

96. U.S.—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Becker S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 49 F.2d 648—The R. Lenahan, Jr., C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 110, certiorari denied Cowles v. Reddy, 52 S.Ct. 13, 284 U.S. 629, 76 L.Ed. 536—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075

Requisites and essentials of seaworthiness or fitness generally see infra § 140

Fitness to carry cargo

A vessel, to be seaworthy, must be reasonably fit to carry the cargo which she has undertaken to transport.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Buckeye S. S. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 70 F.2d 146, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 74, 293 U.S. 562, 79 L.Ed. 663—Kalbfleisch Corporation v. U.S., D.C.Mass., 53 F.2d 867—The Havana, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 244—The Emilia, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Supp. 7—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550—The Point Brava, D.C.Cal., 1 F.Supp. 366—The R. P. Fitzgerald, Mich., 212 F. 678, 129 C.C.A. 214, certiorari denied 34 S.Ct. 675, 234 U.S. 757, 58 L.Ed. 1579.
Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P.2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491.

Most improved construction or equipment

(1) A vessel is not required to be impregnable or of the most improved construction.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Buckeye S. S. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 70 F.2d 146, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 74, 293 U.S. 562, 79 L.Ed. 663.

(2) A vessel is not bound to have latest and most improved telemotor.—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 827, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550

97. U.S.—Yokohama Specie Bank v. Mitsui & Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 73 F.2d 526, certiorari denied Yokohama Specie Bank v. Mitsui & Co., 55 S.Ct. 648, 295 U.S. 736, 79 L.Ed. 1684—Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 49 F.2d 700—Daisy Philippine Underwear Co. v. U. S. Steel Products Co., D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Supp. 175, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. Steel Products Co. v. American & Foreign Ins. Co., 82 F.2d 752.

98. U.S.—Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 49 F.2d 700.

99. U.S.—Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U.S., supra.

1. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.
58 C.J. p. 393 note 38.

2. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., supra.

3. U.S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C.Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520.
58 C.J. p. 393 note 39.

4. U.S.—The Willowpool, D.C.N.Y., 12 F.Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C.A., John W. Higman & Co. v. The Willowpool, 86 F.2d 1002—The Indien, D.C.Cal., 5 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F.2d 752
58 C.J. p. 393 note 40.

Casual inspection is insufficient to constitute due diligence.
U.S.—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 900—The Agwimoon, D.C.Md., 24 F.2d 864, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic, etc., SS. Lines v. Interocean Oil Co., 31 F.2d 1006, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 514, 279 U.S. 874, 73 L.Ed. 1009—The Indien, D.C.Cal., 5 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F.2d 752
Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.

Usual inspection was held not due diligence with respect to boilers and condensers when it was known to owners of vessel that condenser tubes were constantly breaking down prior thereto and that boilers were not in a seaworthy condition.—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558.

Reliance on external appearance

(1) In making inspection, owner is not justified in relying on external appearances in place of known tests.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.

(2) If, instead of making careful examinations and tests, owner relies on external appearances of ship or superficial survey, he assumes repairs;[5] and the undertaking as to seaworthiness is not discharged when want of fitness is the result either of laches or of a latent defect discoverable by the use of due diligence.[6] The duty includes the furnishing of charts, light lists, and similar navigational data.[7] The shipper bears no loss until the owner has done his best to remove all risks except those inevitable on the seas.[8]

The duty of the shipowner to exercise due diligence to render the ship seaworthy is nondelegable;[9] it is a personal duty to see that the ship is seaworthy when she starts on the voyage,[10] and the owner must know that those whom he employs to act use due diligence.[11] In this connection it has been pointed out that failure of the owner's agents in respect of the exercise of diligence is legally attributable to him,[12] and that the mere selection of competent agents for such purposes is insufficient to show diligence by the owner.[13] The due diligence as to making the vessel seaworthy must in fact be exercised by the agents selected,[14] and should be of a character adequate to accomplish the result intended.[15]

Procuring certificates of seaworthiness does not show exercise of due diligence.[16]

Protection of cargo. In order to discharge the duty of due diligence the owner will be required to take such precautions as are reasonably adequate for the protection of the cargo against known perils,[17] or against perils which reasonable foresight would have anticipated.[18] Although the vessel be seaworthy as a whole, exemption will be sponsibility for what diligent inspection would reveal—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v Luckenbach S S. Co, supra—58 C J. p 393 note 40 [d].

Inclosed pipe

Fact that sounding pipe was inclosed did not lessen obligation to remove sufficient portion of casing for thorough test and inspection to assure beginning voyage with thoroughly seaworthy ship—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co, supra.

5. U.S—The Yungay, D C N Y., 58 F 2d 352.
58 C.J. p 393 note 41.

6. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.

7. U.S—The Maria, C C.A Va, 91 F. 2d 819—The Iowa, D C Or, 34 F. Supp. 843.

Corrected and uncorrected charts

(1) Ship is seaworthy if she has proper documents on board and if, when she sails, such of her charts and light lists are corrected as cover waters she will enter before her officers will have ready opportunity to correct them.—U. S Steel Products Co. v. American & Foreign Ins. Co., C C A N.Y., 82 F.2d 752.

(2) Failure to correct charts and light book before setting sail did not render ship unseaworthy, where charts and light book could have conveniently been brought up to date before ship reached waters which charts and book covered, although on previous voyage through same waters ship had set sail without having proper charts and light book aboard—U. S. Steel Products Co v. American & Foreign Ins Co., supra.

(3) A vessel on sailing from Swedish port and striking a rock near lighthouse in Swedish waters was not "unseaworthy" because master did not have on board Swedish chart instead of or in addition to German chart, where, at time of grounding, vessel was being navigated by government pilot and captain without a chart, both charts were serviceable, and difference in scale was not of great consequence—The Heddernheim, D.C N.Y, 39 F.Supp. 558.

8. U.S—Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U. S., C.C A. N Y, 49 F 2d 700.

9. U S—The Maria, C.C A Va, 91 F 2d 819—The Framlington Court, C. C A.Tex, 69 F 2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U S 651, 78 L.Ed. 1500—The Iowa, D.C Or., 34 F Supp 843—The Point Brava, D C. Cal, 1 F Supp. 366.

Delegation held not to show lack of due diligence

Where duty of owner was being performed through the master, master's delegation to Sea Service Bureau of exercise of diligent inquiry as to qualifications of desired chief officer was held not to show lack of due diligence.—The James Griffiths, C.C A Wash., 84 F 2d 785, certiorari denied Sperry Flour Co. v. Coastwise Steamship & Barge Co, 57 S Ct. 315, 299 U S. 612, 81 L Ed 452, rehearing denied 57 S Ct. 430, 300 U.S. 686, 81 L.Ed. 888.

10. U S—The Wildwood, D C.Wash, 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp v. American Foreign S. S Corp, 63 S Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L Ed. 1719.

11. U.S.—The Wildwood, D C Wash, 41 F.Supp 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A, 133 F 2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp v. American S. S. Corp., 63 S. Ct. 1436, 319 U S. 771, 87 L.Ed 1719.

12. U.S—The Maria, C C.A Va., 91 F 2d 819—The James Griffiths, C C. A Wash., 84 F.2d 785, certiorari denied Sperry Flour Co v. Coastwise Steamship & Barge Co., 57 S.Ct. 315, 299 U S. 612, 81 L.Ed 452, rehearing denied 57 S Ct 430, 300 U. S. 686, 81 L Ed. 888—The Framlington Court, C C A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S S Co v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S Ct 860, 292 U S. 651, 78 L.Ed 1500—Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v Insurance Co. of North America, Md., 110 F. 420, 49 C C.A. 1.

13. U.S—The Maria, C.C A.Va., 91 F 2d 819
Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v Luckenbach S S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal App Supp. 775
58 C.J. p 393 note 43

14. U.S—The Maria, C C.A.Va., 91 F 2d 819—The Yungay, D C.N.Y., 58 F 2d 352
58 C J. p 394 note 44.

15. U.S.—Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v. Insurance Co. of North America, Md., 110 F 420, 49 C C.A. 1.

16. U S.—The Georgian, D C.Fla, 4 F Supp 718, affirmed, C.C A., 76 F. 2d 550.
Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co, 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal App Supp. 775.
58 C J p 394 note 46.

17. U S.—The Georgian, D C Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C A, 76 F. 2d 550—The R P. Fitzgerald, Mich, 212 F. 678, 129 C C.A 214, certiorari denied 34 S.Ct. 675, 234 U.S. 757, 58 L Ed. 1579.

18. U S—The Georgian, D C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C C A, 76 F. 2d 550—The R. P. Fitzgerald, Mich, 212 F. 678, 129 C C A 214, certiorari denied 34 S Ct 675, 234 U.S. 757, 58 L Ed 1579.

denied if it was unseaworthy with respect to the cargo damaged.[19]

(2) Factors Considered

In determining whether or not the duty of exercising due diligence was discharged the measure of that duty must be considered with reference to the conditions under which it was to be performed, and the courts will consider all relevant circumstances.

In determining whether or not the duty of exercising due diligence was discharged, the measure of that duty must be considered with reference to the conditions under which it was to be performed,[20] and in this connection the courts will consider all relevant circumstances,[21] such as the character of the cargo,[22] the nature of the voyage,[23] the sufficiency of the fuel supply,[24] condition of the weather,[25] the age[26] and condition[27] of the ship, the previous practice of the owners with respect to examination for repairs,[28] and the incompetency of the master or crew due to lack of adequate training or experience,[29] but hiring a master who has never before served in such capacity does not show lack of due diligence.[30] The same considerations control the seaworthiness of the ship's holds as of her bottom.[31]

Lack of license for the voyage taken may render

19. U S—The Manitoba, D C N Y., 104 F 145
58 C.J. p 391 note 49.

20. U S—Atlantic Transport Co. v Rosenberg, C C.A Cal, 34 F 2d 843—The Jean Bart, D C Cal, 197 F 1002.
What constitutes seaworthiness generally see infra § 140.

Statute subsequently enacted
Statute relating to hours and work for officers passed after stranding of vessel did not apply in subsequent proceeding for exemption from liability—The Denali, D C.Wash., 23 F Supp 145, reversed on other grounds, C.C A, 105 F.2d 413, adhered to 112 F 2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska S S. Co. v. Pacific Coast Coal Co, 61 S Ct. 65, 311 U.S. 687, 85 L Ed. 444.

21. Ship held unseaworthy
(1) With respect to deck plate which was fractured where voyage was of kind that should have been expected.—The Emilia, D.C N Y., 13 F.Supp. 7.

(2) Where steamship was not equipped with a communication system with its emergency steering gear—The Iowa, D C.Or., 34 F Supp. 843.

(3) Where owner violates the statutory three-watch requirement for mates—The Denali, C.C A.Wash, 112 F 2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska S S Co v. Pacific Coast Coal Co, 61 S.Ct 65, 311 U.S 687, 85 L Ed. 444.

(4) Other illustrations of unseaworthiness see 58 C.J. p 394 note 52 [c].

Unseaworthiness not shown
U S—Hartford & New York Transp Co. v. Rogers & Hubbard Co, C C. A Conn, 47 F.2d 189, certiorari denied Rogers & Hubbard v. Hartford & New York Transp. Co, 51 S Ct. 483, 283 U S 835, 75 L Ed 1446.
58 C.J. p 394 note 52 [d].

Due diligence shown
U.S.—The Silvia, D.C N Y., 64 F 607, affirmed 68 F. 230, 15 C C.A. 362, affirmed 19 S Ct 7, 171 U S. 462, 43 L.Ed. 241.
58 C.J. p 394 note 52 [a].

Due diligence held not properly exercised
(1) Where there existed a violation of the statutory three watch mandate for mates—The Denali, C C.A.Wash., 105 F 2d 413, adhered to 112 F.2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska S. S. Co v. Pacific Coast Coal Co, 61 S Ct. 65, 311 U.S. 687, 85 L Ed. 444

(2) Failure to make hydrostatic test after repair of rivets—The Point Brava, D C.Cal., 1 F Supp. 366

(3) Failure to provide Class 1 steel closing appliances for booby hatch, as well as openings on superstructure, or to close hatches in upper deck bunkers—The Vestris, D.C N. Y., 60 F 2d 273.

(4) Failure definitely to determine metacentric height and stability of vessel at time of sailing.—The Vestris, supra.

(5) Failure to warn ship's officers of necessity of keeping bottom tanks filled to maintain ship's seaworthiness—The Vestris, supra.

(6) Where shipowner's marine superintendent and his assistant in port, from which vessel lost at sea sailed with bunker hatches buried beneath coal, knew of practice of leaving hatches uncovered—The Vestris, supra.

(7) Other conduct held to show lack of due diligence see 58 C J. p 394 note 52 [b].

22. U.S—The Agwimoon, D C Md., 24 F.2d 864, affirmed, C C.A., Atlantic, etc, SS. Lines v. Interocean Oil Co, 31 F.2d 1006, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 514, 279 U S. 874, 73 L Ed. 1009.
58 C J. p 394 note 53.

23. U S.—The Jean Bart, D.C.Cal, 197 F. 1002.
58 C J. p 395 note 54.

24. U.S—The Willdomino, C C.A.N J., 300 F. 5, affirmed 47 S Ct. 261, 272 U.S. 718, 71 L Ed. 491.

25. U S—Texas, etc, SS Co v. Parker, C C A Tex, 263 F 864, certiorari denied 40 S Ct. 485, 253 U S 488, 64 L Ed 1026

26. U S.—The Pehr Ugland, D C Va, 271 F. 340, appeal dismissed, C.C. A., 277 F. 1019
58 C J. p 395 note 57.

27. U S—The Pehr Ugland, supra.
58 C J. p 395 note 58.

28. U S—The Agwimoon, D C.Md, 24 F 2d 864, affirmed, C.C A., Atlantic, etc, SS Line v. Interocean Oil Co., 31 F 2d 1006, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 514, 279 U.S 874, 73 L Ed 1009
58 C J p 395 note 59.

29. U.S.—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C C A N.Y., 55 F.2d 900—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F Supp. 412.

Inability to understand orders
Shipowner who, at foreign port, employed seaman who neither understood nor spoke English and lacked experience with American indirect helm orders failed properly to man vessel, which was therefore not seaworthy, precluding exemption from liability for cargo damage caused by collision occurring when such seaman, while acting as helmsman, apparently misunderstood order given in English.—The Nordpol, C.C A N. Y., 84 F.2d 3, certiorari denied Grace S. S. Co. v. Anglo-Chilean Nitrate Sales Corporation, 57 S.Ct. 111 (two cases), 299 U S. 586, 81 L Ed 432.

Duty to know local conditions
Master in charge of steamship had the duty to know all local conditions before he discharged the river pilot and started down the Columbia River—The Iowa, D.C Or., 34 F.Supp. 843.

30. U.S.—The Benjamin Noble, D C Mich, 232 F. 382, affirmed 244 F 95, 156 C C.A. 523, affirmed Capitol Transp. Co. v Cambria Steel Co., 39 S.Ct. 292, 249 U S. 334, 63 L.Ed. 631.

31. U S.—Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U. S., C C.A. N.Y., 49 F.2d 700.

a ship so far unseaworthy as to preclude exemption.[32]

Loading. In determining whether a vessel was seaworthy so as to entitle the owner to exemption, the courts will consider the matters of loading[33] and stowage[34] of cargo. The like practice of others will not excuse an owner for so far overloading his ship as to render her unseaworthy.[35]

d. Time of Loss or Damage

In order to be within the exemption of the Harter Act the loss or damage must occur after the voyage begins. The protection of the act extends to the final delivery of the cargo.

In order to be within the exemption provision of the Harter Act, the loss or damage must occur after the voyage begins.[36] Exemption will be denied where the act or omission causing loss occurred in connection with preparation for the voyage.[37]

After end of voyage. The protection of the Harter Act is not confined to the voyage,[38] but extends to the final delivery of the cargo.[39] So, even though the Harter Act is superseded by the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, as discussed supra § 126 b, as far as the rights and liabilities in relation to a shipment between a foreign and a domestic port during the voyage, and not before its loading or after its discharge from the vessel, are concerned, the Harter Act can be applicable to the period subsequent to discharge and until delivery of the cargo.[40]

e. Carriers and Other Persons Entitled to Exemption

The exemption provision of the Harter Act applies to common carriers, but it is generally held that such provision does not apply of its own force to private carriers.

The exemption provision of the Harter Act applies to common carriers,[41] but it is generally held that such provision does not apply of its own force to private carriers.[42] Where the contract between carrier and cargo is by its terms subject to the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act and the Harter Act, for the purposes of the latter act the carrier as to the cargo stands as owner of the vessel which it has chartered to carry out the contract,[43] and neither act was held applicable to the owner of the vessel chartered who did not stand as a carrier as against either the charterer or the owner of the cargo.[44]

Part owner, who as master has personally participated in negligence causing the loss, cannot secure exemption as to his interest in the ship;[45] but the

32. U.S.—The St Paul, D.C.N.Y., 277 F. 99.

33. U.S.—The Indien, D.C.Cal., 5 F. Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F.2d 752.
58 C.J. p 395 note 63

Overloading renders the ship unseaworthy.—The Indien, D.C.Cal., 5 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F.2d 752—The Benjamin Noble, D.C.Mich., 232 F. 382, affirmed 244 F. 95, 156 C.C.A. 523, affirmed Capitol Transp. Co. v. Cambria Steel Co., 39 S.Ct. 292, 249 U.S. 334, 63 L.Ed. 631.

34. U.S.—Corsar v. Spreckels, Cal., 141 F. 260, 72 C.C.A. 378.

Dunnage

(1) Proper stowage of cargo is part of vessel's seaworthiness, and proper dunnage is element of proper stowage.—The Indien, C.C.A.Cal., 71 F.2d 752.

(2) Custom, without more, in manner of dunnage, is not conclusive as to whether shipowner used adequate dunnage to make vessel seaworthy.—The Indien, supra.

35. U.S.—The Benjamin Noble, D.C. Mich., 232 F. 382, affirmed 244 F. 95, 156 C.C.A. 523, affirmed Capitol Transp. Co. v. Cambria Steel Co., 39 S.Ct. 292, 249 U.S. 334, 63 L.Ed 631.

36. Minn.—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S. Co., 235 N.W. 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 25, 284 U.S. 646, 76 L. Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S. Co., 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn. 620.
58 C.J. p 401 note 83.

37. U.S.—The President, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 680
58 C.J. p 402 note 84.

Lighterage

Where under tariff ship was not required to transport lumber beyond lighterage limits, agreement for such transportation represented new undertaking with respect to application of Harter Act to loss caused by sinking of lighter before it was fully loaded.—The President, supra.

38. U.S.—Sun Co. v. Healy, N.Y., 163 F. 48, 89 C.C.A. 300, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 693, 212 U.S. 583, 53 L.Ed. 660.

39. U.S.—Sun Co. v. Healy, supra.
58 C.J. p 402 note 86.

40. U.S.—The Monte Iciar, C.C.A. Pa., 167 F.2d 334

Delivery to rail carrier

Under bill of lading for shipment of wine from Spain to "Philadelphia in transit to New York," ship was responsible under Harter Act for due care of wine during period after its discharge and prior to its delivery to rail carrier.—The Monte Iciar, supra.

41. U.S.—The Ft. Gaines, D.C.Md., 24 F.2d 849, affirmed, C.C.A., Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lansa, 32 F.2d 154.

42. U.S.—The Monarch of Nassau, C.C.A.Fla., 155 F.2d 48—O. F. Nelson & Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.Cal., 149 F.2d 692, followed in General Cocoa Co. v. U.S., 149 F.2d 815 and 149 F.2d 816, motion denied 169 F.2d 833, motion denied 169 F.2d 833—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 89 F.2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co., 58 S.Ct. 25, 302 U.S. 706, 82 L.Ed. 545—Tice Towing Line v. James McWilliams Blue Line, D.C.N.Y., 51 F.2d 243, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 183—The Raleigh, D.C.Md., 50 F.Supp. 961—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781.
58 C.J. p 402 note 92
Application of other provisions see infra § 132

View that provision is applicable to private carriers is supported by some authority.—The Alberta M., D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 154—The Ft. Gaines, D.C.Md., 24 F.2d 849, affirmed Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lansa, C.C.A., 32 F.2d 154.

43. U.S.—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const. Corp., D.C. Conn., 89 F.Supp. 272

44. U.S.—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const. Corp., supra

45. U.S.—The Humarock, D.C.Ga., 234 F. 716.

other part owners, who have not personally participated in such negligence, are entitled to exemption with respect to their interests in the ship.[46]

f. Vessels within Exemption Provision; Character of Voyage

(1) In general
(2) Tows

(1) In General

The Harter Act deals with the vessel on which the merchandise is being transported at the time of loss or damage, and is applicable to foreign as well as American vessels. It applies to voyages between American and foreign ports and to voyages between American ports, but not to the carriage of goods wholly within the same port.

The Harter Act deals with the vessel on which the merchandise is being transported at the time of loss or damage,[47] and is applicable to foreign as well as American vessels.[48] The act applies to voyages between American and foreign ports[49] and to voyages between American ports,[50] but not to the carriage of goods wholly within the same port.[51]

Vessel used for storage. It seems that, where a cargo is shipped on a vessel, properly manned and equipped, for transportation to another port and storage there, on board, even if the contract is maritime, the act would protect the owner from liability for damage caused by negligent management of the vessel while used for storage[52]

(2) Tows

A combination of towed and towing ship together is regarded as a single ship or carrier within the exemption provision of the Harter Act. Exemption may be had where there was injury to merchandise on the towed ship due to fault or error in the navigation or management of the towing vessel, even though the ships are separately owned, provided that the duty as to seaworthiness or diligence was performed with respect to both vessels.

Under the language of the Harter Act making its exemptions applicable with respect to "any vessel" transporting merchandise, a combination of towed and towing ship together constitute "any vessel,"[53] being regarded as a single ship[54] or carrier.[55] Under this view exemption may be had where there was injury to merchandise on the towed ship due to fault or error in the navigation or management of the towing vessel.[56] The fact that the towed and towing ship are separately owned does not of itself take them out of the rule that they constitute one ship for the purposes of the statute,[57] and it is not necessary for the parties to agree that the vessels shall be considered as a unit, since they are such in contemplation of law where engaged in executing a contract of carriage.[58] In order to secure the exemption, however, it must appear that the duty as to seaworthiness or diligence was performed with respect to both vessels,[59] and that the vessels were jointly operated.[60]

To "tow" cargo is to "transport" it within the meaning of the statute.[61]

46. U S—The Humarock, supra

47. U S—Ralli v New York, etc, SS Co, N.Y, 154 F. 286, 83 C C A. 290
58 C J p 402 note 97.
Vessels within contract limitation provisions see infra § 132.

48. U S—The Chattahoochee, Mass, 19 S Ct. 491, 173 U S. 540, 43 L.Ed 801.
58 C J. p 402 note 98.

49. U S—The E A. Shores, Jr, D C Wis., 73 F 342.

50. U S—In re Piper Aden Goodall Co, D C Cal, 86 F. 670.
58 C J. p 402 note 1.

51. U S—Tice Towing Line v. James McWilliams Blue Line, D C N Y, 51 F.2d 243, modified on other grounds, C.C.A, 57 F.2d 183

52. U S—Norton v. The Richard Winslow, D C Wis, 67 F. 259, affirmed 71 F 426, 18 C C.A 344

53. U S—Sacramento Nav Co v Salz, Cal., 47 S Ct. 368, 273 U S 326, 71 L Ed. 663.
58 C J p 402 note 4.

54. U S.—Sacramento Nav. Co. v. Salz, supra—The Lehigh, D.C N Y., 12 F Supp 75

55. U S—The Bathgate, D C Pa., 19 F 2d 663, affirmed, C C A., Insurance Co. of North America v. Southern Transportation Co., 25 F. 2d 103, certiorari denied Insurance Co of North America v. The Bathgate, 48 S Ct. 437, 277 U.S. 589, 72 L.Ed 1002.
58 C J p 402 note 6.

56. U S—The Marmor, D C N.Y, 56 F Supp 435—The Lehigh, D C N. Y, 12 F.Supp 75.
58 C J. p 403 note 8.

Contrary view

(1) There were early cases holding the Harter Act inapplicable to the question of the liability of a tug for damage to the cargo of her tow. —Bradley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., D C.N.Y, 145 F. 569, affirmed 153 F. 350, 82 C.C.A. 426—58 C J. p 402 note 7 [a]

(2) However, cases expressing this view were stated to have been overruled in Sacramento Nav. Co v. Salz, Cal, 47 S Ct. 368, 273 U S 326, 71 L. Ed 663, by implication without express mention by the court in the Sacramento case—In re O'Donnell, C C A N.Y, 26 F.2d 334, 34 F.2d 925.

57. U S—In re O'Donnell, supra—The Marmor, D C N Y, 56 F Supp. 435—The McAllister Bros., D C.N. Y., 18 F Supp 106—The Lehigh, D C N.Y., 12 F.Supp 75

58. U S—The J B. Austin, Jr., D C. N.Y, 33 F 2d 215

59. U S.—In re O'Donnell, C C A.N. Y, 34 F.2d 925.
58 C J. p 403 note 12.

Loss due to unseaworthiness of tug

Where tug, because of unseaworthiness thereof, foundered while towing barge in Lake Erie and barge was thereafter destroyed in storm, owners of tug and barge were liable for loss arising from sinking of barge regardless of seaworthiness of barge or competency of her master—The Cleveco, D C.Ohio, 59 F.Supp. 71, affirmed, C.C.A., 154 F.2d 605.

60. U S.—The J B Austin, Jr., D C N.Y., 33 F.2d 215.

61. U S.—Sacramento Nav. Co. v Salz, Cal., 47 S Ct. 368, 273 U.S 326, 71 L.Ed. 663.

Proceeding in rem or in personam. The exemption is available whether the proceeding be brought in rem[62] or in personam[63]

g. Availability of Exemption as against Third Persons; Collision

The exemption provision of the Harter Act is restricted to the rights and liabilities of owners and shippers as between themselves with respect to cargo, and does not affect liability to third persons or to other vessels for maritime torts, such as collision.

The exemption provision of the Harter Act is restricted to the rights and liabilities of owners and shippers as between themselves[64] with respect to cargo,[65] and does not affect liability to third persons[66] or to other vessels[67] for maritime torts, such as collision.[68] Thus, in the case of a collision, exemption from direct responsibility of the vessel to cargo owners granted by the Harter Act does not prevent recovery by the cargo against the noncarrier,[69] and recovery by the noncarrier in part against the carrier,[70] and, where the liability of the carrier to contribute to the noncarrier exists, it has been said that it can make no difference that the owner of the cargo recovers half damages against each vessel.[71]

h. Effect of Deviation

Except with respect to a deviation to save life or property at sea, deviation renders the exemption provisions of the Harter Act inapplicable.

Except with respect to a deviation to save life or property at sea,[72] deviation so far nullifies the carrier's contract as to render the exemption provisions of the Harter Act inapplicable[73] Within the meaning of this rule, a deviation is a departure, without necessity or reasonable cause, from the regular and usual course of a voyage[74]

i. Proceedings in Which Exemption May Be Claimed

Exemption under the Harter Act may properly be claimed in a direct action for damages and in proceedings brought by the owner for limitation of liability.

Exemption under the Harter Act may properly be claimed in a direct action for damages,[75] and in proceedings brought by the owner for limitation of liability.[76]

The effect of the exemption provision of the Harter Act, with respect to the rule that the owner of the ship is not entitled to a general average contribution where the loss was occasioned by the fault of the master or crew, is considered infra § 227.

j. Waiver of Benefits

The benefits of the Harter Act may be waived by the shipowner.

The benefits of the Harter Act may be waived by the shipowner[77] Thus, the carrier may by contract waive the statutory right to exemption.[78] Where 62. U.S.—Insurance Co. of North America v. Southern Transp. Co., C.C.A.Pa., 25 F.2d 103, certiorari denied Insurance Co. of North America v. The Bathgate, 48 S Ct 437, 277 U.S. 589, 72 L Ed 1002.

58 C.J. p 403 note 15.

63. U.S—The Bathgate, D.C.Pa., 19 F 2d 663, affirmed, C C A., Insurance Co. of North America v. Southern Transportation Co, 25 F. 2d 103, certiorari denied Insurance Co of North America v The Bathgate, 48 S Ct. 437, 277 U S 589, 72 L Ed 1002.

64. U S—The Delaware, N.Y., 16 S Ct. 516, 161 U.S. 459, 40 L Ed. 77—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. The Berkshire, D C R I, 59 F. 1007.

65. U S—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v The Berkshire, supra.

66. U S.—Norfolk, etc., R Co. v. The Berkshire, supra.

67. U S.—The Delaware, N.Y., 16 S. Ct. 516, 161 U S. 459, 40 L.Ed. 771.

68. U.S—The Cockatoo, C.C.A N Y., 61 F.2d 889, certiorari denied Howard v. Randall & McAllister, 53 S Ct. 292, 287 U.S. 669, 77 L Ed 576.
58 C.J. p 403 note 22.

69. U.S—U. S. v Farr Sugar Corp., C A.N.Y., 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U. S. v. Atlantic Mut Ins Co., 72 S. Ct 666, 343 U S 236, 96 L Ed. ——
—The Cockatoo, C C A.N.Y, 61 F. 2d 889, certiorari denied Howard v Randall & McAllister, 53 S Ct 292, 287 U S 669, 77 L Ed 576.

70. U.S—U. S. v. Farr Sugar Corp, C A N Y, 191 F 2d 370, affirmed U. S v. Atlantic Mut Ins. Co., 72 S Ct 666, 343 U S 236, 96 L Ed ——
—The Cockatoo, C C.A.N Y, 61 F 2d 889, certiorari denied Howard v. Randall & McAllister, 53 S.Ct 292, 287 U S 669, 77 L Ed. 576.

71. U S—The Cockatoo, C C.A N Y, 61 F 2d 889, certiorari denied Howard v Randall & McAllister, 53 S Ct 292, 287 U S. 669, 77 L Ed. 576

72. U S—U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp. v Rosenberg, C C.A.Cal., 12 F.2d 721, reversed on other grounds 48 S Ct. 256, 276 U.S 202, 72 L Ed 531

73. U S—U. S v City of New York, D C.N Y., 8 F 2d 270.
58 C J. p 403 note 25.
Deviation generally see infra § 144

74. U S—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Buckeye S. S Co, C C A Ohio, 70 F.2d 136, certiorari denied 55 S Ct 74, 293 U S 562, 79 L.Ed. 663.

Acts held not deviation

(1) Stopping for a few minutes by a lake vessel at island passed on route to take on additional coal in accordance with custom was held not a "deviation" although coal was not needed to reach port or to meet any expected emergency.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Buckeye S. S. Co, supra

(2) Stowage of cargo in trunk hatch which was battened down like all other hatches, although opening in it was eight feet higher than in the others, was held not a "deviation" in stowage—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Buckeye S S Co, supra.

75. U S.—In re California Nav, etc, Co, D C Cal., 110 F 678

76. U S—In re California Nav., etc., Co, supra.
Limitation of liability see infra §§ 239–257.

77. U S—The Grecian, C.C A N.Y., 78 F.2d 657.

78. U.S—Dreyfus v. Hedger Transp. Co., D C N.Y, 60 F.2d 571—Canadian Co-op. Wheat Producers v. Murphy & Hoffman, D C.N Y, 52 F. 2d 496—Dreyfus v. Marine Transit Corp, C C.A.N Y, 49 F 2d 215.
58 C J. p 404 note 33.

a charterer has assumed the marine risk of loss on the cargo, under the Harter Act he has been denied recovery against the owner on jettison following a nonnegligent stranding.[79]

§ 128. —— Causes of Loss or Damage within Exemption

a. In general
b. Unseaworthiness
c Improper navigation or management of ship
d. Dangers of sea
e. Seizure under legal process
f Saving life or property at sea
g. Inherent defect of cargo
h. Latent defects

a. In General

The carrier will not be held liable for loss or damage which is caused by one of the exceptions enumerated by statute unless it appears that its negligence contributed to the damage. The exemption from liability is limited to loss or damage arising from the causes specified by statute.

The carrier will not be held liable for loss or damage which is caused by one of the exceptions enumerated by statute[80] unless it appears that its negligence contributed to the damage.[81] The exemption from liability is limited to loss or damage arising from the causes specified by statute,[82] and will not be extended by implication to include exemption from liability for loss or damage arising from nonspecified causes[83] The carrier is relieved from liability for loss from an excepted cause only if in the course of the voyage he has used due care to guard against it[84] The exemption under the Harter Act is unavailable where the proximate cause of damage is a negligent act or omission in connection with the care and custody of cargo,[85] especially where other statutory provisions forbid insertion in the shipping contract of clauses exempting the carrier from liability for negligence with respect to care and custody of cargo.[86]

b. Unseaworthiness

(1) Under the Harter Act
(2) Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act

(1) Under the Harter Act

The Harter Act does not relieve the shipowner from the general duty to furnish a seaworthy vessel at the beginning of the voyage, change general rules as to warranty of seaworthiness, or affect general liability for damages to the cargo arising from unseaworthiness.

The Harter Act does not relieve the shipowner from the general duty to furnish a seaworthy vessel at the beginning of the voyage[87] and substitute therefor the less extensive obligation to use due diligence,[88] or change general rules as to warranty

Contracts providing that statutory exemption will apply in cases not within statute by own force see infra § 131.
Statutory restriction on right to contract for exemption see infra § 132

Contractual provision including marine insurance
Under steamship bills of lading providing that the rates named included marine insurance and that the carrier assumed liability for loss or damage caused by perils of the seas and lakes, fire, collision, stranding, jettisons, pirates, assailing thieves, barratry, and other perils or misfortunes to the hurt or damage of the property including general average charges and expenses, but excluding risks of riots, war, or insurrections, the carrier waived the saving clauses of the statute and assumed full liability to cargo owners for loss or damage caused by marine perils—Great Lakes Transit Corp. v Interstate S S. Co., Ohio, 57 S Ct 915, 301 U S. 646, 81 L Ed. 1318.

Waiver under Canadian statute
Where under Canadian statute burden of proving unseaworthiness of vessel was cast on cargo owner and rules annexed to statute permitted carrier to surrender right provided such surrender was embodied in bill of lading issued to shipper, the rules imported the necessity of an explicit provision for a waiver or at least some provision from which a modification of the statutory rights must necessarily be inferred.—The Aarkes, D C N Y., 31 F Supp 8, affirmed, C C A., 122 F.2d 469.

79. U S.—Lewis v. Kotzebue Trading, etc., Co., D.C Wash, 236 F. 997.

80. U.S —George F Pettinos, Inc., v American Export Lines, D C.Pa, 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C C A., 159 F.2d 247—The Vale Royal, D C Md., 51 F.Supp. 412.

Insufficiency of packing
The carrier is not liable for loss due to insufficiency of packing—The Rita Sister, D.C Pa., 69 F.Supp 480—The M V Silversandal, D C.N.Y, 26 F Supp 61, affirmed, C C.A., Bache v. Silver Line, 110 F.2d 60.

81. U.S.—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa, 68 F.Supp 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F. 2d 247—The Vale Royal, D C.Md, 51 F.Supp. 412.

82. U.S.—Farr, etc., Mfg. Co. v International Nav Co., D.C Pa., 94 F. 675, reversed on other grounds 98 F 636, 39 C C A. 197, affirmed 21 S Ct 591, 181 U S 218, 45 L Ed 830—Spreckles Sugar Co v. South Atlantic S. S. Line, D C.Ga., 49 F. Supp. 714.

83. Tex—Mallory SS. Co. v. Harriss-Irby Cotton Co, Civ.App, 204 S W. 789.
58 C.J. p 395 note 67.

84. U S—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S Ct. 194, 293 U S. 296, 79 L Ed. 373.

85. U S—W. T. Lockett Co. v. Cunard SS. Co., D.C N Y., 21 F 2d 191.
58 C.J p 396 note 84.

86. U S—The Jean Bart, D C.Cal., 197 F. 1002—The Germanic, D C N. Y., 124 F. 1, 59 C C A 521, affirmed 25 S Ct. 317, 196 U S 589, 49 L Ed. 610.

87. U S.—The Silvia, N Y, 19 S.Ct. 7, 171 U.S 462, 43 L Ed. 241.
58 C.J. p 395 note 69.
Duty of carrier to furnish seaworthy vessel generally see infra § 140.

88. U.S —The C. W. Elphicke, D.C. N.Y., 117 F. 279, affirmed 122 F. 439, 58 C.C.A. 421.
58 C.J. p 396 note 70.

of seaworthiness;[89] and it does not affect the shipowner's general liability for damages to the cargo arising from unseaworthiness.[90]

(2) Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, neither the carrier nor the ship is liable for loss resulting from unseaworthiness unless caused by a failure to exercise due diligence to make the ship seaworthy, but where the ship was in fact unseaworthy at the time she sailed, her owner can be exculpated from liability only if due diligence was exercised to make her seaworthy.

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1304(1), neither the carrier nor the ship is liable for loss resulting from unseaworthiness unless caused by a failure to exercise due diligence to make the ship seaworthy,[91] but where the ship was in fact unseaworthy at the time she sailed, her owner can be exculpated from liability only if due diligence was exercised to make her seaworthy.[92] The statutory exemption does not apply where the damage proximately resulted from the unseaworthiness of the vessel at the beginning of the voyage due to the failure of the shipowner and his agents to exercise due diligence,[93] and in this situation there is no substantial difference between the liability of the ship under the Harter Act and the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act.[94] If there is any doubt as to the unseaworthiness of the vessel, that doubt must be resolved against the shipowner.[95]

The obligation of the carrier is to use due diligence,[96] and the carrier is not relieved from this obligation by the provisions of freight tariff rules certified by the Interstate Commerce Commission.[97] The obligation to use due diligence,[98] and the measure of due diligence,[99] to make the vessel seaworthy are the same under the Harter Act and the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, and the words "due diligence" as used in the latter act have the same mean-

89. U.S.—The Turret Crown, C.C.A. N.Y., 297 F. 766, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 403, 264 U.S. 591, 68 L.Ed. 865

58 C.J. p. 396 note 71

Warranty of seaworthiness generally see infra § 140.

90. U.S.—The Cleveco, C.C.A. Ohio, 154 F.2d 605—The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S.S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L.Ed. 1500—Dexter-Carpenter Coal Co. v. New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 270—Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 49 F.2d 700, affirming, D.C., The Elkton, 35 F.2d 49.

58 C.J. p. 396 note 72.

91. U.S.—General Foods Corp. v. The Troubador, D.C.N.Y., 98 F. Supp. 207—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F.Supp. 412—The Cyprıa, D.C.N.Y., 46 F.Supp. 816, affirmed, C.C.A., Ore S.S. Corp. v. D/S. A/S. Hassel, 137 F.2d 326—The Zarembo, D.C.N.Y., 44 F.Supp. 915, affirmed, C.C.A., Balfour Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. The Zarembo, 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U.S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486—Mente & Co. v. Isthmian S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 36 F. Supp. 278, affirmed, C.C.A., The Quarrington Court, 122 F.2d 266

Facts held not to show unseaworthiness

U.S.—The Temple Bar, C.C.A.Md., 137 F.2d 293.

Similar provisions of Canadian Water Carriage of Goods Act of 1936 construed

U.S.—Middleton & Co. (Canada), Limited, v. Ocean Dominion S.S. Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 137 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 432, 320 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 484—The Aakre, C.C.A.N.Y., 122 F.2d 469, certiorari denied Waterman v. The Aakre, 62 S.Ct. 360, 314 U.S. 690, 86 L.Ed. 552

92. U.S.—Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U.S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486.

Ship held unseaworthy

(1) As to pipe and valve, where steamship sank by flooding following a break in main injection pipe and concurrent jamming of main injection valve.—Mente & Co. v. Isthmian S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 36 F.Supp. 278, affirmed, C.C.A., The Quarrington Court, 122 F.2d 266

(2) Where vessel operating where zero and sub-zero temperatures were to be expected, had an unprotected three-fourths inch water line in the cargo hold.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C. Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520.

(3) Where vessel had a frozen water line in her cargo hold when the hatches were closed and battened.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., supra

(4) Where there was a leaky steam line in cargo space utilized for banana powder.—Sanib Corp. v. United Fruit Co., D.C.N.Y., 74 F. Supp. 64.

93. U.S.—The Hill, D.C.Md., 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470—The Cyprıa, D.C.N.Y., 46 F. Supp. 816, affirmed, C.C.A., Ore S.S. Corp. v. D/S A/S. Hassel, 137 F. 2d 326—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C. Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520

94. U.S.—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470

Necessity of seaworthiness or diligence under Harter Act see supra § 127 b.

Standards or requirements

The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act does not reduce the standards by which the seaworthiness of a vessel is to be tested, or the requirements which constitute exercise of due diligence.—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F. 2d 293—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C.Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520.

95. U.S.—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898.

96. U.S.—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F.Supp. 412—The Vermont, D.C.N.Y., 47 F.Supp. 877.

97. U.S.—The Vermont, supra

Particular rules held not to relieve carrier from obligation

U.S.—The Vermont, supra.

98. U.S.—The Zarembo, D.C.N.Y., 44 F.Supp. 915, affirmed, C.C.A., Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. The Zarembo, 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U.S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486.

99. U.S.—The Hill, D.C.Md., 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470

Character and extent of diligence required under Harter Act see supra § 127 c.

ing as that assigned to them in decisions construing the words as used in the Harter Act.[1] Due diligence within the provision is that diligence which would or should have been exercised under the circumstances by a competent vessel owner[2] and prudent officers of the ship,[3] and it depends on the facts and circumstances of the particular case.[4] The duty of the owner is not satisfied by delegating it to a third person,[5] or to the master or crew of the ship,[6] although the master and crew must also exercise due diligence[7] in the use of the equipment of the vessel before and at the beginning of the voyage.[8] A mere superficial inspection of the ship is insufficient to establish an exercise of due diligence on the part of the owner to make her seaworthy.[9]

The shipowner and the crew must be held to familiarity with the particular construction and design of the ship and its apparatus, and with the characteristics and effect of the particular cargoes which the vessel carries,[10] and when loss occurs due to a combination of facts arising from particularities or peculiarities of ship construction in combination with cargo carried, it is not a sufficient defense to the ship to plead ignorance of the ship's agents with respect to such matters.[11] Factors which enter into the test of seaworthiness include the nature of the cargo,[12] the time of the year in which it is to be carried,[13] and the conditions reasonably to be expected at that time of year.[14] General practice is not necessarily the test by which seaworthiness is to be determined,[15] and the practice of carriers of nonperishable cargoes is not necessarily relevant in determining the seaworthiness of a vessel transporting perishable cargoes.[16] Furthermore, an installation which may have been considered proper thirty years ago is not necessarily the standard by which seaworthiness is to be measured today.[17]

c. Improper Navigation or Management of Ship

(1) In general
(2) What constitutes navigation or management of ship

(1) In General

Under the Harter Act shipowners are exempt from liability for loss resulting from faults or errors in the navigation or management of the ship where compliance

1. U.S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C Mich, 32 F Supp. 520

2. U S —General Foods Corp. v The Troubador, D.C.N.Y., 98 F Supp. 207—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C Mich., 32 F Supp. 520

Acts held not to constitute due diligence

U.S —The Bill, D C Md., 47 F.Supp 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc, 145 F.2d 470

Requirements of due diligence held satisfied

U S —Mente & Co v. Isthmian S. S. Co, D C N Y, 36 F Supp 278, affirmed, C C A., The Quarrington Court, 122 F.2d 266.

3. U S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp, D C. Mich, 32 F Supp 520.

4. U S —The Bill, D C.Md, 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C C.A., Lorentzen v Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F 2d 470

5. U S —The Otho, D C N Y., 49 F Supp. 945, affirmed, C C A., Huilever, S A Division, Huileries Du Congo Belge v. The Otho, 139 F.2d 748, certiorari denied American West African Line v. Huilever, S A. Division Huileries Du Congo Belge, 64 S Ct. 1047, 322 U S 735, 88 L Ed 1568—The Zarembo, D C. N.Y., 44 F Supp 915, affirmed, C C. A, Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. The Zarembo, 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U S 804, 88 L Ed 486 —Mente & Co v Isthmian S. S. Co, D C N.Y., 36 F Supp. 278, affirmed, C C A., The Quarrington Court, 122 F 2d 266

Loading of dangerous cargo

Where water common carrier accepted cargo of ammonium nitrate fertilizer which was extremely dangerous cargo because of possibility of internal combustion and explosion, reliance by carrier upon general supervision of loading of fertilizer by local fire department, Coast Guard, and representatives of New York Board of Underwriters, was not sufficient diligence with respect to safety of general cargo to relieve carrier of liability for damage to cargo which resulted from fire and explosion several days after vessel left United States—Accinanto, Limited v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D.C Md, 99 F Supp. 261.

6. U S —The Bill, D C.Md, 47 F. Supp 969, affirmed, C C A., Lorentzen v Brazil Oiticica, Inc, 145 F 2d 470.

7. U S —The Bill, D C Md, 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C C.A, Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc, 145 F 2d 470—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D C Mich, 32 F.Supp. 520.

8. U S —Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp, supra.

9. U.S —Ore Steamship Corp. v. D/S A/S Hassel, C.C A N.Y, 137 F.2d 326—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa, 63 F. Supp. 898.

10. U S —The Bill, D.C Md., 47 F Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C A, Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470.

11. U.S —The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F. 2d 470

Want of conscious or intentional negligence held insufficient

U S —The Bill, D.C.Md, 47 F.Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C A, Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470.

12. U S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C. Mich, 32 F.Supp 520.

13. U S —Spencer Kellogg & Sons v Great Lakes Transit Corp., supra.

14. U.S —Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., supra

15. U S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v Great Lakes Transit Corp, supra

16. U S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., supra.

Uninsulated water line in cargo hold

The practice of carriers of nonperishable cargoes, such as stone, coal and ore, not to insulate water lines in cargo holds on the Great Lakes, was not relevant in determining seaworthiness of vessel transporting cargo of wheat, as regards liability for damage to wheat caused when water line in cargo hold froze and permitted water to drain into cargo. —Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp, supra.

17. U S —Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp, supra

with the rule as to seaworthiness or diligence has been shown. The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act carries on the policy of the Harter Act but it removes the condition of due diligence.

Exemption will be granted under the provision of the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 192, exempting owners from liability for loss resulting from "faults or errors" in the navigation or management of the ship, where compliance has been shown with the rule as to seaworthiness or diligence with respect thereto, and where it further appears that the proximate cause of the loss or damage was improper navigation or management to which the owner was not personally privy;[18] but the statutory exemption has been held not to apply in the absence of negligence on the part of the crew or a member thereof.[19] The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act of 1936, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1300 et seq, carries on the policy of the Harter Act, but it removes the condition of due diligence for the exemption from liability of the carrier or ship for "act, neglect, or default of the master, mariner, pilot, or the servants of the carrier in the navigation or in the management of the ship."[20] It has been held that, under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, where unseaworthiness of the vessel, caused by the failure of the carrier to exercise due diligence, and negligence in the management of the ship concur in causing the loss, the carrier is liable for the loss.[21]

Words "fault" or "error," as used in the Harter Act, are not synonymous,[22] but signify different causes or circumstances of loss.[23] "Fault" imports blame,[24] while "error" may arise from ignorance or mistake alone.[25]

Proximate cause of loss In order to secure exemption based on negligence in the navigation or management of the ship, it is necessary to show that such negligence was the proximate cause of loss.[26]

(2) What Constitutes Navigation or Management of Ship

(a) In general

(b) Equipment

(c) Stranding or striking obstructions

(a) In General

Where the act or omission alleged as a cause of loss related primarily to the ship it will be classified as one of navigation or management, but where it related primarily to other things, the fact that it incidentally affected the ship will not change its classification to that of navigation or management. Negligent acts or omissions affecting cargo may or may not be faults or errors of navigation or management in accordance with the circumstances involved.

The words "in the navigation or in the management of the ship" as used in the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act have the same meaning as that assigned to them in the decisions construing these words as used in the Harter Act.[27] Under the Harter Act

18. U S —Luria Bros. & Co. v. Eastern Transp. Co, C.C.A.N.Y., 89 F.2d 900—Ravenscroft v. U. S, C.C.A.N.Y., 88 F.2d 418, certiorari denied 57 S Ct. 940, 301 U.S. 707, 81 L Ed 1361—The James Griffiths, C C.A. Wash, 84 F.2d 785, certiorari denied Sperry Flour Co v. Coastwise Steamship & Barge Co, 57 S Ct 315, 299 U.S. 612, 81 L Ed. 452, rehearing denied 57 S Ct. 430, 300 U S 686, 81 L Ed. 888—U. S v Los Angeles Soap Co, C C A Cal., 83 F. 2d 875—U S Steel Products Co v. American & Foreign Ins Co., C C.A N.Y., 82 F 2d 752—Kalbfleisch Corporation v. U S., D C Mass, 53 F.2d 867—Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 49 F.2d 700—U. S. v. The Esso Belgium, Atlantic Mut Ins. Co, Intervener, D.C.N.Y, 90 F Supp 836, reversed on other grounds, C.A., U. S. v. Farr Sugar Corp, 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U. S. v. Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co, 72 S.Ct 666, 343 U.S 236, 96 L Ed. —— —Atlantic Towing Co. v. The Caliche, D.C.Ga., 47 F.Supp 610—The Havana, D.C N.Y., 45 F. Supp. 244—Daisy Philippine Underwear Co. v. U. S. Steel Products Co., D.C.N.Y., 11 F Supp. 175, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. Steel Products Co. v. American & Foreign Ins. Co, 82 F 2d 752—The Indien, D C Cal., 5 F Supp. 349, affirmed, C C.A., 71 F 2d 752

58 C J. p 396 note 89, p 397 note 90

Immunities granted under Harter Act as dependent on exercise of due diligence to make vessel seaworthy in general see supra § 127 b (1).

Injury to merchandise on towed ship due to fault or error in navigation or management of towing vessel see supra § 127 f (2).

19. U.S —The Indien, C.C A Cal, 71 F.2d 752

20. U S —U. S. v. Farr Sugar Corp, C.A N Y., 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U. S. v. Atlantic Mut Ins. Co, 72 S.Ct. 666, 343 U S. 236, 96 L Ed. ——

Exemptions of Carriage of Goods by Sea Act as not conditioned on due diligence to make vessel seaworthy generally see supra § 126 b.

Policy expressed by statutes of Canada and United States

The policy of Canada, as expressed in the Canadian Water Carriage of Goods Act, and of the United States, as expressed in its Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, as to the merchant marine, accords to water carrier full protection against negligent navigation of its own servants.—The Aakre, C C A.N.Y., 122 F 2d 469, certiorari denied Waterman v The Aakre, 62 S Ct. 360, 314 U.S. 690, 86 L Ed 552.

21. U S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v Great Lakes Transit Corp, D.C Mich, 32 F Supp 520.

Liability under Carriage of Goods by Sea Act for injury resulting from unseaworthiness of vessel caused by failure of carrier to exercise due diligence generally see supra subdivision b (2) of this section.

22. U S —The Manitoba, D.C N Y, 104 F. 145

23. U S —The Manitoba, supra.

24. U.S —The Manitoba, supra.

25. U.S —The Manitoba, supra.

26. U.S —The Manitoba, supra.

58 C J. p 400 note 53.

Unseaworthiness as concurring cause

If facts disclose unseaworthiness resulting from vessel owner's failure to exercise due diligence to make vessel seaworthy, which concurs with negligent navigation in causing the loss, owner will be liable —The Temple Bar, D.C Md., 45 F.Supp 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F 2d 293

27. U.S —Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C. Mich., 32 F Supp 520.

one of the tests used in determining whether an act constitutes negligence in the management of the ship is the purpose for which the act was done or left undone.[28] Where the act or omission alleged as a cause of loss related primarily to the ship, it will be classified as one of navigation or management,[29] but where the act or omission related primarily to other things, the fact that it incidentally affected the ship will not change its classification to that of navigation or management.[30]

Care and custody of cargo generally. Negligent acts or omissions affecting cargo may or may not be faults or errors of navigation or management, in accordance with the circumstances involved.[31] The test is the primary purpose involved.[32] If such primary purpose was navigation or management of the ship, the fact that the act or omission incidentally affected cargo will not destroy the right to exemption;[33] on the other hand, the fact that an act performed primarily in connection with cargo incidentally affects the ship does not make it an act of navigation or management.[34] Exemption sought as for improper navigation and management of the ship will be denied where it appears that the substantial cause of loss was negligence in the care or custody of cargo,[35] such as improper handling,[36] loading,[37] unloading,[38] stowage,[39] or delivery[40] of cargo.

Change of course. Any error of the master as to the advisability of a change of course relates to the navigation of the ship.[41]

Compass and navigational data. Obtaining sufficient compass data,[42] as by supplementing an insufficient deviation record,[43] relates to navigation and not to seaworthiness, so that any fault or error in such respect is ground for exemption.[44] Failure to supply adequate charts, light lists, and similar navigational data, or navigation without it, may constitute negligent navigation or management for which the officers of the ship are chargeable;[45] but

28. U.S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v Great Lakes Transit Corp., supra

Mere visual examination of ship's cargo port by owner's representatives, without moving cargo, after collision with wall, was held not error in management, but lack of due diligence to make ship seaworthy.—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 900.

29. U.S.—Ravenscroft v U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 88 F.2d 418, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct. 940, 301 U.S. 707, 81 L.Ed 1361.
58 C.J. p 397 note 98.

Failure to give distress signals
U.S.—Luria Bros & Co v. Eastern Transp. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 89 F.2d 900

Failure to replace cap on sounding pipe
U.S.—The Point Chico, D.C.Tex., 32 F.Supp. 484, affirmed, C.C.A., 122 F. 2d 1.

Negligent puncture of soil pipe after ship left port U.S.—The J. L. Luckenbach, C.C.A. N.Y., 65 F.2d 570, affirming, D.C., 1 F.Supp. 692.

Selecting unsafe anchorage
U.S.—Luria Bros & Co v. Eastern Transp. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 89 F.2d 900.

30. U.S.—The Jean Bart, D.C.Cal., 197 F. 1002—The Germanic, D.C.N.Y., 124 F. 1, 59 C.C.A. 521, affirmed 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed 610.

31. U.S.—The Germanic, D.C.N.Y., 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed 610—Jay Wai Nam v Anglo-American Oil Co., Cal., 202 F. 822, 121 C.C.A. 130.

32. U.S.—Ravenscroft v U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 88 F.2d 418, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct 940, 301 U.S. 707, 81 L.Ed. 1361
58 C.J. p 397 note 6.

33. U.S.—Ravenscroft v. U. S., supra.
58 C.J. p 397 note 7.

34. U.S.—The Jean Bart, D.C.Cal., 197 F. 1002—The Germanic, D.C.N.Y., 124 F. 1, 59 C.C.A. 521, affirmed 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed 610

35. U.S.—Ravenscroft v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 88 F.2d 418, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct 940, 301 U.S. 707, 81 L.Ed 1361
58 C.J. p 397 note 9

Attending hatches and ventilators is not a matter of ship's management but care of cargo.—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp 168, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999.

Negligent failure to ventilate cargo was held not fault or error in navigation or management of vessel from consequences of which vessel would be relieved by statute, since management involved was management of cargo, not management of vessel within the act.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed 373—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32.

Failure to close valve in water line which resulted in damage to cargo from a break in the line has been held not negligence in the management of the ship but negligence in the care and custody of the cargo.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C.Mich., 32 F. Supp. 520

36. U.S.—The Breedijk, D.C.Md., 22 F.2d 328.

37. U.S.—The Oneida, N.Y., 128 F. 687, 63 C.C.A. 239, certiorari denied 24 S.Ct. 856, 194 U.S. 632, 48 L. Ed 1159—The Germanic, D.C.Cal., 124 F. 1, 59 C.C.A. 521, affirmed 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed. 610.

38. U.S.—The Germanic, N.Y., 124 F. 1, 59 C.C.A. 521, affirmed 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed. 610.
58 C.J. p 397 note 12.

39. U.S.—The Willfaro, D.C.Cal., 9 F.2d 940, affirmed, C.C.A., Williams SS Co v Wilbur, 9 F.2d 622, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 482, 271 U. S. 666, 70 L.Ed. 1140
58 C.J. p 397 note 13.
Improper stowage generally see infra § 141.

40. U.S.—The Germanic, D.C.Cal. 124 F. 1, 59 C.C.A. 521, affirmed 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed 610

41. U.S.—Corsar v. Spreckels, Cal., 141 F. 260, 72 C.C.A. 378.
58 C.J. p 398 note 16.

42. U.S.—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075.

43. U.S.—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F. 2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075.

44. U.S.—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075.

45. U.S.—The Maria, C.C.A.Va., 91 F.2d 819.

it does not follow that the owner is thereby relieved by the Harter Act from liability from ensuing disaster, because the same circumstances may also amount to failure on his part to use due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy.[46]

Hold. Damage arising from negligent failure to inspect,[47] or otherwise ascertain conditions in[48] the ship's hold, results from a fault or error in the management of the ship.

Repairs during voyage. Fault or error of the master as to the necessity for,[49] or extent of,[50] repairs after injury to the ship during the voyage relates to the management of the ship.

Time and manner of leaving port. The navigation and management of a vessel within the meaning of the exemption statutes include the determination of the time[51] and manner[52] of leaving port, which is the prerogative of the master. Where a vessel is seaworthy and in all respects properly manned, equipped, and supplied, the owners are not liable for a loss or damage to cargo due to a peril of the seas, even though the exposure to such peril was through the fault of the master in failing to ascertain or heed the warnings of the weather bureau before starting on the voyage.[53] Where the owner was personally privy to the negligence, however, exemption will be denied.[54] Leaving harbor without a pilot is, if a pilot was necessary, an error of management or navigation.[55]

Trimming ship. Acts performed for the purpose of trimming ship relate to navigation or management,[56] unless it appears that the primary purpose of such acts was to accomplish something relating to cargo.[57]

(b) Equipment

The "navigation" and "management" of the ship include the control, during the voyage, of everything with which the vessel is equipped for the purpose of protecting her and her cargo against the inroad of the seas; but failure to have equipment in good condition for use at the commencement of the voyage is a want of due diligence, and not a fault in the navigation or management of the ship.

The "navigation" and "management" of the ship, as such words are used in the statutes granting exemption for negligence with respect thereto, include the control, during the voyage, of everything with which the vessel is equipped for the purpose of protecting her and her cargo against the inroad of the seas.[58] Failure to have equipment in good condition for use at the commencement of the voyage is a want of due diligence,[59] and not a fault in the navigation or management of the ship.[60] The furnishing of proper refrigerating apparatus for the safe transportation of cargo requiring refrigeration

46. U.S.—The Maria, supra.
Duty of due diligence to render the ship seaworthy as including the furnishing of charts, light lists, and other navigational data generally see supra § 127 c (1)

47. U.S.—Ravenscroft v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 88 F.2d 418, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct. 940, 301 U.S. 707, 81 L.Ed. 1361.
58 C.J. p 399 note 40.

48. U.S.—The British King, N.Y., 92 F. 1018, 35 C.C.A. 159.
58 C.J. p 399 note 41

Suspected fire

(1) Even if captain was negligent in causing steam and water to be let into hold at sea, and under mistaken belief that cotton in hold was on fire, without first inspecting hold, resulting damage to cotton could not be recovered since cotton was damaged primarily in management of ship in effort to save ship from what seemed to be impending disaster from fire.—Ravenscroft v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 88 F.2d 418, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct. 940, 301 U.S. 707, 81 L.Ed. 1361.

(2) Where fire was erroneously thought to be smoldering in cotton and cotton was wet at sea to extinguish fire, damage due to additional wetting, after ship reached port as required to securing permission to dock, could not be recovered since additional wetting was required as part of management of ship.—Ravenscroft v. U. S., supra.

49. U.S.—Corsar v. J. D. Spreckels, etc., Co., Cal., 141 F. 260, 72 C.C.A. 378.
58 C.J. p 399 note 42.

50. U.S.—The Guadeloupe, D.C.N.Y., 92 F. 670
58 C.J. p 400 note 43.

51. U.S.—Hanson v. Haywood Bros., etc., Co., Ill., 152 F. 401, 81 C.C.A. 527.

52. U.S.—Hanson v. Haywood Bros., etc., Co., supra

Unberthing without tug's assistance

Master's fault, if any, in unberthing steamer without tugs' assistance, with result that vessel swung against piling at end of pier when struck by ebb tide, causing leak in drain pipe, was error of navigation within protection of Harter Act.—The Harry Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 507.

53. U.S.—Hanson v. Haywood Bros., etc., Co., Ill., 152 F. 401, 81 C.C.A. 527.

54. U.S.—Texas, etc., SS. Co. v. Parker, C.C.A.Tex., 263 F. 864, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 485, 253 U.S. 488, 64 L.Ed. 1026.
58 C.J. p 400 note 49.

Consultation at port of refuge

Where at port of refuge vessel was boarded by agent of operators, port superintendent, and other officials of United States Shipping Board, who discussed ways and means of handling damage to ship and cargo, if vessel sailed from such port in unseaworthy condition, fault would be attributable to shipowner and could not be regarded as fault of navigation or management within exceptions of Harter Act.—U.S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875.

55. U.S.—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075.

56. U.S.—Jay Wai Nam v. Anglo-American Oil Co., Cal., 202 F. 822, 121 C.C.A. 130.

57. U.S.—The Germanic, N.Y., 25 S.Ct. 317, 196 U.S. 589, 49 L.Ed. 610.
58 C.J. p 400 note 52.

58. U.S.—The McAllister Bros., D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 106.
58 C.J. p 398 note 19.

59. U.S.—Stahl v. The Niagara, N.Y., 84 F. 902, 28 C.C.A. 528.

60. U.S.—Stahl v. The Niagara, supra
58 C.J. p 398 note 22.

is within the general duty of due diligence as to seaworthiness.[61]

Failure to use Where the failure to use equipment occurs at the beginning of the voyage, and where it further appears that such failure rendered the ship unseaworthy, the negligence is a breach of the duty of diligence,[62] and exemption cannot be secured on the ground that failure to use equipment was a mere fault or error in navigation or management.[63] The act or omission is a fault or error of navigation serving as a proper basis for exemption, however, where the failure to use equipment occurs during the course of the voyage,[64] or where, although originating at the commencement of the voyage, such failure did not become operative as negligence until a later period.[65] Thus, if the ship is well found in hull and gear, but the master and crew know that she is not made ready as she rides, and expect to fit her with what is at hand when the occasion arises, it is an error of management if they fail to do so.[66]

In accordance with the foregoing principles, exemption has been granted or denied where the loss resulted from negligent failure to close a port,[67] cover a hatch,[68] fasten a hold cover,[69] open a sluice gate,[70] screw plugs in sounding pipes,[71] or use pumps[72]

Negligent or improper use. The negligent use of proper equipment of the ship, operating as a cause of loss, is a fault or error in navigation or management, serving as legal basis for exemption[73] So use of equipment without test reasonably necessary to show whether it was in proper working condition is a fault or error in navigation or management.[74] Improper use of refrigerating apparatus designed primarily for cooling cargo is not ground for exemption, because the negligence relates to care and custody of cargo rather than to management of the ship.[75]

(c) Stranding or Striking Obstructions

Negligence in the stranding of a ship or in striking an obstruction is a fault or error in the navigation or management of the ship.

Exemption will be granted as for a fault or error in navigation or management of the ship, where damage results from negligence in the stranding of the ship[76] or in striking an obstruction.[77]

Jettison. It has been held that, where the proximate cause of loss is a voluntary jettison of cargo

61. U S—Martin v. The Southwark, Pa, 24 S.Ct 1, 191 U S. 1, 48 L.Ed. 65.
58 C.J p 399 note 37.

62. U S.—International Nav Co. v Farr, etc, Mfg Co, Pa, 21 S Ct. 591, 181 U S 218, 45 L Ed 830—The Asuarca, D C N Y, 291 F. 73, affirmed, C.C.A., 291 F 77.

63. U S—International Nav Co v Farr, etc, Mfg Co, Pa, 21 S.Ct. 591, 181 U S. 218, 45 L Ed. 830.
58 C J p 398 note 24.

64. U S.—The British King, N Y., 92 F 1018, 35 C C.A. 159—The Sandfield, N.Y, 92 F 663, 34 C C A. 612.

65. U S—The Silvia, N Y, 19 S Ct. 7, 171 U S. 462, 43 L Ed 241.

Canadian Water Carriage of Goods Act

Failure of officers of Norwegian vessel, which was stranded while carrying goods to Bermuda under bills of lading incorporating Canadian Water Carriage of Goods Act to bring chart which was aboard vessel up to date, or otherwise to use the information available when navigating in vicinity of Bermuda, was a "fault in navigation or management," for which carrier was not liable—Middleton & Co (Canada), Limited, v Ocean Dominion S S Corp., C.C A.N.Y., 137 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 432, 320 U.S. 802, 88 L Ed 484.

66. U.S—Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U. S., C.C A. N Y., 49 F 2d 700.

67. U S—The Silvia, N.Y, 19 S.Ct. 7, 171 U S 462, 43 L Ed. 241.
58 C J. p 398 note 29.

68. U S—The Mississippi, N Y., 120 F 1020, 56 C C A 525.
58 C J. p 398 note 30.

69. U S.—The Steel Navigator, C.C. A N.Y., 23 F 2d 590.
58 C.J p 398 note 31

70. U.S.—The Sandfield, N.Y, 92 F. 663, 34 C C A 612.
58 C.J. p 398 note 32.

71. U S—The Carisbrook, D C Mass, 247 F. 583.
58 C.J p 398 note 33.

72. U S—The Ontario, D C N.Y, 106 F. 324, affirmed 115 F. 769, 53 C C.A. 199.
58 C J. p 398 note 34.

73. U.S—The McAllister Bros., D.C N.Y, 18 F Supp. 106
58 C.J p 399 note 35.

Charts, light books, and supplements

U S—Daisy Philippine Underwear Co. v. U. S. Steel Products Co, D. C N Y, 11 F Supp 175, affirmed, C C.A., U. S. Steel Products Co v American & Foreign Ins Co, 82 F 2d 752.

74. U S.—The Mexican Prince, D.C N.Y., 82 F. 484, affirmed 91 F. 1003, 34 C C A. 168, certiorari denied 19 S Ct. 887, 174 U S. 801, 43 L.Ed 1187.
58 C.J. p 399 note 36.

75. U S—The Jean Bart, D.C.Cal, 197 F 1002
58 C J. p 399 notes 38, 39

76. U S—The James Griffiths, C C A. Wash, 84 F 2d 785, certiorari denied Sperry Flour Co v. Coastwise Steamship & Barge Co., 57 S Ct 315, 299 U S 612, 81 L Ed. 452, rehearing denied 57 S Ct 430, 300 U. S 686, 81 L Ed 888—The Havana. D C.N.Y, 45 F Supp. 244.
58 C J. p 400 note 44.

77. U S—The Nettie Quill, D.C Ala., 124 F. 667.

Rock off lighthouse

(1) Striking a rock off a lighthouse when the vessel was passing too close to the lighthouse and it was known that many rocks were in the neighborhood thereof has been held to be a fault or error in navigation, and owners who did not exercise due diligence in making the vessel seaworthy were held not exempt from liability for damage to the cargo under the Harter Act—The Heddernheim, D C.N.Y., 39 F Supp. 558.

(2) The owners in such case may not claim exemption on the ground that the blame for striking the rock should be passed on to the government pilot on board the vessel where the owners issued directions instructing ships' officers to keep check on the pilot on the basis of sea charts, special charts, and sailing manuals. —The Heddernheim, supra.

following negligent stranding of the ship, exemption claimed on the ground of fault or error in navigation will be denied.[78]

d. Dangers of Sea

The Harter Act relieves the vessel and her owners from liability for losses resulting from dangers of the sea if the owner has exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy. The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act carries on the policy of the Harter Act, but it removes the condition of due diligence for the exemption from liability.

The Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. §§ 190–195 relieves the vessel and her owners from liability for losses resulting from dangers of the sea if the owner has exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy.[79] The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act of 1936, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1300 et seq, carries on the policy of the Harter Act, but it removes the condition of due diligence for the exemption from liability.[80] If the loss or damage proximately resulted from causes other than dangers of the sea, exemption will be denied under the statutes,[81] but where the proximate cause of damage was a danger of the sea, exemption will be granted.[82]

Under a statutory exemption of liability, the phrase "dangers of the sea" has a settled meaning.[83] Perils of the sea or dangers of the sea mean those perils which are peculiar to the sea,[84] and which are of an extraordinary nature or arise from irresistible force or overwhelming power,[85] and which cannot be guarded against by the ordinary exertions of human skill and prudence.[86] Exemption sought under the statutory clauses may be granted where damage resulted from an extraordinary occurrence,[87] such as nonnegligent stranding of the ship[88] or the striking of an obstruction.[89] Ordinary occurrences reasonably to be anticipated,[90] or dan-

78. U S—The Mary F Barrett, D C. Pa, 270 F 618, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 279 F. 329.

79. U.S.—U. S. v. Farr Sugar Corp, C.A.N Y., 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U. S. v. Atlantic Mut Ins. Co, 72 S. Ct. 666, 343 U S. 236, 96 L Ed ——Automobile Ins Co. of Hartford, Conn., v Hart-Wood Lumber Co, C C.A.Cal., 105 F 2d 387—The Josephine, C.C A.Pa, 49 F 2d 207—The Indien, D C.Cal., 5 F Supp. 349, affirmed, C C A., 71 F 2d 752

Immunities granted under Harter Act as dependent on exercise of due diligence to make vessel seaworthy in general see supra § 127 b (1).

80. U S—U S. v. Farr Sugar Corp, C.A.N.Y., 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U. S v. Atlantic Mut. Ins Co., 72 S. Ct. 666, 343 U.S. 236, 96 L Ed ——The Vizcaya, D.C Pa., 63 F.Supp 898—The Cypria, D C N.Y, 46 F Supp. 816, affirmed, C.C.A., Ore S S Corp. v D/S. A/S. Hassel, 137 F. 2d 326—The Schickshinny, D.C. Ga., 45 F.Supp. 813

Exemptions of Carriage of Goods by Sea Act as not conditioned on due diligence to make vessel seaworthy generally see supra § 126 b.

81. U.S.—The Schickshinny, supra.
58 C.J. p 401 note 69

Negligent stowage

Where barrels of lard on board ship were badly stowed, and because of fault of ship in that respect the barrels shifted, broke loose, and caused damage to cargoes of cotton and lumber, the carrier was liable for damage to cotton and lumber, notwithstanding contention that ship encountered very severe weather on voyage which caused the lard to shift.—The Schickshinny, supra.

82. U.S.—Duche v. Brocklebank, D C N Y., 35 F 2d 184, affirmed, C C A., 40 F 2d 418.
58 C J p 401 note 70.

83. U S—Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v. Insurance Co, of North America, Md, 110 F. 420, 49 C C A. 1.

84. U S—Waterman S S Corp. v. U. S Smelting, Refining & Min Co., C C A.La, 155 F 2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S Ct 115, 329 U S. 761, 91 L Ed 656.

85. U.S—Waterman S. S Corp. v. U. S Smelting, Refining & Min Co., supra—The Cleveco, D.C Ohio, 59 F.Supp. 71, affirmed, C C.A, 154 F 2d 605.

86. U S—Waterman S. S Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C C A La, 155 F 2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S Ct 115, 329 U S 761, 91 L.Ed. 656—The Georgian, D.C Fla, 4 F Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C A., 76 F.2d 550

Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S Co, 6 P 2d 121, 120 Cal.App Supp 775.

Similar definitions

(1) Something so catastrophic as to triumph over those safeguards by which skillful and vigilant seamen usually bring ship and cargo to port in safety—The Cleveco, C C A Ohio, 154 F 2d 605, 615.

(2) Conditions which are so extraordinary or catastrophic as to overcome those safeguards by which skillful and diligent seamen ordinarily bring ship and cargo to port in safety.—The Georgian, D.C Fla, 4 F.Supp 718, 726, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550

(3) All marine casualties resulting from the violent action of the elements, as distinguished from their natural silent influence upon the fabric of the vessel, casualties which may, and not consequences which must, occur.—National Grocery Co. v Olsen, 108 P 2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491.

87. U S—Duche v. Brocklebank, D. C.N.Y., 35 F 2d 184, affirmed, C.C. A., 40 F 2d 418
58 C.J p 400 note 57.

"Witch tide"

Danger of being caught in "witch tide" caused by action of wind, tide, and spring freshets was a peril of the sea—Hartford & New York Transp Co. v. Rogers & Hubbard Co., C C.A Conn., 47 F.2d 189, certiorari denied Rogers & Hubbard v. Hartford & New York Transp. Co, 51 S. Ct. 483, 283 U S. 835, 75 L Ed. 1446.

88. U.S—American Trading Co. v Fairhaven Co., D.C Cal, 10 F 2d 981

89. U S—The Nettie Quill, D.C Ala, 124 F. 667.

Knowledge of rocks

Where evidence disclosed that vessel was passing too close to lighthouse when it was known that many rocks were in neighborhood of lighthouse, striking of rock off the lighthouse was not a "peril of the sea"—The Heddernheim, D.C N.Y., 39 F Supp 558.

90. U.S.—The Schickshinny, D C Ga, 45 F Supp. 813.
58 C J. p 400 note 60.

Severe weather which was expectable during the winter season did not amount to a "peril of the sea"—The Norte, D C Pa, 69 F Supp 881, motion denied 71 F Supp 147—The Vizcaya, D C Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898

Storm of not extreme violence

U S.—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa, 63 F Supp. 898—The Cypria, D C N.Y, 46 F Supp. 816, affirmed, C.C A, Ore S S. Corp. v D/S. A/S Hassel, 137 F.2d 326—The Emilia, D C N.Y., 13 F.Supp. 7.

gers which would not have been such had the owner complied with his duty of diligence to provide a seaworthy ship,[91] are not dangers, perils, or accidents of the sea serving as basis for exemption.

It has been stated that the degree of violence is not the sole, or even the real, test of whether loss arose from storms constituting a sea peril under the exemption provisions, the question depending not on a verbal definition of "sea peril," but on the findings of fact as to all matters involved,[92] such as the velocity of the wind,[93] whether storms were normally to be expected when and where encountered,[94] the location of the ship during the storm,[95] the seaworthiness of the ship,[96] the skill with which she was handled when beset by storm,[97] and whether or not her encountering the storm resulted from errors of navigation.[98]

Jettison. It would seem that, where the proximate cause of loss is a voluntary jettison of cargo following negligent stranding of the ship, exemption might be granted on the ground that jettison was a danger of the sea under the provision of the act exempting an owner from liability for loss resulting from such dangers.[99]

Sweating. The presence of sweat or condensation in the hold of a ship has been held to be a peril of the sea and consequently within the statutory exceptions,[1] and the taint of sweat damage is answered if it appears that the cargo has an unavoidable tendency to cause sweat,[2] that weather conditions made it impossible to ventilate the cargo properly,[3] or that the hold cannot be opened.[4] Sweat can be regarded as a peril of the sea within the meaning of the statutory exceptions only when all available and reasonable precautions are taken to avoid it,[5] and the carrier remains liable if it fails to provide, without excuse, sufficient ventilation,[6] if its improper stowage contributed to the sweat,[7] or if it is otherwise negligent in handling the cargo.[8]

e. Seizure under Legal Process

Where the statutory condition relative to seaworthiness or diligence has been complied with, exemption will be granted under the Harter Act from liability resulting from seizure of the ship under legal process.

Where there has been due compliance with the owner's duties with respect to seaworthiness or diligence, under the provision of the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 192, relative to exemption from liability for loss arising from seizure of the ship under legal process, exemption will be granted with respect to loss resulting from such seizure.[9] The exemption

Heavy seas

U.S.—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550.

91. U.S.—Edmond Weil Co. v. American West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 147 F.2d 363—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550.
58 C.J. p. 401 note 61.

92. U.S.—The Josephine, D.C.Pa., 37 F.2d 928, affirmed, C.C.A., 49 F.2d 207.

Unusual violence of storm and unexpected damage

When a storm is of such unusual violence that it cannot reasonably be anticipated and avoided or cannot be resisted by ordinary exertions of skill and prudence and when it has caused unusual and unexpected damage to the hull of a seaworthy vessel resulting in damage to her cargo, the loss may fairly be attributed to a peril of the sea.—The Josephine, C.C.A.Pa., 49 F.2d 207

93. U.S.—The Josephine, D.C.Pa., 37 F.2d 928, affirmed, C.C.A., 49 F.2d 207
58 C.J. p. 401 note 63.

94. U.S.—The Josephine, supra.

95. U.S.—The Josephine, supra.
58 C.J. p. 401 note 65.

96. U.S.—The Josephine, supra.

97. U.S.—The Josephine, supra.

98. U.S.—The Josephine, supra.
58 C.J. p. 401 note 68

99. U.S.—The Mary F. Barrett, C.C.A.Pa., 279 F. 329
58 C.J. p. 396 note 81.

1. U.S.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed. ——.—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247.

Dampness, decay, or sweating as peril of sea within contractual exception from liability see infra § 134.

2. U.S.—Wessels v. The Asturias, C.C.A.N.Y., 126 F.2d 999.

3. U.S.—Wessels v. The Asturias, supra—The Zarembo, D.C.N.Y., 44 F.Supp. 915, affirmed, C.C.A., Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie and Co. v. The Zarembo, 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U.S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486.

4. U.S.—The Naples Maru, D.C.N.Y., 20 F.Supp. 258, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 106 F.2d 32.

5. U.S.—Wessels v. The Asturias, C.C.A.N.Y., 126 F.2d 999—Standard Brands v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 670—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed. ——.—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247.

6. U.S.—Wessels v. The Asturias, C.C.A.N.Y., 126 F.2d 999—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247.

7. U.S.—Wessels v. The Asturias, C.C.A.N.Y., 126 F.2d 999—The Rita Sister, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 480—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247.

8. U.S.—Wessels v. The Asturias, C.C.A.N.Y., 126 F.2d 999—Standard Brands v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 670—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247.

9. U.S.—The Brunswick, D.C.La., 263 F. 907.

Exemptions of Carriage of Goods by Sea Act as not conditioned on due diligence to make vessel seaworthy generally see supra § 126 b.

will be denied, however, where the duty as to seaworthiness or diligence was not complied with,[10] or where the ship was financially unable to equip and carry forward the enterprise.[11]

f. Saving Life or Property at Sea

A statutory provision exempting the vessel and owners from liability for loss or damage resulting from saving or attempting to save life or property at sea, or from any deviation in rendering such service refers to the saving of life or property on another vessel.

The provision of the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 192, exempting the vessel and owners from liability for loss or damage resulting from "saving or attempting to save life or property as sea, or from any deviation in rendering such service," has been construed as referring to the saving of life or property on another vessel,[12] and not to the saving of property on the carrier ship.[13] Accordingly it has been held that the act does not abolish general average for jettison.[14]

g. Inherent Defect of Cargo

Under some exemption statutes the shipowner is relieved from liability for injury proximately resulting from an inherent defect of the thing carried.

Under the express provision of some exemption statutes, the shipowner is relieved from liability for injury arising from an inherent defect of the thing carried[15] Where the loss proximately results from the owner's negligence or lack of due diligence rather than from inherent defect of cargo, exemption will be denied.[16]

h. Latent Defects

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act the ship is not responsible for loss or damage arising or resulting from latent defects which could not be discovered by any known and customary test. Under the Harter Act it has been held that irrespective of the exercise of due diligence the owner remains liable for loss or damage resulting from latent defects which rendered the ship unseaworthy at the beginning of her voyage.

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1304(2) (p), the ship is not responsible for loss or damage arising or resulting from latent defects not discoverable by due diligence.[17]

A latent defect under such provision is one which could not be discovered by any known and customary test.[18]

Under the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A § 192, it has been held that, irrespective of the exercise of due diligence, the owner remains liable for loss or damage resulting from latent defects which rendered the ship unseaworthy at the beginning of her voyage.[19] There are, however, dicta to the effect that the act relieves the diligent shipowner from liability for loss or damage resulting from latent defects,[20] and it has been said that the purpose of the Harter Act is to relieve the shipowner of liability for only those latent defects which are not discoverable by the utmost care and diligence.[21]

§ 129. —— Based on Absence of Owner's Design or Neglect with Respect to Fire

a. In general
b. Cause of fire loss
c. Persons and property entitled to exemption

Immunities granted under Harter Act as dependent on exercise of due diligence to make vessel seaworthy in general see supra § 127 b (1).

10. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C. Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593—The St Paul, D.C.N.Y., 277 F. 99.

11. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C. Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593

12. Puerto Rico.—St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. The Schooner Ernestina, 10 Puerto Rico Fed. 478

13. Puerto Rico.—St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. The Ernestina, supra.

14. Puerto Rico.—St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. The Schooner Ernestina, supra.

15. U.S.—The M. C. Currie, D.C.N.Y., 132 F. 125.
58 C.J. p 401 note 72.

Alteration due to natural characteristics

Ship which delivered rubber cargo undeteriorated in quality and undiminished in weight was not liable for damage to bales which were altered in shape and flattened from alleged poor stowing and from embedding of binding metal bands as result of rubber's natural characteristics—The M. V. Silversandal, D.C.N.Y., 26 F.Supp. 61, affirmed, C.C.A., Bache v. Silver Line, 110 F.2d 60

16. U.S.—Thomas Roberts & Co. v. Calmar S. S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 59 F. Supp. 203.
58 C.J. p 401 note 73.

17. U.S.—The Quarrington Court, C.C.A.N.Y., 122 F.2d 266.

18. U.S.—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470.

Defect in metal

(1) A true latent defect in metal is not caused by the use of the metallic object and is not a gradual deterioration but is a defect or flaw in the metal not discoverable by any known and customary test—Waterman S.S. Corp. v. U.S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.

(2) Where hole in bilge pipe was not due to any flaw in the metal but to the corrosive effect of foreign substances resulting from the use of the ship, defect in the bilge pipe was not a true "latent defect."—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F.Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470

19. U.S.—Benner Line v. Pendleton, N.Y., 217 F. 497, 133 C.C.A. 349, affirmed 38 S.Ct. 330, 246 U.S. 353, 62 L.Ed. 770.
58 C.J. p 396 note 74.

20. U.S.—The Irrawaddy, N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 831, 171 U.S. 187, 43 L.Ed. 130.
58 C.J. p 396 note 75.

21. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S.S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App. Supp. 775.

d. Vessels used in inland navigation
e. Carriage by land and water

a. In General

Under both the fire statute and the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act the shipowner and carrier are not liable for fire damage, unless caused by owner's design or neglect, or carrier's actual fault or privity. The object of the fire statute is to modify shipowners' common-law liability for fire loss by exempting them from the onerous liability to which they were held, as carriers or otherwise, for the acts or neglect of their agents and servants or of third persons, and to relieve carriage rates of the insurance burden.

Under both the Fire Statute, 46 U S C A. § 182, and the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1304(2) (b), the shipowner and carrier are not liable for fire damage, unless caused by owner's design or neglect, or carrier's actual fault or privity.[22] The object of the fire statute exempting the owner of a vessel from liability for loss or damage to merchandise shipped, taken in or put aboard the vessel, by reason of any fire happening to or on board the vessel, unless such fire is caused by design or neglect of such owner, is to modify shipowners' common-law liability for fire loss[23] by exempting them from the onerous liability to which they were held, as carriers or otherwise, for the acts or neglect of their agents and servants or of third persons without their knowledge or concurrence,[24] and to relieve carriage rates of the insurance burden.[25]

The fire statute is not a statute of limitation but of exoneration,[26] and it serves as a complete defense to suits falling within its purview.[27] Shipowners are released from liability for fire in all cases not falling within the exception as to their design or neglect,[28] and the fact that the statute was not specifically incorporated in the bill of lading does not deprive the owners of the vessel of the right to avail themselves of the protection of it.[29] It is not intended, however, to diminish the responsibility of the shipowners for their own willful[30] or negligent[31] acts, and it should be strictly construed,[32] although its purpose should not be frustrated by strict construction.[33] The statute was not modified by the Harter Act[34] or, it seems, by the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act.[35]

Fire is caused by ignition or combustion, and it includes the idea of visible heat or light;[36] where the internal development of heat never at any time becomes so rapid as to produce a flame or a glow, there is no fire within the meaning of the statute [37] The statute does not exempt the owner from liability for damage caused by heat without fire,[38] but, where some damage has occurred by heating be-

22. U.S.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C N. Y., 81 F Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct. 1076, 343 U S. 978, 96 L.Ed. ——.

23. U S—Walker v. Western Transp Co., Ill., 3 Wall. 150, 18 L Ed 172
58 C J p 404 note 36.

24. U S—Walker v. Western Transp. Co, supra.
Mass.—Hill Mfg Co. v Providence, etc, SS Co., 113 Mass. 495, 18 Am R 527

25. U S—Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, N Y., 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U S. 249, 88 L Ed 30.

26. U.S—Hoskyn & Co. v Silver Line, D C N.Y, 63 F Supp 452, affirmed, C C A, 143 F 2d 462, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 116, 323 U. S 767, 89 L Ed. 613.

27. U S.—Earle & Stoddart v Ellerman's Wilson Line, N Y., 53 S Ct 200, 287 U S. 420, 77 L Ed. 403—The President Wilson, D C Cal, 5 F.Supp 684
58 C J. p 404 note 37.

28. U S.—American Tobacco Co v The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C N Y., 81 F.Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C A, 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U S 978, 96 L Ed. —— —Rockwood & Co. v American President Lines, D C N J., 68 F.Supp. 224—The Munaires, D C La, 12 F Supp 913—The President Wilson, D C Cal., 5 F Supp 684.
58 C.J. p 404 note 41.
Liability to extent of interest in ship see infra § 129 c (2).

Failure to notify cargo surveyor of carriage of coal

Shipowner's neglect to notify cargo surveyor, employed by board of underwriters, that coal was being carried for delivery to other ships was held not contributing to cause of fire, with regard to owner's liability for cargo loss—The Galileo, C C A N.Y., 54 F 2d 913, affirmed 53 S Ct. 200, 287 U.S. 420, 77 L Ed 403

29. U S.—The Cabo Hatteras, D.C N.Y, 5 F.Supp. 725.

30. Mass.—Hill Mfg Co. v Providence, etc, SS Co, 113 Mass. 495, 18 Am.R. 527.

31. U.S—Charbonnier v U S, D C S.C, 45 F 2d 166, affirmed, C.C A, U. S. v Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174.
58 C.J. p 404 note 40.

32. U.S—Hoskyn & Co. v. Silver Line, D C N Y., 63 F Supp. 452, affirmed, C C.A, 143 F.2d 462, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 116, 323 U.S 767, 89 L.Ed 613.

33. U.S.—Consumers Import Co. v Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, N Y, 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U S. 249, 88 L Ed. 30.

34. U S—Fyfe v. Pan-Atlantic S S Corp, C C A N.Y, 114 F.2d 72, 77, certiorari denied Pan-Atlantic S S. Corp v Fyfe, 61 S Ct. 319, 311 U.S. 711, 85 L Ed. 462—The Galileo, C C. A N Y, 54 F 2d 913, affirmed 53 S Ct. 200, 287 U.S. 420, 77 L Ed. 403
Statutory exemptions from liability under the Harter Act see supra §§ 127, 128.

Harter Act held inapplicable to fire loss

U S—The Buckeye State, D.C N Y, 39 F Supp 344.

35. U S—Fyfe v. Pan-Atlantic S. S. Corp, C C A N Y., 114 F.2d 72, certiorari denied Pan-Atlantic S. S Corp v. Fyfe, 61 S.Ct. 319, 311 U. S. 711, 85 L Ed. 462

36. U.S—The Buckeye State, D.C.N Y., 39 F Supp. 344.

37. U S—The Buckeye State, supra.

38. U.S.—The Buckeye State, supra

Heat from lighting fixtures

U S.—The Buckeye State, supra.

Internal heating

The fact that shippers of tobacco could not establish internal good condition of tobacco at time of shipment did not preclude recovery for damage not caused by internal heating, but by heat and fire originating in other cargo.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.

fore fire broke out, the fact that the ship cannot prove what damage was solely caused by fire does not render it liable for the entire damage.[39]

Necessity of fire occurring on ship. Under provisions of such statutes limiting the exemption to loss by reason of fires happening to or on board the vessel, no exemption will be granted where the loss resulted from fire occurring in another place,[40] such as a wharf[41] or wharf boat,[42] although the statute is applicable where the fire starts on a pier and is communicated to cargo on the ship.[43]

Character of property damaged. Under statutes exempting shipowners from liability for damage to "merchandise," horses[44] and trucks[45] taken aboard a ferryboat by their drivers who are passengers and remain in charge of such property on the trip are not "merchandise." Where the statute exempts from liability for damage to "goods," baggage is "goods" within the exemption provision.[46]

Waiver of exemption in general. It is competent for a carrier to waive the statutory immunity,[47] and where the parties stipulate by contract that the statutory exemption from fire loss shall not apply, the shipowner cannot secure the benefit of such exemption.[48] A bill of lading expressly incorporating the fire statute therein is not to be construed as a waiver of the statutory immunity for loss by fire;[49] and a warranty of seaworthiness in the contract of affreightment does not preclude the shipowner from invoking the statute.[50]

b. Cause of Fire Loss

(1) Owner's design or neglect; actual fault or privity of carrier
(2) Negligence of agents
(3) Deviation
(4) Damages arising from independent causes

(1) Owner's Design or Neglect; Actual Fault or Privity of Carrier

The shipowner is relieved of his common-law liability only on condition that he exercises care measured by the occasion, and exemption will be denied where the fire loss arose from the owner's design or neglect.

The shipowner is relieved of his absolute liability at common law only on condition that he exercises care measured by the occasion;[51] exemption will be denied where the fire loss arose from the owner's design[52] or neglect.[53] The word "design" means with intent,[54] and the word "neglect" means personal negligence of the owner, or in case of a corporate owner, negligence of its managing officers or agents,[55] and in construing the word "neglect"

N.Y., 81 F Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct. 1076, 34 U S 978, 96 L Ed. ——.

39. U S—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, supra.

40. U.S—The City of Clarksville, D C Ind., 94 F. 201
58 C.J p 405 note 60.

41. U S—The Egypt, D.C.N Y, 25 F. 320.
58 C J. p 405 note 61.

42. U.S.—The City of Clarksville, D C.Ind., 94 F 201

43. U.S.—The Munaires, D C La., 12 F Supp. 913.

44. U.S—The Garden City, D C N. Y., 26 F. 766

45. U.S—The Garden City, supra.

46. N Y.—Chamberlain v. Western Transp. Co., 44 N.Y. 305, 4 Am.R. 681.

47. U.S.—Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, N.Y., 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U S. 249, 88 L Ed 30.
58 C.J p 406 note 89

48. U.S—Schimmel v. Mallory SS. Co, D C N.Y., 30 F.2d 735.
58 C.J. p 406 note 90.

49. U S.—Earle & Stoddart v. Ellerman's Wilson Line, N.Y., 53 S.Ct. 200, 287 U.S. 420, 77 L.Ed. 403.

50. U S—Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins Co. v. U S, C C A N Y, 105 F 2d 160, certiorari denied 60 S Ct. 175, 308 U.S. 611, 84 L Ed 511.

Owner's contractual obligation of due care to make vessel seaworthy does not destroy statutory exemption from liability for loss of cargo by fire because of ship officer's negligence—Earle & Stoddart v. Ellerman's Wilson Line, D C.N Y, 45 F 2d 231, affirmed, C C A, The Galileo, 54 F 2d 913, affirmed 53 S Ct. 200, 287 U S. 420, 77 L Ed 403.

51. U.S.—Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co v Lloyd Brasileiro, C C A N.Y, 159 F 2d 661, certiorari denied Republic of Brazil v. Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co, 67 S Ct. 1519, 331 U S 836, 91 L Ed. 1849.

52. U.S.—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins Co of N. Y. v. Flota Mercante Del Estado, D.C.La, 102 F.Supp 861
Mass—Hill Mfg Co v. Providence, etc, SS. Co., 113 Mass. 495, 18 Am. R. 527.

53. U.S.—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins. Co. of N. Y v. Flota Mercante Del Estado, D.C.La, 102 F.Supp 861—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C.N.Y., 81 F Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L Ed ——
58 C.J. p 404 note 94.

54. U S—The Buckeye State, D C. N Y., 39 F Supp 344

55. U S—Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, N Y., 64 S Ct 15, 320 U.S 249, 88 L Ed 30—The Galileo, C.C.A N. Y., 54 F.2d 913, affirmed 53 S Ct 200, 287 U S 420, 77 L Ed 403—Charbonnier v U. S, D.C.S C, 45 F 2d 166, affirmed, C C A., U. S v. Charbonnier, 45 F 2d 174—The Doris Kellogg, D C N.Y, 18 F.Supp. 159, affirmed, C C A, In re Kellogg S S Corp, 94 F 2d 1015
Negligence of agents generally see infra subdivision b (2) of this section.

Delegable or nondelegable duty

(1) Negligence of what in other connections is held to be a nondelegable duty does not take away the exemption—Earle & Stoddart v. Ellerman's Wilson Line, N Y., 53 S Ct 200, 287 U.S 420, 77 L Ed. 403—The Buckeye State, D.C.N.Y., 39 F Supp 344.

(2) The duty to stow cargo properly is considered delegable in determining whether there was design or neglect of shipowner personally within provisions of fire statute—The Venice Maru, D C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp.

imputed negligence has been excluded.[56] The neglect which will deprive the shipowner of protection is a neglect which caused the fire.[57] So, exemption will be denied where the fire was caused by unseaworthiness resulting from the owner's personal negligence,[58] such as negligent stowage of cargo[59] or ship's supplies,[60] or failure to provide proper means for combating fires,[61] but unseaworthiness of the ship does not alone deprive the owner of the benefit of the fire statute,[62] and the failure of the owner diligently to determine whether the vessel was seaworthy is not such neglect of the owner as to defeat his immunity under the statute.[63]

The fact that fire occurred from a heated flue in a ship constructed by reputable builders does not show that it was caused by the "design or neglect of the shipowners"[64] The use of a wooden bulkhead separating a cross bunker carrying coal from the hold carrying cargo, permitting air to penetrate into the body of the coal, does not in itself constitute such negligence on the part of the owner as would render him liable,[65] particularly where there is no evidence that any deficiency in the wooden bulkhead contributed in any way to the cause of the fire,[66] and the fact that a steam smothering system failed to put the fire out is not alone sufficient to establish negligence on the part of the owner in the absence of a showing that the system was defective.[67] Failure of a foreign vessel, which met all requirements of the law applicable to her, to have equipment required of United States vessels by the laws of the United States has been held not to preclude her owners from claiming exemption under the American fire statute.[68]

Lack of privity. The shipowner seeking complete exemption cannot succeed by establishing merely that the fire loss occurred without his privity or knowledge.[69]

349, affirmed, C C A., Consumers Import Co v Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F 2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co v Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U S. 249, 88 L Ed 30

(3) The owner of a steamship was not negligent in delegating the duty to plan and supervise stowage of cargo of Japanese sardine meal, which was to be carried from a Japanese port to United States Atlantic Coast ports, to an independent, experienced Lloyd's agent marine surveyor who was qualified to perform the service, and the charterer was justified in relying on surveyor's expert knowledge as to what was proper method of stowing and ventilating the meal.—The Venice Maru, D C N.Y., 39 F. Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., Consumers Import Co v Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S Ct 15, 320 U.S 249, 88 L.Ed. 30.

56. U S—Consumers Import Co. v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C.A.N.Y, 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co v Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U.S 249, 88 L Ed. 30—Charbonnier v U. S, D C S C., 45 F 2d 166, affirmed, C C A, U. S v. Charbonnier, 45 F 2d 174.

57. U S.—Hoskyn & Co. v Silver Line, C.C.A.N Y., 143 F 2d 462, certiorari denied 65 S Ct 116, 323 U S. 767, 89 L Ed 613—The Ida, C.C A.N.Y., 75 F.2d 278.

Care commensurate with dangerous nature of cargo

Under statute it is incumbent on owner to use degree of care commensurate with the dangerous nature of the cargo, and the question is whether the vessel was properly equipped for the transportation of particular cargo which she undertook to carry—The Doris Kellogg, D. C N Y., 18 F Supp 159, affirmed, C C A, In re Kellogg S. S. Corp, 94 F 2d 1015.

Employment of incompetent crew

Personal negligence of shipowner in employment of incompetent crew, contributing to fire which damaged cargo, prevented exemption from liability—U S v. Charbonnier, C C A S C, 45 F 2d 174.

Electric wiring

(1) Chartered owner of vessel was chargeable with neglect within statute in maintaining electric wires through empty dry cargo space having little or no ventilation and surrounded by tanks filled with crude oil containing a high percentage of explosive gas—The Doris Kellogg, D. C N Y, 18 F.Supp 159, affirmed, C C A, In re Kellogg S. S. Corp, 94 F 2d 1015.

(2) In determining whether chartered owner of tank steamer was negligent with respect to electric wiring, rules of American Bureau of Shipping and American Institute of Electrical Engineers, though not controlling, should be taken into consideration, and this is true though they were not in force until after the steamer was converted into a tanker.—The Doris Kellogg, D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 159, affirmed, C.C A, In re Kellogg S. S. Corp, 94 F.2d 1015.

58. U S—Charbonnier v. U. S, D C S.C, 45 F 2d 166, affirmed, C.C A., U S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F 2d 174—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins. Co. of N Y. v. Flota Mercante Del Estado, D.C La, 102 F Supp. 861.
58 C.J. p 404 note 45.

59. U S.—The Willfaro, D C N Y., 9 F.2d 940, affirmed, C C A, Williams SS Co v Wilbur, 9 F 2d 622, certiorari denied 46 S Ct 482, 271 U.S 666, 70 L Ed 1140
58 C J p 404 note 46
Negligence of agents in stowage of cargo as not depriving owner of statutory immunity see infra subdivision b (2) of this section.

60. U S—Arkell v. U. S., C C A N Y, 13 F 2d 555, certiorari denied U S v Arkell & Douglas, 47 S Ct. 243, 273 U S 735, 71 L Ed 865.
58 C J. p 404 note 47.

61. U S—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins. Co. of N Y v Flota Mercante Del Estado, D C La, 102 F Supp. 861
58 C.J. p 404 note 48.

62. U S—Hoskyn & Co v. Silver Line, Limited, C C.A.N.Y., 143 F.2d 462, certiorari denied 65 S Ct. 116, three cases, 323 U.S. 767, 89 L.Ed. 613.

Where there is nothing to show design or neglect on the part of the owner, it is immaterial whether the vessel was unseaworthy—The Buckeye State, D.C N Y, 39 F.Supp. 344.

63. U S—Earle & Stoddart v Ellerman's Wilson Line, N.Y, 53 S.Ct. 200, 287 U S. 420, 77 L.Ed 403.

64. U S—The Strathdon, D.C.N Y, 89 F 374.

65. U S.—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins. Co. of N. Y v. Flota Mercante Del Estado, D C.La., 102 F.Supp 861.

66. U S—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins. Co. of N Y. v. Flota Mercante Del Estado, supra.

67. U S—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins Co. of N Y. v. Flota Mercante Del Estado, supra.

68. U.S.—The Cabo Hatteras, D C.N. Y., 5 F.Supp. 725.

69. U.S—Arkell v. U. S., C.C.A.N. Y., 13 F.2d 555, 557, certiorari de-

Actual fault or privity of carrier. Under the provision of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 USCA § 1304(2) (b), that neither the carrier nor the ship shall be responsible for loss or damage arising or resulting from fire unless caused by the actual fault or privity of the carrier, the phrase "actual fault or privity" is to be construed as substantially equivalent to "design or neglect" as used in the fire statute.[70]

(2) Negligence of Agents

The shipowner is not deprived of his statutory immunity, in case of fire not caused by his design or neglect, by the negligence of the master, chief engineer, other ship's officers, members of the crew, clerks, or other agents. Negligence of executive officers and directors of a corporate owner is the negligence of the owner, and the rule of immunity does not apply in such case.

The shipowner is not deprived of his statutory immunity in case of fire, not caused by his design or neglect, by the negligence of his agent, employee, or servant,[71] such as the master,[72] chief engineer,[73] or other ship's officers,[74] the members of the ship's crew,[75] the shipowner's clerks,[76] or an agent on board who supervised stowage.[77] Where there is nothing to show design or neglect on the part of the owner, it is immaterial whether the fire was caused through negligence in the loading or stowage of the cargo.[78]

Executive officers and directors of a corporate owner are not its agents within the statutory exemption,[79] and their act or negligence causing a fire is the act or negligence of the corporate owner.[80]

(3) Deviation

Deviation does not deprive the shipowner of his right nied U. S. v. Arkell & Douglas, 47 S.Ct. 243, 273 U.S. 735, 71 L.Ed. 865. 58 C.J. p. 404 note 50.

70. U.S.—Accinanto, Limited v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D.C. Md., 99 F.Supp. 261.

71. U.S.—Charbonnier v. U. S., D.C. S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174.

72. U.S.—Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, N.Y., 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L.Ed. 30—Earle & Stoddart v. Ellerman's Wilson Line, N.Y., 53 S.Ct. 200, 287 U.S. 420, 77 L.Ed. 403—Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Lloyd Brasileiro, C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 661, certiorari denied Republic of U.S. of Brazil v. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., 67 S.Ct. 1519, 331 U.S. 836, 91 L.Ed. 1849—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed. ——.

73. U.S.—Earle & Stoddart v. Ellerman's Wilson Line, N.Y., 53 S.Ct. 200, 287 U.S. 420, 77 L.Ed. 403

74. U.S.—Earle & Stoddart v. Ellerman's Wilson Line, supra—The Doris Kellogg, D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 159, affirmed, C.C.A., In re Kellogg S. S. Corp., 94 F.2d 1015

75. U.S.—The Buckeye State, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 344. 58 C.J. p. 405 note 55

76. U.S.—The Munaires, D.C.La., 12 F.Supp. 913.

77. U.S.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed —— —The Venice Maru, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., Consumers Import Co. v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L.Ed. 30.

78. U.S.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed. —— —The Buckeye State, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 344

79. Mass.—Hill Mfg. Co. v. Providence, etc., SS. Co., 113 Mass. 495, 18 Am.R. 527.

80. Mass.—Hill Mfg. Co. v. Providence, etc., SS. Co., supra.

Managing director

U.S.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed. ——

Managing officer of operating agent for shipowner

U.S.—U. S. v. Charbonnier, C.C.A.S.C., 45 F.2d 174.

Port engineer

(1) A shipowner was chargeable with alleged negligence of traffic manager to whom, in absence of general agent, was deputed supervision over condition of ships, as they came in and of any repairs they might need and whose word was final about their proper care in port, notwithstanding that traffic manager's superior was owner's general agent.—Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Lloyd Brasileiro, C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 661, certiorari denied Republic of Brazil v. Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., 67 S.Ct. 1519, 331 U.S. 836, 91 L.Ed. ——

(2) The measure of duty imposed on port engineer depended on difficulty of precaution compared with hazard and interest at stake, so that measure was not what he knew but what he was charged with finding out.—Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Lloyd Brasileiro, C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 661, certiorari denied Republic of Brazil v. Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., 67 S.Ct. 1519, 331 U.S. 836, 91 L.Ed. ——.

Knowledge of vice president and marine superintendent of chartered owner of vessel as to its dangerous condition was sufficient to charge such owner with neglect under statute as to liability for fire.—The Doris Kellogg, D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 159, affirmed, C.C.A., In re Kellogg S. S. Corp., 94 F.2d 1015.

General manager held not negligent

(1) In failing to inform surveyor to whom duty to supervise stowage of cargo was properly delegated with respect to charterer's previous experiences with fire on similar voyages, and in not issuing special instructions as to stowage to officers of steamship.—The Venice Maru, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., Consumers Import Co. v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L.Ed. 30.

(2) In failing to make arrangements to have cargo shipped under deck after ship reached intermediate port in voyage, or in failing to consult surveyor concerning deck cargo.—The Venice Maru, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., Consumers Import Co. v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L.Ed. 30.

to exoneration under the fire statute unless it was a cause of the fire and was the result of the neglect or design of the owner personally; but deviation may subject a shipowner to liability for loss caused by fire occurring during such deviation.

Deviation does not deprive the shipowner of his right to exoneration under the fire statute unless it was a cause of the fire,[81] and not even then, unless the deviation was the result of the neglect or design of the owner personally.[82] Deviation may, however, subject a shipowner to liability for loss caused by fire occurring during such deviation,[83] unless he can affirmatively prove that the fire would have occurred in the absence of deviation.[84] It has been held that, where the shipowner was under a duty to deliver the libelant's cargo at an intermediate port on the voyage but negligently carried it on to a port beyond, where it was destroyed by fire, the shipowner was not entitled to protection under the fire statute, particularly where by reason of such overcarriage libelants would have had a cause of action for damage had there been no fire.[85]

(4) Damages Arising from Independent Causes

An action arising from independent acts of negligence on the part of the ship and from breach of a maritime duty in failing to enforce a general average contribution is not within the statutory exemption.

An action arising from independent acts of negligence on the part of the ship and from breach of a maritime duty in failing to enforce a general average contribution is not within the statutory exemption.[86]

c. Persons and Property Entitled to Exemption

(1) Personal liability
(2) Ship and interests therein

(1) Personal Liability

The provision of the statute exempting the "owner of any vessel" exempts the owner in personam, but a carrier by vessel cannot secure exemption under such statute where he neither owns nor charters the vessel on which the fire occurred. A negligent master may be held personally liable, even if he is part owner of the ship.

The provision of the Fire Statute, 46 U S C.A. § 182, exempting the "owner of any vessel," exempts the owner in personam,[87] but a carrier by vessel cannot secure exemption under such statute where he neither owns[88] nor charters[89] the vessel on which the fire occurred. The fact that a lighterage company which was the carrier's agent was exonerated from liability under the fire statute for damage to cargo resulting from a fire on its lighter caused by the negligence of the crew of the lighter does not relieve the carrier as principal from liability to the shipper.[90] It is expressly provided, however, by the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U S.C.A. § 1304(2) (b), that neither the carrier nor the ship shall be responsible for loss or damage arising or resulting from fire, unless caused by the actual fault or privity of the carrier.

Master of the ship may be held personally liable for his own negligence;[91] if he is also part owner of the ship, the negligent master may be held either in his capacity as master or as owner,[92] but other innocent part owners are exempted.[93]

(2) Ship and Interests Therein

The statutory provision exempting "the owner of any vessel" also exempts the ship.

The statutory provision exempting the "owner of any vessel" also exempts the ship,[94] and extinguish-

81. U S.—Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins Co v U S, C C A.N.Y., 105 F 2d 160, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct 175, 308 U S. 611, 84 L Ed. 511—The Ida, C C A N Y., 75 F 2d 278.

82. U S.—The Venice Maru, D C N. Y., 39 F Supp 349, affirmed, C.C A., Consumers Import Co v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U.S 249, 88 L Ed 30.

Deviation by stowage on deck

U S.—The Venice Maru, D C N Y, 39 F Supp. 349, affirmed, C C A, Consumers Import Co v Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U S. 249, 88 L Ed. 30.

83. U S.—The Ida, D C N Y, 6 F Supp 992.
58 C J p 405 note 57.

84. U S.—The Indrapura, D C Or., 171 F. 929

85. U S.—Hoskyn & Co. v Silver Line, D C N Y., 63 F.Supp 452, affirmed, C.C.A, 143 F.2d 462, certiorari denied 65 S Ct 116, 323 U S 767, 89 L Ed 613.

86. U.S.—Heye v. North German Lloyd, D C.N Y, 33 F 60, 2 L R A 287.

87. U S.—Consumers Import Co v Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C.A N Y., 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S.Ct 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L Ed. 30.

88. U S.—Accinanto, Limited v Cosmopolitan Shipping Co, D.C Md., 99 F.Supp. 261.

Mass.—Hill Mfg Co. v. Boston, etc, R. Corp., 104 Mass 122, 6 Am R. 202.

89. Mass.—Hill Mfg Co. v. Boston, etc, R Corp., supra.
58 C J. p 405 note 68.

90. U.S.—Fyfe v. Pan-Atlantic S S Corp., C C A.N Y., 114 F 2d 72, certiorari denied Pan-Atlantic S. S Corp v. Fyfe, 61 S Ct. 319, 311 U. S. 711, 85 L Ed. 462

91. U S.—Keene v. The Whistler, D. C Cal, 14 F.Cas No 7,645, 2 Sawy. 348.

92. U.S.—Keene v. The Whistler, supra.

93. U.S.—Keene v. The Whistler, supra.
58 C J. p 405 note 72.

94. U S.—Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, N.Y., 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, es maritime liens for cargo damage by fire not caused by the design or neglect of the owner;[95] and one purchasing the ship after the fire is entitled to enforce the ship's exemption in proceedings in rem against her.[96]

Part owners. Where negligence appeared as to one part owner but not as to others, a libel against the ship has been dismissed.[97]

d. Vessels Used in Inland Navigation

Prior to enactment of statutes expressly extending the fire-damage exemption to vessels navigating inland waters, the exemption could not properly be claimed with respect to such vessels.

Under express statutory provision, the federal statute exempting shipowners from liability for fire now applies, inter alia, "to all vessels used on lakes or rivers or in inland navigation, including canal boats, barges, and lighters." Prior to enactment of statutes expressly extending the fire-damage exemption to vessels navigating inland waters, and under earlier federal statutes excluding from the exemption vessels "used in rivers or inland navigation," the exemption could not properly be claimed with respect to vessels navigating on waters lying wholly within a single state,[98] but the fact that vessels constructed and used primarily for ocean navigation at times entered inland waters did not exclude them from the statutory exemption.[99]

Navigation on Great Lakes was not inland navigation so as to exclude vessels sailing on them from the statutory exemption.[1]

Association extending carriage inland. The fact that shipowners had formed an association with other companies extending their business as carriers into the interior was held not to deprive them of the exemption.[2]

e. Carriage by Land and Water

The fact that merchandise is shipped under a through bill of lading covering land carriage will not of itself deprive the water carrier of its right to the statutory exemption; but, where the through bill of lading expressly or impliedly waives the exemption, the water carrier will be denied the right thereto.

The fact that merchandise is shipped under a through bill of lading covering land carriage will not of itself deprive the water carrier of its right to the statutory exemption;[3] but, where the through bill of lading expressly or impliedly waives the exemption, the water carrier will be denied the right thereto.[4] Under a through bill of lading reserving to carriers by water in respect of their "water carriage" the statutory exemption from liability for fire, but excluding from the term "water carriage," "lighterage in or across rivers, harbors or lakes, when performed by, or on behalf of, rail carriers," the phrase "on behalf of" does not necessarily mean as agent of the railroad,[5] and a water carrier engaged in lighterage as an independent party but thereby performing a service which the railroad was obligated to perform for the shipper is acting "on behalf of" the railroad,[6] so that the water carrier in performing such lighterage service is within the exception of lighterage from the statutory exemption otherwise reserved, and can be held liable for damage from nonnegligent fire occurring on the lighter.[7]

§ 130. Hague Rules

Under the Hague rules, the owner and operator of a ship cannot relieve himself of liability without showing that he exercised due diligence to make the ship seaworthy at the commencement of the voyage; and the 88 L.Ed 30—The President Wilson, D C Cal., 5 F Supp 684.

58 C J. p 405 note 74.

Contrary authority

(1) Before the rule was definitely settled it was held in one decision that such provision must be read in pari materia with sections merely limiting liability, and that, where the statutes are thus construed, the ship may remain liable in rem for fire damage occurring without the owner's design or neglect, and that to the extent of his interest in the ship the nonnegligent owner may still be held —Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha v. Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., C C.A Tex., 33 F 2d 232, certiorari denied 50 S Ct 85, 280 U.S. 603, 74 L Ed. 648.

(2) This decision in so far as it conflicts with the text rule has been expressly disapproved by the supreme court of the United States — Consumers Import Co v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, N.Y., 64 S Ct. 15, 18, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L Ed 30

95. U S.—Consumers Import Co. v. Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, supra.

96. U.S —Deming v. The Rapid Transit, D C Wash., 52 F. 320

97. U.S —Keene v The Whistler, D C Cal., 14 F.Cas No.7,645, 2 Sawy. 348.

98. U.S —Moore v. American Transp. Co., Mich., 24 How. 1, 16 L Ed 674.
N C.—Woodhouse v. Cain, 95 N C 113
58 C.J. p 405 note 85.

99. N.Y.—Knowlton v Providence, etc, SS. Co., 33 N Y Super. 370.
58 C J. p 406 note 86.

1. U S —Moore v. American Transp Co., Mich., 24 How. 1, 38, 16 L Ed. 674

2. Ga —Headrick v. Virginia, etc, Air Line R Co., 48 Ga. 545.

3. N.Y.—D'Utassy v. Mallory SS Co, 147 N Y S 313, 162 App Div. 410, affirmed 119 N.E. 1040, 223 N. Y 592—Burke v. Gulf, etc., R Co, 147 N Y S 794

4. U S —Charles J. Webb Sons Co., Inc v. New Jersey Cent R. Co, C C.A N Y., 36 F.2d 702—Schimmel v Mallory SS. Co, D C.N Y, 30 F.2d 735.

5. U S —Schimmel v. Mallory SS. Co., supra.

6. U.S —Schimmel v. Mallory SS. Co., supra.

7. U S —Schimmel v. Mallory SS Co., supra.

carrier is not relieved from liability for loss or damage arising from negligence in the care and custody of the cargo.

Under the Hague rules providing that neither the carrier nor the ship shall be liable for loss or damage arising or resulting from unseaworthiness unless caused by want of due diligence on the part of the carrier to make the ship seaworthy, and to secure that the ship is properly manned, equipped, and supplied, the owner and operator of a ship cannot relieve himself of liability without showing that he exercised due diligence to make the ship seaworthy[8] at the commencement of the voyage.[9] Under provisions to the substantial effect that if due diligence has been exercised, neither the carrier nor the ship shall be responsible for loss or damage arising or resulting from act, neglect, or default of the master, mariner, pilot, or the servants of the carrier in the navigation or in the management of the ship, the carrier is not relieved from liability for loss or damage arising from negligence in the care and custody of the cargo.[10]

§ 131. Limitation of Liability by Contract or Bill of Lading

a. In general
b. Construction, operation, and effect
c. Loss of benefit of exceptions

a. In General

In order that an alleged contract may be effective to limit the liability of a carrier, the usual requisites of a valid contract must be present, and it must be shown that a contract for limitation was in fact made.

In order that an alleged contract may be effective to limit the liability of a carrier, the usual requisites of a valid contract must be present, and it must be shown that a contract for limitation was in fact made,[11] as by the carrier's special agreement with the shipper or his agent,[12] or by notice to the shipper acquiesced in by him,[13] or by shipment of goods on the implied understanding that the shipment is subject to limitations customary in bills to be issued later,[14] or by the shipper's ratification of terms of limitation not agreed to by him on delivery of the goods.[15]

The parties may properly incorporate statutory limitations of liability in the bill of lading,[16] or provide by appropriate stipulations in the contract of shipment that the carrier shall be entitled to exemptions specified by statutes which would not otherwise be applicable,[17] and they may also agree that statutory restrictions on the right to contract for exemption shall be applicable;[18] but it is not competent for the parties to agree that a statute which is declaratory of the rights and liabilities of shippers and carriers shall be inapplicable to a shipment falling within its purview.[19] Where a particular statute is incorporated in a bill of lading, the provisions of the statute prevail over other provisions of the contract.[20] Express contractual adoption of a specified statute is equivalent to a recital of its exemptions.[21]

Proximate cause. In order to secure exemption with respect to loss or damage from an excepted risk, it must be shown that such excepted risk was

8. U S—American Linseed Co. v. Norfolk & North American Steam Shipping Co, D C N Y, 32 F 2d 281.
58 C J. p 408 note 38.

9. U S—W T. Lockett Co v. Cunard SS Co, D.C N.Y., 21 F 2d 191.

10. U S—W T Lockett Co. v. Cunard SS Co, supra.
58 C J. p 408 note 40

11. U S—The Jeanie, Wash, 236 F 463, 149 C C.A. 515
58 C J. p 412 note 10.

Provisions of bills of lading held incorporated by reference
U S—The Iristo, D C N Y, 43 F Supp 29, affirmed, C C A, Middleton & Co (Canada) Limited v Ocean Dominion S. S Corp, 137 F 2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct 432, 320 U.S 802, 88 L Ed 484.

12. U S—Hus v Kempf, D C N.Y, 12 F Cas No 5,943, 10 Ben. 231.
58 C J. p 412 note 11.

13. U.S—Merriman v The May Queen, D C La., 17 F.Cas No 9,481, Newb.Adm 464.
58 C J. p 412 note 12.

14. U S—Luckenbach SS Co. v. American Mills Co, C C A La, 24 F.2d 704.

15. N.Y.—Rubens v. Ludgate Hill SS. Co., 20 N Y S 481, 65 Hun 625.
58 C J p 412 note 14.

16. U.S—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C. C A Va., 108 F 2d 603, certiorari denied S. C. Loveland, Inc. v. Pennsylvania Sugar Co, 60 S Ct. 724, 309 U S. 683, 84 L Ed. 1027—Ravenscroft v. U. S, C C A N.Y., 88 F. 2d 418, certiorari denied 57 S Ct. 940, 301 U.S. 707, 81 L Ed 1361—Epstein v. U. S, D C N Y, 86 F Supp 740—The Vale Royal, D C. Md, 51 F Supp 412
Statutory exemptions from liability in general see supra §§ 126–129.

17. U.S—Constable v. National SS. Co, N Y, 14 S Ct. 1062, 154 U.S. 51, 38 L.Ed. 903
58 C J. p 412 note 17.

Cargo carried on deck
Parties may by bill of lading agree that Carriage of Goods by Sea Act shall apply to cargo carried on deck —Globe Solvents Co v The California, C C A.Pa, 167 F 2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 67, 335 U S 844, 93 L Ed. 394—Waterman S. S Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C C A La., 155 F 2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S Ct. 115, 329 U S 761, 91 L Ed 656—Uniao De Transportadores Para Importacao E Comercio, Ltda v. Companhia De Navegacao Carregadores Acoreanos, D C N Y, 84 F Supp 582.

18. U.S.—The Cornelia, D C.N.Y., 15 F.2d 245.
58 C J. p 412 note 18.

19. N Y.—Straus v. Canadian Pac. R Co., 234 N.Y.S 622, 134 Misc. 439.
Power to limit liability see infra § 132.

20. U S—Epstein v. U S, D.C N.Y., 86 F.Supp 740—The Vale Royal, D. C Md, 51 F Supp. 412.

21. U.S.—The Manitoba, D.C.N.Y, 104 F. 145
58 C J. p 412 note 20.

the proximate cause of damage.[22] If reasonable doubt exists as to whether damage arose from the excepted peril, exemption will be denied.[23] Proof that loss occurred from an unknown cause will not excuse the carrier.[24]

b. Construction, Operation, and Effect

As a general rule, restrictions on a water carrier's liability in contracts drawn by it are strictly construed against the carrier.

While contractual provisions limiting the carrier's liability will be given a reasonable interpretation,[25] in accordance with the presumed intent of the parties,[26] in the light of the applicable circumstances,[27] as a general rule, restrictions on a water carrier's liability in contracts drawn by it are construed strictly against the carrier and in favor of the shipper.[28] Exceptions relieving carriers from liability for loss resulting from "other" causes or circumstances have been construed as merely adding a penumbra of meaning to specified risks[29] so as to include similar things not literally covered.[30]

Where loss occurs from an excepted peril, the ship is prima facie excused,[31] if seaworthy,[32] and can be held liable only on affirmative proof of its negligence as efficient cause of the loss.[33] In other words, where the carrier shows that damage arose from an excepted cause, and there is no evidence either way as to negligence, exemption will be granted.[34]

In the absence of express stipulation to such effect, exemptions are never construed to include negligence[35] or other default[36] of the carrier. Exceptions in bills of lading are not to be construed as affecting the implied warranty of seaworthiness at the commencement of the voyage unless that intention clearly appears,[37] but rather as applying only to matters arising after commencement of the voyage.[38] General rules govern as to construction of particular clauses relating to unseaworthiness.[39] It has been held that stowage of cargo in a part of the ship unfit to carry the cargo stowed there renders the ship unseaworthy quoad such cargo so as to make contractual exceptions unavailable.[40]

c. Loss of Benefit of Exceptions

(1) In general
(2) Carrier's negligence
(3) Deviation
(4) Unseaworthiness
(5) Waiver or estoppel

(1) In General

Where damage arises from the carrier's breach of contract it will be denied the benefit of exceptions otherwise available.

Where damage arises from the carrier's breach of contract[41] by a departure from the agreed method of transportation,[42] such as the omission to cover goods with tarpaulins[43] or stowing goods above

22. U.S.—The G. R. Booth, Cal., 19 S.Ct. 9, 171 U.S. 450, 43 L.Ed. 234
58 C.J. p. 417 note 95

23. N.Y.—Corn Products Refining Co. v. Norton, 236 N.Y.S. 700, 135 Misc. 238.

24. U.S.—The Lennox, D.C.N.Y., 90 F. 308.
Tenn.—Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. 340, 27 Am.D. 515.
58 C.J. p. 417 note 97.

25. U.S.—The Cardiganshire, D.C. Cal., 9 F.2d 416—Middle East Agency v. The John B. Waterman, D.C. N.Y., 86 F.Supp. 487.

Provisions construed

Large pieces of machinery which were shipped on skids, not cased or crated, were "packages" within limitation of liability provisions of bill of lading.—Middle East Agency v. The John B. Waterman, supra.

26. N.Y.—Spinetti v. Atlas S.S. Co., 80 N.Y. 71, 36 Am.R. 579.

27. U.S.—The Cardiganshire, D.C. Cal., 9 F.2d 416.

28. U.S.—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S.S. Co., C.C.A. Canal Zone, 88 F.2d 392
58 C.J. p. 413 note 28.

Exception held too general to excuse carrier from liability

U.S.—Spreckles Sugar Co. v. South Atlantic S.S. Line, D.C.Ga., 49 F. Supp. 714

29. U.S.—The Poznan, D.C.N.Y., 276 F. 418.

30. U.S.—The Poznan, supra.

31. U.S.—The Florinda, D.C.N.Y., 31 F.2d 262, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 514, 279 U.S. 874, 73 L.Ed. 1009.
58 C.J. p. 413 note 29

32. U.S.—The Thomas P. Beal, C.C.A.N.J., 11 F.2d 49—Kaufer Co. v. Luckenbach SS. Co., D.C.Wash., 284 F. 160

33. U.S.—The Maryland, D.C.N.Y., 19 F.Supp. 505.
58 C.J. p. 413 note 31.

34. U.S.—The J. L. Luckenbach, D.C. Cal., 209 F. 142
58 C.J. p. 413 note 32.

35. U.S.—The Toronto, N.Y., 174 F. 632, 98 C.C.A. 386

36. U.S.—The Toronto, supra.

37. U.S.—Franklin Fire Ins. Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins. Co., 53 S.Ct. 82, 287 U.S. 630, 77 L.Ed. 546
58 C.J. p. 413 note 35.

38. U.S.—The Indrapura, D.C.Or., 178 F. 591, affirmed 190 F. 711, 112 C.C.A. 351.

39. U.S.—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C.C.A.Va., 108 F.2d 603, certiorari denied S.C. Loveland, Inc. v. Pennsylvania Sugar Co., 60 S.Ct. 724, 309 U.S. 683, 84 L.Ed. 1027.
58 C.J. p. 413 note 38.

40. U.S.—The Thomas P. Beal, C.C.A.N.J., 11 F.2d 49.

41. U.S.—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 67 S.Ct. 1310, 331 U.S. 821, 91 L.Ed. 1838
58 C.J. p. 414 note 49.

42. U.S.—The Lafcomo, D.C.N.Y., 64 F.Supp. 529, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Pioneer Import Corporation v. The Lafcomo, 159 F.2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 67 S.Ct. 1310, 331 U.S. 821, 91 L.Ed. 1838.

43. U.S.—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 654, certiorari denied Black Dia-deck when obligated to stow them below,[44] it will be denied the benefit of exceptions otherwise available.

(2) Carrier's Negligence

An exemption sought with respect to damage arising from excepted risks will be denied where it appears that negligence of the carrier contributed to the loss.

Exemption sought with respect to damage arising from excepted risks will be denied where it appears that negligence of the carrier contributed to the loss.[45] Thus, exceptions otherwise applicable do not relieve the carrier from liability for damage resulting from negligence in the stowage,[46] care,[47] or custody[48] of cargo.

(3) Deviation

Voluntary and wrongful deviation deprives the carrier of the benefit of contractual limitations of liability.

Voluntary and wrongful deviation abrogates the shipping contract,[49] at the shipper's option,[50] and deprives the carrier of the benefit of contractual limitations on liability,[51] such as exceptions relative to particular risks or causes of loss,[52] limitations tolling time for suit,[53] and limitations as to value.[54] The contract and its limitations of liability remain in full force and effect where the claim of actionable deviation is not sustained,[55] as where the deviation was involuntary,[56] as where it was necessary to depart from the usual route to save ship, crew, and cargo from destruction at sea;[57] or was justifiable,[58] as under general usage[59] or particular contract provisions[60]

It has been held that deviation deprives the shipowner of the benefit of contractual exceptions unless it affirmatively appears that the loss would have occurred if there had been no deviation,[61] and that a trivial deviation causing no damage will not deprive the carrier of the benefit of contractual exceptions.[62] Deviation caused by unseaworthiness

mond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 67 S.Ct. 1310, 331 U.S. 821, 91 L.Ed. 1838

44. U.S.—The Sarnia, C.C.A.N.Y., 278 F. 459, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 382, 258 U.S. 625, 66 L.Ed. 797.

45. U.S.—Pioneer Import Corporation v. The Lafcomo, C.C.A.N.Y., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Importing Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 776, 88 L.Ed. 1063—Imperial Sugar Co. v. Bright Star S.S. Co., D.C.Tex., 92 F.Supp. 693—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 827, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853—General Electric Co. v. Argonaut S.S. Line, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 710.
58 C.J. p. 414 note 53.
Power to stipulate against liability for negligence see infra § 132 b.

46. U.S.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373—Pioneer Import Corporation v. The Lafcomo, C.C.A.N.Y., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 776, 88 L.Ed. 1063—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 880—The Ensley City, D.C.Md., 71 F.Supp. 444, affirmed, C.A., Isthmian S.S. Co. v. Martin, 170 F.2d 25
58 C.J. p. 414 note 54

47. U.S.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373—The Ensley City, D.C.Md., 71 F.Supp. 444, affirmed, C.C.A., Isthmian S.S. Co. v. Martin, 170 F.2d 25—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 559, affirmed, C.C.A., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L.Ed. 1063
58 C.J. p. 415 note 55.
Care throughout voyage
The carrier's duty to give proper care to cargo under the Harter Act regardless of stipulations attempting to relieve it of such duty continues throughout the voyage—Knott v. Botany Worsted Mills, N.Y., 21 S.Ct. 30, 179 U.S. 69, 45 L.Ed. 90—The Skipton Castle, Cal., 243 F. 523, 156 C.C.A. 221.

48. U.S.—The Milwaukee Bridge, D.C.S.D., 15 F.2d 249, affirmed, C.C.A., 26 F.2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v. U.S., 49 S.Ct. 31, 278 U.S. 632, 73 L.Ed. 550.

49. U.S.—France v. French Overseas Corp., N.Y., 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901
58 C.J. p. 415 note 60.

50. U.S.—Sidney Blumenthal & Co., Inc. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 21 F.2d 798, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 30 F.2d 247, certiorari denied Admiral-Oriental Line v. U.S., 49 S.Ct. 345, 279 U.S. 847, 73 L.Ed. 991
58 C.J. p. 415 note 61.

51. U.S.—U.S. v. City of New York, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.2d 270—The City of Brunswick, D.C.Mass., 4 F.Supp. 908.
58 C.J. p. 415 note 62

52. U.S.—The Ile de Sumatra, D.C.N.Y., 286 F. 437
58 C.J. p. 415 note 63.

53. U.S.—Sidney Blumenthal & Co., Inc. v. U.S. D.C.N.Y., 21 F.2d 798, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 30 F.2d 247, certiorari denied Admiral-Oriental Line v. U.S., 49 S.Ct. 345, 279 U.S. 847, 73 L.Ed. 991.
Limitations tolling time for suit generally see infra § 136.

54. U.S.—Niles-Bement-Pond Co. v. Dampkiesaktieselskabet Balto, C.C.A.N.Y., 282 F. 235
58 C.J. p. 415 note 65
Limitations as to value generally see infra § 137

55. U.S.—Lagerloef Trading Co., Inc. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 43 F.2d 871.
58 C.J. p. 415 note 66.

56. U.S.—France v. French Overseas Corp., N.Y., 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U.S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379

57. U.S.—The Turret Crown, C.C.A.N.Y., 297 F. 766, certiorari denied Commonwealth S.S. Co. v. Patent Vulcanite Roofing Co., 44 S.Ct. 403, 264 U.S. 591, 68 L.Ed. 865.

58. U.S.—Hostetter v. Park, Pa., 11 S.Ct. 1, 137 U.S. 30, 34 L.Ed. 568
Deviation held not excused
U.S.—The City of Brunswick, D.C.Mass., 4 F.Supp. 908

59. U.S.—Hostetter v. Park, Pa., 11 S.Ct. 1, 137 U.S. 30, 34 L.Ed. 568.
58 C.J. p. 415 note 70.

60. U.S.—Sheldon v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft, C.C.A.N.J., 28 F.2d 249
58 C.J. p. 415 note 71.
Stipulations expressly permitting delay see infra § 133.

61. U.S.—Globe Nav. Co. v. Russ Lumber, etc., Co., D.C.Cal., 167 F. 228.

62. U.S.—The Caterina Gerolimich, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.2d 248, affirmed, C.C.A., 54 F.2d 1080.
58 C.J. p. 416 note 74.

displaces the contract of affreightment only in so far as damage is caused by the unseaworthiness;[63] or, in other words, the carrier is denied the benefit of contractual exceptions because of the unseaworthiness and not because of an involuntary deviation resulting therefrom.[64]

(4) Unseaworthiness

An exemption sought with respect to excepted risks will be denied where it appears that unexcepted unseaworthiness of the ship contributed to the loss or damage.

An exemption sought with respect to excepted risks will be denied where it appears that unexcepted unseaworthiness of the ship contributed to the loss or damage.[65] Unseaworthiness of the ship does not preclude exemption from liability for damage resulting from a cause wholly distinct from unseaworthiness and excepted by the parties.[66]

Diligence. A shipowner failing in the statutory[67] or contractual[68] duty to exercise diligence to furnish a seaworthy ship is precluded from securing the benefit of contract exemptions from loss. Whether or not due diligence has been exercised will depend on the particular circumstances involved.[69] Where the carrier fails to exercise due diligence to have the vessel properly manned, and damage to cargo results from incompetence of employees aboard ship, the carrier will be denied the benefit of contractual limitations.[70]

Where specific exception as to loss resulting from unseaworthiness is by contract provision dependent on the shipowner's exercise of due diligence, failure to exercise due diligence deprives the owner of the benefit of such exception.[71]

(5) Waiver or Estoppel

Contractual exceptions or limitations of liability are subject to defeat by waiver or estoppel.

Contractual exceptions or limitations as to liability are subject to defeat by waiver[72] or estoppel.[73] Waiver is a question of intention.[74]

§ 132. —— Power to Limit

a. In general
b. Exceptions relieving carrier from negligence
c. Unseaworthiness

a. In General

Within the restrictions prescribed by legislation and public policy, a common carrier of goods by water may by contract limit its liability for loss.

A common carrier of goods by water may by contract limit its liability for loss,[75] but, the contract must be within the restrictions prescribed by legislation and public policy,[76] and contractual ex-

63. U.S.—France v. French Overseas Corp., N.Y., 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901.

64. U.S.—France v. French Overseas Corp., supra.

65. U.S.—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 827, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853—The City of Brunswick, D.C.Mass., 4 F.Supp. 908
58 C.J. p. 416 note 78.
Power to stipulate against liability for unseaworthiness see infra § 132 c.

Unseaworthiness alone displaces contract of affreightment only in so far as damage is caused by the unseaworthiness of vessel.—The Maui, C.C.A.Cal., 113 F.2d 1018, certiorari denied John Demartini Co. v. The Maui, 61 S.Ct. 317, 311 U.S. 709, 85 L.Ed. 461.

66. U.S.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U.S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379.
58 C.J. p. 416 note 90.

67. U.S.—France v. French Overseas Corp., N.Y., 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901.
58 C.J. p. 416 note 83.
Statutory duty as to diligence with respect to seaworthiness see supra § 127.

68. U.S.—Warner Sugar Refining Co. v. Munson SS Line, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.2d 194, affirmed, C.C.A., 32 F.2d 1021—The Willowpool, D.C.N.Y., 12 F.Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C.A., John W. Higman & Co. v. The Willowpool, 86 F.2d 1002.

Agreement making Harter Act applicable
Where the parties have agreed that the Harter Act shall be applicable in a case where it would not apply without such agreement, in order to secure the benefit of contractual exceptions the shipowner must show exercise of due diligence to make the ship seaworthy.—Warner Sugar Refining Co. v. Munson SS Line, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.2d 194, affirmed, C.C.A., 32 F.2d 1021.

69. U.S.—Warner Sugar Refining Co. v. Munson SS Line, supra.
58 C.J. p. 416 note 85

70. U.S.—U.S. v. U.S. Steel Products Co., D.C.N.Y., 27 F.2d 547.
58 C.J. p. 416 note 86.

71. U.S.—Warner Sugar Refining Co. v. Munson SS Line, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.2d 194, affirmed, C.C.A., 32 F.2d 1021.

72. U.S.—The Jeanie, Wash., 236 F. 463, 149 C.C.A. 515.
58 C.J. p. 417 note 92.

73. U.S.—The Carso, C.C.A.N.Y., 53 F.2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc., 52 S.Ct. 140, 284 U.S. 679, 76 L.Ed. 574.
58 C.J. p. 417 note 93.

Where bills of lading contain false statements to the knowledge of the issuing carrier, and where the shipper in good faith relies and acts thereon, the carrier may be denied the benefit of limitations contained in such bills.—Switzerland General Ins. Co. of Zurich v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S.A., C.C.A.N.Y., 91 F.2d 960—58 C.J. p. 412 note 15, p. 417 note 93 [a].

74. U.S.—The General G. W. Goethals, D.C.N.Y., 298 F. 933, affirmed, C.C.A., 298 F. 935, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 94, 266 U.S. 610, 69 L.Ed. 466
58 C.J. p. 417 note 94.

75. U.S.—The Margaret Lykes, D.C.La., 57 F.Supp. 466
58 C.J. p. 409 note 43

Attempted limitation held ineffectual
La.—Fassett v. Ruark, 3 La.Ann. 694.

76. U.S.—The Monte Iciar, C.C.A.Pa., 167 F.2d 334—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S.S. Co., C.C.A.Canal Zone, 88 F.2d 392—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co. v. James McWilliams Blue Line, D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 992, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F.2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v.

ceptions contrary to statute are void.[77] The limitation must be just and reasonable,[78] and whether it will be sustained necessarily depends on the facts in each particular case.[79] Where the liability of the vessel is limited by a condition impossible of execution, such condition becomes nugatory, and the general liability of carriers for the nondelivery of freight attaches.[80] Although a stipulation for exemption from liability be in part in contravention of law, such portion as is otherwise valid may be enforced[81] where it is capable of separation.[82]

Exceptions or limitations of liability in bills of lading are subject to the provisions of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act,[83] and any exceptions or limitations in conflict therewith are invalid and of no effect.[84]

The Harter Act was enacted for the purpose of prohibiting contracts restricting the carriers' liability in certain particulars.[85] It is confined to the liabilities and immunities of carriers to shippers of merchandise,[86] it does not apply to shipments between foreign ports,[87] but it does apply to all vessels, domestic or foreign, engaged in transporting cargo to a United States port, whether hailing from a domestic or a foreign port.[88] Provisions of the Harter Act expressly forbidding contractual exceptions relieving the carrier from liability for its negligence with respect to care and custody of cargo, have been held applicable to special,[89] as well as to common,[90] carriers; but inapplicable to private carriers,[91] as where goods are carried under a

Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S Ct 25, 302 U S 706, 82 L Ed 545—The Ansaldo San Giorgio I, D C N Y., 3 F Supp 579, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 73 F 2d 40, affirmed The Ansaldo San Giorgio I v Rheinstrom Bros Co, 55 S Ct 483, 294 U S 494, 79 L Ed 1016
Mass—Cunningham Leather Co v American-Hawaiian S S Co, 189 N E 98, 285 Mass 232
N Y—M & T Trust Co v Export S S Corporation, 186 N.E 214, 262 N.Y 92

77. U S—Swift v Furness, Withy & Co, Ltd, D C Mass, 87 F. 345
58 C J p 409 note 47.

78. U S—Liverpool, etc, Steam Co v Phenix Ins. Co, N Y., 9 S Ct 469, 129 U S 397, 32 L Ed. 788—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co v Colombian S. S Co, C C A.Canal Zone, 88 F.2d 392—The Ansaldo San Giorgio I, D C N Y, 3 F Supp 579, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 73 F 2d 40, affirmed The Ansaldo San Giorgio I v. Rheinstrom Bros. Co, 55 S Ct 483, 294 U S. 494, 79 L Ed 1016
Mass—Cunningham Leather Co v American-Hawaiian S. S. Co, 189 N E 98, 285 Mass 232

79. U S—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co v Colombian S S. Co, C C A.Canal Zone, 88 F 2d 392.

80. U S—Turnbull v. Citizens' Bank, C C La, 16 F. 145, 4 Woods 193.

81. U S—The Prussia, D C N.Y, 88 F 531, affirmed 93 F 837, 35 C C A 625, certiorari denied 19 S Ct 885, 174 U S 803, 43 L Ed 1188

82. U S—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U S, D.C Md, 12 F Supp 379.

83. U S.—General Foods Corp. v The Troubador, D C N Y, 98 F Supp. 207—George F Pettinos, Inc, v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa, 68 F Supp. 759. Affirmed, C C.A, 159 F.2d 247—Export S S Corp v American Ins. Co., Newark, N. J., D C N Y, 26 F Supp 79, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 106 F 2d 9, opinion adhered to 108 F 2d 1013, certiorari denied American S S. Owners Mut Protection and Indemnity Ass'n v Export S S Corp and American Export Lines, 60 S Ct 809, 309 U S 686, 84 L Ed 1029

Printed provision of bill of lading

Any attempt by carrier to modify the limitation provisions of the statute through a printed provision of a bill of lading should be carefully scrutinized by the courts—Middle East Agency v The John B Waterman, D C.N.Y., 86 F Supp. 487.

84. U S—General Foods Corp v The Troubador, D C N.Y, 98 F Supp. 207—Export S S Corp. v. American Ins. Co, D C N.Y., 26 F Supp. 79, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 106 F 2d 9, opinion adhered to 108 F 2d 1013, certiorari denied American S S Owners Mut Protection and Indemnity Ass'n v Export S. S Corp. and American Export Lines, 60 S Ct. 809, 309 U S 686, 84 L Ed. 1029.

Liability for failure to deliver goods

Bill of lading issued by berth agent of vessel time chartered to War Shipping Administration was invalid in so far as it purported to relieve the United States from liability for failure to deliver the goods.—Epstein v U S, D C.N.Y, 86 F Supp 740.

Both-to-Blame clause in bill of lading, providing that in event of collision, cargo owners will indemnify carrying ship owner against liability to other ship for claim of such cargo paid or payable by other ship and set off, recouped, or recovered by such ship as part of its claim against carrying ship, was invalid by pre-existing law as well as Carriage of Goods by Sea Act providing that any clause relieving the carrier from liability in connection with the goods was null and void and of no effect—U. S v Farr Sugar Corp., C A N Y., 191 F.2d 370, affirmed U S v Atlantic Mut Ins Co, 72 S Ct 666, 343 U S. 236, 96 L Ed —

85. U S—The Delaware, N Y, 16 S. Ct. 516, 161 U S 459, 40 L Ed 771—Tan Hi v U S, D C Cal, 94 F. Supp 432—The Willdomino, C C A N J, 300 F 5, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 261, 272 U S 718, 71 L Ed 491.
Statutory exemptions under Harter Act see supra §§ 127, 128

86. Wash—Heino v Libby, 205 P 854, 116 Wash. 148.
58 C J. p 409 note 49.

87. U S—Louis-Dreyfus v. Paterson Steamships, Ltd, D.C N Y, 35 F 2d 353, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 43 F 2d 824, 72 A L R 242.
N Y.—Strauss v. Canadian Pac R. Co, 173 N E 564, 254 N Y. 407, 416.
58 C J. p 409 note 50.

88. U S.—Knott v. Botany Worsted Mills, N.Y, 21 S Ct. 30, 179 U S 69, 45 L Ed 90—The Ferncliff, D C Md, 22 F Supp 728, certified questions answered 59 S Ct 615, 306 U S. 444, 83 L Ed 862, affirmed, C C A., 105 F.2d 1021.

89. U S.—Bolton Steam Shipping Co. v. Crossman, D.C N.Y., 206 F. 183.

90. U S—Bolton Steam Shipping Co. v. Crossman, supra

91. U S.—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co v. James McWilliams Blue Line, C C A N.Y, 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v. Koppers Connecticut Coke Co., 58 S Ct 25, 302 U S. 706, 82 L Ed. 545—The Nat Sutton, C C A.N Y, 62 F 2d 787, amended on other grounds, C.C A, In re W. E. Hedger Co., 63 F 2d 1021—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. O'Donnell Transp. Co, D.C N.Y, 62 F Supp. 239—The Ferncliff, D C.Md., 22 F. Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L.Ed 862, affirmed, C.C.A., 105 F.2d 1021

charter party by which the whole ship is demised,[92] unless the parties expressly so agree.[93]

b. Exceptions Relieving Carrier from Negligence

Unless authorized by statute, the general rule is that a carrier lacks power to contract itself out of responsibility for the negligence of itself and its employees.

Unless authorized by statute,[94] the general rule is that a carrier lacks power to contract itself out of responsibility for the negligence of itself and its employees,[95] as in the case of negligence of master and crew,[96] or of stevedores[97] in the employ of the carrier, as where the contract attempts to relieve the carrier from liability for negligent navigation.[98] Stipulations exempting the carrier from liability for its negligence have been held void as contrary to public policy,[99] and general principles of maritime law.[1]

In view of the provision of the Harter Act exempting shipowners diligent as to seaworthiness from liability for loss resulting from negligence in the navigation or management of the ship, a contractual stipulation relieving the carrier with respect to such negligence is not invalid under the act.[2] Under the provision of the act dealing primarily with stipulations as to seaworthiness and further prohibiting agreements lessening the obligations of the shipmaster and other agents of the carrier carefully to handle, stow, care for, and deliver the cargo, stipulations relieving the carrier from liability for negligence in such respects are invalid.[3]

—The Northern No 29, D C N.Y., 15 F Supp 543, reversed on other grounds, C C A, Flat-Top Fuel Co v Martin, 85 F.2d 39, certiorari denied 57 S Ct 110, 299 U S 585, 81 L Ed 431
58 C J. p 409 note 55.

The judicially determined inapplicability of Harter Act to private carriers is consistent with legislative policy to free marine commerce from hampering conditions in marine bills of lading purporting to exempt ship from liability only if its inapplicability is restricted to original parties to contract of private carriage and those who have knowledge or notice thereof—The Ferncliff, D C Md, 22 F.Supp 728, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U.S. 444, 83 L Ed. 862, affirmed, C C A., 105 F.2d 1021.

92. U.S—Pan-American Trading Co. v. Franquiz, D C Fla., 8 F 2d 500
58 C J p 409 note 56.

93. U.S—Koppers Connecticut Coke Co v James McWilliams Blue Line, C.C A N Y, 89 F 2d 865, certiorari denied James McWilliams Blue Line v Koppers Connecticut Coke Co, 58 S Ct. 25, 302 U S 706, 82 L Ed 545.

94. U S—Fyfe v Pan-Atlantic S S Corp., C C A.N Y., 114 F 2d 72, certiorari denied Pan Atlantic S S. Corp. v. Fyfe, 61 S Ct. 319, 311 U. S 711, 85 L Ed 462

95. U.S—Globe Solvents Co. v The California, C C A Pa, 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S Ct 67, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L Ed 394—The Monte Iciar, C C A Pa, 167 F.2d 334—Mackey v. U S, D.C N.Y, 83 F. Supp. 14, affirmed, C A., 197 F.2d 241—The Ferncliff, D C Md., 22 F. Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S.Ct. 615, 306 U.S 444, 83 L.Ed. 862, affirmed, C.C.A, 105 F 2d 1021—Daisy Philippine Underwear Co. v. U S. Steel Products Co., D.C.N Y, 11 F.Supp. 175, affirmed, C.C.A, U S Steel Products Co v American & Foreign Ins Co, 82 F 2d 752—The Harry Luckenbach, D C N Y, 8 F Supp 507
La.—American Cotton Co-op. Ass'n v New Orleans & Vicksburg Packet Co., 157 So 733, 180 La 836.
58 C J p 409 note 63.
Negligence as depriving carrier of exceptions see supra § 131 c (2)

Lighter's employees
A main carrier may not stipulate away liability to shipper for loss due to negligence of a lighter's employees if the lighterage is a job undertaken by the carrier—Fyfe v. Pan-Atlantic S. S. Corp, C C.A.N.Y, 114 F.2d 72, certiorari denied Pan Atlantic S S Corp. v. Fyfe, 61 S.Ct 319, 311 U S 711, 85 L Ed. 462

Stipulation for delivery from ship's side has been held valid and not an attempt to exempt liability for negligence—Bonura v United Fruit Co, 110 So. 86, 162 La 53.

96. U S.—The Mary F Barrett, D C Pa., 270 F 618, reversed on other grounds, C C.A, 279 F. 329
58 C.J. p 410 note 64

Prior to Harter Act, common carrier by sea could not exempt himself from liability to cargo owner for damages caused by negligence of master or crew.—Aktieselskabet Cuzco v The Sucarseco, N Y., 55 S Ct 467, 294 U S 394, 79 L Ed. 942—The Framlington Court, C C.A.Tex, 69 F. 2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L Ed 1500—The Mary F. Barrett, D C.Pa, 270 F 618, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 279 F. 329

97. U S—The Orcadian, D C Pa, 116 F. 930.
58 C J. p 410 note 65

98. U.S—The Brantford City, D.C N.Y, 29 F. 373
58 C.J. p 410 note 66.

Prior to the Harter Act, any agreement absolving shipowner from liability for negligent navigation or negligence in management and operation of the vessel was void as against public policy.—U S. v. The Esso Belgium, Atlantic Mut Ins Co, Intervener, D C.N.Y, 90 F Supp. 836, reversed on other grounds, C A, U. S. v Farr Sugar Corp, 191 F 2d 370, affirmed U S v Atlantic Mut Ins. Co, 72 S.Ct 666, 343 U.S 236, 96 L. Ed —

99. U S—The Ansaldo San Giorgio I v. Rheinstrom Bros Co., N Y, 55 S. Ct 483, 294 U S 494, 79 L Ed 1016—The California, D C.Pa, 67 F. Supp 719, reversed on other grounds, C C A, Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, 167 F 2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S Ct 67, 335 U S. 844, 93 L Ed 394.
58 C.J p 410 note 67

1. U S—The C Lopez y Lopez, C C. A N Y, 297 F 457—Gilchrist Transp. Co v Boston Ins Co, Mich, 223 F 716, 139 C C.A. 246

Exemption held valid under English law
U.S—The Miguel di Larrinaga, D C. N.Y, 217 F 678.

2. U S—U S v The Esso Belgium, Atlantic Mut Ins Co, Intervener, D.C N Y, 90 F Supp 836, reversed on other grounds, C A., U S v Farr Sugar Corp, 191 F 2d 370, affirmed U. S. v Atlantic Mut. Ins Co, 72 S.Ct 666, 343 U S 236, 96 L Ed —.
58 C.J p 410 note 77.

3. U.S—The Monte Iciar, C C.A Pa., 167 F 2d 334—Fyfe v Pan-Atlantic S S Corp., C.C.A N Y., 114 F 2d 72, certiorari denied Pan Atlantic S. S Corp v. Fyfe, 61 S Ct. 319, 311 U S 711, 85 L Ed 462
58 C J. p 410 note 80.

Substituted delivery
The provision of Harter Act making it unlawful to insert in a bill of

Under the provision expressly forbidding contractual exceptions relieving the carrier from liability for negligence in the care and custody of cargo, stipulations purporting to relieve the carrier from liability for such negligence are void.[4]

Under the Harter Act, exceptions are ordinarily invalid which purport to relieve the carrier from liability for damage resulting from negligent loading,[5] stowage,[6] custody,[7] care,[8] or proper delivery[9] of the cargo. If taking a cargo to a vessel in lighters be part of the loading of a vessel, a stipulation in the bill of lading relieving the carrier from failure to provide a fit lighter is prohibited;[10] and the parties cannot insert stipulations determining what shall constitute a proper delivery any further than shall appear reasonable under the circumstances, and no such stipulation could cover negligence in receiving and stowing the goods, or in making a search for them at the port of delivery, whereby the goods are carried past the port and not delivered.[11] A stipulation that the law of the ship's flag shall govern, in a bill of lading for goods in a foreign vessel on a voyage from a foreign port to the United States, is nullified and overridden by the provision of the act prohibiting contracts against liability for negligence in loading and stowing the cargo.[12]

c. Unseaworthiness

A shipowner may relieve himself from liability for unseaworthiness provided due diligence has been used to make the ship seaworthy.

Subject to statutory restrictions, a shipowner may relieve himself from liability for loss to cargo caused by an unseaworthy ship,[13] but an ambiguous contract will not be construed as lessening the duty of furnishing a seaworthy ship.[14] Under provisions of the Harter Act prohibiting contractual stipulations relieving an owner from his duty of exercising due diligence to furnish a seaworthy ship, liability for loss to cargo caused by unseaworthiness may be contracted away providing the shipowner used due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy.[15] While the act does not by the force of its own terms reduce the warranty of seaworthiness to the duty to exercise due diligence,[16] and in the absence of a contract provision to the contrary the usual absolute warranty of seaworthiness is applicable,[17] the owner may, by proper stipulation, reduce the warranty of seaworthiness to one of diligence with respect thereto.[18]

Under the Harter Act, liability for loss caused by unseaworthiness arising from the owner's lack of diligence cannot be contracted away,[19] and conlading any words whereby the obligations of the master "to carefully handle and stow cargo and to care for and properly deliver same shall in any wise be lessened, weakened, or avoided" does not make improper a substituted delivery in accordance with long-established custom, or render void a provision in a bill of lading authorizing delivery on a quay or into lighters, and providing that the goods shall "remain at consignee's risk and expense immediately after being placed into lighters or on the quay"—The Portuguese Prince, D C N Y, 209 F. 995

4. U.S—The Vallescura, N.Y, 55 S Ct 194, 293 U S 296, 79 L Ed 373
58 C J p 410 note 82.

5. U S—Morris v Lamport & Holt, D C N.Y, 54 F 2d 925, affirmed, C C.A, 57 F 2d 1081
58 C J p 411 note 83.

6. U S—Export S S Corp v. American Ins Co, Newark, N. J, D C N Y, 26 F Supp 79, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 106 F.2d 9, opinion adhered to 108 F 2d 1013, certiorari denied American S S Owners Mut. Protection and Indemnity Ass'n v. Export S S Corp. and American Export Lines, 60 S.Ct 809, 309 U.S 686, 84 L Ed 1029
58 C.J. p 411 note 84.

7. U S—Dietrich v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, C C A.N.Y, 9 F 2d 733, certiorari denied 49 S Ct 82, 278 U S 647, 73 L Ed 560—The Germanic, N Y., 124 F 1, 59 C C A 521, affirmed 25 S Ct 317, 196 U.S 589, 49 L Ed 610.

8. U S—The Edith, C C.A N Y., 10 F. 2d 684.
58 C J p 411 note 86.

9. U S—Tan Hi v. U. S., D.C Cal, 94 F Supp. 432.
58 C J p 411 note 87.

10. U S—The Seaboard, D C N Y, 119 F. 375—Insurance Co of North America v. North German Lloyd Co, D C Md, 106 F. 973, affirmed 110 F. 420, 49 C C A. 1

11. U S—Calderon v. Atlas SS Co, D C N.Y, 64 F 874, reversed on other grounds 18 S.Ct. 588, 170 U S 272, 42 L Ed 1033

12. U S—The Kensington, N.Y., 22 S.Ct 102, 183 U S 263, 46 L Ed 190—Botany Worsted Mills v Knott, N.Y., 82 F 471, 27 C C A. 326, affirmed 21 S Ct 30, 179 U S 69, 45 L Ed 90.

13. U S—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v Buckeye S. S. Co, C.C.A Ohio, 70 F. 2d 146, certiorari denied 55 S Ct 74, 293 U S 562, 79 L Ed. 663
58 C J. p 411 note 93
Exceptions as to latent defects see infra § 133.

14. U S.—The Caledonia, Mass, 15 S.Ct. 537, 157 U S 124, 39 L Ed 644
58 C J. p 411 note 94.
Duty to furnish seaworthy ship generally see infra § 140.

15. U S—The Toledo, C C A N Y, 122 F 2d 255, certiorari denied Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v. The Toledo, 62 S Ct. 302, 314 U S. 689, 86 L Ed 551—Franklin Fire Ins Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co, D C N.Y, 54 F.2d 807, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins Co, 53 S Ct 82, 287 U S 630, 77 L Ed. 546—The Emilia, D C N Y, 13 F Supp 7—The Empress of Russia, D C N Y, 1 F.Supp. 978.
58 C J p 411 note 96.
Due diligence held shown
U.S.—The Floridian, C C A.N.Y., 83 F 2d 949, certiorari denied Roberts, Brining & Co v The Floridian, 57 S Ct 41, 299 U S 577, 81 L.Ed. 425.

16. U S—The Ft Gaines, D C.Md., 24 F 2d 849, affirmed, C C A, Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lanasa, 32 F 2d 154—The Arakan, D C Cal., 11 F 2d 791.

17. U S—The Ft. Gaines, D C.Md., 24 F 2d 849, affirmed, C C A., Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lanasa, 32 F. 2d 154.

18. U S—The Carib Prince, N.Y, 18 S Ct 753, 170 U.S 655, 42 L.Ed. 1181.
58 C.J. p 411 note 99.

19. U.S—American Agr Chemical tract stipulations purporting to relieve the owner of such duty are invalid,[20] even if they seek to accomplish such result indirectly,[21] as by providing that a specified report shall be conclusive evidence of the exercise of due diligence with respect to seaworthiness.[22] In other words, stipulations in a bill of lading cannot relieve a carrier from the discharge of his initial duty under the act to use due diligence to furnish a seaworthy vessel,[23] and in order to render available a specific contractual exception from the usual warranty of seaworthiness, the carrier must prove exercise of due diligence to make the ship seaworthy.[24] The degree of diligence required under the provision of the act regulating stipulations as to seaworthiness does not vary from that required under the provision as to statutory exemption.[25]

The provision of the Harter Act restricting contractual exceptions as to seaworthiness applies to common,[26] but not to private,[27] carriers, unless the parties so agree.[28]

§ 133. —— Particular Risks or Causes of Loss in General

a. In general
b. Acts of God
c. Dangers of rivers and lakes and navigation thereon
d Decay
e Effect of climate
f. Fire
g Heat or heating
h Inherent defect, quality, or vice i Insurable damage, giving carrier benefit of insurance
j. Latent defects
k. Leakage
l Rust or corrosion
m Shipper's or consignee's risk
n Sweat
o Theft

a. In General

The courts have considered and construed a large number of terms and phrases included in shipping contracts or bills of lading excepting particular risks or causes of loss, such as exceptions relieving the carrier from liability for breakage, collision, deck stowage, delay, taint from other goods, strikes, etc.

The courts have considered and construed a large number of terms and phrases included in shipping contracts or bills of lading excepting particular risks or causes of loss.[29] Under exceptions relieving the

Co v. O'Donnell Transp Co, D C N Y, 62 F Supp. 239.
58 C J p 411 note 1.

20. U.S.—Martin v. The Southwark, Pa, 24 S.Ct. 1, 191 U.S 1, 48 L.Ed 65.
58 C J. p 412 note 2.

21. U S.—Philippine Refining Corp. v. U. S, D C N.Y, 29 F 2d 134, affirmed, C C.A, 41 F.2d 1010

22. U S.—Philippine Refining Corp v. U. S, supra.
58 C J p 412 note 4.

23. U S —Martin v. The Southwark, Pa., 24 S Ct. 1, 191 U S. 1, 48 L. Ed 65—Standard Oil Co. v. U S, D C N.Y., 26 F.2d 385

24. U.S —Franklin Fire Ins. Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co, D C N.Y, 54 F.2d 807, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 58 F 2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co v Franklin Fire Ins Co., 53 S Ct. 82, 287 U S 630, 77 L Ed 546.
58 C J p 412 note 6.

25. U.S.—American Co for International Commerce v. U. S., D.C N Y, 26 F.2d 468

26. U.S.—The City of Dunkirk, D.C. N Y., 10 F.2d 609.
58 C J. p 409 note 59.

27. U.S.—The Ft Gaines, D.C Md., 24 F.2d 849.
58 C J. p 409 note 60.

28. U S —The Agwimoon, D C.Md., 24 F 2d 864, affirmed, C.C A, Atlantic, etc, SS Lines v Interocean Oil Co, 31 F 2d 1006, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 514, 279 U S 874, 73 L Ed 1009.

29. Barratry

(1) Under exceptions as to barratry, exemption may be had for theft by a member of the ship's company —Spinetti v Atlas SS Co., 80 N.Y 71, 36 Am.R 579—58 C J. p 418 note 22

(2) An exception of "damage occasioned by barratry" has been held not to include a mere incident of an attempted but unsuccessful barratry —Putman v The Manitoba, D C N.Y, 104 F 145—58 C J p 418 note 23

(3) A jettison of cattle by the master from mere unfounded apprehension during rough weather is not barratry within the exception —Compania de Navigacion, etc v Brauer, N Y, 18 S Ct. 12, 168 U.S 104, 42 L. Ed 398

Cargo changing character

Under an exception granting exemption as to loss occasioned by the cargo's "change of character," fusing together of bags of quebracho extract during transit constitutes a change of character —Monnier v. U S, D C N Y, 16 F.2d 812, affirmed, C C A, 16 F.2d 815.

"Casualties of river navigation and of steam"

Ind —Adams Express Co. v. Fendrick, 38 Ind 150
58 C J. p 433 note 92.

Contamination

Where, although oil uncontaminated when shipped was contaminated at end of voyage, and tank used did not leak, exception in bill of lading against liability for contamination protected shipowner in absence of negligence —The Anaconda, C.C.A N. Y, 60 F 2d 898.

Custody of carrier

Where bill of lading issued by barge line company limited its responsibility to damages occurring while goods were in its custody and evidence established that damage to goods did not occur while in custody of barge line, barge line was not liable —Newport Rolling Mill Co. v Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co, D C.La, 50 F Supp 623

Damage caused by other goods

Under exceptions relieving the carrier from liability for "damage caused by other goods," exemption will be denied where it appears that negligent stowage was the proximate cause of loss.—The C Lopez y Lopez, C.C.A N.Y, 297 F. 457

Damage to cargo while on lighters

Where shippers had been issued a through bill of lading, carriers could not contract against their liability carrier from liability for damage arising from "dangerous goods shipped without full disclosure of their nature," exemption for loss will be denied where it appears either that a full disclosure was in fact made,[30] or that the goods shipped were not of a dangerous character.[31] Under a bill of lading exempting the carrier from liability for damage arising from "forced interruption or abandonment of the voyage," where the ship is compelled to deviate by perils of the sea proximately deriving their perilous character from original unseaworthiness of the ship, exemption will be denied for delay caused by the deviation alone,[32] but for additional damages resulting from further delay at a port of distress caused by an embargo exemption will be granted.[33]

The fact that a seized ship is released and permitted to proceed to a neutral port under guaranty of return does not preclude operation of a clause exempting from loss or damage occasioned by arrest or restraint of princes, rulers, or people;[34]

during transshipment, in view of the Harter Act, so as to be relieved from liability for negligence of crew of lighter engaged in transferring cargo from vessel of one carrier to vessel of another carrier, by stipulating in bill of lading that carriers were exempted from liability for damage to cargo while on lighters —Fyfe v. Pan-Atlantic S S Corp, C C A N Y, 114 F 2d 72, certiorari denied Pan Atlantic S S. Corp. v Fyfe, 61 S Ct 319, 311 U.S 711, 85 L.Ed 462

Frost

Under specific exceptions as to "frost" the carrier will be exempted from liability for damage arising from the freezing of cargo without its negligence —The Angelo Toso, D C.N.Y., 278 F. 212—58 C J. p 422 note 17

Goods not in actual custody

Under bills of lading providing that carrier shall not be liable for any loss or damage to goods occurring while goods are not in "actual custody" of the carrier, quoted phrase does not require that the goods be on ship's deck or in her slings, and such bills did not relieve carrier from liability for loss or damage to cargo of coffee occurring by carrier's negligence after lighters were secured to the ship and some portion of the cargo of each lighter had been hoisted to the deck of the ship —Mackey v U. S, D C N.Y., 83 F Supp. 14, affirmed, C.A, 197 F 2d 241

Jettison

The validity of a specific exception as to jettison has been upheld —Antola v Gill, C C Md, 7 F. 487, 5 Hughes 284—58 C.J p 423 note 46

Legal process

Exceptions relieving the carrier from liability for loss caused by legal process will not operate to exempt it as to damage proximately due to other causes —The Henry W Breyer, D C.Md, 17 F 2d 423

"Loss or damage on the lakes or rivers"

Ind —St Louis, etc., R. Co v. Smuck, 49 Ind 302.
58 C.J. p 433 note 93.

Loss beyond shipowner's control

Under exceptions relieving the carrier from liability for loss resulting from causes beyond its control, exemption will be granted where the loss was beyond the power of the carrier to prevent —The Angelo Toso, D C N Y, 278 F 212—58 C J p 418 note 14.

Marine risk

Under exceptions as to "marine risk," the carrier is not exempt from damage caused by its negligence, or from damage caused by unseaworthiness of the ship —The Dana, D C N Y, 190 F 650

Negligence in management of ship

Under a bill of lading exempting the carrier from liability for loss resulting from negligent management of the ship, exemption will be denied where it appears that the negligence primarily concerned care of cargo — The Skipton Castle, Cal, 243 F 523, 156 C.C A 221

"Not responsible for weight, quality, or loose bales"

U.S —The La Kroma, D.C.Pa., 138 F 936.
58 C J p 434 note 94

Obliteration or inaccuracy of marks

Under a bill of lading excepting liability for "obliteration or inaccurracy of marks," delivery of the number of pieces called for by the bill discharges the carrier, even though marks on pieces delivered have been obliterated —Hard v The Enchantress, D C N Y., 58 F 910, affirmed 63 F 272, 11 C C A. 180—58 C.J. p 424 note 78

Rain

An exception as to "loss or damage by rain" does not protect the ship if the presence of rain on the cargo was due to the negligence of those in charge of the ship —The Good Hope, N Y, 197 F. 149, 116 C C A 573.

"Risk of craft or hulk or transshipment"

U S —The Hadji, D C N Y., 16 F. 861, affirmed, C.C A, 20 F 875
58 C J p 433 note 79.

"Risk of craft to or from ship"

Bill of lading exception, exempting carrier from liability for loss due to "risk of craft to or from ship," regardless of lightermen's negligence, was void to extent of negligence provision.—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D C N Y, 54 F 2d 925, affirmed, C C.A., 57 F 2d 1081.

Stranding

Where under terms of bill of lading for barge cargo and incorporating Harter Act there was an exemption from liability for stranding if there was due diligence to make vessel seaworthy, and both barge and tug were seaworthy, barge and tug together constituted one "vessel transporting merchandise or property" within meaning of Harter Act so that exemption from liability for cargo loss extended to tug when barge drifted into breakwater as result of negligent navigation of both barge and tug —The Vale Royal, D C. Md, 51 F Supp. 412.

"Variation of weight"

(1) Term "variation of weight," in exemption clause of contract of carriage means shortage in weights, and therefore exemption clause covers shortage in weights and shrinkage — Inland Waterways Corporation v. Hallet & Carey Co., C C.A Minn., 52 F 2d 13

(2) The carrier is not exempt from liability for shortage or shrinkage due to its negligence —Inland Waterways Corporation v Hallet & Carey Co, C C A Minn, 52 F.2d 13.

Wetting of cargo

Under a specific exception against wetting of cargo by sea water, the carrier nevertheless remains liable for such wetting through its negligence —Herman v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, N Y, 242 F. 859, 155 C C.A. 447—58 C.J. p 433 note 90.

30. U S —The Zulia, D C.N Y., 235 F 433.

31. U.S —The Zulia, supra.
58 C J p 419 note 47

32. U.S —France v French Overseas Corp., N Y, 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U S. 323, 72 L Ed 901

33. U S —France v French Overseas Corp, supra
58 C.J. p 417 note 1.

34. U.S.—The Hellig Olav, C C A N. Y, 282 F 534, certiorari denied 43 S Ct. 96, 260 U S. 735, 67 L Ed. 488.

but such a clause does not relieve the carrier from liability for a seizure in a port beyond that to which the goods were to be delivered.[35] Exceptions as to "civil commotion" and "disturbance" are substantially as to the same thing,[36] and, if there is any difference, each refers to political, and not to economic, disorders.[37]

Breakage Under exceptions relieving the carrier from liability for loss resulting from breakage, in the absence of negligence the carrier will be exempted as to damage falling within the scope of such exceptions,[38] and where the nature of the injury of itself shows that it belongs within such exception and there is no further evidence as to the nature of the damage or negligence, the libel will be dismissed.[39] Where it appears that the negligence of the carrier as to care of cargo,[40] or unseaworthiness of the ship,[41] contributed to the loss by breakage, exemption will be denied. Whether loss can properly be classified as "breakage" within exceptions will depend on the particular circumstances involved.[42]

Collision The courts have upheld the validity of exceptions as to collision.[43] Exceptions as to "collision" ordinarily include all collisions not caused by negligence of the carrier claiming exemption.[44] The exception has been construed as excluding a collision caused by negligence of the carrier.[45]

Deck stowage. Exceptions permitting deck stowage of cargo are valid in the absence of a statute to the contrary,[46] and have been held valid under the Harter Act.[47] Under an exception permiting deck stowage, injury proximately resulting from the cargo's being on deck comes within the clause so as to exempt the carrier from liability.[48]

Delay Stipulations expressly relieving the carrier with respect to loss resulting from delay are valid where reasonable in character,[49] and will exempt it from liability for damage resulting from delays within their contemplation.[50] A carrier cannot, however, by contract relieve itself from the consequences of unreasonable delay in the movement of cargo.[51]

Insufficiency of packages and wrappers. Exceptions as to insufficiency of packages or wrappers operate to relieve the carrier from liability resulting wholly from such causes,[52] but ordinarily will not exempt it as to loss contributorily arising from unseaworthiness of the ship[53] or from negligence of the carrier;[54] and such stipulations have been held void in so far as they purport to except negligence.[55] "Insufficiency of packages" ordinarily refers to package of the goods damaged,[56] and damage to particular goods caused by insufficiency of package of other goods has been held beyond the scope of such exception.[57]

Interdict

(1) An exception exempting the carrier from damages for failure to deliver cargo at a specified port as the result of an "interdict" refers to political matters.—The Poznan, D C N Y, 276 F. 418

(2) Under such exception nondelivery will not be excused where caused by mere congestion at the port.—The Poznan, supra

35. U.S.—The Jean Jadot, D C.N.Y., 14 F.Supp 161.

36. U S—The Poznan, D C N.Y., 276 F. 418.

37. U.S—The Poznan, supra.

38. U S—The Isla de Panay, C.C A N Y, 292 F. 723, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 269, 267 U S 260, 69 L.Ed. 603

Breakage of barrels

U S—Orient Ins. Co v. Flota Mercante del Estado, D.C.La, 102 F. Supp. 729.

39. U.S—The Henry B. Hyde, Cal., 90 F 114, 32 C C A 534
58 C.J. p 418 note 26

40. U.S—The Matilde Peirce, C.C A N.Y., 32 F.2d 688.
58 C.J. p 418 note 27.

41. U S—The Milwaukee Bridge, D C S.D., 15 F 2d 249, affirmed, C.C.A., 26 F 2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v U S, 49 S Ct. 31, 278 U S. 632, 73 L Ed 550
58 C J p 418 note 28.

42. U S—The Solveig, D C Cal, 217 F 805.
58 C J p 418 note 30.

43. U S—The Victory, Va, 18 S Ct 149, 168 U S. 410, 42 L Ed 519
Mass.—Burroughs v Norwich, etc, R Co, 100 Mass 26, 1 Am R. 78

44. U S—The Jay St Terminal No 3, C C A.N Y., 281 F. 279

45. U.S.—The Britannic, D C N Y., 39 F 395
58 C J. p 419 note 43.

46. U.S—The Carriso, D.C Cal, 27 F 2d 1015, affirmed, C C A, Davidson v Flood Bros, 30 F 2d 279, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 348, 279 U.S. 853, 73 L Ed. 996.

47. U S.—Davidson v Flood Bros, C C.A Cal, 30 F 2d 279, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 348, 279 U.S 853, 73 L Ed 996.
58 C J. p 419 note 34

48. U.S—The Carriso, D.C Cal, 27 F.2d 1015, affirmed, C.C A., Davidson v Flood Bros, 30 F 2d 279, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 348, 279 U S 853, 73 L.Ed 996

49. U S—Dietrich v U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., C C. A N Y, 9 F 2d 733, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 82, 278 U.S 647, 73 L Ed 560

50. U S—Dietrich v U S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, supra
58 C.J p 421 note 92

51. U S—U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp v. Texas Star Flour Mills, C C.A.Tex., 12 F 2d 9
58 C J p 421 note 93

52. U S—Fiorita v Cunard SS. Co, D C.N Y, 10 F 2d 244

53. U S—The Milwaukee Bridge, D. C S D., 15 F 2d 249, affirmed, C C A, 26 F 2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v. U S, 49 S.Ct. 31, 278 U.S 632, 73 L.Ed 550.

54. U S—The Milwaukee Bridge, supra—Fiorita v Cunard SS. Co, D.C N Y, 10 F 2d 244

55. U.S—Fiorita v. Cunard SS Co, supra
58 C.J p 423 note 34.

56. U.S—The Zulia, D C.N.Y., 235 F. 433.

57. U S—The Zulia, supra.

Livestock and other perishable cargo. Courts have upheld the validity of exceptions specifically limiting liability with respect to livestock[58] or inanimate cargo of a perishable nature.[59] Such exceptions operate to relieve the carrier from liability for loss occurring without its fault,[60] but will not be construed to cover loss of an avoidable character.[61]

Taint from other goods. Exceptions as to "taint from other goods" operate to relieve the carrier from liability for damage so caused,[62] in the absence of unseaworthiness of the ship[63] or negligence in the care of cargo.[64]

Strikes. Under exceptions as to strikes or stoppage of labor, exemption has been granted[65] where damage resulted from the striking of stevedores[66] or repair men.[67] Exceptions as to strikes will not relieve the carrier from liability for damage resulting from its negligence.[68]

Unavoidable or inevitable accident. An exception as to "unavoidable accident" is valid.[69] Damage arising from a collision occurring without fault of the carrier falls within an exception as to "unavoidable accident."[70] "Inevitable accident" applies to occurrences which no foresight or precaution of the carrier could prevent.[71]

Vermin. Under a specific exception as to damage by vermin, a carrier exercising due care will be exempt from liability for such damage.[72] Where the carrier's negligence contributes to the damage by vermin, exemption will be denied.[73]

b. Acts of God

A contractual provision excusing the carrier for loss caused by act of God is not available where the act of God causing the loss could have been avoided by the exercise of due care and diligence.

A contractual provision excusing the carrier for loss caused by act of God is not available where the act of God causing the loss could have been avoided by the exercise of due care and diligence.[74] Exceptions as to acts of God refer to damage resulting from disasters beyond the scope of human agency,[75] such as lightning[76] and tempest.[77]

"Act of God" has been distinguished from exceptions as to "dangers of navigation,"[78] "dangers of the river,"[79] "dangers of the sea,"[80] "perils of the sea,"[81] "inevitable accident,"[82] and "unavoidable accident."[83] Under certain circumstances, however, act of God may be construed as equivalent to "dangers of the sea"[84] or "perils of the sea."[85]

c. Dangers of Rivers and Lakes and Navigation Thereon

Exceptions as to dangers of the river and river navigation have the effect of exempting the carrier as to

58. U.S.—Liverpool, etc., Steam Co v Phenix Ins Co, N.Y., 9 S.Ct. 469, 129 U.S. 397, 32 L.Ed. 788

59. U.S.—Liverpool, etc., Steam Co v Phenix Ins Co, supra—Callister v U.S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., D.C.N.Y., 21 F.2d 447, affirmed, C.C.A., Callister v U.S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., 30 F.2d 1008.

60. U.S.—The J. C. Stevenson, D.C. Md., 17 F. 540
58 C.J. p. 424 note 72.

61. U.S.—Compania de Navigacion La Flecha v Brauer, N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 12, 168 U.S. 104, 42 L.Ed. 398
58 C.J. p. 424 note 73

62. U.S.—The Milwaukee Bridge, C.C.A.S.D., 26 F.2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v U.S., 49 S.Ct. 31, 278 U.S. 632, 73 L.Ed. 550.

63. U.S.—The Milwaukee Bridge, D.C.S.D., 15 F.2d 249, affirmed, C.C.A., 26 F.2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v U.S., 49 S.Ct. 31, 278 U.S. 632, 73 L.Ed. 550.

64. U.S.—The Milwaukee Bridge, D.C.S.D., 15 F.2d 249, affirmed, C.C.A., 26 F.2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v U.S., 49 S.Ct. 31, 278 U.S. 632, 73 L.Ed. 550
58 C.J. p. 432 note 59.

65. U.S.—The Maui, C.C.A.Cal., 113 F.2d 1018, certiorari denied John Demartini Co v The Maui, 61 S.Ct. 317, 311 U.S. 709, 85 L.Ed. 461

66. U.S.—The Toronto, N.Y., 174 F. 632, 98 C.C.A. 386.
58 C.J. p. 432 note 46.

67. U.S.—Lighter v U.S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., C.C.A.La., 33 F.2d 288

68. N.Y.—Armand Schmoll, Inc v Commonwealth, etc., Line, 245 N.Y.S. 224, 230 App.Div. 430
58 C.J. p. 432 note 48

69. Or.—Rosenwald v Oregon City Transp. Co., 163 P. 831, 164 P. 189, 84 Or. 15

70. Or.—Rosenwald v. Oregon City Transp. Co. supra.

71. N.Y.—Merritt v Earle, 31 Barb. 38.

72. U.S.—The Timor, N.Y., 67 F. 356, 46 C.C.A. 412.
58 C.J. p. 433 note 87

73. U.S.—The Italia, D.C.N.Y., 59 F. 617.
58 C.J. p. 433 note 88.

74. U.S.—Texas, etc., SS. Co v. Parker, C.C.A., 263 F. 864, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 485, 253 U.S. 488, 64 L.Ed. 1026
58 C.J. p. 417 note 5.

75. Me.—Plaisted v Boston, etc., Steam Nav. Co., 27 Me. 132, 46 Am.D. 587.
58 C.J. p. 417 note 2.

76. Tenn.—Gordon v. Buchanan, 5 Yerg. 71

77. Tenn.—Gordon v. Buchanan, supra.
58 C.J. p. 417 note 4

78. Or.—Rosenwald v. Oregon City Transp. Co., 163 P. 831, 164 P. 189, 84 Or. 15.
58 C.J. p. 417 note 6.

79. Tenn.—Gordon v. Buchanan, 5 Yerg. 71
Va.—Friend v Woods, 6 Gratt. 189, 47 Va. 189, 52 Am.D. 119.

80. N.J.—Stephens, etc., Transp. Co v. Tuckerman, 33 N.J.Law 543
58 C.J. p. 417 note 8.

81. U.S.—Cook v. Southeastern Lime, etc., Co., D.C.S.C., 146 F. 101.
58 C.J. p. 417 note 9.

82. N.Y.—Merritt v Earle, 31 Barb. 38
58 C.J. p. 417 note 10

83. Or.—Rosenwald v. Oregon City Transp. Co., 163 P. 831, 164 P. 189, 84 Or. 15.
58 C.J. p. 418 note 11.

84. N.J.—Stephens, etc., Transp. Co v. Tuckerman, 33 N.J.Law 543.
58 C.J. p. 418 note 12.

85. U.S.—Cook v. Southeastern Lime, etc., Co., D.C.S.C., 146 F. 101.

losses from natural accidents incident to river navigation. Exceptions relating to dangers of lake navigation embrace all ordinary perils which attend navigation on lakes

Exceptions as to dangers or perils of the river and of river navigation have the effect of exempting the carrier as to losses arising from natural accidents incident to river navigation[86] peculiar to the element of water,[87] and from accidents peculiar to the river,[88] even though resulting from the interposition of human agency.[89] Exemption under such exceptions is ordinarily confined to loss resulting from inevitable accident or irresistible force,[90] and dangers such as cannot be guarded against by human skill or foresight.[91] Losses due to negligence of the carrier are not within the contemplation of such exceptions.[92] In so far as there may be any distinction between "dangers of the river" and "dangers of the river navigation," the latter phrase is of larger import.[93]

Exceptions relating to "dangers of lake navigation" embrace all ordinary perils which attend navigation on lakes,[94] including those which arise from shallowness of waters at the entrance of harbors formed from them;[95] but negligence of the carrier contributing to the loss will deprive it of the benefit of such exceptions.[96] As applied to inland navigation, exceptions as to "dangers of the seas" and as to "dangers of the lakes and rivers" have been held identical in meaning.[97]

Collision occurring without negligence of the carrier is within the protection of exceptions as to "dangers of the river,"[98] "dangers of the river navigation,"[99] or "unavoidable accidents and dangers of the river;"[1] but a collision resulting from negligence of the carrier is not within the contemplation of such exceptions.[2]

Fire. Under exceptions as to dangers[3] or perils[4] of the river, exemption has been denied for loss resulting from fire, although other authority construing exceptions as to "dangers of the river" has held fire loss within the exception by usage.[5]

Hidden obstructions. Under exceptions as to dangers of the river or of river navigation, exemption has been granted where, despite exercise of due care, damage to cargo resulted from the ship's striking a hidden obstruction;[6] but to make the exception available it must appear that the master used reasonable caution,[7] and where negligence is shown exemption will be denied.[8] In determining whether there was negligence excluding the exception, the rule which imputes negligence to the master of a ship at sea that strikes a known and charted natural obstruction has been held inapplicable to navigation on rivers,[9] and it has been said that each case must be governed by its own circumstances.[10]

Low water is not within exceptions as to dangers of the river and navigation thereon.[11]

Robbery is not a "danger of the river."[12]

d. Decay

In the absence of statutory restrictions, exceptions as to decay may operate to relieve the carrier from liability for loss resulting from that cause.

86. Mo.—Hill v. Sturgeon, 35 Mo. 212, 86 Am. D. 149.
58 C. J. p. 420 note 55.

87. Ala.—Sampson v. Gazzam, 6 Port. 123, 30 Am. D. 578

88. Miss.—Neal v. Saunderson, 10 Miss. 572, 41 Am. D. 609
Pa.—Hayes v. Kennedy, 2 Pittsb. 262

89. Miss.—Whitesides v. Thurlkill, 20 Miss. 599, 51 Am. D. 128
Pa.—Hayes v. Kennedy, 2 Pittsb. 262.

90. U. S.—The Northern Belle, D. C. Wis., 18 F. Cas. No. 10,319, 1 Biss. 529, affirmed 9 Wall. 526, 19 L. Ed. 746

91. Tenn.—Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. 340, 27 Am. D. 515.
58 C. J. p. 420 note 61.

92. Ohio.—Graham v. Davis, 4 Ohio St. 362, 62 Am. D. 285.—Davidson v. Graham, 2 Ohio St. 131.
58 C. J. p. 420 note 62.

93. Pa.—Hayes v. Kennedy, 2 Pittsb. 262.

94. U. S.—Western Transp. Co. v. Downer, Ill., 11 Wall. 129, 20 L. Ed. 160.
58 C. J. p. 419 note 49.

95. U. S.—Western Transp. Co. v. Downer, supra
Ind.—Insurance Co. of North America v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 53 N. E. 382, 152 Ind. 333

96. U. S.—The Portsmouth, Ill., 9 Wall. 682, 19 L. Ed. 754
58 C. J. p. 419 note 51.

97. Ind.—Harrison v. Hixson, 4 Blackf. 226.

98. Ala.—Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. 135, 24 Am. D. 716.
Miss.—Whitesides v. Thurlkill, 20 Miss. 599, 51 Am. D. 128.

99. Pa.—Hays v. Kennedy, 41 Pa. 378, 80 Am. D. 627, 3 Grant 351

1. La.—Van Horn v. Taylor, 2 La. Ann. 587, 46 Am. D. 558

2. La.—Van Horn v. Taylor, supra
Miss.—Whitesides v. Thurlkill, 20 Miss. 599, 51 Am. D. 128

3. Miss.—Gilmore v. Carman, 9 Miss. 279, 40 Am. D. 96.
58 C. J. p. 420 note 70.

4. U. S.—Garrison v. Memphis Ins. Co., Mo., 19 How. 312, 15 L. Ed. 656

5. Ala.—Boon v. Steamboat Belfast, 40 Ala. 184, 88 Am. D. 761.
58 C. J. p. 420 note 72

6. U. S.—Hibernia Ins. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., Transp. Co., Mo., 7 S. Ct. 550, 120 U. S. 166, 30 L. Ed. 621
58 C. J. p. 420 note 73

7. Tenn.—Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. 340, 27 Am. D. 515
58 C. J. p. 420 note 74

8. Mo.—Costigan v. Michael Transp. Co., 38 Mo. App. 219.
58 C. J. p. 420 note 75

9. Mo.—Collier v. Valentine, 11 Mo. 299, 49 Am. D. 81
58 C. J. p. 420 note 77.

10. Mo.—Collier v. Valentine, supra.

11. U. S.—The Northern Belle, D. C. Wis., 18 F. Cas. No. 10,319, 1 Biss. 529, affirmed 9 Wall. 526, 19 L. Ed. 746.
58 C. J. p. 420 note 79

12. Ala.—Boon v. Steamboat Belfast, 40 Ala. 184, 88 Am. D. 761
U. S.—The Northern Belle, D. C. Wis., 18 F. Cas. No. 10,319, 1 Biss. 529, affirmed 9 Wall. 526, 19 L. Ed. 746.

In the absence of statutory restrictions, contractual exceptions as to "decay" may operate to relieve the carrier from liability for loss resulting from decay[13] or bacterial action,[14] such as putrefaction[15] or rot,[16] whether the cause thereof is inherent in the cargo damaged[17] or results from its exposure to some outside agency.[18] The negligence of the carrier contributing to the loss deprives it of the benefit of the exception,[19] as where there is a want of diligence in the stowage[20] or care[21] of the cargo

Contractual provisions excepting damage by decay cannot broaden the scope of the exception of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act § 4(2) (m) which is "Wastage in bulk or weight or any other loss or damage arising from inherent defect, quality, or vice of the goods."[22]

e. Effect of Climate

Exceptions as to the effect of climate operate to relieve the carrier from liability for damage to cargo resulting from its inevitable exposure to natural and excessive heat or change in temperature.

Exceptions as to effect of climate operate to relieve the carrier from liability for damage to cargo resulting from its inevitable exposure to natural and excessive heat,[23] or change in temperature during the course of the voyage,[24] but will not exempt the carrier as to damage resulting from its negligence [25]

f. Fire

The courts have upheld the validity of stipulations exempting the carrier from liability for damage by fire.

The courts have upheld the validity of stipulations exempting the carrier from liability for damage by fire.[26] The carrier cannot, however, relieve itself from liability from fire due to its negligence,[27] and such exceptions are unavailable where the carrier's negligence contributed to the fire loss.[28] Partial land carriage of goods will not preclude application of exceptions as to fire loss while the goods are in the possession of a water carrier.[29]

The term "fire," as used in an exemption clause, means any fire,[30] and is not confined to a fire originating in the ship's furnace.[31] Exceptions as to loss from damage by fire, in the absence of phrases which limit the exception to fire loss on the water,[32] ordinarily include not only fire loss occur-

13. U S—The Hog Island, C C A N Y, 48 F 2d 101—Bingham v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C.N Y, 12 F. Supp 35, affirmed, C C A., 88 F 2d 1004.
Decay as sea peril see infra § 134 b
Flower bulbs
U S—Rhodes v. U. S, D C.N.Y, 8 F.Supp. 124.
Onions
U S—The Vallescura, C C A.N.Y, 70 F.2d 261, reversed on other grounds 55 S Ct. 194, 293 U S 296, 79 L. Ed 373—The Tergestea, D C.N.Y., 54 F 2d 809.

14. U S—Pan-American Hide Co v. Nippon Yusen (Kabushiki) Kaisha, D C N Y., 13 F.2d 871.

15. U.S.—Pan-American Hide Co, Inc v Nippon Yusen (Kabushiki) Kaisha, supra
58 C J p 421 note 85.

16. U.S—The Solveig, D C.Cal., 217 F 805
58 C J p 421 note 86

17. U S—The Anna, D C Pa., 223 F. 558
58 C.J p 421 note 87.

18. U S.—Pan-American Hide Co v Nippon Yusen (Kabushiki) Kaisha, D.C N Y, 13 F 2d 871
58 C J. p 421 note 88.

19. U S—The Vallescura, N Y, 55 S Ct. 194, 293 U.S 296, 79 L Ed 373.
58 C.J p 421 note 89

20. U S.—The Vallescura. N.Y., 55 S Ct 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373.

21. U S—The Vallescura, N.Y, 55 S Ct. 194, 293 U S 296, 79 L Ed. 373.

22. U.S—George F Pettinos, Inc, v. American Export Lines, D.C Pa, 68 F Supp 759, affirmed, C C A., 159 F. 2d 247.

23. U S—Monnier v. U S, D C N.Y., 16 F.2d 812, affirmed, C.C A, 16 F. 2d 815.
58 C.J. p 421 note 95.

24. U S—The Aline, C C N Y., 25 F. 562, 23 Blatchf. 335.
58 C.J. p 421 note 97.

25. U S—The Africa Maru, C C A N. Y, 54 F 2d 265, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Habicht Braun & Co, 52 S Ct 457, 285 U S 556, 76 L Ed. 945—The Aline, C. C N Y, 25 F. 562, 23 Blatchf. 335.
58 C.J. p 421 note 98.

26. U S.—The President Wilson, D. C Cal., 5 F.Supp. 684
La—American Cotton Co-op. Ass'n v. New Orleans & Vicksburg Packet Co, 157 So 733, 180 La. 836.
58 C.J. p 421 note 2.
Ship in rem
Where bills of lading contained express contract making fire statute defense, such contract was available not only to shipowner, but to ship in rem.—The Munaires, D.C La, 12 F Supp. 913

27. U S.—Fyfe v. Pan-Atlantic S. S. Corp, C C.A.N.Y, 114 F 2d 72, certiorari denied Pan Atlantic S S. Corp v Fyfe, 61 S Ct. 319, 311 U. S. 711, 85 L Ed 462.

Clerk's negligence, which allegedly caused fire at time when general manager and wharf superintendent were not on dock, has been held not negligence of shipowner—The Munaires, D C La, 12 F Supp 913.

28. Ala.—Grey v. Mobile Trade Co, 55 Ala. 387, 28 Am R 729
58 C J. p 421 note 3.

29. N.Y.—Sea Coast Lumber Co v. Clyde SS. Co, 133 N.Y S 303, 148 App.Div 622, affirmed 104 N E. 1141, 210 N.Y. 571.
58 C J. p 422 note 12.

30. S C—Swindler v Hilliard, 31 S. C L. 286, 45 Am D. 732.
"Dangers of fire" and "unavoidable accidents of fire," as used in contractual exceptions, have been construed as identical in meaning—Swindler v. Hilliard, supra.

31. S C.—Swindler v. Hilliard, supra.

32. Fire on rivers and sea
Exceptions as to damages "by fire . . on the rivers and sea" cover only such fire loss as occurs on the water—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Talbot, 39 Ark. 523
Dangers of fire and navigation
A receipt exempting the carrier from "dangers of fire and navigation or any other accident or danger of the seas, rivers or steam navigation, of whatsoever kind or nature," is applicable only to loss by fire occurring at sea and does not attach to the land route.—Van Valkenberg v Wilder SS Co, 9 Hawaii 67—10 C.J. p 186 note 62 [a] (2).

ring aboard ship,[33] but also fire loss occurring on the wharf while the goods are under the control of the carrier,[34] and the shipowner may be exempt as a party in possession even if not technically a carrier at the time of fire[35]

g. Heat or Heating

Contractual stipulations exempting the carrier from liability for loss arising from heat or heating have been held valid.

Contractual stipulations exempting the carrier from liability for loss arising from heat[36] or heating[37] have been held valid, and the two words have been construed as synonymous.[38] The carrier is relieved of liability under such stipulations,[39] except where it is negligent[40] as to stowage[41] or ventilation.[42] Under exceptions relating to "heat," exemption has been granted for damage arising from climatic heat.[43]

h. Inherent Defect, Quality, or Vice

Under exceptions exempting the carrier from liability for loss arising from the inherent defect, quality, or vice of the cargo, the carrier is released from damages falling within the scope of such exceptions.

Under exceptions exempting the carrier from liability for loss arising from the inherent defect, quality, or vice of the cargo, the carrier is released from damages falling within the scope of such exceptions[44] The carrier is deprived of the benefit of such exceptions where the loss is due to its negligence[45] in stowage.[46]

i. Insurable Damage; Giving Carrier Benefit of Insurance

Exceptions as to any loss capable of being covered by insurance have been held valid The carrier may contract for the benefit of insurance unless prohibited by statute.

Exceptions as to any loss capable of being covered by insurance have been held valid[47] and enforceable,[48] but such clauses have been construed as not relieving the carrier of liability for loss due to negligence,[49] or as invalid if they did in fact purport to relieve the carrier from its liability for negligence.[50] Clauses relieving the carrier from liability for losses capable of being covered by insurance are ordinarily construed as referring only to insurance obtainable in the usual course of business, and not to insurance which might possibly be obtained from an extraordinary insurance association[51]

Benefit of insurance. Unless prohibited by statute, the carrier may contract for the benefit of insurance.[52] Stipulations giving the carrier the benefit of insurance on damaged cargo have been held 33. U S—Scott v. Baltimore, etc., Steam-Boat Co, C C.Md, 19 F. 56.

34. U S—The Munaires, D C La, 12 F.Supp 913
58 C J p 422 note 8.

35. N Y.—Jennings v Clyde SS Co, 133 N.Y S 298, 148 App.Div. 615, affirmed 104 N.E. 1132, 210 N.Y. 570.
58 C J. p 422 note 9.

36. U S—The Hog Island, C.C A N. Y, 48 F 2d 101—The New Orleans, C C La, 26 F 44

37. U S—Rhodes v. U. S, D.C N Y., 8 F Supp 124—The New Orleans, C.C La, 26 F 44.

38. U S—The Good Hope, N Y, 197 F. 149, 116 C C.A. 573.

39. U S—Bingham v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D.C N.Y, 12 F Supp. 35, affirmed, C C A, 88 F 2d 1004

40. U S.—The Nichiyo Maru, D C. Md., 14 F.Supp 727, affirmed, C C A., 89 F 2d 539.

41. U S—The Niel Maersk, D C N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 824, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 91 F 2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v The Niel Maersk, 58 S.Ct. 281, 302 U S 753, 82 L.Ed. 582—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C.Md, 14 F Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F.2d 539.

42. U S.—The Niel Maersk, D.C.N. Y., 18 F.Supp 824, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 91 F.2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v. The Niel Maersk, 58 S Ct 281, 302 U S 753, 82 L.Ed 582—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C Md, 14 F.Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C.A, 89 F.2d 539

43. U S—Monnier v U S, D.C.N Y, 16 F 2d 812, affirmed, C.C A., 16 F 2d 815.
58 C J. p 422 note 22.

44. U S—The Nagisan Maru, D C N Y, 14 F Supp 1010

"Anything arising from the nature of the goods"
U S—The Tergestea, D C N.Y., 54 F 2d 809.

"Chemical action"
U S—Bingham v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 12 F Supp 35, affirmed, C C A, 88 F 2d 1004

45. U S—The Nichiyo Maru, C.C A Md, 89 F.2d 539
58 C J. p 422 notes 28–30

46. U S—The Nichiyo Maru, supra —The Ferncliff, D.C Md, 22 F.Supp 728, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct 615, 306 U S. 444, 83 L Ed 862, affirmed, C.C.A, 105 F 2d 1021.

47. U S—The Egypt, D C.N Y, 25 F. 320—The Titania, D C.N.Y, 19 F. 101

48. U S.—The Ferncliff, D C Md, 22 F.Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed. 862, affirmed, C C.A., 105 F 2d 1021.

Compromise settlement with insurer
The fact that holders of bills of lading made compromise settlement with insurers without notice to ship did not discharge ship from liability for amount of damage to cargo of fish meal not covered by insurance, where ship had previously denied any liability.—The Ferncliff, D C Md, 22 F Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed 862, affirmed, C.C A, 105 F 2d 1021.

49. U S—The Ferncliff, D.C.Md, 22 F.Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S.Ct 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed 862, affirmed, C.C A, 105 F.2d 1021
58 C J. p 423 note 38.

50. U.S—The Anna, D.C Pa., 223 F. 558

51. U S—The Titania, D.C.N.Y., 19 F. 101.

52. U.S.—The J L Luckenbach, C C A.N.Y., 65 F 2d 570.

Loans to shipper
If carrier contracts for benefit of insurance paid to shipper, it does not obtain benefit of loans to shipper repayable out of recovery from carrier.—The J. L. Luckenbach, supra.

enforceable,[53] or unenforceable,[54] in accordance with the circumstances involved.

j. Latent Defects

The carrier may exempt itself from liability for latent defects.

The carrier may exempt itself from liability for latent defects[55] and the validity of such exceptions has been upheld.[56] Provisions of the Harter Act making it unlawful to contract away the duty of diligence with respect to seaworthiness have been construed as permitting the diligent carrier to exempt itself from liability as to latent defects,[57] but such statutory provisions will not be extended by judicial interpretation to effect an exemption as to latent defects.[58] Under the act, exceptions as to latent defects are inoperative where there was negligence with respect to care of cargo.[59]

The exception will be strictly construed,[60] and will not be extended to include patent defects,[61] or defects not latent at the beginning of the voyage.[62] Exceptions in a bill of lading of damage from "latent defects in hull" do not include unseaworthiness existing at the inception of the voyage, and at the time the bill of lading was signed, and resulting from a latent defect in a rivet in a water tank.[63]

k. Leakage

Exceptions as to leakage operate to relieve the carrier from liability for all losses of this character occurring without its fault.

Exceptions as to leakage operate to relieve the carrier from liability for all losses of this character occurring without its fault,[64] whether resulting from leakage of the cargo sued on,[65] or from leakage of other cargo to the damage of that sued on.[66] The exception is ordinarily defeated by unseaworthiness of the ship[67] or negligence of the

53. U S—Olivier Produce Corp v U S, D C Wash, 20 F 2d 214

54. U S—The J. L Luckenbach, C C A N Y, 65 F 2d 570
58 C J. p 423 note 42

Unpaid insurance
The fact that the bill of lading provides that the carrier shall have the benefit of any insurance effected by the shipper is not available as a defense where it does not appear that the insurance has been paid—Baker v. New York, etc, R Co., D C N Y, 162 F. 496, affirmed 168 F. 248, 93 C C A 550, certiorari denied 29 S Ct. 696, 214 U.S. 514, 53 L Ed 1063

Right of owner of lighter to benefit of insurance
Where steamship company obligated to reship burlap arranged with second steamship company to carry burlap to destination under oral agreement therefor including lighterage which the second company engaged tug owner to perform and tug owner in turn subcontracted work to owner of lighter, even though second company's usual bill of lading contained provision giving carrier full benefit of insurance effected upon property shipped, the owner of the lighter was not entitled to benefit of shipper's insurance in determining amount of damages for which owner of lighter was liable when lighter capsized with cargo of burlap—The Steel Inventor, D.C.Md, 35 F.Supp 986

55. U S.—The Toledo, C.C.A N Y, 122 F.2d 255, certiorari denied Isbrandtsen-Moller Co v. The Toledo, 62 S Ct 302, 314 U S. 689, 86 L Ed 551
Unseaworthiness defeating benefit of exceptions see supra § 131 c (4).

56. U S.—The Prussia, N.Y., 93 F 837, 35 C C A. 625, certiorari denied 19 S Ct 885, 174 U S 803

57. U S—The Ft Gaines, D C Md, 24 F 2d 849, affirmed, C.C A, Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lanasa, 32 F 2d 154.
58 C J. p 423 note 57.

58. U S.—The Ft Gaines, D C Md., 24 F.2d 849, affirmed, C C A, Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lanasa, 32 F.2d 154.

59. U S—Barr v International Mercantile Marine Co., D C N Y., 29 F 2d 26

60. U S—The Citta di Palermo, D.C N Y, 226 F. 522, affirmed 226 F 529, 141 C C A 285.
58 C J. p 423 note 51

61. U S.—The Cameronia, D.C N.Y., 38 F 2d 522.
58 C J. p 423 note 52.

Leaky or open port
(1) A leaky port on a new vessel, so near the water line as would render the steamer unfit for the carriage of cargo in the compartment into which such port opened, cannot be regarded as a "latent defect," since it was easily discoverable on inspection by the water test, a test which is easily made, and which is customarily made, and which reasonable prudence requires to be made, with respect to ports near the water line before a ship sails on her first voyage.—The Phoenicia, D.C N Y, 90 F. 116, affirmed 99 F. 1005, 40 C.C.A. 221.

(2) The term "latent defect," in a bill of lading exempting the owner from liability for loss occurring by latent defects in hull, even existing before shipment or sailing, does not include an open port, although unknown to the master on sailing.—Putnam v. The Manitoba, D C.N.Y., 104 F 145, 151—The Carib Prince, D C N Y, 63 F. 266, affirmed, C C A, 68 F. 254, reversed on other grounds 18 S Ct. 753, 170 U.S 655, 42 L Ed 1181.

62. U S—The Citta di Palermo, D.C N Y, 226 F. 522, affirmed 226 F 529, 141 C C A. 285

63. U S—Wuppermann v The Carib Prince, N Y, 18 S Ct. 753, 170 U S 655, 42 L Ed. 1181
58 C.J. p 414 note 47.

64. U S—The Claverburn, D C N.Y., 147 F. 850.
58 C J p 424 note 60

65. U S—The Monte Iciar, C C.A. Pa., 167 F.2d 334
58 C.J p 424 note 61.

Cocoanut oil
U S—The Neidenfels, D C N Y, 174 F. 293
N Y.—Proctor & Gamble Mfg. Co v Ocean S. S Co., 267 N.Y.S. 405, 149 Misc. 701.

Wine
Provision in bill of lading for shipment of wine reciting "Not responsible for leakage, breakage or spigoting," was permissible under the Harter Act, and such exemption was not contrary to Carriage of Goods by Sea Act—The Monte Iciar, C.C.A.Pa, 167 F 2d 334.

66. U S—The Florinda, C.C.A.N.Y., 31 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Saitta v. The Florinda, 49 S Ct. 514, 279 U.S. 874, 73 L Ed 1009.
58 C.J. p 424 note 62.

67. U S.—The Milwaukee Bridge, D C.S D., 15 F 2d 249, affirmed, C.C. A., 26 F.2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v. U. S., 49 S Ct. 31, 278 U. S 632, 73 L Ed. 550.

Defect in ship
In libel for loss of oil which was pumped overboard to prevent it from carrier,[68] such as bad stowage.[69]

Exceptions as to "drainage" do not exempt from liability for damage resulting from unseaworthiness[70] or from negligence in care of cargo.[71]

l. Rust or Corrosion

Contractual exemptions from liability for damage arising from rust or corrosion have been held valid.

Contractual exemptions from liability for damage arising from rust or corrosion have been held valid,[72] and, under such exceptions, carriers are not liable for damage by rust occurring without their negligence.[73] Exemption is granted not only as to oxidation of iron,[74] but also as to oxidation of other metals.[75] Under a general exception as to "rust," the carrier is exempted from liability for damage whether the rust resulted from dampness of the atmosphere[76] or from water.[77]

m. Shipper's or Consignee's Risk

Unless a statute is contravened, stipulations that cargo shall be carried at the risk of the shipper or cargo owner are valid and enforceable.

Unless a statute is contravened, stipulations that cargo shall be carried at the risk of the shipper or cargo owner,[78] such as provisions for carriage on deck at the shipper's risk of damage or loss,[79] are valid and enforceable. Such stipulations except risks of damage or loss, however, only so far as the damage or loss occurs under proper stowage,[80] and they do not relieve the carrier from liability for loss resulting from its negligence.[81]

Where the carrier has notice that the outstanding bill of lading does not contain permission for on-deck carriage and that, therefore, commercial drafts might be honored in reliance on normal conditions of carriage, it may not charge its obligations by stipulating that the cargo is carried on deck at the shipper's risk,[82] since such a stipulation would be a fraud on anyone who might innocently pay value for the bill of lading.[83] flowing into forward holds due to small hole in bilge pipe and sticking open of non-return valve, a provision in the bill of lading that the carrier should not be liable for loss or damage occasioned by "drainage or leakage" did not apply, since the necessity for pumping oil overboard was due to a defect in the ship and not to insufficient containers furnished by the shipper.—The Bill, D C.Md., 47 F.Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F. 2d 470

68. U S.—The Milwaukee Bridge, D. C S D, 15 F.2d 249, affirmed, C C A., 26 F 2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v. U S, 49 S Ct 31, 278 U. S 632, 73 L Ed. 550.
58 C.J. p 424 note 64.

69. U.S —The Matilde Peirce, D.C. N Y, 32 F.2d 688
58 C J. p 424 note 65.

70. U S.—The Milwaukee Bridge, D. C S D, 15 F 2d 249, affirmed, C C A., 26 F 2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v. U. S, 49 S.Ct. 31, 278 U.S 632, 73 L.Ed. 550.

71. U S —The Milwaukee Bridge, D. C S D, 15 F 2d 249, affirmed, C C A., 26 F 2d 327, certiorari denied Moore v U. S, 49 S.Ct 31, 278 U.S 632 73 L Ed 550.
58 C.J. p 424 note 67.

72. U.S —Wolff v The Vanderland, D.C N Y, 18 F. 733.

73. U.S —The Bristol, D.C.N.Y, 6 F 638—Zerega v. Gee, D.C.N.Y., 30 F.Cas.No.18,211.
N.Y.—Nestle's Milk Products v. Luckenbach S. S Co., 297 N.Y.S. 487, 251 App Div 358.

Dampness, discoloration, and rust
In absence of proof of negligence, water carrier was not liable for damage to milk shipment caused by dampness, discoloration, or rust, under express exceptions in the bill of lading.—Nestle's Milk Products v Luckenbach S S Co, supra.

Mould, rust, and discoloration
Under clause of bill of lading excepting carrier and vessel from liability for damage caused by mould, rust, and discoloration, cargo owner could not recover from carrier and vessel for damage to shipment of canned beets by mould, rust, and staining of labels, in absence of evidence of negligence —Thomas Roberts & Co. v. Calmar S. S. Corp, D.C Pa, 59 F Supp. 203

74. U.S.—Wolff v The Vanderland, D C N.Y., 18 F 733.

75. U S —Wolff v. The Vanderland, supra
58 C.J. p 431 note 30.

76. U.S —The J L. Luckenbach, D C Cal, 209 F. 142
Wash —Broderick, etc, Rope Co v Luckenbach SS Co, 247 P. 937, 139 Wash 444.

77. U S.—The J L. Luckenbach, D. C Cal, 209 F 142
Wash —Broderick, etc, Rope Co. v Luckenbach SS. Co, 247 P. 937, 139 Wash. 444.

78. U.S.—Globe Solvents Co. v The California, C.C A.Pa, 167 F 2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S Ct 67, 335 U.S 844, 93 L Ed 394.
58 C.J. p 431 note 33.

"During the voyage"
A stipulation for carriage at the shipper's risk "during the voyage" will be construed as limited to loss during the particular voyage within the contemplation of the parties.—Swift v Furness, D C Mass., 87 F. 345—58 C J p 431 note 38.

Private carrier
Under the Harter Act, a stipulation for carriage at the shipper's risk is valid where made with a private carrier —The Elizabeth Edwards, C.C A N Y, 27 F 2d 747.

79. U S —The Idefjord, D C N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 667, reversed on other grounds, C.C A, 114 F 2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp, 61 S Ct 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L Ed 459

A greater risk of loss to goods "on deck" is recognized and provision for carriage on deck at shipper's risk of damage or loss is proper.—Globe Solvents Co. v The California, C C A.Pa, 167 F 2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 67, 335 U S. 844, 93 L Ed. 394.

80. U S —Globe Solvents Co v. The California, supra—The Ponce, D C N J, 67 F Supp. 725, affirmed, C C. A., Pompeian Olive Oil Corp v. The Ponce, 160 F.2d 107.

81. U S —Colton v New York, etc, Mail SS Co, C.C A.N Y, 27 F 2d 671
58 C J p 431 note 37.

82. U S.—The Idefjord, C C A.N.Y, 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp, 61 S Ct 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L Ed. 459.

83. U S.—The Idefjord, C C A N Y, 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v Blumenthal Import Corp, 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U S. 707, 85 L Ed. 459.

Lighterage. Under exceptions providing for lighterage at the shipper's or consignee's risk for loss arising during lighterage without its fault, the carrier is not liable.[84] Stipulations as to lighterage "at risk and expense of cargo" do not relieve the carrier from liability for damage, during lighterage, resulting from its culpable negligence,[85] and stipulations for lighterage at the cargo owner's risk are inapplicable to risks arising from the unfitness of the lighter.[86]

Stipulations for transshipment of goods "by the usual methods of conveyance, at the sole risk of the owners of the goods," will be strictly construed against the carrier,[87] and will not relieve it from liability for loss, during lighterage, resulting from negligence.[88]

n. Sweat

A stipulation excusing liability for sweating is not effective with respect to a carrier under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, but, in the absence of statutory restrictions, such a stipulation may operate to relieve a carrier from liability for sweating where it appears that damage proximately resulted from such cause.

A stipulation excusing liability for sweating is not effective with respect to a carrier under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act [89] In the absence of statutory restrictions, such a stipulation may operate to relieve the carrier from liability for sweating where it appears that damage proximately resulted from such cause,[90] but, where the damage from sweat is proximately due to the carrier's negligence, exemption will be denied.[91] Exceptions as to damage from "sweat" have been construed as relating not only to sweat from cargo,[92] but also to sweat from the ship.[93]

o. Theft

Subject to statutory restrictions, a carrier may limit its liability for loss or damage by theft

Subject to statutory restrictions, a carrier may, by contract, limit its liability for loss or damage by theft,[94] as in the case of undeclared valuables.[95] Such exceptions do not relieve the carrier from liability for theft arising from its negligence [96] Under exceptions as to "theft on land or afloat," coupled with other clauses evincing intent to exempt the carrier from loss caused by the ship's employees, it has been held that theft by a ship's purser is within the benefit of the exception.[97]

Exceptions against loss by thieves are valid under the Harter Act where construed with an implied limitation as to the carrier's exercise of due diligence in respect of care and custody of cargo.[98] Thefts by persons not connected with the vessel may be stipulated against if no negligence in watching appears,[99] and a diligent carrier has been held not liable for thieving by employees of an independent stevedore.[1] Under the act, relief from liability cannot be obtained with respect to theft by those belonging to the ship.[2]

A general clause in a bill of lading, exempting a shipowner from liability for loss of goods while on the quay, or loss by thieves, is not to be construed as applying to cases where such loss arises through the carrier's negligence or failure in proper custody or care, so as to render it invalid, under the Harter Act,[3] and it is not rendered void by a subsequent

84. U S—The Seguranca, D C.N.Y., 63 F 1014
N Y—Nichols v. Compania Trasatlantica, 219 N Y S 86, 218 App Div 660, affirmed 157 N E. 884, 245 N. Y 624.

85. U S—The Ogeechee, D C Pa., 248 F 803.

86. U S—Insurance Co. v. North German Lloyd Co, D.C Md, 106 F 973, affirmed 110 F. 420, 49 C C A. 1

87. U S—Colton v New York, etc., SS Co, C C A N Y., 27 F 2d 671

88. U S—Colton v New York, etc., SS Co, supra.
58 C J p 432 note 45

89. U.S—The Asturias, D C N Y, 40 F Supp. 168, affirmed, C C A, Wessels v The Asturias, 126 F 2d 999
Sweating as sea peril see infra § 134 b.

90. U.S.—The Tergestea, D C.N Y, 54 F.2d 809—The Hog Island, C.C A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 101—Bingham v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 12 F Supp. 35, affirmed, C.C.A., 88 F.2d 1004.
N Y—Nestle's Milk Products v Luckenbach S S Co, 297 N.Y.S. 487, 251 App Div 358.
58 C J. p 432 note 52

91. U.S—The Niel Maersk, D.C N.Y, 18 F.Supp 824, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 91 F 2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v The Niel Maersk, 58 S Ct. 281, 302 U S. 753, 82 L Ed 582—The Nichiyo Maru, D C Md., 14 F Supp. 727, affirmed, C C A, 89 F.2d 539.
58 C.J. p 432 note 53.

Carriage of Goods by Sea Act

Although bills of lading provided that shipowner should not be responsible for damages arising from sweat, such limitation was subject to provision in Carriage of Goods by Sea Act invalidating any clause in a contract of carriage relieving carrier or ship from liability for damage to, or in connection with, goods arising from negligence—Standard Brands v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D C.N Y., 81 F.Supp. 670.

92. U S—The La Drome, D C.N Y, 43 F 2d 241.

93. U.S—The La Drome, supra.

94. U.S—The Saratoga, D.C.N.Y, 20 F. 869.

95. U S—Liverpool, etc, Steam Co v. Phenix Ins Co, N Y., 9 S.Ct. 469, 129 U S 397, 32 L Ed. 788.

96. U S—Remington Rand, Inc v U S, D.C N Y, 98 F.Supp. 334.
58 C.J p 432 note 66.

97. N.Y—Spinetti v. Atlas SS. Co., 80 N.Y 71, 36 Am R. 579.

98. U S—The Poznan, D.C.N.Y., 276 F. 418.

99. U.S—Cunard SS Co. v. Kelley, Mass, 115 F 678, 53 C C A. 310—The Saratoga, D.C N.Y, 20 F. 869.

1. U S.—The Poznan, D.C.N.Y., 276 F. 418.

2. U S.—The Seneca, D C.N.Y., 163 F. 591, reversed on other grounds 172 F 370, 97 C.C A. 68

3. U.S.—Cunard SS Co. v. Kelley, Mass, 115 F. 678, 53 C C A. 310.

clause extending all exemption provisions to cases of negligence, the two clauses being separable;[4] but the carrier is entitled to the benefit of the exemption, unless it is found that its negligence or fault contributed to the loss.[5] The Harter Act does not affect the validity of exceptions as to theft with respect to shipments between ports of a foreign country,[6] or between ports of different foreign countries, even though intended ultimately to reach this country via rail.[7]

§ 134. —— Perils of Sea

a. In general
b. Validity, operation, and effect

a. In General

The phrase "peril of the sea," as used in contracts exempting carriers from liability for loss arising therefrom, generally means such perils as are peculiar to the sea and to navigation, of an extraordinary nature, arising from irresistible force or overwhelming power, which cannot be guarded against by the ordinary exertions of human skill and prudence.

The phrase "peril of the sea" does not lend itself to accurate definition.[8] As used in contracts exempting carriers from liability for loss arising therefrom, "perils or peril of the sea" generally means such perils as are peculiar to the sea[9] and to navigation,[10] of an extraordinary nature,[11] arising from irresistible force[12] or overwhelming power,[13] ordinarily,[14] although not necessarily,[15] arising from natural causes, which cannot be guarded against by the ordinary exertions of human skill and prudence.[16] The term may be defined as denoting all marine casualties resulting from the violent action of the elements,[17] not reasonably to be expected,[18] as distinguished from their natural, silent influence,[19] casualties which may, rather than consequences which must, occur.[20] In other words, a "peril of the sea" is one of an inevitable character,[21] in the sense that it is something so catastrophic as to triumph over the safeguards by which skillful and vigilant seamen usually bring ship and cargo safely to port,[22] but is not entirely synony-

4. U.S.—Cunard S.S. Co. v. Kelley, supra

5. U.S.—Cunard S.S. Co. v. Kelley, supra

6. N.Y.—Straus v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 173 N.E. 564, 254 N.Y. 407

7. N.Y.—Straus v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., supra.

8. U.S.—The Josephine, D.C.Pa., 37 F.2d 928, affirmed, C.C.A., 49 F.2d 207.
58 C.J. p. 425 note 86.
Statutory exemptions as to sea peril see supra § 128 d
Dangers or perils of rivers and lakes see supra § 133 c

9. U.S.—Duche v. Brocklebank, C.C.A.N.Y., 40 F.2d 418, 420.
58 C.J. p. 425 note 87.

Similarity with meaning in policy of insurance

Generally speaking, words have same meaning in bill of lading as in policy of insurance, although the effect of negligence of the master or crew contributing to the loss by a peril of the sea may be different on the two contracts.—The G. R. Booth, Cal., 19 S.Ct. 9, 171 U.S. 450, 43 L.Ed. 234.

10. U.S.—Cook v. Southeastern Lime, etc., Co., D.C.S.C., 146 F. 101.—The Arctic Bird, D.C.Cal., 109 F. 167.

11. U.S.—Duche v. Brocklebank, C.C.A.N.Y., 40 F.2d 418, 420.
58 C.J. p. 425 note 89.

12. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.
58 C.J. p. 425 note 90.

13. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., supra.
58 C.J. p. 425 note 91

14. U.S.—Cook v. Southeastern Lime, etc., Co., D.C.S.C., 146 F. 101
Ky.—Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B.Mon. 643, 63 Am.D. 561

15. N.Y.—McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. 190
58 C.J. p. 425 note 93.

16. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App. Supp. 775
58 C.J. p. 425 note 94.

17. U.S.—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32, 35—The California, D.C.Pa., 67 F. Supp. 719, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 67, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L.Ed. 394.
58 C.J. p. 425 note 95.

Storms of extreme violence

In maritime law, a peril of the seas is an expression commonly understood to refer only to storms of extreme violence.—Franklin Fire Ins. Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 807, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins. Co., 53 S.Ct. 82, 287 U.S. 630, 77 L.Ed. 546.

18. U.S.—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 925, affirmed, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 1081.

19. U.S.—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32, 35—The California, D.C.Pa., 67 F. Supp. 719, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Globe Solvents Co. v. California, 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 67, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L.Ed. 394
58 C.J. p. 425 note 96

20. U.S.—Duche v. Brocklebank, C.C.A.N.Y., 40 F.2d 418, 420.
58 C.J. p. 425 note 97.

21. Or.—Pettyjohn v. Oregon Coal, etc., Co., 113 P. 438. 58 Or. 392.
S.C.—Blythe v. Marsh, 12 S.C.L. 360.

22. U.S.—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 925, 926, affirmed, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 1081—The California, D.C.Pa., 67 F.Supp. 719, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 67, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L.Ed. 394—Petition of Howard, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.Supp. 556—The Naples Maru, D.C.N.Y., 20 F.Supp. 258, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 106 F.2d 32.
58 C.J. p. 425 note 99.

Similar statements

(1) "Peril of the sea" is that danger which comes when wind and waves in their fury work their will with ship and cargo after owner has used all reasonable effort to make ship seaworthy and well qualified to withstand those hazards and perils that owner knows, or has reason to believe, must be encountered.—Norris Grain Co. v. Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C.C.A.Ill., 70 F.2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co., 55 S.Ct. 75, 293 U.S. 565, 79 L.Ed. 664.

(2) A "peril of the sea," means that the weather encountered must mous with "inevitable accident."[23]

Equivalent exceptions. The phrase "dangers of navigation" is ordinarily construed as equivalent in meaning to dangers[24] or perils[25] of the sea. Exemptions as to "dangers of navigation" refer to latent dangers, and not such as are, or ought to be, patent, which can be avoided by skill, judgment, and foresight of the persons engaged in navigation,[26] those perils that are incident to navigation in a lawful course of it,[27] and are restricted in meaning to dangers of an inevitable character.[28]

The phrase "dangers of the sea" or "seas" has been construed as equivalent to "perils of the sea"[29] By dangers of the sea or seas is meant those accidents peculiar to the sea[30] and to navigation thereon[31] In its broadest sense the phrase includes all hazards which may arise on the sea, of whatever nature,[32] but in a narrower sense it is confined to hazards arising directly and exclusively from that element[33] or of which that element is the efficient cause.[34] In either sense "dangers of the seas" include only losses arising from extraordinary conditions beyond the control of human skill and prudence.[35]

An exception as to "occurrences of seas, rivers, or navigation" has been construed as equivalent to "peril of the seas"[36]

b. Validity, Operation, and Effect

The courts have upheld the validity of exceptions exempting the carrier from liability for loss resulting from perils of the sea, and under such an exception the carrier may be relieved from liability for loss resulting from such cause. Various risks and causes of loss have been held to be within the exception.

The courts have upheld the validity of exceptions exempting the carrier from liability for loss resulting from perils of the sea,[37] and under such an exception the carrier may be relieved from liability for loss resulting from such cause[38] Exceptions of the character covered by "perils of the sea" or other clauses of similar import are not available where the efficient cause of loss was the negligence of the carrier,[39] and this is true, even though the sea peril was a contributing cause of loss.[40] Where, however, the charge of negligence is not sustained, the exception will be available.[41] Deck stowage of cargo may[42] or may not[43] constitute negligence depriving a carrier of the benefit of exceptions as to perils of the sea.

Where loss was proximately due to original unseaworthiness of the ship, an exemption claimed as for a peril of the sea will ordinarily be denied,[44] as be too much for a well-found vessel to withstand—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A N.Y, 106 F 2d 32.

23. N Y—Merritt v Earle, 31 Barb 38.

24. U S.—Baxter v Leland, D C N Y, 2 F Cas No 1,124, Abb Adm. 348, affirmed, C C., 2 F Cas No.1,125, 1 Blatchf 526.

25. U S—Norris Grain Co. v Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C C A Ill, 70 F 2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co., 55 S.Ct 75, 293 U S 565, 79 L Ed 664—Baxter v. Leland, D C N.Y, 2 F Cas No.1,124, Abb Adm 348, affirmed, C C., 2 F. Cas No 1,125, 1 Blatchf. 526.

26. Mo—Costigan v. Michael Transp Co, 38 Mo App. 219.
Or—Pettyjohn v Oregon Coal, etc., Co, 113 P 438, 58 Or 392, 395.

27. Pa.—Atwood v Reliance Transp Co., 9 Watts 87, 34 Am D. 503.

28. Or—Pettyjohn v. Oregon Coal, etc, Co, 113 P 438, 58 Or. 392

29. U S—Baxter v. Leland, D.C N Y., 2 F Cas No 1,124, Abb Adm 348, affirmed, C C, 2 F Cas No 1,126, 1 Blatchf 526
N Y—Redpath v. Vaughan, 52 Barb. 489.

30. U S—Airey v Merrill, C C Me, 1 F Cas No 115, 2 Curt 8.

31. N J—Stephens, etc, Transp. Co v. Tuckerman, 33 N.J.Law 543.

32. U S—Merrill v. Arey, D C Me, 17 F Cas No 9,468, 3 Ware 215, affirmed, C C, Airey v. Merrill, 1 F Cas No.115
58 C.J p 425 note 14

33. U.S—Merrill v Arey, D C Me, 17 F Cas No.9,468, 3 Ware 215, affirmed, C C, Airey v. Merrill, 1 F. Cas No.115.

34. U.S—Merrill v. Arey, D C Me, 17 F Cas No 9,468, 3 Ware 215, affirmed, C C, Airey v. Merrill, 1 F. Cas No.115.
58 C J p 426 note 16.

35. U.S—Insurance Co. of North America v. Easton, etc., Transp Co, D C Pa, 97 F 653.
58 C J. p 426 note 17.

36. U S—Herman v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, N.Y., 242 F. 859, 155 C.C A 447.

37. U S—Franklin Fire Ins Co. v Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., D C N Y, 54 F 2d 807, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 58 F 2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v Franklin Fire Ins Co, 53 S Ct 82, 287 U S 630, 77 L Ed. 546—The Emilia, D C N Y, 13 F Supp 7
58 C J. p 426 note 22.

38. U S.—The Nagisan Maru, D.C.N. Y, 14 F Supp. 1010.
58 C J p 426 note 26.

39. U S.—Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, C C A Pa, 167 F 2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 67, 335 U. S 844, 93 L Ed. 394.
58 C J p 426 note 30.

40. U S—The Olga S, C C.A.La., 25 F.2d 229

41. U S.—The Del Norte, D C.Cal, 234 F. 667.

42. U S—The Paragon, D C Me, 18 F.Cas No 10,708, 1 Ware 326—The Rebecca, D C Me., 20 F Cas No 11,619, 1 Ware 187.

43. U S—The Del Norte, D C.Cal., 234 F. 667
58 C J p 426 note 36.

44. U S—Interlake Iron Corp. v Gartland S S. Co, C C A Mich, 121 F.2d 267, certiorari denied Gartland S S. Co. v. Interlake Iron Corp, 62 S Ct. 181, 314 U S 681, 86 L Ed 545—Norris Grain Co v. Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C C A Ill, 70 F.2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co, 55 S.Ct 75, 293 U S 565, 79 L Ed 664—The Manuel Arnus, D C N Y, 10 F.Supp. 729, affirmed, C.C.A, M. Binkovitz & Sons v The Manuel Arnus, 80 F.2d 1015—The Empress of Russia, D C N Y, 1 F Supp. 978.
58 C J p 427 note 37.

where there was a breach of the duty of diligence to make the vessel seaworthy [45]

Particular risks or causes of loss have been considered by the courts to be,[46] or not to be,[47] a peril of the sea within the meaning of the exception so as to relieve the carrier from liability. Damage arising from ordinary wear and tear does not fall within the exception,[48] and, where cargo containers are torn as the result of contact with other cargo in a tossing ship, exemption as for a sea peril will be denied if the proximate cause of loss was faulty stowage.[49] Loss by piracy is within the benefit of the exception,[50] but theft not amounting to piracy has been held to be excluded.[51]

Collision. Exemptions may be granted for damages arising from a collision without fault of the carrier,[52] although there is authority holding that, in order to be a "danger of the sea," within a bill of lading exempting the owners from liability as carriers, the collision must be such as could not be avoided by either ship by human prudence and skill.[53] Exemption will be denied where collision resulted from the fault of the carrier seeking it.[54]

Dampness, decay, and sweating. The exemption as a peril of the sea has been allowed as to damage arising from dampness,[55] decay,[56] or sweating.[57] However, exemption for damage resulting from dampness[58] or sweating[59] has also been denied. Where the carrier's unexcepted negligence contributes to the damage, exemption will be denied.[60]

Entrance of sea water and wetting of cargo Exemption may be granted as for a sea peril where the cargo is damaged by the entrance of sea water,[61] as where sea water entered through leaks in a previously sound ship which were caused by stress of weather,[62] or where water entered because the vessel shipped an unusually heavy sea [63]

45. U S —The Charles Rohde, D C Md, 8 F 2d 506, appeal dismissed, C C.A., Johnson & Wimsatt v Hax, 15 F 2d 1009—The Empress of Russia, D C N Y, 1 F Supp 978

46. Breakage
The exemption has been allowed for breakage —In re Twelve Hundred and Sixty-five Vitrified Stoneware Sewer Pipes, D C N Y, 24 F. Cas No 14,280, 5 Ben. 402.

Freezing
A ship so injured by storms as to be forced to leave her usual course and sail to a cold port for necessary repairs may be exempt for freezing of cargo at such port of distress — The Angelo Toso, D C N.Y., 278 F. 212.

Sale of cargo to pay salvage claims against a ship driven ashore has been held a loss within exceptions as to sea peril —The Wiley Smith, D C N.Y, 29 F Cas No 17,657, 6 Ben 195.

47. Bilging
Loss arising from bilging is not within an exception of sea perils — Atwood v. Reliance Transp Co, 9 Watts, Pa, 87, 34 Am D. 503—58 C. J. p 427 note 40

Explosion
Exemption has been denied for loss proximately resulting from an explosion.—The G. R Booth, Cal, 19 S.Ct 9, 171 U.S. 450, 43 L Ed 234— 58 C.J. p 428 note 64.

Ice
The presence of ice in waters navigated is not a peril of the sea where ice is normally to be expected at the place where, and season when, encountered.—The H. A. Rock, D C N Y., 23 F.2d 198—58 C.J. p 429 note 74

Impassability of canal
An exception as to "the dangers of navigation" has been held not to apply to dangers caused by impassability of a canal resulting from inevitable accident —Hand v Baynes, 4 Whart, Pa, 204, 33 Am D 54.

A pilot's lack of skill does not fall within exceptions as to sea peril — Harvey v Pike, 4 N C. 519, 7 Am D 693.

Pressure of cargo
Damage resulting from pressure of one part of a cargo on another has been held not within exceptions as to sea peril —Muller v. The Iginia, D.C. N Y., 17 F.Cas No 9,917

48. U S —Insurance Co of North America v Easton, etc, Transp Co, D C Pa, 97 F. 653—The Warren Adams, N Y, 74 F 413, 20 C C A. 486, certiorari denied 16 S Ct 1199, 163 U.S. 679, 41 L Ed. 316

49. U S —The Trignac, D C N Y., 169 F 682

50. Mass —Gage v. Tirrell, 9 Allen 299
58 C J p 429 note 89.

51. U S —The Gold Hunter, D.C N Y, 6 F Cas No 5,513, Blatchf. & H 300
58 C.J p 429 note 90

52. Ala —Jones v Pitcher, 3 Stew & P. 135, 24 Am D 716
58 C.J. p 427 note 44

53. S C.—Blythe v. Marsh, 12 S.C L 360

54. U.S.—Schulze-Berge v. The Guildhall, D.C.N Y, 58 F. 796.
58 C.J. p 427 note 46

55. U S.—Rich v Lambert, S.C., 12 How. 347, 13 L.Ed. 1017.
58 C J. p 427 note 47.

Humidity of ship's hold is a peril of the sea —The Nagisan Maru, D C N Y, 14 F Supp 1010.

56. U.S —Clark v. Barnwell, S C., 12 How 272, 13 L Ed 985.

57. U S —The Zarembo, D C N Y., 44 F Supp 915, affirmed, C C.A, Balfour, Guthrie & Co v American-West African Line, 136 F 2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie & Co v The Zarembo, 64 S.Ct 437, 320 U S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486
Sweating as danger of sea within statutory exemption see supra § 128 d.

Moisture and sweat in a ship's hold when the hold cannot be opened are a peril of the sea which relieves the carrier from liability —The Naples Maru, D.C N Y, 20 F Supp. 258, modified on other grounds, C.C A, Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 106 F 2d 32.

58. U S.—Baxter v. Leland, D C N. Y, 2 F Cas No.1,124, Abb Adm. 348, affirmed, C C., 2 F.Cas No 1,125.

59. U S —Baxter v Leland, supra.
58 C J p 427 note 50

60. U.S —The Star of Hope, Cal, 17 Wall. 651, 21 L Ed. 719.
58 C J p 427 note 51

61. U S —Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C.A N Y, 106 F.2d 32 —Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co, C C.A N Y, 47 F 2d 880

62. U S —The Dolbardorn Castle, D C.Cal., 212 F. 565, affirmed 222 F. 838, 138 C.C A. 264.
58 C J p 428 note 58.

63. U S —The Dunbritton, D C N Y., 61 F. 764, reversed on other grounds, 73 F. 352, 19 C.C.A 449.
58 C.J. p 428 note 60.

If the predominant cause of loss is not in itself a peril of the sea, the simultaneous entrance of sea water does not make it such,[64] and carriers will be denied the benefit of such exceptions where sea water entered because the ship was unseaworthy,[65] or because of unexcepted negligence in her operation,[66] or where entrance of sea water resulted in damage to cargo only because of faulty stowage.[67] Unexplained presence of sea water, without evidence to show how or why it entered the ship, renders the carrier liable for resultant damage to cargo.[68]

Fire. Exemption as a peril of the sea has been denied for loss arising from fire.[69] Even on the assumption that fire comes within exceptions as to "perils of navigation and perils of the sea," so as to exempt a carrier from liability for a nonnegligent fire, it does not follow that such exceptions impliedly render the carrier liable for fire arising from its negligence[70] so as to extend the liability of the carrier beyond the limits prescribed by statutes exempting from fire loss.[71]

Jettison. The carrier is not liable for loss occasioned by a jettison which proximately resulted from a sea peril,[72] but exemption will not be granted as for a sea peril, where the jettison was wrongful,[73] or where the jettison was necessary under prevailing conditions, but such conditions arose from the carrier's fault[74] or breach of contract,[75] such as negligence[76] or original unseaworthiness of the ship.[77]

Leakage of cargo. Where, without negligence, containers of liquid cargo are so injured by rolling of the ship in heavy weather as to cause such liquid to leak onto and damage other cargo, the damage caused by the leaking cargo is within exceptions as to sea peril.[78] Where the proximate cause of such leakage is negligence of the carrier, exemption will be denied.[79] Loss by leakage of cargo resulting in a short delivery does not come within exceptions as to perils of the sea where it appears that such loss arose from a defect in the ship's tank wherein cargo was carried.[80]

Sinking of ship. The sinking of the ship through unavoidable accident has been held within exceptions as to sea peril,[81] but sinking will not be within such exceptions where it resulted from the vessel's unseaworthiness.[82] The unexplained sinking of a ship under normal weather conditions will not be ascribed to perils of the sea,[83] but where it appears that in a manner unexplained a floating object was driven through the ship's bottom, causing her to sink, the loss may be held to result from a sea peril.[84]

Stranding and striking obstructions. Loss has been held to come within exceptions as to sea peril where it resulted from nonnegligent stranding of

64. U.S.—The G. R. Booth, Cal., 19 S.Ct. 9, 171 U.S. 450, 43 L.Ed. 234
58 C.J. p. 427 note 54.

65. U.S.—The Nellie Floyd, D.C.N.C., 116 F. 80, affirmed 122 F. 617, 60 C.C.A. 175
58 C.J. p. 427 note 55

Rivets dropping out

Damage to cargo by water entering hold of ship as result of rivets dropping out during heavy weather not unusual at time of voyage did not arise from "perils of the sea"—Franklin Fire Ins. Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins. Co., 53 S.Ct. 82, 287 U.S. 630, 77 L.Ed. 546

66. U.S.—The Nith, D.C.Or., 36 F. 86, 13 Sawy. 368.
58 C.J. p. 427 note 56

67. U.S.—The Charlton Hall, D.C.N.Y., 285 F. 640
58 C.J. p. 428 note 57

68. U.S.—Herman v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, N.Y., 242 F. 859, 155 C.C.A. 447.
58 C.J. p. 428 note 63.

69. U.S.—Garrison v. Memphis Ins. Co., Mo., 19 How. 312, 15 L.Ed. 656
58 C.J. p. 428 note 66.

70. U.S.—Walker v. Western Transp. Co., Ill., 3 Wall. 150, 18 L.Ed. 172

71. U.S.—Walker v. Western Transp. Co., supra.

72. U.S.—The Mary F. Barrett, C.C.A.Pa., 279 F. 329.
58 C.J. p. 429 note 78.

73. U.S.—Compania de Navigacion La Flecha v. Brauer, N.Y., 14 S.Ct. 12, 168 U.S. 104, 42 L.Ed. 398.
58 C.J. p. 429 note 79.

74. U.S.—Lawrence v. Minturn, Cal., 17 How. 100, 15 L.Ed. 58—The Hettie Ellis, C.C.La., 20 F. 507, reheard 22 F. 350.

75. U.S.—Lawrence v. Minturn, Cal., 17 How. 100, 15 L.Ed. 58—The Hettie Ellis, C.C.La., 20 F. 507, reheard 22 F. 350.

76. U.S.—The Hettie Ellis, supra.
58 C.J. p. 429 note 82

77. U.S.—Dupont de Nemours v. Vance, La., 19 How. 162, 15 L.Ed. 584

78. U.S.—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 880.
58 C.J. p. 429 note 86.

79. U.S.—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., supra.
58 C.J. p. 429 note 87.

80. U.S.—The City of Dunkirk, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.2d 609
58 C.J. p. 429 note 85

81. U.S.—Hostetter v. Park, Pa., 11 S.Ct. 1, 137 U.S. 30, 34 L.Ed. 568

82. U.S.—The Arctic Bird, D.C.Cal., 109 F. 167

83. U.S.—Hartwell v. Neptune Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 273 F. 687.
58 C.J. p. 429 note 95

Usual heavy seas in area

With respect to liability to cargo owners, the sinking of coal barges, in an area in which bad weather and heavy seas were not unusual in December, was not due to a peril of the sea, where the wind though suddenly changing and continuing to increase, did not reach the force of a gale, and the sea, though much higher than was to be expected from the strength of the wind, was much less than 20 feet in height—Petition of Howard, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.Supp. 556.

84. U.S.—The William I. McIlroy, D.C.N.Y., 37 F.2d 909, affirmed, C.C.A., 45 F.2d 1023.
N.Y.—Feldman v. Old Dominion S.S. Co., 176 N.Y.S. 183, 107 Misc. 221

the ship,[85] or where, without negligence, the ship struck an obstruction.[86] Where negligence was the proximate cause of loss, the carrier cannot secure exemption as for a sea peril from liability for damages resulting from stranding[87] or the striking of an obstruction.[88]

Vermin Ordinarily, damage caused by vermin,[89] such as rats,[90] is not within exceptions as to sea peril.

Wind and wave. There is no rule accurately defining the degree of violence of wind and wave necessary to constitute a peril of the sea,[91] and the question of whether or not weather conditions constitute such a peril depends on all the special circumstances of the particular case.[92] Damage has been held to arise from a sea peril where, without negligence of the carrier, it resulted from extraordinary action of wind or wave,[93] such as unusually severe storms,[94] sudden squalls,[95] or the breaking of a huge wave over the ship.[96] There is authority holding that rough, although not extraordinary, seas may constitute a sea peril.[97] On the other hand, exemption sought as for sea peril has been denied where it appears that damage arose under ordinary weather conditions,[98] such as a moderate breeze,[99] heavy weather,[1] gales normally to be expected in the place and season where encountered,[2] or the mere rolling of the ship by a cross sea.[3]

§ 135. —— Stipulations as to Notice of Loss or Claim

a. In general
b. Compliance

a. In General

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, a contractual provision which conditions the carrier's liability on the filing by the cargo owner of a particular notice of loss or claim which is less favorable to the shipper than that specified in the statute is unenforceable; but, in the absence of prohibitory or regulatory legislation, it has been held that any reasonable provision is valid and enforceable.

Under the section of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1303(6), (8), which prescribes the nature and time of the notice of loss to be given by the cargo owner and provides that any agreement lessening the liability of the carrier shall be void, a contractual provision which conditions the carrier's liability on the filing by the cargo owner of a particular notice of loss or claim which is less favorable to the shipper than that specified by the statute is unenforceable.[4] In the absence of prohibitory or regulatory legislation, it has been held that the carrier may stipulate that it shall not be liable unless a specified notice of loss or claim is given within a prescribed time,[5] and such 85. U.S.—The Juniata Paton, D.C. Wis., 14 F.Cas.No.7,584, 1 Biss. 15.

58 C.J. p. 430 note 1.

86. U.S.—The Morning Mail, D.C. Ky., 17 F. 545
58 C.J. p. 430 note 2

87. U.S.—Louis-Dreyfus v. Paterson Steamships, C.C.A.N.Y., 43 F.2d 824, 72 A.L.R. 242.
58 C.J. p. 430 note 3.

88. U.S.—The Mohler, Wis., 21 Wall. 230, 22 L.Ed. 485.
58 C.J. p. 430 note 4

89. U.S.—The Miletus, C.C.N.Y., 17 F.Cas.No.9,545, 5 Blatchf. 335.
58 C.J. p. 430 note 6

90. U.S.—American Sugar-Refining Co. v. The Euripides, N.Y., 71 F. 728, 18 C.C.A. 226
58 C.J. p. 430 notes 7, 8.

91. U.S.—Davison Chemical Co. v. Eastern Transp. Co., C.C.A.Md., 30 F.2d 862—The Frey, N.Y., 106 F. 319, 45 C.C.A. 309.

92. U.S.—Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates v. Martin Marine Transp. Co., C.A.Pa., 190 F.2d 394.
58 C.J. p. 430 note 13.

In order to constitute a good exception, the weather must be irresistible, overwhelming, and extraordinary for the particular time of year involved and not a common occurrence.—Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates v. Martin Marine Transp. Co., supra—The Willowpool, D.C.N.Y., 12 F.Supp. 96, affirmed, C.C.A., John W. Higman & Co. v. The Willowpool, 86 F.2d 1002—The Manuel Arnus, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 729, affirmed, C.C.A., M. Binkovitz & Sons v. The Manuel Arnus, 80 F.2d 1015.

93. U.S.—Christie v. The Craigton, D.C.Ala., 41 F. 62.
N.Y.—Pitcher v. Hennessey, 48 N.Y. 415

94. U.S.—Davison Chemical Co. v. Eastern Transp. Co., C.C.A.Md., 30 F.2d 862.
58 C.J. p. 430 note 15

95. U.S.—Bregaro v. The Centurion, N.Y., 68 F. 382, 15 C.C.A. 480
58 C.J. p. 431 note 16.

96. U.S.—Duche v. Brocklebank, C.C.A.N.Y., 40 F.2d 418
58 C.J. p. 431 note 17

97. U.S.—The Newport News, D.C.N.Y., 199 F. 968

98. U.S.—The H. A. Rock, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.2d 198
58 C.J. p. 431 note 19.

99. U.S.—Insurance Co. of North America v. Easton, etc., Transp. Co., D.C.Pa., 97 F. 653

1. U.S.—Petition of Howard, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.Supp. 556.
58 C.J. p. 431 note 21.

2. U.S.—The City of Khios, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.Supp. 923—The Empress of Russia, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 978.
58 C.J. p. 431 note 22

3. U.S.—The Reeside, C.C.Mass., 20 F.Cas.No.11,657, 2 Sumn. 567.

4. U.S.—Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U.S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486—Givaudan Delawanna, Inc. v. The Blijdendijk, D.C.N.Y., 91 F.Supp. 663—Mackey v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 83 F.Supp. 14, affirmed, C.A., 197 F.2d 241.

5. U.S.—The Ferncliff, D.C.Md., 22 F.Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S.Ct. 615, 306 U.S. 444, 83 L.Ed. 862, affirmed, C.C.A., 105 F.2d 1021

Utility and burdensome character of provision

In absence of statute, courts cannot question utility and burdensome character of bill of lading clause requiring notice and written demand for payment within specified period—The J. L. Luckenbach, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 570.

Public policy

Requirement of notice of claim in misdelivery cases, in absence of statute, is not repugnant to public policy.—Bank of California, N.A., v. In-stipulations, where reasonable in character, have been held valid[6] and enforceable,[7] as where notice or claim is required before removal of goods[8] from the vessel,[9] dock or wharf,[10] or from carrier's custody and control,[11] before accepting delivery[12] or taking receipt,[13] or within a specified number of days[14] or hours[15] after the occurrence of a particular event. On the other hand, such provisions are invalid where unreasonable.[16]

The reasonableness of stipulations depends on the facts of the particular case,[17] such as the cargo owner's ability to comply with it,[18] the object of the notice,[19] the knowledge possessed by the parties,[20] and the length of the voyage.[21] A shipper who has delayed giving notice for an unreasonable time far in excess of that stipulated is not in a position to urge the unreasonableness of the stipulated time.[22]

It has been stated that the purpose of stipulations requiring notice of loss or claim is to afford the ternational Mercantile Marine Co., C C A N Y, 64 F 2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S Ct. 66, 290 U S 649, 78 L Ed. 563

Interstate Commerce Act regulating stipulations as to time of notice has been held not to affect the validity of such stipulations in bills of lading for ocean carriage to foreign ports—Cudahy Packing Co. v Munson SS Line, C C A N Y, 22 F.2d 898, certiorari denied 48 S Ct. 433, 277 U S 586, 72 L Ed 1000—58 C J. p 434 note 12.

Incorporation by reference

A through bill of lading, issued by barge line company, providing that shipment, while in custody of steamship company, should be subject to the terms of steamship company's bill of lading, had effect of incorporating in contract of carriage the ocean carrier's bill of lading, including requirements for written notice for claim for damage to the shipment.—Newport Rolling Mill Co. v Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co., D.C La., 50 F Supp 623.

Notice and claim distinguished

(1) There is a clear distinction between notice of loss and damage and written claim for loss—The Zarembo, D C N Y., 44 F.Supp. 915, affirmed, C C A., Balfour, Guthrie & Co v. American-West African Line, 136 F 2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. The Zarembo, 64 S Ct 437, 320 U S 804, 88 L.Ed. 486—The Georgian, D.C Fla, 4 F. Supp 718, affirmed, C.C A., 76 F.2d 550.

(2) It has been stated that the only reasonable distinction between "notice of claim" and "claim," both of which were required by bills of lading in case of cargo loss or damage, is that claim should be more definite in its language as to demand for payment and as to amount demanded—The West Arrow, C C A N. Y., 80 F 2d 853.

6. U.S.—The Georgian, C C A Fla., 76 F 2d 550—Newport Rolling Mill Co. v Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co, D C La, 50 F.Supp 623. N Y—M. & T Trust Co v Export S. S. Corporation, 186 N E. 214, 262 N Y 92, certiorari denied 54 S Ct 70, 290 U S 650, 78 L Ed 563
58 C J p 434 note 95

7. U.S—The J. L Luckenbach, C C A N Y, 65 F 2d 570—Newport Rolling Mill Co. v Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co, D C La, 50 F Supp 623—The West Arrow, D C N Y, 10 F Supp. 385, modified on other grounds, C C A, 80 F 2d 853—The Eldridge, D C Wash, 295 F 696
58 C J p 434 note 96

8. U S—E Cerli & Co v Cunard S S. Co, D C N.Y, 45 F 2d 630.

Clause inapplicable

Clause in bill of lading, precluding claim for cargo damage unless notice be given shipowner before removal of goods, was inapplicable where cargo was never delivered—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co, C.C A.N.Y, 47 F 2d 880.

9. U S.—The Mauretania, C C A N Y, 84 F 2d 408

"Discharged from vessel"

(1) Phrase "discharged from the vessel" in bill of lading requiring notice of claim for short delivery before removal of goods so discharged means delivery to shipper—E Cerli & Co v. Cunard S S Co., C C.A N Y, 48 F.2d 115.

(2) While clause in bill of lading, requiring notice of claim for short delivery before removal of goods discharged from vessel, is valid, it must give shipper reasonable opportunity to make claim—E Cerli & Co v. Cunard S S Co, supra.

(3) Such a clause does not require a claim until carrier abandons search for missing goods—E Cerli & Co. v Cunard S. S. Co, supra

10. U.S—K Ikuno v Morris, C C.A Va., 22 F 2d 140, certiorari denied Morris v. K Ikuno, 48 S Ct 320, 276 U S. 626, 72 L Ed. 738
58 C.J p 434 note 97.

11. U S—Duche v. Lloyd Mediterraneo, D C N Y., 31 F 2d 496, affirmed, C C A, 31 F 2d 1010—The Persiana, N Y., 185 F. 396, 107 C C A. 416.

12. U S.—The Texas Maru, C C A N. Y., 13 F 2d 538, certiorari denied 47 S Ct. 244, 273 U S. 736, 71 L Ed. 866.

13. U S—Duche v Brocklebank, D C N Y, 35 F 2d 184, affirmed, C C A, 40 F 2d 418

14. U S.—The J L Luckenbach, C C A N Y, 65 F 2d 570—U. S v Industrial Alcohol Co v. Calmar S S Corporation, C C A N Y., 57 F 2d 182, certiorari denied 53 S Ct. 21, 287 U S 622, 77 L Ed 540.
58 C J p 434 note 2.

Ten days after discharge

U S—U S Industrial Alcohol Co. v. Calmar S S Corporation, C C A N. Y., 57 F.2d 182, certiorari denied 53 S Ct 21, 287 U.S 622, 77 L Ed. 540—The Commercial Guide, D C. N.Y, 24 F.2d 868

15. U S—The Cherca, C C A.N.Y, 55 F.2d 926
58 C J p 494 note 3.

16. U S—The Carso, D C N.Y, 43 F. 2d 736, modified on other grounds, C.C A, 53 F 2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc, 52 S Ct 140, 284 U S 679, 76 L.Ed. 574.
58 C J p 434 note 4.

17. U S—The J L Luckenbach, C. C.A.N.Y, 65 F 2d 570.
58 C J p 434 note 5.

Stipulations requiring written notice have been held reasonable—The West Arrow, C.C.A N Y, 80 F 2d 853—Bombace v. American Bauxite Co, C C.A.La, 39 F.2d 867.

18. U S—The J L. Luckenbach, C C A N.Y., 65 F 2d 570.

19. U S.—The Queen of the Pacific, Cal, 21 S Ct 278, 180 U S 49, 45 L Ed 419
58 C J. p 434 note 6.

20. U S—The Natal, C C A.Cal., 14 F 2d 382, certiorari denied Dampskibs Aktieselsk Orient v W. R Grace & Co, 47 S Ct. 449, 273 U.S 748, 71 L Ed 872.

21. U S.—The Queen of the Pacific, Cal, 21 S.Ct. 278, 180 U S. 49, 45 L Ed. 419.
58 C J. p 434 note 8.

22. U S—Grace v. Panama R. Co, C.C A N Y., 12 F 2d 338, certiorari denied 47 S Ct. 108, 273 U S. 715, 71 L.Ed. 855.
58 C.J. p 434 note 10.

carrier an opportunity for prompt investigation[23] and to protect it against fictitious,[24] excessive,[25] or imaginary[26] claims, and not to relieve it from just liability.[27] Such stipulations should receive a reasonable[28] and practicable[29] interpretation, in the light of the facts to which they are applied,[30] rather than a broad[31] or a technical,[32] literal,[33] or unvarying[34] construction. The clause must be construed as an entirety,[35] and strictly against the carrier.[36]

Stipulations requiring notice "before removal" of the goods have been construed as meaning before removal from the dock or wharf,[37] or before removal from the carrier's custody and control.[38]

Stipulations requiring notice are inapplicable to losses or claims beyond their scope,[39] such as claims arising under a different contract,[40] and the question of whether or not any particular loss or claim comes within the scope of a notice stipulation will depend on the circumstances of the case at bar.[41]

Failure to give required notice with respect to some of cargo will not preclude recovery for damage to other cargo as to which due notice of loss or claim was given,[42] or which was left on the wharf and destroyed by public health authorities so that requirements of notice before removal become inapplicable.[43]

Notice of one claim will not support a suit for a different and distinct claim.[44]

b. Compliance

(1) In general
(2) Excuses for noncompliance; waiver and estoppel

(1) In General

In the absence of statute rendering the stipulation unenforceable, a failure to comply with a reasonable and valid stipulation as to notice or claim ordinarily bars recovery of damages.

In the absence of statute rendering the stipulation unenforceable, a failure to comply with a reasonable and valid stipulation as to notice or claim ordinarily bars recovery of damages.[45] Compliance with stipulations as to notice has been held a condition precedent not only to suits against the shipowner,[46] but also to libels in rem against the ship.[47] Where the shipper has in fact complied with stipulations as to notice of loss or claim, his recovery is not barred on such grounds.[48]

What constitutes. In accordance with the rule of reasonable construction, it is ordinarily not neces-

23. Ga.—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 13.

24. N.Y.—J. Aron & Co., Inc. v. Panama R. Co., 238 N.Y.S. 24, 135 Misc. 528.

25. N.Y.—J. Aron & Co., Inc. v. Panama R. Co., supra.

26. N.Y.—J. Aron & Co., Inc. v. Panama R. Co., supra.

27. U.S.—The Cornelia, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.2d 245.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 17.

28. U.S.—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 18.

29. N.Y.—J. Aron & Co., Inc. v. Panama R. Co., 238 N.Y.S. 24, 135 Misc. 528.

30. U.S.—The Cardiganshire, D.C.Cal., 9 F.2d 416—Jamison v. New York, etc., SS. Co., D.C.N.Y., 241 F. 389.

31. U.S.—Dibrell Bros. v. Prince Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 58 F.2d 959—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 385, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853.

32. N.Y.—J. Aron & Co., Inc. v. Panama R. Co., 238 N.Y.S. 24, 135 Misc. 528.

33. N.Y.—J. Aron & Co., Inc. v. Panama R. Co., supra.

34. U.S.—The Cardiganshire, D.C.Cal., 9 F.2d 416.

35. U.S.—The Carso, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.2d 736, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 53 F.2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc., 52 S.Ct. 140, 284 U.S. 679, 76 L.Ed. 574.

36. U.S.—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 385, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 25.

37. U.S.—The Westminster, Pa., 127 F. 680, 62 C.C.A. 406, certiorari denied 24 S.Ct. 860, 194 U.S. 637, 48 L.Ed. 1161—The St. Hubert, Pa., 107 F. 727, 46 C.C.A. 603, certiorari denied 21 S.Ct. 925, 181 U.S. 621, 45 L.Ed. 1032.

38. U.S.—The Persiana, N.Y., 185 F. 396, 398, 107 C.C.A. 416.

39. U.S.—Boak v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., C.C.A.Ala., 11 F.2d 523.

40. U.S.—Boak v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., supra.

41. U.S.—The Lake Gaither, C.C.A.N.Y., 26 F.2d 198.
58 C.J. p. 437 note 66.

42. U.S.—Anchor Line v. Jackson, C.C.A.N.Y., 9 F.2d 543.

43. U.S.—The San Guglielmo, N.Y., 249 F. 588, 161 C.C.A. 514.

44. U.S.—The Turret Crown, C.C.A.Va., 284 F. 439, certiorari denied Vulcanite Roofing Co. v. Commonwealth SS. Co., 43 S.Ct. 520, 262 U.S. 742, 67 L.Ed. 1210.
58 C.J. p. 437 note 69.

45. U.S.—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853—Bank of California, N.A., v. International Mercantile Marine Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 64 F.2d 100, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U.S. 649, 78 L.Ed. 563—Bank of California, N.A., v. International Mercantile Marine Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 64 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U.S. 649, 78 L.Ed. 563—The Bellingham, C.C.A.N.J., 57 F.2d 1015—E. Cerli & Co. v. Cunard S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 45 F.2d 630—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 385, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853—Rhodes v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 124.
N.Y.—M. & T. Trust Co. v. Export S.S. Corporation, 186 N.E. 214, 262 N.Y. 92.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 31.

46. U.S.—The Queen of the Pacific, Cal., 21 S.Ct. 278, 180 U.S. 49, 45 L.Ed. 419.

47. U.S.—The Queen of the Pacific, supra.

48. U.S.—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 38.

sary that any particular form of notice be given,[49] and it has been held that a substantial,[50] in contradistinction to a literal[51] or strict,[52] compliance with stipulations as to notice or claim is sufficient. There must, however, be at least a substantial compliance with such stipulations.[53] The filing of libels against the vessel and her owners has been held to constitute sufficient compliance with requirements of a bill of lading which called for notice of claim followed by written claim for loss,[54] but filing a libel against the vessel is not compliance with a requirement that notice of claim be given to the company operating the vessel.[55]

In the absence of stipulation to such effect, a written notice is not necessary.[56] Where written notice is expressly required, an oral notice is insufficient.[57]

In order to be sufficient the notice must be given within the stipulated time.[58] A provision of bills of lading requiring notice of any claim for damage to cargo to be given before the goods are removed from the dock is complied with, where notice is given after the cargo has been unloaded into lighters, which still remain at the ship's side.[59] Notice of loss is not compliance with a stipulation requiring notice of claim.[60] Where notice of claim is required, the claim must be presented in sufficient detail as to nature of damage[61] and amount of loss[62] in order to warrant payment if well founded. Under a bill of lading requiring notice of apparent loss or damage before removal of the goods from the ship's custody, and notice of loss or damage within a specified number of days thereafter, and claim for damage within a specified time after notice, notice of apparent damage is not equivalent to a claim for damage.[63]

Notice to the agent of the carrier constitutes notice to it.[64]

(2) Excuses for Noncompliance; Waiver and Estoppel

Noncompliance with stipulations requiring notice of loss or claim may be excused under some circumstances. The stipulations are subject to defeat by waiver or estoppel.

Noncompliance with stipulations requiring notice of loss or claim may be excused under some circumstances.[65] While it has been held that noncompliance with stipulations requiring notice of loss

49. U.S.—The Cornelia, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.2d 245
58 C.J. p. 435 note 35.

50. U.S.—The Georgian, C.C.A.Fla., 76 F.2d 550—The Ferncliff, D.C.Md., 22 F.Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S.Ct. 615, 306 U.S. 444, 83 L.Ed. 862, affirmed, C.C.A., 105 F.2d 1021—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 385, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 36.

51. U.S.—Jamison v. New York, etc., S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 241 F. 389
N.Y.—J. Aron & Co., Inc. v. Panama R. Co., 238 N.Y.S. 24, 135 Misc. 528.

52. U.S.—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550

53. U.S.—Anchor Line v. Jackson, C.C.A.N.Y., 9 F.2d 543.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 37.

One letter

A notice of claim and a claim for cargo damage required by bill of lading may be contained in one letter—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 385, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853.

Notice of claim held sufficient

U.S.—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853—The J. L. Luckenbach, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 570—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550
La.—Taormina Corp. v. Luckenbach Gulf S.S. Co., App., 6 So.2d 235
58 C.J. p. 435 note 37 [a].

Notice of claim held insufficient

N.Y.—The President Monroe, 286 N.Y.S. 990, 159 Misc. 432
58 C.J. p. 435 note 37 [b].

Claim held sufficient

U.S.—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853—The J. L. Luckenbach, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 570—The Point Brava, D.C.Cal., 1 F.Supp. 366.

Claim held insufficient

U.S.—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853.

54. U.S.—The West Arrow, supra

55. U.S.—The Bencleuch, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 49, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 631, 271 U.S. 680, 70 L.Ed. 1148.

56. U.S.—The J. L. Luckenbach, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 570.
58 C.J. p. 435 note 38.

Notice of apparent damage

U.S.—The Georgian, C.C.A.Fla., 76 F.2d 550.

57. U.S.—Bombace v. American Bauxite Co., C.C.A.La., 39 F.2d 867.

58. U.S.—The Texas Maru, C.C.A.N.Y., 13 F.2d 538, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 244, 273 U.S. 736, 71 L.Ed. 866

Notice held timely

U.S.—The Carnia, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 929.

Notice before arrival of vessel

Giving written notice of claim several days before arrival of vessel satisfied bill of lading requirement of notice "within three days after steamer shall have finished discharging"—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 925, affirmed, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 1081.

59. U.S.—Jamison v. New York, etc., S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 241 F. 389.

60. U.S.—Duche v. Brocklebank, D.C.N.Y., 35 F.2d 184, affirmed, C.C.A., 40 F.2d 418
58 C.J. p. 436 note 42.

61. U.S.—Russo v. U.S., C.C.A.La., 40 F.2d 39.

62. U.S.—Russo v. U.S., supra.

63. U.S.—Russo v. U.S., supra—The West Arrow, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 385, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 853

64. U.S.—The Persiana, D.C.N.Y., 156 F. 1019, reversed on other grounds 185 F. 396, 107 C.C.A. 416.
58 C.J. p. 436 note 47.

Notice to chief mate

U.S.—The Georgian, C.C.A.Fla., 76 F.2d 550.

Notice to shipping agents of shipowner who were also forwarding agents of consignee has been held sufficient—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 880

65. U.S.—General Electric Co. v. Argonaut S.S. Line, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 710

Negligence of carrier

Negligence of the carrier causing damage has been held to render noncompliance with notice requirements unavailable as a defense to the shipper's suit.—J. Aron & Co., Inc. v.

or claim may be excused and recovery of damages permitted where the carrier already knew of the loss or claim,[66] there is authority to the contrary;[67] and it has been held that the carrier's knowledge of the loss will not excuse failure to give notice of claim.[68] While noncompliance has been excused where the facts were such as to render literal compliance with notice requirements impossible,[69] it has been held that the impossibility of literal compliance does not excuse failure to give notice,[70] since, where literal compliance is impossible, notice must be given as soon as reasonable under the circumstances.[71] Where goods are seized and condemned by public authorities, stipulations requiring the shipper to give notice before removal have been held inapplicable;[72] but where the goods are destroyed by the shipper pursuant to public health regulations, stipulations as to notice remain applicable.[73]

Waiver and estoppel. Stipulations as to notice are subject to defeat by waiver[74] or estoppel.[75] Where the contract itself provides that the requirement of notice of claim may be waived only by express written waiver, an oral waiver is insufficient.[76]

§ 136. —— Limitations Tolling Time for Suit

a. In general
b. Operation and effect

a. In General

A contractual provision in a transaction within the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act which fixes a shorter period for bringing suit against a carrier than that provided in the Act is not valid.

A contractual provision in a transaction within the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act which fixes a shorter period for bringing suit against a carrier than that provided in the Act is not valid,[77] but a contractual provision which grants a longer period of time for bringing suit than that provided in the Act is valid,[78] since the Act prevents only a lessening, and not an enlargement, of a carrier's liability.[79] In the absence of statutory limitations on the right of the carrier to lessen his liability, stipulations imposing a restriction on the time within which suit may be brought have been held to be valid,[80] and such restrictive stipulations have been Panama R Co, 238 N.Y.S. 24, 135 Misc 528—58 C J p 437 note 55.

Unseaworthiness

Unseaworthiness operating as a cause of loss does not necessarily preclude the operation of a stipulation requiring notice as a bar to recovery of damages—Grace v Panama R Co, C C A N Y, 12 F 2d 338, certiorari denied 47 S Ct 108, 273 U. S 715, 71 L Ed. 855—58 C J p 437 note 57.

66. La—Corpus Juris quoted in Taormina Corp. v. Luckenbach Gulf S. S, App, 6 So 2d 235, 239.
58 C J p 436 note 48

67. U S—The J. L Luckenbach, C. C A.N Y, 65 F.2d 570—Newport Rolling Mill Co v Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co., D C La, 50 F. Supp. 623—The James Griffiths, D. C Wash, 3 F Supp 685.
58 C J p 436 note 49.

68. U.S—The West Arrow, C.C A.N. Y., 80 F.2d 853—The J. L Luckenbach, C C A N Y., 65 F 2d 570—Rhodes v. U. S, D.C.N.Y., 8 F Supp. 124.

Misdelivery of goods does not relieve the shipper from the necessity of compliance with stipulations as to notice—Bank of California, N. A. v. International Mercantile Mar. Co., C C.A N.Y, 64 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S Ct 66, 290 U.S. 649, 78 L.Ed. 563.

69. U S—American Steel Co v. Transmarine Corp., D.C N.Y, 36 F 2d 246.
58 C.J. p 436 note 51.

70. U S—Newport Rolling Mill Co v. Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co, D C La, 50 F Supp 623

Unreasonable time specified for notice

Notice is not excused entirely where the time within which it must be given is unreasonable, but it must be given within a reasonable time—The J L Luckenbach, C.C A.N.Y, 65 F 2d 570

71. U S—Newport Rolling Mill Co v. Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co, D C La., 50 F Supp 623

72. U S.—The Bencleuch, C C A N Y, 10 F.2d 49, certiorari denied 46 S Ct 631, 271 U S 680, 70 L Ed 1148
58 C J p 436 note 52.

73. U S—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Munson SS. Line, C C A.N Y, 22 F 2d 898, certiorari denied 48 S Ct 433, 277 U S 586, 72 L Ed 1000.

74. U S—Corpus Juris cited in The Ferncliff, D C Md, 22 F Supp 728, 740, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L.Ed. 862, affirmed, C.C A, 105 F.2d 1021
58 C J p 437 note 61.

Waiver held not shown

(1) In general.—The J. L. Luckenbach, C.C A.N Y., 65 F 2d 570—The James Griffiths, D.C Wash, 3 F.Supp 685—58 C.J. p 437 note 61 [b].

(2) Objection that claim for damage to goods was not made within proper time was not waived by shipowner's rejection of claim on another ground—The Mauretania, C.C.A. N.Y, 84 F.2d 408—E. Cerli & Co. v. Cunard S S. Co, D C N.Y, 45 F.2d 630—Grace v. Panama R. Co, C C.A N Y, 12 F 2d 338, certiorari denied 47 S Ct 108, 273 U.S 715, 71 L Ed. 855.

(3) The fact that shipowner knew that some damage had occurred to cargo did not show a waiver of the written notice of claim—Newport Rolling Mill Co. v. Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co, D.C La., 50 F. Supp. 623.

75. U S—The Carso, C C A N.Y, 53 F.2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc., 52 S Ct. 140, 284 U S 679, 76 L Ed. 574—Corpus Juris cited in The Ferncliff, D.C. Md, 22 F Supp 728, 740, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S.Ct 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed. 862, affirmed, C C.A, 105 F 2d 1021
58 C J. p 437 note 62.

76. La—Lloveras v. United Fruit Co, 123 So 374, 11 La App. 343.

77. U S—The Argentino, D C N.Y, 28 F.Supp 440

78. N Y.—Lowendahl v. Norwegian Shipping & Trade Mission, 32 N. Y.S 2d 744.

79. N Y.—Lowendahl v Norwegian Shipping & Trade Mission, supra

80. N.Y.—J. Aron & Co v. Panama R Co, 175 N.E 273, 255 N Y. 513, certiorari denied J. Aaron & Co v. Panama R. Co., 52 S Ct 18, 284 U S. 635, 76 L Ed. 540, motion and reargument denied 177 N E 136, 256 N Y. 550—M & T Trust Co. v. Export S. S. Corporation, 259 N Y.S.

held to be binding,[81] and enforceable,[82] in so far as reasonable, as where suit is required within a specified and reasonable time after shipment,[83] delivery,[84] or notice of loss or claim.[85] Such limitations are invalid and unenforceable where unreasonable in character.[86] Where the contract stipulation is invalid because setting too short a time, the court lacks power to apply a reasonable period of limitation,[87] since that is a matter for the legislature.[88]

The reasonableness of stipulations tolling time for suit have been held to depend on all the facts and circumstances involved,[89] such as the time allowed considered in connection with the accessibility of the ship to the process of the court,[90] the distance between the point of delivery and the home offices of the shipper,[91] and the time required for transmission of communications by mail,[92] and the actual period after delivery to the carrier afforded the shipper to investigate and sue under a stipulation limiting suit to a specified time after delivery to the carrier.[93] All claims reasonably contemplated by contractual limitations fall within the scope thereof.[94]

A statute which limits the period of time for bringing suit but which does not prohibit the carrier from lessening his liability does not preclude the parties from contracting for a shorter period of limitation.[95] It has been held that statutes expressly providing that no period shorter than they prescribe shall be limited for bringing of suit against railroad carriers do not of their own force invalidate stipulations shortening the period for suit against a water carrier,[96] but are relevant on the question of whether particular contractual limitations are so short as to be void as a matter of public policy,[97] and furnish a standard to which there should be an approximate or reasonable conformity.[98]

b. Operation and Effect

A failure to bring suit within the time specified in a valid contractual limitation on time for suit bars recovery, unless good reason is shown for the delay.

393, 236 App Div. 415, reversed on other grounds 186 N E 214, 262 N Y 92, certiorari denied 54 S Ct 70, 290 U.S 650, 78 L.Ed. 563—David Coleman, Inc v. American Hawaiian S S Co., 289 N.Y.S 836, 160 Misc 211—Ferres v Linea Sud-Americana, Inc., 266 N Y S. 671, 149 Misc 335

58 C J. p 438 note 70.

Unseaworthiness of the ship has been held not to preclude the carrier from making a stipulation limiting the time for bringing suit.—Lagerloef Trading Co., Inc. v. U. S, D C.N Y, 43 F 2d 871

81. N.Y—The President Monroe, 286 N Y.S. 990, 159 Misc 432

58 C J. p 438 note 71.

82. U.S.—Bombace v. American Bauxite Co, C C A La, 39 F.2d 867

Incorporation of Hague rules in bill of lading

N Y—Jones v. Cunard S S. Co, 263 N Y S. 769, 238 App Div 172.

83. U S.—Rosenberg v. Atlantic Transport Co, D.C.Cal., 25 F 2d 739, affirmed, C C A., Atlantic Transport Co v Rosenberg, 34 F 2d 843

84. U S—Armour v Gjeruldsen, C C.A Va, 15 F 2d 553.

85. N Y—The President Monroe, 286 N.Y S 990, 159 Misc. 432

58 C.J. p 438 note 75.

86. U S—The President Polk, C C.A N Y, 43 F 2d 695, 40 F.2d 665.

58 C J. p 438 note 76.

87. U.S.—Gelderman v Dollar SS Lines, D C N.Y., 41 F 2d 398.

88. U S—Gelderman v. Dollar SS. Lines, supra.

89. N Y.—David Coleman, Inc, v American-Hawaiian S S Co., 289 N.Y S. 836, 160 Misc. 211—Ferres v. Linea Sud-Americana, Inc, 266 N Y S. 671, 149 Misc 335

58 C.J. p 438 note 77.

Periods of limitation held reasonable

U.S—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, D.C N.Y, 3 F Supp 1014

Mass—Cunningham Leather Co v American-Hawaiian S S Co, 189 N E 98, 285 Mass. 232

N Y.—J. Aron & Co. v. Panama R. Co., 175 N.E 273, 255 N.Y 513, certiorari denied J Aaron & Co. v Panama R Co, 52 S.Ct 18, 284 U S. 635, 76 L Ed. 540, motion and reargument denied 177 N E 136, 256 N Y 550—Continental Leather Co. v. Liverpool, Brazil & River Plate Steam Nav Co, 255 N Y S. 4, 234 App Div. 386, affirmed 182 N E. 207, 259 N Y. 621, certiorari denied Continental Leather Co v. Lamport & Holt, 53 S Ct. 91, 287 U.S 644, 77 L Ed 557—Ferres v. Linea Sud-Americana, Inc, 266 N. Y.S. 671, 149 Misc 335.

58 C.J. p 438 note 83.

Periods of limitation held unreasonable

U.S—U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp v Texas Star Flour Mills, C C A Tex, 12 F.2d 9.

58 C J. p 438 note 84.

90. U S.—K Ikuno v. Morris, C.C A. Va., 22 F.2d 140.

91. U.S.—Gelderman v. Dollar SS. Lines, Ltd., D C N Y, 41 F 2d 398—Green Star SS Co. v. Nanyang Bros Tobacco Co, C.C.A.China, 3 F 2d 369.

92. U.S—Green Star SS Co v. Nanyang Bros. Tobacco Co, supra.

93. U S—U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp v. Texas Star Flour Mills, C C.A.Tex., 12 F 2d 9.

58 C J. p 438 note 82.

94. U S—Armour v Gjeruldsen, C. C A Va., 15 F 2d 553.

58 C J. p 439 note 99.

95. U S.—Schnell v U S, C.C A.N Y, 30 F 2d 676, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 352, 279 U S 858, 73 L.Ed. 999.

N.Y—J Aron & Co. v Panama R. Co, 175 N E 273, 255 N.Y. 513, certiorari denied J. Aaron & Co. v Panama R Co., 52 S Ct 18, 284 U S 635, 76 L Ed 540, motion and reargument denied 177 N E 136, 256 N Y 550—David Coleman, Inc, v American-Hawaiian S. S. Co, 289 N Y S. 836, 160 Misc. 211—Ferres v Linea Sud-Americana, Inc, 266 N Y S. 671, 149 Misc 335

96. N Y—South, etc., American Commercial Co v Panama R. Co., 142 N.E 666, 237 N Y. 287.

58 C.J. p 438 note 88.

97. U S—Green Star SS. Co. v. Nanyang Bros. Tobacco Co, C C.A. China, 3 F 2d 369

N.Y.—South, etc., American Commercial Co Inc. v Panama R Co, 142 N.E. 666, 237 N Y. 287, 291.

98. N.Y.—Sapinkopf v. Cunard SS. Co, 172 N E 259, 254 N.Y. 111.

58 C J. p 439 note 90.

A failure to bring suit within the time specified in a valid limitation on time for suit bars recovery,[99] unless good reason is shown for the delay.[1] A contract which provides the same period of time for bringing suit as that provided in the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act bars recovery in a suit instituted after that time,[2] and, where the contract provides a longer period of time than that provided in the Act, a suit is not barred until the time specified by the contract has expired.[3] Negligence of the carrier contributing to the loss has been held not to deprive it of the benefit of contractual limitations on time for bringing suit.[4] Filing of libel in personam begins the suit so that if the libel is filed within the stipulated time compliance is shown with the requirements with respect to institution of suit.[5]

Waiver. Delay in bringing suit under stipulations limiting the time therefor may be waived by the carrier.[6]

§ 137. —— Limitations as to Value

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, a carrier may not contract for a limitation of liability to an amount less than the minimum sum per package specified in the statute. In the absence of statutory restrictions, it has been held that a carrier may by contract limit the amount of recovery to a stated valuation where the limitation is reasonable.

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1304(5), a carrier may not contract for a limitation of liability to an amount less than the minimum sum per package specified in the statute,[7] and, accordingly, a contractual limitation of liability in contravention of the statute is invalid[8] and inoperative.[9] A stipulation which does not fix any valuation of the goods shipped but which merely sets up the basis for a determination of their value does not constitute a maximum amount other than that named in the statute,[10] and does not contravene the statute.[11] The parties may properly provide for a limitation to an amount equal to, or greater than, the minimum statutory amount.[12]

In the absence of statutory restrictions, it has been held that a carrier may by contract limit the amount of recovery to a stated valuation where the limitation is reasonable,[13] or it may provide the method by which the value of the goods shall be determined.[14] Stipulations as to limitation of value are invalid where unreasonable,[15] as where the carrier attempts to exempt itself not only from liability for amounts in excess of a stated value, but also from any liability at all for damage to goods exceeding such stated value,[16] or where the effect of the stipulation is to relieve the carrier entirely from the consequences of its negligence.[17] It is competent for the carrier to limit its liability to a stated

99. U.S.—Switzerland General Ins. Co. of Zurich v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., C.C.A.N.Y., 91 F.2d 960—The Bellingham, C.C.A. N.J., 57 F.2d 1015, affirmed in part, C.C.A., A. C. Monk & Co. v. U. S., 57 F.2d 1018—The Mormacmar, D.C. N.Y., 75 F.Supp. 520, motion denied L. W. & P. Armstrong, Inc. v. The Mormacmar, 88 F.Supp. 736—Mangelsdorf v. U. S., 69 Ct.Cl. 600.
58 C.J. p. 439 note 92.

1. U.S.—The Eldridge, D.C.Wash., 295 F. 696.

2. N.Y.—Singer Hosiery Mills of N. Y. v. Cunard White Star, Limited, 102 N.Y.S.2d 762, 199 Misc. 389—Scala v. Italia Societa Anonima Di Navigazione of Genoa, 26 N.Y.S.2d 667.

3. N.Y.—Lowendahl v. Norwegian Shipping & Trade Mission, 32 N.Y.S.2d 744.

4. U.S.—Lagerloef Trading Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 43 F.2d 871.
58 C.J. p. 439 note 96.

5. U.S.—Leveille v. Eastern SS. Lines, D.C.N.Y., 12 F.2d 486.
58 C.J. p. 439 note 94.

6. U.S.—Green Star SS. Co. v. Nanyang Bros. Tobacco Co., C.C.A. China, 3 F.2d 369.
58 C.J. p. 439 note 1.

Waiver or estoppel not shown
N.Y.—Ferres v. Linea Sud-Americana, Inc., 266 N.Y.S. 671, 149 Misc. 335.
58 C.J. p. 439 note 1.

7. U.S.—Pan-Am. Trade & Credit Corp. v. The Campfire, C.C.A.N.Y., 156 F.2d 603, certiorari denied Waterman S. S. Corp. v. P. A. T. & C. Corp., 67 S.Ct. 194, 329 U.S. 774, 91 L.Ed. 666—The Steel Inventor, D.C.Md., 35 F.Supp. 986.

8. U.S.—Sanib Corp. v. United Fruit Co., D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp. 64.

9. U.S.—The Steel Inventor, D.C. Md., 35 F.Supp. 986.

Partial loss
Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, a carrier is prohibited from limiting its liability for partial loss to a pro rata share of the statutory limit.—Pan-Am. Trade & Credit Corp. v. The Campfire, C.C.A.N.Y., 156 F.2d 603, certiorari denied Waterman S. S. Corp. v. P. A. T. & C. Corp., 67 S.Ct. 194, 329 U.S. 774, 91 L.Ed. 666.

10. U.S.—The Bill, D.C.Md., 55 F. Supp. 780.

11. U.S.—The Bill, supra.

12. U.S.—The Margaret Lykes, D.C. La., 57 F.Supp. 466.

Unboxed motortruck
Provisions in bill of lading limiting carrier's liability to five hundred dollars per "package" were applicable to an unboxed motortruck, where the contract of carriage in effect stipulated that the truck was to be so regarded.—The Margaret Lykes, supra.

13. U.S.—Kuhnhold v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, D.C.N.Y., 251 F. 387.
58 C.J. p. 439 note 5.

14. U.S.—Smith v. The Ferncliff, Md., 59 S.Ct. 615, 306 U.S. 444, 83 L.Ed. 862.

15. U.S.—The Ansaldo San Giorgio I v. Rheinstrom Bros. Co., N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 483, 294 U.S. 494, 79 L.Ed. 1016—Calderon v. Atlas SS. Co., N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 588, 170 U.S. 272, 42 L.Ed. 1033.

16. U.S.—Calderon v. Atlas SS. Co., supra.
58 C.J. p. 439 note 7.

17. U.S.—The Ansaldo San Giorgio I v. Rheinstrom Bros. Co., N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 483, 294 U.S. 494, 79 L.Ed. 1016.
Validity of exceptions as to negligence generally see supra § 132 b.

value, if the value is reasonable, even as against loss arising from its own negligene [18]

Particular stipulations which have been held valid include stipulations limiting recovery to a value specified in dollars,[19] pounds,[20] francs,[21] or yen;[22] stipulations limiting recovery to a specified monetary maximum value unless a greater value be declared,[23] to invoice cost not exceeding a specified valuation,[24] or to the invoice or declared value of the goods;[25] or a stipulation that the carrier will not be responsible for certain specified articles of value contained in any package shipped under the bill of lading, unless the value thereof be expressed and extra freight paid therefor.[26] A stipulation which provides for adjustment on the basis of the invoice value of the entire shipment, rather than on the invoice value of the damaged goods, is invalid [27] A provision in a bill of lading limiting a carrier's liability to the value of the goods at the place of shipment has been held not to relieve it from a greater liability for a loss occurring through the negligence of the shipper in using an unseaworthy vessel [28]

Reasonable limitations as to value have been held valid where based on a lower freight rate than would otherwise be charged;[29] but where no choice of rates is offered the shipper, restriction of liability has been held invalid for lack of supporting consideration,[30] at least in the absence of other consideration moving to the shipper.[31] Lack of alternative rates invalidates a contract for restriction of liability whether such restriction be to an agreed valuation,[32] or to the invoice cost[33] or value[34] of the lost or damaged goods. Whether in any particular case a choice of rates has in fact been offered, with respect to the cargo to which it is sought to apply a limitation of value, will depend on the circumstances involved.[35] Offering choice of rates as to one class of cargo will not validate a restriction as to another class of cargo with respect to which no choice of rates was offered [36]

18. U S —Leyland v Hornblower, Mass, 256 F 289, 167 C.C.A 461.
58 C J p 441 note 36.

Harter Act does not invalidate limitations as to value with respect to losses resulting from the carrier's negligence.
U S —Leyland v Hornblower, supra
N Y.—Mariani Bros v Wilson, 177 N Y S 335, 188 App Div 617.

19. U S —Hugetz v Compania Trasatlantica, C C.A N.Y, 270 F 90.
58 C J. p 440 note 9.

20. U S —The Koan Maru, D C N Y, 251 F. 384.
58 C J. p 440 note 10.

21. U.S —Kuhnhold v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, D C N Y, 251 F 387
N.Y —E. Gerli & Co. Inc v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, 230 N Y S 282, 285, 132 Misc. 752.

22. U S —Olivier Straw Goods Corp. v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 42 F 2d 717, affirmed, C C.A., 47 F. 2d 878, 74 A.L R 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v Olivier Straw Goods Corp, 51 S Ct. 648, 283 U S 856, 75 L Ed. 1462—Bingham v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N.Y, 12 F Supp 35, affirmed, C C A., 88 F.2d 1004

23. U S.—Olivier Straw Goods Corp v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D.C N.Y, 42 F.2d 717, affirmed, C C.A, 47 F 2d 878, 74 A L R 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Olivier Straw Goods Corp, 51 S Ct 648, 283 U.S 856, 75 L Ed 1462.
58 C.J. p 440 note 13.

24. U.S —The Koan Maru, D C N Y, 251 F 384.

25. U S.—U. S. Lace Curtain Mills v Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., D C N Y., 145 F 701.
58 C.J p 440 note 15.

Invoice cost plus disbursements
A clause in marine bills of lading providing that all claims for which ship may be liable shall be adjusted and settled on value declared by shipper or on net invoice cost plus disbursements, whichever shall be the least, is valid and binding on the parties in absence of fraud or imposition.—Smith v. The Ferncliff, Md, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U.S. 444, 83 L.Ed 862

26. U S —The Bermuda, C C N.Y, 29 F. 399, 23 Blatchf. 554.
58 C.J. p 440 note 16.

27. U S —The Ansaldo San Giorgio I v Rheinstrom Bros Co., N Y, 55 S Ct 483, 294 U.S. 494, 79 L Ed 1016.

28. N.Y.—Lowenstein v. Lombard, 58 N E 44, 164 N.Y. 324

29. U S —The Lafcomo, D C.N.Y., 64 F Supp. 529, modified on other grounds, C.C A, Pioneer Import Corporation v. The Lafcomo, 159 F.2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v Pioneer Import Corp, 67 S.Ct 1310, 331 U S. 821, 91 L Ed. 1838—Venezuelan Meat Export Co v. U. S., D.C Md, 12 F Supp. 379.
58 C J. p 440 note 18.

30. U S.—The Lafcomo, D C N.Y, 64 F.Supp 529, modified on other grounds, C C A, Pioneer Import Corporation v. The Lafcomo, 159 F 2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v Pioneer Import Corp, 67 S.Ct 1310, 331 U S. 821, 91 L.Ed. 1838—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S, D C Md, 12 F. Supp. 379
58 C J p 440 note 19

31. N.Y —Kilthau v International Mercantile Marine Co., 157 N E 267, 245 N Y. 361.

32. U.S.—The Merauke, C C A N Y, 31 F 2d 974—Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha v. Willits, C C A Cal, 17 F. 2d 762

33. U S —The Merauke, C C A N Y, 31 F 2d 974

34. U S —Olivier Straw Goods Corp v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 42 F 2d 717, affirmed, C C A, 47 F 2d 878, 74 A L R 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v Olivier Straw Goods Corp, 51 S Ct 648, 283 U S 856, 75 L Ed 1462.

35. U.S —The Lafcomo, D C N.Y, 64 F Supp 529, modified on other grounds, C C A, Pioneer Import Corporation v The Lafcomo, 159 F 2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp, 67 S Ct. 1310, 331 U.S 821, 91 L Ed 1838.
58 C J. p 440 note 24.

Choice of rates not shown
U.S —The Lafcomo, D C N.Y., 64 F Supp. 529, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Pioneer Import Corporation v. The Lafcomo, 159 F 2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v Pioneer Import Corp, 67 S Ct. 1310, 331 U S. 821, 91 L Ed 1838
N.Y —Kilthau v. International Mercantile Mar. Co., 157 N E. 267, 245 N.Y. 361.

36. U S —Philippine Refining Corp. v. U. S, D C N.Y, 33 F.2d 974, affirmed, C C A, 41 F 2d 1010.
58 C.J. p 440 note 25.

In accepting the bills of lading, the shipper accepts the terms of the contract which they contain with respect to limitations as to value,[37] and the shipper's acceptance may be by his agent.[38] In order to ascertain the meaning of different limitation of value stipulations contained in a single contract, the court will ordinarily construe them as a whole.[39] Ambiguities will be resolved against the carrier where the contract has been drawn by it.[40] Defenses based on contractual limitations as to value are unavailable where the nature of the loss is beyond the purview or scope of the limitation clause.[41]

Operation and effect. Under a valid clause restricting the value or amount recoverable, the shipper subject thereto cannot recover in excess of the amount specified,[42] but may recover the extent of his loss not in excess of such stipulated amount,[43] as where recovery is based on invoice value[44] or cost.[45] Where the shipper complies with requirements of value limitations imposing full liability on the carrier, he may recover his actual loss.[46] Prorating of recovery under a limitation per unit of cargo will be made in accordance with valid contract provisions.[47]

Loss of benefit. The carrier may lose the benefit of limitation of value clauses,[48] as where it commits a breach of the contract.[49]

§ 138. —— Other Limitations

Stipulations limiting penalties for nonperformance to proved damages, if treated as limitations of liability, are inapplicable to the carrier's willful and unexcused refusal to proceed with the voyage.

Stipulations limiting penalties for nonperformance to proved damages, if treated as limitations of liability, are inapplicable to the carrier's willful and unexcused refusal to proceed with the voyage.[50] It has been held that a bill of lading providing that for cargo left with it a stipulated period after notice to consignee of award, the carrier's liability will be that of a warehouseman, is controlling with respect to the shipowner's liability for damage to cargo so detained.[51] Stipulations in contracts of through carriage have been held invalid where they purported to relieve the carrier of further responsibility on delivery to a continuing carrier.[52]

Waiver of lien. A stipulation waiving lien against a vessel in advance is void.[53]

§ 139. Extension of Liability

The parties may contract to extend the carrier's liability beyond that to which it would otherwise be subject.

It is competent for the parties by contract to extend the carrier's liability beyond that to which it would otherwise be subject.[54] An extension of lia-

37. U.S.—The Aline, C.C.N.Y., 25 F. 562, 23 Blatchf. 335.
58 C.J. p 440 note 26.

38. U.S.—The Caledonier, C.C.A.N.Y., 31 F.2d 257, certiorari denied Picard v. The Caledonier, 49 S.Ct. 480, 279 U.S. 865, 73 L.Ed. 1003.
58 C.J. p 440 note 27.

39. U.S.—Stevens v. Cunard SS. Co., D.C.N.Y., 265 F. 871, affirmed, C.C.A., 271 F. 306.
58 C.J. p 440 note 28.

40. U.S.—Kuhnhold v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, D.C.N.Y., 251 F. 387.

41. U.S.—The Cabo Villano, D.C.N.Y., 14 F.2d 978, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 18 F.2d 220.
58 C.J. p 442 note 45.

42. U.S.—The Caledonier, C.C.A.N.Y., 42 F.2d 856.
58 C.J. p 441 note 30.

43. U.S.—The Caledonier, supra.

44. U.S.—Anchor Line v. Jackson, C.C.A.N.Y., 9 F.2d 543.
58 C.J. p 441 note 32.

45. U.S.—The Merauke, D.C.N.Y., 26 F.2d 836, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 31 F.2d 974.
58 C.J. p 441 note 33.

Lack of consideration

The limitation is not effective where it is not based on consideration.—The Merauke, C.C.A.N.Y., 31 F.2d 974.

46. U.S.—Kuhnhold v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, D.C.N.Y., 251 F. 387.
58 C.J. p 441 note 34.

47. U.S.—Kuhnhold v. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, supra.

48. U.S.—Olivier Straw Goods Corporation v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 878, 74 A.L.R. 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Olivier Straw Goods Corporation, 51 S.Ct. 648, 283 U.S. 856, 75 L.Ed. 1462.

The carrier's conversion of the goods vitiates limitations as to value.—Bank of California, N.A. v. International Mercantile Marine Co., D.C.N.Y., 40 F.2d 78, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 64 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 68, 290 U.S. 649, 78 L.Ed. 563—58 C.J. p 441 note 42.

49. U.S.—The Lafcomo, D.C.N.Y., 64 F.Supp. 529, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Pioneer Import Corporation v. The Lafcomo, 159 F.2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 67 S.Ct. 1310, 331 U.S. 821, 91 L.Ed. 1838.

Breach of warranty

Carrier having breached warranty in bill of lading that goods were shipped was held precluded from invoking valuation clauses limiting liability.—Olivier Straw Goods Corporation v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 878, 74 A.L.R. 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Olivier Straw Goods Corporation, 51 S.Ct. 648, 283 U.S. 856, 75 L.Ed. 1462.

50. U.S.—Rederiaktiebolaget Atlanten v. Aktieselskabet Korn-Og Foderstof Kompagniet, N.Y., 40 S.Ct. 332, 252 U.S. 313, 64 L.Ed. 586.

51. U.S.—Camden Woolen Co. v. Eastern SS. Lines, D.C.Me., 8 F.2d 162, vacated on other grounds, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 917.
58 C.J. p 442 note 47.

Notice of arrival

Delivery of documents to receiving clerk at docks was not "notice of arrival" which bill of lading required to be delivered to consignee in order that lighter owner may have benefit of provision reducing its responsibility to that of a warehouseman—Petition of Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 44 F.Supp. 617.

52. U.S.—Yukon Mill, etc., Co. v. Lone Star SS. Co., D.C.Tex., 40 F.2d 752.

53. U.S.—The Tampico, D.C.Cal., 151 F. 689.
58 C.J. p 442 note 49.

54. U.S.—Bank Line v. Porter, C.C.A.Va., 25 F.2d 843, certiorari debility cannot be established by an alleged contract which the party sought to be charged therewith never accepted.[55]

§ 140. Unseaworthiness and Unfitness of Vessel

a. In general
b. Warranty of seaworthiness
c. Requisites and essentials of seaworthiness or fitness
d. Assumption of risk
e. Time when seaworthiness must be present

a. In General

A carrier by water, whether a common or a private carrier, is under a duty to furnish a vessel that is seaworthy and suitable for the service in which she is employed, and, in the absence of contractual or statutory exemption, the carrier is liable for loss of, or damage to, cargo resulting from unseaworthiness of the vessel.

In general, a carrier of goods by water, whether it is a common carrier or a private carrier,[56] is under a duty to furnish a vessel that is seaworthy and suitable for the service in which she is to be employed,[57] or, under some statutes, it is under a duty to exercise due diligence to make the ship seaworthy.[58] The duty of the carrier to make the vessel seaworthy,[59] or to exercise due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy,[60] may not be delegated, the shipowner being responsible for his agents or subordinates.[61]

In the absence of a contract or statute providing otherwise, the carrier is liable for loss of, or injury to, cargo resulting from unseaworthiness of the vessel,[62] or for loss resulting from the carrier's lack of nied 49 S.Ct. 25, 278 U.S. 623, 73 L.Ed. 544

58 C.J. p 442 note 50½

Under Carriage of Goods by Sea Act
In view of provisions of United States Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, permitting carrier to surrender in whole or in part all or any of his rights and immunities or to increase any of his responsibilities under the act, provided such surrender or increase be embodied in bills of lading issued to shipper, the act, although providing that every bill of lading covering carriage by sea in foreign trade shall be subject to provisions of the act, does not prevent an enlargement of the carrier's liability.—Lowendahl v. Norwegian Shipping & Trade Mission, 32 N.Y.S.2d 744.

Particular contracts
(1) Provision of charter party that vessel shall be tight, strong, and in every way fitted for voyage does not extend or qualify owner's obligation on implied warranty of seaworthiness.—The Smyrna, C.C.A.Md., 62 F.2d 1048

(2) Freight contract making owner liable for all claims arising out of ownership, maintenance, navigation, operation, control, or possession of barge did not make owner personally liable for damage to property of lessee of space thereon.—The Philip J. Kenny, D.C.N.J., 57 F.2d 337.

55. U.S.—The Isla de Panay, C.C.A.N.Y., 292 F. 723, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 269, 267 U.S. 260, 69 L.Ed. 603.
58 C.J. p 442 note 51.

56. U.S.—Schuylkill Transp. Co. v. Banks, C.C.A.Pa., 152 F.2d 405—Continental Ins. Co. v. Anchor Line, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 1032—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564—Aetna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781.
58 C.J. p 442 note 53.

57. U.S.—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—Schuylkill Transp. Co. v. Banks, C.C.A.Pa., 152 F.2d 405—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C.C.A.Va., 100 F.2d 971—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. Brooklyn & Buffalo Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 56 F.2d 271—Continental Ins. Co. v. Anchor Line, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 1032—Charbonnier v. U.S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U.S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—W. R. Grace & Co. v. Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co., D.C.S.C., 98 F.Supp. 256, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, C.A., 193 F.2d 539—The G. G. Post, D.C.N.Y., 64 F.Supp. 191—The Cleveco, D.C.Ohio, 59 F.Supp. 71, affirmed, C.C.A., 154 F.2d 605—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719—Aetna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U.S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379—The Indien, D.C.Cal., 5 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F.2d 752.
58 C.J. p 442 note 52.

Duty to inspect
(1) One who for hire furnishes barges or lighters for service has a duty to have them inspected and examined so as to be sure of their condition.—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564—58 C.J. p 442 note 52 [c].

(2) Bargee was held negligent in failing to inspect barge before beginning of operations to load it with coal.—In re Berwind-White Coal Min. Co., D.C.N.Y., 80 F.Supp. 125, affirmed, C.A., Berwind-White Coal Min. Co. v. Pitney, 187 F.2d 665.

58. Under Carriage of Goods by Sea Act
U.S.—Ore Steamship Corp. v. D/S A/S Hassel, C.C.A.N.Y., 137 F.2d 326—J. C. Penney Co. v. The American Exp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 742—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312—The Louise, D.C.Md., 54 F.Supp. 157—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F.Supp. 963

59. U.S.—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—The Louise, D.C.Md., 54 F.Supp. 157.
58 C.J. p 442 note 54.

60. U.S.—Philippine Refining Corporation v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 29 F.2d 134, affirmed, C.C.A., 41 F.2d 1010—The Otho, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 945, affirmed, C.C.A., Huilever, S.A. Division Huileries Du Congo Belge v. The Otho, 139 F.2d 748—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F.Supp. 969

61. U.S.—The Frey, D.C.N.Y., 92 F. 667.
58 C.J. p 442 note 55.

62. U.S.—Schuylkill Transp. Co. v. Banks, C.C.A.Pa., 152 F.2d 405—Interlake Iron Corporation v. Gartland S.S. Co., C.C.A.Mich., 121 F.2d 267, certiorari denied Gartland S.S. Co. v. Interlake Iron Corp., 62 S.Ct. 181, 314 U.S. 681, 86 L.Ed. 545—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C.C.A.Va., 100 F.2d 971—Norris Grain Co. v. Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C.C.A.Ill., 70 F.2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co., 55 S.Ct. 75, 293 U.S. 565, 79 L.Ed. 664—Franklin Fire Ins. Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins. Co., 53 S.Ct. 82, 287 U.S. 630, 77 L.Ed. 546—Cargo Carriers v. Brown S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 95 F.Supp. 288—The W. H. Davis, D.C.

due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy,[63] but the obligation to furnish a seaworthy vessel does not make the carrier the insurer of the cargo.[64] Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S. C.A. § 1304, the carrier is liable for loss of, or injury to, cargo resulting from unseaworthiness where the unseaworthiness was caused by the carrier's want of due diligence to make the ship seaworthy,[65] but neither the carrier nor the ship is liable for such loss unless the unseaworthiness was caused by the carrier's want of due diligence to make the ship seaworthy.[66] Mere inspection certificates giving the vessel a right to sail will not overcome definite notice to the owners of the instability of the vessel.[67]

The cargo owner is ordinarily under no obligation concerning seaworthiness,[68] and his rights are not affected by failure to determine the vessel's seaworthiness, unless her unfitness was actually known to him, or was a matter of such general notoriety that his knowledge or negligence is presumed.[69]

Fitness for cargo. Where the carrier is aware of the nature of the cargo, it is bound to furnish a vessel seaworthy for its conveyance,[70] that is, a vessel that is suited and equipped to carry the particular type of cargo.[71]

b. Warranty of Seaworthiness

In the absence of a stipulation providing otherwise, every contract of affreightment by water contains an implied absolute warranty of seaworthiness, requiring the vessel to be seaworthy in fact.

In the absence of a stipulation providing otherwise, underlying every contract of affreightment there is an implied absolute warranty of seaworthiness,[72] requiring the vessel to be seaworthy in fact,[73] and including an implied warranty that the vessel is reasonably fit for the cargo which she is to receive and carry.[74] This warranty applies to a private carrier as well as to a common carrier,[75]

N.Y., 56 F.Supp 564—Aetna Ins Co. v. Florida Towing Corp, D C Fla., 37 F Supp 781—The S C. L No. 9, D C Pa, 37 F.Supp 386, affirmed, C C A, 114 F.2d 964.

Faulty equipment of tug

A tug engaged to tow a barge is liable for damage to the cargo of the barge caused by faulty equipment of the tug.—The Raleigh, D.C.Md., 50 F. Supp. 961.

63. U S.—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C.C.A N Y, 55 F.2d 900—J. C. Penney Co v. The American Exp. Co., D.C N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 742.

64. U S.—The Smyrna, C.C.A.Md, 62 F 2d 1048

65. U S—Edmond Weil, Inc, v American West African Line, C.C. A.N.Y, 147 F 2d 363—Ore Steamship Corp v. D/S A/S Hassel, C C. A N.Y., 137 F.2d 326—Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co. v. Artemis Maritime Co., D.C.Va., 92 F.Supp 631, affirmed, C A, Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., 189 F 2d 488—The Norte, D C.Pa, 69 F.Supp 881, motion denied 71 F.Supp. 147—The Louise, D C Md., 54 F Supp. 157.

Exemption from liability for unseaworthiness under Carriage of Goods by Sea Act see supra § 128.

Private carrier

U S.—Aetna Ins Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D C Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781.

66. U.S.—Ore Steamship Corp. v. D/S A/S Hassel, C.C.A N.Y., 137 F. 2d 326.

67. U.S.—The Cleveco, D.C.Ohio, 59 F.Supp. 71, affirmed, C.C.A., 154 F. 2d 605.

68. U S—The City of Dunkirk, D C N Y, 10 F 2d 609

58 C J. p 442 note 56

69. U S—The Presque Isle, D.C.N Y, 140 F. 202.

58 C.J p 442 note 57.

Assumption of risk see infra subdivision d of this section.

70. U.S—The J. L. Luckenbach, C C.A N.Y., 65 F.2d 570—Standard Oil Co. of Cal v. U. S, D.C.Cal., 59 F Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F. 2d 312.

58 C J. p 442 note 58.

71. U S.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S., D C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379.

72. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N Y., 62 S Ct. 156, 314 U S 104, 86 L Ed 89—W. R Grace & Co. v Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co., C A S.C, 193 F 2d 539—Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Howard, C.C A.N.Y, 155 F.2d 780—O F Nelson & Co v. U S, C C.A Cal, 149 F.2d 692, followed in General Cocoa Co v. U. S, 149 F.2d 815, and 149 F.2d 816, motion denied 169 F.2d 833—The Framlington Court, C C.A.Tex, 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S S Co v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S Ct 860, 292 U S. 651, 78 L Ed. 1500—The W H Davis, D C N Y, 56 F Supp 564—The Commerce, D.C N.Y, 46 F Supp. 360, affirmed, C C A, New England S S. Co. v. Howard, 130 F 2d 354—Aetna Ins Co. v Florida Towing Corp., D.C Fla., 37 F Supp. 781—Hickman, Williams & Co v. Murray Transp. Co., D C N.Y, 31 F Supp. 820—The Emilia, D.C.N.Y., 13 F Supp. 7.

Minn—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S Co., 235 N.W. 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S Ct. 25, 284 U S. 646, 76 L.Ed 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v Cleveland-Cliffs S S. Co., 237 N.W 197, 183 Minn. 620.

58 C J p 443 note 61.

Warranty of seaworthiness in marine insurance see Insurance § 652 b

73. U.S—The Josephine, D.C Pa., 37 F 2d 928

58 C J. p 443 note 62.

74. U.S—The Emilia, D C N.Y., 13 F Supp. 7—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S., D.C.Md., 12 F Supp. 379

Minn—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S Co., 235 N W 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S Ct. 25, 284 U S 646, 76 L.Ed 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v Cleveland-Cliffs S S. Co, 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn. 620.

58 C J. p 444 note 74.

75. U.S—Commercial Molasses Corp v. New York Tank Barge Corp, N Y., 62 S Ct 156, 314 U.S 104, 86 L Ed. 89—Metropolitan Coal Co v. Howard, C C A.N.Y, 155 F 2d 780—O F. Nelson & Co. v. U S, C C.A.Cal., 149 F.2d 692, followed in General Cocoa Co v U S., 149 F 2d 815 and 149 F 2d 816, motion denied 169 F.2d 833—The Framlington Court, C C A.Tex, 69 F 2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L Ed 1500—The W. H. Davis, D C.N.Y, 56 F. Supp. 564—Aetna Ins Co. v Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla, 37 F. Supp. 781.

and, where the warranty is breached, the carrier is liable for the loss occasioned thereby.[76]

The warranty does not depend on the owner's knowledge or ignorance, or on his care or negligence;[77] it covers latent defects not ordinarily susceptible of detection as well as those which are known or discoverable by inspection,[78] although just prior to the voyage the vessel has been put in what seems to be perfect repair.[79] An express warranty that the vessel is tight, stanch, strong, and in every way fitted for the voyage is an absolute warranty of fitness, even against latent defects.[80] The warranty of seaworthiness by the shipowner existed prior to the Harter Act,[81] and it has been held that the warranty is not affected by the Harter Act,[82] but it has also been stated that the Harter Act reduces the warranty of seaworthiness to a warranty of diligence to make the vessel seaworthy.[83]

The warranty of seaworthiness is a favorite of the law and exceptions to it or limitations on it are narrowly scrutinized.[84] Where the shipowner desires to avoid the warranty he must expressly or unequivocally so contract.[85] A carrier's agreement to do certain acts, intended to make its vessel seaworthy, will not operate to modify the absolute warranty of seaworthiness which its contract otherwise imports.[86] An inspection of the vessel by a representative of the shipper's insurance carrier before the vessel was loaded has been held not to operate as a waiver or an estoppel to nullify the warranty of seaworthiness.[87]

Time to which warranty relates. The warranty is measured by the vessel's fitness as a ship to fulfill the purposes of her voyage when the ship breaks ground,[88] or at the beginning of the voyage,[89] not in relation to some subsequent exigency beyond the contemplation of the parties at such time,[90] and requires the ship to be fit as such to encounter whatever perils may reasonably be expected on the voyage, without damage or loss.[91] Some courts have held that this warranty is not continuing,[92] while others have held to the contrary.[93] The implied warranty that the vessel is reasonably fit to receive and carry the cargo attaches at the time the cargo is put on board,[94] and, where the vessel was rendered unseaworthy before the commence-

76. U.S.—W. R. Grace & Co. v. Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co., C.A.S.C., 193 F.2d 539—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. O'Donnell Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 239—Hickman, Williams & Co. v. Murray Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 820.

77. U.S.—The Emilia, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Supp. 7
58 C.J. p. 443 note 63

78. U.S.—The Carib Prince, N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 753, 170 U.S. 655, 42 L.Ed. 1181.
58 C.J. p. 449 note 4.

79. U.S.—Hubert v. Recknagel, D.C. N.Y., 13 F. 912.
58 C.J. p. 449 note 5.

80. U.S.—The Lockport, D.C.N.J., 197 F. 213

81. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.

82. U.S.—The Carib Prince, N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 753, 170 U.S. 655, 42 L.Ed. 1181.
58 C.J. p. 444 note 64.

83. U.S.—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719
Statutory exemptions from liability see supra §§ 126–129.

84. U.S.—Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Howard, C.C.A.N.Y., 155 F.2d 780.

Construction against owner

Any exception in the contract of affreightment which tends to weaken the warranty of seaworthiness is to be construed most strongly against the shipowner.—The Caledonia, Mass., 15 S.Ct. 537, 157 U.S. 124, 39 L.Ed. 644—The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L.Ed. 1500.

85. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F.2d 248, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 840, 313 U.S. 541, 85 L.Ed. 1510, vacated on other grounds 61 S.Ct. 938, 313 U.S. 596, 85 L.Ed. 1550—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564—The Commerce, D.C.N.Y., 46 F.Supp. 360, affirmed, C.C.A., New England S. S. Co. v. Howard, 130 F.2d 354.
58 C.J. p. 444 note 65.
Contractual exemption from liability for unseaworthiness see supra § 134.

86. U.S.—The Arakan, D.C.Cal., 11 F.2d 791—Church Cooperage Co. v. Pinkney, N.Y., 170 F. 266, 95 C.C.A. 462.

87. U.S.—The Mary M., D.C.N.Y., 73 F.Supp. 674.

88. U.S.—The Anastasia, D.C.Va., 11 F.Supp. 314, remanded, C.C.A., Southern Transp. Co. v. Knickerbocker Fuel Co., 79 F.2d 1011.
58 C.J. p. 444 note 68.
When seaworthiness must exist see infra subdivision e of this section

89. U.S.—May v. Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktiengesellschaft, N.Y., 54 S.Ct. 162, 290 U.S. 333, 78 L.Ed. 348—Interlake Iron Corp. v. Gartland S. S. Co., C.C.A.Mich., 121 F.2d 267, certiorari denied Gartland S. S. Co. v. Interlake Iron Corp., 62 S.Ct. 181, 314 U.S. 681, 86 L.Ed. 545.
Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal. App.Supp. 775.

90. U.S.—The Steel Navigator, C.C. A.N.Y., 23 F.2d 590

91. U.S.—The Prussia, N.Y., 93 F. 837, 35 C.C.A. 625, certiorari denied 19 S.Ct. 885, 174 U.S. 803, 43 L.Ed. 1188.
58 C.J. p. 444 note 70.

92. U.S.—The Steel Navigator, C.C. A.N.Y., 23 F.2d 590.
58 C.J. p. 444 note 71.

93. U.S.—Whipple v. Mississippi, etc., Packet Co., D.C.Miss., 34 F. 54.
58 C.J. p. 444 note 72.

94. U.S.—Aetna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781.
58 C.J. p. 444 note 75.

Partial delivery

Where entire cargo had not been loaded on lighter when it sank because of unseaworthy condition, there was a "delivery" pro tanto of that portion of cargo which had been loaded and liability of private contract carriers as bailees had attached so that they were liable for the damage to the cargo.—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., supra.

ment of the voyage by the negligence of the agent of the shipowner, it has been held that the fact that it was seaworthy when loaded will not enable the owner to escape liability on his implied warranty for loss to cargo caused by the vessel's unseaworthiness.[95]

Voyages by stages. The doctrine of voyage by stages means that when the demands on a vessel change as the voyage proceeds, the covenant of seaworthiness is satisfied if she is fitted out in port for the leg of the voyage immediately following.[96] Dropping anchor in a roadstead to discharge stevedores after breaking ground does not cause a new stage of the voyage to begin at that point.[97]

c. Requisites and Essentials of Seaworthiness or Fitness

"Seaworthiness" is a relative term depending for its application on the type of vessel, the character of the voyage, and the cargo carried. A vessel may be regarded as seaworthy if she is reasonably fit to transport the cargo safely and to encounter the ordinary perils to be expected during her voyage under the conditions existing at the time.

"Seaworthiness" is a relative term depending for its application on the type of vessel and the character of the voyage,[98] and it must be determined by the facts and circumstances of each particular case.[99] In order that a vessel may be regarded as seaworthy, she must be reasonably fit to encounter the ordinary perils to be expected during her voyage,[1] under the weather conditions existing at the

95. U S—American Agr. Chemical Co v O'Donnell Transp. Co, D.C N.Y, 62 F.Supp 239

96. U.S—The Oritani, D C Pa, 40 F.2d 522, affirmed, C C A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F 2d 1075—The Steel Navigator, C.C.A N.Y., 23 F 2d 590.

97. U S—The Oritani, D.C Pa., 40 F 2d 522, affirmed, C C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075.

98. U S—The Framlington Court, C C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co v Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L.Ed. 1500—The Cleveco, D C.Ohio, 59 F Supp. 71, affirmed, C.C A, 154 F.2d 605.

Changing standard

Standard of seaworthiness is not dependent on statutory enactment, but changes with advancing knowledge, experience, and changed appliances of navigation—The T. J. Hooper, D C N.Y., 53 F 2d 107, affirmed, C C A., 60 F 2d 737, certiorari denied Eastern Transp Co. v. Northern Barge Corp., 53 S.Ct. 220, 287 U S. 662, 77 L.Ed. 571.

Barge

(1) Standard of seaworthiness of barge, particularly coastwise wooden barge, is not same as that required of larger and different types of seagoing vessels—The Smyrna, D C Md., 2 F Supp. 351, affirmed, C.C A., 62 F. 2d 1048.

(2) Wet ceiling in barge does not necessarily denote unseaworthiness, question being one of degree.—The Smyrna, supra.

99. U S.—The Smyrna, C.C.A.Md., 62 F.2d 1048.

Port maneuver

Whether vessel was seaworthy for purpose of port maneuver was to be determined from the nature of the movement.—The Maui, C.C.A.Cal., 113 F.2d 1018, certiorari denied John Demartini Co. v The Maui, 61 S.Ct 317, 311 U S. 709, 85 L Ed 461.

Absence of previous trouble

Fact that unused conduit pipes protruding above deck had previously caused no trouble was relevant but not conclusive on issue of seaworthiness of vessel as respects liability for cargo damage—Edmond Weil, Inc., v. American West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 147 F 2d 363.

1. U S—Schuylkill Transp. Co. v. Banks, C C A Pa, 152 F 2d 405. 58 C J. p 445 note 80

Other statements of seaworthiness

(1) Generally, seaworthiness is that strength, durability and engineering skill made a part of a ship's construction and continued maintenance, together with a competent and sufficient crew, which would withstand the vicissitudes and dangers of the elements which might reasonably be expected or encountered during her voyage without loss or damage to her particular cargo—The Cleveco, D C.Ohio, 59 F.Supp. 71, 78, affirmed, C.C A., 154 F 2d 605.

(2) Seaworthiness means such fitness as to structure, lading, captain, crew, etc, as will enable a ship to encounter the winds and battering waves of the seas which must be encountered during the season and in the places where the ship must travel so that its cargo will be carried safely and delivered in good condition.—Norris Grain Co. v. Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C C A Ill., 70 F. 2d 32, 35, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co, 55 S Ct. 75, 293 U.S. 565, 79 L Ed. 664.

Criterion of seaworthiness

(1) Generally, seaworthiness of vessel depends on standard ordinarily accepted in trade for which ship is used.—Louis-Dreyfus v. Paterson Steamships, C.C.A.N.Y., 67 F 2d 331.

(2) Shippers are not entitled to latest design in ships, but only to usual carriage—Spang Chalfant & Co v Dimon S S. Corporation, C.C A. N Y, 57 F 2d 965.

(3) Vessel owner must make vessel reasonably safe and efficient for service and need not equip her with all known safety devices nor latest improvements under peril of ship being held unseaworthy.—The Cabo Hatteras, D C.N Y, 5 F.Supp. 725.

(4) While ship must be reasonably fitted for her service, she ordinarily need not conform to higher standard of care than that which prevails among duly accredited masters of experience.—U S. Steel Products Co v. American & Foreign Ins. Co., C.C.A. N.Y., 82 F.2d 752.

(5) Ship is seaworthy if conforming to requirements of her class and service, notwithstanding owner failed to maintain higher standard gratuitously assumed.—Louis-Dreyfus v. Paterson Steamships, supra.

(6) Vessel is unseaworthy if she could not reasonably have been expected to make the voyage on which she was embarked.—Interlake Iron Corporation v. Gartland S S. Co., C.C. A Mich., 121 F 2d 267, certiorari denied Gartland S. S. Co. v. Interlake Iron Corp, 62 S Ct. 181, 314 U.S. 681, 86 L Ed. 545.

(7) Other statements of standard by which seaworthiness is determined see 58 C.J. p 445 note 80 [a].

Ability to withstand gale

Vessel warranted to be "tight, stanch, strong, and in every way fitted for the contemplated voyage" must be so equipped as to withstand the buffeting of a forty-mile gale.—The Plow City, C.C A.Pa, 122 F 2d 816, certiorari denied Plow City S S. Co. v. Texas Gulf Sulphur Co, 62 S. Ct. 579, 315 U.S. 798, 86 L Ed. 1199.

Vessel held unseaworthy

(1) In general.—W. R Grace & Co v. Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co., C.A S.C., 193 F 2d 539—Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Howard, C.C A.N.

time,[2] or be reasonably fit to transport the cargo through conditions which are normal for the season,[3] or be suitable for the service on which she is employed.[4] Unseaworthiness is not confined to faults or omissions in the construction of the vessel, but may arise out of a fault in the conduct of the carrier with respect to the vessel and its equipment.[5]

More is required to make a vessel seaworthy than a tight hull, a sound rudder, and a working engine.[6] The vessel must be staunch and strong,[7] well equipped for the intended voyage,[8] fit to receive and discharge cargo,[9] and to carry safely the particular cargo on the voyage undertaken.[10] The requirements of seaworthiness vary with the nature of the Y., 155 F.2d 780—Schuylkill Transp. Co v Banks, C.C.A.Pa., 152 F.2d 405—Edmond Weil Co v American West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 147 F.2d 363—Ore Steamship Corp. v D/S A/S Hassel, C.C.A.N.Y., 137 F.2d 326—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C.C.A.Va., 100 F.2d 971—Franklin Fire Ins. Co v Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins. Co., 53 S.Ct. 82, 287 U.S. 630, 77 L.Ed. 546—Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co. v. Artemis Maritime Co., D.C.Va., 92 F.Supp. 631, affirmed, C.A., Artemis Maritime Co v Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., 189 F.2d 488—Middle East Agency v. The John B. Waterman, D.C.N.Y., 86 F.Supp. 487—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564—The Emilia, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Supp. 7—58 C.J. p. 445 note 80 [m].

(2) Barge which could not proceed through twenty to thirty-mile wind without imminent danger of her hatch covers being washed away and could not ride out storm with wind velocity of forty to forty-five miles, which storms were not infrequent and were to be expected.—The Anastasia, D.C.Va., 11 F.Supp. 314, remanded, C.C.A., Southern Transp. Co. v. Knickerbocker Fuel Co., 79 F.2d 1011.

(3) New vessel on maiden voyage which stopped repeatedly for repairs and at no time approximated normal speed, as result of which normal forty-day voyage consumed nearly five months—Venezuelan Meat Export Co v U. S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379.

(4) Vessel within which, because of engineer's negligence, there existed at commencement of voyage condition so dangerous that bunker fire was inevitable—The Galileo, C.C.A.N.Y., 54 F.2d 913, affirmed 53 S.Ct. 200, 287 U.S. 420, 77 L.Ed. 403

(5) Lighter which had a hole about six feet long and ten inches wide about three feet above normal draft line of lighter when not loaded.—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781.

Vessel held seaworthy

U.S.—Louis-Dreyfus v. Paterson Steamships, C.C.A.N.Y., 67 F.2d 331—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A. Atlantic Fruit Co v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075—The Josephine, D.C.Pa., 37 F.2d 928.
58 C.J. p. 445 note 80 [l].

2. U.S.—Schuylkill Transp. Co v. Banks, C.C.A.Pa., 152 F.2d 405.

3. U.S.—Edmond Weil, Inc., v. American West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 147 F.2d 363—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564.

4. U.S.—The Caledonia, Mass., 15 S.Ct. 537, 157 U.S. 124, 39 L.Ed. 644—W. R. Grace & Co v. Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co., C.A.S.C., 193 F.2d 539—The T. J. Hooper, C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F.2d 737, certiorari denied Eastern Transp. Co v. Northern Barge Corp., 53 S.Ct. 220, 287 U.S. 662, 77 L.Ed. 571—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. Brooklyn & Buffalo Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 56 F.2d 271.

5. Minn.—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S. Co., 235 N.W. 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 25, 284 U.S. 646, 76 L.Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S. Co., 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn. 620.

Ventilation

Unseaworthiness may arise out of the failure of the carrier to properly manipulate the hatches so as to afford ventilation—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S. Co., 235 N.W. 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 25, 284 U.S. 646, 76 L.Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S. Co., 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn. 620.

6. U.S.—Norris Grain Co. v. Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C.C.A.Ill., 70 F.2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co., 55 S.Ct. 75, 293 U.S. 565, 79 L.Ed. 664

7. U.S.—The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L.Ed. 1500—The G. G. Post, D.C.N.Y., 64 F.Supp. 191.

8. U.S.—The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L.Ed. 1500

Compass

(1) Defective compasses have been held to render a vessel unseaworthy.—The Yungay, D.C.N.Y., 58 F.2d 352

(2) New compass data is not required because rivets are renewed and slight changes are made in location of ballast at too great a distance to affect compass—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075.

(3) Where a vessel deviated from her course and ran on a well-known reef, it was held that the existence of a deflection of her compass of one-eighth of a point was not sufficient ground for finding her unseaworthy, in the absence of its continuance for a sufficient time to require notice—The E. A. Shores, Jr., D.C.Wis., 73 F. 342.

Wooden bulkhead

Use of wooden bulkhead on coal bunker, permitting air to penetrate into body of coal, does not in itself make ship unseaworthy—Earle & Stoddart v. Ellerman's Wilson Line, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.2d 231, affirmed, C.C.A., The Galileo, C.C.A., 54 F.2d 913, affirmed 53 S.Ct. 200, 287 U.S. 420, 77 L.Ed. 403

9. U.S.—The Cary Brick Co. No. 8, D.C.N.Y., 34 F.2d 981.
58 C.J. p. 446 note 81.

10. U.S.—The Caledonia, Mass., 15 S.Ct. 537, 157 U.S. 124, 39 L.Ed. 644—The J. L. Luckenbach, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 570—The Oritani, D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F.2d 1075—The G. G. Post, D.C.N.Y., 64 F.Supp. 191—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312—The Commerce, D.C.N.Y., 46 F.Supp. 360, affirmed, C.C.A., New England S. S. Co v. Howard, 130 F.2d 354—Venezuelan Meat Export Co v. U. S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379—The Indien, D.C.Cal., 5 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F.2d 752—The Point Brava, D.C.Cal., 1 F.Supp. 366.
58 C.J. p. 446 note 82.

Open or unsecured portholes or hatches

(1) Hatchways must be watertight in order that vessel carrying cargo which may be damaged by the sea may be seaworthy—Norris Grain Co v. Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C.C.A.Ill., 70 F.2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co., 55 S.Ct. 75, 293 U.S. 565, 79 L.Ed. 664—The Guanancita, D.C.Fla., 69 F.Supp. 928.

(2) Failure to dog down large steel covers of two deep tank hatches in which there was water for ballast cargo;[11] a vessel seaworthy as to navigation may be unseaworthy as to cargo,[12] and a ship may be seaworthy as to one part of the cargo and unseaworthy as to another.[13]

Although it has been held that "seaworthiness" is to be determined with reference to customs and usages of the port or country from which the vessel sails, the existing state of knowledge and experience, and the judgment of prudent and competent persons,[14] where the construction of the vessel is obviously defective, such test must be rejected.[15] Latent defects have been held to be no excuse for unseaworthiness causing damage to cargo;[16] but a latent defect, although it exists, will not be regarded as rendering the vessel unseaworthy, unless it is of such a character that if known it would have been deemed to render the ship, with respect to the defective subject matter, not reasonably fit for the service designed.[17] A ship is not unseaworthy because of a defect which is of such a character that it can be remedied on the spot and in a short time by the materials available.[18] The failure to repair the fittings of a hatch cover through which water had leaked on a previous voyage has been held to be a lack of due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy.[19]

A shipowner's negligence in failing to use due care to furnish a seaworthy vessel in respect of one part of a single unit of transportation will render the owner liable for mishap to either part of the unit, or the whole entity, if such negligence was the producing cause of the loss or damage sustained by either or both.[20] Where a barge without motive power of its own is used in connection with a tug for the purpose of transporting a cargo, the two are to be considered as one vessel for the purpose of the voyage,[21] but the rule does not apply where the shipment is pursuant to separate contracts with respect to the tug and the barges.[22]

Loading or stowage and ballast. The requirement of seaworthiness at the beginning of a voyage includes not only seaworthiness in hull and equipment, but also in the stowage of the cargo.[23] The vessel is unseaworthy where by the manner in which she is loaded or stowed she is rendered unfit to encounter the perils of the sea or ordinary perils of navigation reasonably to be anticipated;[24] and this rendered vessel unseaworthy—Middle East Agency v. The John B Waterman, D C N.Y., 86 F Supp 487.

(3) Where vessel carrying corn was not bulk freighter, but package freighter with openings or gangways in its sides, gangways should have been made as tight as solid, unbroken side of ship—Norris Grain Co. v. Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C C.A.Ill., 70 F 2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v Norris Grain Co, 55 S.Ct. 75, 293 U. S. 565, 79 L Ed 664.

(4) Other cases relative to unseaworthiness of vessel because of open portholes or hatches see 58 C J. p 446 note 82 [d].

Ventilation

(1) Vessel used for carriage of general cargo, including tobacco, was held not unseaworthy because she had but two ventilators per hold.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C N.Y, 81 F Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S. Ct. 1076, 343 U S. 978, 96 L Ed ——.

(2) Other cases involving unseaworthiness of vessel because of ventilation see 58 C J. p 446 note 82 [f]

11. U S.—The Smyrna, C.C.A.Md., 62 F.2d 1048.

12. U.S—The Indrapura, D.C Or., 178 F. 591, affirmed 190 F. 711, 112 C.C.A. 351.

Vessel held seaworthy as to cargo

U.S.—The Smyrna, C.C.A.Md., 62 F. 2d 1048.

Vessel held not seaworthy as to cargo

U S—Edmond Weil, Inc, v. American West African Line, C C A N Y, 147 F 2d 363—Cargo Carriers v. Brown S. S Co, D C N Y., 95 F.Supp 288—The Kawsar, D C.N.Y., 53 F Supp. 323.

13. U.S—Martin v. The Southwark, Pa., 24 S.Ct. 1, 191 U S 1, 48 L.Ed 65.

58 C J. p 447 note 84.

Cocoanut oil

Vessel which left port with leak between her port deep tank containing cocoanut oil and her port double bottom tank containing fuel oil was unseaworthy for carriage of cocoanut oil.—U. S. v Los Angeles Soap Co., C C A Cal, 83 F 2d 875.

14. U S—The Titania, D.C N.Y., 19 F. 101.

58 C J. p 447 note 85

15. U S—The Indrapura, Or, 190 F 711, 112 C C A. 351.

58 C J. p 447 note 86.

16. U S.—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. Brooklyn & Buffalo Nav. Co., D.C N Y., 56 F.2d 271.

17. U S.—The Rover, D.C N Y., 33 F. 515.

18. U S.—Middleton & Co (Canada), Limited, v. Ocean Dominion S. S. Corp., C C A N.Y., 137 F 2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S Ct. 432, 320 U. S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 484.

19. U S.—J. C. Penney Co v. American Exp. Co., D C N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 742.

20. U S.—The Cleveco, D.C.Ohio, 59 F Supp. 71, affirmed, C.C.A, 154 F. 2d 605.

21. U S—The Cleveco, supra.

22. U S.—The Independent, C.C.A. La., 122 F.2d 141.

23. U S.—Metropolitan Coal Co v Howard, C C.A N.Y, 155 F 2d 780—Pioneer Import Corp v. The Lafcomo, C C A.N Y., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S 766, 88 L Ed. 1063—The West Kebar, D.C N.Y., 53 F. Supp. 763, amended 53 F.Supp. 766, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Edmond Weil Co v. American West African Line, 147 F 2d 363—The Indien, D.C.Cal, 5 F.Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F.2d 752.

Minn.—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S. Co, 235 N.W. 268, 182 Minn 516, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 25, 284 U S 646, 76 L.Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S S. Co., 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn 620.

58 C J. p 447 note 87.

Element of seaworthiness

Proper stowage is an element of "seaworthiness"—Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, C.C A Pa., 167 F 2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S Ct. 67, 335 U S. 844, 93 L.Ed. 394.

24. U S.—The West Kebar, D C N Y, 53 F.Supp 763, amended 53 F Supp. 766, reversed on other grounds, C. C.A., Edmond Weil Co v. American West African Line, 147 F 2d 363—Pioneer Import Corp v. The Lafcomo, D C N Y, 49 F Supp. 559, affirmed, C C A, 138 F.2d 907, cerrule has been held not limited in its application to negligent or improper stowage which makes the ship unseaworthy as a ship, but to extend to stowage as it affects the safety of the cargo itself.[25] Furthermore, the vessel may be unseaworthy, if she is improperly ballasted with reference to her load,[26] or has the wrong kind of ballast for her cargo,[27] or if she is overloaded,[28] or improperly loaded.[29] Deck-load dunnage to be seaworthy should be laid so that the superimposed load will bear as evenly as practicable on all the dunnage [30]

Officers and crew. A vessel is unseaworthy if she sails without men competent to navigate her and attend to her equipment[31] or without a pilot, under certain circumstances [32] Ignorance on the part of the ship's officers as to the necessity of taking particular precautions to insure her safety may render her unseaworthy [33]

Supplies and fuel. The vessel may be unseaworthy because not furnished with proper supplies.[34] The vessel is unseaworthy if she sails without fuel sufficient for her voyage[35] with a reasonable margin for safety.[36] Deviation or liberty clauses do not excuse a deviation for fuel, where the ship was unseaworthy in sailing without sufficient fuel.[37]

d. Assumption of Risk

A shipper and owner of merchandise may assume the risk of injury or loss from unseaworthiness provided he has knowledge of the unseaworthiness of the vessel at the beginning of the voyage.

The existence of an implied warranty of seaworthiness does not necessarily exclude the applica-tiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S Ct 523, 321 U S 766, 88 L Ed 1063.

58 C.J p 448 note 89.

Deck cargo

Where unused conduit pipes protruding above deck were likely to be broken off should heavy deck cargo break loose in a storm, thereby opening holes into 'tween-deck through which water could enter, deck cargo, stowed so that it broke loose in storm such as could be expected at that season and plunged about the deck snapping off conduit pipes, was so improperly stowed as to make the ship unseaworthy.—Edmond Weil, Inc, v. American West African Line, C.C.A N.Y., 147 F.2d 363.

25. U S —Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, C C A N Y, 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v Pioneer Import Corp, 64 S Ct 523, 321 U S 766, 88 L Ed 1063—The Arakan, D C.Cal, 11 F.2d 791.
Minn —Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S S Co, 235 N.W 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S Ct 25, 284 U S 646, 76 L.Ed 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v Cleveland-Cliffs S S. Co, 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn. 620

26. U S.—Sumner v. Caswell, D C N. Y, 20 F 249.
58 C J p 448 note 90.

27. U S —The Owego, D C.N.Y, 11 F 2d 288, affirmed, C C.A., Fruit Auction Co v. The Owego, 11 F.2d 288.

28. U.S —Interlake Iron Corporation v Gartland S. S. Co, C C A Mich, 121 F 2d 267, certiorari denied Gartland S. S Co. v Interlake Iron Corp, 62 S Ct 181, 314 U.S 681, 86 L.Ed. 545—The Indien, D C Cal, 5 F.Supp 349, affirmed, C.C.A., 71 F. 2d 752.
58 C.J. p 448 note 92.

29. U.S.—Steamship Wellesley Co. v. Hooper, Cal., 185 F 733, 108 C C A. 71
58 C J. p 448 note 93

30. U.S —The Indien, D C Cal, 5 F Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C A., 71 F 2d 752.

31. U S —Peninsular & Occidental S S Co v. N L R. B, C C A 5, 98 F 2d 411, certiorari denied N L. R B. v. Peninsular & Occidental S. S Co, 59 S Ct. 248, 305 U S 653, 83 L.Ed 423—The Framlington Court, C.C A.Tex, 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S Ct. 860, 292 U S. 651, 78 L.Ed 1500—Charbonnier v U S, D C S C, 45 F 2d 166, affirmed, C C A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—Venezuelan Meat Export Co v U. S, D C Md, 12 F.Supp. 379.
58 C J p 448 note 94.

Standard for determination

Seaworthiness in respect of the crew of a vessel depends on whether the personnel is competent to perform maritime services and not on whether the carrier complied with the terms of an inspector's certificate with respect to the crew —Hartford & New York Transp Co. v. Rogers & Hubbard Co, C C A.Conn, 47 F 2d 189, certiorari denied Rogers & Hubbard v. Hartford & New York Transp. Co, 51 S Ct. 483, 283 U.S. 835, 75 L Ed. 1446.

Shortage of one man in crew aboard a tug has been held not to make the tug or the barges in tow unseaworthy where an additional man could have done nothing toward preventing the accident.—Hartford & New York Transp. Co. v. Rogers & Hubbard Co., C C.A.Conn, 47 F.2d 189, certiorari denied Rogers & Hubbard v. Hartford & New York Transp Co, 51 S Ct. 483, 283 U.S. 835, 75 L. Ed. 1446.

32. U S —The Framlington Court, C. C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S S Co v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S Ct. 860, 292 U S. 651, 78 L.Ed 1500
58 C J. p 448 note 95.

Pilot required by nature of navigation

Generally, where pilotage is customary and pilot is available, and nature of navigation requires one, failure to employ pilot breaches warranty of seaworthiness —The Framlington Court, C C A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S Ct. 860, 292 U.S 651, 78 L Ed. 1500.

33. U.S —The Elkton, D C.N.Y., 35 F.2d 49, affirmed, C.C A., Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas v. U S., 49 F.2d 700.
58 C J. p 449 note 96.

Ignorance of engineer held immaterial

That chief engineer did not know that vessel had suctions leading from cargo hold to pumps harnessed directly to boilers was held not to render ship unseaworthy, where all pumps were started after ship stranded —Louis-Dreyfus v Paterson Steamships, C.C.A.N.Y., 67 F.2d 331.

34. Conn —Clark v. Richards, 1 Conn. 54.
Pa —Bell v. Reed, 4 Binn 127, 5 Am. D. 398.

35. U S —The Waalhaven, C C A.N. Y., 36 F 2d 706, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 352, 281 U S. 747, 74 L Ed. 1159.
58 C J. p 449 note 97.

36. U S.—The Willdomino, C.C A.N. J., 300 F. 5, affirmed 47 S Ct. 261, 272 U.S. 718, 71 L Ed. 491.
58 C.J. p 449 note 98.

37. U.S.—The Caledonier, C.C A.N. Y., 31 F.2d 257, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 480, 279 U.S. 865, 73 L.Ed. 1003.

tion of the doctrine of assumption of risk from unseaworthiness by a shipper and owner of merchandise.[38] However, the doctrine does not apply when the shipper cannot be deemed to have had knowledge of the unseaworthiness of the vessel at the beginning of the voyage,[39] and the shipper by accepting a vessel as one safe to carry the cargo does not prejudice his right to rely on a covenant of seaworthiness.[40] A provision in a contract that the shipper assumes the risk of deck stowage presupposes proper loading and a seaworthy ship.[41]

e. Time When Seaworthiness Must Be Present

The vessel must be seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage, and it is the duty of the carrier to keep the vessel in proper repair unless prevented by perils of the sea or unavoidable accident.

The vessel must be seaworthy, or the shipowner must have exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy, at the beginning of the voyage,[42] or at the time she sails,[43] or when she breaks ground,[44] or at the point at which the cargo is loaded;[45] and it is the duty of the carrier to keep the vessel in proper repair, unless prevented by perils of the sea or unavoidable accident.[46]

Crew. It is the duty of the shipowner to obtain a crew at the outset of the voyage.[47]

§ 141. Improper Stowage

a. In general
b. Stowage on deck
c. Dunnage

a. In General

A carrier of goods by water has the duty to exercise due care in their stowage and, in the absence of contractual or statutory exemption, is liable for injury to, or loss of, cargo caused by defective or improper stowage.

A carrier of goods by water is under a duty to exercise due care in their stowage,[48] sufficient to meet the conditions reasonably to be anticipated;[49] and, in the absence of contractual or statutory exemption, the carrier is liable for injury to, or loss of, cargo caused by defective or improper stowage.[50]

38. U.S.—Sun Co. v. Philadelphia Transp., etc., Co., D.C.Pa., 244 F. 580.
58 C.J. p. 449 note 8.

39. U.S.—Davis v. Dittmar, C.C.A.N.Y., 6 F.2d 141.

40. U.S.—The Josephine, D.C.Pa., 37 F.2d 928, affirmed, C.C.A., 49 F.2d 207.

41. U.S.—The Royal Sceptre, D.C.N.Y., 187 F. 224.
58 C.J. p. 450 note 11.

42. U.S.—Charbonnier v. U. S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F. Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719—The City of Brunswick, D.C.Mass., 4 F.Supp. 908.
58 C.J. p. 450 note 13.
Harter Act as not relieving shipowner from general duty to furnish seaworthy vessel at beginning of voyage see supra § 128
Time as of which warranty is determined see supra subdivision b of this section.

43. U.S.—The Frey, D.C.N.Y., 92 F. 667.
58 C.J. p. 450 note 14.

44. U.S.—The Anastasia, D.C.Va., 11 F.Supp. 314, remanded, C.C.A., Southern Transp. Co. v. Knickerbocker Fuel Co., 79 F.2d 1011.
58 C.J. p. 450 note 15.

45. U.S.—J. C. Penney Co. v. American Exp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 102 F. Supp. 742.

46. U.S.—Work v. Leathers, La., 97 U.S. 379, 24 L.Ed. 1012—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, affirmed, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

47. U.S.—Charbonnier v. U. S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174.

48. U.S.—The Ensley City, D.C.Md., 71 F.Supp. 444, affirmed, C.C.A., Isthmian S. S. Co. v. Martin, 170 F.2d 25—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.Pa., 65 F.Supp. 102—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379.

Statutory duty

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1303, it is the duty of the carrier to properly and carefully stow the goods carried—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 168, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999.

Knowledge of proper stowage

Question of shipowner's common knowledge of danger in stowing cargo is to be decided from standpoint of knowledge, experience, and judgment of competent person engaged at time in loading cargoes in port from which ship sailed—The Cabo Hatteras, D.C.N.Y., 5 F.Supp. 725

49. U.S.—The Terne, D.C.N.Y., 1 F. Supp. 537.

Requirement in shipper's insurance policy

Shipowners, rightfully stowing cargo in bridge deck space, were held not liable for loss of and damage to it because of requirement, of which they had no notice or knowledge, in shippers' insurance policy that cargo be stowed under main deck.—The Velma Lykes, D.C.Tex., 6 F.Supp. 886

50. U.S.—Armco International Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, C.C.A.N.Y., 151 F.2d 5—The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A.Md., 89 F.2d 539—Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 199—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 880—Middle East Agency v. The John B. Waterman, D.C.N.Y., 86 F.Supp. 487—The Ensley City, D.C.Md., 71 F.Supp. 444, affirmed, C.A., Isthmian S. S. Co. v. Martin, 170 F.2d 25—The Mangalia, D.C.N.Y., 69 F.Supp. 688—The Rita Sister, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 480—Stirnimann v. The San Diego, D.C.N.Y., 55 F.Supp. 798, affirmed, C.C.A., 148 F.2d 141—The West Kebar, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.Supp. 763, amended on other grounds 53 F.Supp. 766, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Edmond Weil Co. v. American West African Line, 147 F.2d 363—Export S. S. Corp. v. American Ins. Co., Newark, N. J., D.C.N.Y., 26 F.Supp. 79, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 106 F.2d 9, opinion adhered to 108 F.2d 1013, certiorari denied American S. S. Owners Mut. Protection and Indemnity Ass'n v. Export S. S. Corp. and American Export Lines, 60 S.Ct. 809, 309 U.S. 686, 84 L.Ed. 1029—The Ferncliff, D.C.Md., 22 F. Supp. 728, certified questions an-

However, the carrier is not liable for loss of, or injury to, cargo caused by improper stowage where the cargo was stowed according to the directions and orders of the shipper.[51] Liability for damage due to negligence in handling or stowage of cargo may not be avoided merely because the cargo was not in good condition when accepted or was of a character to sustain damage if not handled properly,[52] and the carrier is liable where cargo is in worse condition when delivered by the vessel than when received if such deterioration in condition is due to negligent stowage.[53] Bad stowage may constitute negligence precluding the carrier from relying on exceptions from liability contained in the bill of lading.[54]

The cargo must be stowed in accordance with the conditions of the ship[55] and the character of the cargo.[56] A carrier who accepts goods of a nature which require special care in their stowage must exercise such care.[57] Further, where the shipment increases the danger, increased caution in stowage is required,[58] and, when the voyage is one on which severe and stormy weather is to be anticipated, care in securing the cargo against shifting under stress of weather is required.[59] The law imposes on the carrier the duty of using due care to ascertain and consider the nature and characteristics of goods offered for shipment and to exercise due care in their handling,[60] and, further, the carrier is charged swered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed 862, affirmed, C C A, 105 F 2d 1021—The City of Khios, D C N.Y., 16 F Supp 923.

58 C J. p 450 note 18.

Contractual exemption from liability for loss of, or injury to, cargo see supra §§ 131–138.

Statutory exemption from liability for loss of, or injury to, cargo see supra §§ 126–129.

Reasonable apprehension of injury

With respect to question whether improper stowage of cargo caused damage from heating, inquiry was not whether method of operation was used without disastrous results, but whether it was of such a character that danger of injury was reasonably to be apprehended.—The Nichiyo Maru, C.C A.Md, 89 F 2d 539.

Stowage held not bad or negligent

(1) Dye—The Hokkai Maru, D.C. N.Y., 17 F.Supp 249.

(2) Newsprint—New England Newspaper Pub. Co. v. U. S., D C. Mass., 18 F Supp. 674.

(3) Olive oil.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C. N.Y, 81 F Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C A, 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct. 1076, 343 U.S 978, 96 L Ed. —.

(4) Salad oil—The Velma Lykes, D C Tex., 6 F Supp 886.

(5) Tobacco—American Tobacco Co. v The Katingo Hadjipatera, supra.

(6) Stowage of other cargo held not bad or negligent see 58 C J. p 450 note 18 [f]

Stowage held bad or negligent

(1) Banana powder—Sanib Corp v. United Fruit Co, D C N Y, 74 F. Supp 64

(2) Cheese.—American Tobacco Co v The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C N.Y., 81 F.Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C.A, 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U S 978, 96 L.Ed. —.

(3) Coffee—General Foods Corp v The Troubador, D C N Y., 98 F. Supp. 207.

(4) Fish meal—The Nichiyo Maru, C C A Md, 89 F 2d 539—The Venice Maru, D C N.Y, 39 F Supp 349, affirmed, C C A, Consumers Import Co v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F 2d 781, affirmed 64 S Ct 15, 320 U S 249, 88 L Ed 30—The Ferncliff, D C.Md, 22 F Supp 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U S. 444, 83 L Ed. 862, affirmed, C C A., 105 F 2d 1021—58 C J p 450 note 18 [g] (8)

(5) Onions—The Carnia, D C N.Y., 2 F Supp. 929.

(6) Palm oil.—Edmond Weil, Inc, v. American West African Line, C C A N.Y., 147 F.2d 363.

(7) Stowage of other cargo held bad or negligent see 58 C.J. p 450 note 18 [g].

51. U S—Katzenberg v. Lamport & Holt, D.C.N.Y., 59 F 2d 739, affirmed, C C.A., 64 F.2d 1014.

Carriage of dogs

Carrier was not liable for death of racing dogs during voyage as result of heat exhaustion superinduced by lack of air resulting from inclosing kennels with canvas, where crew had merely followed shippers' direction in covering kennels—Thomas v. Pacific S. S. Lines, C C A.Cal, 84 F.2d 506.

52. U S—Isthmian S S Co. v. Martin, C A.Md., 170 F.2d 25.

53. U S—Isthmian S S. Co. v. Martin, supra

54. U.S—The Ensley City, D C.Md, 71 F Supp. 444, affirmed, C.A, Isthmian S. S. Co. v Martin, 170 F 2d 25.

58 C J p 451 note 19.

55. U S—The Wildwood, D.C Wash, 41 F Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp v. American S. S Corp., 63 S Ct. 1436, 319 U.S 771, 87 L Ed 1719

58 C.J. p 450 note 18 [c].

56. U S—The F J. Luckenbach, D C.Pa., 213 F. 670.

57. U S—The Nichiyo Maru, C C A Md, 89 F 2d 539—The Ferncliff, D.C Md, 22 F Supp 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S.Ct. 615, 306 U S 444, 83 L Ed 862, affirmed, C C.A., 105 F 2d 1021.

58 C J. p 451 note 24.

58. U S—The Tamba Maru, D.C Wash, 274 F 696

58 C.J. p 451 note 25

59. U.S.—Hodgson v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co, D C N.Y, 33 F 2d 337, affirmed, C C.A, Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., 47 F 2d 880—Middle East Agency v. The John B Waterman, D.C N.Y., 86 F Supp 487

60. U S—The Nichiyo Maru, C C A. Md, 89 F.2d 539—The Ferncliff, D C Md, 22 F Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct 615, 306 U S. 444, 83 L Ed. 862, affirmed, C.C.A, 105 F 2d 1021.

Minn—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S S. Co, 235 N.W 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S Ct 25, 284 U.S. 646, 76 L Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S S. Co., 237 N W. 197, 183 Minn. 620.

58 C J. p 451 note 22.

Duty of carrier to make proper inquiry as to characteristics of cargo which it accepts generally see supra § 125.

Duty to refuse cargo

A vessel should not accept a cargo unless it can be given the type of stowage that its character requires—The Ensley City, D.C Md, 71 F. Supp. 444, affirmed, C A., Isthmian S. S. Co. v. Martin, 170 F.2d 25.

Refrigeration

Steamship company which issued with notice of any patent defect in the goods;[61] but a carrier is not bound to know grade marks, or to take note of marks on packages, even of stowage directions on them.[62] It has been held that a shipowner who delegates to the shipper the loading of the ship cannot escape liability to the holders of the bills of lading for damage caused by improper stowage, even though the ship's master has not been consciously or willfully negligent in the matter of stowage[63]

Custom and usage. The prevailing standards of stowage are ordinarily considered part of the contract of carriage.[64] However, conformity with custom in the stowage of cargo is not of itself the exercise of due care which will relieve a carrier from liability for loss of, or injury to, the cargo, but reasonable prudence under the circumstances must be exercised[65] A custom of stowing cargo in a particular part of a vessel will not justify stowing more cargo there than all of the conditions in relation to the physical surroundings warrant.[66]

Cargo stowed by stevedores. The ship and its owners are exempt from liability for damages resulting from bad stowage performed by stevedores selected by the owner of the cargo;[67] but this rule does not exempt ship and its owners from liability for a failure in their duty as a carrier after the stowage has been performed,[68] and the mere right on the part of the cargo owner to select the stevedore does not exempt the ship from liability for bad stowage where the master is not deprived of his authority to control the loading and to insist on stowage satisfactory to him[69] As the master designates the place within the ship where each kind of cargo is to go, when such place is improper the ship is liable for consequent damages to the cargo, although it was stowed by another's stevedore.[70] Where goods are stowed in the customary way, and according to the best judgment of experienced stevedores, the fact that if they had been stowed differently the injury sustained might have been avoided does not make the carrier liable, as he is not required to take such extraordinary precautions.[71]

Injury to cargo from other cargo. Different parts of the cargo must be so stowed as not unnecessarily to injure one another;[72] and a vessel is liable for damages caused to goods of one shipper by those of another, although the goods are stowed in the bill of lading providing for refrigerator shipment of pears, and showing different markings of barrels containing apples and pears, was held liable for loss resulting from confusion of barrels and shipments — Kimball Fruit Co v. New York Cent R. Co., 254 N.Y.S. 280, 142 Misc 558

61. Tex.—Southern Pac Co. v Walker-Smith Co., Civ App., 257 S W. 347.
58 C.J. p 451 note 23.

62. U.S.—The Buenos Aires, D.C.N Y., 46 F.2d 693.

Notices on packages shipped giving directions as to their stowage were held not to increase the carrier's responsibility where they were not called to the attention of the carrier and were not mentioned in the bill of lading.—The New Orleans, C.C.La., 26 F 44

63. U.S.—The Ferncliff, D.C.Md., 22 F.Supp. 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S.Ct 615, 306 U.S 444, 83 L.Ed 862, affirmed, C.C.A., 105 F.2d 1021

64. U.S.—Bache v. Silver Line, C.C. A.N.Y., 110 F.2d 60.

65. U.S.—The California, D.C.Pa., 67 F.Supp. 719, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Globe Solvents Co v. The California, 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct 67, 335 U.S 844, 93 L.Ed. 394—The City of Khios, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.Supp. 923—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C.Md., 14 F Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F 2d 539.

66. U.S.—The San Guglielmo, D.C.N Y., 241 F 969, modified on other grounds 249 F 588, 161 C.C.A 514.

67. U.S.—California Navigation & Improvement Co v. Stockton Milling Co., Cal., 184 F. 369, 107 C.C.A 46.
58 C.J. p 451 note 28.

Duty to give information
In certain circumstances a shipowner may be under a duty to give information with respect to stowage —The Venice Maru, D.C.N.Y., 39 F Supp 349, affirmed, C.C.A., Consumers Import Co v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F.2d 781, 64 S.Ct. 15, 320 U.S. 249, 88 L.Ed 30.

68. U.S.—California Nav., etc., Co v. Stockton Milling Co., Cal., 184 F. 369, 107 C.C.A. 46.

69. U.S.—Knohr v. Pacific Creosoting Co., D.C.Wash., 181 F 856

70. U.S.—The Thames, Md., 61 F. 1014, 10 C.C.A. 232.

71. U.S.—Montague v. The Isaac Reed, D.C.Cal., 82 F. 566.
58 C.J. p 452 note 34.

72. U.S.—Armco International Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, C.C.A.N.Y., 151 F.2d 5—The Mangalia, D.C.N.Y., 69 F.Supp 688
58 C.J. p 452 note 35.

Stowage held improper
(1) The stowage of cheese in lower cross-bunker above other cargo subject to damage by spoilage of cheese. —American Tobacco Co. v The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed —.

(2) Stowage of cases of cheese on top of cases of canned tomatoes — Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 199.

(3) Placing casks of cocoanut oil and barrels of molasses above sugar and with coffee in same compartment "'tween-decks," without installing temporary bulkheads —Atlantic Sugar Refineries v Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 880

(4) Stowage of leaky rum casks over green, salted hides without separation of watertight planking.— Venezuelan Meat Export Co v. U.S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379

(5) Placing of cargo of rabbit skins in hold with cargo, which would be apt to heat unless well ventilated and could not be properly ventilated when hatches had to be shut down in rain or rough seas.—Bingham v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D.C.N Y., 12 F.Supp 35, affirmed, C.C.A., 88 F.2d 1004

Stowage held not improper or negligent
Stowage of fifteen tierces of beef casings in hold with flour taking up a space of twenty seven hundred feet was held not negligent stowage.— The Chester Valley, C.C.A.La., 110 F. 2d 592.

usual way, if the injury is caused by the goods of the third party being in bad condition when put on board,[73] or being of such a nature as naturally to cause damage;[74] and where the vessel carries different kinds of cargo, which are liable to damage each other, special care must be taken that they are so stowed that damage shall not result.[75] Where the different parts of the cargo are such as are very probable to injure each other, the carrier is liable, although they are well stowed, if injury result.[76] However, the carrier is not responsible for injury necessarily resulting to the goods of one shipper from their being carried in the same vessel with the goods of other shippers, which, by usage, are a proper part of the same general cargo, unless such injury could have been avoided by the exercise of reasonable skill and attention on the part of the persons employed in the conveyance of the goods.[77]

Violation of statutory requirement for protection from fire. The violation of statutory requirements for the protection of cotton or other easily ignitible commodity from fire while being carried on steamboats has been held negligence making the carrier liable for loss caused thereby, even though the statute was intended for the protection of life.[78]

b. Stowage on Deck

The parties to a contract for the carriage of goods by water may lawfully stipulate for on-deck stowage, and where stowage on deck is authorized the carrier is not liable for loss or damage to cargo by reason of its having been stowed on deck; but where stowage on deck is without the consent of the shipper the carrier is liable for loss resulting therefrom.

The parties to a contract for the carriage of goods by water may lawfully stipulate for on-deck stowage;[79] and where no culpable neglect or misconduct is attributable to the carrier or owner of the vessel for the injury, destruction, or jettison of goods loaded on deck, the carrier or vessel is not liable for loss or damage to cargo by reason of its having been stowed on deck, if it must have been contemplated from the nature of the cargo that it should be so stowed,[80] or if it was loaded on deck with the consent of the shipper.[81] On the other hand, stowage on deck without consent of the shipper, express or implied, renders the carrier liable for loss resulting therefrom,[82] even as against damages of the sea,[83] and notwithstanding exceptions in the bill of lading,[84] unless they would have been equally fatal if the goods had been under deck.[85]

The failure to mention the place of stowage, in the absence of custom to the contrary, implies that the goods will be stowed below deck.[86] Ordinarily, where goods are shipped under a clean bill of lading they are to be put under deck, there being no positive agreement to the contrary, or circumstances from which it might be inferred,[87] particularly with re-

73. U.S.—Armco International Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, C.C.A.N.Y., 151 F.2d 5.
58 C.J. p 452 note 36.

Leaking containers
U.S.—Armco International Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, supra.
58 C.J. p 452 note 36 [a].

74. U.S.—Wiggin v. The Glamorganshire, D.C.N.Y., 50 F. 840.
58 C.J. p 452 note 37.

75. U.S.—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 880—The Mangalia, D.C.N.Y., 69 F.Supp 688.
58 C.J. p 452 note 38.

76. U.S.—Braker v. The H. G. Johnson, D.C.N.Y., 48 F. 696.

77. U.S.—Mainwaring v. The Carrie Delap, D.C.N.Y., 1 F. 874.
58 C.J. p 452 note 42.

78. Ala.—Grey v. Mobile Trade Co., 55 Ala. 387, 28 Am.R. 729.

79. U.S.—Davidson v. Flood Bros., C.C.A.Cal., 30 F.2d 279.
Stowage or carrying of cargo on deck as constituting deviation see infra § 144 g.

Reservation in bill of lading
A shipper accepting bill of lading reserving the right to carrier to stow the cargo on deck assented to stowage of cargo on deck.—The Peter Helms, D.C.Wash., 24 F.Supp. 461.

80. U.S.—Talbot v. Wakeman, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.Cas.No.13,731, 19 How.Pr. 36

81. U.S.—Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, C.C.A.Pa., 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 67, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L.Ed. 394.
58 C.J. p 452 note 43.

82. U.S.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed. ——.—The Margaret Lykes, D.C.La., 57 F.Supp 466.
58 C.J. p 452 note 45.

83. U.S.—The Muskegon, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.2d 817
58 C.J. p 453 note 46.

84. U.S.—St. Johns N. F. Shipping Corp. v. Companhia Geral, etc., N.Y., 44 S.Ct. 30, 263 U.S. 119, 68 L.Ed. 201—The Muskegon, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.2d 817.

85. U.S.—The Margaret Lykes, D.C.La., 57 F.Supp. 466.
58 C.J. p 453 note 48.

86. U.S.—The Idefjord, D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp 667, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459.

87. U.S.—St. Johns N. F. Shipping Corporation v. S. A. Companhia Geral Commercial Do Rio De Janeiro, N.Y., 44 S.Ct. 30, 263 U.S. 119, 68 L.Ed. 201—The Idefjord, C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459—The Margaret Lykes, D.C.La., 57 F.Supp 466—The Freda, D.C.N.Y., 266 F. 551.
58 C.J. p 452 note 44.

Notice after purchase of bills of lading
Fact that buyer of wool effected insurance when he received letter advising him of on-deck stowage of cargo and did not seek to disaffirm its purchase could have no bearing on ship's liability under clean negotiable bills of lading for damage to cargo stowed on deck, where bills had already been presented and buyer's responsibility to holders fixed.—The Idefjord, C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v. Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459.

spect to goods such as wool;[88] and any inference that the cargo may be carried on deck, implied by a reference in the contract to the capacity of the vessel, is repelled by the fact that the shipper refused to insert leave to carry on deck in the bills of lading proposed to be signed, and paid under-deck freight.[89] Taking a full price for stowing on deck will subject the owner of the vessel to damages, if the freight placed on deck is thereby lost or damaged.[90]

As silence in a bill of lading as to stowage is not an express contract on that point, the shipowner, where a claim for loss is made, may prove an agreement to carry on deck[91] or usage to that effect;[92] and a shipper who agrees that his goods shall be carried on deck, and assents to the manner of stowing and protecting them, cannot recover for an injury through natural causes where all reasonable care was taken of them during the voyage.[93] A shipper who sees goods deck-stowed without objection cannot claim damages for injury to them occurring without fault of the carrier.[94] Even though the shipper agreed to deck shipment or a cargo was of such character as to be properly stowed on the deck, the carrier is liable for damages caused by its improper stowage,[95] as by its being insufficiently secured[96] or covered,[97] or because of the improper loading of the vessel,[98] or for an unnecessary jettison.[99]

c. Dunnage

Proper dunnage is an element of proper stowage, and, hence, the carrier or vessel is liable for loss of, or injury to, cargo caused by lack of sufficient dunnage.

Proper dunnage is an element of proper stowage,[1] and, hence, lack of sufficient dunnage to protect cargo is bad stowage, for which the carrier or vessel is liable.[2] A ship must be dunnaged so as to protect the cargo in rough weather, even if the vessel springs no serious leak.[3] Where the vessel has met with extraordinary sea peril, on proof of usual good dunnage the carrier will not be liable.[4]

§ 142. Improper Loading or Handling

As a general rule, a carrier of goods by water is under a duty properly and carefully to load, handle, carry, keep, and care for the goods carried, and, in the absence of contractual or statutory exemption, he is liable for loss of, or injury to, cargo resulting from his failure so to do.

As a general rule, a carrier of goods by water is under a duty properly and carefully to load the goods carried,[5] and, in the absence of contractual

Stowage in bridge deck space

Stowage of cargo in bridge deck space of ship was held full compliance with shipowners' obligations under bill of lading and statute—The Velma Lykes, D.C.Tex., 6 F. Supp. 886.

88. U.S.—The Idefjord, C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F.2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct. 175, 311 U.S. 707, 85 L.Ed. 459.

89. U.S.—The Water Witch, N.Y., 1 Black 494, 17 L.Ed. 155

90. N.C.—Gardner v. Smallwood, 3 N.C. 349.

91. U.S.—Two Hundred and Sixty Hogsheads of Molasses, D.C.Me., 24 F.Cas.No.14,296, 1 Hask. 24.
58 C.J. p 453 note 49.
Parol evidence of agreement that goods shipped under clean bill of lading were to be stowed on deck see infra § 155.

92. U.S.—The Delaware, Cal., 14 Wall. 579, 20 L.Ed 779.
58 C.J. p 453 note 50.

93. U.S.—The Thomas P. Thorn, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.Cas.No.13,927, 8 Ben. 3.
58 C.J. p 453 note 51.

94. La.—Van Horn v. Taylor, 2 La. Ann. 587, 46 Am.D. 558.
58 C.J. p 453 note 52.

95. U.S.—U.S. Industrial Alcohol Co. v. Calmar S.S. Corporation, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 1023, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 182, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 21, 287 U.S. 622, 77 L.Ed. 540—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 559, affirmed, C.C.A., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L.Ed 1063.

Effect of statutory authorization

The right to stow inflammable cargo on deck by virtue of act of congress and regulations issued pursuant thereto does not relieve vessel from liability for damage to cargo arising out of vessel's failure properly to stow the cargo—The California, D.C.Pa., 67 F.Supp 719, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 67, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L.Ed 394.

96. U.S.—U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co. v Calmar S. S. Corporation, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 1023, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 182, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 21, 287 U.S. 622, 77 L.Ed. 540.
58 C.J. p 453 note 53.

Insufficient room

It is no defense that there was insufficient room for safe stowage of all of cargo.—U.S. Industrial Alcohol Co. v. Calmar S. S. Corporation, supra.

97. N.Y.—Schwinger v. Raymond, 83 N.Y. 192, 38 Am.R. 415

98. U.S.—Barker v. The Swallow, D.C.Ill., 44 F. 771.
58 C.J. p 453 note 55.

99. U.S.—Compania de Navigacion La Flecha v Brauer, N.Y., 18 S.Ct. 12, 168 U.S. 104, 42 L.Ed 398

1. U.S.—Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, C.C.A.Pa., 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 67, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L.Ed 394.

2. U.S.—The Edith, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 684.
58 C.J. p 453 note 60.

Responsibility of carrier

Dunnaging is the responsibility of the carrier in determining liability for damage to cargo caused by faulty dunnaging.—The Norte, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 881, motion denied 71 F.Supp. 147

3. U.S.—Endicott v. Renauld, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Cas.No.4,482, 10 Ben. 582—The Howden, D.C.Cal., 12 F.Cas.No. 6,765, 5 Sawy. 389.

4. U.S.—Steinwender v. The Aspasia, D.C.N.Y., 79 F. 91.

5. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379

"Lumber ports" are openings in the bow of the barge which are used when long pieces of lumber are put or statutory exemption, the carrier is liable for injury to, or loss of, cargo resulting from improper or negligent handling in loading,[6] or from overloading the vessel.[7] Since the loading of the cargo is a duty which the shipowner is bound to perform as a part of the contract of carriage,[8] it is immaterial to the shipper whether the duty is performed through the general employees of the shipowner or through an independent contractor.[9] However, where the injury to the cargo is caused by the negligence of the shipper in loading, the carrier is not liable,[10] and it has been held that the vessel and its owner are not liable for loss caused by the acts of a third person in charge of the loading over whom the owner of the vessel has no control and for whose acts he is not responsible.[11]

It is the duty of the carrier properly and carefully to handle, carry, keep, and care for the goods carried.[12] It has the duty to exercise due care to ascertain and consider the nature of the goods offered for shipment and to use such methods for their care during the voyage as their nature requires,[13] and it is liable for injury to, or loss of, cargo resulting from the failure properly to care for and handle the cargo en route.[14] The carrier is required to provide adequate ventilation for the safe carriage of the cargo,[15] and to provide reasonable and ordinary inspection and care in and about the transportation of the cargo.[16] However, where under a special contract of carriage, the shipper reserves to himself the care and control of the cargo while in transit, and injury occurs thereto by reason of the acts and orders of the shipper, there is no liability on the carrier.[17]

§ 143. Negligent Management or Navigation

A carrier of goods by water has the duty to furnish a vessel that is fully manned by competent officers and crew, and the carrier or owner of the vessel, in the absence of contractual or statutory exemption, is liable for loss of, or injury to, cargo resulting from negligent management or navigation of the vessel.

A carrier of goods by water is required to use due care to furnish a vessel that is fully manned on board—The Chehaw, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 645.

6. U.S.—Stirnimann v. The San Diego, D.C.N.Y., 55 F.Supp. 798, affirmed, C.C.A., 148 F.2d 141.

58 C.J. p. 454 note 65.

Contractual exemption from liability for loss of, or injury to, cargo see supra §§ 131–138.

Statutory exemption from liability for loss of, or injury to, cargo see supra §§ 126–129.

7. U.S.—The Indien, C.C.A.Cal., 71 F.2d 752, 759.

"Plimsoll mark" or "load line"

"Plimsoll mark" or "load line" is a design, painted on each side of a vessel, consisting of a circle transected by a horizontal line to right of which there are a few horizontal lines with a vertical crossbar at the left, and it is intended as a guide to determine the safe loading depth under various conditions—The Indien, supra.

8. U.S.—The Zulia, D.C.N.Y., 235 F. 433.

9. U.S.—The Zulia, supra.

58 C.J. p. 454 note 67.

10. U.S.—The Wildwood, C.C.A. Wash., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S.S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

11. U.S.—Krebs Pigment & Chemical Co. v. Sheridan, D.C.Pa., 12 F.Supp. 254, affirmed, C.C.A., 79 F.2d 479.

12. U.S.—The Mormacmar, D.C.N.Y., 75 F.Supp. 520, motion denied L. W. & P. Armstrong, Inc. v. The Mormacmar, 88 F.Supp. 736—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.Pa., 65 F.Supp. 102—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 168, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U.S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379.

Standard of care required

(1) The shipowners must use due care in handling the goods carried—The Ensley City, D.C.Md., 71 F.Supp. 444, affirmed, C.A., Isthmian S.S. Co. v. Martin, 170 F.2d 25.

(2) A carrier in undertaking to transport oil on a tanker charged itself with a high degree of care—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312.

Duty to insure

Where master of vessel hauling cargo as common carrier caused part of cargo to be taken ashore in order that vessel might proceed to floating dock for repairs, it was duty of vessel to place insurance on cargo to cover risk of damage by fire and, on failure to do so, it would be liable for resulting loss—The Mormacmar, D.C.N.Y., 75 F.Supp. 520, motion denied L. W. & P. Armstrong, Inc. v. The Mormacmar, 88 F.Supp. 736.

13. U.S.—The Ensley City, D.C.Md., 71 F.Supp. 444, affirmed, C.A., Isthmian S.S. Co. v. Martin, 170 F.2d 25—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C.Md., 14 F.Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F.2d 539.

Seaworthiness with respect to cargo see supra § 140 c.

14. U.S.—McNeely & Price Co. v. Ellerman & Bucknall S.S. Co., D.C.Pa., 100 F.Supp. 339.

Improper care or negligence held not shown

U.S.—The Magdapur, D.C.N.Y., 46 F.Supp. 517—The Hokkai Maru, D.C.N.Y., 17 F.Supp. 249.

15. Minn.—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S.S. Co., 235 N.W. 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 25, 284 U.S. 646, 76 L.Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S.S. Co., 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn. 620.

Lack of knowledge as to ventilation required

Fact that amount of ventilation necessary for safe carriage of fish meal was not generally known to shipping trade was held not to preclude finding that shipowners were negligent in stowing fish meal without proper ventilation—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C.Md., 14 F.Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F.2d 539.

Discretion of master

With respect to liability for cargo damage, matter of opening and closing hatches was held to rest in discretion of ship's master—The Tergestea, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 809.

Ventilation held not adequate

U.S.—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32.

16. U.S.—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781.

17. U.S.—Thomas v. Pacific S.S. Lines, C.C.A.Cal., 84 F.2d 506.

by competent officers and crew,[18] and, in the absence of contractual or statutory exemption, the carrier or owner of the vessel is answerable for injury to cargo resulting from the carelessness or unskillfulness of his master or crew.[19] Thus, in a contract by a common carrier by water, he impliedly undertakes that his captain and sailors have a competent knowledge of the navigation, and that he will be liable for a loss occasioned by the want of such knowledge,[20] or by negligent management or navigation of the ship,[21] as by carelessly running the vessel in a fog,[22] or selecting an improper mooring,[23] or failing to take soundings;[24] and as an owner of cargo has a right to assume that necessary care and caution will be exercised in not going out in extrahazardous weather, if the carrier goes out in such weather, and the owner does not consent thereto, he may recover his whole damage.[25]

§ 144. Deviation

a. In general
b. Abandonment of voyage
c. Delay
d. Departure from route
e. Dry-docking; repairs
f. Failure to deliver or misdelivery; overcarriage
g. Improper stowage, care, and custody of cargo
h. Mode of transportation
i. Towing

a. In General

Deviation in the law of shipping is not limited to a mere change in the route of a vessel, but it includes any variation in the conduct of a ship in the carriage of goods whereby the risk incident to the shipment will be increased. In the absence of specific provision to the contrary, a carrier of goods by water warrants that there will be no unnecessary deviation, and, if there is an unjustifiable deviation, the carrier is liable as insurer for damage to the cargo, unless the loss would have occurred even if there had been no deviation.

To deviate, lexicographically, means to stray[26] or wander.[27] As originally applied in admiralty and shipping law, the term "deviation" meant the wandering or straying of the vessel from the customary course of the voyage,[28] with or without necessity,[29] and its precise meaning in the original sense of a "departure" varies with the context in which it is used.[30] However, in the development of the law of shipping the meaning of "deviation" has not been limited to a mere change in the route of a vessel, but it has been given a more varied meaning and

18. U.S.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co v. U. S, D C Md., 12 F Supp 379

19. U S—The Fred Smartley, Jr, C. C A.Va., 100 F.2d 971—The Marianne, D C.La, 24 F Supp. 786.
58 C.J. p 454 note 69.
Carrier's negligence as depriving it of benefit of contractual exemption see supra § 131.
Effect of Harter Act as relieving carrier from liability for loss of, or injury to, cargo resulting from improper management or navigation of vessel see supra § 128.

A tug engaged to tow a barge is liable for damage to cargo of barge caused by faulty navigation—The Raleigh, D C Md, 50 F.Supp. 961.

Choice between two channels

Matter of navigation involving choice as between two channels to reach open sea in winter, with risk of being frozen in, was held question of exercise of best judgment by experienced mariner.—The Terne, D C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp 537.

20. U S.—The Jenny Jones, D C Or., 13 F.Cas No.7,286, Deady 82.
58 C J. p 454 note 70.

Duty of master

Master of vessel has duty of obtaining necessary data to enable him properly to navigate vessel as part of the navigation of the vessel.—The Havana, D C N.Y, 45 F Supp 244.

21. U S.—The Marianne, D C La., 24 F Supp 786.
58 C J p 454 note 71.

Stranding of vessel

The stranding of vessel which ran on a submerged wreck as the result of insufficient allowance being made for wind and current as vessel was proceeding at slow speed in close proximity to chartered wreck was the result of negligence constituting a fault of error of navigation, rendering carrier liable for consequent injury to cargo.—The Marianne, supra.

Negligence in passing in canal

U.S—The Pearl Harbor, C.C A N Y., 74 F 2d 58.

Negligent navigation of ship held not shown

U S—The Cherca, D C N.Y, 52 F 2d 646, affirmed, C C.A, Dingfelder v. The Cherca, 61 F.2d 1025.

22. U.S—The Rocket, D C Wis., 20 F Cas No.11,975, 1 Biss. 354.
58 C.J. p 454 note 72.

23. U.S.—The John Cottrell, D.C N Y, 34 F. 907.

24. U S—The Alpin, D C.N.Y., 23 F. 815.
58 C J. p 455 note 74.

25. U.S—The Wm. Murtagh, D.C N Y, 17 F. 259.
58 C.J. p 455 note 75.

Vessel held justified in starting voyage

U S—Hartford & New York Transp Co v Rogers & Hubbard Co, C C A Conn, 47 F 2d 189, certiorari denied Rogers & Hubbard v. Hartford & New York Transp Co., 51 S Ct. 483, 283 U S. 835, 75 L.Ed. 1446.

26. U S.—Sheldon v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft, C.C.A.N J., 28 F.2d 249

27. U S—Sheldon v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft, supra.

28. U S—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v Colombian S S. Co., C C A Canal Zone, 88 F 2d 392—The Salvore, C. C.A N Y, 60 F 2d 683, certiorari denied U. S. Steel Products Co. v. Navigazione, Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S Ct. 117, 287 U S. 653, 77 L.Ed. 565—Charbonnier v U. S, D.C S C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C C A., U S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F 2d 174—Shackman v Cunard White Star, D.C.N.Y., 31 F Supp. 948.
58 C.J. p 455 note 82.

29. U.S.—Swift v. Furness, Withy & Co, Ltd., D.C.Mass., 87 F 345.
58 C.J. p 455 note 83.

30. U S.—Swift v. Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd., supra.

wider significance.[31] It has been extended to include any variation in the conduct of a ship in the carriage of goods whereby the risk incident to the shipment will be increased,[32] or, in other words, to a departure from the agreement or contract of carriage,[33] and it may be accomplished by a number of different acts.[34]

In the absence of special provision to the contrary, every ship's contract of carriage contains an implied warranty that there will be no unnecessary deviation.[35] A voluntary and wrongful deviation deprives the carrier of the benefit of exemptions or exceptions;[36] it renders the carrier, whether a common carrier or a private carrier,[37] liable as an insurer for damage to cargo[38] from the moment of deviation,[39] irrespective of how the damage was occasioned,[40] unless the loss would have occurred even if there had been no deviation.[41] It has been stated that by a deviation the shipowner converts the cargo or that the deviation gives the shipper a right to treat the goods as converted,[42] although other authority has questioned whether the consequences should be pressed so far.[43] Generally, a deviation by a carrier of goods by water has been treated as a more serious breach of the contract of carriage than if it had occurred on land,[44] and it has been stated that all except the most trivial deviations are considered gravely to affect the contract.[45] Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S. C.A. § 1304(4), any reasonable deviation is not considered a breach of the contract of carriage, and the carrier is not liable for any loss or damage resulting therefrom.[46]

Ratification or waiver. The shipper's ratification of a voluntary and wrongful deviation may preclude his thereafter taking advantage of it.[47] However, a shipper or consignee is not estopped to claim a deviation, or does not lose his privilege of treating the ship as an insurer because of a deviation, by the fact that he claimed or accepted the goods, or such portion of them as was delivered at destination, or sought to recover damages because of the goods lost or destroyed,[48] at least where he did not learn of the deviation until the goods arrived.[49]

31. U.S.—Charbonnier v. U. S., D.C. S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S., D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 379.

32. U.S.—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S. S. Co., C.C.A.Canal Zone, 88 F.2d 392—Charbonnier v. U. S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—Shackman v. Cunard White Star, D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 948
58 C.J. p. 455 note 85.

33. U.S.—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S. S. Co., C.C.A.Canal Zone, 88 F.2d 392.

Breach of contract
A "deviation" is no more than a breach of the contract of carriage.—Farr v. Hain S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 121 F.2d 940.

34. U.S.—Shackman v. Cunard White Star, D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 948.

Commencement of voyage with unseaworthy ship
The shifting of vessel from one loading place to another has been held not the commencement of voyage, as against contention that conduct of carrier in commencing voyage while the ship was unseaworthy because she lacked a full crew constituted a voluntary deviation.—The Maui, C.C.A.Cal., 113 F.2d 1018, certiorari denied John Demartini Co. v. The Maui, 61 S.Ct. 317, 311 U.S. 709, 85 L.Ed. 461.

Premature delivery of bill of lading
Shipmaster's conduct in dating and allegedly delivering bill of lading before consignment was placed on board was held not a deviation, where consignee suffered no prejudice from premature delivery, especially in absence of proof of time when bill of lading was delivered.—Switzerland General Ins. Co. of Zurich v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S.A., C.C.A.N.Y., 91 F.2d 960.

35. U.S.—The Pelotas, C.C.A.La., 66 F.2d 75—The Hermosa, C.C.A.Cal., 57 F.2d 20.
58 C.J. p. 455 note 77.

36. U.S.—Western Lumber Mfg. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 9 F.2d 1004.
Deviation as depriving carrier of benefit of:
Contractual exceptions and limitations see supra § 131.
Statutory
Exemptions see supra §§ 127, 129.
Limitations see infra § 244.

37. U.S.—The Hermosa, C.C.A.Cal., 57 F.2d 20

38. U.S.—The Pelotas, C.C.A.La., 66 F.2d 75—The Hermosa, C.C.A.Cal., 57 F.2d 20—Charbonnier v. U. S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed. ———The Ida, D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Supp. 992.
N.Y.—Singer Hosiery Mills of N. Y. v. Cunard White Star, Limited, 102 N.Y.S.2d 762, 199 Misc. 389.
58 C.J. p. 455 note 88.
Deviation as abrogating:
Charter party see supra § 39.
Shipping contract see supra § 131.

39. U.S.—The Pelotas, D.C.La., 43 F.2d 571, affirmed, C.C.A., 66 F.2d 75.

40. U.S.—The Pelotas, supra.

41. U.S.—The Hermosa, C.C.A.Cal., 57 F.2d 20—The Margaret Lykes, D.C.La., 57 F.Supp. 466.
Liability of carrier for fire damage notwithstanding a deviation which had no causal relation to the fire see supra § 129

Proof of loss without deviation
Any deviation increasing or changing risk at least requires proof that loss would have occurred without deviation.—Charbonnier v. U. S., D.C. S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174.

42. U.S.—Sidney Blumenthal & Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 21 F.2d 798—The Citta Di Messina, D.C.N.Y., 169 F. 472.

Tort liability
Deviation raises a tort liability.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C.Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593.

43. U.S.—Farr v. Hain S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 121 F.2d 940.

44. U.S.—Farr v. Hain S. S. Co., supra.

45. U.S.—Farr v. Hain S. S. Co., supra.

46. U.S.—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v. Booth S. S. Co., 195 F.2d 529.

47. U.S.—The Margaret Lykes, D.C.La., 57 F.Supp. 466.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 12.

48. U.S.—The Pelotas, C.C.A.La., 66 F.2d 75.

49. U.S.—Farr v. Hain S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 121 F.2d 940.

b. Abandonment of Voyage

A wrongful and total abandonment of the voyage contracted for constitutes a deviation.

A wrongful and total abandonment of the voyage contracted for constitutes a deviation.[50]

c. Delay

Delay may constitute a deviation, but it does not do so where it results from excusable causes.

Delay may constitute deviation,[51] as where the delay is voluntary and without justification.[52] However, delay does not constitute a deviation where it results from excusable causes,[53] such as effecting necessary repairs[54] or helping another ship in distress,[55] and is not unreasonable in time,[56] even though due to unseaworthiness of the ship.[57] Similarly, delay is not deviation where it is within contract provisions permitting delay,[58] or where it is with the approval of the shipper.[59]

d. Departure from Route

(1) In general
(2) Contractual permission to deviate
(3) Voluntary character of departure; justifiable cause

(1) In General

A voluntary departure, without necessity or reasonable cause, from the agreed, regular, and usual course or route of the voyage, or from the route selected after the voyage has been commenced, constitutes a deviation.

In the absence of a sufficient excuse or authorization for departure therefrom, a ship is bound to proceed to her destination by the regular and usual route,[60] which, prima facie, is the most direct route,[61] and a voluntary departure, without necessity or reasonable cause, from the agreed, regular, and usual or customary course or route of the voyage constitutes a deviation.[62] The bill of lading need not expressly declare what the route is,[63] and, in the absence of a provision to the contrary, it implies that the carrier will take the goods to their destination by the usual and customary route.[64] Carrying cargo from the port of shipment to a port specifically designated in the contract of carriage as a port of call on the itinerary of the voyage is not a deviation.[65] Prior to commencement of voyage there can be no deviation from route.[66]

By virtue of custom or usage, a ship may have the option of selecting one of two or more routes,[67] and following a route permissible by custom or usage is not a deviation,[68] even if the route followed

50. U.S.—The Poznan, D.C.N.Y., 276 F. 418.
58 C.J. p 455 note 91.

51. U.S.—The Hermosa, C.C.A.Cal., 57 F.2d 20—The Pacific Spruce, D. C Wash., 1 F Supp. 593.
58 C.J. p 455 note 93.

52. U.S.—The Hermosa, C.C.A.Cal., 57 F.2d 20
58 C.J. p 456 note 94.

Time when deviation occurs
A deviation occurs the moment a delay, even on the prescribed route, becomes unreasonable.—The Citta Di Messina, D.C.N.Y., 169 F. 472.

Master's intoxication
Delay of vessel caused by master's intoxication was held to constitute deviation.—The Hermosa, C C A Cal., 57 F.2d 20.

53. U.S.—Porter v. Bank Line, D C Va., 17 F 2d 513, affirmed, C C.A., 25 F.2d 843, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 25, 278 U S. 623, 73 L Ed 544

54. U.S.—The Rosalie Hull, D.C.N Y., 296 F. 938, affirmed, C.C.A., 4 F. 2d 985.
58 C.J. p 456 note 96.

55. Mo.—Walsh v. Homer, 10 Mo. 6, 45 Am.D. 342.
58 C.J. p 456 note 97.

56. U.S.—The Caterina Gerolimich, D.C N.Y., 43 F.2d 248, affirmed, C C.A., 54 F 2d 1080.
58 C.J. p 456 note 98.

57. U.S.—Palmer, etc., Co. v. U. S., D.C.Mass., 10 F 2d 214.
58 C J. p 456 note 99.

58. U.S.—American Steel Co v. Transmarine Corp., D.C.N Y., 36 F. 2d 246—The Citta Di Messina, D.C. N.Y., 169 F. 472
58 C.J. p 456 note 1

59. U S.—Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins. Co v. U. S., C C A N.Y., 105 F.2d 160, certiorari denied 60 S Ct. 175, 308 U S. 611, 84 L Ed. 511.

60. U S.—General Hide, etc., Corp. v. U. S, D C N.Y., 24 F 2d 736.

61. Wash.—Emerson Co, Inc. v Reunis, 118 P. 631, 65 Wash 513, 37 L R.A.,N S., 222.
58 C J. p 456 note 8

Direct practical course
A vessel, in the absence of special contract, is under legal obligation to proceed from her port of loading to the contractual ports of destination of cargo intrusted to her on the most direct, practical course.—The Marianne, D.C.La., 24 F.Supp. 786.

62. U S.—The Willdomino v. Citro Chemical Co. of America, Pa., 47 S.Ct 261, 272 U S. 718, 71 L Ed. 491—The San Giuseppe, C C A.Va., 122 F 2d 579—The Pelotas, C.C.A La., 66 F.2d 75—Charbonnier v. U. S., D C S.C., 45 F 2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F. 2d 174—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S S. Co, D.C.N.Y, 99 F. Supp. 232, affirmed, C A., Feuer v Booth S. S Co., 195 F 2d 529—The Jean Jadot, D C N.Y., 9 F.Supp. 162 —The Terne, D C N.Y., 1 F Supp 537
58 C J. p 456 notes 5, 9.

Substantial departure
There is no "deviation" depriving shipowner of benefit of bill of lading exceptions, unless there is substantial departure from regular route.—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 925, affirmed, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 1081.

63. U S.—The Pelotas, C.C.A.La., 66 F 2d 75.

64. U.S.—The Pelotas, supra.

65. U.S.—American Cyanamid Co. v Booth S S. Co, D C N.Y., 99 F Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v Booth S. S Co., 195 F 2d 529.

66. U.S.—Gilchrist Transp. Co. v Boston Ins Co., Mich., 223 F. 716, 139 C.C A. 246.
58 C J. p 456 note 10.

67. U.S.—The Marianne, D.C La., 24 F.Supp. 786.
Wash.—Emerson Co, Inc. v. Reunis, 118 P. 631, 65 Wash. 513, 37 L R A., N S., 222.

68. U.S.—The Marianne, D.C.La., 24 F.Supp 786
58 C.J. p 456 note 12.

is the less direct of those available[69] Where a ship, having by reason of custom or contract the choice of following one of two or more permissible routes, has exercised her option by commencing the voyage along a particular route, she is bound to proceed on the route selected,[70] and a departure therefrom may constitute deviation[71]

(2) Contractual Permission to Deviate

(a) In general

(b) Purpose of deviation

(c) Extent of deviation

(a) In General

Deviation or liberty clauses in contracts of carriage by water, granting a ship the right to depart from the regular and usual route, will be given effect, in so far as they do not conflict with statutory provisions, the general purpose and policy of the law, or the real intent of the contract of shipment. The clauses must be given a reasonable, but strict, construction.

"Deviation" or "liberty" clauses in contracts of carriage, granting a ship the right to depart from the regular and usual route, will be given effect,[72] in so far as they do not conflict with statutory provisions,[73] or with the general purpose[74] and policy[75] of the law, or with the real intent of the contract of shipment;[76] and a deviation made in accordance with such contractual provisions is not actionable.[77] Where the departure made is not within the permissive scope of the deviation or liberty clause, the departure from route is an actionable deviation[78]

Factors governing propriety of deviation. There is no fixed rule governing the propriety, under a deviation or liberty clause, of any particular departure from route.[79] The question is one of fact to be determined under the particular clause,[80] when considered in the light of all the surrounding circumstances,[81] such as the commercial adventure which is the subject of contract, the character of the vessel, the usual and customary route, the natural and customary ports of call, and the location of the port to which deviation was made.[82]

Rules of construction. Deviation or liberty clauses must be given a reasonable,[83] but strict,[84] construction They will be construed in a business sense,[85] with due reference to the voyage contemplated by the parties,[86] and in subordination to the main commercial purpose of the contract of affreightment[87] The rule is one of interpretation,

69. U.S.—The Marianne, supra.
58 C.J. p 457 note 13

70. U.S.—General Hide, etc., Corp v U. S., D.C.N.Y., 24 F.2d 736

71. U.S.—General Hide, etc., Corp. v. U. S., supra
58 C.J. p 459 note 64.

72. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—The Hindanger, C.C.A. Cal., 76 F.2d 13—The Salvore, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 278, affirmed, C.C.A., 60 F.2d 683, certiorari denied U. S. Steel Products Co. v. Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S.Ct. 117, 287 U.S. 653, 77 L.Ed. 565—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v. Booth S. S. Co., 195 F.2d 529—The Marianne, D.C.La., 24 F.Supp. 786.
58 C.J. p 457 note 14.

73. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—The Hindanger, C.C.A. Cal., 76 F.2d 13.
58 C.J. p 457 note 16

74. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—Grace v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L.Ed. 856.

75. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—Grace v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L.Ed. 856

76. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—Grace v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L.Ed. 856.

77. U.S.—The Hindanger, C.C.A. Cal., 76 F.2d 13—The Salvore, C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F.2d 683, certiorari denied U. S. Steel Products Co. v. Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S.Ct. 117, 287 U.S. 653, 77 L.Ed. 565—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v. Booth S. S. Co., 195 F.2d 529—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C.Md., 14 F.Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F.2d 539.
58 C.J. p 457 note 15.

78. U.S.—The Eastern Prince, D.C. Cal., 21 F.2d 79.

79. U.S.—The Hindanger, C.C.A. Cal., 76 F.2d 13—Grace v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L.Ed. 856. -

80. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—The Hindanger, C.C.A.Cal., 76 F.2d 13.
58 C.J. p 457 note 22

81. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—The Hindanger, C.C.A. Cal., 76 F.2d 13—Grace v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L.Ed. 956.

82. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—The Hindanger, C.C.A.Cal., 76 F.2d 13—Grace v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L.Ed. 856

83. U.S.—Romano v West India Fruit & S. S. Co., C.C.A.Fla., 151 F.2d 727—The Wildwood, C.C.A. Wash., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

84. U.S.—Smith v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., D.C.N.Y., 26 F.2d 337, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 29, 278 U.S. 628, 73 L.Ed. 547—Rosenberg Bros. & Co. v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., D.C.Cal., 7 F.2d 893, affirmed, C.C.A., 12 F.2d 721.

85. U.S.—The Frederick Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.2d 241.

86. U.S.—American Cyanamid Co. v Booth S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v Booth S. S. Co., 195 F.2d 529.
58 C.J. p 457 note 27.

Language restricted to voyage

The language of a broad liberty of call clause must be interpreted and cut down to what is fairly applicable to the voyage agreed on and defined —American Cyanamid Co. v Booth S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F.Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v. Booth S. S. Co., 195 F.2d 529.

87. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579.
58 C.J. p 457 note 29.

by which the meaning of words having a general significance is confined within the particular purpose of the agreement [88] In ascertaining the true sense in which general words are used, the words themselves cannot be deprived of all meaning, for this would not be to interpret the agreement but to erase a part of it,[89] and instances may be found where, because of the particularity with which the parties have provided that the ship may depart from the established and customary route, such departures, not foreign to the general purposes of the voyage, have been permitted.[90]

(b) Purpose of Deviation

In determining the propriety of a deviation the purpose of the departure from route is considered, and if it is for a purpose inconsistent with the purpose of the voyage it is unauthorized.

In determining the propriety of a deviation under a permissive clause, the court will consider the purpose of the departure from route [91] Such clauses ordinarily will not authorize departure from route for a purpose unconnected with the voyage,[92] or inconsistent with its particular or main commercial purpose,[93] and they do not authorize the owner's arbitrary making of an additional voyage.[94]

Deviation for fuel. Liberty clauses, authorizing the vessel to call at any port or ports in or out of the customary order or authorizing a departure from the customary or advertised route for the purpose of bunkering or taking on fuel, permit a call for such purpose at a port within the general course of the voyage and ancillary thereto,[95] and they do not limit the right to cases of emergency or where there is necessity for bunkering by stages,[96] or deny the vessel the benefit of the clause because of a failure to take on sufficient bunkers for the entire voyage prior to its commencement.[97] However, liberty clauses granting the ship the right to call at ports off the agreed or customary route do not authorize her to sail voluntarily with a shortage of fuel which will create a necessity of visiting fuel ports at which a call would not otherwise be made [98]

War conditions. A clause permitting deviation in view of war conditions will not authorize a deviation occasioned by circumstances unconnected with war [99]

(c) Extent of Deviation

The extent of departure from the regular and usual course of the voyage authorized under a deviation or liberty clause in a contract of carriage by water is not unlimited, but is determined on the basis of what is reasonable when the clause, the voyage contemplated, and the facts are considered.

Deviation or liberty clauses give the shipowner only a limited right of departure from the voyage, the limits being those of necessity and reasonable regard for the rights of both shipper and carrier growing out of the nature of the principal contract.[1] In determining the propriety of a departure from route under the permissive provisions of a

88. U S —The Frederick Luckenbach, D.C N Y, 15 F.2d 241—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S S. Co, D C.N.Y., 99 F Supp. 232, affirmed, C A., Feuer v. Booth S S Co., 195 F. 2d 529.

89. U.S.—The Frederick Luckenbach, D C.N Y, 15 F.2d 241—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S S Co, D C N Y, 99 F Supp. 232, affirmed, C A, Feuer v. Booth S S Co, 195 F 2d 529.

90. U S —The Frederick Luckenbach, D.C N Y., 15 F 2d 241.
58 C.J. p 457 note 31.

91. U S —The San Giuseppe, C C A Va, 122 F.2d 579—The Hindanger, C C A Cal, 76 F.2d 13—Grace v Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D C Cal, 7 F.2d 889, affirmed, C C A, 12 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S Ct. 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L.Ed 856

Reasonable control over course of vessel

In order to avoid deviation, neither owner nor master of ship is required to abdicate to cargo interest reasonable control over course of vessel —The Salvore, D.C.N.Y., 52 F. 2d 278, affirmed, C C.A., 60 F 2d 683, certiorari denied U. S. Steel Products Co. v. Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, D C N Y, 53 S Ct 117, 287 U S 653, 77 L Ed. 565

92. U S —The Eastern Prince, D C Cal, 21 F 2d 79
58 C J. p 458 note 34.

93. U.S —The San Giuseppe, C C.A Va, 122 F 2d 579—Grace v. Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D C.Cal, 7 F 2d 889, affirmed, C C A, 12 F 2d 519, certiorari denied 47 S Ct 109, 273 U.S. 717, 71 L Ed 856

94. U.S —The Willdomino, C C A N J, 300 F 5, affirmed 47 S Ct 261, 272 U S 718, 71 L Ed. 491—Swift v Furness, Withy & Co, Ltd, D C Mass, 87 F 345

95. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C C A Va, 122 F 2d 579

Purpose of clause is to enable vessel to avail herself of privilege of calling for bunkers on general course of voyage at ports where coal may be obtained advantageously.—The San Giuseppe, supra

Call held not deviation

U S.—U. S. v Los Angeles Soap Co, C C.A.Cal, 83 F 2d 875—The Salvore, C C A N Y, 60 F 2d 683, certiorari denied U S Steel Products Co v Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S Ct. 117, 287 U.S 653, 77 L Ed 565

96. U S —The San Giuseppe, C.C A Va, 122 F.2d 579.

Use of cargo

The ship is not required to use coal from its hold in order to avoid deviation in stopping for coal.—The Salvore, D C N.Y, 52 F.2d 278, affirmed, C C.A., 60 F 2d 683, certiorari denied U S. Steel Products Co. v Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S Ct. 117, 287 U S. 653, 77 L Ed 565

97. U S —The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va, 122 F.2d 579

98. U S —The Caledonier, C C.A.N. Y, 31 F 2d 257, certiorari denied 49 S Ct 480, 279 U.S. 865, 73 L.Ed 1003
58 C J p 461 note 92.

99. U S —The Blandon, D C N.Y., 287 F. 722
58 C.J. p 458 note 37.

1. U.S —The Willdomino, C.C A N. J., 300 F 5, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 261, 272 U S. 718, 71 L Ed 491—Swift v. Furness, Withy & Co, Ltd, D. C.Mass., 87 F. 345.

deviation clause, the courts will consider the reasonableness of the departure made,[2] as incident to the voyage contemplated,[3] upholding the departure as a permissible deviation where reasonable under the clause and facts,[4] and condemning the departure as an actionable deviation where unreasonable.[5] The authority granted may not be exercised in an arbitrary or unreasonable manner without substantial grounds,[6] and good faith alone will not suffice.[7]

In the absence of express provisions authorizing departure from the usual route, a liberty of call clause permits calls only at ports properly in the course of the voyage,[8] that is, ports which would, in a business sense, be passed in the usual course of the voyage undertaken,[9] or ports substantially on the course of the voyage,[10] and it will not authorize a complete departure from the general course of the voyage.[11] In other words, the scope of permissible deviation may include ports not exactly in the ordinary track of the specific voyage, but will not include those far outside or beyond the ordinary track.[12] Where, however, the clause expressly authorizes a deviation from the usual route, such express provision will be given effect.[13]

Particular clauses. Adding to a deviation or liberty clause the words "in or out of the customary route" broadens the carrier's right to deviate, and clauses containing this or similar language allow the ship to depart to a reasonable extent from the customary[14] or direct[15] route between the termini of the voyage; but such words do not authorize the ship to proceed beyond her contractual destination,[16] or to return to her port of original departure,[17] or justify initiation of a new voyage before completion of the original voyage.[18] Liberty clauses granting the ship the right "to call at intermediate ports" do not permit calls at ports not customarily ports of call for the ship.[19]

A clause authorizing a ship to proceed from one port to another "via other ports" permits her to call at intermediate ports in the course of the usual geographical route,[20] but does not authorize pass-

2. U S—The San Giuseppe, C C.A Va., 122 F 2d 579—The Yungay, D C N Y., 58 F 2d 352
58 C J p 458 note 39

3. U.S.—The Willdomino, C.C A.N J, 300 F. 5, affirmed 47 S.Ct 261, 272 U.S. 718, 71 L Ed 491—Swift v. Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd, D C Mass., 87 F 345

4. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579—The Yungay, D C.N Y., 58 F 2d 352.
58 C J. p 458 note 41

Call for secret sailing orders
An Italian steamship's call at Norfolk, Va, which was nearest and most convenient Atlantic port at which to call for secret sailing orders, before completing contractual voyage from New Orleans to England during war between England and Germany and before Italy entered war, was justified and not unreasonable exercise of privilege conferred by clauses in cargo bills of lading giving ship liberty to call at any port to receive coal or for any other purpose—The San Giuseppe, C. C.A.Va., 122 F 2d 579.

5. U S—Pacific Coast Co v Yukon Independent Transp Co, C C.A. Wash., 155 F. 29, 83 C C A. 625.
58 C.J. p 458 note 42.

6. U S—The Wildwood, C C.A. Wash., 133 F 2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp v. American Foreign S S. Corp, 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U S. 771, 87 L Ed 1719.

7. U S.—The Wildwood, C.C A. Wash, 133 F 2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S. Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L Ed 1719.

Ignorance of depth at discharge port
Where weather disturbance which caused master to deviate and deliver cargo at port other than port of discharge was a mild one and were it not for master's ignorance of the real depth at designated discharge port, he would not have made the deviation, such deviation was not a justifiable exercise of master's discretion under clause authorizing deviation in case of threatened or existing hazardous weather conditions—Romano v. West India Fruit & S. S. Co., C C A.Fla, 151 F 2d 727.

8. U.S.—The Ida, D.C.N.Y., 8 F. Supp. 951, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 75 F.2d 278.
58 C.J. p 458 note 43.

9. U.S.—U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp v. Rosenberg, C C.A.Cal., 12 F 2d 721.
58 C J. p 458 note 44

10. U.S.—American Cyanamid Co. v Booth S. S. Co., D C N.Y, 99 F. Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v. Booth S. S. Co., 195 F.2d 529.

Ports held substantially on course
U.S—American Cyanamid Co v. Booth S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 99 F Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v. Booth S. S Co, 195 F.2d 529.

11. U S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579.

12. U S.—The Ida, D.C N.Y., 8 F. Supp. 951, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 75 F.2d 278.
58 C J. p 458 note 45.

13. U.S.—Smith v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., C.C A N.Y, 26 F 2d 337, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 29, 278 U.S. 628, 73 L Ed. 547—Rosenberg v. U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, D.C Cal, 7 F 2d 893, affirmed, C C. A., U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp v. Rosenberg & Co, 12 F 2d 721, reversed on other grounds 48 S.Ct. 256, 276 U S. 202, 72 L Ed. 531.
58 C J p 458 note 46.

14. U S.—Smith v. U. S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, C.C. A.N Y, 26 F 2d 337, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 29, 278 U S. 628, 73 L Ed 547.
58 C J. p 458 note 48

15. U S—Callister v. U. S Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corp., D.C. N Y, 21 F 2d 447, affirmed, C.C A., Callister v. U. S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, 30 F.2d 1008.
58 C.J. p 459 note 49.

16. U S—Rosenberg v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., D.C Cal., 7 F 2d 893, affirmed, C.C. A., 12 F 2d 721.
58 C.J. p 459 note 50.

17. U.S.—The Blandon, D C.N.Y., 287 F. 722.
58 C.J. p 459 note 51.

18. U.S.—Rosenberg v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, D.C.Cal, 7 F 2d 893, affirmed, C.C. A., 12 F 2d 721

19. U.S.—The Caledonier, C.C A.N. Y., 31 F.2d 257, certiorari denied Picard v. The Caledonier, 49 S.Ct. 480, 279 U.S. 865, 73 L Ed. 1003.

20. U.S—Centrosoyus-America, Inc. v. U. S, D C N.Y., 30 F.2d 302, affirmed, C.C.A., 31 F.2d 610.

ing beyond the contractual terminus of the voyage.[21] Rotation clauses, such as those granting the ship the right to call at any port or ports in any order or rotation, relieve the ship from the duty of visiting ports along the customary route in their geographical order,[22] at least where there is a valid reason within the purpose of the voyage for so doing;[23] but they do not authorize calling at ports off the customary business route of the particular voyage.[24]

Under a clause authorizing the ship "to make deviation" she can deviate only to a reasonable extent.[25] A clause authorizing the vessel to proceed according to itinerary and ports of call if it is impossible to discharge cargo at the port of destination, because of heavy weather or other enumerated causes, does not authorize a deviation before the vessel reaches the port of destination mentioned.[26] Under a clause expressly permitting a ship to pass her destination, going beyond the contractual terminus of the voyage is not an actionable deviation.[27]

(3) Voluntary Character of Departure; Justifiable Cause

A departure from route by a carrier of goods by water must be voluntary in the sense of being without necessity or reasonable cause in order to constitute a deviation. A deviation in the face of an emergency may be justified even though the danger arose from the fault of the carrier, provided the emergency was not deliberately planned in advance or did not arise from the carrier's gross negligence.

In order to constitute deviation the departure from route must be voluntary,[28] in the sense of being without necessity[29] or reasonable cause,[30] and a departure because of necessity or for reasonable cause will not render the carrier liable as an insurer for damage to cargo.[31] Deviation presupposes exercise of deliberate choice before occurrence of compelling necessity,[32] and departure from route is justifiable where reasonably necessary for the safety of the crew,[33] ship,[34] or cargo.[35] Departure from route to save human life on another vessel is not deviation.[36]

21. U S—Centrosoyus-America, Inc. v U. S, supra

22. U S—Smith v U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, C C. A.N Y, 26 F.2d 337, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 29, 278 U.S 628, 73 L Ed 547.

23. U.S—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S. S. Co, D.C.N.Y., 99 F. Supp 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v. Booth S S Co, 195 F.2d 529.

To catch spring tides

Calling at permissible ports of call out of their geographical order in order to catch the spring tides at a particular port and thus decrease the elapsed time of voyage to port of discharge does not constitute a "deviation" under the clause—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S S. Co, D.C.N Y, 99 F.Supp. 232, affirmed, C A., Feuer v. Booth S. S Co., 195 F. 2d 529.

24. U.S—Smith v U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., C.C. A.N.Y, 26 F.2d 337, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 29, 278 U.S. 628, 73 L.Ed. 547
58 C J. p 459 note 56.

25. U S.—Swift v Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd., D C Mass, 87 F 345
58 C.J. p 459 note 58

26. U S—The Pelotas, C C.A La., 66 F.2d 75.

Ports designated in bill of lading

The bill of lading was held to refer to ports shown by the bill and not to any other port or itinerary designated in order issued by shipowner.—The Pelotas, supra.

27. U.S—The Emelia S. de Perez, D C N.Y, 287 F 361, affirmed, C C. A, 288 F 1019
58 C.J p 459 note 59.

28. U S—The San Giuseppe, C C.A. Va, 122 F 2d 579—Charbonnier v U S, D C S C, 45 F 2d 166, affirmed, C C A, U S v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—The Terne, D C N Y., 1 F.Supp 537.
58 C.J p 460 note 65.

29. U S—The San Giuseppe, C.C A. Va., 122 F 2d 579—Charbonnier v U. S., D.C S.C, 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C C A, U S v Charbonnier, 45 F 2d 174—The Terne, D C N Y., 1 F Supp 537.
58 C.J p 460 note 66.

30. U S.—The San Giuseppe, C C A Va., 122 F.2d 579—Charbonnier v. U S., D C S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C C A., U. S v Charbonnier, 45 F 2d 174—The Terne, D C.N.Y., 1 F Supp 537.
58 C.J p 460 note 67.

Test of reasonable deviation

In determining whether a deviation is reasonable within the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act relieving carrier from liability for loss or damage resulting from a reasonable deviation, the true test is what departure from the contract voyage might a prudent person controlling the voyage at the time make and maintain, having in mind all the relevant circumstances, including the terms of the contract and the interests of all parties concerned without considering the interests of any one party as conclusive. —American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S. S. Co., D.C N.Y, 99 F Supp. 232, affirmed, C.A., Feuer v. Booth S. S. Co, 195 F.2d 529

Deviation to catch spring tides

Any deviation involved in calling at permissible ports of call out of their geographical order in order to catch spring tides at a particular port and thereby decrease the elapsed time of voyage from port of shipment to port of discharge was a "reasonable deviation."—American Cyanamid Co. v. Booth S S Co, D C N Y, 99 F Supp. 232, affirmed, C A., Feuer v. Booth S. S Co, 195 F.2d 529

31. U S—The San Giuseppe, C C A Va., 122 F 2d 579.

32. U S—Royal Ins Co v. U. S, C C A.N Y, 87 F 2d 714—The Waalhaven, C C A N Y, 36 F.2d 706, certiorari denied 50 S Ct 352, 281 U S 747, 74 L Ed 1159

33. U.S—The Malcolm Baxter, Jr, C C A N Y., 20 F.2d 304, affirmed France v French Overseas Corp, 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901.
58 C.J. p 460 note 69.

34. U.S—The Malcolm Baxter, Jr, C.C A N Y, 20 F 2d 304, affirmed France v French Overseas Corp, 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901.
58 C J. p 460 note 70.

35. U.S—The Malcolm Baxter, Jr, C C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 304, affirmed France v. French Overseas Corp, 48 S Ct 516, 277 U S. 323, 72 L Ed 901—The Turret Crown, C C.A N Y, 297 F. 766, certiorari denied Commonwealth SS Co. v. Patent Vulcanite Roofing Co, 44 S Ct 403, 264 U S 591, 68 L.Ed. 865.

36. U.S—Crocker v. Jackson, D C. Mass., 6 F.Cas.No.3,398, 1 Sprague 141.
58 C.J. p 460 note 72.

It has been said that it is the presence of the peril, rather than its cause, that justifies the deviation,[37] and deviation in the face of emergency may be justified even though the danger arose from fault of carrier,[38] as where the fundamental cause of the emergency necessitating deviation was original unseaworthiness of the ship.[39] More is required in order that a deviation may be voluntary and inexcusable than mere negligence which renders the vessel unseaworthy[40] or mere careless disregard of the vessel's ability to reach her destination.[41] The deviation is not justified, however, where the emergency was deliberately planned in advance,[42] or arose because of the carrier's gross negligence.[43]

Deviation may be deemed voluntary if circumstances were such as to make the future necessity therefor presently obvious,[44] but it may be held involuntary if such future necessity was not clearly apparent on leaving port,[45] as where the unseaworthiness of the vessel was known, but it was not known that the completion of the journey successfully would be impossible.[46] The question of whether the deviation was voluntary or involuntary will turn on the condition of the ship and the intention of the master at the commencement of the voyage, and not on such condition and intention when the ship thereafter left another port.[47] It has been held that the necessity which will excuse a deviation must arise during the voyage,[48] and not at the loading port prior to its inception.[49]

Food supplies. A deviation necessary to replenish food supplies may be justified.[50]

Fuel Where a ship leaves port with insufficient bunker coal[51] or fuel oil[52] for the voyage, and is forced to depart from the route to secure additional fuel, there is an actionable deviation if the original insufficiency resulted from a preconceived intent or deliberate plan to depart from the route to secure replenishment, as where it was desired to buy fuel at a port where prices would be cheaper,[53] or was the result of gross negligence,[54] as where the supply in the bunkers was grossly inadequate for the voyage undertaken.[55] However, no actionable deviation arises where the insufficiency was caused by the use of more than the usual amount of coal because of rough weather,[56] or, it has been held, if the original insufficiency resulted merely from neglect.[57]

Repairs. Departure from route to effect necessary repairs is not deviation.[58]

Perils of sea. Deviation reasonably required by perils of the sea is justified[59] where the vessel was

37. U.S.—Venezuelan Meat Export Co v. U. S., D.C.Md, 12 F.Supp. 379.
58 C.J. p 460 note 73

38. U.S.—France v French Overseas Corp, N.Y., 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901

39. U.S.—May v Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktien-Gesellschaft, D.C.N.Y., 57 F.2d 265, affirmed, C.C.A., 63 F.2d 248, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 162, 290 U.S. 333, 78 L.Ed. 348—Venezuelan Meat Export Co. v. U. S., D.C.Md, 12 F.Supp. 379.
58 C.J. p 460 note 75

40. U.S.—Royal Ins. Co v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 87 F.2d 714

41. U.S.—May v Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktien-Gesellschaft, D.C.N.Y., 57 F.2d 265, affirmed, C.C.A., 63 F.2d 248, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 162, 290 U.S. 333, 78 L.Ed. 348

42. U.S.—The Willdomino v. Citro Chemical Co., Pa., 47 S.Ct. 261, 262, 272 U.S. 718, 71 L.Ed. 491

43. U.S.—The Willdomino v. Citro Chemical Co., supra
58 C.J. p 460 note 77.

44. U.S.—The Malcolm Baxter, Jr., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 304, affirmed France v French Overseas Corp, 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901.

45. U.S.—May v Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktien-Gesellschaft, D.C.N.Y., 57 F.2d 265, affirmed, C.C.A., 63 F.2d 248, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 162, 290 U.S. 333, 78 L.Ed. 348—The Malcolm Baxter, Jr., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 304, affirmed France v French Overseas Corp, 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901

46. U.S.—Royal Ins. Co v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 87 F.2d 714—The Malcolm Baxter, Jr., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 304, affirmed France v French Overseas Corp, 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901.

47. U.S.—The Malcolm Baxter, Jr., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 304, affirmed France v. French Overseas Corp, 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed 901

48. U.S.—The Maine, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.2d 291

49. U.S.—The Maine, supra.

50. U.S.—The Rosalie Hull, D.C.N.Y., 296 F. 938, affirmed, C.C.A., 4 F.2d 985.
58 C.J. p 461 note 93

51. U.S.—The Willdomino v. Citro Chemical Co., Pa., 47 S.Ct. 261, 272 U.S. 718, 71 L.Ed 491.
58 C.J. p 460 note 85.

52. U.S.—The Maine, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.2d 291.
58 C.J. p 461 note 90.

53. U.S.—The Waalhaven, C.C.A.N.Y., 36 F.2d 706, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 352, 281 U.S. 747, 74 L.Ed. 1159
58 C.J. p 460 note 86, p 461 note 90 [a].

54. U.S.—The Willdomino v. Citro Chemical Co., Pa., 47 S.Ct. 261, 272 U.S. 718, 71 L.Ed 491.

55. U.S.—The President Arthur, D.C. N.Y., 28 F.2d 391.

Amount held sufficient

Excess coal on vessel of more than twenty-five per cent over ordinary requirements for voyage was held sufficient—The Cherca, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 646, affirmed, C.C.A., Dingfelder v The Cherca, 61 F.2d 1025

56. U.S.—The Cherca, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 646, affirmed, C.C.A., Dingfelder v The Cherca, 61 F.2d 1025.

57. U.S.—The Waalhaven, C.C.A.N.Y., 36 F.2d 706, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 352, 281 U.S. 747, 74 L.Ed. 1159.

58. U.S.—The Turret Crown, C.C.A. N.Y., 297 F. 766, certiorari denied Commonwealth SS. Co v. Patent Vulcanite Roofing Co., 44 S.Ct. 403, 264 U.S. 591, 68 L.Ed. 865.

59. U.S.—France v. French Overseas Corp, N.Y., 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed 901
58 C.J. p 461 note 95.

seaworthy at the time of leaving port,[60] and it does not impose on the carrier the liability of insurers, as for a deviation.[61]

Exigencies of war. A departure from, or change of, route is not a deviation which will render the carrier liable as an insurer for damage to cargo where it was necessitated by the exigencies of war,[62] as where it is to avoid capture by the public enemy.[63]

e. Dry-Docking; Repairs

Dry-docking may constitute a deviation, unless justifiable.

Dry-docking may constitute deviation,[64] unless justifiable.[65] Repairing a ship in port while cargo was being loaded or discharged has been held not to be a deviation [66]

f. Failure to Deliver or Misdelivery; Overcarriage

Deviation by a carrier of goods by water may consist of a failure to deliver goods at the port of discharge or of an overcarriage of goods, but a misdelivery of goods at the port of discharge does not constitute a deviation.

Deviation by a carrier of goods by water may consist of failure to deliver goods at the port named in the bill of lading,[67] or of an overcarriage of goods.[68] However, a misdelivery of goods at the port of discharge does not constitute a deviation,[69] and mere nondelivery does not necessarily constitute a deviation.[70] Where overcarriage of goods is excusable within stipulations covering such matter, there is no deviation.[71]

g. Improper Stowage, Care, and Custody of Cargo

Mere negligent stowage or handling of cargo does not constitute a deviation, but stowage which constitutes a serious departure from the contract of carriage, such as carrying cargo on deck contrary to custom and without the consent of the shipper, may constitute a deviation.

Mere negligent stowage or handling of the cargo does not constitute a deviation,[72] but stowage which constitutes a serious departure from the contract of carriage may constitute a deviation.[73] Carrying cargo on deck contrary to custom and without consent of the shipper[74] or under a clean bill of lading[75] constitutes deviation, and the carrier is liable

60. U S —The Mormacmar, D C N Y., 75 F Supp 520, motion denied L W & P Armstrong, Inc. v. The Mormacmar, 88 F.Supp. 736

61. U S —The Mormacmar, D.C N.Y., 75 F.Supp 520, motion denied L W. & P. Armstrong, Inc v. The Mormacmar, 88 F Supp. 736.

62. U S —American Tobacco Co. v The Katingo Hadjipatera D C N Y, 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C A., 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct. 1076, 343 U S 978, 96 L Ed —.

Effort to secure shipper's consent

Where change in route was necessitated by exigencies of war and charterer made every effort to reach various shippers to secure their approval for new route and no shipper contacted refused to give consent, shippers who neither consented to nor ratified the new route could not recover for damage to cargo on ground of deviation —American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C N Y., 81 F.Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C A., 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct 1076, 343 U S. 978, 96 L Ed —.

Call for sailing orders

An Italian steamship's call at Norfolk, Va, for sailing orders before completing contractual voyage from New Orleans to England during war between England and Germany and only a few days before entry into war by Italy, consuls of which were already refusing to permit Italian vessels in port to put to sea, was not unreasonable deviation from voyage route, even if ship's captain did not know of imminence of war between Italy and England —The San Giuseppe, C C.A.Va , 122 F 2d 579.

63. Philippine.—Compagnie Franco-Indochinoise v Deutsch Australische Dampschiffs Gesellschaft, 36 Philippine 643—Compagnie de Commerce et de Navigation D'Extreme Orient v. Hamburg Amerika Packetfahrt Actien Gesellschaft, 36 Philippine 590

64. U S —The Indrapura, D C.Or , 171 F. 929.
58 C J. p 461 note 97.

65. U S —The Indrapura, supra.
58 C.J. p 461 note 98

66. U S —The Salvore, D.C N Y , 52 F 2d 278, affirmed, C.C.A , 60 F.2d 683, certiorari denied U. S Steel Products Co v Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S Ct 117, 287 U S 653, 77 L Ed 565
Departure from route to make repairs see supra subdivision d (3) of this section.

67. U S —Sheldon v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft, C.C.A N J., 28 F 2d 249

68. N.Y —Singer Hosiery Mills of N Y v. Cunard White Star, Limited, 102 N Y.S 2d 762, 199 Misc. 389.
58 C.J p 461 note 1.

Ratification

Shipper, by attempting to recover possession of goods and otherwise asserting ownership, did not ratify overcarriage of goods which were seized under process of Swiss courts when carrier, in violation of bill of lading, attempted to deliver goods at Geneva instead of Antwerp —The Jean Jadot, D C N.Y., 14 F.Supp 161.

69. U S.—The Jean Jadot, D.C.N.Y., 9 F.Supp. 162.

Delivery to another carrier

Handing over of cargo by carrier after completion of voyage and discharge of cargo at port provided in bill of lading to another carrier instead of to the holder of the bill of lading on surrender thereof, as required by contract of carriage, was held not "deviation."—The Jean Jadot, supra.

70. U S —Shackman v. Cunard White Star, D.C.N Y., 31 F.Supp. 948.
Nondelivery as creating presumption of overcarriage resulting in deviation see infra § 154.

71. U.S.—Sheldon v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft, C.C.A.N.J , 28 F.2d 249.
58 C J p 461 note 2.

72. U.S —The Chester Valley, C.C.A. La , 110 F 2d 592.
58 C.J p 461 note 6.

73. U.S.—The Chester Valley, supra.

74. U S —St. Johns N F Shipping Corp v. S. A. Companhia Geral, etc., N. Y , 44 S.Ct. 30, 263 U S 119, 68 L Ed 201.
58 C J. p 461 note 5.

75. U.S.—The Margaret Lykes, D C. La., 57 F Supp 466—The Velma Lykes, D C Tex , 6 F.Supp. 886.

as for a deviation if the cargo sustains loss or damage by reason of its having been stowed on, rather than under, deck.[76] However, if a shipper holding a clean bill of lading approves and consents to stowage on deck, such stowage does not constitute a deviation.[77]

h. Mode of Transportation

Carriage in part by a carrier other than the one specified in the contract of carriage may constitute a deviation, but carriage in part by rail is not deviation where it is permissible under the contract of shipment.

Transshipment or forwarding of cargo from a certain port by a carrier other than the carrier specified in the contract of affreightment may constitute a deviation making the initial carrier liable for damage to the cargo while in the hands of the connecting carrier.[78] However, carriage in part by rail is not deviation where it is permissible under the contract of shipment.[79]

i. Towing

Taking another vessel in tow or being towed, without justifiable cause or excuse or the consent of the shipper, constitutes a deviation.

Taking another vessel in tow, without the consent of the shipper, constitutes deviation,[80] except to the extent that towing of another ship is necessary to save human life.[81] Permitting the vessel to be towed without justifiable cause or excuse also constitutes a deviation.[82]

Contractual permission "to tow and assist vessels in all situations" authorizes a ship to go to the assistance of a vessel in distress and tow her to such place of safety as, under the circumstances, is most reasonably accessible,[83] but such clauses do not justify the salving vessel in towing the distressed ship for an unreasonable distance.[84]

§ 145. Delay

a. In general
b Excusable delay

a. In General

A carrier of goods by water is liable for damage to cargo resulting from unreasonable delay in the commencement or completion of the voyage.

In the absence of an agreement to the contrary,[85] the ship is obligated to sail from the port of loading within a reasonable time,[86] although she need not sail sooner,[87] and she must prosecute her voyage without unnecessary delay.[88] Where the carrier unreasonably delays the commencement or completion of the voyage without legal excuse it may be held liable for resultant damage to cargo.[89]

Unseaworthiness. The carrier has been held liable where the delay in the voyage was occasioned by unseaworthiness of the vessel when the voyage began.[90]

Waiver of delay. The fact that the cargo owner permits goods to be shipped after expiration of the 76. U.S.—The Margaret Lykes, D.C La., 57 F Supp. 466.

Election of remedies

(1) Where shipper had knowledge of deviation with respect to stowage of cargo on deck rather than under, shipper had option of treating such breach as a repudiation of the contract of carriage or to waive the deviation as final repudiation of the contract by carrier and treat contract as fully subsisting, reserving legal right to damages it might subsequently sustain by reason of the breach.—The Margaret Lykes, supra

(2) Where no loss or injury resulted from carrying cargo on deck, shipper who had knowledge of such deviation and elected to treat the contract of carriage as not repudiated could not claim damages on that ground.—The Margaret Lykes, supra

Loss from fire

Stowage of cargo was held not deviation where bridge deck space where cargo was stowed was watertight and suitable, and the cargo was damaged by fire and not by reason of its stowage.—The Salvore, C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F.2d 683, certiorari denied U.S. Steel Products Co. v. Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S.Ct. 117, 287 U.S. 653, 77 L.Ed. 565

77. U.S.—The Margaret Lykes, D.C La., 57 F.Supp. 466.

78. U.S.—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S.S. Co., C.C.A.Canal Zone, 88 F.2d 392.

79. N.Y.—Robertson v. National SS Co., 34 N.E. 1053, 139 N.Y. 416

Transshipment by rail held authorized

U.S.—Rudy-Patrick Seed Co. v. Kokusai Kisen Kasushiki Kaisha, D.C.N.Y., 85 F.2d 17.

80. U.S.—Globe Navigation Co., Ltd. v. Russ Lumber, etc., Co., D.C.Cal., 167 F. 228.

81. U.S.—Crocker v. Jackson, D.C. Mass., 6 F.Cas.No. 3,398, 1 Sprague 141.

82. U.S.—Charbonnier v. U.S., D.C. S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U.S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174.

Existence of strike, which had already begun before the shipowner undertook to tow the vessel from one port to another, was held not sufficient ground for deviation by towage.—Charbonnier v. U.S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U.S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174.

83. U.S.—Morris Beef Co. v. The Wells City, N.Y., 61 F. 857, 10 C.C.A. 123
58 C.J. p. 461 note 10.

84. U.S.—Schwarzchild v. National SS. Co., D.C.N.Y., 74 F. 257.
58 C.J. p. 461 note 11.

85. U.S.—Armour Grain Co. v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, D.C.N.Y., 26 F.2d 739, affirmed, C.C.A., 26 F.2d 741.

86. U.S.—Armour Grain Co. v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, supra.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 15.
Delay as deviation see supra § 144 c.

87. U.S.—The Esrom, C.C.A.N.Y., 272 F. 266, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 47, 257 U.S. 634, 66 L.Ed. 408
58 C.J. p. 462 note 16

88. U.S.—The Caledonia, Mass., 15 S.Ct. 537, 157 U.S. 124, 39 L.Ed. 644.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 17.

89. U.S.—U.S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., C.C.A.Mass., 61 F.2d 455.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 19.

90. U.S.—The Plow City, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Supp. 548.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 20.

time specified for forwarding them does not show waiver of a claim for damage resulting from delay.[91]

b. Excusable Delay

A carrier of goods by water is not liable for damage to cargo resulting from delay for which it was not legally responsible or which was permissible under the terms of the contract of shipment.

A carrier of goods by water is not liable for damage to cargo resulting from delay for which it was not legally responsible[92] Thus, for damage to cargo arising from delay due to the condition of the weather, and not to any negligence in navigation, the carrier is not liable.[93] Where damage results from delay permissible under the terms of the contract of shipment, recovery will be denied.[94]

Repairs. Where a seaworthy vessel is so disabled in a severe gale as to require her to put into the nearest port for repairs, her owners are not liable for damage to cargo caused by the necessary delay for repairs,[95] if the master was justified in putting into the port for repairs, used proper diligence in getting repairs made, exerted himself to preserve the cargo, under the best advice he could get, and was unable to send the cargo forward by another vessel;[96] and the owners are not liable even if the means used by the master to preserve it, under the advice of experienced and competent persons, were not the most suitable and well judged.[97]

The vessel will be liable to the shipper for damages resulting from the decrease in the value of the cargo during an unreasonable delay of the voyage for repairs, if the vessel was unseaworthy when the voyage began.[98] The carrier is liable for delaying longer than was necessary to make proper temporary repairs,[99] or for refusing to deliver the cargo to the consignee at the port of delay on tender of full freight and a general average bond.[1] Where a vessel is compelled to lie in a foreign port for a long time waiting for means to procure repairs, the voyage is in effect broken up, and the disabling of the master and mate by sickness from attending to the duties of the ship will not exonerate the owner from responsibility for the loss of the cargo by lack of proper attention.[2] The vessel is not liable for delay in the voyage for repairs where the cargo did not decrease in value during the delay[3]

§ 146. Discharge of Cargo

A carrier of goods by water has the duty carefully and properly to discharge the cargo and it is liable for loss of, or injury to, goods caused by its negligence in discharging them

A carrier of goods by water has the duty properly and carefully to discharge the cargo,[4] and this is its duty under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1303.[5] The carrier is liable for loss of goods through negligent discharging,[6] such as where it fails to exercise due care in discharging the cargo to a lighter,[7] and it has been held liable for goods destroyed by fire after they were transferred, preparatory to their delivery, to a float belonging to the carrier.[8] However, where the contract of carriage imposes on the shipper the duty of discharging the cargo and the furnishing of any equipment and facilities necessary therefor the shipper, and not the carrier, is liable for any damage caused the cargo thereby.[9] Where consignees, although having given notice to the ship that they will not receive the cargo because of the unfavorable state of the weather, do accept and remove it

91. U.S.—Farr v. Hain S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 121 F.2d 940—Cohn v. U. S. Shipping Board, C.C.A.Tenn., 20 F.2d 56—W. E. Hedger Transp. Corp. v. James Richardson & Sons, D.C.N.Y., 20 F.Supp. 909.
58 C.J. p. 463 note 31.

92. U.S.—The Plow City, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Supp. 548.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 21.

93. Va.—Reed & Rice Co. v. Wood, 120 S.E. 874, 138 Va. 187.
58 C.J. p. 463 note 30.

94. U.S.—American Steel Co. v. Transmarine Corp., D.C.N.Y., 36 F.2d 246.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 23.

95. U.S.—The Plow City, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Supp. 548.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 24.

96. U.S.—The Collenberg, N.Y., 1 Black 170, 17 L.Ed. 89.
58 C.J. p. 462 note 25.

97. U.S.—Lawrence v. The Lieutenant Admiral Callomberg, D.C.N.Y., 15 F.Cas.No. 8,139, affirmed, C.C., 7 F.Cas.No. 3,716, 18 How.Pr. 141, affirmed 1 Black 170, 17 L.Ed. 89.

98. U.S.—The Plow City, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Supp. 548.

99. U.S.—The Queen, D.C.N.Y., 28 F. 755.

1. U.S.—The Martha, D.C.N.Y., 35 F. 313.

2. U.S.—Phelan v. The Alvarado, D.C.N.Y., 19 F.Cas.No. 11,067.

3. U.S.—The Plow City, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Supp. 548.

4. U.S.—George F. Pettinos, Inc. v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.Pa., 65 F.Supp. 102.
Duty of carrier as to delivery of cargo see supra §§ 117–122.

5. U.S.—The Mormacmar, D.C.N.Y., 75 F.Supp. 520, motion denied L. W. & P. Armstrong, Inc. v. The Mormacmar, 88 F.Supp. 736—Standard Oil Co. of California v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 168, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999.

6. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of California v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312.
58 C.J. p. 463 note 32
Negligence of carrier held not shown
U.S.—New England Newspaper Pub. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Mass., 18 F.Supp. 674.

7. U.S.—The Ogeechee, D.C.Pa., 248 Pa. 803
58 C.J. p. 463 note 32 [f].

8. N.Y.—Goold v. Chapin, 20 N.Y. 259, 75 Am.D. 398—Miller v. Steam Nav. Co., 10 N.Y. 431.

9. U.S.—The Vermont, D.C.N.Y., 47 F.Supp. 377.

in part as delivered from the ship, they cannot claim indemnity from the ship for injury to the cargo by a storm to which it was exposed while in conveyance to its place of storage.[10]

Lightermen and stevedores. Where the carrier is authorized to employ lightermen for the shipper's account it is not liable for loss caused by their negligence.[11] A stevedore company engaged in discharging cargo from a vessel to a lighter has the duty to load the cargo on the lighter in a prudent manner,[12] and it is liable for injury to, or loss of, cargo caused by its negligence in loading the cargo on a lighter;[13] and where the officers and members of the crew of the vessel do nothing and have no responsibility in the discharge of cargo by stevedores to a lighter, the vessel is not liable for loss of, or damage to, the cargo caused by the negligence of the stevedores or those in charge of the lighter.[14]

§ 147. Loss or Injury after Discharge or Tender

The liability of a carrier of goods by water, as such, continues until the actual or constructive delivery of the goods, even though they have been taken from the vessel, but where the consignee is not present to receive the goods as they are unloaded, pursuant to a notice, the carrier is liable only as an ordinary bailee for hire or warehouseman.

Although the liability of the carrier, as such, terminates on an actual or constructive delivery of the goods,[15] it continues until such delivery, even though the goods have been taken from the vessel[16] Thus, a carrier who, without notice to the consignee of the arrival of the goods, turns them out on the wharf[17] or places them in a public store[18] is liable for their subsequent loss, and where a consignee presents himself in reasonable time, and at a proper place, to receive the goods, or until he has had opportunity to do so, there is no ground for reducing the liability of the carrier to that of a warehouseman, and relieving the carrier from liability for loss by fire on the dock.[19]

Where the consignee is not present to receive the goods as they are unloaded, pursuant to a notice,[20] or does not remove the goods before the expiration of the free time allowed,[21] the carrier is thereafter liable only as an ordinary bailee for hire

10. U S—The Grafton, D C N Y, 10 F Cas No 5,656, Olcott 43, affirmed, C C, 10 F Cas No 5,655, 1 Blatchf 173.

11. La.—Bonura v. United Fruit Co, 110 So 86, 162 La. 53.

12. U S—The S C. L. No. 9, C C.A Pa, 114 F.2d 964
58 C J. p 463 note 32 [f] (5)

Duty to trim load
A cargo being loaded on a deck lighter should have been trimmed by the stevedoring company, or loading stopped when the lighter began to list badly and when the captain protested, with respect to the company's liability to the owner of the cargo after the lighter capsized.—The S C L. No 9, D C Pa, 37 F.Supp 386, affirmed, C C A., 114 F.2d 964

13. U S—The S. C. L. No. 9, C C.A Pa., 114 F 2d 964.
58 C J. p 463 note 32 [f] (2), (4).

Liability as matter of law
Where evidence established that capsizing of lighter was due solely to negligence of company which loaded the lighter with the cargo, liability of the company for the resulting damages attached as a matter of law. —The S. C. L No. 9, C.C A Pa., 114 F 2d 964.

Notice of improper loading
Protests of master of lighter to foreman of stevedoring company against the manner in which lighter was being loaded constituted "notice" of the fault for which the company was responsible and for which it was alone answerable on capsizing of the lighter as the result of improper loading—The S C L No 9, supra

14. U S.—The Teno, C C.A.N Y., 47 F 2d 197

Duty of master of lighter
Master of lighter receiving cargo from steamship has duty of seeing that lighter is moved safely and kept out of danger—The Teno, supra.

15. U S—Standard Brands v Nippon Yusen Kaisha, D C Mass, 42 F Supp. 43.
58 C.J. p 464 note 35.

Discharge at pier or wharf
Liability as a common carrier ceases when the cargo is unladen at a pier or wharf by direction of the consignee.—Standard Brands v. Nippon Yusen Kaisha, supra—58 C J. p 464 note 35 [c].

Delivery to lighter
Where bill of lading provided that liability of shipowner should cease as soon as goods were free from tackles of ship, and the contract contemplated the discharge of cargo by lighters, according to custom, the shipowner was not liable for subsequent damage to cargo caused when lighter sank at moorings—Continental Ins. Co v. Anchor Line, D.C.N Y., 53 F.2d 1032.

16. U S.—Higgins v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., N.Y., 145 F. 24, 76 C C A 24.
58 C J. p 464 note 36.

17. U S—Dibble v. Morgan, C C Tex, 7 F Cas No 3,881, 1 Woods 406
58 C J. p 464 note 37.

18. U.S—The George Skolfield, D C. N Y, 4 F Cas No 2,155

19. Conn.—Graves v Hartford, etc, Steamboat Co, 38 Conn. 143, 9 Am. R. 369

20. U S—The Bellingham, D C N J, 49 F 2d 442, reversed in part on other grounds, C C A., 57 F 2d 1015, and affirmed in part A. C Monk & Co. v U. S, 57 F 2d 1018—Standard Brands v Nippon Yusen Kaisha, D.C Mass, 42 F Supp 43.
58 C J p 464 note 40

21. U S—Standard Brands v. Eastern S S. Lines, C C A.N Y, 97 F. 2d 918.

Sufficiency of notice
(1) Where tariff allowed free time computed from morning after discharge of freight, and required notice of arrival to be given within twenty-four hours, notice given within that time, even if sent before actual discharge of cargo, was not premature, but was sufficient to start free time running—Standard Brands v. Eastern S. S. Lines, supra.

(2) Fact that notice of arrival of shipment erroneously stated date of expiration of free time did not render notice insufficient, where damage to shipment occurred subsequent to actual expiration of free time, and there was nothing to indicate that shipment would have been removed prior thereto if expiration date had been correctly stated—Standard Brands v. Eastern S S. Lines, supra.

or warehouseman; and, even though the bill of lading provides that the goods may be placed on the wharf or in a warehouse at the sole risk of the consignee,[22] the carrier is charged with the duty to take ordinary care of the property for a reasonable length of time, and not to abandon it, or negligently expose it to injury.[23] In such case, the carrier is liable as ordinary bailee for hire or warehouseman for goods damaged because of its negligence and failure to exercise reasonable care to protect them from injury,[24] or for goods stolen through negligence, while still in the custody of the owners of the ship, after being discharged on a pier, and waiting to be conveyed to the public warehouse by the public carman,[25] or after being actually placed in the warehouse.[26]

The carrier is not liable for a loss of part of the cargo on the pier, after actual receipt by the consignees of all the cargo shipped,[27] or for a loss which would not have occurred except for the negligence of the consignee in failing to remove his goods promptly.[28] Failure to give actual notice to consignees of the time and place of discharge of cargo unloaded at a wharf, other than the vessel's usual wharf, at which the goods, before delivery to the consignees, are destroyed by fire, has been held not to render the carrier liable for the loss, where the consignees, had they received notice, could not have removed their goods before the fire, and where they took no steps on the faith of the cargo being discharged at the usual place.[29] A consignee who was misled by the ship's tally clerk into believing that cargo injured on board the ship was not damaged has been held not chargeable with negligence in indiscriminately mixing good cargo with damaged cargo, thereby causing injury to the good cargo.[30]

§ 148. Proximate Cause

A carrier liable for loss of, or injury to, cargo because of his delinquency as a carrier is liable for all damages proximately resulting therefrom, but a carrier's delinquency as a carrier cannot be made a ground of recovery for loss of, or injury to, cargo not proximately caused thereby. In order that a carrier may be absolved from liability for loss on the ground of an excepted peril, the excepted peril must have been the proximate cause of the loss.

A carrier liable for loss of, or injury to, cargo because of the unseaworthiness of the vessel is liable for all damages proximately resulting therefrom.[31] On the other hand, the nonfulfillment by a carrier of all its duty cannot be made a ground of recovery if the loss was not proximately due to its delinquency as a carrier,[32] such as improper or

22. U.S.—Standard Brands v Nippon Yusen Kaisha, D.C.Mass, 42 F Supp. 43.

23. U.S.—The Bellingham, D C N J, 49 F 2d 442, reversed in part on other grounds, C.C.A, 57 F.2d 1015, and affirmed in part A. C Monk & Co. v. U S, 57 F 2d 1018.
58 C.J. p 465 note 41.

24. U.S.—Standard Brands v Nippon Yusen Kaisha, D.C Mass, 42 F Supp. 43
58 C J. p 465 note 41 [c]

Goods placed near defective door

(1) Shipowner who placed cargo of tea on floor of storage shed on wharf where ship docked, within two feet of a door which could not be properly closed and under which water had leaked on previous occasions, was negligent and hence liable to consignee for water damage to the tea during storm which occurred the day after the tea was unloaded.—Standard Brands v. Nippon Yusen Kaisha, supra.

(2) Since the damage could have been avoided by precautions, the shipowner was held not relieved of liability on the ground that the damage was caused by an act of God.—Standard Brands v. Nippon Yusen Kaisha, supra.

25. U.S.—Unnevehr v. The Hindoo, D.C N.Y., 1 F. 627.

26. U.S.—Evans v. New York, etc, SS Co, D C.N Y, 163 F. 405

27. U S—Dike v Von Lefferl Lahsen, D C N.Y., 7 F.Cas No.3,909.
58 C J. p 465 note 44.

28. U.S.—The Bellingham, C C A.N. J., 57 F 2d 1015, affirmed in part, C C A, A. C Monk & Co v. U. S, 57 F.2d 1018—Standard Brands v Nippon Yusen Kaisha, D C Mass, 42 F Supp. 43—Smith v. Britain S S. Co, D C.N Y., 123 F 176.

Consignee held not negligent

U S—Standard Brands v. Nippon Yusen Kaisha, D C.Mass, 42 F.Supp. 43.

29. U S—Constable v. National SS Co, N Y, 14 S Ct. 1062, 154 U.S. 51, 38 L Ed 903.
58 C J. p 465 note 45

30. U.S—Armco Intern Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, C C A N.Y., 151 F.2d 5

Inability to prove damage

Where consignee was not chargeable with negligence in indiscriminately mixing iron plates dry when discharged from vessel with other plates wet with acetic acid from leaking drum negligently stowed on top of them, ocean carrier could not shift to consignee any part of liability for damage to plates which were dry when discharged, because of inability to prove what part of damage was caused by any negligence of consignee.—Armco Intern. Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, supra.

31. U S—Republic of France v French Overseas Corporation, N.Y, 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U S. 323, 72 L.Ed 901.

Entrance of water into ship

The fact that water entering ship because of unseaworthiness carried zinc concentrate stowed in hold to bilges, clogged the rose-box and put pumps out of action was not so unexpected a consequence of original entrance of the water, regardless of whether zinc concentrate was ill or well stowed, as to warrant limiting ship's liability to cargo damage that would have occurred had pumps been working.—Edmond Weil, Inc., v American West African Line, C.C A N.Y., 147 F 2d 363.

32. U S—The Yungay, D C N.Y., 58 F 2d 352—Hartford & New York Transp. Co. v. Rogers & Hubbard Co., C.C.A Conn., 47 F.2d 189, certiorari denied Rogers & Hubbard v. Hartford & New York Transp. Co., 51 S Ct. 483, 283 U S. 835, 75 L. Ed. 1446.
Mich.—Thunder Bay Quarries Co. v. Pollard, 3 N.W.2d 316, 301 Mich. 388.
58 C.J. p 466 note 48.

negligent stowage,[33] overloading,[34] rough or other improper handling,[35] or unseaworthiness.[36] However, it is not sufficient to exonerate the carrier that the loss might have otherwise occurred.[37] If the vessel was not sufficiently seaworthy to withstand a storm of ordinary intensity the fact that the particular storm which caused the cargo loss was of unusual intensity or extraordinary violence will not relieve the carrier from liability for cargo loss.[38]

In order that a carrier may be absolved from liability for loss on the ground of one of the excepted perils, it must have been the proximate cause. If human agency or fault or some other not excepted cause has intervened, he is not as a general rule excused,[39] and where, although a peril of the sea has arisen, the damage might have been avoided by the use of ordinary care and diligence on the part of the ship, the negligence, and not the peril of the seas, is then considered the proximate cause of the loss.[40] However, while it is competent for the carrier to show that the loss was in fact occasioned by the excepted perils, and not by the unseaworthiness of the boat, and would have happened if that defect had not existed, a delinquency which might have contributed to the disaster occasioning the loss, or negligence or carelessness at the time of its occurrence which might have had an agency in producing it, will render him liable.[41] If the loss might have happened without the carrier's fault, this does not excuse him,[42] but if it must have happened without his fault, he is absolved.[43]

Although the carrier may have been derelict in his duty, if the proximate cause of the loss is attributable to the shipper[44] or to the consignee,[45] the carrier is not liable. A vessel has been held not liable for the loss of cargo it was required to jettison because of the unseaworthiness of another vessel.[46]

Insufficient crew and equipment

Fact that vessel lacked one oiler and that fog whistle could not be blown when it started is immaterial with respect to liability for cargo loss, where there was no causal connection between these matters and vessel's stranding—The Yungay, D C.N.Y., 58 F.2d 352.

Negligence in routing

Negligence, if any, of forwarding agent of purchaser of cargo in accepting bill of lading calling for discharge of shipment at New York instead of Boston, in absence of any causal connection between such negligence and water damage to cargo, afforded no ground for recovery by purchaser against forwarding agent—J C Penney Co. v. The American Exp. Co, D C N.Y., 102 F Supp. 742.

33. U.S.—The Chester Valley, C.C.A. La., 110 F 2d 592
58 C J. p 451 note 20, p 466 note 48 [a] (1), [b] (2).

34. U.S—The Naples Maru, D.C.N Y., 20 F Supp. 258, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 106 F 2d 32—The Glasgow Maru, D.C.N.Y., 19 F. Supp 530, reversed on other grounds, C C A, Warner Barnes & Co. v. Kokosai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 102 F 2d 450, modified on other grounds 103 F.2d 430.

Deck stowage at shipper's risk

Where wool, carried pursuant to contract for on-deck stowage at shipper's risk, was wet by sea water and rain, but the wool was raised at least three feet above deck, there was no causal connection between such wetting and alleged overloading of vessel.—The Idefjord, D.C.N.Y., 31 F Supp. 667, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 114 F 2d 262, certiorari denied Den Norske Amerikalinje, A/S v Blumenthal Import Corp., 61 S.Ct 175, 311 U.S 707, 85 L Ed 459

Overloading held proximate cause

U.S—Interlake Iron Corp. v. Gartland S. S. Co., C.C A Mich, 121 F. 2d 267, certiorari denied Gartland S S Co v Interlake Iron Corp, 62 S Ct 181, 314 U.S. 681, 86 L Ed 545.

35. U.S.—S. L. Shepard & Co v. Agwilines, Inc, D C S.C, 39 F Supp 528, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 130 F 2d 67.

36. U S—May v. Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktiengesellschaft, N.Y., 54 S Ct. 162, 290 U S 333, 78 L Ed 348.
58 C.J. p 466 note 48 [b] (1).

Displacement of contract of affreightment

Unseaworthiness displaces contract of affreightment only in so far as damage is caused by unseaworthiness—Republic of France v French Overseas Corporation, N Y., 48 S.Ct 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed 901—American Finance & Commerce Co. v. U S, D C.Cal, 55 F 2d 725.

Unseaworthiness held proximate cause

U.S.—The Mary M., D.C.N.Y, 73 F Supp 674.
58 C J. p 466 note 48 [c] (1).

37. N.C.—Gardner v. Smallwood, 3 N.C. 349.
58 C J. p 451 note 21.

Subsequent catastrophic storm

Where structure of ship and character of cargo required that cargo be made fast against all but most unexpected and catastrophic storms, and cargo began to break loose before storm had attained wind force of fifty miles per hour, it was immaterial with respect to liability for cargo damage that storm later reached catastrophic proportions—Edmond Weil, Inc, v American West African Line, C.C.A.N Y, 147 F 2d 363

38. U S—Atlantic Transport Co. of West Virginia v. Rosenberg Bros & Co, C C.A Cal, 34 F 2d 843—The Anastasia, D C.Va, 11 F Supp. 314, remanded, C C.A., Southern Transp. Co. v. Knickerbocker Fuel Co., 79 F.2d 1011.

39. Ark—Packard v. Taylor, 35 Ark. 402, 37 Am.R. 37.
58 C.J. p 465 note 46.

40. U S—The Olga S, C.C.A La, 25 F 2d 229.
58 C.J p 466 note 47.

41. Mo—Collier v Valentine, 11 Mo. 299, 49 Am D 81
58 C.J. p 466 note 51.

42. Mo.—Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323—Collier v Valentine, 11 Mo. 299, 49 Am D. 81.

43. N C—Gardner v. Smallwood, 3 N.C. 349.

44. U.S.—The M. C. Currie, D.C.N.Y., 132 F 125.
58 C.J. p 466 note 49

45. La.—Northern v. Williams, 6 La. Ann. 578.

46. U.S.—The Mary M, D C N.Y., 73 F.Supp. 674.

Barge

Where careening of unseaworthy barge caused barge alongside to list to port, making it necessary to jettison a portion of cargo of molasses of second barge, the proximate cause for jettison of cargo was the unseaworthiness of the first barge.—The Mary M., supra.

Deviation It has been held that a voluntary and wrongful deviation renders the ship or carrier liable for subsequent loss irrespective of whether the deviation was the proximate cause of such subsequent loss,[47] but it has also been held that the vessel is not liable for loss or damage which must equally have occurred even if there had been no deviation.[48]

§ 149. Duties of Carrier after Disaster or Injury to Cargo

a. In general
b. Sale of cargo

a. In General

After a vessel is wrecked, stranded, disabled, or injured, the carrier is required to take all possible care of the cargo and is responsible for damage thereto which could have been prevented by reasonable diligence and prudence.

After a vessel is wrecked, stranded, disabled, or injured, the master is still under obligation to take all possible care of the goods, and he is bound to show that human diligence, skill, or care could not save the property from being lost by the disaster.[49] So, after a shipment has been overtaken by a storm that may be properly classed as an act of God, it is the duty of the carrier to exercise at least reasonable diligence in endeavoring to save the shipment and prevent further loss.[50] As the master of a vessel is quasi agent for both parties, owner or consignee of the cargo and the owner of the vessel, in respect of the cargo found in a perishable condition on board the ship, his acts, honestly put forth in an emergency, even if not the most suitable and well judged, with the intent to the best interests of all concerned are to be indulgently considered,[51] and, thus, a master is not negligent so as to render the vessel liable for damages to the cargo if, in preserving the cargo after damage by storm, he pursues the course deemed most expedient in the exercise of a sound discretion.[52]

b. Sale of Cargo

A carrier of goods by water may sell damaged cargo for the good of the cargo and the ship, on the shipper's refusal to receive the cargo or where the carrier is unable to communicate with the owner of the damaged cargo; but it is not entitled to sell damaged cargo, without notice to the owner or shipper, when there is time and means for communicating with him.

Where a cargo of goods is in part damaged, the master may sell it for the good of the cargo and the ship, on the shipper's refusal to receive it,[53] and the same rule applies where the master attempts to communicate with the owner of the damaged cargo and receives no reply.[54] However, the master has no authority to sell damaged cargo, without notice to the owner or shipper, when there is abundant time and means for communicating with him,[55] and such a sale is a conversion of the goods.[56] Where a cargo of goods is in part damaged, it is the duty of the master and not of the consignee to separate the goods for auction sale.[57]

§ 150. Actions for Damages

a. In general
b. Defenses

a. In General

Where there is a loss of, or injury to, cargo, the shipper ordinarily has the choice of suing the carrier by water on the contract or in tort. Suit must be brought within the time limited by statute or by a valid provision of the contract of carriage.

In accordance with the general rule as to actions against carriers, as discussed in Actions § 49 e (4), where there is a loss of, or injury to, cargo, the shipper ordinarily has the choice of suing the carrier by water on the contract[58] or in tort for breach of the duty imposed by law.[59] A shipper suing for loss from deviation, even though it constitutes a conversion, must either rescind the contract and sue for the value of the goods[60] or sue for damages for the breach of the contract of

47. U.S.—The Ida, D.C.N.Y., 6 F. Supp. 992
58 C.J. p. 455 note 90.
Liability of carrier for fire damage after deviation see supra § 129.

48. U.S.—The San Giuseppe, C.C.A. Va., 122 F.2d 579.

49. U.S.—U. S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A. Cal., 83 F.2d 875.
58 C.J. p. 466 note 54.

50. U.S.—McNeil Higgins Co. v. Old Dominion SS. Co., Ill., 235 F. 854, 149 C.C.A. 166.

51. U.S.—De Bruns v. Lawrence, C.C.N.Y., 7 F.Cas.No.3,716, 18 How Pr. 141, affirmed 1 Black 170, 17 L.Ed. 89.

52. U.S.—Soule v. Rodocanachi, D.C. La., 22 F.Cas.No.13,178, Newb.Adm. 504.
58 C.J. p. 467 note 57.

53. U.S.—The Brewster, D.C.Cal., 95 F. 1000.
Right of master to dispose of cargo in general see supra § 66.
Cash sale
Where carrier by water was required to sell perishable goods because of nonarrival of bill of lading, it had no authority to sell the goods on credit, and was required to account to shipper as if it had received the cash value of the goods —Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. Branch, C.C.A.Va., 282 F. 494.

54. U.S.—Astsrup v. Lewy, D.C.N.Y., 19 F. 536.

Philippine—Compagnie de Commerce v. Hamburg Amerika, etc., 36 Philippine 590

55. U.S.—Astsrup v. Lewy, D.C.N.Y. 19 F. 536.

56. U.S.—The Joshua Barker, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Cas.No.7,547, Abb.Adm. 215.

57. U.S.—The Columbus, D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Cas.No.3,041, Abb.Adm. 37.

58. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C. Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593.
58 C.J. p. 470 note 37.

59. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, supra.
58 C.J. p. 470 note 38.

60. U.S.—Western Lumber Mfg. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 9 F.2d 1004.

carriage,[61] and he cannot do both.[62] For a wrongful conversion of the goods carried trover may be maintained against the owners of the vessel.[63]

Cross libel. On a libel by the carrier to recover, under the bills of lading, charges incurred in reconditioning goods alleged to have been damaged without fault on the part of the carrier, the shipper by cross bill may sue the carrier for any breach of contract by it;[64] and, if the shipper has delivered the bills of lading to the consignee, he may maintain such cross bill, on his filing an instrument executed by the consignee authorizing or ratifying the suit against the carrier.[65]

Jurisdiction. A statutory provision authorizing persons having claims against vessels to commence proceedings against the vessels themselves instead of against the owners gives a state court jurisdiction of an action against a vessel for loss caused by its negligent management although it is owned by persons residing outside the state.[66] A statute providing for a proceeding in rem against vessels "navigating the waters of" the state applies to vessels passing to and from the ports of other states through and across the waters of the state.[67]

Conditions precedent. Where the suit is for goods which were so damaged as to be valueless and unsalable, the shipper is not bound to send them to auction to be sold, as a prerequisite to his right of action.[68] The fact that the owner of the vessel may compel the crew to make good from their wages a loss or damage to the cargo caused by their misconduct and negligence does not render it necessary that the shipper in bringing an action on the case against the owner for the loss should give notice of such damages previous to the discharge of the crew.[69]

A statutory requirement that a claim for damage to goods shall be made within a specified time after receipt of the goods does not apply where the goods are not delivered by the carrier in pursuance of the contract of carriage but are recovered by the cargo owner from a wreck of the vessel in an effort to save his property from total loss,[70] and even where such a statute does apply, failure to give notice does not bar an action by the shipper or an insurer subrogated to his rights.[71] Where goods have been insured it is not a condition precedent to a suit, after an unjustified deviation by the ship, that the shipper shall have been deprived of his right against insurer.[72]

Accrual of right of action. A shipper's right of action for cargo wrongfully unloaded by the vessel before departure from the port and destroyed or damaged after unloading accrues at the time of the loss or damage,[73] and not at the time of the arrival of the vessel at its destination.[74]

Time to sue; laches. On the destruction of cargo the owner thereof may sue at once for the loss of the goods[75] or he may wait until a reasonable time for performance has elapsed.[76] Where the time for bringing suit for loss of, or injury to, cargo is limited by statute or by a valid provision of the contract of carriage, it must be brought within such time.[77] In the absence of such limitation,

61. U.S.—Western Lumber Mfg. Co v U. S, supra

62. U S.—Western Lumber Mfg. Co v. U. S, supra.

63. U.S —Taylor v. Brigham, C C Ga., 23 F.Cas No 13,781, 3 Woods 377.

64. U S —U S. v. U. S Steel Products Co., D C N Y., 27 F.2d 547.
Cross libel in general see Admiralty § 88.

65. U.S —U. S v. U S Steel Products Co, D C.N.Y., 27 F 2d 547

66. Mo —Yore v. The C. Bealer, 26 Mo 426.
Jurisdiction in admiralty see Admiralty § 30
Power of states with respect to maritime law generally see Admiralty § 6.
Jurisdiction in actions against carriers generally for loss of, or injury to, goods see Carriers § 246.

67. Wis —The Sultana v. Chapman, 5 Wis. 454.

68. La —Elkin v New York, etc., SS Co., 14 La Ann. 647.
Conditions precedent to action against carrier for loss of, or injury to, goods generally see Carriers § 247.
Sale of damaged cargo in general see supra § 149

69. N.Y.—Schieffelin v. Harvey, Anth N.P. 76.

70. Philippine —Roldan v. Ponzo, 37 Philippine 285.

71. N Y —Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Isbrandtsen, 103 N.Y.S.2d 118, 199 Misc. 257.

72. U.S.—Rosenberg v. U S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., D.C Cal., 7 F.2d 893, affirmed, C.C A., U S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp. v. Rosenberg, 12 F.2d 721, reversed on other grounds 48 S.Ct 256, 276 U.S. 202, 72 L Ed 531—The Citta di Messina, D.C.N.Y, 169 F 472.

73. U.S.—The Elvaston, C.C A La, 279 F. 935.

74. U S —The Elvaston, supra.

75. N Y —Aristo Hosiery Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 221 N.Y S 298, 129 Misc 305

76. N.Y.—Aristo Hosiery Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

77. U.S —Potter v. North German Lloyd, D C Cal., 50 F.Supp 173—The Kermit, D.C.Cal, 6 F Supp. 113, affirmed, C C A, 76 F.2d 363, certiorari denied Lamborn v. American Ship & Commerce Nav. Corporation, 56 S.Ct. 93, 296 U.S 581, 80 L Ed. 411.
N.Y.—Singer Hosiery Mills of N. Y v. Cunard White Star, Limited, 102 N.Y.S.2d 762, 199 Misc. 389.
58 C.J p 472 note 75
Limitations and laches to suit in admiralty generally see Admiralty § 87.
Application of general statutes of limitation to actions against carriers see Limitations of Actions § 48.

the suit or libel must be brought within a reasonable time after the loss or damage has occurred or the right of action has accrued,[78] otherwise it may, under the circumstances, be barred by laches;[79] and, unless circumstances showing laches have intervened, a libel for damages to the cargo may be filed even after the vessel has made one or two voyages subsequent to the injury being received.[80] The limitation prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Act for actions for damages to interstate shipments does not apply to a shipment entirely by water from a point within a state to a foreign port,[81] but a prescription of a state law in respect of an action by or against common carriers for loss of, or damage to, shipments of freight applies in case of loss while freight is still aboard the vessel after reaching a state harbor.[82]

b. Defenses

In the absence of a contract provision to the contrary, it is not a defense to an action for a loss of, or injury to, cargo that the goods were insured and that the insurance has been paid.

In the absence of a provision in the contract or bill of lading giving the carrier the benefit of the shipper's insurance, it is no defense to an action for loss of, or injury to, cargo, that the goods were insured and that the insurance has been paid,[83] or that the insurer has made a loan to the cargo owner,[84] even though it does not appear from the pleadings or evidence that the suit is brought by the direction or for the benefit of insurers.[85]

Where a disaster happens to a cargo in consequence of a peril or accident not within the exceptions in the bill of lading, a mere acceptance of the goods by the owner, at the place of the disaster or an intermediate port, is no defense to his action for damage to the goods,[86] unless it appears that the acceptance was intended as a discharge of the vessel and her owner from any further responsibility;[87] but where a ship is detained and her cargo damaged before she proceeds, although she subsequently delivers it to the consignees, a shipper cannot, without rescinding the contract, sustain a libel in rem for a breach of the bill of lading, until the term for the performance of the contract has expired.[88]

It is no defense to an action in the name of the owner of the vessel for damage to the cargo that he is doing business under a fictitious or trade name and that the contracts of affreightment are made in such name.[89] Where loss occurs due to a combination of facts arising from particularities or peculiarities of the ship's construction in combination with the cargo carried, it is not a sufficient defense that the carrier was ignorant as to such matters,[90] since the carrier must be held to familiarity with the particular construction and design of the ship and its apparatus, and with the characteristics and effect of the cargoes which the vessel carries.[91] The fact that other persons may have equitable claims to the damages has been held not to be a defense.[92]

Release. An agreement by the shipper to indemnify the carrier on a redelivery of the goods to the shipper,[93] or on a refund of freight to the shipper[94] will not be construed to amount to a release of the carrier from existing breaches, unless the intent to do so is apparent.[95]

78. U.S.—The President Polk, C.C.A. N.Y., 43 F.2d 695.
58 C.J. p. 472 note 76.

79. U.S.—The Kermit, C.C.A.Cal., 76 F.2d 363, certiorari denied Lamborn v. American Ship & Commerce Nav. Corporation, 56 S.Ct. 93, 296 U.S. 581, 80 L.Ed. 411—The Mar Mediterraneo, D.C.La., 13 F.Supp. 860
N.Y.—Continental Leather Co. v. Liverpool, Brazil & River Plate Steam Nav. Co., 255 N.Y.S. 4, 234 App.Div. 386, affirmed 182 N.E. 207, 259 N.Y. 621, certiorari denied Continental Leather Co. v. Lamport & Holt, 53 S.Ct. 91, 287 U.S. 644, 77 L.Ed. 557.
58 C.J. p. 472 note 77.

80. U.S.—Knox v. The Ninetta, D.C.Pa., 14 F.Cas.No.7,912, Crabbe 534, 5 Pa.L.J. 33.

81. La.—Klopstock v. United Fruit Co., 131 So. 25, 171 La. 296

82. La.—Klopstock v. United Fruit Co., supra.
58 C.J. p. 472 note 82.

83. U.S.—Sorenson v. Boston Ins. Co., C.C.A.Md., 20 F.2d 640, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 116, 275 U.S. 555, 72 L.Ed. 423
58 C.J. p. 471 note 63
Defenses in action against carrier in general see Carriers § 245
Insurance as affecting right to sue see infra § 151.

84. U.S.—The Plow City, C.C.A.Pa., 122 F.2d 816, certiorari denied Plow City S.S. Co. v. Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., 62 S.Ct. 579, 315 U.S. 798, 86 L.Ed. 1199—Wittig v. Canada S.S. Lines, D.C.N.Y., 59 F.2d 428.
58 C.J. p. 471 note 64

85. U.S.—Steamship Wellesley Co. v. Hooper, Cal., 185 F. 733, 108 C.C.A. 71—Stockton Milling Co. v. California Nav., etc., Co., D.C.Cal., 165 F. 356, affirmed 184 F. 369, 107 C.C.A. 46.

86. N.Y.—Home Ins. Co. v. Western Transp. Co., 51 N.Y. 93.

87. U.S.—The Eva D. Rose, D.C.N.C., 153 F. 912, affirmed 166 F. 101, 92 C.C.A. 85
58 C.J. p. 471 note 59

88. U.S.—Jones v. The Floating Zephyr, C.C.Pa., 13 F.Cas.No. 7,462

89. U.S.—The Nonpariel, D.C.N.Y., 149 F. 521

90. U.S.—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470

91. U.S.—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., C.C.A., 145 F.2d 470.

92. U.S.—The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A. Md., 89 F.2d 539.

93. U.S.—Transmarine Corp. v. Levitt, C.C.A.N.Y., 25 F.2d 275.

94. U.S.—Transmarine Corp. v. Levitt, supra.

95. U.S.—Transmarine Corp. v. Levitt, supra.

§ 151. —— Persons Entitled to Sue

An action for damages for loss of, or injury to, cargo shipped on board a vessel may be maintained by the owner of the cargo.

An action for damages for loss of, or injury to, cargo shipped on board a vessel may be maintained by the owner of the cargo.[96] It has been held that anyone who has a special property or interest in the goods shipped, or a beneficial interest in the performance of the contract, may maintain an action for their loss or injury,[97] but one who purchased cargo ex dock without a transfer of the bill of lading was held not to have sufficient interest in the cargo to maintain an action for damage to the cargo while on the vessel.[98]

The fact that the cargo owner has recovered for the loss from an insurance company does not bar him from maintaining the suit as the real party in interest.[99] If the loss has been paid by the insurer, the suit may be maintained in the name of the owner for the benefit of the insurer,[1] or in the name of the insurance company which has paid the loss or accepted an abandonment;[2] and where, by arrangement therein, the payment by the insurer is only in the nature of a loan, the owner may sue for the benefit of the insurer, although the bill of lading provides that the carrier shall have the benefit of any insurance effected by the shipper.[3]

Agent of owner. In admiralty the agent of an absent owner of a cargo may libel in his own name his principal's right of action,[4] or he may libel in the name of his principal.[5]

Consignor. A consignor of goods may recover for the loss thereof, or injury thereto, which occurs while the title to the goods remains in him,[6] as where the consignee refuses to receive them.[7] It has been held that the consignor cannot recover damages caused after he has parted with title to the goods,[8] as where he has indorsed the bill of lading to another,[9] unless the indorsee authorizes the suit.[10] On the other hand, it has been held that the consignor may maintain the action irrespective of the question of ownership where he made the contract of shipment with the carrier,[11] where the suit is for the benefit of the consignee,[12] or where he has borne the loss resulting from the damage to the cargo.[13] Where the title to the goods, on

96. U S —The West Kebar, D.C N Y., 53 F.Supp. 763, amended on other grounds 53 F Supp. 766, reversed on other grounds, C C A., Edmond Weil Co. v American West African Line, 147 F.2d 363.
58 C.J. p 467 note 66.
Persons entitled to sue carrier for loss of, or injury to, goods generally see Carriers § 249.

Estoppel to claim sale
Where contract of sale of electric motor was entered into between plaintiff and third party, and the third party did not accept the motor, and it was damaged while being transported back by defendant carrier, and the parties to the contract closed their mutual dealings on the basis that no sale had taken place, they were estopped as between themselves to assert an actual sale, and of course estopped from asserting it as against any one else, and the defendant must respond to plaintiff for the injury done —Gray & Barash v. Puget Sound Nav Co, 203 P. 975, 118 Wash. 376.

97. U S —Perry v. Bangs, D.C N Y, 19 F.Cas.No 11,013.
58 C J. p 468 note 87.

98. U.S —Firestone Plantations Co v. Pan Atlantic S. S. Corp., D C.N. Y., 77 F Supp. 401.

99. U.S.—The Plow City, C C A Pa, 122 F.2d 816, certiorari denied Plow City S. S. Co v. Texas Gulf Sulphur Co, 62 S.Ct 579, 315 U.S 798, 86 L Ed. 1199—Wittig v. Canada S. S. Lines, D C N.Y., 59 F 2d 428

1. U S —The Ft. Gaines, D C Md, 24 F 2d 849, affirmed, C C A., Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lanasa, 32 F.2d 154.
58 C J. p 467 note 68.

2. U S —The Keokuk, D C.Wis., 14 F Cas.No 7,721, 1 Biss. 522

3. U S —Luckenbach v. W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Co, N.Y., 39 S Ct. 53, 248 U S. 139, 63 L.Ed 170, 1 A.L R. 1522
Contract or bill of lading requiring shipper to insure or giving carrier benefit of insurance generally see supra § 133.

4. U.S.—Houseman v. The North Carolina, Fla., 15 Pet. 40, 10 L Ed 653.
58 C.J. p 468 note 72.

5. U.S.—Houseman v. The North Carolina, supra

6. U.S.—Transmarine Corp. v. Levitt, C C.A.N.Y., 25 F 2d 275—The W Ferdinand Armstrong, D.C.N Y., 69 F Supp. 824.

Title restored to consignor
Where shipper paid return freight charges and also charges for discharging cargo, wharfage, and storage, consignees surrendered bills of lading to shipper and assigned to shipper all their right, title, and interest in cargo, and on surrender of bills of lading to shipowner cargo was delivered to shipper, full title to cargo was restored to shipper, and shipper was entitled to sue as "real party in interest" for breach of contract to carry cargo to a foreign port, and consignees had no interest in the controversy.—The Wildwood, D.C. Wash, 41 F Supp 956, reversed on other grounds, C C A., 133 F 2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp v. American S. S. Corp, 63 S. Ct. 1436, 319 U S 771, 87 L Ed 1719.

Denial of interest
A shipowner who by negotiations, notices, and demands has recognized the shipper as the real party in interest may be precluded from denying that he is the real party in interest.—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash, 41 F Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American S S. Corp., 63 S Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

7. U.S —Armco Intern. Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, C.C A.N.Y, 151 F.2d 5—Transmarine Corp. v. Levitt, C. C.A.N.Y., 25 F.2d 275.

8. U.S —U. S v. U. S Steel Products Co., D.C.N.Y., 27 F.2d 547.

9. U.S —Aunt Jemima Mills Co v. Lloyd Royal Belge, C.C A.N.Y, 34 F 2d 120.

10. U.S.—Aunt Jemima Mills Co. v. Lloyd Royal Belge, supra

11. U S —The City of Brunswick, D. C.Mass., 6 F.Supp. 597.

12. U.S.—The City of Brunswick, supra.

13. U.S.—Wayne v. Inland Waterways Corp, D.C.Ill., 92 F.Supp 276.

delivery thereof to the vessel for transportation, passes to a firm consisting of the consignor and consignee, the consignor may sue as the trustee of an express trust[14]

Consignee. Where the consignee is the owner of the cargo, he may sue for its loss or injury[15] and he may maintain an action against the carrier for breach of the contract of carriage.[16] The consignee may maintain a suit against the vessel for damages to the goods, although no bill of lading was executed,[17] and may maintain an action against the owners of a vessel, which collided with the vessel on which his goods were shipped, for the loss sustained by reason of the collision,[18] and it is no bar to such action that an action in rem, by the consignee, is pending in another district against the vessel.[19] A consignee who does not have title to the goods but who has made advances to the owner has been held to have sufficient interest in the cargo to maintain an action against the carrier for injury to the cargo.[20]

Holder of bill of lading. A lawful holder of a bill of lading for the goods issued by the carrier may sue for the loss thereof, or injury thereto;[21] and where the consignor indorses the bill of lading to another the indorsee may sue in his own name.[22] The indorsee may libel the vessel on which the goods are shipped for their loss or injury[23] although he is but the agent or trustee of the goods for others.[24] Where a general bill of lading is given, but separate bills are delivered to the owners of the cargo for their respective portions, the several holders thereof may libel the vessel for damages to the cargo, although the consignment is to one party in bulk.[25]

Carrier of goods by water, as a bailee of the goods, has a special property therein which entitles him to maintain a suit against a third person for their loss or injury in behalf of all the parties in interest.[26]

§ 152. —— Persons or Vessels Liable

Liability as carrier for a loss of, or injury to, cargo is generally on the person who has the custody and control of the vessel at the time the loss or injury is caused.

Liability as carrier for the loss of, or injury to, cargo on board a vessel is generally on the person who has the custody and control of the vessel at the time the loss or injury is caused;[27] and if one other than the real owner has control of the vessel, and it is engaged in his business, he is regarded as the owner pro hac vice, and as such is answerable to the freighter.[28] The owners of the vessel are not liable as carriers merely by virtue of their ownership,[29] but only where the vessel is in their employment, so as to make them parties to the contract of carriage,[30] or where they retain custody and control of the vessel, in which case they are liable although the vessel is under contract to a third person.[31] On the other hand, one who has contracted as carrier to transport goods may be held liable for their loss or injury although he is not the owner of the vessel on which they were shipped.[32]

A shipper cannot recover of all the owners of a boat carrying goods for hire, where he makes a spe-

14. U.S.—Northern Commercial Co. v. Lindblom, Alaska, 162 F. 250, 89 C.C.A. 230.

15. U.S.—Corpus Juris cited in The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A.Md., 89 F.2d 539, 543.
58 C.J. p. 468 note 82.
Name of agent or principal
Consignee of shipment may sue for damages either in his own name or in name of his principal.—The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A.Md., 89 F.2d 539.

16. U.S.—The Fred E. Hasler, C.C.A. N.Y., 66 F.2d 609, certiorari denied Atlantic Oil Transit Corporation v. Proctor & Gamble Co., 54 S.Ct. 125, 290 U.S. 689, 78 L.Ed. 594.
58 C.J. p. 468 note 83.

17. U.S.—Brower v. The Water Witch, C.C.N.Y., 4 F.Cas.No. 1,971, 19 How.Pr. 241, affirmed 1 Black 494, 17 L.Ed. 155.
58 C.J. p. 468 note 84.

18. U.S.—Dollner v. Garcia, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Cas.No.3,970.

19. U.S.—Dollner v. Garcia, supra.

20. U.S.—Munson S.S. Line v. Rosenthal, D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Supp. 374

21. U.S.—Aunt Jemima Mills Co. v. Lloyd Royal Belge, C.C.A.N.Y., 34 F.2d 120.

22. U.S.—Aunt Jemima Mills Co. v. Lloyd Royal Belge, supra.

23. U.S.—Corpus Juris cited in The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A.Md., 89 F.2d 539, 543
58 C.J. p. 468 note 93.

24. U.S.—The Thames v. Seaman, N.Y., 14 Wall. 98, 20 L.Ed. 804—Corpus Juris cited in The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A.Md., 89 F.2d 539, 543.

25. U.S.—Bucknor v. The Gilbert Green, C.C.Pa., 4 F.Cas.No.2,099.

26. U.S.—The Nonpariel, D.C.N.Y., 149 F. 521.
Right of carrier to sue for injury to cargo by collision see Collision § 160.

27. U.S.—Bank Line v. Porter, C.C.A.Va., 25 F.2d 843, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 25, 278 U.S. 623, 73 L.Ed. 544
58 C.J. p. 469 note 97
Liability of:
Charterer or owner see supra §§ 34, 50.
Master see supra § 70.

28. N.Y.—Tuckerman v. Brown, 17 Barb. 191.
Charterer as owner pro hac vice in general see supra § 34.

29. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Societe de Navigation à Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.
N.Y.—Tuckerman v. Brown, 17 Barb. 191.

30. N.Y.—Tuckerman v. Brown, supra.

31. U.S.—The Mary M, D.C.N.Y., 73 F.Supp. 674—The T. A. Goddard, D.C.N.Y., 12 F. 174

32. U.S.—Western Lumber Mfg. Co. v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 9 F.2d 1004.
58 C.J. p. 469 note 3.

cial contract with some of the joint owners, without the knowledge of the others, by which the freight is to go in extinguishment of a demand of the shipper against the owners with whom the contract was made,[33] but ordinarily all the owners are liable for a wrongful conversion of cargo.[34] Where two steamboat companies so conduct themselves with respect to the general public as to induce a shipper acting with reasonable caution to believe that they have formed a combination in the nature of a partnership they are jointly liable for loss of cargo;[35] and this rule also applies where certain shippers and owners of boats form an association for the transportation of goods[36]

In the absence of statute or contract providing otherwise, the liabilities of connecting carriers are several and each is liable only for safe carriage on its own line.[37] A through carrier transshipping cargo on another's ship is liable for loss of, or damage to, the cargo thereon as though it had owned the ship,[38] but an intermediate carrier is not liable for loss occurring on a vessel of a connecting line.[39] Where a connecting carrier is an agent of the principal carrier and is paid by him, rather than an independent carrier sharing in the freight charge, the principal carrier is liable for the loss of, or injury to, goods while in the connecting carrier's custody.[40]

Vessel. As a general rule, whenever the owners of a ship are liable for injury to her cargo, the ship is also liable in rem[41] The vessel is liable in rem for loss of, or injury to, cargo resulting from the unseaworthiness or unfitness of the vessel,[42] improper stowage of the cargo,[43] or the violation of the conditions of a bill of lading binding on the vessel[44] It has been held that the vessel carrying the cargo is not liable where the loss is due to the fault of another vessel,[45] but the contrary has also been held on the theory that the carrier is liable as an insurer.[46] A vessel may be proceeded against, it has been held, although the injury or loss occurs at a landing[47] A vessel receiving goods from a connecting carrier under a through bill of lading, and delivering a part of the goods, and demanding freight, may be sued primarily for goods lost by her.[48]

Agent of carrier. One who operates a vessel as agent for the owners thereof is not liable to a shipper for breach of a contract of carriage made by the shipper with the owners.[49] In accordance with the general rule discussed in Agency § 248, where the agency was not disclosed, the shipper may hold

33. Ala.—Jones v. Sims, 9 Port 236, 33 Am D 313

34. U.S.—Taylor v. Brigham, C C Ga., 23 F Cas No 13,781, 3 Woods 377.

35. U.S.—Sun Mut. Ins. Co v. Kountz Line, La., 7 S Ct 1278, 122 U S 583, 30 L Ed. 1137.

36. N.Y.—Slocum v. Fairchild, 7 Hill 292
58 C J. p 469 note 7.

37. U S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Standard Commercial Tobacco Co, C C A La, 65 F 2d 715.

38. Mass.—Philadelphia Tapestry Mills v. New England SS Co, 146 N E 777, 251 Mass 270.
58 C.J. p 469 note 8.

39. U S.—Pacific SS Co v. Washington, C C A Wash, 284 F. 712.

40. U S.—Fyfe v Pan-Atlantic S. S Corp, C C A N Y, 114 F 2d 72, certiorari denied Pan Atlantic S. S Corp. v Fyfe, 61 S Ct. 319, 311 U S. 711, 85 L Ed 462.

41. U S.—The T. A. Goddard, D.C N Y., 12 F 174
58 C.J. p 469 note 10

42. U.S.—The Mary M, D C.N.Y, 73 F.Supp. 674—Pioneer Import Corp v The Lafcomo, D.C N.Y, 49 F Supp 559, affirmed, C C A, 138 F 2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp, 64 S Ct. 523, 321 U S 766, 88 L Ed. 1063

43. U.S.—Pioneer Import Corp v The Lafcomo, D C N Y, 49 F.Supp 559, affirmed, C C A, 138 F 2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v Pioneer Import Corp, 64 S Ct. 523, 321 U S. 766, 88 L Ed 1063.

44. U.S.—Eastern SS. Co v 170,040⅝ Bushels of Wheat, etc, D. D N Y., 1 F 2d 558, affirmed, C C A, Pioneer S S. Co v 92,680 Bushels of Wheat, 11 F 2d 1015

45. U.S.—The Mary M, D C N.Y., 73 F Supp 674.

46. U S.—The Snap, D.C N J., 28 F. 527.
58 C J. p 469 note 11.

47. U S.—Bennitt v. The Guiding Star, D.C.Ohio 53 F 936, affirmed 62 F. 407, 10 C C A. 454.
58 C J. p 469 note 13

48. U S.—Maxwell v. The Powell, C. C.La., 16 F.Cas No 9,324, 1 Woods 99.

49. U S.—Mallory SS. Co. v. Garfield, C C A N.Y., 10 F.2d 664, certiorari denied 47 S Ct. 97, 273 U.S 703, 71 L Ed. 848—Epstein v. U. S., D.C N. Y, 86 F Supp. 740.

Berth agent

Where vessel which carried goods allegedly damaged in transit was owned by the United States and operated by War Shipping Administration, a navigation company which was the berth agent for such administration would not be liable for such damage.—Jensen v. Matson Nav. Co, D.C Hawaii, 71 F Supp. 939

Forwarding agent

(1) Express company which handled details of shipment, procured overseas transportation by carrier, and paid all charges therefor, and which received reimbursement from owner of cargo and payment of fee for its services, was not carrier but was merely forwarding agent and, as such, was liable only for its own negligence.—J C. Penney Co. v. American Exp Co, D.C N.Y., 102 F.Supp 742.

(2) The fact that express company which had been forwarding agent of owner of cargo on previous shipment had suggested that owner modify its letter of credit to allow express company to issue its own bill of lading and to prescribe different route for shipment did not make express company carrier and impose liability for negligence in connection with water damage to cargo while at sea, notwithstanding fact that express company had more authority and discretion on second shipment than on first.—J. C. Penney Co. v. American Exp. Co., supra.

either the principal or the agent on the contract, but he cannot sue both jointly.[50] One who operates a vessel as agent for the owner may be liable in tort for loss of, and damages negligently caused to, such cargo,[51] without prejudice, however, to his rights against the owner of the vessel;[52] and the fact that he operates for an undisclosed principal does not relieve him from such liability.[53] An agent who is primarily liable for a loss caused by his transshipping the goods on a wrong vessel may be interpleaded in a suit against the carrier for such loss.[54]

Broker who acts in good faith in loading a ship is not liable over to the owner of the vessel for damages recovered by the cargo owner from the vessel owner for delay in shipment, merely because the broker knew that the goods could not be transported from that particular port.[55]

Tug and tow. A tug and tow which are in the same ownership and are operated as a unit are to be regarded as one vessel.[56] A tug and tow are not jointly liable for injury to cargo caused by the negligence of the tug.[57] Where the one making the contract of carriage with the cargo owner employs a tug and tow to transport the goods, he is liable for injury to the goods caused by either the tug or the tow.[58]

Carrier, lighterage company, or stevedore. A steamboat company and a lighterage company are jointly liable for loss of cargo caused by the negligence of the lighterage company in assisting the steamboat company, on its request, in transshipping goods,[59] and where both contribute to the loss, but it is impossible to determine how much of the damage each contributed, it has been held that they may be required to share the loss between them,[60] but it has also been held that, where the capsizing of a vessel and the consequent injury to the cargo are due both to the unseaworthiness of the vessel and its improper loading, the carrier and the loader are jointly and severally liable to the owner of the cargo, and neither may recover anything from the other.[61]

Where goods are delivered at the vessel's dock for shipment, and it is thereafter found necessary to transport the goods to the steamer on a lighter, and they are damaged by the sinking of the lighter before reaching the steamer, the steamer is liable for the loss;[62] but where the agent of a steamship company, to facilitate unloading, employs a lighter without covers and agrees on behalf of the steamship company to furnish the covers, which he fails to do, resulting in injury to the cargo because of rain, the lighter is not liable in rem for the damage,[63] but the agent is primarily liable[64] and the steamship company secondarily liable.[65] A company issuing a through bill of lading is liable as common carrier for loss or injury caused in lightering the cargo from one vessel to another.[66]

A stevedore is liable for loss or damage caused by his negligence in loading or unloading a vessel,[67]

50. U S —Accinanto, Limited v Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D.C.Md., 99 F Supp. 261.

Management agent of carrier who has entered into no contract of carriage for an undisclosed principal is not liable for damage to the goods carried —Alabama Sawmill Co v. N V. Gebr. Van Uden's Scheepvaart En-Agentuur Mij, D.C.La., 37 F Supp 897.

Disclosure of principal held sufficient
U S —Accinanto, Limited v Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D C Md, 99 F Supp. 261—Jensen v. Matson Nav. Co., D.C Hawaii, 71 F.Supp 939.

51. U.S.—Fiorita v Cunard SS. Co., D C N Y, 10 F 2d 244.
Philippine.—Behn v. McMicking, 11 Philippine 276.

52. Philippine —Behn v McMicking, supra.

53. U S —Fiorita v. Cunard SS. Co., D C.N.Y., 10 F 2d 244

54. U.S.—Blumenthal v. U. S, C C A N.Y., 30 F 2d 247, certiorari denied Admiral-Oriental Line v. U. S., 49 S Ct. 345, 279 U.S 847, 63 L Ed 991.

55. U S —U S. v Middleton, C C.A S C, 3 F 2d 384, certiorari denied 45 S Ct 463, 267 U S 603, 69 L Ed 809.
58 C J. p 470 note 19

56. U S —Oceanic Fisheries v The John Michael, D C Wash, 97 F. Supp 305.

Tank cleaners as part of vessel
In determining whether tank cleaners on barge were part of vessel as a unit, test was whether they were necessary to accomplishment of the particular voyage, where powerless barge hauling fish oil was being towed by tug at time barge sank, and two tank cleaning devices aboard tug were being carried solely to clean fish oil out of tanks of barge at end of voyage so that barge might be used for other cargo, tank cleaners were not necessary to accomplishment of particular voyage, and, hence, were not subject to libel by owner of cargo against vessel, and her tackle, apparel, furniture and equipment.—Oceanic Fisheries v. The John Michael, supra.

57. U S —The Raleigh, D.C Md., 50 F Supp 961.

58. U S —The Alberta M, D C.N Y., 60 F 2d 154.

59. U.S.—Smith v. Booth, N Y., 122 F 626, 58 C C A 479

60. U.S —Sanbern v. Panama R. Co, N.Y, 205 F. 348, 123 C C A 423.

61. U S —The S C L No 9, D C.Pa, 37 F Supp 386, affirmed, C C A., 114 F.2d 964

62. U S.—Petersburg, etc., Steamboat Line v Norfolk-Virginia Peanut Co, Va, 172 F. 321, 96 C.C A. 383, 24 L R A,N.S, 569.

63. U S.—The Seven Brothers No 1, N.Y, 203 F. 21, 121 C.C.A. 385.

64. U S.—The Seven Brothers No. 1, supra.

65. U S —The Seven Brothers No. 1, supra.

66. U S.—Colton v New York, etc., Mail SS. Co., C.C A N Y., 27 F.2d 671.

67. U S.—The O'Leary, D C Pa, 74 F.Supp. 313
58 C J p 470 note 28.

or in overloading it,[68] unless the loss or damage is due to an intervening agency.[69] Where the loss was due to the negligence of both the stevedore and the lighter, both are liable.[70] The owner of a lighter chartered by the owner of the goods for transporting them from a ship is secondarily liable for their loss by the capsizing of the lighter because of overloading by the stevedore, where the lighter captain does not object to further loading when it is plain that the lighter is overloaded and listing.[71] Where a barge negligently permitted itself to be towed when improperly loaded, it was held that it could recover from the loader only for half of the damage to the cargo.[72]

Seamen A seaman is not responsible to a cargo owner for the seaworthiness of the ship[73] or for losses to cargo occurring in the loading, stowage, or unloading thereof;[74] but he is liable for articles stolen by him,[75] and it has been held that if any part of the cargo has been stolen, all the seamen must contribute to make it good, unless the guilt can be placed on particular persons.[76]

Construction company working on a dam was held not liable for loss of cargo due to the sinking of a vessel, caused by its opening of the gates of the dam on the orders of the canal superintendent which it was bound to obey.[77]

An independent contractor engaged in the repair of the vessel is not liable for fire or other damage to cargo, unless such damage was proximately caused by his negligence or fault.[78]

§ 153. —— Pleading

a. Declaration, complaint, or libel
b Plea or answer
c. Issues, proof, and variance

a. Declaration, Complaint, or Libel

General rules as to declarations, complaints, and libels, particularly in actions against carriers generally for loss of, or injury to, goods, and in so far as applicable the rules relating to libels in admiralty, apply to the declaration, complaint, or libel in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo.

The general rules relating to declarations, complaints, or petitions, particularly in actions against carriers in general for loss of, or injury to, goods, as discussed in Carriers § 251, and in so far as applicable the rules relating to libels in admiralty, as discussed in Admiralty § 119, apply to the declaration, complaint, or libel in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, goods, with respect to the character and sufficiency of the averments, to state a cause of action,[79] such as with regard to anticipating or negativing matters of defense,[80] the joinder and misjoinder of counts,[81] and as to the propriety and sufficiency of amendments.[82] A libel in personam must show a breach

Failure to take affirmative action
A stevedoring company will be liable if it loads a barge under circumstances which it knows, or should know, will place barge in a perilous position unless affirmative action is taken to eliminate the peril, and company, knowing or having reason to know that no one else will take such action, fails to take such action itself —The O'Leary, supra.

68. U.S —The Frederick W Starr No 25, D.C.N.Y, 41 F 2d 528.
58 C J p 470 note 29.

69. U S —The Frederick W Starr No 25, supra
58 C J p 470 note 30

70. U S —The Teno, C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 197.

71. U S —The Evelyn, C.C.A.N.Y., 282 F 250.

72. U.S.—O'Donnell Transp Co. v Tidewater Iron & Steel Co, D C N J., 90 F.Supp 953, affirmed, C A., 185 F.2d 675

73. U S —The Owego, D C La., 292 F. 505.

74. U.S —The Owego, supra.

75. U S.—Frederick v. The Fanny, D C.S C., 9 F.Cas No 5,077, Bee 262

76. U.S —Frederick v. The Fanny, supra.

77. U S —The J B Austin, Jr, D C. N Y., 33 F 2d 215.

78. U.S —Rockwood & Co. v. American President Lines, D C N J, 68 F Supp. 224.

79. U S —Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co v. Colombian S S Co, C C.A.Canal Zone, 88 F 2d 392
58 C J. p 472 note 88.

Shipments under separate bills of lading
Complaint for breach of contracts of carriage alleging shipments under separate bills of lading should separately state and number each cause of action on separate bills —Leveille v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, 244 N.Y.S 112, 137 Misc. 873.

Libel held sufficient
U.S —Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co v. Colombian S S Co, C C A.Canal Zone, 88 F 2d 392
58 C J p 472 note 88 [a].

80. U.S —Olavarria & Co. v. International Transp Corp., D C N.Y., 62 F Supp. 94.
58 C J p 473 note 89.

Circumstances which might exculpate carrier need not be anticipated and negatived —Olavarria & Co. v International Transp. Corp, supra.

Exceptions from liability contained in bill of lading need not be negatived —Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co v. Colombian S S Co, C.C.A Canal Zone, 88 F 2d 392—Spreckles Sugar Co v. South Atlantic S S Line, D.C. Ga., 49 F Supp. 714.

81. Mich —The Milwaukie v. Hale, 1 Dougl. 306.

82. Ga.—Strachan Shipping Co. v. Hazlip-Hood Cotton Co., 131 S E. 283, 161 Ga. 480, answers to certified questions conformed to 132 S. E 454, 35 Ga.App 94.
58 C.J. p 473 note 91.

Claim barred by limitations
(1) Libelants suing as owners of cargo damaged by lightering could not amend libel to allege that they were notify parties named in bill of lading and that they brought suit as owners or as agents for owner of bill of lading, where claim of owners was barred by limitation, as against contention that limitation could still be pleaded by amended answer, since libel, as amended, would date back to original filing —The Bowling Green, D.C N.Y., 6 F Supp. 924.

(2) Amendment of libel would not be allowed on ground that respondents had full knowledge of claim and that hence no hardship would be imposed by granting amendment, where owners' claim for cargo damages was of a duty owed the libelant by the person sued.[83]

In a suit in rem it is not necessary to charge defendant as a common carrier,[84] but it may be necessary where the suit is in personam.[85] It has been held that a libel which alleges a contract to carry specified goods, the delivery of goods to a vessel, and a failure of the carrier to deliver all or some of the goods to the consignee or the shipper states a cause of action,[86] without alleging that respondent was a common carrier,[87] or that it was negligent,[88] or that the failure to deliver the goods did not come within the lawful exceptions of the contract.[89] In a tort action, contractual relations are stated by way of inducement only.[90] Averments of deviation and unseaworthiness as grounds for recovery are not so inconsistent as to require claimant to elect on which he will proceed.[91]

Right to sue Where the suit is brought by one other than the real owner, the right to sue must be alleged.[92] A libel by the shipper "for the benefit of all persons who may be or may become interested" may be sufficient to permit one who acquired any rights in the cargo while it was cargo or as assignee of the bills of lading to maintain the action.[93] A statutory provision requiring an assignee of a chose in action to state by a sworn pleading or affidavit that he is the owner and how he acquired title does not apply in a suit by a shipper who is the owner.[94]

Compliance with conditions precedent Where the suit is based on the contract of carriage embodied in the bill of lading, which is attached to the libel, libelant must allege compliance with any provision therein which is a condition precedent to recovery,[95] such as the giving of notice of the claim, or some excuse for failure to give it,[96] or he must allege a waiver of such condition.[97] Even though plaintiff sues in tort, if defendant sets up the terms of the bill of lading as a defense, plaintiff must allege compliance with conditions or an excuse for failure to do so.[98]

Pleading bill of lading. A libel for failure properly to transport the goods need not make the bill of lading a part of the libel, where libelant does not rely on such bill,[99] but a libel is insufficient where its allegations are negatived by the annexed bill of lading.[1]

Damage. The cause of the damage, as claimed by plaintiff, should be alleged,[2] and also the nature and extent thereof;[3] but a libel for damage to cargo need not contain an itemized statement of the damages,[4] as this is a matter of subsequent proof.[5] barred by limitation—The Bowling Green, supra.

Change in burden of proof

Libel alleging that respondents took possession of cargo and caused it to be loaded on lighter and by reason of faults specified damage ensued could not be amended to allege that respondents employed lighterage corporation to transport cargo which was damaged and that respondents were liable as bailees, since amendment sought to relieve libelants of burden of proof initially assumed without furnishing reason therefor—The Bowling Green, supra

83. U.S.—Olavarria & Co v. International Transp. Corp., D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 94.

84. U.S.—Seller v. The Pacific, D.C., 21 F.Cas.No.12,644, Deady 17, 1 Or 409.

85. U.S.—Seller v. The Pacific, supra

86. U.S.—Eccles v. Strachan Shipping Co., D.C.Ga., 21 F.2d 653—Olavarria & Co. v. International Transp. Corp, D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 94

87. U.S.—Olavarria & Co v. International Transp. Corp, supra.
58 C.J. p 473 note 95

88. U.S.—The Mar Mediterraneo, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.2d 459.
58 C.J. p 473 note 96.

Bill of lading limiting liability to negligence

Holder of bill of lading, stipulating shipowner should not be liable for any damage unless it was shown to have been caused by shipowner's negligence, could plead good cause of action for damage to cargo without affirmatively alleging that damage was due to carrier's negligence—S. A. Gerrard Co of New York v. Prince Line, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp 123.

89. U.S.—Eccles v Strachan Shipping Co, D.C.Ga., 21 F.2d 653

90. U.S.—The Pacific Spruce, D.C. Wash., 1 F.Supp. 593

91. U.S.—The Pelotas, D.C.La., 43 F. 2d 571, affirmed, C.C.A., 66 F.2d 75.

92. U.S.—Aunt Jemima Mills Co. v. Lloyd Royal Belge, C.C.A.N.Y., 34 F.2d 120
58 C.J. p 473 note 99.

93. U.S.—Firestone Plantations Co. v. Pan Atlantic S.S. Corp, D.C.N.Y., 77 F.Supp. 401.

94. Ill.—Delta Bag Co. v. Leyland, 173 Ill.App. 38

95. U.S.—The General G. W. Goethals, D.C.N.Y., 298 F. 933, affirmed, C.C.A., 298 F. 935, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 94, 266 U.S. 610, 69 L.Ed. 466.
58 C.J. p 473 note 3.

96. U.S.—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Munson SS. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 22 F.2d 898, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 433, 277 U.S. 586, 72 L.Ed. 1000—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, D.C.N.Y., 3 F.Supp. 1014.

97. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, supra—The Sagadahoc, D.C.Wash., 291 F. 920.

98. U.S.—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Munson SS. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 22 F.2d 898, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 433, 277 U.S. 586, 72 L.Ed. 1000.

99. U.S.—The Southern Cross, D.C. N.Y., 6 F.Supp. 436.
58 C.J. p 473 note 7.

1. U.S.—Olavarria & Co. v. International Transp. Corp., D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 94—The Peter Helms, D.C.Wash., 24 F.Supp. 461

2. U.S.—Smith, Kirkpatrick & Co. v. Colombian S.S. Co., C.C.A.Canal Zone, 88 F.2d 392.
58 C.J. p 473 note 8.

3. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, D.C.N.Y., 3 F.Supp. 1014.
58 C.J. p 473 note 9.

4. U.S.—The Fort Gaines, D.C.Md., 21 F.2d 865

5. U.S.—The Fort Gaines, supra.

b. Plea or Answer

General rules apply with respect to the plea or answer in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo.

General rules as to plea or answer, particularly in actions against carriers in general for loss of, or injury to, goods, as discussed in Carriers § 252, apply with respect to the plea or answer in an action for loss of, or injury to, cargo,[6] such as with regard to the necessity and sufficiency of pleading special defenses,[7] and as to their being waived if they are not so pleaded.[8] Such rules also apply with respect to an amendment of the plea or answer.[9]

Exceptions from, or limitation of, liability. Exceptions or limitations by statute or contract exempting the carrier from liability or limiting its liability are matters of defense to be alleged in the answer.[10] An allegation in the answer that the damage was caused by dangers of the seas, which were excepted in the bill of lading, ordinarily must state the facts relied on to bring the case within such exception.[11] Where the defense is based on exceptions from liability under the terms of the contract of affreightment, defendant is not required to allege whether or not the cargo was damaged.[12]

c. Issues, Proof, and Variance

General rules as to issues, proof, and variance apply in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo.

The general rules as to issues, proof, and variance apply in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo with respect to the issues or theory of the action,[13] the matters to be proved,[14] matters admitted in the pleadings,[15] and the conformity of the pleadings and proof.[16] In accordance with such rules defendant cannot prove a matter of special defense which has not been specially pleaded.[17] An allegation of stowing, handling, and carrying the goods in a grossly careless and negligent manner is prima facie sufficient to admit proof of injury by crushing.[18] Where the defense of inherent vice in the goods is raised, it brings into issue the good condition of the goods when shipped,[19] but the good condition of the goods on delivery to the carrier need not be proved where it is established that the damage was caused by the carrier,[20] and the good internal order of the goods on delivery to the carrier need not be proved where the external covering of the goods was so damaged when they were delivered at their destination as to account for the injury to the contents.[21]

6. U S —Givaudan Delawanna, Inc v. The Blijdendijk, D C N.Y, 91 F Supp. 663.
58 C J p 474 note 14

Carrier acting as forwarding agent

Where initial carriers, under terms of original transshipment bills of lading, were to act as shipper's forwarding agents for transportation of cargo, and were liable for damage occurring only while cargo was in their possession, and libelant seeking to recover for damages to cargo did not allege that carriers were negligent in contracting with another carrier and should therefore be held primarily liable, initial carriers had no grounds for filing an impleading petition contending that they should be indemnified in event it should be held on trial that they were primarily liable to libelant for damage caused by the other carrier —Armand Schmoll, Inc., v. Oceanic S. S Co, D C N Y, 42 F. Supp 759.

7. U S —Canadian Co-op. Wheat Producers v Murphy & Hoffman, D.C N.Y, 52 F 2d 496
58 C J. p 474 note 15

Negligence of ship

Defense that loss was attributable to negligence of ship for which owner was not liable was held too general as against exceptions —Canadian Co-op Wheat Producers v Mathews, S S. Co, D.C N Y., 52 F 2d 495.

Failure to sue within time limited in bill of lading

N.Y —Jones v Cunard S S. Co, 263 N Y S 769, 238 App Div 172—David Coleman, Inc, v American-Hawaiian S. S. Co., 289 N.Y.S. 836, 160 Misc 211
58 C J p 474 note 16

Plea held sufficient

U S —Canadian Co-op Wheat Producers v. Murphy & Hoffman, D C N Y, 52 F 2d 496.

8. U S —Rosenberg v Atlantic Transport Co, D C Cal, 25 F 2d 739, affirmed, C C A., Atlantic Transport Co. of West Virginia v. Rosenberg Bros & Co, 34 F 2d 843
58 C J p 474 note 17.

9. U.S —McCullough v The Echo, D C N Y, 16 F Cas No 8,740a.
58 C J. p 474 note 18.

10. Puerto Rico —St Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. The Schooner Ernestina, 10 Puerto Rico Fed 478.

11. N.Y —Washington Dean Co. v Nippon Yusen Kaisha, 211 N.Y.S 737, 125 Misc. 855.
58 C J. p 474 note 23

12. U.S.—Canadian Co-op. Wheat Producers v Murphy & Hoffman, D C N.Y, 52 F 2d 496

13. U S —Mallory SS. Co. v. Garfield, C C.A.N Y, 10 F 2d 664, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 97, 273 U S 703, 71 L Ed. 848
58 C J. p 474 note 27.

14. U S —The St Johns N. F', C C A. N.Y, 272 F 673
58 C J. p 474 note 28

15. U S.—The Arakan, D C.Cal., 11 F 2d 791.
58 C J. p 475 note 29.

16. U S —The Maryland, D C N.Y, 19 F Supp. 505
58 C J. p 475 note 30.

17. N Y.—Guiterman v Liverpool, etc., Mail SS. Co, 9 Daly 119
58 C J. p 475 note 31

18. U S.—Wolff v The Vanderland, D C.N.Y, 18 F 733.

19. U.S —The Niel Maersk, C C A.N. Y, 91 F.2d 932, certiorari denied 58 S Ct 281, 302 U S 753, 82 L Ed. 582—General Foods Corp. v. The Troubador, D C N Y, 98 F.Supp 207—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C N Y, 81 F Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C A, 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct 1076, 343 U. S 978, 96 L Ed —.

20. U S.—The Ponce, D C N J., 67 F. Supp. 725, affirmed, C C A, Pompeian Olive Oil Corp v. The Ponce, 160 F 2d 107—The America, D C.N Y., 1 F Cas No 283, 8 Ben 491.

Goods damaged by sea water

U.S.—The Kawsar, D C N.Y, 53 F. Supp 323

21. U S.—The Solveig, D.C Cal., 217 F. 805.

A cargo owner, suing for damages caused by the sinking of an unseaworthy lighter, is not entitled to a decree against the impleaded bailee of the lighter where no contract between them is alleged, and where he is not charged with any fault.[22] Where the contract is to transport by a named steamer "or any other steamer or steamers," a claim for damages for delay in shipment is not sustained by proof that the named steamer's failure to take the entire shipment was due to improper stowage, since there was no obligation to transport the shipment by any particular steamer.[23] Only such damages as are authorized by the pleadings can be recovered.[24] Where plaintiff fails to prove what he received from the sale of the goods damaged by the carrier, his recovery is limited to the cost of reconditioning the goods for the sale.[25] Where the answer admits a stipulation in the bill of lading that under conditions such as exist in the case a provision in the contract should be eliminated, defendant cannot introduce evidence in support of allegations in the answer that such provision exists.[26]

Negligence. Negligence may not be proved unless it is alleged,[27] and it need not be proved where it is alleged and admitted.[28] Where a vessel is properly protected against fire, it is necessary, in an action for damages to cargo by fire, to prove negligence on the part of the officers of the vessel;[29] but in an action for loss of cargo resulting from the stranding of the vessel, the shipper is not required to prove negligence on the part of the master, until evidence is given to show that the injury came within a clause in the bill of lading, excepting the carrier from liability.[30]

Notice of claim. It has been held that, where defendant sets up the terms of the bill of lading, plaintiff must prove notice of loss, or some excuse for failure to give it, as required by the bill of lading,[31] although failure to give such notice is not pleaded as a special defense;[32] but, on the other hand, it has been held that a failure of plaintiff to prove such notice does not bar a recovery, where there is no allegation in the answer that notice had not been given or that the claim had not been filed or that the libel was barred for that reason.[33]

§ 154. —— Presumptions and Burden of Proof

a. Presumptions in general
b. Burden of proof in general
c. Goods damaged or lost while in carrier's possession
d. Loss or damage due to excepted peril
e. Negligence
f. Seaworthiness
g. Particular cause of loss or damage in general
h. Damage by sea water
i. Deviation and delay
j Private carrier
k. Amount of damage
l. Notice of claim; time to sue

a. Presumptions in General

The general rules as to presumptions ordinarily apply in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo.

The general rules as to presumptions in other similar actions ordinarily apply in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo.[34] In the absence of evidence to the contrary, the presumption obtains that the carrier conformed to the requirements of the law in carrying out the contract of affreightment,[35] and that the vessel was one to which the Harter Act might apply.[36]

22. U.S.—Waterbury Co v Sunset Lighterage Corp, C C A N.Y, 25 F 2d 621.

23. U.S.—Israel v U S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, C C A La., 23 F.2d 786.

24. U S —The Aki Maru, Wash, 255 F. 721, 167 C C A 67.
58 C.J. p 494 note 98.

25. U.S.—Weirton Steel Co v. Isbrandtsen-Moller Co., C C.A N.Y., 126 F.2d 593.

26. N.Y —Burnside v. Indra Line, 141 N.Y S. 238, 80 Misc. 414.

27. U.S.—The Maryland, D.C.N.Y., 19 F.Supp. 505.

28. U.S —Fyfe v. Pan-Atlantic S. S. Corp, C C.A N.Y., 114 F 2d 72, certiorari denied Pan-Atlantic S. S. Corp v Fyfe, 61 S Ct. 319, 311 U S. 711, 85 L Ed 462

29. U.S —The Buckeye, C.C Ill, 4 F. Cas No 2,084, 7 Biss 23

30. U S.—The Ocean Wave, D C Wis., 18 F Cas No 10,416, 3 Biss. 317.
58 C J. p 475 note 38.

31. U.S —Cudahy Packing Co. v. Munson SS Line, C C A.N Y., 22 F 2d 898, certiorari denied 48 S Ct 433, 277 U S 586, 72 L Ed. 1000.

32. U S.—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Munson SS. Line, supra.

33. U.S.—Navigazione Libera Triestina v Garcia, etc, Co., C C A Cal., 30 F.2d 62.

34. U S.—The Alpin, D.C.N.Y., 23 F 815
58 C J. p 476 note 46.

Clean oil tanks

Where carrier affirmatively established that its oil tanks were found clean and fit by the shipper's surveyors and accepted by them for loading of shipper's oil cargo, the acceptance of the tanks for loading by the shipper's surveyors was "prima facie evidence" of the cleanness of the tanks. —The Vermont, D C.N Y., 47 F.Supp. 877.

35. U S —Copper River Packing Co. v Alaska SS. Co., C.C.A Cal, 22 F 2d 12.

36. Or—Sevier v. Mitchell, 142 P. 780, 72 Or. 483
Harter Act and other statutes exempting carrier from liability see supra § 126 et seq.

It will be assumed that the master of a vessel knew the local aids to navigation and the storm conditions prevailing when he put to sea.[37]

In the absence of evidence to the contrary, the carrier is presumed to know the manner in which cargo is loaded on his vessel, when he accepts it and issues a bill of lading therefor,[38] and presumably it is so loaded under his direction or that of his representative.[39] It has been held that evidence that a locked room on board ship, in which goods were stowed, was broken open during the night and goods taken therefrom, justifies a presumption that the theft was committed by the carrier's employees.[40] Where the owner has transferred legal title to a vessel to an insolvent relative, it will be presumed that his purpose was to avoid liability for claims arising from the operation of the vessel.[41]

Ownership of goods. A presumption of ownership of the goods in question arises from the production of bills of lading thereof,[42] but this presumption may be explained or rebutted by other evidence showing the real ownership.[43] Similarly, there is a rebuttable presumption that the consignee of the goods is the owner.[44]

Foreign law. The presumptions with respect to the law of a foreign country, as discussed in Evidence § 133, have been applied in actions for the loss of, or damage to, cargo.[45]

b. Burden of Proof in General

In an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, goods, the plaintiff or libelant has the burden of proving the essential elements of his cause of action and the carrier has the burden of proving any matter of affirmative defense relied on by it.

In an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, goods, plaintiff or libelant has the burden of proving the essential elements of his cause of action as alleged in his complaint or libel,[46] such as a contract of carriage.[47] Where plaintiff or libelant has established a prima facie case, the burden is on defendant carrier to prove any matter of affirmative defense relied on by it,[48] such as that it has fully performed its contract.[49] The burden is on the carrier to show an excuse for its refusal to transport a shipment of goods in violation of a special contract.[50] Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1300 et seq, a provision in the bill of lading cannot operate to shift the burden of proof.[51]

Benefit of insurance. Under a provision of a bill of lading giving the carrier, in case of loss or damage to the property for which it is liable, the benefit of "any insurance that may have been effected on or on account of such property," the burden rests on the carrier, when sued for a loss to prove that there was insurance, to the benefit of which it was entitled.[52]

Foreign law. A party who bases his right of action or defense on the law of a foreign country must prove the foreign law.[53]

c. Goods Damaged or Lost While in Carrier's Possession

(1) In general

37. U.S.—The Iowa, D.C.Or., 34 F. Supp. 843.

38. Tex.—Abbott v. Tompkins, Civ. App., 283 S.W. 647.

39. Tex.—Abbott v. Tompkins, supra
58 C.J. p. 483 note 75.

40. N.Y.—Straus v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 234 N.Y.S. 622, 134 Misc. 439

41. U.S.—Gardner v. Dantzler Lumber & Export Co., C.C.A.Fla., 98 F. 2d 478

42. U.S.—The Carlos F. Roses, Fla., 20 S.Ct. 803, 177 U.S. 655, 44 L.Ed. 929—The Cabo Villano, D.C.N.Y., 14 F.2d 978, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 18 F.2d 220.
Nature and effect of bill of lading in general see supra § 111 et seq.

43. U.S.—The Carlos F. Roses, Fla., 20 S.Ct. 803, 177 U.S. 655, 44 L.Ed. 929.

44. U.S.—Hickman, Williams & Co. v. Murray Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 820.

45. U.S.—E. Gerli & Co. v. Cunard S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 115.

46. U.S.—Bashinsky Cotton Co. v. Sunset Lighterage Corp., D.C.N.Y., 272 F. 120, affirmed, C.C.A., 281 F. 1019
58 C.J. p. 476 note 55.
Liability of carrier for loss of, or injury to, cargo in general see supra § 125
Burden of proof in actions against carriers for loss of, or injury to, goods generally see Carriers § 254

47. U.S.—The Evelyn, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 644.

48. U.S.—The Nith, D.C.Or., 36 F. 86, 13 Sawy. 368, affirmed, C.C., 36 F. 383
58 C.J. p. 477 note 63.

49. Mo.—Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323
Philippine.—Keller v. Ellerman, etc., SS. Co., 38 Philippine 514.

50. U.S.—Copper River Packing Co. v. Alaska SS. Co., C.C.A.Cal., 22 F. 2d 12
58 C.J. p. 477 note 66

51. U.S.—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247

52. U.S.—Baker v. New York, etc., R. Co., N.Y., 168 F. 248, 93 C.C.A. 550, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 696, 214 U.S. 514, 53 L.Ed. 1063.
58 C.J. p. 477 note 67

53. U.S.—E. Gerli & Co. v. Cunard S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 115.

British Carriage of Goods by Sea Act

On an application to an American court to refuse to exercise jurisdiction and to permit the dispute to be litigated in Canada, it was held that the fact that the bill of lading incorporated the British Carriage of Goods by Sea Act was not a special circumstance, since the English law would have to be proved by the vessel whether the action was tried in an American or a Canadian court.—The Canadian Commander, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.2d 857.

(2) Goods not delivered or lost in general
(3) Delivery of goods to carrier in good condition

(1) In General

Proof that the goods were damaged while in the possession of a common carrier by water puts the burden on the carrier to exculpate itself.

Proof that the goods were damaged while in a common carrier's possession, or that when delivered to the carrier by water, the goods were in good condition and were damaged when delivered to their destination, raises presumptions that the carrier was negligent and that the vessel was unseaworthy, as discussed infra subdivisions e and f of this section, and the burden is then on the carrier to exculpate itself[54] and to prove that it was not negligent or that the damage resulted from a peril or cause from which it was relieved of liability by statute or valid contract.[55] Where the carrier discharges this burden, the plaintiff must come forward with proof establishing the carrier's liability.[56] So where, in an action to recover for the loss of cargo, occasioned by leakage caused by excessive heat, the carrier shows that the cargo was stored in the proper and coolest part of the ship, the burden is on the shipper to show either that the place of storage was not suitable, or not the most suitable place on the ship.[57]

The burden is on plaintiff or libelant to prove that the goods were lost or damaged while in the carrier's possession,[58] or that the goods were in good condition when delivered to the vessel, as discussed infra subdivision c (3) of this section, and that they were damaged when delivered at their destination.[59]

Received in good order by consignee. Where the goods, on delivery to the consignee, are receipted for by him as being in good order, such receipt repels any presumption that damage to the goods was caused by any fault of the carrier[60] and is prima facie evidence of the good order of the goods at the time of such delivery.[61]

(2) Goods Not Delivered or Lost in General

In a suit for nondelivery of goods the burden of proof on the issue of the carrier's liability is on the plaintiff or libelant, but proof of the delivery of the goods to the carrier and of the nondelivery of the goods at their destination puts the burden on the carrier to go forward with the evidence to exonerate itself from liability.

In a suit for nondelivery of goods the burden of proof on the issue of the carrier's liability is on plaintiff or libelant,[62] such as in case of loss during transit, to prove that defendant had failed to carry the goods and deliver them to the consignee.[63] However, proof of the delivery of the goods to the carrier and of the nondelivery of the goods at their destination puts the burden on the carrier to go forward with evidence[64] to show that a delivery has been made in accordance with the terms of the contract for carriage,[65] or to explain or excuse the disappearance of the goods or failure to deliver them,[66] as that it was occasioned by something for

54. Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App. Supp. 775
Burden of proof and presumptions in case of private carrier see infra subdivision j of this section.
Rule of primary liability
The question as to the burden of proof in such a case is not one of pleading, but of primary liability which the carrier must meet according to the tenor of his contract.—The Medea, Cal., 179 F. 781, 103 C.C.A. 273.
Damage caused by another
When it appears that cargo was in good condition when loaded on vessel, responsibility rests on owner of vessel to establish that any damage to cargo was caused by another.—Cargo Carriers v. Brown S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 95 F.Supp. 288.

55. U.S.—General Foods Corp. v. The Troubador, D.C.N.Y., 98 F.Supp. 207—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U.S. 978, 96 L.Ed. ——.—E. S. Ullmann-Allied Co. v. The George E. Pickett, D.C.N.Y., 77 F.Supp. 988—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898.
Or.—Carroll v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., 279 P. 861, 130 Or. 294
Burden of proof that loss or damage was due to excepted cause or peril see infra subdivision d of this section.

56. N.Y.—Lambert v. Benner, 31 N.Y.Super. 665.

57. N.Y.—Lambert v. Benner, supra

58. U.S.—The Dondo, D.C.N.Y., 287 F. 239.
58 C.J. p. 479 note 5, p. 476 note 56.
Burden of proof as to amount of damage see infra subdivision k of this section.

59. U.S.—The Ponce, D.C.N.J., 67 F. Supp. 725, affirmed, C.C.A., Pompeian Olive Oil Corp. v. The Ponce, 160 F.2d 107—The Vincenzo T., D.C.N.Y., 28 F.Cas.No.16,948, 10 Ben. 228.

60. Ga.—Ocean S.S. Co. v. McAlpin, 69 Ga. 437.
Failure to give notice of damage or loss as raising presumption of good delivery by carrier see infra subdivision l of this section.

61. Ga.—Ocean S.S. Co. v. McAlpin, supra.

62. U.S.—In re Companhia de Navegacao Lloyd Brasileiro, D.C.La., 7 F.2d 238—The Falcon, C.C.N.Y., 8 F.Cas.No.4,617, 3 Blatchf. 64, appeal dismissed 17 How. 19, 15 L.Ed. 43.

63. Ark.—Tri-State Packet Co. v. G. R. Brickey Mercantile Co., 235 S.W. 40, 150 Ark. 657

64. U.S.—In re Companhia de Navegacao Lloyd Brasileiro, D.C.La., 7 F.2d 238.
Delivery of goods to carrier and nondelivery at destination as establishing prima facie case of carrier's liability see infra § 156

65. U.S.—The Falcon, C.C.N.Y., 8 F.Cas.No.4,617, 3 Blatchf. 64, appeal dismissed 17 How. 19, 15 L.Ed. 43
58 C.J. p. 478 note 84.

66. U.S.—Krebs, Pigment & Chemical Co. v. Sheridan, D.C.Pa., 12 F.Supp. 254, affirmed, C.C.A., 79 F.2d 479
58 C.J. p. 478 note 85.

which the carrier was not responsible,[67] or that the loss was due to a cause or peril from which the carrier was excepted from liability by statute or the contract of carriage, as discussed infra subdivision d of this section.

Deficiency in quantity. Plaintiff has the burden of proving that the cargo was short when it was discharged from the ship,[68] and the amount of the shortage.[69] Bills of lading are prima facie evidence that the quantities named therein were received by the carrier,[70] and are prima facie evidence of the weight of the goods,[71] but the presumption arising from such bill of lading is rebuttable,[72] and the burden is on the carrier to prove that it delivered all that it received,[73] and that the shipment was short of the quantity stated in the bill of lading,[74] or to explain or account for the discrepancy in quantity.[75] Where a bill recites that the weight and quantity are unknown, the burden rests on the shipper to show their weight, when received, in order to hold the last carrier liable for a claimed short weight in the quantity delivered.[76]

Where it is shown that goods, when delivered to the consignee by a vessel which was the last of several carriers, were deficient in quantity, the presumption is that the missing goods were delivered to such vessel.[77] It has been held that, where the contract of carriage exempts the carrier from liability for shortage and shrinkage, the burden is on the carrier to show that the shortage or shrinkage was not due to its negligence.[78]

Presumption as to time of loss. Merchandise delivered to a vessel for shipment, but which cannot be found at the time of unloading at its destination, will be presumed to have been lost before that time,[79] and will not be presumed to have been lost because of its being carried beyond its destination, contrary to the purpose of the shipment[80] so as to constitute a deviation, precluding the vessel from setting up bill of lading provisions limiting liability.[81]

(3) Delivery of Goods to Carrier in Good Condition

The burden is on the plaintiff or libelant to prove that the goods were in good condition when delivered to the carrier, but a bill of lading which receipts for the goods as shipped in apparent good order and condition raises a rebuttable presumption that the goods were in good order and condition at the time of shipment, so far as visible.

The burden is on plaintiff or libelant to prove that the goods were in good condition[82] or were

Burden of proof as to cause of damage or loss generally see infra subdivision g of this section

Existence of lawful excuse

Where evidence showed that ship was "loaded by a carrier" within meaning of Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, carrier had heavy burden of establishing the existence of a lawful excuse for its failure to deliver goods in the quantities stated in the bills of lading—American Trading Co. v The Harry Culbreath, C.A.N.Y., 187 F.2d 310.

67. U S—Eccles v Strachan Shipping Co, D C Ga, 21 F 2d 653.
58 C J p 478 note 86

68. U S—George F Pettinos, Inc, v American Export Lines, D C Pa, 68 F Supp 759, affirmed, C C A, 159 F 2d 247
Burden of proving goods were damaged while in carrier's possession see supra subdivision c (1) of this section.

69. U S—George F Pettinos, Inc v. American Export Lines, supra
Burden of proof as to amount of damage generally see infra subdivision g of this section.

70. U S.—The Lady Franklin, Ill, 8 Wall 325, 19 L Ed 455
58 C J. p 365 note 9.

71. U.S—George F. Pettinos, Inc, v. American Export Lines, D C.Pa, 68 F Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C A., 159 F.2d 247.

Particulars declared by shipper

The fact that the bill of lading states that the particulars stated in the bill as to the weight and description of the goods were furnished by the shipper does not prevent the bill from being prima facie evidence as to such matters.—George F Pettinos, Inc, v. American Export Lines, supra

72. U S—The John Twohy, C.C A Pa, 279 F 343
58 C J p 478 note 89 [a].

73. U S.—The Ghazee, N.Y, 172 F. 368, 97 C C.A 66
58 C J. p 478 note 89.

74. U S—Scott v. Grace, C C.A N. Y., 275 F 340
58 C J p 478 note 90, p 366 note 10

75. U S—Scott v Grace, supra
58 C.J p 478 note 91.

76. U S—The Seneca, N Y., 172 F 370, 97 C C.A. 68.

77. U S—The Ghazee, N Y, 172 F 368, 97 C.C.A 66.

78. U S—Inland Waterways Corporation v Hallet & Carey Co, C C A Minn., 52 F 2d 13.
Burden of proof as to negligence where loss or damage is within excepted peril or cause generally see infra subdivision e of this section

79. U.S—Sheldon v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft, C C A N.J., 28 F.2d 249.

80. U.S—Sheldon v Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft, supra

81. U S—Sheldon v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien-Gesellschaft, supra
Burden of proof as to deviation see infra subdivision i of this section

82. U.S—Warner Barnes & Co v. Kokosai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A N Y, 102 F 2d 450, modified on other grounds 103 F 2d 430—Albers Bros Milling Co v. Hauptman, C C A.Cal, 95 F 2d 286—The Niel Maersk, C C.A N.Y, 91 F 2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v The Niel Maersk, 58 S Ct 281, 302 U S. 753, 82 L Ed 582—The Goyaz, C C A N Y, 3 F 2d 553, certiorari denied 45 S Ct. 230, 267 U S 594, 69 L Ed 804—Thomas Roberts & Co v. Calmar S S Corp, D C Pa, 59 F.Supp 203—New England Newspaper Pub. Co. v U. S, D C Mass, 18 F Supp. 674—J. Lichtman & Sons v. Dollar S S Line, D C N Y, 13 F Supp 717, affirmed, C.C.A., 91 F 2d 1015
58 C J. p 477 note 76.

Condemned goods

This rule applies where libelant seeks to recover for merchandise condemned and removed by the board of health.—The Ellerdale, C C.A.N Y, 10 F 2d 53, certiorari denied 46 S Ct. 631, 271 U S. 681, 70 L.Ed 1148.

free of the damage complained of[83] when delivered to the carrier A "clean" bill of lading or one which receipts for the goods as shipped in apparent good order and condition raises a presumption or is prima facie evidence that they were in good order and condition at the time of shipment, so far as visible,[84] but, in the absence of facts creating an estoppel, as discussed supra § 113, it is only prima facie evidence,[85] and the presumption may be rebutted;[86] but the burden is on the carrier to show to the contrary, that they were not in good order or condition when received by it,[87] or were not properly packed[88]

The presumption or admission warranted by a bill of lading which recites that the goods were in apparent good order and condition is limited to conditions visible to the eye and such bill of lading does not raise a presumption as to defects which could have existed without being externally evidenced,[89] and, where the damage is of a kind that could have been caused by unobservable defects in the goods at the time of their receipt by the carrier, the burden is on plaintiff to show that the goods were in good condition at that time and he is not aided by the fact that the bill of lading recites receipt in apparent good order and condition.[90] Proof that the goods were in good condition some time prior to their delivery to the carrier has been held not to warrant a presumption that they were in good condition when delivered, in the absence of evidence as to the care of the goods in the interim.[91] Where goods are accepted by a connecting carrier as in good order, the connecting carrier has the burden of

Absence of proof that goods were defective

In libel for damage to shipment of canned beets, where, on discharge, cases were found mouldy, cans were rusted, and labels soiled because of excess moisture in wood of cases, absence of proof that moisture was present at time of shipment did not authorize conclusion that moisture got into wood during voyage —Thomas Roberts & Co. v Calmar S S Corp., D C Pa, 59 F Supp. 203

83. U S —McNeely & Price Co v. The Exchequer, D C.Pa., 100 F. Supp. 343

84. U S —Stirnimann v. The San Diego, C C A N.Y, 148 F.2d 141—The Niel Maersk, C.C A N Y, 91 F. 2d 824, certiorari denied Bradley v. The Niel Maersk, 58 S Ct. 281, 302 U S. 753, 82 L Ed. 582—McNeely & Price Co. v The Exchequer, D.C Pa., 100 F.Supp 343—The Ciano, D C.Pa., 69 F.Supp 35—The Ponce D C.N.J, 67 F Supp 725, affirmed, C C.A., Pompeian Olive Oil Corp v The Ponce, 160 F 2d 107—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v Thos & Jno Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.Pa., 65 F Supp 102—The Vizcaya, D C.Pa, 63 F Supp. 898.

58 C J. p 477 note 70.

"Clean" bill of lading defined see supra § 111.

Lax inspection of cargo

The laxity of those whose responsibility it is to examine on ship's behalf the cargo received does not create an inference that goods were damaged when received aboard ship and is not sufficient to relieve vessel of its receipt —McNeely & Price Co v. Ellerman & Bucknall S. S. Co, D C Pa., 100 F.Supp. 339.

As to third persons

The legal presumption which, as between the shipper and master, arises from the bill of lading that the goods were in good condition, cannot affect third persons —Brousseau v The Hudson, 11 La Ann 427.

85. U S —Amerlux Steel Corp v Johnson Line, C C A Cal., 33 F 2d 70—Thomas Roberts & Co. v. Calmar S S Corp., D C Pa., 59 F Supp. 203—The Georgian, D C Fla, 4 F Supp. 718, affirmed, C C A., 76 F. 2d 550.

58 C.J. p 488 note 50 [b].

86. U S —Stirnimann v. The San Diego, C C A N Y., 148 F.2d 141—McNeely & Price Co. v. The Lambrook, D C Pa, 100 F Supp. 345—The Ciano, D C Pa, 69 F.Supp 35—The Vizcaya, D C Pa, 63 F Supp 898—Thomas Roberts & Co. v Calmar Steamship Corp., D.C Pa, 59 F. Supp 203

Action for misrepresentation

Holder in due course for value of bill of lading signed by master of vessel and covering damaged shipment of talc powder had the burden of proving falsity of representation of bill that talc was received in apparent good order and condition in order to hold vessel liable on theory of estoppel for damage resulting from reliance on such representation —The Sophocles, D C N Y., 51 F Supp 953

87. U S —The Ciano, D C Pa., 69 F Supp 35

58 C.J. p 477 note 71.

88. Hawaii —Honolulu Rapid Transit, etc, Co v American-Hawaiian SS. Co, 3 Hawaii Fed. 11.

89. U S —Albers Bros. Milling Co, v. Hauptman, C C A., 95 F 2d 286—The Niel Maersk, C.C A.N.Y, 91 F 2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v. The Niel Maersk, 58 S.Ct. 281, 302 U.S. 753, 82 L Ed. 582—McNeely & Price Co. v The Exchequer, D.C Pa, 100 F.Supp. 343—Jensen v Matson Nav Co, D C Hawaii, 71 F Supp. 939—The Ciano, D C Pa, 69 F Supp. 35

Construction of bill of lading acknowledging receipt of goods in apparent good order and condition see supra § 113.

Condition unknown

Where such a bill of lading further recites "weight and contents" unknown or character or condition unknown, there is no presumption as to the condition of the goods beyond that visible to the eye or apparent from the handling of the cases, bales, or casks in which the goods are shipped —The Erskine M. Phelps, D C Cal, 231 F. 767—58 C J. p 477 note 73.

90. U S.—The Niel Maersk, C C A.N. Y., 91 F 2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v The Niel Maersk, 58 S. Ct 281, 302 U S 753, 82 L.Ed 582—American Finance & Commerce Co v. U S, D C Cal, 55 F.2d 725—McNeely & Price Co v. The Exchequer, D C Pa, 100 F.Supp. 343—American Tobacco Co. v The Katingo Hadjipatera, D C.N.Y., 81 F Supp 438, modified on other grounds, C A., 194 F 2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S Ct. 1076, 343 U.S 978, 96 L.Ed — —Jensen v Matson Nav. Co, D.C Hawaii, 71 F Supp 939—Thomas Roberts & Co v. Calmar S S Corp., D C Pa, 59 F Supp 203—The Chester Valley, D C.La., 28 F Supp 290, affirmed, C.C A., 110 F.2d 592—The Naples Maru, D.C N.Y., 20 F Supp 258, modified on other grounds, C C.A., Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 106 F.2d 32.

58 C J. p 477 note 74, p 488 note 50 [b].

91. U.S —Bingham v Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 12 F Supp. 35, affirmed, C.C.A., 88 F.2d 1004.

proving that any damage subsequently appearing was inflicted before it got the goods.[92]

Delivery of goods to carrier. The burden is on plaintiff or libelant to prove delivery of the goods to the carrier,[93] but a bill of lading reciting receipt of the goods presumptively establishes the receipt of the goods by the carrier,[94] and the burden is then on the carrier to prove that it did not receive them.[95]

d. Loss or Damage Due to Excepted Peril

Where the goods are lost or damaged while in the carrier's possession, the burden is on the carrier to prove that the loss or damage was due to some cause or peril as to which it is exempt from liability, if it pleads that as a defense.

Where loss of, or damage to, cargo is shown to have occurred while in the carrier's possession and control, the burden is on the carrier, if it pleads such defense, to show that the loss or damage was due to some excepted peril or cause as to which it is exempt from liability[96] by statute,[97] such as the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1300 et seq,[98] or the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 181 et seq,[99] or by a valid provision in the contract of carriage or bill of lading.[1] The burden is on the car-

92. U.S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., C.C.A.La., 65 F.2d 715

93. U.S.—The Robin Gray, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 375, modified on other grounds 65 F.2d 376, certiorari denied Seas Shipping Co. v. Approximately 3,251,000 Feet Board Measure of Lumber, 54 S.Ct. 70, 290 U.S. 653, 78 L.Ed. 566.

94. U.S.—The Robin Gray, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 375, modified on other grounds 65 F.2d 376, certiorari denied Seas Shipping Co. v. Approximately 3,251,000 Feet Board Measure of Lumber, 54 S.Ct. 70, 290 U.S. 653, 78 L.Ed. 566.
10 C.J. p. 371 note 59

95. U.S.—The Robin Gray, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 375, modified on other grounds 65 F.2d 376, certiorari denied Seas Shipping Co. v. Approximately 3,251,000 Feet Board Measure of Lumber, 54 S.Ct. 70, 290 U.S. 653, 78 L.Ed. 566

96. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—Edmond Weil, Inc. v. American West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 147 F.2d 363—The Mauretania, C.C.A.N.Y., 84 F.2d 408—The Yungay, D.C.N.Y., 58 F.2d 352—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. Brooklyn & Buffalo Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 56 F.2d 271—The Africa Maru, C.C.A.N.Y., 54 F.2d 265, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Habicht Braun & Co., 52 S.Ct. 457, 285 U.S. 556, 76 L.Ed. 945—J. C. Penney Co. v. The American Exp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 742—Middle East Agency v. The John B. Waterman, D.C.N.Y., 86 F.Supp. 487—The Ponce, D.C.N.J., 67 F.Supp. 725, affirmed, C.C.A., Pompeian Olive Oil Corp. v. The Ponce, 160 F.2d 107—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564—Spreckles Sugar Co. v. South Atlantic S.S. Line, D.C.Ga., 49 F.Supp. 714—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 168, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999—The Buckeye State, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 344—The City of Khios, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.Supp. 923—Alliance Tobacco Co. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 12 F.Supp. 661, affirmed, C.C.A., 85 F.2d 86—Charles Dreifus Co. v. Diamond P. Transp. Co., D.C.Pa., 7 F.Supp. 363—The Carnia, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 929—The W. C. Franz, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 497, affirmed, C.C.A., Hallet Carey Swart, Ltd., v. The W. C. Franz, 67 F.2d 995
N.Y.—Smith v. Anchor Lines, 255 N.Y.S. 622, 143 Misc. 326
58 C.J. p. 479 note 12, p. 484 note 93
In action against private carrier see infra subdivision j of this section.
Burden of proving negligence where loss is due to excepted peril see infra subdivision e of this section.
Proof that damage by sea water was due to excepted peril see infra subdivision h of this section.
Cause of loss or damage in general see infra subdivision g of this section

Act of God

U.S.—Petition of Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 44 F.Supp. 617.

Sweat damage

Burden is on carrier to prove that sweat damage was caused by a peril of the sea within carrier's exception from liability.—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32—Standard Brands v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 670

97. U.S.—Sparks Milling Co. v. U.S., D.C.La., 5 F.Supp. 567.
Statutory exemptions from liability generally see supra § 126 et seq.

98. U.S.—Waterman S.S. Corp. v. U.S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656—Standard Brands v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 670—Sanib Corp. v. United Fruit Co., D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp. 64—The Mangalia, D.C.N.Y., 69 F.Supp. 688—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.Pa., 65 F.Supp. 102—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898.

99. U.S.—U.S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Becker S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 49 F.2d 648—Spreckles Sugar Co. v. South Atlantic S.S. Line, D.C.Ga., 49 F.Supp. 714—The Schickshinny, D.C.Ga., 45 F.Supp. 813—The Buckeye State, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 344.
Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S.S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App. Supp. 775.
Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P.2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491.
58 C.J. p. 484 note 81.

1. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32—Warner Barnes & Co. v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 102 F.2d 450, modified on other grounds 103 F.2d 430—U.S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 925, affirmed, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 1081—The Africa Maru, C.C.A.N.Y., 54 F.2d 265, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Habicht Braun & Co., 52 S.Ct. 457, 285 U.S. 556, 76 L.Ed. 945—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Becker S.S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 49 F.2d 648—Orient Ins. Co. v. Flota Mercante del Estado, D.C.La., 102 F.Supp. 729—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. Thos. & Jno. Brocklebank, Limited, D.C.Pa., 65 F.Supp. 102—Spreckles Sugar Co. v. South Atlantic S.S. Line, D.C.Ga., 49 F.Supp. 714—The Nagisan Maru, D.C.N.Y., 14 F.Supp. 1010—Alliance Tobacco Co. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 12 F.Supp. 661, affirmed, C.C.A., 85 F.2d 86—Charles Dreifus Co. v. Diamond P. Transp. Co., D.C.Pa., 7 F.Supp. 363—Sparks Milling Co. v. U.S., D.C.La., 5 F.Supp. 567—The W. C. Franz, 2 F.Supp. 497, D.C.N.Y., affirmed, C.C.A., Hallet rier to show any special contract which restricts or limits its liability,[2] and, where the injury is to merchandise carried on deck, the burden is on the carrier to prove that the shipper agreed that his property might be so carried.[3] It has been held that where the bill of lading stipulates against liability for "average leakage or breakage," the burden is on plaintiff to show that the leakage or breakage was greater than the average.[4]

Goods removed before notice. Where the bill of lading exempts the carrier from liability from any claim for goods removed before notice of claim, it has been held that libelant has the burden of showing what goods were removed after the giving of notice.[5]

e. Negligence

As a general rule, where goods are lost or damaged while in the carrier's possession, the burden is on the carrier to prove its freedom from negligence, but, where the damage is due to an excepted peril or cause, the burden is ordinarily on the plaintiff or libelant to prove the carrier's negligence.

Ordinarily, where plaintiff or libelant relies on negligence as being the cause of the loss or damage for which he seeks to recover, the burden is on him to prove the negligence,[6] and that it was the proximate cause of the loss or damage.[7] Unless the facts manifestly negative negligence,[8] proof that the goods were lost or damaged while in the possession of a carrier by water raises a presumption that the carrier was negligent,[9] and, in such case, if the carrier fails to show that the damage or loss was due to an excepted cause or peril, the burden is on the carrier to prove that it was free from negligence causing the damage,[10] and that it exercised due care in handling, caring for, and stowing the goods,[11] and that the injury could not have been avoided by ordinary care, with respect to stowage.[12]

The doctrine of res ipsa loquitur applies in actions for loss of, or damage to, cargo[13] and, where the damage or accident is such as in the ordinary course of events would not happen if the carrier used due care, negligence on the carrier's part may be inferred or presumed.[14] Where inherent defects in goods, casks, or cases are shown, the burden is on the cargo owner to show that the injury to the goods, casks, or cases was caused by the negligence of the vessel.[15] Where the vessel has conformed to the prevailing standards of stowage, libelant has the burden of showing that the stan-

Carey Swart, Ltd. v. The W. C. Franz, 67 F.2d 995—The Empress of Russia, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 978—Doherr v. Houston, N.Y., 128 F. 594, 64 C.C.A. 102.

Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App. Supp. 775.

58 C.J. p. 483 note 80, p. 478 note 87.

Limitation of liability by contract or bill of lading generally see supra § 131 et seq.

2. Mich.—American Transp. Co. v. Moore, 5 Mich. 368.

58 C.J. p. 477 note 65.

Inadequate refrigeration.

In action for damage to shipment of watermelons, carrier had burden of showing that it had explained inadequacy of refrigeration on ship to shippers and that shippers had expressed willingness to take risk of damage.—S. L. Shepard & Co. v. Agwilines, Inc., C.C.A.S.C., 130 F.2d 67.

3. U.S.—The Peytona, C.C.Me., 19 F. Cas.No.11,058, 2 Curt. 21.

4. U.S.—In re Six Hundred and Thirty Casks of Sherry, C.C.N.Y., 22 F. Cas.No.12,918, 14 Blatchf. 517.

5. U.S.—The Ellerdale, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 53, certiorari denied 46 S. Ct. 631, 271 U.S. 681, 70 L.Ed. 1148.

Notice of claim generally see infra subdivision 7 of this section.

6. U.S.—The Cleveland, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.Supp. 819, affirmed, C.C.A., Petition of Pennsylvania R. Co., 141 F.2d 1020.

58 C.J. p. 485 note 12.

Burden of proof as to negligence in action against private carrier see infra subdivision j of this section.

Contract for towing.

In libel in rem against tug for loss of cargo under a contract for towing, burden was on libelant to prove negligence of the tug as the offending vessel.—The Independent, C.C.A.La., 122 F.2d 141.

7. U.S.—Rockwood & Co. v. American President Lines, D.C.N.J., 68 F.Supp. 224.

8. U.S.—Western Transp. Co. v. Downer, Ill., 11 Wall. 129, 20 L.Ed. 160—Williams v. The Exe, N.Y., 57 F. 399, 6 C.C.A. 410.

9. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Cal. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 59 F.Supp. 100, affirmed, C.C.A., 156 F.2d 312—Krebs Pigment & Chemical Co. v. Sheridan, D.C.Pa., 12 F.Supp. 254, affirmed, C.C.A., 79 F.2d 479—The W. C. Franz, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 497, affirmed, C.C.A., Hallet Carey Swart, Ltd. v. The W. C. Franz, 67 F.2d 995—The Rosalia, C.C.A.N.Y., 264 F. 285—Herman v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, N.Y., 242 F. 859, 155 C.C.A. 447.

N.Y.—Littlejohn v. Ellerman, etc., S.S. Co., 236 N.Y.S. 699, 135 Misc. 237.

58 C.J. p. 485 note 12 [b].

Proof that goods were lost or damaged while in carrier's possession as establishing prima facie case see supra § 146.

10. U.S.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S. Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373—Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S.A., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 199—J. C. Penney Co. v. The American Exp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 102 F.Supp. 742—McNeely & Price Co. v. The Lambrook, D.C.Pa., 100 F.Supp. 345—McNeely & Price Co. v. The Exchequer, 100 F.Supp. 343—The Guanancita, D.C.Fla., 69 F.Supp. 928—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898—Cox v. Farley, D.C.N.Y., 34 F.Supp. 446.

58 C.J. p. 479 note 11.

11. U.S.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S. Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373—Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S.A., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 199—General Foods Corp. v. The Troubador, D.C.N.Y., 98 F.Supp. 207—Cox v. Farley, D.C.N.Y., 34 F.Supp. 446.

58 C.J. p. 483 note 64.

12. U.S.—The Maggie M., D.C.N.Y., 30 F. 692.

13. U.S.—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 925, affirmed, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 1081—The Hygrade No. 18, D.C.Mass., 41 F.Supp. 304.

14. U.S.—Morris v. Lamport & Holt, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 925, affirmed, C.C.A., 57 F.2d 1081.

15. U.S.—The Connaught, D.C.N.Y., 32 F. 640.

dard of stowage was unreasonable.[16] Where a seaworthy boat capsizes in calm water, the inference is almost irresistible that her action was due to improper loading.[17]

Damage or loss due to excepted peril or cause in general. Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1304, where the loss or damage arises or results from one of the causes or perils specified therein, the burden is on plaintiff or libelant to prove the carrier's negligence,[18] but where damage not resulting from an excepted cause is shown, the burden is on the carrier to prove its freedom from negligence[19] even though the loss or damage is within the terms of an exception from liability contained in the bill of lading.[20] In cases not governed by that statute it has been held that if the loss or damage is shown to come within the language of a general exception from liability as contained in the bill of lading,[21] or where the loss or damage was due to an excepted peril or cause,[22] the burden is on plaintiff to prove that the carrier was negligent or that the damage could have been avoided by the exercise of reasonable care by the carrier; but, where plaintiff has introduced evidence which prima facie shows liability of the carrier, the burden is on the carrier to go forward with the evidence to show that the damage occurred without negligence on its part,[23] unless the nature of the goods furnishes evidence of itself that due care and vigilance could not have prevented the injury.[24]

While it has been urged that the rule putting the burden of proof as to negligence on the plaintiff should be limited to excepted perils and causes and that the burden is on the carrier to establish his freedom from negligence where he relies on an exception from effects or kinds of losses,[25] it is generally held that in such cases the burden is on plaintiff to prove the carrier's negligence.[26] However, where the contract of carriage exempts the carrier from all liability except for damage due to its negligence, it has been held that on proof of the damaged condition of the goods the burden is on the carrier to prove its freedom from negligence.[27]

Breakage, leakage, or heat. Where bill of lading exempts the carrier from liability for damage due to breakage and leakage, the burden is on the cargo owner to prove that the breakage or leakage was caused or contributed to by the shipowner's negligence[28] or improper stowage,[29] particularly where it appears that the casks or cases in which the goods were shipped were insufficient.[30] Where the goods

16. U.S.—Bache v. Silver Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 110 F.2d 60.

17. U.S.—The S. C. L. No. 9, C.C.A. Pa., 114 F.2d 964—The Adah, N.Y., 258 F. 377, 169 C.C.A. 393.

Sinking of vessel as raising presumption of unseaworthiness see infra subdivision f of this section.

Where unseaworthiness was eliminated as possible cause for capsizing, a strong presumption remained that improper loading was the cause. —The S. C. L. No. 9, C.C.A.Pa., 114 F. 2d 964.

18. U.S.—Globe Solvents Co. v. The California, C.C.A.Pa., 167 F.2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 67, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L.Ed. 394—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 168, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999.

Burden of proving that loss or damage resulted from excepted peril see supra subdivision d of this section.

19. U.S.—Eppens, Smith Co., Inc. v. Silver Line, Ltd., C.C.A.La., 128 F. 2d 882—McNeely & Price Co. v. Ellerman & Bucknall S. S. Co., D.C. Pa., 100 F.Supp. 339—General Foods Corp. v. The Troubador, D.C. N.Y., 98 F.Supp. 207—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247—The Asturias, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.Supp. 168, affirmed, C.C.A., Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999.

20. U.S.—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898.

21. U.S.—U. S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875—The Monte Iciar, D.C.Pa., 67 F.Supp. 201, affirmed, C.C.A., 167 F.2d 334—Eppens, Smith Co. v. Silver Line, D.C.La., 37 F.Supp. 684, affirmed, C.C.A., 128 F.2d 882—Bingham v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D.C.N.Y., 12 F.Supp. 35, affirmed, C.C.A., 88 F. 2d 1004—The Gothic Star, D.C.N.Y., 4 F.Supp. 240.

58 C.J. p. 486 notes 17, 18.

Negligent stowage

Libelant suing for cargo damage, where damage was prima facie within exception to liability in bill of lading, had burden to establish negligent stowage.—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 880.

22. U.S.—Warner Barnes & Co. v. Kokosai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 102 F.2d 450, modified on other grounds 103 F.2d 430—U. S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875—Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 199—The Ponce, D.C.N.J., 67 F.Supp. 725, affirmed, C.C.A., Pompeian Olive Oil Corp. v. The Ponce, 160 F.2d 107—The Naples Maru, D.C. N.Y., 20 F.Supp. 258, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 106 F.2d 32—The City of Khios, D.C.N.Y., 16 F.Supp. 923—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C.Md., 14 F.Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C.A., 89 F.2d 539.

58 C.J. p. 486 note 18.

23. Or.—Carroll v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., 279 P. 861, 130 Or. 294.

58 C.J. p. 485 note 15.

24. Ala.—Steele v. Townsend, 37 Ala. 247, 79 Am.D. 49.

25. U.S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Hallet & Carey Co., C.C.A.Minn., 52 F.2d 13.

26. U.S.—The Folmina, N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 363, 212 U.S. 354, 53 L.Ed. 546, 15 Ann.Cas. 748—Thomas Roberts & Co. v. Calmar S. S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 59 F.Supp. 203—The Patria, N.Y., 132 F. 971, 68 C.C.A. 397.

27. U.S.—James Richardson & Sons v. Conners Marine Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 141 F.2d 226.

28. U.S.—The Monte Iciar, C.C.A. Pa., 167 F.2d 334—Atlantic Sugar Refineries v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 880.

58 C.J. p. 485 note 5.

29. U.S.—The Orion, C.C.A.N.Y., 290 F. 379.

30. U.S.—In re Six Hundred and Thirty Casks of Sherry, C.C.N.Y., 22 F.Cas.No.12,918, 14 Blatchf. 517.

are received under a bill of lading which exempts the carrier from liability for breakage, heat, etc., not caused by negligence, it is incumbent on plaintiff in an action to recover damages caused by breakage or heat to prove negligence in stowing, ventilating, or landing the cargo,[31] and, where the bill of lading exempts the carrier from liability for loss by breakage, heat, etc, unless occasioned by improper stowage, the burden of proof is on plaintiff to show that the damage did result from such stowage.[32]

Breakage or leakage does not raise a presumption of negligence on the part of the carrier.[33] Mere excess of breakage or leakage over what is usual under the circumstances is not prima facie evidence of negligence in stowage,[34] but it may warrant an inference of negligence where there is no indication of any other adequate cause for the unusual breakage,[35] and it has been held that where such breakage occurs in discharging the cargo it raises a presumption of negligence on the part of the ship in handling.[36] The shifting and breaking of cargo do not of themselves necessarily involve an inference of negligent stowage.[37]

Fire. It has been held that in order to defeat a carrier's statutory exemption from liability for injury to cargo by fire, libelant must show that the fire was caused by the carrier's design or neglect.[38] The mere fact of a fire on a vessel[39] or on a pier[40] does not warrant an inference of negligence.

Goods in carrier's custody as warehouseman. Where it is sought to hold the carrier for loss of, or injury to, the goods after their discharge from the vessel and while they are in its custody as warehouseman, it has been held that libelant has the burden of proving negligence,[41] but it has also been held that, where the goods were damaged while in the custody of the carrier as warehouseman, the burden is on it to establish its freedom from negligence.[42]

f. Seaworthiness

Proof that the goods were lost or damaged while in the possession of a carrier by water may raise a presumption that the vessel was unseaworthy, and the carrier must prove that the vessel was seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage or that due diligence was exercised to make the vessel seaworthy.

Proof that the goods were lost or damaged while in the possession of a carrier by water may raise a presumption or inference that the vessel was unseaworthy,[43] particularly where the vessel was very old,[44] and the burden is then on the vessel or carrier to prove that it was seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage[45] and reasonably fit for the

31. U S —The Hog Island, D C.N.Y., 43 F 2d 243, affirmed, C C.A., 48 F. 2d 101.
58 C J. p 483 note 72.

32. U S —The Dolbadarn Castle, Cal., 222 F. 838, 138 C C A. 264.
58 C.J. p 483 note 73

33. N Y.—Roth v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., 12 N.Y.S 460, 59 N Y.Super 49.
58 C J. p 485 note 3

34. U S —The Arpillao, C C.A.N Y., 270 F 426, certiorari denied Jose Tayas' Sons Co v. Pompeian Co, 41 S.Ct. 377, 255 U.S 574, 65 L Ed 793.
58 C J p 483 note 76, p 485 note 6.

35. U S —General Foods Corp. v The Troubador, D C N Y, 98 F Supp 207

36. U S —The Asiatic Prince, D.C.N Y., 103 F. 676

37. U S —Atlantic Sugar Refineries v Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C C A N.Y., 47 F.2d 880

38. U S.—American Tobacco Co. v The Katingo Hadjipatera, C.A.N.Y., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1076, 343 U S. 978, 96 L.Ed —— —Hoskyn & Co. v. Silver Line, Limited, C C A.N Y, 143 F.2d 462, certiorari denied 65 S Ct 116, three cases, 323 U S. 767, 89 L.Ed 613—Consumers Import Co v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C.A N Y., 133 F.2d 781, affirmed Consumers Import Co. v Kabushiki Kaisha Kawasaki Zosenjo, 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U S. 249, 88 L Ed 30—The Salvore, C C.A.N Y, 60 F 2d 683, certiorari denied U S. Steel Products Co. v Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S.Ct 117, 287 U S. 653, 77 L Ed 565—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins Co of N Y v. Flota Mercante Del Estado, D.C.La., 102 F Supp. 861—The Hygrade No 18, D C Mass., 41 F.Supp 304—The Sandgate Castle, D C N Y, 30 F. Supp 344—The Cabo Hatteras, D C N Y, 5 F Supp 725—The President Wilson, D C Cal, 5 F Supp 684.
Exemption from injury to cargo by fire generally see supra § 129.

39. U.S.—The President Wilson, supra.

Exclusion of accidental and outside agencies

In order to authorize application of "res ipsa loquitur" doctrine in proceeding for exoneration from liability for damage resulting from a fire, although it may not have been necessary to exclude every possibility that fire might have originated from some other cause than negligence of the petitioners, claimants were bound to introduce evidence enough to remove the probable causes from which it might have started—The Hygrade No 18, D.C Mass., 41 F Supp. 304.

40. U S —De Grau v Wilson, D.C.N. Y., 17 F. 698, affirmed, C.C., 22 F. 560.
58 C.J p 485 note 12 [a]

41. U.S —The Bellingham, C C.A.N J, 57 F 2d 1015

42. Minn —Cargill Grain Co. v Cleveland-Cliffs S S. Co, 235 N.W. 208, 182 Minn 516, certiorari denied 52 S Ct 25, 284 U S. 646, 76 L Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S Co, 237 N.W 197, 183 Minn. 620.

43. Cal —Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S S. Co, 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal App Supp. 775.
N Y —Littlejohn v Ellerman, etc., S S. Co, 236 N Y S. 699, 135 Misc. 237
58 C J p 480 note 33.
Seaworthiness generally see supra § 140
As prima facie case of breach of warranty of seaworthiness see infra § 156.
Damage by sea water as raising presumption vessel is unseaworthy see infra subdivision h of this section.

44. U S.—Forbes v Merchants' Express, etc, Co., D C N Y, 111 F 796, affirmed 120 F. 1019, 56 C.C A 681.

45. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp.

cargo,[46] or that the loss was occasioned by some cause other than unseaworthiness of the vessel.[47] It has been held generally and under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1300 et seq, that the burden is on plaintiff to establish that the unseaworthiness did, in fact, cause the loss or damage in question,[48] and under a statute relieving the owner of a vessel from liability for damage caused by fire, unless the fire was caused by the design or neglect of the owner, the burden is on plaintiff to establish that the unseaworthiness of the vessel was the cause of the fire.[49]

Where the carrier seeks to avoid liability for loss of, or injury to, cargo under the provisions of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1304, relieving the carrier of liability for damage arising or resulting from unseaworthiness unless caused by want of due diligence on the part of the carrier to make the ship seaworthy,[50] or under the provisions of the Harter Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 192, relieving the carrier from liability for damage from specified causes where it has exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy,[51] or under a clause of the bill of lading exempting it from liability for

v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—Gardner v. Dantzler Lumber & Export Co., C.C.A.Fla., 98 F.2d 478—The Indien, D.C.Cal., 71 F.2d 752—Franklin Fire Ins. Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins. Co., 53 S.Ct. 82, 287 U.S. 630, 77 L.Ed. 546—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F. Supp. 564—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

58 C.J. p. 481 note 35.

Burden of proof as to seaworthiness in action against private carrier see infra subdivision j of this section

Basis of rule

Rule is based on fact that common carrier has the obligation of an insurer except as it is relieved therefrom by law or by valid contract—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F. Supp. 564

Seaworthiness in relation to cargo and voyage

Burden is on vessel, sued for damage to cargo, to prove its seaworthy condition, both generally, and in relation to particular type of cargo and voyage—The Smyrna, D.C.Md., 2 F.Supp. 351, affirmed, C.C.A., 62 F.2d 1048

Canadian law

(1) Under Canadian Water Carriage of Goods Act and its annexed rules, burden of proving unseaworthiness of vessel is on cargo libelants, and, if unseaworthiness is shown, burden is then cast on shipowner or carrier, if it wishes to escape liability, to go on with the evidence and show that due diligence was used to make the ship seaworthy—The Iristo, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.Supp. 29, affirmed, C.C.A., Middleton & Co. (Canada) Limited v. Ocean Dominion S. S. Corp., 137 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 432, 320 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 484—The Aakre, D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 8, affirmed, C.C.A., 122 F.2d 469

(2) Fact that vessel, which was stranded while carrying goods under bills of lading incorporating Canadian Water Carriage of Goods Act, was without the guide of sailing directions, did not establish that vessel was "unseaworthy," so as to cast burden upon shipowner or carrier, if it wished to escape liability for loss of cargo, to show that due diligence was used to make the ship seaworthy, where all the elements which crew of ship might have obtained from sailing directions were contained on the chart which they used—The Iristo, D.C.N.Y., 43 F.Supp. 29, affirmed, C.C.A., Middleton & Co. (Canada) Limited v. Ocean Dominion S. S. Corp., 137 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 432, 320 U.S. 802, 88 L.Ed. 484

46. U.S.—The Capulin, D.C.Md., 298 F. 953.

58 C.J. p. 481 note 36.

47. U.S.—The J. L. Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 692, affirmed, C.C.A., 65 F.2d 570

58 C.J. p. 481 note 37.

48. U.S.—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293

58 C.J. p. 482 note 52 [a].

49. U.S.—Hoskyn & Co. v. Silver Line, D.C.N.Y., 63 F.Supp. 452, affirmed, C.C.A., 143 F.2d 462, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 116, 323 U.S. 767, 89 L.Ed. 613.

50. U.S.—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—Ore Steamship Corp. v. D/S A/S Hassel, C.C.A.N.Y., 137 F.2d 326—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898—The Vermont, D.C.N.Y., 47 F.Supp. 877—Mente & Co. v. Isthmian S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 36 F.Supp. 278, affirmed, C.C.A., The Quarrington Court, 122 F.2d 266

Exemption from liability for unseaworthiness under Carriage of Goods by Sea Act generally see supra § 128.

Latent defect

Under provision in the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act that carrier shall not be responsible for damage from latent defects not discoverable by due diligence, shipowner sued for loss has burden of showing that latent defect was not discoverable—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.

51. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Howard, C.C.A.N.Y., 155 F.2d 780—The Plow City, C.C.A.Pa., 122 F.2d 816, certiorari denied Plow City S. S. Co. v. Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., 62 S.Ct. 579, 315 U.S. 798, 86 L.Ed. 1199—The Point Chico, C.C.A.Tex., 122 F.2d 1—The Denali, C.C.A.Wash., 105 F.2d 413, adhered to 112 F.2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska S. S. Co. v. Pacific Coast Coal Co., 61 S.Ct. 65, 311 U.S. 687, 85 L.Ed. 444—The Nordpol, C.C.A.N.Y., 84 F.2d 3, certiorari denied Grace S. S. Co. v. Anglo-Chilean Nitrate Sales Corp., 57 S.Ct. 111, two cases, 299 U.S. 586, 81 L.Ed. 432—The West Arrow, C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 853—The Indien, C.C.A.Cal., 71 F.2d 752—The Framlington Court, C.C.A.Tex., 69 F.2d 300, certiorari denied United British S. S. Co. v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co., 54 S.Ct. 860, 292 U.S. 651, 78 L.Ed. 1500—The Vestris, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 273—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 900—The Chehaw, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 645—Kalbfleisch Corporation v. U. S., D.C.Mass., 53 F.2d 867—The Josephine, C.C.A.Pa., 49 F.2d 207—Charbonnier v. U. S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U. S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293—The Havana, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 244—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, affirmed, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719—The unseaworthiness of the vessel, if it has exercised due diligence to make her seaworthy,[52] the burden is on the carrier to prove that the vessel was seaworthy at the time of beginning the voyage, or that due diligence had been used to make her so, and that the vessel was properly manned.[53]

A shipowner relying on a release from the usual warranty of seaworthiness has the burden of proving the release[54] and that he fulfilled the conditions on which the release depended.[55] A vessel which ships water a few days after leaving port cannot be presumed to have been seaworthy when she left port.[56] Where the carrier prima facie shows the seaworthiness of the vessel, the burden is then on the cargo owner to rebut this prima facie showing,[57] or to show some fault in the vessel or her management that made the excepted peril efficient.[58] Where there is no implied warranty that the vessel is fit at the beginning of a voyage safely to carry the cargo received by her, the burden of proof is not on the carrier, but on the shipper, who must show the carrier's negligence in order to entitle him to recover for loss of, or damage to, cargo.[59]

Presumption of unseaworthiness arising from sinking or defect. The unexplained sinking of a vessel raises a presumption that she was unseaworthy[60] where the sinking takes place in smooth water[61] or where there is no undue stress of weather or other known external cause,[62] as where the vessel sank at her dock or pier, or berth, without apparent cause,[63] or where she careened and dumped her cargo without known external cause.[64] This presumption is of course rebuttable.[65] The presumption is that the vessel was unseaworthy at the time of sailing where she becomes leaky or a breakdown or other disaster overtakes her soon after beginning her voyage, without stress of weather or other adequate cause appearing therefor.[66]

Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558—The Emilia, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Supp. 7—Daisy Philippine Underwear Co. v. U.S. Steel Products Co., D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Supp. 175, affirmed, C.C.A., U.S. Steel Products Co. v. American & Foreign Ins. Co., 82 F.2d 752—The Harry Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 507—The Horaisan Maru, D.C.N.Y., 5 F.Supp. 311, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Yokohama Specie Bank v. Mitsui & Co., 73 F.2d 526, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 648, 295 U.S. 736, 79 L.Ed. 1684—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550—The Empress of Russia, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 978—The J. L. Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 692, affirmed, C.C.A., 65 F.2d 570—The Point Brava, D.C.Cal., 1 F.Supp. 366

Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.

Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P.2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491

58 C.J. p. 481 note 42.

Exemption from liability under Harter Act generally see supra § 127

Conflicting evidence

The burden is on the carrier in all cases and not only in those where there is conflicting evidence—The Wildcroft, Pa., 26 S.Ct. 467, 201 U.S. 378, 50 L.Ed. 794.

52. U.S.—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 900—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564—The Vale Royal, D.C.Md., 51 F.Supp. 412.

58 C.J. p. 481 note 42.

53. U.S.—Gold Dust Corporation v. Munson S. S. Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 55 F.2d 900—Charbonnier v. U.S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U.S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174—The Condor, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 929, affirmed, C.C.A., The Nordpol, 84 F.2d 3, certiorari denied Grace S. S. Co. v. Anglo-Chilean Nitrate Sales Corporation, 57 S.Ct. 111, two cases, 299 U.S. 586, 81 L.Ed. 432

58 C.J. p. 481 note 41

Inquiry as to competency of chief officer

While burden of proof is on shipowner to show a diligent inquiry concerning competency of chief officer, master is not put on inquiry as to whether chief officer was about to use or was using medical treatment which might result in chief officer's incompetency, where such officer appeared strong and healthy.—The James Griffiths, C.C.A.Wash., 84 F.2d 785, certiorari denied Sperry Flour Co. v. Coastwise Steamship & Barge Co., 57 S.Ct. 315, 299 U.S. 612, 81 L.Ed. 452, rehearing denied 57 S.Ct. 430, 300 U.S. 686, 81 L.Ed. 888

54. U.S.—New England S.S. Co. v. Howard, C.C.A.N.Y., 130 F.2d 354

55. U.S.—New England S. S. Co. v. Howard, supra.

56. U.S.—The Plow City, C.C.A.Pa., 122 F.2d 816, certiorari denied Plow City S. S. Co. v. Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., 62 S.Ct. 579, 315 U.S. 798, 86 L.Ed. 1199

57. U.S.—The Thomas Melville, D.C.N.Y., 31 F. 486.

58. U.S.—The Thomas Melville, supra

59. U.S.—The Tjomo, D.C.Ala., 115 F. 919.

60. U.S.—Continental Ins. Co. v. Anchor Line, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 1032—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const. Corp., D.C.Conn., 89 F.Supp. 272.

Res ipsa loquitur

This is but a particular application of the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89.

Where improper loading is eliminated as a cause for the vessel capsizing, the presumption is that the vessel was unseaworthy—Taylor Bros. Lumber Co., Inc. v. Sunset Lighterage Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 43 F.2d 700.

61. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—The Evelyn, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 644—The S.C.L. No. 9, D.C.Pa., 37 F.Supp. 386, affirmed, C.C.A., 114 F.2d 964.

62. U.S.—Petition of Erlandsen, D.C.Wash., 51 F.Supp. 921.

63. U.S.—The Buffalo, C.C.A.N.Y., 56 F.2d 738—The Harper, C.C.A.N.Y., 42 F.2d 161—Federal Forwarding Co. v. Lanasa, C.C.A.Md., 32 F.2d 154—The Fort Gaines, D.C.Md., 21 F.2d 865—The Jungshoved, C.C.A.N.Y., 290 F. 733, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 35, 263 U.S. 707, 68 L.Ed. 517

58 C.J. p. 482 note 55

64. U.S.—Hickman, Williams & Co. v. Murray Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 820—U.S. Metals Refining Co. v. Jacobus, N.Y., 205 F. 896, 124 C.C.A. 209

65. U.S.—The S.C.L. No. 9, D.C.Pa., 37 F.Supp. 386, affirmed, C.C.A., 114 F.2d 964.

66. U.S.—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. Brooklyn & Buffalo Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 56 F.2d 271—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American

g. Particular Cause of Loss or Damage in General

As a general rule, where the loss of, or damage to, cargo is in part due to a cause for which the carrier is liable and in part due to a cause for which it is not liable, the burden of proof is on the carrier to establish what part of the damage was due to the cause for which it is not liable.

As a general rule, where the loss of, or damage to, the cargo was in part due to a cause for which the carrier is liable and in part due to a cause for which it is not liable, the burden of proof is on the carrier to establish what part of the damage was due to the cause for which it is not liable,[67] and this rule has been held to apply where the injury to the goods was caused by an inherent vice in the goods for which the carrier was not liable and another cause for which it was liable,[68] but it has also been held that, where the goods are not in good condition when received by the carrier, the burden is on plaintiff to establish what part of the damage was due to a cause for which the carrier was liable.[69] The rule putting the burden on the carrier to prove the damage due to each cause does not apply where a determination of the damage due to the respective causes is prevented by the consignee of the goods.[70]

While it is generally stated that proof that the loss or damage occurred while the goods were in the carrier's possession puts the burden on the carrier or shipowner, in order to relieve itself from liability, to account for or explain such damage[71] it has been held that, under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U.S.C.A. § 1300 et seq, the carrier does not have to show the cause of the damage or loss if he shows that he was free from negligence.[72] Under a statute exempting the carrier from liability for damage from fire unless the fire was caused by the carrier's design or neglect, the carrier does not have the burden of proving the cause of a fire.[73]

Where the bill of lading exempts the carrier from liability for breakage and leakage, the carrier need not show the cause of the breakage or leakage.[74] Similarly, where the bill of lading exempts the carrier from liability for damage caused by mould, rust, and discoloration, the carrier does not have the burden of establishing the cause of the moisture, rust, and discoloration.[75] If sufficiently heavy weather is experienced by a vessel to account for damage to cargo by motion of the ship, the presumption is that the damage was so caused, and not by bad stowage,[76] and the fact that part of a cargo endures the voyage without damage raises no presumption that damage to other parts was caused by bad stowage.[77] Where it appears that Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

58 C.J. p. 482 note 57

Collapse of boilers

In determining liability for damage to cargo, a presumption existed that vessel was unseaworthy as to boilers which collapsed, notwithstanding vessel was forty-five days from sailing at time of collapse, where it was admitted that the starboard boiler, which was in the worse condition, was used for only eight days.—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558.

67. U.S.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373.—U.S. v. Apex Fish Co., C.A.Wash., 177 F.2d 364.—Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Lloyd Brasileiro, C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 661, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 1519, 331 U.S. 836, 91 L.Ed. 1849.—Armco International Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, C.C.A.N.Y., 151 F.2d 5.—Edmond Weil, Inc., v. American West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 147 F.2d 363.—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32.—U.S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 489.—Sanib Corp. v. United Fruit Co., 74 F.Supp. 64.—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898.—Cox v. Farley, D.C.N.Y., 34 F.Supp. 446.

68. U.S.—The Nichiyo Maru, C.C.A.Md., 89 F.2d 539.—Cox v. Farley, D.C.N.Y., 34 F.Supp. 446.

69. U.S.—Albers Bros. Milling Co. v. Hauptman, C.C.A.Cal., 95 F.2d 286.—The Niel Maersk, C.C.A.N.Y., 91 F.2d 932, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 281, 302 U.S. 753, 82 L.Ed. 582.—American Tobacco Co. v. The Katingo Hadjipatera, D.C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 438, modified on other grounds, C.A., 194 F.2d 489.—The Ensley City, D.C.Md., 71 F.Supp. 444, affirmed, C.C.A., Isthmian S.S. Co. v. Martin, 170 F.2d 25.

Exemption of liability for "taint"

In libel to recover damages for injury to shipment of flour where damage was brought within clause of bill of lading exempting vessel from liability for "taint," burden was on shipper to show that there was a causal connection between condition of flour on discharge and improper stowage.—The Chester Valley, D.C.La., 28 F.Supp. 290, affirmed, C.C.A., 110 F.2d 592.

70. U.S.—Beck v. Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 88 F.Supp. 818, affirmed, C.A., 182 F.2d 942, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 124, 340 U.S. 877, 95 L.Ed. 638.

71. U.S.—James Richardson & Sons v. Conners Marine Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 141 F.2d 226.—The Cherca, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 644, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 55 F.2d 926.—Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S.A., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 199.—The Mangalia, D.C.N.Y., 69 F.Supp. 688.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C.Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520.—Sparks Milling Co. v. U.S., D.C.La., 5 F.Supp. 567.
58 C.J. p. 479 note 10.
Burden of explaining cause of loss or damage in action against private carrier see infra subdivision j of this section.

72. U.S.—George F. Pettinos, Inc., v. American Export Lines, D.C.Pa., 68 F.Supp. 759, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 247.—The Vermont, D.C.N.Y., 47 F.Supp. 877.

73. U.S.—Charbonnier v. U.S., D.C.S.C., 45 F.2d 166, affirmed, C.C.A., U.S. v. Charbonnier, 45 F.2d 174.

74. U.S.—The Monte Iciar, C.C.A.Pa., 167 F.2d 334.—The Patria, N.Y., 132 F. 971, 68 C.C.A. 397.

75. U.S.—Thomas Roberts & Co. v. Calmar S.S. Corp., D.C.Pa., 59 F.Supp. 203.

76. U.S.—The Connaught, D.C.N.Y., 32 F. 640.—The Polynesia, D.C.N.Y., 30 F. 210.

77. U.S.—The Polynesia, supra.

the casks in which goods were shipped were insufficient, the burden is on the shipper to prove that the defect in the casks was not the cause of the damage.[78]

h. Damage by Sea Water

The burden is on the plaintiff to prove that the goods were damaged by sea water, and, where such proof is made, it raises a presumption that the vessel was unseaworthy.

The burden of proof is on plaintiff to show that the bad condition of the goods on delivery was due to sea water,[79] and, where such proof is made, it raises a presumption that the vessel was unseaworthy.[80] The burden is then on the carrier to show how the sea water got into the hold of the vessel and damaged the cargo[81] and, since this should have been guarded against, the burden is on the carrier to show that it has fully discharged its duty in this respect,[82] and that the damage occurred without any fault on its part,[83] as that it was occasioned by a peril of the sea for which it was not responsible.[84]

The burden is on the carrier to show a sea peril adequate to cause such leaks to a seaworthy ship,[85] such as to show sufficient stress of weather to warrant the inference that such water found access to the cargo through a peril of the sea,[86] the consequences of which could not have been guarded against with the means available to the officers and crew,[87] and it is not sufficient to show merely that the vessel had encountered unusual stress of weather, without showing that proper precautions had been taken to protect the cargo.[88] Where the ship has shown a sea peril which might reasonably be expected, under the circumstances, to cause the damage found to exist, it will be presumed to have produced it, if there is satisfactory proof that any or all other suggested causes did not produce it,[89] and where it appears that the vessel encountered an unusually violent storm which fully accounted for the damage within an exception in the bill of lading, the burden is on the shipper to show carelessness or negligence on the part of the vessel leading to the loss.[90]

i. Deviation and Delay

In a suit for damages for delay in shipping and transporting the goods, the burden is on the plaintiff or libelant to prove that the damages resulted from unreasonable delay.

In a suit for damages for delay in shipping and transporting the goods, the burden is on plaintiff or libelant of proving that the damages resulted from an unreasonable delay in this respect;[91] but he is not required to prove that the damage would not have happened except for such delay.[92] Any excuse for its delay in shipping the goods must be proved by defendant.[93]

Deviation. The burden is on plaintiff or libelant to prove a deviation by the carrier,[94] but where there is a deviation by the carrier, the burden is on it to prove that the deviation was justified,[95] or 78. U.S.—Atkins v. Horrman, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Cas.No.602a.

79. U.S.—The Goyaz, C.C.A.N.Y., 3 F.2d 553, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 230, 267 U.S. 594, 69 L.Ed. 804.

80. U.S.—The Folmina, N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 363, 212 U.S. 354, 53 L.Ed. 546, 15 Ann.Cas. 748—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A., 189 F.2d 488—Wessels v. The Asturias, C.C.A.N.Y., 126 F.2d 999.

81. U.S.—The Lassell, D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 687—Herman v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, N.Y., 242 F. 859, 155 C.C.A. 447.

82. U.S.—Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha v. Willits, C.C.A.Cal., 17 F.2d 762.
58 C.J. p. 480 note 22.

83. U.S.—Toyo Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha v. Willits, supra

84. U.S.—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Becker S. S. Co., D.C.N.Y., 49 F.2d 648—Alliance Tobacco Co. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 12 F.Supp. 661, affirmed, C.C.A., 85 F.2d 86—The Empress of Russia, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 978
58 C.J. p. 480 note 24.

85. U.S.—The Queen, D.C.Cal., 78 F. 155, affirmed 94 F. 180, 36 C.C.A. 135, reversed on other grounds 21 S.Ct. 278, 180 U.S. 49, 45 L.Ed. 419

86. U.S.—Darragh v. The Dunbritton, N.Y., 73 F. 352, 19 C.C.A. 449.

87. U.S.—The Sloga, D.C.N.Y., 22 F.Cas.No.12,955, 10 Ben. 315.
58 C.J. p. 480 note 27.

88. U.S.—The Italia, D.C.N.Y., 184 F. 366, modified on other grounds 187 F. 113, 109 C.C.A. 33.
58 C.J. p. 480 note 28.

89. U.S.—Darragh v. The Dunbritton, N.Y., 73 F. 352, 19 C.C.A. 449

90. U.S.—The Neptune, C.C.N.Y., 18 F.Cas.No.10,118, 6 Blatchf. 193.
58 C.J. p. 480 note 30

91. U.S.—U. S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., C.C.A.Mass., 61 F.2d 455
58 C.J. p. 479 note 17.

92. U.S.—The Esrom, D.C.N.Y., 261 F. 624, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 272 F. 266, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 47, 257 U.S. 634, 66 L.Ed. 408.
58 C.J. p. 480 note 18.

93. Mass.—Ideal Leather Goods Co. v. Eastern SS Corp., 107 N.E. 525, 220 Mass. 133

94. U.S.—The Salvore, C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F.2d 683, certiorari denied U. S. Steel Products Co. v. Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S.Ct. 117, 287 U.S. 653, 77 L.Ed. 565.

Repair of ship
In proceeding for exoneration from liability, burden was held to be on cargo owners to show that making repairs during unloading, in course of which fire broke out, was not customary and was unreasonable so as to constitute a deviation.—The Salvore, C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F.2d 683, certiorari denied U. S. Steel Products Co. v. Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S.Ct. 117, 287 U.S. 653, 77 L.Ed. 565

95. U.S.—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

was permitted by the bill of lading,[96] or that the loss of, or damage to, the goods would have occurred in the absence of the deviation.[97] Mere nondelivery of the goods does not create a presumption of overcarriage of the goods resulting in a deviation.[98]

j. Private Carrier

In an action against a private carrier for loss of, or injury to, cargo, the burden is on the plaintiff to prove that the carrier was negligent or unseaworthy, and the fact that the goods were lost or damaged while in the carrier's custody does not put the burden of proof on the carrier.

Since, as discussed supra § 125, a private carrier is not an insurer but undertakes only to exercise due care in the protection of the goods committed to its care, the burden of proving negligence or a breach of that duty rests on plaintiff[99] and proof of loss of, or damage to, cargo while in the carrier's possession does not cast on it the burden of proving proper care and diligence on its part[1] or that the loss occurred from an excepted cause in the contract or bill of lading.[2] However, in discharging the burden of proof, plaintiff is entitled to the benefit of the presumptions and inferences by which the law aids the bailor in an action against a bailee,[3] and since the carrier is in a better position to know the cause of the loss and that it was not one involving its liability, the law requires that it come forward with the information available to it,[4] and its failure to do so warrants an inference or presumption of its liability.[5] However, such inferences and presumptions, while they may affect the burden of coming forward with evidence, do not alter the burden of proof which remains on plaintiff,[6] and, where the carrier comes forward with evidence explaining the loss or damage, the burden of going forward with the evidence is again on plaintiff.[7]

Where the action is based on the shipowner's warranty of seaworthiness, the burden of proving a breach thereof[8] and that such breach was the proximate cause of the damage[9] rests on plaintiff, and proof that the goods were lost or damaged while in the carrier's possession does not cast on it the burden of proving seaworthiness.[10] While plaintiff may be aided by a presumption or inference of unseaworthiness arising from the unexplained sinking of the vessel,[11] where evidence explaining the sinking is presented, the burden of proof on the issue of unseaworthiness remains on plaintiff.[12] Where the contract of carriage exempts the carrier from liability for unseaworthiness not discoverable by due diligence, the carrier has the preliminary

96. U.S.—The Wildwood, D.C.Wash., 41 F.Supp. 956, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.

97. U.S.—The Hermosa, C.C.A.Cal., 57 F.2d 20

98. U.S.—Shackman v. Cunard White Star, D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 948

99. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. O'Donnell Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 239—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564—The Commerce, D.C.N.Y., 46 F.Supp. 360, affirmed, C.C.A., New England S. S. Co. v. Howard, 130 F.2d 354.

58 C.J. p. 478 note 97.

Burden of proof as to negligence generally see supra subdivision e of this section.

1. U.S.—In re Steamship Co. Norden, D.C.Md., 6 F.2d 883—The Rokeby, D.C.N.Y., 202 F. 322

2. U.S.—In re Steamship Co. Norden, D.C.Md., 6 F.2d 883.

Burden of proof that loss or damage resulted from excepted peril generally see supra subdivision d of this section.

3. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564.

Presumptions and burden of proof in actions by bailor against bailee generally see Bailment § 50.

4. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—In re Steamship Co. Norden, D.C.Md., 6 F.2d 883—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564.

5. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—The Joseph J. Hock, C.C.A.N.Y., 70 F.2d 259—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781—The Westmoreland, D.C.N.Y., 14 F.Supp. 762, affirmed, C.C.A., 86 F.2d 96.

6. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—The W. H. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.Supp. 564.

7. U.S.—The Bowling Green, D.C.N.Y., 11 F.Supp. 109, affirmed, C.C.A., Cyarnikow Rionda Co. v. Ellerman & Bucknall S. S. Co., 81 F.2d 1017—The Frank A. Smith, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 134.

8. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates v. Martin Marine Transp. Co., C.A.Pa., 190 F.2d 394—Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Howard, C.C.A.N.Y., 155 F.2d 780—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const. Corp., D.C.Conn., 89 F.Supp. 272

9. U.S.—New England S. S. Co. v. Howard, C.C.A.N.Y., 130 F.2d 354—The Mary M., D.C.N.Y., 73 F.Supp. 674.

10. U.S.—In re Steamship Co. Norden, D.C.Md., 6 F.2d 883.

11. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates v. Martin Marine Transp. Co., C.A.Pa., 190 F.2d 394—Petition of Reliance Marine Transp. & Const. Corp., D.C.Conn., 89 F.Supp. 272

Presumption of unseaworthiness from sinking of vessel in general see supra subdivision f of this section.

12. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp. v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S.Ct. 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89.

burden of proving the exercise of due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy.[13]

k. Amount of Damage

In an action for loss of, or damage to, cargo the burden is on the plaintiff or libelant to prove the amount of the damage.

In an action for loss of, or damage to, cargo, the burden is on plaintiff or libelant to prove the amount of the loss or damage,[14] such as the value of the goods lost;[15] and where he is entitled to recover damages to goods during unloading and transferring on a wharf, but not damages during shipment, the burden is on him to show the recoverable damages, separate and distinguished from nonrecoverable damages.[16] Where libelant has been paid part of his loss by insurer, the amount claimed in the libel is presumed to be the amount of damages for which it has not received payment.[17]

l. Notice of Claim; Time to Sue

The plaintiff or libelant has the burden of proving that notice of loss or of his claim was timely given and that the action was instituted within the time limited by the contract of carriage

Plaintiff or libelant has the burden of proving the giving of timely notice of the loss or injury and of his claim[18] and that notice of loss as required by the bill of lading or contract of carriage was given,[19] waived,[20] or excused.[21] Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act, 46 U S C A. § 1303 (6), on a failure to give notice of the damage or loss within the statutory time, there is a presumption of good delivery in favor of the carrier[22] and the burden is on plaintiff or libelant in an action for damages to the goods to overcome that presumption by proof.[23]

Stipulation limiting time to sue. Plaintiff or libelant has the burden of proving compliance with valid provisions in the bill of lading or contract of carriage limiting the time within which suit must be commenced,[24] waiver thereof,[25] or excuse for noncompliance therewith.[26] Where plaintiff contends that the provision is unreasonable, the burden is on him to establish that fact.[27]

§ 155. —— Admissibility of Evidence

General rules as to the admissibility of evidence, particularly in actions against carriers generally for loss of, or injury to, goods, apply in actions against carriers by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo.

13. U.S.—Metropolitan Coal Co. v Howard, C C A N.Y., 155 F.2d 780

14. U S—Weirton Steel Co. v Isbrandtsen-Moller Co, C C A N Y, 126 F 2d 593—U. S v Palmer & Parker Co, C C A.Mass, 61 F 2d 455—Baltic Cotton Co. v U S., C C.A Ala, 55 F 2d 568—The Carlotta, C C.N Y., 5 F Cas No.2,413a

Burden of proof as to shortage or deficiency of quantity see supra subdivision c (2) of this section.

Measure of damages generally see infra § 158.

Market not available

Consignor suing for damages on basis of resale price obtained was held obliged to show that market wherein price of goods was same as contract price was not available to consignor—Connecticut Fire Ins Co v Lake Transfer Corporation, C.C A N Y., 74 F.2d 258

15. Ga.—Strachan Shipping Co v. Hazlip-Hood Cotton Co., 131 S.E 283, 161 Ga. 480, answer to certified questions conformed to 132 S.E. 454, 35 Ga App. 94.

58 C J p 476 note 60.

16. U S—The Bencleuch, C.C A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 49, certiorari denied 46 S Ct 631, 271 U S. 680, 70 L Ed 1148.

17. U S—The Turret Crown, C.C.A. N.Y., 297 F 766, certiorari denied Commonwealth SS Co. v. Patent Vulcanite Roofing Co., 44 S.Ct. 403, 264 U.S. 591, 68 L.Ed. 865.

18. U S—E Gerli & Co. v Cunard S. S Co, C C A N Y, 48 F 2d 115

19. U S—Warner Barnes & Co v. Kokosai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A N Y, 103 F 2d 430—The J. L. Luckenbach, C C A N.Y, 65 F 2d 570—U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co. v. Calmar S. S Corporation, C C A. N Y., 57 F.2d 182, certiorari denied 53 S Ct 21, 287 U S 622, 77 L Ed. 540—Newport Rolling Mill Co. v. Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co, D.C La., 50 F Supp. 623—The West Arrow, D.C N Y, 10 F Supp 385, modified on other grounds, C C A, 80 F 2d 853—Krauss Bros Lumber Co. v. Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, D C.N Y, 3 F Supp. 1014.

58 C.J. p 476 note 57.

Shipment to foreign country

(1) Burden of proving compliance with notice clause in bill of lading was on cargo owner suing for misdelivery, although shipment was to foreign country—Bank of California, N. A., v. International Mercantile Marine Co, C.C A N Y., 64 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U.S. 649, 78 L Ed. 563

(2) In the absence of proof by cargo owner that under German law misdelivery of cargo in Germany excused giving of notice of claim therefor as provided in bill of lading, court must give effect to notice clause.—Bank of California, N. A., v. International Mercantile Marine Co, supra.

20. U S—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co v Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, D.C N.Y, 3 F Supp 1014

21. U S—Krauss Bros Lumber Co v Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, supra.

22. N Y—Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v Isbrandtsen Co, 103 N Y.S 2d 118, 199 Misc. 257.

23. N Y—Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v Isbrandtsen, supra.

24. U S—Krauss Bros Lumber Co v. Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, D C N.Y., 3 F Supp 1014

58 C.J. p 476 note 58

25. U S.—Krauss Bros Lumber Co v Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, supra.

Concealment by carrier

In libel by insurer as consignee's subrogee against carrier for damages to consignment, insurer had burden of establishing concealment by carrier and consignee's diligence in discovering claim, in order to escape provision in bill of lading that claim must be sued on within one year after delivery.—Switzerland General Ins. Co. of Zurich v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., C.C A. N.Y., 91 F 2d 960.

26. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co v. Dampskibsselskabet Norden Aktieselskab, D.C.N Y., 3 F.Supp 1014.

27. N.Y.—The President Monroe, 286 N.Y.S. 990, 159 Misc. 432.

The rules governing the admissibility of evidence in actions generally, and particularly in actions against carriers for loss of, or damage to, goods, as discussed in Carriers § 255, apply in an action for loss of, or injury to, goods by carriers by water, with respect to the admissibility[28] or inadmissibility[29] of particular evidence on matters in issue, such as with respect to improper loading or stowage,[30] the carrier's liability as warehouseman,[31] and with respect to the admissibility of copies of the bill of lading.[32] On the question of seaworthiness at the time of sailing, evidence of the condition and performance and mechanical equipment of the vessel during the subsequent voyage may be considered.[33] A report made by a surveyor which was not based on his own knowledge is not admissible in connection with the seaworthiness of the vessel[34]

It has been held that parol evidence of an agreement that goods shipped under a clean bill of lading should be carried on deck is inadmissible in a libel for injury to cargo,[35] although such evidence may be received to show a supplemental agreement for a particular mode of storage under deck,[36] but it has also been held that, where stowage on deck was stipulated in the dock receipts, it was competent to show an agreement for stowage on deck even though the bill of lading erroneously failed to provide for it.[37] The contemplated voyage at the time of shipment may be shown by extrinsic evidence,[38] such as by the carrier's advertisements.[39] Where defendant denies it was the carrier, and evidence is offered which shows that the contract of carriage was entered into by plaintiff with general agents of defendant, a bill of lading issued by such agents and which they were authorized to sign is admissible in evidence[40]

The testimony of an officer of the consignee named in the bill of lading[41] or of an officer of the libelant[42] is competent to prove the ownership of the goods involved in the action. It has been held that the certificates of an exporters' association are not admissible to prove the good condition of the goods when shipped where such certificates are not official documents[43] The results of chemical tests made on the goods may be introduced to prove that they were damaged by sea water.[44] Evidence other than sales is admissible to prove the market value of goods.[45] Where goods are imported for use and not for sale, it has been held that evidence of market value when the goods arrived and when they should have arrived is not admissible on the question of damages for delay in delivery,[46] but that contracts in fulfillment of which the imported goods could have been used are admissible.[47]

Vessel's log book A vessel's log is competent evidence against her in an action for damages to cargo.[48]

Insurance. Evidence that the cargo owner had received from insurer the amount for which the goods had been insured has been held to be irrelevant in an action for their loss[49]

Custom and usage. Parol evidence is admissible of a custom or usage as to the meaning of the words "dangers of the river" as used in a bill of lading for transportation of goods by inland navigation,[50]

28. U S—The Monte Iciar, D.C Pa., 67 F.Supp 201, affirmed, C C.A., 167 F 2d 334.
58 C.J p 486 note 21.

29. U S—The Pelotas, D C La., 43 F 2d 571, affirmed, C C.A., 66 F.2d 75.
58 C J p 486 note 22.

30. U S—The Koranna, D.C N.Y., 214 F 172—Donaldson v. J. W Perry Co., Va., 138 F. 643, 71 C.C A. 93.

31. U S—Camden Woolen Co. v Eastern SS Lines, D.C Me., 8 F 2d 162, vacated on other grounds, C.C A., 12 F.2d 917.

32. U S.—The Arpillao, C.C A.N.Y., 270 F 426, certiorari denied Jose Tayas' Sons Co v Pompeian Co, 41 S Ct 377, 255 U S. 574, 65 L Ed 793

33. U.S—The Oritani, D C Pa., 40 F. 2d 522, affirmed, C C A., Atlantic Fruit Co. v. The Oritani, 54 F 2d 1075.

34. U S.—Yokohama Specie Bank v Mitsui & Co., C.C.A N.Y., 73 F 2d 526, certiorari denied Yokohama Specie Bank v Mitsui & Co, 55 S Ct. 648, 295 U S 736, 79 L Ed. 1684.

35. U S.—The Delaware, Cal., 14 Wall 579, 20 L Ed 779—The Star of Hope, D C.Cal., 22 F.Cas No 13,-313, 2 Sawy 15, affirmed 17 Wall 651, 21 L Ed. 719

36. U.S.—The Star of Hope, supra.

37. U.S—The Margaret Lykes, D.C La., 57 F Supp. 466

38. U.S—General Hide, etc, Corp v U. S, D C N Y, 24 F.2d 736

39. U.S.—General Hide, etc, Corp. v. U. S., supra.

40. U.S.—Patent Vulcanite Roofing Co v. Transoceanica Societa Italiana di Navigazione, C C A.N Y, 32 F 2d 213, certiorari denied 50 S Ct 30, 280 U S 574, 74 L.Ed. 626

41. U S—The Monte Iciar, D.C Pa., 67 F Supp 201, affirmed, C.C.A., 167 F 2d 334.

42. U.S.—Hickman, Williams & Co, Inc. v Murray Transportation Co, D.C.N.Y., 31 F Supp 820.

43. U S—The Niel Maersk, C C A.N. Y, 91 F 2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v. The Niel Maersk, 58 S Ct. 281, 302 U.S. 753, 82 L.Ed. 582.

44. U S—Wessels v. The Asturias, C C.A N.Y, 126 F 2d 999.

45. U S—The Waalhaven, D C N Y., 1 F Supp 396, affirmed, C.C.A., 64 F 2d 25, certiorari denied The Waalhaven v Potash Importing Corporation of America, 53 S Ct. 696, 289 U S. 752, 77 L.Ed. 1497.

46. U S—U. S v Palmer & Parker Co., C.C.A Mass, 61 F.2d 455

47. U S.—U. S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., supra.

48. U.S.—The Waalhaven, C.C A N Y., 36 F 2d 706, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 352, 281 U.S 747, 74 L Ed 1159

49. Pa.—Nimick v Holmes, 25 Pa. 366, 64 Am.D. 710.

50. Pa—Gordon v Little, 8 Serg. & R 533, 11 Am.D. 632.

such as to show that by custom and usage they include dangers by fire occurring without fault or negligence of the carrier,[51] or casualties other than those arising from the element of water,[52] except where the custom or usage is contrary to law and in contravention of public policy.[53] Parol evidence is not admissible to show that, by a custom existing on a particular river, flat-boat men were not responsible for a loss caused by dangers of the river, although the bill of lading contained no such exception.[54] Evidence that it was usual and customary for one boat on a voyage to stop and aid another boat in distress was held competent to show that such act is not a deviation, where the loss occurred by the sinking of the boat after such aid was rendered.[55]

In determining whether or not the construction of a vessel rendered her unseaworthy, it is proper to consider evidence of the usual custom of shipowners and the usual method of construction of ships and their appliances,[56] but such evidence should be considered in the light of what would appear to be the prudent method of construction,[57] and may be rejected entirely where the construction is obviously defective.[58]

§ 156. —— Weight and Sufficiency of Evidence

General rules as to the weight and sufficiency of the evidence have been applied in actions against carriers by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo. These rules have been applied with respect to the weight and sufficiency of evidence concerning negligence of the carrier, the existence of damage to the goods, the cause of loss or damage, the condition of the goods on delivery to the carrier, the loading and discharge of cargo, and the seaworthiness of the vessel

General rules as to the weight and sufficiency of the evidence,[59] such as that the party having the burden of proof on an issue must prove it by a fair preponderance of the evidence,[60] have been applied in actions against carriers by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo. Proof that the goods were damaged while in the vessel's possession, or that at the time the goods were delivered to the carrier for shipment they were in good order and condition and that they were damaged at the time of their delivery at their destination makes a prima facie case against the carrier,[61] without any proof on the part of plaintiff as to how the damage was caused,[62] unless the goods have been shipped by more than one carrier.[63] So, also, proof of the

51. Ala.—McClure v. Cox, 32 Ala 617, 70 Am D 552
58 C.J p 487 note 33.

52. Ala.—Sampson v Gazzam, 6 Port 123, 30 Am D. 578
Pa.—Gordon v. Little, 8 Serg & R 533, 11 Am D. 632

53. Ala.—Boon v Steamboat Belfast, 40 Ala 184, 88 Am D. 761.
58 C.J. p 487 note 35.

54. Ala.—Boon v Steamboat Belfast, 40 Ala. 184, 88 Am D. 761, overruling Steele v McTyer, 31 Ala 667, 70 Am.D. 516

55. Mo.—Walsh v. Homer, 10 Mo. 6, 45 Am D. 342.

56. U S.—The Indrapura, Or., 190 F 711, 112 C C A. 351—The Titania, D C N.Y., 19 F. 101.

57. U.S.—The Indrapura, Or., 190 F 711, 112 C C.A. 351.

58. U.S.—The Indrapura, supra.

59. U S.—American Trading Co v The Harry Culbreath, C A N Y, 187 F 2d 310—Farr v Hain S. S. Co, C.C.A N Y, 121 F.2d 940—Beck v The Vizcaya, D C Pa, 88 F Supp 818, affirmed, C A, 182 F.2d 942, certiorari denied 71 S Ct. 124, 340 U.S. 877, 95 L Ed 638—The Sophocles, D C.N.Y., 51 F Supp. 953—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp, D C.Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520—The Harry Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y, 8 F Supp. 507.
58 C.J. p 487 note 46, p 488 note 47

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish liability of carrier—Gartland S S Co v Utah-Idaho Sugar Co, C.C A.Wis, 92 F 2d 940.

(2) To establish that carrier was not liable—Edmond Weil, Inc, v American West African Line C C A N Y, 147 F 2d 363—Kasser Distillers Products Corp v Companhia De Navegacao Carregadores Acoreanos, D C. N Y., 76 F Supp. 796—Dixon Irmaos & Cia, Ltd, v. Manhattan Lighterage Corp, D C.N.Y., 75 F.Supp. 593.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish carrier's liability—Anglo-American Fur Merchant Corp. v. U. S., D C N.Y, 77 F Supp. 1000—The Mar Mediterraneo, D C. La, 13 F.Supp. 860.

(2) To establish that transshipment of cargo was a delivery of cargo to shipper either actually or constructively—Anglo-American Fur Merchant Corp. v. U. S., supra.

60. U.S.—Cargo Carriers v. Brown S S Co., D C N Y, 95 F.Supp 288
58 C.J p 476 note 54.

Unusual claims must be established by clear and convincing proof.—The Rosalia, C C.A N.Y., 264 F. 285—58 C J. p 488 note 48.

61. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp v New York Tank Barge Corp, N. Y., 62 S Ct 156, 314 U.S. 104, 86 L Ed. 89—Schnell v. The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S Ct 194, 293 U.S 296, 79 L.Ed 373—U. S. v. Apex Fish Co, C A Wash, 177 F.2d 364—The Mauretania, C.C.A.N.Y, 84 F 2d 408—The Carso, C.C A N.Y, 53 F 2d 374, certiorari denied Navigazione Libera Triestina v. Molinelli, Giannusa & Rao, Inc, 52 S Ct 140, 284 U.S. 679, 76 L.Ed. 574—McNeely & Price Co v. The Exchequer, D C.Pa., 100 F.Supp 343—Wayne v. Inland Waterways Corp, D.C Ill., 92 F Supp. 276—E S. Ullmann-Allied Co. v. The George E Pickett, D C.N.Y, 77 F Supp 988—Cox v Farley, D C N Y, 34 F Supp 446—Daisy Philippine Underwear Co v. U. S Steel Products Co, D C N Y, 11 F Supp 175, affirmed, C C A, U. S Steel Products Co v. American & Foreign Ins. Co., 82 F 2d 752.
58 C J. p 479 note 8.
Burden of proof and presumptions in case of private carrier see supra § 154 j

Bill of lading

Bill-of-lading acknowledgment that raw linseed was shipped in good order established prima facie case of shipper's right to recover for damages by sea water.—The Lassell, D C N.Y, 53 F.2d 687.

62. Tex.—Mallory SS. Co. v. Harriss-Irby Cotton Co, Civ App, 204 S W 789
58 C J. p 479 note 9.

63. First of connecting carriers

Proof that goods were delivered to vessel in good condition and were damaged on delivery to consignee did not establish prima facie case against vessel where vessel delivered goods to another carrier who made delivery of the goods to the carrier and of non-delivery at the destination makes a prima facie case of the carrier's liability.[64] Facts may not be established by speculation or uncertain inferences.[65]

General rules apply as to the weight and sufficiency of the evidence on the question of the right or authority to sue for the loss or injury,[66] the contract of carriage,[67] the delivery of the goods to the carrier,[68] and on the question of the loss or damages occurring while the goods were in the carrier's custody.[69] Such general rules also apply on the issues of wrongful delay[70] or deviation[71] by the vessel.

Negligence in general General rules apply as to the weight and sufficiency of the evidence on the question of the carrier's negligence,[72] and, where delivery to consignee and there was no proof as to the condition of the goods on discharge from the vessel —U. S. Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. v. Waterman S. S. Corp., D.C. La., 62 F.Supp. 511.

64. N.Y.—Reid v. Luckenbach SS. Co., 230 N.Y.S. 602, 133 Misc. 21.
58 C.J. p. 478 note 82

65. U.S.—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470.

66. U.S.—Hickman, Williams & Co. v. Murray Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 820
58 C.J. p. 488 note 49.

67. U.S.—The Hindanger, C.C.A.Cal., 76 F.2d 13

68. U.S.—Kelley v. Cunard SS. Co., C.C.Mass., 120 F. 536, reversed on other grounds 126 F. 610, 61 C.C.A. 532, certiorari denied 24 S.Ct. 853, 193 U.S. 670, 48 L.Ed. 840
58 C.J. p. 488 note 51

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish delivery of goods to carrier—Mackey v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 83 F.Supp. 14.

(2) To establish that goods were not delivered to carrier by railroad —Neuss Hesslein & Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., La.App., 50 So.2d 855.

69. U.S.—The Dondo, D.C.N.Y., 287 F. 239.
58 C.J. p. 488 note 52

Rust stains on bales of goatskins constituted evidence that water damage to goatskins occurred while they were on board vessel —John R. Evans & Co. v. The Express, D.C.Pa., 100 F.Supp. 347.

Application for refund of custom duties

Fact that consignees applied to customs house for refund of duty on ground that part of cargo of onions was decayed was held not conclusive that cargo was not damaged in transit, where rebate was allowed in case of decay or injury destroying commercial value —The Carnia, D.C.N.Y., 2 F.Supp. 929.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish that loss or injury occurred while goods were in carrier's custody—John R. Evans & Co. v. The Express, D.C.Pa., 100 F.Supp. 347—McNeely & Price Co. v. Ellerman & Bucknall S. S. Co., D.C.Pa., 100 F.Supp. 339—The Ciano, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 35—58 C.J. p. 488 note 52 [a] (1), (2).

(2) To establish that loss or injury did not occur while goods were in carrier's custody—McNeely & Price Co. v. The Lambrook, D.C.Pa., 100 F.Supp. 345—58 C.J. p. 488 note 52 [a] (3), (4).

70. U.S.—Grammer S. S. Corporation v. James Richardson & Sons, C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 186—The Terne, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 537.
58 C.J. p. 489 note 54.

Prima facie case

In libel to recover damages for spoilage of cargo during shipment, prima facie case was made by proof of unreasonable and unexcused delay by carrier in delivery of shipment—Wayne v. Inland Waterways Corp., D.C.Ill., 92 F.Supp. 276

71. U.S.—The Wildwood, C.C.A.Wash., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719.
58 C.J. p. 489 note 55.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To show no deviation.—Rudy-Patrick Seed Co. v. Kokusai Kisen Kasushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 85 F.2d 17—The Marianne, D.C.La., 24 F.Supp. 786.

(2) To show that deviation was justified—The Wildwood, C.C.A.Wash., 133 F.2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S. S. Corp., 63 S.Ct. 1436, 319 U.S. 771, 87 L.Ed. 1719—Accinanto, Limited v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., D.C.Md., 99 F.Supp. 261—The Rita Sister, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 480.

Damage from deviation

Evidence was held insufficient to establish that deterioration to cargo of tomatoes would have occurred even without deviation—The Hermosa, C.C.A.Cal., 57 F.2d 20

72. U.S.—Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 199
58 C.J. p. 488 note 53.

Weight of testimony of crew

(1) In libel for cargo damage, in weighing testimony of crew, court could consider fact that crew of vessel are always reluctant to admit responsibility for a loss—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C.Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520

(2) Where loss was not entered in the ship's log and first record in writing was the marine protest executed by the master ten days after the loss occurred and five days after the ship arrived at its destination, testimony of crew given under such circumstances required close scrutiny and was not necessarily to be accepted unless found to be inherently worthy of belief.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., supra.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To show that loss or damage was due to carrier's negligence—James Richardson & Sons v. Conners Marine Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 141 F.2d 226—The Fred Smartley, Jr., C.C.A.Va., 100 F.2d 971—U. S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875—Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., D.C.N.Y., 50 F.2d 199—Imperial Sugar Co. v. Bright Star S. S. Co., D.C.Tex., 92 F.Supp. 693—The Daly No. 40, D.C.N.Y., 76 F.Supp. 700—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. O'Donnell Transp. Co., D.C.N.Y., 62 F.Supp. 239—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Florida Towing Corp., D.C.Fla., 37 F.Supp. 781.

(2) To show that loss of, or injury to, cargo was not due to carrier's negligence.

U.S.—Scarburgh v. Compania Sud-Americana De Vapores, C.A.N.Y., 174 F.2d 423—The Maui, C.C.A.Cal., 113 F.2d 1018, certiorari denied John Demartini Co. v. The Maui, 61 S.Ct. 317, 311 U.S. 709, 85 L.Ed. 461—Automobile Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn. v. Hart-Wood Lumber Co., C.C.A.Cal., 105 F.2d 387—The James Griffiths, C.C.A.Wash., 84 F.2d 785, certiorari denied Sperry Flour Co. v. Coastwise Steamship & Barge Co., 57 S.Ct. 315, 299 U.S. 612, 81 L.Ed. 452, rehearing denied 57 S.Ct. 430, 300 U.S. 686, 81 L.Ed. 888—Krebs Pigment & Chemical Co. v. Sheridan, C.C.A.Pa., 79 F.2d 479—The Vermont, D.C.N.Y., 47 F.Supp. 877.

N.Y.—Proctor & Gamble Mfg. Co. v. Ocean S. S. Co., 267 N.Y.S. 405, 149 Misc. 701.

(3) To show that there was no improper handling of barge by tug, and that tug was free from fault with respect to speed—W. R. Grace & Co. v. Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co., C.A.S.C., 193 F.2d 539.

the burden of proof is on plaintiff, negligence must be established by a fair preponderance of the evidence.[73] The kind and quality of proof required to exonerate the carrier and establish that the loss or damage occurred without fault on its part depend to some extent on the nature of the cargo and the damage suffered.[74]

Loss or injury generally. General rules apply as to the weight and sufficiency of the evidence with respect to the fact of loss of, or injury to, the goods,[75] or a shortage thereof;[76] the time when,[77] and the place where,[78] the injury to the goods occurred; the extent or amount of the loss or injury;[79] the cause of the loss or injury,[80] and notice by the shipper, to the carrier, of his claim for loss or damage.[81]

Condition of goods on delivery to carrier. The good or undamaged condition of the goods at the time of their delivery to the carrier must be established by a preponderance of the evidence.[82] Con-

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To show that loss of, or damage to, cargo was due to carrier's negligence—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A N Y., 106 F. 2d 32—The Anaconda, C.C A N Y., 60 F 2d 898—The Tergestea, D C N Y, 54 F.2d 809—Rhodes v U. S., D C N. Y, 8 F.Supp. 124—The Gothic Star, D C N Y., 4 F Supp. 240.

(2) To show that loss or damage was not due to carrier's negligence—Accinanto, Limited v Cosmopolitan Shipping Co, D C Md, 99 F.Supp 261—The Guanancita, D C Fla., 69 F. Supp 928—Kratina v South Atlantic S. S. Co, D.C Ga, 63 F Supp. 895.

Repair

Evidence that some barrels of wine were recoopered by carrier was not evidence that carrier had been negligent with respect to cargo—The Monte Iciar, D C.Pa., 67 F Supp. 201, affirmed, C C A., 167 F.2d 334.

73. U.S—American Agr Chemical Co. v. O'Donnell Transp Co., D.C N Y, 62 F Supp. 239.

74. U S—Kasser Distillers Products Corp. v Companhia De Navegacao Carregadores Acoreanos, D.C N.Y, 76 F.Supp. 796.

Evidence held sufficient to exonerate carrier

U S.—Kasser Distillers Products Corp. v. Companhia De Navegacao Carregadores Acoreanos, supra.

Evidence held insufficient to exonerate carrier

U.S—The Africa Maru, C C A.N Y, 54 F.2d 265, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Habicht Braun & Co., 52 S Ct. 457, 285 U.S. 556, 76 L Ed. 945—Remington Rand, Inc. v. U. S, D.C N.Y., 98 F Supp. 334—Standard Brands v. Thos & Jno Brocklebank, Limited, D C.N.Y., 81 F.Supp. 670—E. S. Ullmann-Allied Co. v. The George E. Pickett, D C. N.Y., 77 F Supp. 988—The Mangalia, D C N.Y., 69 F Supp. 688—The Ciano, D.C.Pa., 69 F.Supp. 35.

75. U.S.—The M V. Silversandal, D. C.N Y., 26 F.Supp. 61, affirmed, C. C.A., Bache v. Silver Line, 110 F.2d 60.

Mere acceptance or rejection by inspector for purchaser for reasons not apparent is insufficient ground for determining existence of damage properly attributable to ship or owner—The M V. Silversandal, D C N Y., 26 F Supp 61, affirmed, C C A., Bache v Silver Line, 110 F 2d 60

Evidence held sufficient to show damage to goods

U S—Bache v. Silver Line, C C A N Y, 110 F.2d 60—The Norte, D C Pa, 69 F Supp 881, motion denied 71 F Supp. 147—The Mangalia, D C. N Y., 69 F Supp 688

76. U S.—The Rita Sister, D C.Pa, 69 F Supp 480

77. U S—The Monte Iciar, C.C A. Pa, 167 F.2d 334

78. U S—George F Pettinos, Inc, v American Export Lines, D C Pa, 68 F Supp 759, affirmed, C C A, 159 F 2d 247—George F Pettinos, Inc, v Thos. & Jno Brocklebank, Limited, D C.Pa., 65 F.Supp 102

79. U.S.—Baltic Cotton Co. v. U. S, C C.A.Ala., 55 F.2d 568.
58 C J. p 489 note 58.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish amount of damage—The Guanancita, D.C Fla, 69 F. Supp. 928—The Ciano, D C Pa, 69 F Supp 35—The Raleigh, D.C Md., 50 F Supp. 961—The Nichiyo Maru, D C. Md., 14 F.Supp. 727, affirmed, C C A., 89 F.2d 539—58 C J. p 489 note 58 [a].

(2) To establish market value by which cost of replacement could be measured.—The Waalhaven, D.C.N.Y, 1 F Supp 396, affirmed, C C.A., 64 F. 2d 25, certiorari denied The Waalhaven v. Potash Importing Corporation of America, 53 S.Ct. 696, 289 U.S. 752, 77 L.Ed. 1497

(3) To establish proper calculation of damage.—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C. Md., 14 F.Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C A., 89 F.2d 539.

Evidence held insufficient to establish amount of damage

U.S—Stirnimann v The San Diego, C C.A.N.Y., 148 F.2d 141.
58 C.J. p 489 note 58 [b], [c].

80. U.S.—The Georgian, D C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C C.A., 76 F. 2d 550.

Doubt as to cause of damage should be resolved against carrier—Sparks Milling Co. v. U. S., D.C La., 5 F Supp 567—The Carnia, D C N.Y., 2 F Supp 929

Evidence held sufficient to show damage by sea water

U S—Wessels v The Asturias, C C.A. N Y, 126 F 2d 999—Alliance Tobacco Co. v. U S, C.C.A.N Y, 85 F 2d 86—The Dondo, D C N.Y., 287 F 239.

Fla—Bull S. S. Line v Graybar Electric Co., 3 So 2d 122, 147 Fla. 516

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To show what caused damage—The Guanancita, D.C.Fla., 69 F Supp. 928.

(2) To show damage by sea water—U. S. v Cia. Luz Stearica, C.A. Wash, 186 F 2d 594.

(3) To show damage was caused by latent defect.—The Lassell, D.C N.Y, 53 F 2d 687—Kratina v South Atlantic S S. Co, D.C.Ga., 63 F Supp 895.

(4) To show part of damage was not caused by carrier's fault—Sanib Corp. v United Fruit Co, D.C N Y., 74 F Supp. 64.

81. U S—The J. L. Luckenbach, C. C.A N Y., 65 F 2d 570.
58 C J. p 489 note 57.

Evidence held sufficient to show proper notice

U.S—The J L. Luckenbach, supra
58 C J. p 489 note 57 [a].

Evidence held insufficient to show proper notice

U S—The Mar Mediterraneo, D C.La., 13 F.Supp. 860.
58 C J. p 489 note 57 [b].

82. U S.—The Chester Valley, D C La, 28 F Supp 290, affirmed, C.C A., 110 F.2d 592—New England Newspaper Pub. Co v. U S, D C.Mass., 18 F Supp 674.
58 C.J. p 488 note 50.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish that goods were in good condition when delivered to carrier.

U.S—U. S v. Apex Fish Co, C.A. Wash, 177 F.2d 364—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A.N. Y., 106 F.2d 32—Warner Barnes & Co. v Kokosai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A N Y, 102 F 2d 450, modified on other grounds 103 F 2d 430—General Foods Corp. v. The vincing evidence is required to overcome the presumption arising from a clean bill of lading that the goods were in apparent good order and showed no surface evidence of damage.[83] The good internal order of the goods at the time of their delivery to the carrier need not be established by direct affirmative evidence,[84] but may be established by proof of facts and circumstances from which it can be inferred that the damage did not exist when the goods came into the possession of the carrier.[85] The condition of the goods at outturn, that is, on their discharge, may be evidence of their good condition when delivered to the carrier,[86] as where a substantial proportion of the goods are in good condition at outturn.[87] The good internal order of the goods may also be established by proof by the bill of lading that they were in apparent good order when delivered to the carrier and that the cause of the damage was external, not internal.[88]

Care of cargo, loading, stowage, and discharge. General rules apply in actions for the loss of, or injury to, cargo with respect to the weight and sufficiency of the evidence as to the proper care and handling of the cargo,[89] the weight and sufficien-

Troubador, D C N Y., 98 F Supp 207—Petition of Republic of U S of Brazil, D C.N.Y, 91 F Supp. 961—E S. Ullmann-Allied Co v The George E Pickett, D C N Y., 77 F Supp 988—The Mangalia, D C N Y., 69 F.Supp. 688—The Ponce, D.C N J, 67 F Supp 725, affirmed, C C A, Pompeian Olive Oil Corp. v. The Ponce, 160 F 2d 107—Stirnimann v The San Diego, D C.N Y, 55 F Supp. 798, affirmed, C C A., 148 F. 2d 141.

La.—Taormina Corporation v Luckenbach Gulf S S Co., App., 6 So 2d 235.

58 C.J. p 488 note 50 [a].

(2) To establish that goods were inherently defective or were damaged at time of their delivery to carrier—Bingham v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 12 F.Supp 35, affirmed, C C A, 88 F 2d 1004—Rhodes v. U. S., D.C N.Y., 8 F Supp 124—The Georgian, D C Fla, 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C A., 76 F.2d 550.

(3) To show that damage was due to defects inherent in the goods—S. L. Shepard & Co. v. Agwilines, Inc, C C A S C, 130 F.2d 67—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A.N.Y, 106 F 2d 32—The Heranger, C C.A. Cal, 101 F 2d 953—Albers Bros Milling Co v. Hauptman, C C A.Cal., 95 F 2d 286—The Nagisan Maru, D C. N Y, 14 F Supp. 1010—J. Lichtman & Sons v. Dollar S S Line, D C N Y., 13 F Supp 717, affirmed, C C A, 91 F. 2d 1015—The Georgian, D C Fla, 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C C A., 76 F.2d 550.

(4) To show that damage was not due to vice inherent in the goods—The Africa Maru, C C A.N.Y., 54 F 2d 265, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Habicht Braun & Co., 52 S Ct. 457, 285 U S. 556, 76 L Ed 945—E S Ullmann-Allied Co. v The George E Pickett, D C N Y., 77 F Supp. 988.

(5) To show that damage was due to insufficiency of the packing.—Scarburgh v. Compania Sud-Americana De Vapores, C.A N Y, 174 F.2d 423—The Rita Sister, D C Pa, 69 F Supp. 480—The Ponce, D.C N.J., 67 F Supp 725, affirmed, C C A, Pompeian Olive Oil Corp v The Ponce, 160 F 2d 107—The Mar Mediterraneo, D C.La, 13 F Supp 860

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To show that goods were in good or undamaged condition when delivered to carrier—The Niel Maersk, C C A N Y, 91 F 2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v. The Niel Maersk, 58 S Ct 281, 302 U S. 753, 82 L Ed. 582—McNeely & Price Co v The Exchequer, D C.Pa., 100 F.Supp 343.

(2) To establish that goods were damaged or defective at time of delivery to carrier.—The Ciano, D C Pa., 69 F.Supp. 35

(3) To show that damage was caused by defects inherent in the goods—George F Pettinos, Inc, v Thos & Jno Brocklebank, Limited, D C Pa, 65 F Supp 102

(4) To establish sufficiency of packing—Kasser Distillers Products Corp v Companhia De Navegacao Carregadores Acoreanos, D C.N Y, 76 F Supp. 796.

83. U S—John R Evans & Co v The Express, D.C Pa., 100 F Supp 347

Presumption of good condition arising from clean bill of lading see supra § 154 c (3)

Evidence held insufficient to overcome presumption

U S—Stirnimann v. The San Diego, C C A N.Y., 148 F.2d 141

84. U S—The Ponce, D C N.J, 67 F Supp 725, affirmed, C C A, Pompeian Olive Oil Corp. v. The Ponce, 160 F.2d 107.

85. U S—McNeely & Price Co. v. The Exchequer, D.C.Pa, 100 F. Supp 343

86. U S—Warner Barnes & Co v Kokosai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A N Y., 102 F.2d 450, modified on other grounds 103 F 2d 430—The Matilde Peirce, C C.A N Y, 32 F 2d 688—McNeely & Price Co. v The Exchequer, D C.Pa, 100 F Supp. 343.

87. U.S—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A N Y., 106 F 2d 32—General Foods Corp v. The Troubador, D C N Y., 98 F Supp 207—Petition of Republic of U. S. of Brazil, D C N.Y, 91 F Supp. 961.

88. U.S—The Ciano, D C Pa, 69 F. Supp. 35—George F Pettinos, Inc. v Thos & Jno Brocklebank, Limited, 65 F Supp 102

89. U S—General Foods Corp. v. The Troubador, D.C N Y., 98 F. Supp 207

58 C J p 491 note 71.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish due care by carrier—Eppens, Smith Co v. Silver Line, C C A La, 128 F 2d 882—George F Pettinos, Inc, v American Export Lines, D C Pa, 68 F Supp 759, affirmed, C C A., 159 F 2d 247

(2) To establish lack of due care by carrier

U S—The Indien, C C A Cal, 71 F.2d 752—The Cherca, D C N Y, 52 F 2d 644, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 55 F.2d 926—General Foods Corp v. The Troubador, D C N Y, 98 F Supp 207—The Norte, D C Pa., 69 F Supp 881, motion denied 71 F. Supp 147—The Bill, D C Md, 47 F. Supp. 969, affirmed, C C A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F 2d 470.

La—Taormina Corporation v. Luckenbach Gulf S. S. Co, App, 6 So. 2d 235.

Minn—Cargill Grain Co v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S Co, 235 N W. 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct 25, 284 U S 646, 76 L Ed 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S S. Co, 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn. 620.

58 C J p 491 note 71 [a].

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish due care by carrier.—McNeely & Price Co. v Ellerman & Bucknall S. S Co., D.C.Pa., 100 F Supp. 339—General Foods Corp. v. The Troubador, D C N Y, 98 F. Supp 207—The Rio Novo, D.C.N Y, 62 F.Supp 32—58 C.J p 492 note 71 [b]

(2) To establish lack of due care by carrier—Eppens, Smith Co. v Silver Line, C.C A.La, 128 F 2d 882—cy of evidence as to the loading[90] and the stowing[91] of cargo, to the providing of proper ventilation[92] or refrigeration[93] for cargo, and to the discharging of cargo[94] and caring for it after it

Thomas Roberts & Co. v Calmar S S Corp, D C Pa, 59 F Supp 203

90. U S —The Zulia, D C N.Y, 235 F. 433.
58 C.J. p 491 note 68

Presumption of improper loading

A strong presumption that improper loading caused capsizing of vessel which resulted from elimination of unseaworthiness as a possible cause was sufficient to overcome opinion of expert witness that it was physically impossible for the vessel to have capsized as result of the manner in which she was loaded —The S. C L No. 9, C C A.Pa., 114 F.2d 964.

Plimsoll mark

In determining whether seaworthiness of vessel was impaired by overloading, Plimsoll mark placed on ship after mathematical determination of safe loading point should be regarded as very strong evidence of ship's capacity, and efficacy of Plimsoll mark should not be destroyed except on clear and convincing proof that it is erroneously placed or that specific facts warrant finding that loading vessel so as to submerge Plimsoll mark did not render vessel unseaworthy —The Indien, D C Cal, 5 F Supp. 349, affirmed, C.C A, 71 F 2d 752.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish negligence in loading cargo —Connecticut Fire Ins Co v. Lake Transfer Corporation, C C A N.Y, 74 F 2d 258—58 C.J. p 491 note 68 [a].

(2) To establish that vessel was overloaded —The Indien, D.C Cal, 5 F Supp. 349, affirmed, C C A., 71 F 2d 752.

(3) To establish that capsizing of vessel was caused by improper loading.—The S. C L. No. 9, D C Pa., 37 F Supp 386, affirmed, C.C A, 114 F.2d 964—58 C J. p 491 note 68 [a] (3), (4).

Evidence held insufficient to show overloading

U S —Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C A N Y, 106 F 2d 32

91. U.S.—Isthmian S S Co. v. Martin, C A Md, 170 F 2d 25.
58 C J. p 491 note 69

Conformity to standard

A ship was not liable for damage to cargo of rubber, where evidence warranted finding that ship conformed to prevailing standard with respect to manner of stowage, and there was no showing that standard was unreasonable and standard was not so unreasonable that it would be unfair to charge shipper with notice thereof —Bache v Silver Line, C.C.A N.Y., 110 F.2d 60.

Proportion of damage to entire shipment may be considered on question whether there was negligence in stowing cargo.—Cafiero & Mencacci v Navigazione Libera Triestina, S A, D C N Y, 50 F 2d 199

Goods received in good condition

Where the goods have been received by the carrier in good condition and delivered in bad condition, the carrier must satisfactorily show that the goods were properly stowed, proof of proper stowage cannot be supplied by speculation and doubts should be resolved in favor of the shipper.—Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S. A., supra

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish that loss of, or damage to, cargo resulted from improper stowage.—Isthmian S. S Co. v. Martin, C A.Md, 170 F 2d 25—The Florida, C.C A.Md, 61 F 2d 55—Katzenberg v Lamport & Holt, D C N.Y., 59 F 2d 739, affirmed, C C A, 64 F 2d 1014—U. S Industrial Alcohol Co v. Calmar S. S Corporation, D C N.Y., 53 F 2d 1023, reversed on other grounds, C C A, 57 F 2d 182, certiorari denied 53 S Ct 21, 287 U S. 622, 77 L Ed 540 —Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina, S A., D C N Y, 50 F 2d 199—Firestone Plantations Co v. Pan Atlantic S. S Corp, D C N Y., 77 F Supp 401—The Norte, D.C Pa., 69 F Supp 881, motion denied 71 F Supp. 147—The Mangalia, D C N.Y., 69 F.Supp. 688—The Rita Sister, D C Pa, 69 F Supp. 480—U. S. Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. v. Waterman S S. Corp, D C La., 62 F Supp 511—The Schickshinny, D C Ga, 45 F Supp. 813—The J L Luckenbach, D C N Y, 1 F Supp 692, affirmed, C C A, 65 F 2d 570—58 C J p 491 note 69 [a] (1)

(2) To establish proper stowage.—Kasser Distillers Products Corp v Companhia De Navegacao Carregadores Acoreanos, D C N Y, 76 F Supp. 796—The Brenta II, D C N.Y, 5 F Supp 682, affirmed, C C A, Dingfelder v. The Brenta II, 68 F.2d 999, certiorari denied Boera v The Brenta II, 55 S Ct. 91, 293 U S 579, 79 L Ed. 675, rehearing denied 55 S.Ct. 659, 294 U S 733, 79 L Ed 1262—The Tymeric, D C.N.Y., 3 F.Supp. 773—58 C J p 491 note 69 [a] (2), (3), (7).

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish improper stowage —Globe Solvents Co v The California, C C A Pa, 167 F 2d 859, certiorari denied 69 S Ct 67, 335 U.S 844, 93 L Ed 394—The Chester Valley, C C A La., 110 F 2d 592—Spang Chalfant & Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, C.C A.N Y., 57 F 2d 965—The Mangalia, D C.N.Y., 69 F Supp. 688—George F. Pettinos, Inc, v American Export Lines, D C Pa, 68 F Supp. 759, affirmed, C C A, 159 F.2d 247—The Ponce, D C N.J, 67 F Supp. 725, affirmed, C C A, Pompeian Olive Oil Corp v. The Ponce, 160 F.2d 107—Eppens, Smith Co v. Silver Line, D C La., 37 F Supp 684, affirmed, C.C A, 128 F 2d 882—The Terne, D.C N Y, 1 F Supp 537
58 C J p 491 note 69 [b].

(2) To show agreement between parties that libelant's cargoes should not be carried above main deck.—The Velma Lykes, D C.Tex., 6 F.Supp. 886

92. U S —The Nichiyo Maru, D.C Md., 14 F Supp 727, affirmed, C.C. A, 89 F 2d 539
58 C J. p 491 notes 70, 71 [c].

Alteration of entries in ship's log with respect to ventilation of ship during voyage did more than merely discredit document itself as evidence but constituted positive and weighty evidence that damage to cargo was result of improper ventilation —Warner Barnes & Co. v Kokosai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C.A.N Y, 102 F. 2d 450, modified on other grounds 103 F 2d 430.

Evidence held sufficient to establish damage from improper ventilation

U S —Warner Barnes & Co v. Kokosai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, supra—General Foods Corp v The Troubador, D.C N Y., 98 F Supp 207 —The Norte, D C Pa, 69 F Supp 881, motion denied 71 F Supp. 147 —The Mangalia, D C N Y., 69 F Supp 688—The Rita Sister, D C Pa., 69 F Supp. 480—The Nichiyo Maru, D C Md, 14 F Supp. 727, affirmed, C C.A., 89 F 2d 539.

Minn —Cargill Grain Co. v Cleveland-Cliffs S S Co, 235 N W. 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S Ct. 25, 284 U.S 646, 76 L Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S S Co., 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn. 620
58 C J. p 491 note 70 [a].

Evidence held insufficient to establish damage from improper ventilation

U S.—Eppens, Smith Co. v. Silver Line, D C.La., 37 F Supp. 684, affirmed, C.C A, 128 F.2d 882—The Brenta II, D C.N.Y, 5 F Supp. 682, affirmed, C C.A, Dingfelder v. The Brenta II, 68 F.2d 999, certiorari denied Boera v The Brenta II, 55 S Ct. 91, 293 U.S. 579, 79 L Ed. 675, rehearing denied 55 S Ct. 659, 294 U S 733, 79 L Ed 1262.
58 C.J. p 491 note 70 [b].

93. U S.—Cox v. Farley, D C N Y., 34 F Supp. 446—The Georgian, D C Fla, 4 F Supp 718, affirmed, C C A., 76 F.2d 550.

94. U S.—The Bellingham, C C.A N J, 57 F.2d 1015, affirmed in part, has been discharged.[95] It has been held that, where libelant proves negligent stowage and damage, it is sufficient if he shows that such negligence might have caused the damage.[96] The fact that part of the cargo was undamaged does not prove that the damage to the remainder was not due to improper stowage and lack of proper ventilation.[97]

Excepted peril or cause. In order to establish the defense that the loss or damage was due to an excepted peril or cause, the carrier must affirmatively show that fact by clear evidence,[98] and the burden is not sustained by evidence which leaves the matter in doubt[99] whether such doubt exists as to the nature of the injurious occurrence[1] or as to the sufficiency of the cause assigned.[2] Under a bill of lading exempting the carrier from liability for unavoidable dangers, it is not sufficient for the carrier to show merely that the vessel was stranded, but it must be shown that she was stranded by an unavoidable danger;[3] but in an action for a loss, by the perils of navigation within the exceptions of the bill of lading, it is sufficient for defendant to prove that fact generally, and he is not obliged to show affirmatively the particular and identical cause of loss.[4]

Proof that the vessel encountered rough weather is insufficient to establish that the loss or damage was caused by a peril of the sea[5] where the weather was normal for that time of year[6] or might reasonably have been anticipated and could have been withstood by a seaworthy vessel.[7] Mere proof of damage to the cargo by sea water is insufficient to show that the damage arose from an excepted peril.[8] In particular cases, the evidence has been held sufficient to establish that the loss or damage was due to an excepted peril or cause,[9] such as a peril of the sea,[10] or a fault or error in navigation or in the management of the vessel,[11] or the evi-

CCA, A. C Monk & Co. v. U S, 57 F 2d 1018

58 C J. p 492 note 72.

95. U.S—Home Ins Co v Philadelphia Piers, D C Pa, 100 F Supp. 348

58 C J. p 492 note 73.

96. U S—Bingham v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, D C N Y, 12 F Supp. 35, affirmed, C C A, 88 F 2d 1004.

97. U S.—The Nichiyo Maru, C C A Md, 89 F 2d 539.

98. U.S.—The Poznan, D C N.Y., 276 F. 418.

58 C.J. p 484 note 87, p 489 notes 56, 61.

99. U.S.—Commercial Molasses Corp v. New York Tank Barge Corp., N.Y., 62 S Ct 156, 314 U S. 104, 86 L.Ed. 89—Waterman S. S Corp. v U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min Co., C C A.La., 155 F 2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L Ed. 656—The W C Franz, D.C N Y., 2 F Supp. 497, affirmed, C C.A, Hallet Carey Swart, Ltd. v. The Franz, 67 F.2d 995.

58 C J. p 484 note 88

1. U S—The W C. Franz, D.C N.Y, 2 F Supp 497, affirmed, C C.A., Hallet Carey Swart, Ltd., v. The Franz, 67 F 2d 995.

58 C J. p 484 note 89.

2. U.S.—The W. C. Franz, D.C N Y., 2 F.Supp 497, affirmed, C C A, Hallet Carey Swart, Ltd v. The W. C Franz, 67 F 2d 995

58 C J. p 484 note 90.

3. U.S—The Keokuk, D C.Wis., 14 F Cas.No.7,721, 1 Biss 522.

4. Mo.—Hill v Sturgeon, 35 Mo 212, 86 Am.D. 149

5. U.S.—The Lassell, D.C.N.Y, 53 F 2d 687.

6. U.S.—Sturnimann v. The San Diego, D C N Y, 55 F Supp 798, affirmed, C C A, 148 F 2d 141.

Absence of other injury

In suit by shipper against carrier for loss of deck cargo, testimony of ship's master that a severe roll and a short jerk on the next wave occasioned the release of the cargo from its lashings was insufficient to establish loss from a "peril of the sea," in view of further testimony that accompanying weather was not unusual for that vicinity and time of year, and that the roll caused no other injury on ship or any injury to any other ship in the vicinity.—Waterman S. S Corp v. U S Smelting, Refining & Min. Co, C.C.A La, 155 F. 2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S Ct 115, 329 U S 761, 91 L.Ed. 656

7. U.S.—Artemis Maritime Co v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co, C A Va., 189 F 2d 488

8. U.S.—The Asturias, D C N.Y., 40 F Supp 168, affirmed, C C A, Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999

9. U.S—Eppens, Smith Co. v. Silver Line, C.C.A.La., 128 F 2d 882—The Josephine, C.C A.Pa., 49 F.2d 207.

58 C.J. p 484 note 87 [a], p 489 note 61 [a].

Strike

U.S—The Maui, C C A.Cal., 113 F.2d 1018, certiorari denied John Demartini Co. v The Maui, 61 S.Ct 317, 311 U.S. 709, 85 L Ed 461.

Sweat

U S.—Cohen v. Holland-America Line, D C N Y, 6 F Supp 247—The Tymeric, D C.N.Y, 3 F Supp 773.

10. U S—Edmond Weil, Inc. v. American West African Line, C.C. A N Y, 147 F 2d 363—Balfour, Guthrie & Co v. American-West African Line, C C.A.N Y, 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U S. 804, 88 L Ed 486—The Wildwood, C C A.Wash, 133 F 2d 765, certiorari denied Amtorg Trading Corp. v. American Foreign S. S Corp, 63 S Ct. 1436, 319 U.S 771, 87 L Ed. 1719—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C C.A N Y, 106 F 2d 32—Automobile Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn., v. Hart-Wood Lumber Co, C C A Cal, 105 F 2d 337—The Cherca, D C N Y, 52 F 2d 646, affirmed, C.C.A, Dingfelder v. The Cherca, 61 F.2d 1025—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co v. Becker S. S. Co, D C N.Y., 49 F.2d 648—The Josephine, C.C A Pa, 49 F 2d 207—Charles Dreifus Co. v. Diamond P. Transp. Co, D.C Pa., 7 F.Supp 363—The Velma Lykes, D C.Tex, 6 F. Supp. 886—The Brenta II, D C N. Y., 5 F Supp. 682, affirmed, C C.A, Dingfelder v. The Brenta II, 68 F. 2d 999, certiorari denied Boera v. The Brenta II, 55 S Ct 91, 293 U S. 579, 79 L Ed 675, rehearing denied 55 S Ct. 659, 294 U S. 733, 79 L Ed. 1262—Sparks Milling Co. v. U. S, D.C La, 5 F Supp. 567.

Wash—National Grocery Co v Olsen, 108 P 2d 320, 6 Wash 2d 491.

58 C J p 489 notes 56 [a], 61 [a] (1), p 484 note 87 [a]

11. U S—The Temple Bar, C C.A. Md., 137 F.2d 293—The Point Chico, C.C A.Tex., 122 F 2d 1—The West Arrow, C C A N.Y., 80 F 2d 853—The J. L. Luckenbach, C C.A. N.Y, 65 F 2d 570—The Oritani, D. C.Pa., 40 F 2d 522, affirmed Atlantic Fruit Co v. The Oritani, 54 F. 2d 1075—Rooks v Elliott & Watrous, D.C.R.I, 65 F.Supp. 325—The Havana, D.C.N.Y., 45 F.Supp. 244—The Iristo, D.C.N.Y., 42 F.Supp. 29, affirmed, C.C A, Middleton & Co. (Canada) Limited v. Ocean Domindence has been held insufficient to show that the loss or damage was due to an excepted peril or cause,[12] such as a peril of the sea,[13] or a fault or error in navigation or in the management of the vessel.[14]

Fire. In particular actions for loss of, or injury to, cargo by fire, under statutes exempting the carrier from liability for such loss or damage unless occasioned by the carrier's design or neglect, the evidence has been held sufficient[15] or insufficient[16] to establish that the fire was caused by the carrier's design or neglect. Liability under the statute is not established by proof which leaves the cause of the fire in doubt, or which is evenly balanced.[17] Clear proof is required to establish the shipowner's relinquishment of his exemption from liability for loss or damage caused by fire.[18]

Seaworthiness. General rules as to the weight and sufficiency of evidence apply as to the seaworthiness of the vessel.[19] The party having the ion S. S Corp, 137 F 2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S Ct 432, 320 U S 802, 88 L Ed 484—The Aakre, D C N.Y, 31 F Supp. 8, affirmed, C.C A, 122 F 2d 469.

58 C J. p 488 note 53.

12. U S—U. S v Los Angeles Soap Co, C C A Cal, 83 F 2d 875—The Lassel, D C N.Y., 53 F 2d 687—Orient Ins Co v Flota Mercante del Estado, D C La, 102 F Supp 729.
58 C J. p 484 note 88 [a], p 489 note 61 [b]

Sweat

U.S—Alliance Tobacco Co. v U S, D C N Y, 12 F Supp 661, affirmed, C C.A., 85 F 2d 86

13. U S—Waterman S S Corp. v U. S Smelting, Refining & Min Co, C C.A La, 155 F 2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S Ct. 115, 329 U S. 761, 91 L Ed 656—Hullever, S A Division Hulleries Du Congo Belge v The Otho, C C A N Y, 139 F 2d 748, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1047, 322 U. S 735, 88 L Ed 1569—Ore Steamship Corp v. D/S A/S Hassel, C C. A N Y, 137 F.2d 326—The Plow City, C C A Pa, 122 F 2d 816, certiorari denied Plow City S. S. Co. v. Texas Gulf Sulphur Co, 62 S. Ct. 579, 315 U.S. 798, 86 L.Ed 1199—The Mauretania, C C.A.N.Y, 84 F.2d 408—Norris Grain Co. v. Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C.C.A. Ill., 70 F.2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co., 55 S Ct. 75, 293 U S. 565, 79 L Ed. 664—The Vestris, D.C.N.Y, 60 F 2d 273—U S. Industrial Alcohol Co v. Calmar S. S. Corporation, D C.N.Y., 53 F 2d 1023, certiorari denied 53 S Ct 21, 287 U S. 622, 77 L Ed. 540—J. C Penney Co v American Exp. Co, D C N Y, 102 F Supp 742—U. S Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. v Waterman S. S Corp., D C La., 62 F.Supp. 511—The Asturias, D.C N Y, 40 F. Supp 168, affirmed, C.C A, Wessels v. The Asturias, 126 F.2d 999.
58 C.J. p 489 notes 56 [b], 61 [b] (1).

14. U.S—U. S v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875—The W. C. Franz, D.C.N Y., 2 F.Supp. 497, affirmed, C C.A., Hallet Carey Swart, Ltd., v. The Franz, 67 F.2d 995—The Terne, D.C N Y., 1 F.Supp 537.
58 C J p 488 notes 53, p 489 note 61 [b] (2).

15. U S—Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co v Lloyd Brasileiro, C C A. N Y, 159 F 2d 661, certiorari denied Republic of the U. S. of Brazil v. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co, 67 S.Ct 1519, 331 U S 836, 91 L.Ed 1849—Accinanto, Limited v. Cosmopolitan Shipping Co, D C Md, 99 F Supp. 261—The Venice Maru, D C N Y, 39 F Supp 349, affirmed, C. C A., Consumers Import Co. v Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F 2d 781, affirmed 64 S Ct 15, 320 U S 249, 88 L Ed. 30—The Sandgate Castle, D.C N Y., 30 F. Supp 344—The Doris Kellogg, D C. N Y, 18 F Supp 159, affirmed, C C. A, In re Kellogg S S. Corp., 94 F. 2d 1015

Combustion or heat without fire

(1) Evidence established that there was combustion without "fire" so that carrier was not excused from liability under statutory provision that no owner of any vessel shall be liable for loss or damage caused by any "fire" unless "fire" is caused by design or neglect of owner—Cargo Carriers v. Brown S S. Co, D.C N Y, 95 F.Supp. 288

(2) Evidence required finding that damage was caused by "heat" and not by "fire" within the statute exempting owner of vessel from liability for fire unless caused by design or neglect—The Buckeye State, D C N. Y, 39 F Supp. 344

Cause of explosion

Burden to show cause of explosion was met if conditions and circumstances were shown from which inference could reasonably be drawn that explosion was produced as claimed.—The Doris Kellogg, D C N. Y., 18 F Supp. 159, affirmed, C C A, In re Kellogg S. S. Corp, 94 F 2d 1015.

16. U S—American Tobacco Co. v The Katingo Hadjipatera, C.A N. Y., 194 F.2d 449, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct 1076, 343 U.S 978, 96 L Ed —— —Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins Co. v. U. S, C C A N Y., 105 F.2d 160, certiorari denied 60 S Ct 175, 308 U.S. 611, 84 L Ed. 511—The Salvore, C C A N Y, 60 F 2d 683, certiorari denied U S Steel Products Co. v Navigazione Libera Triestina Societa Anonima, 53 S. Ct 117, 287 U S 653, 77 L Ed 565—The Galileo, C C A N Y., 54 F 2d 913, affirmed 53 S Ct. 200, 287 U S. 420, 77 L Ed 403—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins Co. of N Y. v Flota Mercante Del Estado, D C La, 102 F. Supp 861—The Venice Maru, D C N Y, 39 F.Supp 349, affirmed, C.C A., 64 S Ct. 15, 320 U.S 249, 88 L Ed. 30—Consumers Import Co v. Kawasaki Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, 133 F 2d 781, affirmed 64 S.Ct 15. 320 U S 249, 88 L Ed 30—The Cabo Hatteras, D C N Y, 5 F Supp. 725—The Brenta II, D C N.Y., 5 F Supp 682, affirmed, C.C A, Dingfelder v. The Brenta II, 68 F.2d 999, certiorari denied Boera v The Brenta II, 55 S Ct 91, 293 U S 579, 79 L Ed. 675, rehearing denied 55 S Ct. 659, 294 U S. 733, 79 L Ed 1262.

Spontaneous combustion

In libel for damage to cargo as result of fire, evidence was insufficient to establish that fire originated through spontaneous combustion of coal carried in bunker of vessel—Fidelity-Phenix Fire Ins. Co of N. Y v. Flota Mercante Del Estado, D C La, 102 F Supp. 861

17. U S.—Hoskyn & Co. v. Silver Line, Limited, C C A N Y, 143 F. 2d 462, certiorari denied 65 S Ct. 116, three cases, 323 U S 767, 89 L Ed. 613.

18. U.S—The Ida, C C A.N.Y., 75 F 2d 278

19. U.S—Commercial Molasses Corp v New York Tank Barge Corp, N.Y, 62 S Ct. 156, 314 U S 104, 86 L Ed 89—The S. C L. No. 9, D C.Pa., 37 F.Supp. 386, affirmed, C C A., 114 F.2d 964.
58 C.J. p 490 note 62.

Time vessel became unseaworthy

Where lighter was in good condition up to late afternoon of day on which it sank and caused damage to cargo during all of which time it was in the possession of private contract carriers and where lighter sank as soon as a substantial part of the cargo was placed aboard her, evidence in libel for damage to cargo, established that the lighter became unsea-burden of proof on the issue of seaworthiness must prove it by a preponderance of the evidence[20] and must do more than create a doubt which the trier of facts is unable to resolve[21] Where the burden of proof is on the carrier, doubts as to the seaworthiness of the vessel are to be resolved against it,[22] and proof of seaworthiness cannot be supplied by speculation,[23] or by inference or presumption[24] Proof that the goods were lost or damaged while in the possession of a carrier by water establishes a prima facie case of breach of the carrier's warranty that the vessel was seaworthy.[25] Unfitness developing in a vessel shortly after she breaks ground is sufficient evidence of unseaworthiness,[26] and evidence that a vessel carrying an unusually large cargo of particular goods began leaking during the voyage without encountering any unusual seas leads to the conclusion that the vessel was unseaworthy for the transportation of that cargo before the voyage commenced.[27]

The fact that a vessel successfully made numerous trips before and after capsizing tends to overcome the presumption of unseaworthiness arising from the capsizing,[28] but it has been held that, while evidence of previous good condition of a vessel sinking without apparent reason is of some probative value, it will not alone rebut a presumption of unseaworthiness.[29] Where cargo is damaged by the stranding of a vessel, proof that the vessel had stranded on prior occasions is not evidence of unseaworthiness in the absence of evidence as to the cause of the prior strandings.[30] The fact that extensive repairs are made to a vessel after a voyage does not warrant an inference that damage to cargo on such voyage was due to unseaworthiness, where the repairs were not made to correct defects which could have caused the damage.[31]

Where all the direct evidence is to the effect that the vessel was seaworthy when she entered on her voyage, the fact that a short time before she had met with accidents, in one of which she was slightly injured, does not give rise to an inference that her seaworthiness was thereby impaired, where there is no affirmative evidence that she was in fact injured thereby in her hull or machinery.[32] Certificates of seaworthiness or the fact that a boat passed official and other inspections is not conclusive of the fact of seaworthiness,[33] and such certificates are to be valued in the light of what the actual facts disclose.[34]

The burden of proving seaworthiness is sustained prima facie by general proof of seaworthiness and that there was no leak until after stress of very severe weather,[35] particularly where for a considerable time the vessel successfully combated such peril.[36] Where the vessel was unseaworthy, liability for damages caused by its sinking cannot be escaped, without the clearest showing that the disaster was bound to have happened, despite the unseaworthiness.[37] In particular cases, the evidence has been held sufficient to establish that the vessel was seaworthy or insufficient to establish that it was unseaworthy[38] with respect to charts and other worthy while in the hands of the carriers.—Ætna Ins Co. v. Florida Towing Corp, D C.Fla, 37 F Supp. 781.

20. U.S —Commercial Molasses Corp v. New York Tank Barge Corp, N.Y, 62 S.Ct 156, 314 U S. 104, 86 L Ed. 89
58 C J. p 481 note 45
Burden of proof as to seaworthiness see supra § 154 f.

21. U S —Commercial Molasses Corp v. New York Tank Barge Corp, supra—The Indien, C.C.A. Cal, 71 F 2d 752

22. U.S —Cafiero & Mencacci v. Navigazione Libera Triestina S A, D C N Y, 50 F 2d 199—The Heddernheim, D.C N Y, 39 F Supp. 558—The Georgian, D C Fla, 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A, 76 F 2d 550.
58 C J. p 482 note 47

23. U S —Cafiero & Mencacci v Navigazione Libera Triestina, S A, D. C N.Y., 50 F.2d 199

24. U.S —S. C Loveland Co, Inc v. Bethlehem Steel Co., C C A Pa, 33 F.2d 655—Bradley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., N.Y., 153 F. 350, 82 C C. A. 426

25. U S —Franklin Fire Ins Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co, C C. A N Y, 58 F 2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co v. Franklin Fire Ins Co, 53 S Ct. 82, 287 U S. 630, 77 L Ed. 546

26. U.S —Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Howard, C C.A.N Y., 155 F 2d 780

27. U S.—Grace v. Panama R Co, C. C.A N Y, 285 F. 718.

28. U S —The S. C L No. 9, D C. Pa., 37 F Supp. 386, affirmed, C.C. A, 114 F.2d 964
Presumption of unseaworthiness arising from capsizing of vessel see supra § 154 f.

29. U S —S C Loveland Co. v. Bethlehem Steel Co, C C.A Pa., 33 F.2d 655.

30. U S.—The Aakre, C C.A.N Y., 122 F 2d 469, certiorari denied Waterman v. The Aakre, 62 S Ct 360, 314 U S. 690, 86 L Ed 552

31. U S —The Goyaz, C C.A.N Y, 3 F 2d 553, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 230, 267 U S 594, 69 L Ed. 804.

32. U S —The Longfellow, Ohio, 104 F 360, 45 C C A. 379.

33. U S —Newhall v. U. S, D C Cal, 8 F 2d 422—The Georgian, D C Fla, 4 F Supp. 718, affirmed, C C A., 76 F 2d 550—The Abbazia, D.C.N Y, 127 F. 495
58 C.J p 491 note 64.

34. U S —The Vestris, D C N Y., 60 F 2d 273—The Doris Kellogg, D C N Y, 18 F Supp. 159, affirmed, C C A., In re Kellogg S S Corp, 94 F. 2d 1015.

35. U S —The Sandfield, D.C.N Y., 79 F 371, affirmed 92 F. 663, 34 C.C A. 612
58 C.J p 482 note 52.

36. U.S —The Babin Chevaye, Or, 208 F. 966, 126 C C A. 54—Ceballos v. The Warren Adams, N Y., 74 F. 418, 20 C C.A. 486.

37. U S —The Viking, C C A Ohio, 271 F 801.

38. U.S —The Point Chico, C.C.A. Tex, 122 F.2d 1—The S. C L. No. 9, C C A Pa, 114 F.2d 964—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C. C.A.N Y., 106 F 2d 32—Louis-Dreyequipment for proper navigation,[39] sufficient to establish that the vessel was unseaworthy or insufficient to establish that it was seaworthy[40] with respect to charts and other equipment for proper navigation,[41] and sufficient to establish that the unseaworthiness of the vessel was[42] or was not[43] the proximate cause of the loss of, or injury to, the cargo.

Due diligence to make vessel seaworthy. All of the surrounding facts and circumstances are to be fus v. Paterson Steamships, C C A. N Y, 67 F 2d 331—The Smyrna, C. C A Md., 62 F 2d 1048—The Supreme, C.C A N J., 61 F 2d 334—Dreyfus v Paterson Steamships, D C N Y, 59 F 2d 824—Spang Chalfant & Co. v. Dimon S S Corporation, C.C A N Y., 57 F 2d 965—The Josephine, C C A Pa, 49 F 2d 207—Earle & Stoddart v. Ellerman's Wilson Line, D C N Y, 45 F 2d 231, affirmed, C C A, The Galileo, 54 F 2d 913, affirmed 53 S Ct 200, 287 U S. 420, 77 L Ed. 403—O'Donnell Transp. Co. v. Tidewater Iron & Steel Co., D.C N J., 90 F Supp 953, affirmed, C A, 185 F 2d 675—Kasser Distillers Products Corp v Companhia De Navegacao Carregadores Acoreanos, D C N.Y, 76 F Supp 796—The Temple Bar, D C Md., 45 F Supp 608, affirmed, C C A, 137 F 2d 293—The Ariel, D C N Y, 33 F Supp. 573, affirmed, C C.A., 119 F.2d 866—Sparks Milling Co v U S, D C La., 5 F.Supp 567—The Tymeric, D C N.Y, 3 F Supp 773.

N Y—Proctor & Gamble Mfg Co v Ocean S S Co, 267 N.Y.S. 405, 149 Misc. 701.

58 C J. p 490 note 62 [a] (1), [b] (2) (4).

39. U S—The Temple Bar, C C A Md., 137 F 2d 293—The Aakre, C. C A N Y, 122 F.2d 469, certiorari denied Waterman v. The Aakre, 62 S Ct. 360, 314 U S. 690, 86 L Ed 552—The Iristo, D C N.Y, 43 F Supp. 29, affirmed, C C.A., Middleton & Co. (Canada) v. Ocean Dominion S S. Corp, 137 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S Ct. 432, 320 U S. 802, 88 L Ed 484—The Denali, D C Wash, 23 F Supp. 145, reversed on other grounds, C C.A, 105 F 2d 413, adhered to 112 F 2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska S S Co. v. Pacific Coast Coal Co., 61 S Ct. 65, 311 U.S 687, 85 L Ed 444.

Statements in text-books and manuals concerning importance of keeping charts corrected, "up to date," and "down to time of sailing" represented only opinions and advice of authors and did not establish general custom or fix standard of seaworthiness, with respect to whether shipowner used due diligence in making ship seaworthy in respect of charts furnished so as to be entitled to exemption from liability for cargo claims resulting from faults or errors in navigation or management of ship—Daisy Philippine Underwear Co. v. U. S. Steel Products Co., D.C. N Y, 11 F Supp 175, affirmed, C C A, U S Steel Products Co v. American & Foreign Ins Co, 82 F 2d 752

40. U S—W. R. Grace & Co v Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co, C A S C, 193 F 2d 539—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co, C A Va, 189 F 2d 488—James Richardson & Sons v. Conners Marine Co, C C A N.Y, 141 F.2d 226—Huilever, S A Division Huileries Du Congo Belge v The Otho, C C A N Y, 139 F 2d 748, certiorari denied 64 S Ct 1047, 322 U S. 735, 88 L.Ed 1569—Interlake Iron Corp. v. Gartland S S. Co, C C.A Mich, 121 F 2d 267, certiorari denied Gartland S S Co. v Interlake Iron Corp., 62 S Ct. 181, 314 U S. 681, 86 L Ed 545—The Fred Smartley, Jr, C C A Va, 100 F.2d 971—Gardner v Dantzler Lumber & Export Co, C C A Fla., 98 F 2d 478—The Mauretania, C C A N Y., 84 F 2d 408—U. S v. Los Angeles Soap Co, C C A Cal, 83 F 2d 875—In re Great Lakes Transit Corp, C C A Ohio, 81 F 2d 441—The Indien, C C.A Cal, 71 F 2d 752—Norris Grain Co v Great Lakes Transit Corporation, C.C A Ill., 70 F 2d 32, certiorari denied Great Lakes Transit Corporation v. Norris Grain Co, 55 S Ct 75, 293 U.S. 565, 79 L Ed 664—The Framlington Court, C C A Tex., 69 F 2d 300, certiorari denied United British S S Co v. Newfoundland Export & Shipping Co, 54 S Ct 860, 292 U S 651, 78 L Ed 1500—The J L. Luckenbach, C C A N Y, 65 F 2d 570—The T. J Hooper, C C A N Y., 60 F 2d 737, certiorari denied Eastern Transp Co v Northern Barge Corp, 53 S Ct 220, 287 U S 662, 77 L Ed 571—American Agr Chemical Co v. Brooklyn & Buffalo Nav. Co, D C N Y, 56 F 2d 271—California & Hawaiian Sugar Refining Corporation v Rideout, C C A Cal, 53 F.2d 322—The Daly No 40, D C. N.Y, 76 F Supp 700—The Mary M, D C.N.Y., 73 F Supp 674—The Vizaya, D C.Pa, 63 F Supp 898—The Bill, D C Md., 47 F Supp 969, affirmed, C C.A, Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc, 145 F.2d 470—The Cypria, D C.N.Y., 46 F Supp 816, affirmed, C.C A., Ore S S Corp. v. D/S. A/S Hassel, 137 F.2d 326—The Commerce, D C.N Y., 46 F Supp. 360, affirmed, C C A., New England S S. Co. v. Howard, 130 F 2d 354—The Zarembo, D C.N Y, 44 F Supp 915, affirmed, C C A, Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie & Co v The Zarembo, 64 S.Ct 437, 320 U.S 804, 88 L Ed. 486—The Heddernheim, D C N Y, 39 F Supp. 558—The City of Brunswick, D C Mass, 4 F Supp 908—The Point Brava, D C Cal, 1 F. Supp 366.

58 C J p 490 note 62 [a] (3), (4), (7), (10)–(12), [b] (1).

41. U S—The Maria, C C A Va, 91 F 2d 819.

42. U S—James Richardson & Sons v. Conners Marine Co, C C A.N.Y, 141 F 2d 226—Huilever, S A Division Huileries Du Congo Belge v The Otho, C.C A N Y, 139 F 2d 748, certiorari denied 64 S Ct. 1047, 322 U.S 735, 88 L Ed 1569—American Agr. Chemical Co. v. Brooklyn & Buffalo Nav. Co, D C.N Y., 56 F 2d 271—American Co for International Commerce v. U. S, D C.N.Y., 26 F.2d 468—The Mary M., D.C N Y, 73 F Supp 674—The Bill, D.C Md, 47 F.Supp. 969, affirmed, C C A, Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F 2d 470—The Iristo, D C N Y, 43 F Supp. 29, affirmed, C C A, Middleton & Co. (Canada) Limited v. Ocean Dominion S S. Corp, 137 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S. Ct 432, 320 U.S. 802, 88 L Ed. 484—The Maria, D.C Va, 7 F Supp. 724.

58 C J p 490 note 62 [a] (2), (5), (6), (8), (9), (14).

43. U S—The Temple Bar, C C A. Md, 137 F 2d 293—The Aakre, C C. A N Y, 122 F 2d 469, certiorari denied Waterman v. The Aakre, 62 S. Ct 360, 314 U S. 690, 86 L Ed 552—Automobile Ins Co of Hartford, Conn v Hart-Wood Lumber Co, C C A Cal, 105 F 2d 387—Yokohama Specie Bank v. Mitsui & Co., C C. A.N Y, 73 F.2d 526, certiorari denied Yokohama Specie Bank v Mitsui & Co, 55 S Ct 648, 295 U S. 736, 79 L Ed 1684—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co v Becker S. S Co, D C N. Y, 49 F 2d 648—The Iristo, D C N. Y, 43 F Supp 29, affirmed, C C.A, Middleton & Co (Canada) Limited v. Ocean Dominion S S Corp, 137 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 432, 320 U S 802, 88 L.Ed. 484—The Denali, D C Wash, 23 F Supp. 145, reversed on other grounds, C. C.A, 105 F.2d 413, adhered to 112 F.2d 952, certiorari denied Alaska S S Co v Pacific Coast Coal Co, 61 S Ct 65, 311 U S 687, 85 L Ed 444 considered in determining whether or not the carrier exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy,[44] and visual inspection,[45] inspection of the hull and machinery of the vessel,[46] or diligence in the acquisition of seaworthiness certificates,[47] is not conclusive as to the fulfillment of its duty by the carrier. Where the burden is on the carrier to establish due diligence, doubts must be resolved against it,[48] and the carrier's uncontradicted testimony is not conclusive.[49] The burden of showing due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy is not sustained by evidence of a superficial inspection,[50] or by evidence so indefinite that it is impossible to say that any real inspection has been made,[51] or by evidence that competent men were employed to do the work,[52] and the establishment of due diligence is not left to presumption.[53]

58 C J. p 490 note 62 [b] (3), (6).

In case of damage by a leak, the burden is not discharged by simply showing that the ship was in a seaworthy condition at the commencement of the voyage, and presenting evidence which merely leaves in doubt the question as to how the leak arose.[54] A latent defect, not discoverable by due diligence, must be established by proof and not by conjecture.[55] The carrier cannot satisfy the burden of proving a latent defect without producing the defective part and without testimony by a competent witness on the latent defect,[56] but no inference against the carrier will be drawn from his failure to produce the defective part, where there is an adequate excuse for such failure.[57] A certificate

44. U.S.—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F.Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish that carrier exercised due diligence—Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 427, 320 U.S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486—The Quarrington Court, C.C.A.N.Y., 122 F.2d 226—Franklin Fire Ins. Co. v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 807, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 58 F.2d 175, certiorari denied Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Franklin Fire Ins. Co., 53 S.Ct. 82, 287 U.S. 630, 77 L.Ed. 546—General Foods Corp. v. The Troubador, D.C.N.Y., 98 F.Supp. 207—The Vermont, D.C.N.Y., 47 F.Supp. 877—The Zarembo, D.C.N.Y., 44 F.Supp. 915, affirmed, C.C.A., Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. American-West African Line, 136 F.2d 320, certiorari denied Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. The Zarembo, 64 S.Ct. 437, 320 U.S. 804, 88 L.Ed. 486—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558—The Aakre, D.C.N.Y., 31 F.Supp. 8, affirmed, C.C.A., 122 F.2d 469—The Marianne, D.C.La., 24 F.Supp. 786—The Emilia, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Supp. 7—Sparks Milling Co. v. U. S., D.C.La., 5 F.Supp. 567

(2) To establish that carrier did not exercise due diligence—The J. L. Luckenbach, C.C.A.N.Y., 65 F.2d 570—The Anaconda, C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F.2d 898—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898—The Otho, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 945, affirmed, C.C.A., Hulever, S. A. Division Huileries Du Congo Belge v. The Otho, 139 F.2d 748, certiorari denied American West African Line v. "Hulever" S. A. Division Huileries Du Congo Belge, 64 S.Ct. 1047, 322 U.S. 735, 88 L.Ed. 1568—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F.Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Great Lakes Transit Corp., D.C.Mich., 32 F.Supp. 520—The City of Brunswick, D.C.Mass., 4 F.Supp. 908.

(3) To support finding that numerous surveys or inspections of vessel were incomplete—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488

(4) To establish that defect was latent and not discoverable by due diligence—The Quarrington Court, C.C.A.N.Y., 122 F.2d 266.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish that carrier exercised due diligence

U.S.—In re Great Lakes Transit Corp., C.C.A.Ohio, 81 F.2d 441—The Chehaw, D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 645—The Cypria, D.C.N.Y., 46 F.Supp. 816, affirmed, C.C.A., Ore S. S. Corp. v. D/S. A/S. Hassel, 137 F.2d 326.

Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.

(2) To establish carrier's failure to exercise due diligence—The Temple Bar, D.C.Md., 45 F.Supp. 608, affirmed, C.C.A., 137 F.2d 293.

(3) To establish that defects were latent and not discoverable by due diligence—Hulever, S. A. Division Huileries Du Congo Belge v. The Otho, C.C.A.N.Y., 139 F.2d 748, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1047, 322 U.S. 735, 88 L.Ed. 1569—Kratina v. South Atlantic S. S. Co., D.C.Ga., 63 F.Supp. 895.

45. U.S.—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—Ore Steamship Corp. v. D/S A/S Hassel, C.C.A.N.Y., 137 F.2d 326

46. U.S.—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 898.

47. U.S.—The Folmina, N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 363, 212 U.S. 354, 53 L.Ed. 546—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—The Abbazia, D.C.N.Y., 127 F. 495

48. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.

Cal.—Blake, Moffitt & Towne v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 6 P.2d 121, 120 Cal.App.Supp. 775.

Burden of proof as to due diligence to make vessel seaworthy see supra § 154 f

49. U.S.—Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Howard, C.C.A.N.Y., 155 F.2d 780.

50. U.S.—Martin v. The Southwark, Pa., 24 S.Ct. 1, 191 U.S. 1, 48 L.Ed. 65.

58 C.J. p. 482 note 48

51. U.S.—Nederlandsche Amerikaansche Stoomvaart Maatschappij v. Mediterranean, etc., Traders, Inc., C.C.A.La., 17 F.2d 586

N.Y.—Williams v. Lamport, 224 N.Y.S. 587, 130 Misc. 644

52. U.S.—Nederlandsche Amerikaansche Stoomvaart Maatschappij v. Mediterranean, etc., Traders, Inc., C.C.A.La., 17 F.2d 586.

N.Y.—Williams v. Lamport, 224 N.Y.S. 587, 130 Misc. 644.

53. U.S.—The Heddernheim, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.Supp. 558

54. U.S.—The Queen, D.C.Cal., 78 F. 155, affirmed 94 F. 180, 36 C.C.A. 135, reversed on other grounds 21 S.Ct. 278, 180 U.S. 49, 45 L.Ed. 419.

55. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.

56. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., supra.

57. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., supra.

of apparent good condition does not warrant any consideration in determining if a latent defect existed.[58]

§ 157. —— Trial

General rules as to trial in civil actions apply in actions against carriers by water for loss of or injury to, cargo.

The general rules of procedure in respect of trials in civil actions, particularly in similar actions against carriers generally, as discussed in Carriers § 257 et seq, and in so far as relevant the rules governing procedure in admiralty, apply in actions against carriers by water for loss of, or injury to, goods,[59] such as in respect of the reception of evidence,[60] the instructions of the court,[61] and the verdict or findings,[62] or decree in admiralty.[63] In the absence of proof of unseaworthiness or negligence in handling the vessel or cargo a libel for damages to a shipment may properly be dismissed;[64] and, where libelant has retained from freight due more than double the amount of damages proved, it is not error to dismiss the libel, with costs to respondent.[65]

Questions of law and fact. In accordance with general rules, where the evidence in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo is conflicting or subject to different conclusions, the case should be submitted to the jury or other trier of facts,[66] and should not be disposed of by the court as a matter of law.[67] On the other hand, where the facts are undisputed or there is no substantial conflict in the evidence, and but one conclusion may reasonably be drawn therefrom, the question is one of law for the court.[68]

Subject to these rules, it is usually a question of fact for the jury or other trier of facts as to whether the goods were lost or injured through negligence of the carrier;[69] whether the vessel was seaworthy;[70] whether the carrier exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy;[71] whether the loss of, or damage to, the cargo was caused by the unseaworthiness of the vessel,[72] or by a peril of the sea or danger of navigation within an exception in the bill of lading;[73] whether the consignee proceeded with reasonable diligence to unload the cargo;[74] and whether a reasonable time had elapsed for the removal of goods on a wharf after notice to

58. U.S.—Waterman S. S Corp. v U S Smelting, Refining & Min Co., supra

59. Fla.—Clyde SS Co. v. Burrows, 18 So 349, 36 Fla. 121.
58 C J. p 492 note 77.

60. U S.—The Caledonier, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 562.
58 C J p 492 note 78

61. Minn.—Cargill Grain Co. v. Cleveland-Cliffs S. S Co., 235 N.W. 268, 182 Minn. 516, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 25, 284 U.S. 646, 76 L.Ed. 549, followed in Cargill Grain Co v Cleveland-Cliffs S. S. Co., 237 N.W. 197, 183 Minn 620
Wash.—Lagomarsino v Pacific Alaska Nav. Co., 170 P 368, 100 Wash. 105.
58 C J. p 492 note 79

62. Or.—Sevier v. Mitchell, 142 P. 780, 72 Or. 483.
58 C J. p 493 note 80.
Informal findings held sufficient
U.S.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed 373
Findings held not inconsistent
U.S.—American Trading Co. v The Harry Culbreath, C.A.N.Y., 187 F. 2d 310.

63. U.S.—The Marinin, C.C.N.Y., 32 F 918.
58 C.J. p 493 note 81.

64. U.S.—The Katie E., D.C.N.Y., 46 F.2d 534.
58 C.J. p 493 note 82

65. U.S.—The Lyra, Cal., 255 F. 667, 167 C.C.A. 43.

66. Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P 2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491
58 C J p 493 notes 85, 86—10 C J p 149 note 44 [c]
Agency held fact question
U.S.—Fyfe v. Pan-Atlantic S. S. Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 114 F 2d 72, certiorari denied Pan-Atlantic S S. Corp. v Fyfe, 61 S.Ct 319, 311 U S. 711, 85 L.Ed. 462.
Reference to special commissioner held warranted
U.S.—The Harry Luckenbach, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 507.

67. Tex.—Mallory SS. Co. v. G. A. Bahn Diamond, etc., Co., Civ.App., 154 S.W 282.
58 C J. p 493 note 87.

68. Mass.—Cunningham Leather Co. v American-Hawaiian S. S. Co., 189 N.E 98, 285 Mass. 232

69. U.S.—The Niel Maersk, C.C.A.N.Y., 91 F.2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v. The Niel Maersk, 58 S. Ct. 281, 302 U.S. 753, 82 L.Ed 582.
58 C J. p 493 note 88
Improper stowage
U.S.—The Niel Maersk, C.C.A.N.Y., 91 F 2d 932, certiorari denied Bradley v The Niel Maersk, 58 S. Ct. 281, 302 U.S. 753, 82 L.Ed 582 —The Hog Island, C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F 2d 101.
Improper loading
Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P 2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491.
Refrigeration
In action for damage to shipment of watermelons, whether refrigeration on ship was inadequate, whether inadequacy, if any, caused or contributed to damage, and whether shippers were warned of inadequacy, if any, and, nevertheless, expressed willingness to take risk of damage, were questions for jury.—S L. Shepard & Co v. Agwilines, Inc., C.C.A S.C., 130 F 2d 67.

70. Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P.2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491.
58 C J. p 493 note 89.
Surveys, inspections, and ratings
Whether vessel is seaworthy is a question of fact to be decided independently of surveys, inspections, and ratings.—Rosenberg v Atlantic Transport Co., D.C.Cal., 25 F 2d 739, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Transport Co. of West Virginia v. Rosenberg Bros & Co., 34 F 2d 843
Proper construction of vessel
Wash.—National Grocery Co. v. Olsen, 108 P 2d 320, 6 Wash.2d 491

71. U.S.—The Point Brava, D.C.Cal., 1 F.Supp 366.

72. U.S.—Galle v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfarht Actien Gesellschaft, N.Y., 233 F. 424, 147 C C.A. 360.

73. U.S.—The Governor Powers, D.C. Mass., 243 F. 961.
58 C.J. p 493 note 92.

74. N.Y.—Scheu v Benedict, 22 N. E. 1073, 116 N.Y. 510, 15 Am S R. 426.

the consignee.[75] In determining whether goods were transported with reasonable dispatch, the crowded condition of the harbor, making the dispatch of goods difficult, constitutes a question of fact relative to how much the delivery should have been delayed thereby.[76]

§ 158. —— Extent of Liability and Damages in General

As a general rule the measure of damages in an action against a carrier by water for loss of, or injury to, cargo is the actual loss sustained by the owner of the cargo, that is, all the damages which proximately resulted from the carrier's negligence or breach of duty or contract.

As a general rule the measure of damages, in an action or libel against a carrier by water, for loss of, or injury to, cargo is the actual loss sustained by the owner of the cargo, that is, all the damages which proximately result to him from the carrier's negligence or breach of duty or of contract,[77] subject, of course, to the limitations that such damages only can be recovered as are authorized by the pleadings, as discussed supra § 153 c, and that there can be no recovery for damages which are too remote or speculative,[78] such as anticipated profits,[79] but it has been held that, where the goods were shipped with the view of realizing a profit on their sale, a reasonable sum may be added for the importer's profit.[80] Where the contract of carriage limits liability to the shipper's actual pecuniary loss, it has been held that anticipated profits may not be recovered.[81]

Special damages not within the contemplation of the parties when the contract of carriage was made are not recoverable.[82] On a deviation because of unseaworthiness, the shipper may recover all damage legally attributable to the breach of warranty of seaworthiness;[83] and, where all of the goods received have been delivered but some of them have been so damaged that they cannot be identified, recovery may be had for the goods which were lost as well as damage to those which can be identified.[84]

Value of goods as measure of recovery. The loss suffered by the owner of the cargo lost or damaged is ordinarily measured by the market value of the goods,[85] but market value is only a convenient measure of the loss[86] and other means may be re-

75. N.Y.—Goodwin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 58 Barb. 195, reversed on other grounds 50 N.Y. 154.

76. U.S.—Transmarine Corp. v. Levitt, C.C.A.N.Y., 25 F.2d 275.

77. U.S.—Pan-Am. Trade & Credit Corp. v. The Campfire, C.C.A.N.Y., 156 F.2d 603, certiorari denied Waterman S. S. Corp. v. P. A. T. & C. Corp., 67 S.Ct. 194, 329 U.S. 774, 91 L.Ed. 666—The Bill, D.C.Md., 47 F.Supp. 969, affirmed, C.C.A., Lorentzen v. Brazil Oiticica, Inc., 145 F.2d 470—U. S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., C.C.A.Mass., 61 F.2d 455.
58 C.J. p. 494 note 97.

Injury not involving pecuniary loss
A change in shape or flattening of rubber bales which have no uniform size or shape cannot be an element of damage to rubber cargo fairly attributable to ship except in extreme cases.—The M. V. Silversandal, D.C.N.Y., 26 F.Supp. 61, affirmed, C.C.A., Bache v. Silver Line, 110 F.2d 60.

Agreement by surveyor of damage
Surveyor engaged by claimant-respondent to make a joint survey of cargo damage and to take care of salvage did not have authority to bind claimant-respondent by agreement that proportion of damaged bags in each category among bags examined would be deemed proportion in each category among all damaged bags, including those not examined.—Beck v. The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 88 F.Supp. 818, affirmed, C.A., 182 F.2d 942, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 124, 340 U.S. 877, 95 L.Ed. 638.

78. U.S.—The Muskegon, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.2d 817.
58 C.J. p. 494 note 99.

Loss of good will because of delayed delivery of goods to fill orders was held too remote and speculative to warrant recovery of damages therefor.—U. S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., C.C.A.Mass., 61 F.2d 455.

79. U.S.—U. S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., supra—Eastern Transp. Co. v. Blue Ridge Coal Corp., D.C.N.Y., 53 F.Supp. 507, affirmed, C.C.A., 159 F.2d 642.
58 C.J. p. 494 note 1.

80. U.S.—Northern Commercial Co. v. Lindblom, Alaska, 162 F. 250, 89 C.C.A. 230.

81. U.S.—The M. S. Californian, C.C.A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 283, certiorari denied J. V. Lane & Co. v. The M. S. Californian, 56 S.Ct. 959, 298 U.S. 690, 80 L.Ed. 1408, rehearing denied 57 S.Ct. 6, 299 U.S. 620, 81 L.Ed. 457.

82. N.Y.—Winkler v. Compania Sud Americana De Vapores, 41 N.Y.S.2d 67, 180 Misc. 181.

Change in form of action to conversion
Where plaintiff sought to recover for carrier's failure to deliver merchandise, a change in form of action from contract to conversion did not give plaintiff the right to recover special damages.—Winkler v. Compania Sud Americana De Vapores, supra.

Agent's expenses resulting from delay
In absence of provision in contract for shipment of merchandise to Panama for special damage in event of delay, or of anything in shipper's bill of particulars indicating that such special damage was in contemplation of contracting parties, or that carrier was put on notice of special circumstances calling for special damages, shipper could not recover for agent's expenses incurred in spending forty-five additional days in Panama, or for additional expense of returning agent to New York by airplane as a result of carrier's delay in shipment.—Winkler v. Compania Sud Americana De Vapores, supra.

83. U.S.—France v. French Overseas Corp., N.Y., 48 S.Ct. 516, 277 U.S. 323, 72 L.Ed. 901.

84. U.S.—The Good Hope, D.C.N.Y., 190 F. 597, affirmed 197 F. 149, 116 C.C.A. 573.

85. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.

The invoice value of lost goods is not the proper basis for measuring damages.—Kemsley v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 19 F.2d 441.

86. U.S.—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656.

sorted to if a market value is not available[87] or is not an adequate or proper measure of the loss,[88] or if a better means of measuring the loss is available.[89] Where the goods have no market value at the port of destination, the measure of damages may be such a sum as would enable plaintiff to replace the goods at that point,[90] that is, the price or value of the goods at the place of shipment,[91] together with all charges of lading and transportation,[92] and, where the goods have no market value at the place of shipment, resort may be had to other means of ascertaining their actual value, such as the price which they usually bring at the port of destination, with a fair deduction for profits and charges.[93]

In case of a loss of goods, through its fault, the carrier is ordinarily liable for the value of the lost goods,[94] and in case of injury to the goods, it is ordinarily liable only for the diminution in its value by reason thereof.[95] Where the goods have been wrongfully converted by the carrier, the measure of damages is their value at the time of the conversion.[96]

Stipulation as to value of goods. A valid stipulation as to the value of the goods embodied in the contract of carriage will be followed in measuring the damage sustained by a loss of, or injury to, the goods.[97] Under a clause in the bill of lading making the declared value or the invoice cost the measure of the value of the goods for the purpose of determining damages, the damages are to be computed by deducting the value of the damaged goods from the value fixed by the clause,[98] and not by a percentage of the value of the goods as fixed by the clause, based on the ratio which the value of the damaged goods bears to their value if sound.[99] Where the bill of lading provided that damages should be adjusted on the basis of invoice value and that the carrier should in no case be liable for more than the actual pecuniary loss suffered, it was held that plaintiff's damages were to be measured by invoice value or market value, whichever was lower.[1]

Loss or injury occurring at place of shipment. When the loss of, or injury to, cargo occurs at the place where it is laden, and before the voyage begins, the measure of damages is ordinarily based on the value of the cargo at the port of shipment,[2] unless special circumstances exist which make the carrier liable for the value at the port of delivery.[3] However where the vessel, by a tortious deviation, returns to the port of shipment, the measure of damages to the shipper is the difference in value of the goods at the port of discharge, delivered at a reasonable time after the ship arrived there, and their value in the port of shipment when delivered.[4]

Where loss or injury occurs after leaving place of shipment. It has been held that the ordinary measure of damages for the breach of a contract of affreightment, where the goods have been unlawfully lost or disposed of at an intermediate port, 87. U.S.—Waterman S.S. Corp. v. U.S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., supra—U.S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., C.C.A.Mass., 61 F.2d 455.

88. U.S.—U.S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., supra.

Goods for manufacture

Corporation importing mahogany logs for manufacture and sale in manufactured form cannot recover market value thereof as damages for delayed delivery, especially in absence of substantial market therefor, damage being limited to resulting diminution in price received for manufactured mahogany.—U.S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., supra.

89. U.S.—Waterman S.S. Corp. v. U.S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656—U.S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., C.C.A.Mass., 61 F.2d 455.

90. U.S.—Waterman S.S. Corp. v. U.S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656—Northern Commercial Co. v. Lindblom, Alaska, 162 F. 250, 89 C.C.A. 230.

91. U.S.—Northern Commercial Co. v. Lindblom, supra.
58 C.J. p. 495 note 19.

92. U.S.—The Scotland, N.Y., 105 U.S. 24, 26 L.Ed. 1001
58 C.J. p. 495 note 20.

93. U.S.—The Scotland, supra.

94. U.S.—The City of Para, D.C.N.Y., 44 F. 689.
58 C.J. p. 494 note 5.

95. U.S.—The City of Para, supra.
58 C.J. p. 495 note 6.

96. U.S.—Vanderbilt v. Ocean S.S. Co., N.Y., 215 F. 886, 132 C.C.A. 226

97. U.S.—Smith v. The Ferncliff, Md., 59 S.Ct. 615, 306 U.S. 444, 83 L.Ed. 862—The Merauke, C.C.A.N.Y., 31 F.2d 974.
58 C.J. p. 496 note 25
Stipulations as to value generally see supra § 137.

Averaging damage

Where the contract of carriage limits the value of each item shipped, computing the damages on the basis of the injury to the entire shipment or the average damage to each item is improper, and the injury to each item must be ascertained to give the carrier the benefit of the limitation of value clause in the contract.—The Caledonier, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 562

98. U.S.—Smith v. The Ferncliff, Md., 59 S.Ct. 615, 306 U.S. 444, 83 L.Ed. 862.

99. U.S.—Smith v. The Ferncliff, supra.

1. U.S.—The M.S. Californian, C.C.A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 283, certiorari denied J.V. Lane & Co. v. The M.S. Californian, 56 S.Ct. 959, 298 U.S. 690, 80 L.Ed. 1408, rehearing denied 57 S.Ct. 6, 299 U.S. 620, 81 L.Ed. 457.

2. U.S.—Dusar v. Murgatroyd, C.C.Pa., 8 F.Cas.No.4,199, 1 Wash.C.C. 13.
58 C.J. p. 495 note 9.

3. U.S.—The Joshua Barker, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.Cas.No.7,547, Abb.Adm. 215.

4. U.S.—The Poznan, D.C.N.Y., 276 F. 418
58 C.J. p. 495 note 11.

is their prime cost[5] or value[6] at such port; but as a general rule, where the goods are lost in transit, the measure of damages is the market value of the goods at the port of destination at the time when delivery should have been made.[7]

If the goods are merely injured, the measure of damages is the difference between their market value at the time and place of delivery, in such condition as they would have arrived but for the carrier's fault, and their market value in the condition in which they did actually arrive there.[8] The market value of damaged goods is ordinarily determined by the price brought by the damaged goods at a fair sale thereof,[9] at the nearest available market,[10] and not by the testimony of experts.[11] After such sale of the injured goods, the measure of damages is the difference between the market value of the goods at the place of delivery in good condition and the net amount realized from their sale in their damaged condition.[12]

A sale by the consignee is not binding on the carrier so as to fix its liability as to the amount of damages unless it is made at auction with notice to the carrier,[13] or after an appraisement, with notice, has been made.[14] Where, the goods are shipped under a contract of sale, at a stipulated price, at the port of destination, and, the buyer refusing to accept them, they are sold for the account of the seller, the market price is not the proper basis for estimating damages,[15] but the measure of damages is the difference between the contract price and the price received at the sale by the carrier.[16] It has been held that, where, on the consignee's refusal to receipt for the goods as being in good order, the carrier sells them, the consignee may recover the sound value of the goods,[17] or the shipper may recover the proceeds of the sale, less charges for care and for expense of the sale.[18]

Where the market price rises in the interim between the receipt of the damaged goods by the consignee and their sale, the court may determine the damages by assuming that the ratio between the value of sound and damaged goods on the date the goods were delivered was the same as on the date of the sale.[19] Where a shipment of goods is damaged when delivered to such an extent that they have to be reconditioned before marketing, the shipper is entitled to recover the amount of his loss from a decline in the market price during the time necessarily required for such work.[20] Where the consignee resold the goods ex dock for the same price he paid, he was held not to have suffered any damage by reason of the injury to the goods in transit.[21]

5. U.S.—The Harriet, D.C.Pa., 11 F. Cas.No.6,094
58 C.J. p 495 note 12.

6. U.S.—King v. Shepherd, C.C. Mass., 14 F.Cas.No.7,804, 3 Story 349.

7. U.S.—Isthmian S. S. Co. v. Martin, C.A.Md., 170 F.2d 25—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 67 S.Ct. 1310, 331 U.S. 821, 91 L.Ed. 1838—Waterman S. S. Corp. v. U. S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656—Olivier Straw Goods Corporation v. Osaka Shosen Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 47 F.2d 878, 74 A.L.R. 1378, certiorari denied Osaka Shosen Kaisha v. Olivier Straw Goods Corporation, 51 S.Ct. 648, 283 U.S. 856, 75 L.Ed. 1462—The Guanancita, D.C.Fla., 69 F.Supp. 928—The Waalhaven, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 396, affirmed, C.C.A., 64 F.2d 25, certiorari denied The Waalhaven v. Potash Importing Corporation of America, 53 S.Ct. 696, 289 U.S. 752, 77 L.Ed. 1497.
58 C.J. p 495 note 15.

8. U.S.—Pioneer Import Corporation v. The Lafcomo, D.C.N.Y., 159 F.2d 654, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 67 S.Ct. 1310, 331 U.S. 821, 91 L.Ed. 1838—Weirton Steel Co. v. Isbrandtsen-Moller Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 126 F.2d 593—The Caledonier, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 562—McNeely & Price Co. v. Ellerman & Bucknall S. S. Co., D.C.Pa., 100 F.Supp. 339—Petition of Republic of U. S. of Brazil, D.C.N.Y., 91 F.Supp. 961—Sanib Corp. v. United Fruit Co., D.C.N.Y., 74 F.Supp. 64—The Waalhaven, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 396, affirmed, C.C.A., 64 F.2d 25, certiorari denied The Waalhaven v. Potash Importing Corporation of America, 53 S.Ct. 696, 289 U.S. 752, 77 L.Ed. 1497.
58 C.J. p 496 note 26.

9. U.S.—The Boskenna Bay, D.C.N.Y., 31 F. 612
58 C.J. p 496 note 30.
Sale of damaged cargo by carrier in general see supra § 149.

10. U.S.—Connecticut Fire Ins. Co. v. Lake Transfer Corporation, D.C.N.Y., 5 F.Supp. 416, modified, C.C.A., 74 F.2d 258.

Solicitation of bids

Consignor was held not precluded from recovering damages on basis of difference between contract price and price for which defective goods were sold at nearest available market on ground that consignor did not solicit bids from customers in local market, where such customers were under contract to buy only from another company.—Connecticut Fire Ins. Co. v. Lake Transfer Corporation, C.C.A.N.Y., 74 F.2d 258.

11. U.S.—Hamilton v. The Kate Irving, D.C.Md., 5 F. 630, 5 Hughes 253.

12. U.S.—The Florida, C.C.A.Md., 61 F.2d 55.
58 C.J. p 496 note 34.

13. U.S.—Crosby v. Grinnell, D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Cas.No.3,422.

14. U.S.—Crosby v. Grinnell, supra.
58 C.J. p 496 note 33

15. U.S.—Florida Grain, etc., Co. v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., D.C.Fla., 3 F.2d 314, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation v. Florida Grain & Elevator Co., 20 F.2d 583.

16. U.S.—Florida Grain, etc., Co. v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., supra.

17. U.S.—The Augusto, D.C.N.Y., 29 F. 334.

18. Mass.—Stevens v. Sayward, 3 Gray 108.

19. U.S.—The Buckeye State, D.C.N.Y., 42 F.Supp. 715—The Compta, D.C.Cal., 6 F.Cas.No.3,070

20. U.S.—The Jeanie, Wash., 236 F. 463, 149 C.C.A. 515.

21. U.S.—Firestone Plantations Co.

Interest. As a general rule a shipper or cargo owner is entitled to interest on the amount of his loss or damage from the date of the loss or injury,[22] that is, generally, from the time when the goods should have been delivered,[23] or in case of injury to goods, from the time they were delivered.[24] As discussed in Admiralty § 205 b, the allowance of such interest in admiralty is generally discretionary, and the court may in its discretion refuse to allow interest,[25] but interest will usually be allowed where no reason appears for denying such allowance.[26] Interest may be allowed despite a delay in the proceedings where libelant was not responsible for the greater part of the delay,[27] but it has been held that interest will not be allowed during a period of delay in the proceedings, which is caused by libelant.[28]

The fact that a decree for loss of cargo includes interest to the date of its entry does not make it error to award interest on the entire decree from that time forward.[29] It has been held that interest should not be allowed as an incident to the damages, except by way of punitory damages for any fraud, delinquency, or injustice done by the carrier to the owner of the cargo.[30] Where the cost of the goods is not used as the measure of damages, interest on that cost is not to be awarded.[31]

Ordinarily interest will be computed at the legal rate.[32] In admiralty the court will allow the rate of interest established by local law[33] except where it is expressly limited by a federal statute.[34]

Incidental damages. In addition to the ordinary damages based on the value of the goods lost or injured, the vessel or owner may also be held liable for other and incidental damages which naturally and proximately result from the loss or injury complained of,[35] such as storage charges,[36] the reasonable expense of reconditioning the goods,[37] and, in the case of a stranded vessel, the costs and charges attending the salvage of the cargo.[38] However, it has been held that the carrier may not be held liable for the expense of salvaging worthless cargo.[39]

The carrier may be liable for customhouse duties which have been paid on the goods,[40] but is entitled to a reduction for any rebate on such duties allowed by the customhouse,[41] unless the rebate does not refer to, and is not allowed by reason of, the damages,[42] or the duties have not been paid.[43]

v. Pan Atlantic S. S Corp., D C N Y., 77 F Supp. 401.

22. U.S.—The Florida, C C A.Md, 61 F 2d 55—U S Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. v. Waterman S. S Corp., D C.La, 62 F Supp. 511.
58 C.J. p 496 note 42.

23. U S—Northern Commercial Co v. Lindblom, Alaska, 162 F. 250, 89 C C A 230.
58 C J. p 497 note 43

24. U S—The President Arthur, D. C.N.Y., 28 F 2d 391
58 C J p 497 note 44.

25. U.S—The Nichiyo Maru, D.C. Md., 14 F.Supp. 727, affirmed, C.C A, 89 F 2d 539.

26. U.S.—The S. C. L. No 9, D C Pa., 37 F.Supp. 396—U. S. Willow Furniture Co v. La Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, C.C.A.N Y., 271 F. 184.

The fact that recovery is small is no basis for withholding interest—The Ferncliff, D.C.Md., 22 F.Supp 728, certified questions answered Smith v. The Ferncliff, 59 S Ct. 615, 306 U S. 444, 83 L.Ed. 862, affirmed, C.C A, 105 F.2d 1021.

27. U.S.—The Caledonier, D.C.N.Y., 60 F.2d 562.

Delay of six months in filing a libel for loss of a cargo was not so unreasonable as to deprive the cargo owner of the right to recover interest.—The S. C. L. No. 9, D.C.Pa., 37 F.Supp. 396.

28. U S—The Bencleuch, C C.A N.Y., 10 F 2d 49, certiorari denied 46 S Ct 631, 271 U.S 680, 70 L Ed. 1148
58 C J. p 497 note 48

Lower rate of interest

Libelant may be penalized for delay in prosecuting action by allowance of interest at less than the usual rate from institution of libel to final decree.—The Guanancita, D C Fla, 69 F.Supp 928.

29. U S.—Steamship Wellesley Co v. Hooper, Cal., 185 F. 733, 108 C.C. A 71.

30. N Y.—Lakeman v. Grinnell, 18 N Y.Super. 625
58 C J. p 497 note 49.

31. U.S.—U. S. v Palmer & Parker Co, C.C.A Mass, 61 F 2d 455.

32. U.S.—The Scotland, N.Y., 105 U S 24, 26 L Ed. 1001.

33. U.S—The Guanancita, D.C.Fla., 69 F.Supp. 928.
58 C J. p 497 note 51.

34. U.S—Smith v. U. S Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp, C. C A N Y., 26 F 2d 337, certiorari denied 49 S Ct. 29, 278 U.S. 628, 73 L Ed. 547.
58 C.J. p 497 note 52.

35. U.S.—The Anaconda, C.C.A.N.Y, 60 F 2d 898—The Bérengére, D.C. Or., 155 F. 439
58 C.J. p 497 note 58.

Brokerage on original sales of flour by mills prior to shipment was held part of invoice value—The M. S Californian, C C A.N Y, 82 F.2d 283, certiorari denied J V. Lane & Co v. The M S. Californian, 56 S Ct. 959, 298 U S 690, 80 L Ed. 1408, rehearing denied 57 S Ct. 6, 299 U.S 620, 81 L Ed. 457.

36. U.S—The Florida, C.C.A.Md, 61 F 2d 55.
58 C J. p 497 note 55.

37. U.S—The Florida, supra—The Rio Novo, D C N Y, 62 F Supp. 32—The Jeanie, Wash., 236 F. 463, 149 C.C.A. 515.

Where there is no market for the goods in their damaged condition, plaintiff may recover the cost of reconditioning the goods.—The Florida, C.C A.Md., 61 F.2d 55.

38. U S—The City of Para, D.C.N. Y, 44 F. 689.
Ind—Rogers v. West, 9 Ind. 400.
58 C.J. p 497 note 57.

39. U S—The Hustler, D.C.N.Y., 56 F.2d 1039

40. N Y.—Vietor v. International Nav. Co., 45 N.Y.Super. 129.

41. U.S.—The Mangalore, D C.Cal., 23 F. 463.

42. U.S.—Morrison v I. & V. Florio Steamship Co, D C N.J, 36 F. 569.
58 C.J. p 497 note 62.

43. U S—The Surrey, D.C.N.Y, 30 F. 223.

Where, by reason of the carrier's wrongful act or omission, the shipper loses his insurance coverage on the goods, the damages recoverable are the same as those for a breach of a contract to insure,[44] and plaintiff may recover of the carrier what he could have recovered from insurer but for the carrier's act,[45] and, in addition thereto, he may recover the expenses incurred in a good faith attempt to collect the insurance.[46]

Deductions and credits; freight. Where the shipper consented to have delivery of goods damaged during shipment made to a place other than the original destination, it was his duty to accept them at the place of delivery, and reduce the amount of his claim for damage by the value of the goods so delivered.[47] As a deduction from the amount of the damages for injured cargo, the carrier is entitled to a fair and reasonable allowance or charge for the storage of the goods which the shipper failed to remove from the pier,[48] and the reasonable cost and expense of disposing of them,[49] and has also been held entitled to a credit for insurance received by the shipper,[50] and for the amount received by the shipper from the bankrupt estate of a charterer for delay in arrival of cargo.[51]

The carrier is not entitled to a deduction for the amount paid for wharfage or demurrage at the place of delivery,[52] or for expenses incurred in minimizing the damage.[53] On a libel for injury to goods by improper stowage, libelant's damages cannot be reduced because the consignees sold the goods at auction as damaged goods, instead of overhauling and repairing the damage, where the ship's agents had the same opportunity to perform the work of overhauling as had the consignees.[54] A deduction for lack of diligence by the shipper in mitigating the damages is not justified where the shipper has in fact acted reasonably to minimize the damages.[55]

Where damages are measured by the difference between the value of the damaged goods and the value of sound goods at the place of destination, the shipper is not entitled to an allowance for his freight expense,[56] and unpaid charges for shipment and transportation should be deducted from the damage award;[57] but, where the contract of carriage provides for value at the place of shipment as the standard for computing damages, the shipper is entitled to recover his freight expense.[58]

Where the invoice value is made the basis of settlement by the bill of lading, and the damaged goods are sold on their arrival, the freight paid thereon or due should be deducted from the proceeds, and the remainder only credited to the carrier against the invoice value, to determine the amount of its liability,[59] but, where the bill of lading provides that damages be adjusted on the basis of invoice value and that freight be considered earned notwithstanding damage to the goods, plaintiff is not entitled to a credit for the freight charges paid.[60] Where the carrier sells the goods on their rejection by the consignee, it has been held to be entitled to a credit for the unpaid freight,[61] but the contrary has also been held on the ground that, the contract of affreightment not having been performed, the freight was not earned.[62] Extra freight expense to which the shipper is put because of the

44. U.S.—F. S. Royster Guano Co. v. W. E. Hedger Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 86, certiorari denied W. E. Hedger Co. v. F. S. Royster Guano Co., 51 S.Ct. 651, 283 U.S. 858, 75 L.Ed. 1464.

45. U.S.—F. S. Royster Guano Co. v. W. E. Hedger Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 86, certiorari denied W. E. Hedger Co. v. F. S. Royster Guano Co., 51 S.Ct. 651, 283 U.S. 858, 75 L.Ed. 1464.
Ala.—Turner v. Munson S.S. Line, 77 So. 61, 16 Ala. App. 223.

46. U.S.—F. S. Royster Guano Co. v. W. E. Hedger Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 48 F.2d 86, certiorari denied W. E. Hedger Co. v. F. S. Royster Guano Co., 51 S.Ct. 651, 283 U.S. 858, 75 L.Ed. 1464.

47. Wash.—Hart v. Tuttle, 234 P. 19, 133 Wash. 558.

48. U.S.—The Asuarca, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.2d 222.

49. U.S.—The Asuarca, supra.
Mass.—Stevens v. Sayward, 3 Gray 108.

50. U.S.—Middleton v. U. S., D.C.S.C., 286 F. 548, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., U. S. v. Middleton, 3 F.2d 384, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809.
58 C.J. p. 498 note 69.
Contract provision giving carrier benefit of shipper's insurance generally see supra § 133.

51. U.S.—The Blandon, D.C.N.Y., 39 F.2d 933, affirmed, C.C.A., 42 F.2d 1013.

52. U.S.—The Asuarca, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.2d 222.

53. U.S.—Ralli v. New York, etc., S.S. Co., N.Y., 154 F. 286, 83 C.C.A. 290.

54. U.S.—Hills v. Mackill, D.C.N.Y., 36 F. 702.

55. U.S.—W. R. Grace & Co. v. Charleston Lighterage & Transfer Co., C.A.S.C., 193 F.2d 539.

56. U.S.—The M. S. Californian, C.C.A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 283, certiorari denied J. V. Lane & Co. v. The M. S. Californian, 56 S.Ct. 959, 298 U.S. 690, 80 L.Ed. 1408, rehearing denied 57 S.Ct. 6, 299 U.S. 620, 81 L.Ed. 457.
10 C.J. p. 403 note 65.

57. U.S.—The Nat Sutton, C.C.A.N.Y., 62 F.2d 787.
58 C.J. p. 498 note 74—10 C.J. p. 403 note 65.

58. U.S.—The Asuarco, D.C.N.Y., 13 F.2d 222—The Tamba Maru, D.C. Wash., 274 F. 696.

59. U.S.—The Styria, D.C.N.Y., 95 F. 698.

60. U.S.—The M. S. Californian, C.C.A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 283, certiorari denied J. V. Lane & Co. v. The M. S. Californian, 56 S.Ct. 959, 298 U.S. 690, 80 L.Ed. 1408, rehearing denied 57 S.Ct. 6, 299 U.S. 620, 81 L.Ed. 457.

61. U.S.—The Augusto, D.C.N.Y., 29 F. 334.

62. Mass.—Stevens v. Sayward, 3 Gray 108.

injury to the goods is recoverable as part of his damages.[63]

Apportionment of damages. Where it is possible to determine the loss or injury due to a cause for which the carrier is liable and that due to a cause for which it is not liable, the damages will be apportioned accordingly.[64] In admiralty, where damage to goods is attributable partly to the fault of the carrier and partly to the fault of the shipper, and it is impossible to ascertain for what proportion each is responsible, the loss will be equally divided between them;[65] but apportionment or division of damages is not proper where the shipper was not at fault, although it is impossible to determine what part of the damage the carrier's fault caused,[66] and in such case the damage is to be borne in accordance with the burden of proof.[67] Thus, where the burden is on the carrier to establish what part of the damage was due to the cause for which it was not liable, and it is unable to sustain the burden, the total damage will be assessed against it.[68]

It has been held that, where a cargo has been damaged by independent causes, for only a part of which the ship is liable, the loss will not be equally divided, or cast wholly on the ship, except as a last resort and when all means fail of making an approximate apportionment of the loss to the several causes of damage,[69] and that, where it appears that the greater part of the damage to a cargo resulted from sea perils for which the ship is not liable, but further damage occurred through the negligence of the master in failing to put into port to make repairs, it would be inequitable to hold the ship liable for the entire damage, although it cannot be separated, and the loss should be divided.[70] The owner of a boat liable for wrongful jettison is entitled to a deduction for loss occurring without his fault, before the jettison,[71] and, where animals injured by perils of the sea are thrown overboard with others not injured, the failure of the carrier to prove the precise number injured does not render it responsible for all that were lost.[72]

§ 159. —— Lien

A shipper of goods on a carrier by water has a lien on the vessel for the loss of his goods or for any damage they may sustain from the fault or neglect of the master or the insufficiency of the vessel to transport them safely.

In accordance with the general rules relating to a shipper's lien under a contract of affreightment, as discussed supra § 110, a shipper of goods on a carrier by water has a lien on the vessel for the loss of his goods, or any damage they may sustain, from the fault or neglect of the master or the insufficiency of the vessel to transport them safely,[73]

63. U.S.—The Buckeye State, D.C.N.Y., 42 F.Supp. 715

64. U.S.—Beck v. The Vizcaya, D.C.Pa., 88 F.Supp. 818, affirmed, C.A., 182 F.2d 942, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 124, 340 U.S. 877, 95 L.Ed. 638.

Tug and tow

(1) Where both barge and tug were equally at fault each was liable for one-half damages to cargo.—The Detroiter, C.C.A.N.Y., 82 F.2d 234.

(2) Where loss of cargo in barge which collided with wall of barge canal was due to negligent steering of tug, towing barge, and to negligence of approaching tug, division of damages between negligent parties was proper.—The Pearl Harbor, C.C.A.N.Y., 74 F.2d 58.

(3) Where such additional damage to cargo as resulted from continuance of voyage after collision between two barges in tow for which tug alone was responsible could not be segregated, tug was liable for all such damage in absence of fault of barge master or crew during voyage or unpredictable intervening conditions that aggravated the situation.—The Raleigh, D.C.Md., 50 F.Supp. 961.

65. U.S.—American Finance & Commerce Co. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 55 F.2d 725—The Georgian, D.C.Fla., 4 F.Supp. 718, affirmed, C.C.A., 76 F.2d 550.

58 C.J. p. 498 note 77.

66. U.S.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, C.C.A.N.Y., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L.Ed. 1063.

67. U.S.—The Vallescura, N.Y., 55 S.Ct. 194, 293 U.S. 296, 79 L.Ed. 373

68. U.S.—The Vallescura, supra—U.S. v. Apex Fish Co., C.A.Wash., 177 F.2d 364—Armco Intern. Corp. v. Rederi A/B Disa, C.C.A.N.Y., 151 F.2d 5—Edmond Weil, Inc. v. American West African Line, C.C.A.N.Y., 147 F.2d 363—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, C.C.A.N.Y., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L.Ed. 1063—Wessels v. The Asturias, C.C.A.N.Y., 126 F.2d 999—Philippine Sugar Centrals Agency v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, C.C.A.N.Y., 106 F.2d 32—U. S. v. Los Angeles Soap Co., C.C.A.Cal., 83 F.2d 875—Speyer v. The Mary Belle Roberts, D.C.Cal., 22 F.Cas.No.13,240, 2 Sawy. 1.

69. U.S.—The Shand, D.C.N.Y., 16 F. 570

70. U.S.—The Musselcrag, D.C.Cal., 125 F. 786

71. Ky.—Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. 643, 63 Am.D. 561

72. U.S.—Brauer v. Compania Navigacion La Flecha, N.Y., 66 F. 776, 14 C.C.A. 88, affirmed 18 S.Ct. 12, 168 U.S. 104, 42 L.Ed. 398.

73. U.S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., C.C.A.La., 65 F.2d 715—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 559, affirmed, C.C.A., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L.Ed. 1063

58 C.J. p. 498 note 86.

Lien for loss of, or injury to, goods where ship chartered see supra § 51.

One to whom the shipper has hypothecated the goods has a lien—American Ins. Co. v. Coster, 3 Paige, N.Y., 323—58 C.J. p. 498 note 85.

Improper stowage

A lien arises against ship for damage to cargo caused by improper stowage.—Pioneer Import Corp. v. The Lafcomo, D.C.N.Y., 49 F.Supp. 559, affirmed, C.C.A., 138 F.2d 907, certiorari denied Black Diamond Lines v. Pioneer Import Corp., 64 S.Ct. 523, 321 U.S. 766, 88 L.Ed. 1063.

and such a lien may exist by virtue of a state statute,[74] provided such statute does not materially alter the rights and liabilities of the parties under the general rules of maritime law.[75]

The lien attaches when, and only when, in pursuance of the contract of affreightment, the goods are received on board the vessel for transportation,[76] or on a lighter engaged by the ship,[77] or are, in some other way delivered to the possession or control of the ship or her master;[78] and is not deferred until the vessel breaks ground for the voyage,[79] and, whenever any event happens which renders the lien enforceable, it relates back to the time it was so delivered or received.[80] Where, by virtue of a clause in the bill of lading, or a provision of the Harter Act, the vessel is exempt from liability for damages caused by legal process, a lien thereon does not arise for damages for the nondelivery of perishable cargo due to the seizure of the vessel under legal process,[81] and, therefore, claimant of such damages cannot complain because a lien allowed to him is ranked last.[82]

Priorities. The lien on the vessel for loss or damage to cargo is preferred to the right of the general creditors of the owners,[83] and to a mortgage on the vessel for labor and material furnished in her home port in fitting her for a voyage, where notice has been entered on the register.[84]

Loss or waiver of lien. The lien vests no absolute, indefeasible interest in the ship or vessel,[85] and may be lost by unreasonable delay.[86] It is not defeated by a bona fide sale of the vessel before the shipper has had an opportunity for enforcing his lien,[87] particularly where the purchaser has knowledge of the claim;[88] and so a purchaser of a vessel cannot invoke the defense of laches to defeat a suit by an insurer to enforce a lien for the negligent loss of cargo, occurring before the purchase, where the suit was commenced within a year after the loss, and it does not appear that he bought without knowledge of the lien.[89] In order to constitute a waiver of the lien there must be a knowledge of the loss or injury coupled with an intention to abandon the remedy,[90] or some contract inconsistent with the existence of the lien;[91] and it is not waived by the acceptance of the goods by the consignee or owner,[92] or by a receipt specifying that the goods have been received in good order.[93]

Enforcement. The lien may be enforced by process in rem against the vessel in admiralty.[94] Where the lien is sought to be enforced under the general admiralty law, and not under a state law, it is not subject to a requirement of the state law that the libel should be filed before the vessel make another voyage.[95]

E. FREIGHT

§ 160. Right to Freight

a. In general
b. Effect of loss of, or injury to, goods

a. In General

Generally, a carrier of goods by water is entitled to freight when it has properly fulfilled its contract of car-

74. Ala.—The Robert Morris v. Williamson, 6 Ala. 50
58 C.J. p 499 note 87
Maritime liens under state statutes in general see Maritime Liens §§ 17, 31 et seq.

75. U.S.—Osaka Shosen Kaisha v Pacific Export Lumber Co., Or., 43 S.Ct. 172, 260 U.S. 490, 67 L.Ed. 364

76. U.S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., C.C.A.La., 65 F.2d 715.
58 C.J. p 499 note 93.

77. U.S.—The Trader, D.C.S.C., 17 F.2d 623.

78. U.S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., C.C.A.La., 65 F.2d 715.
58 C.J. p 499 note 95
Cargo on wharf held accepted by ship
U.S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., supra.

79. U.S.—The Esrom, D.C.N.Y., 261 F. 624, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 272 F. 266, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 47, 257 U.S. 634, 66 L.Ed. 408.

80. U.S.—The St. Paul, D.C.N.Y., 277 F. 99

81. U.S.—The Estrada Palma, D.C.La., 8 F.2d 103.

82. U.S.—The Estrada Palma, supra.

83. U.S.—The Rebecca, D.C.Me., 20 F.Cas.No.11,619, 1 Ware 187.
Priorities of maritime liens in general see Maritime Liens § 50 et seq.

84. U.S.—Justi Pon v. Arbustci, D.C.N.Y., 14 F.Cas.No.7,589.

85. U.S.—The Favorite, D.C.Wis., 8 F.Cas.No.4,696, 1 Biss. 525.

86. U.S.—The Rebecca, D.C.Me., 20 F.Cas.No.11,619, 1 Ware 187.
Loss of maritime lien in general see Maritime Liens § 61 et seq.

87. U.S.—The Rebecca, supra.

88. U.S.—The Rebecca, supra.

89. U.S.—The Seaboard, D.C.N.Y., 119 F. 375.

90. Ala.—The Robert Morris v. Williamson, 6 Ala. 50.
Waiver of maritime liens in general see Maritime Liens § 63 et seq.

91. Ala.—The Robert Morris v. Williamson, supra

92. Ala.—The Robert Morris v. Williamson, supra

93. Ala.—The Robert Morris v. Williamson, supra.

94. U.S.—Taylor Bros. Lumber Co. v. Sunset Lighterage Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 43 F.2d 700.
58 C.J. p 500 note 18
Enforcement of maritime lien in general see Maritime Liens § 79 et seq.

95. U.S.—Knox v. Ninetta, D.C.Pa., 14 F.Cas.No.7,912, Crabbe 534, 5 Pa.L.J. 33.

riage. Before any freight is earned, the goods must be delivered as well as carried to the point of destination.

Generally, a carrier of goods by water is entitled to freight when,[96] and only when,[97] it has properly fulfilled its contract of carriage. If the ship does not begin her voyage at all, does not break ground, no freight is payable.[98] Thus, if the vessel sinks in the port of departure and the goods are rescued by the insurers and turned over to the owner,[99] or if the vessel, before she breaks ground for a voyage, is so injured as to be rendered unseaworthy and incapable of earning freight,[1] no freight is earned. If the goods are wrongfully taken from a vessel by the shipper before she has broken ground on the voyage the shipowner is not entitled to freight as such.[2]

As a general rule, delivery of the cargo at the port of destination is a condition precedent to the right to freight,[3] and without such delivery the voluntary acceptance of the cargo at an intermediate place by the owner of the cargo is necessary to enable the shipowner to recover either full or pro rata freight,[4] or, as it has been probably more comprehensively stated, freight is due, notwithstanding the nonarrival of the goods at the port of destination, only where the nonarrival has been occasioned by no default or inability of the carrier ship, but has been occasioned by the default or waiver of the merchant shipper.[5] This general rule may be varied by stipulations,[6] but such stipulations, in order to be effective, must be in writing and signed by the parties.[7]

Return to port of departure. If a ship is obliged by perils of the sea to put back to her port of departure, and her cargo is there sold by the master with the consent of the shipper, no freight is earned.[8] Under a bill of lading providing that where it is unsafe to discharge goods the carrier has the option to return them and that the carrier shall be entitled to extra compensation for such service, it has been held that a carrier whose master failed to discharge the goods because of a military invasion at the point of destination and returned such goods to the point of origin rendered a service entitling the carrier to extra compensation.[9] Where a vessel is damaged in a collision as it starts on a voyage and the cargo is also damaged to such an extent that it has to be sold in the port of origin, with respect to the right to freight, whether the shipowner repaired the vessel within a reasonable time cannot be measured by the time actually consumed because, after the sale of the cargo, there was no reason for hastening repairs.[10]

Abandonment of vessel and cargo. If a vessel and cargo are abandoned at sea by the master and crew without intention to retake them no freight is earned,[11] but if the abandonment is intended to be temporary, the shipowners have a right to take the cargo to the port of destination and to be paid the agreed freight.[12]

Abandonment of voyage. Under a bill of lading which provides that freight is to be deemed earned "ship or goods lost or not lost," it has been held that

96. U.S.—The Louise, D.C.Md., 58 F. Supp. 445
58 C.J. p. 500 note 22.

Meaning of term "freight"

(1) Term "freight" in marine contracts is generally used to denote remuneration or reward for carriage of goods by ship, rather than the goods themselves—Waterman S.S. Corp. v. U.S. Smelting, Refining & Min. Co., C.C.A.La., 155 F.2d 687, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 115, 329 U.S. 761, 91 L.Ed. 656—The Bill, D.C.Md., 55 F. Supp. 780—The Norman Prince, D.C.Ala., 185 F. 169—27 C.J. p. 902 notes 60, 64–70, 74–81.

(2) Term "freight" has another meaning, that of the articles carried—The Nassau, N.Y., 188 F. 46, 110 C.C.A. 184, certiorari denied 32 S.Ct. 524, 223 U.S. 722, 56 L.Ed. 630—27 C.J. p. 902 note 61, p. 903 notes 86–10.

(3) The term does not always imply that it is the naulum, merces, or fare for the transportation of goods.—The Main v. Williams, Md., 14 S.Ct. 486, 152 U.S. 122, 129, 38 L.Ed. 381—Giles v. The Cynthia, D.C.Pa., 10 F. Cas.No.5,424, 1 Pet.Adm. 203.

(4) Meaning of term "freight" as applied to carriage of passengers see infra § 174.

"Freight pending" extends to passage money and to freight prepaid at the port of departure—The Main v. Williams, Md., 14 S.Ct. 486, 152 U.S. 122, 132, 32 L.Ed. 381—27 C.J. p. 905 note 48.

97. U.S.—The Excelsior, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Cas.No.4,592, 2 Ben. 434.
58 C.J. p. 500 note 23.

98. U.S.—The Tornado, La., 2 S.Ct. 746, 108 U.S. 342, 27 L.Ed. 747

99. Ind.—Rogers v. West, 9 Ind. 400
58 C.J. p. 500 note 26.

1. U.S.—The Tornado, La., 2 S.Ct. 746, 108 U.S. 342, 27 L.Ed. 747

2. Mass.—Bailey v. Damon, 3 Gray 92.
58 C.J. p. 500 note 28.

3. U.S.—Clifford v. Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, C.C.A.Fla., 57 F.2d 1021
58 C.J. p. 500 note 29

4. U.S.—Mitsui v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co., Cal., 202 F. 26, 120 C.C.A. 280, certiorari denied 34 S.Ct. 321, 231 U.S. 749, 58 L.Ed. 465.
58 C.J. p. 501 note 30.

5. Hawaii—Janion v. Fox, 1 Hawaii 271.

6. U.S.—The Norman Prince, D.C.Ala., 185 F. 169

Validity

Contractual provisions establishing a shipper's liability for ocean freight charges, regardless of actual delivery of goods to destination, are valid—Alcoa S.S. Co. v. U.S., N.Y., 70 S.Ct. 190, 338 U.S. 421, 94 L.Ed. 225.

7. U.S.—The Norman Prince, D.C.Ala., 185 F. 169.

8. Mass.—Lord v. Neptune Ins. Co., 10 Gray 109.

9. U.S.—Colonialgrossisternes Forening v. Moore-McCormack Lines, C.A.N.Y., 178 F.2d 288.

10. U.S.—The Fredensbro, D.C.Pa., 52 F.2d 854.

11. U.S.—The James Martin, D.C.Va., 88 F. 649.

12. N.Y.—Hughes v. Sun Mut. Ins. Co., 2 N.E. 901, 3 N.E. 71, 100 N.Y. 58.
58 C.J. p. 501 note 36.

a carrier is entitled to freight where it abandons the voyage after being torpedoed by a warship of an enemy nation.[13] However, under a contract which provides for "Ocean freight net cash on arrival of steamer," a carrier is not entitled to freight on abandonment of a voyage where the contract incorporates by reference a bill of lading providing that freight "shall be deemed fully earned and due and payable to the carrier at any stage," it being held that arrival at the destination is the carrier's choice of the stage when the freight is deemed fully earned.[14]

Deviation or retardation of voyage. Violation of a shipping contract, by deviation from the course and taking additional cargo, does not of itself forfeit freight, but merely authorizes a distinct action for damages against the vessel,[15] and even where there is a deviation during a voyage which avoids the contract of affreightment, the acceptance of the cargo by the freighter, with full knowledge of the deviation, restores to the shipowner his right to freight.[16] A temporary retardation does not deprive the carrier of his right to the freight money.[17]

Prevention of carriage If the owner of the cargo is the cause of its not being transported to the port of destination, full freight is earned,[18] and, after the cargo is on board and the voyage begun, the shipper cannot demand it short of the port of destination without payment of full freight for the whole voyage.[19] Thus, where a ship grounds a short distance down a river from the port of departure, and the shipper, alleging the consignee's failure, withdraws the cargo under legal process, he will be liable for the whole freight, at least where the ship soon after the disaster is ready to continue her voyage;[20] and if the cargo is damaged, and by the mutual voluntary agreement of the master and shipper it is sold short of the port of destination, full freight may be recovered.[21] If a ship is overtaken by a disaster, or the restraint of princes or governments makes it impossible for the ship to continue the voyage to the port of destination, the shipowner is not entitled to "freight payable on delivery" at such port, unless he brings the cargo forward in other vessels or is prevented from doing so by the owner of the cargo.[22] Where a vessel is expropriated by a foreign government and directed to a port other than its destination, a cargo owner who gets options on vessels to carry the cargo and concludes arrangements with such government does not prevent the charterer from fulfilling his contract of affreightment where he does nothing effective to meet the situation and is unwilling to make any commitment to bring on the cargo.[23] Where the bills of lading provide that a shipowner has earned freight charges when the cargo is loaded, he is entitled to retain freight charges paid after the cargo is loaded although the voyage is prevented by the outbreak of war.[24] If, after a vessel has

13. U.S.—Pope & Talbot v. Blanchard Lumber Co of Seattle, C.C.A. Cal., 159 F.2d 134

Freight earned clause construed

The freight to be deemed earned "ship or goods lost or not lost" clause in bill of lading is not limited in application to freight which carrier has declared due on the receipt of the goods, and applies to freight other than so declared due—Pope & Talbot v. Blanchard Lumber Co. of Seattle, supra.

14. U.S.—Pope & Talbot v. Guernsey-Westbrook Co., C.C.A. Cal., 159 F.2d 139

Entire contract considered

Where acceptance of contract to purchase lumber from seller-carrier incorporated by reference a bill of lading which embodied a freight earned clause, the right of the carrier to earned freight is to be determined by the agreement of the parties incorporating the acceptance and bill of lading and the bill of lading cannot be deemed a complete and separate contract of affreightment from which the right to earned freight can be determined—Pope & Talbot v. Guernsey-Westbrook Co., supra.

Bill of lading construed

Under bill of lading providing "full freight to destination . . . are due and payable to the Carrier at its option upon receipt of the Goods by the latter; and the same . . . shall be deemed fully earned and due and payable to the Carrier at any stage, before or after loading of the service hereunder," the words "the same" applies to the words "full freight to destination" and not to the words "due and payable to the carrier at its option upon receipt of the goods."—Pope & Talbot v. Guernsey-Westbrook Co., supra.

15. U.S.—Knox v The Ninetta, D.C. Pa., 14 F.Cas.No 7,912, Crabbe 534, 5 Pa.L.J. 33

16. U.S.—Thatcher v McCulloh, D.C.N.Y., 23 F.Cas.No 13,862, Olcott 365
58 C.J. p 501 note 39.

17. U.S.—Murray v Ætna Ins Co., C.C.Ill., 17 F.Cas.No 9,955, 4 Biss. 417.
58 C.J. p 501 note 40

18. U.S.—Owens v Breitung, C.C.A. N.Y., 270 F. 190.
58 C.J. p 502 note 41.

19. N.D.—Braithwaite v Power, 48 N.W. 354, 1 N.D. 455
58 C.J. p 502 note 42

20. La.—Blake v. Morgan, 3 Mart 375.
Md.—Merchants' Mut Ins Co. v. Butler, 20 Md. 41.

21. U.S.—Jordan v. Warren Ins. Co., C.C.Mass., 13 F.Cas.No 7,524, 1 Story 342

22. U.S.—Linea Sud-Americana v 7,295.40 Tons of Linseed, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C.A., 108 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 615, 309 U.S. 672, 84 L.Ed. 1018.

Exception in bill of lading

Exception in bill of lading releasing charterer of vessel from any claim for damages to the cargo due to "act of God . . . restraints of princes and rulers or people" and the like did not affect the conditions under which charterer would be entitled to freight "payable at destination," where vessel was expropriated and diverted from its course by foreign government—Linea Sud-Americana v. 7,295.40 Tons of Linseed, supra

23. U.S.—Linea Sud-Americana v 7,295.40 Tons of Linseed, supra.

24. N.Y.—Tee Ka Chay v De La Rama S. S. Co., 55 N.Y.S.2d 241—taken on board a cargo to be carried, an embargo prevents her from sailing, and the cargo is sold at the port of shipment, the owner of the vessel can recover nothing in the way of freight from the shipper.[25]

Right to transship and forward. If the cargo in fact reaches the port of destination so that delivery can be made, whether by the boat named, or by another agency set in motion by the original carrier or by one standing in his place, freight is earned.[26] Thus, if the ship is disabled from completing her voyage, the master may earn full freight by transshipping and forwarding the goods.[27] In such case if the master transships the cargo, he may charge the excess of the cost of transshipment over his freight to the owner of the goods,[28] but the owner of the goods cannot be held both for the whole freight originally contracted for and the freight paid on the transshipped goods,[29] and if there is no necessity for reshipment he cannot be held liable for the cost thereof.[30] If the master declines or is unable either to repair or transship, he may be called on to deliver without payment of freight,[31] but before a reasonable time has elapsed he cannot be required to deliver except on payment of full freight and waiver of delivery.[32]

Where a shipment accepted with full knowledge as to its character becomes dangerous so that it has to be unloaded and transshipped at an intermediate port, the carrier is not entitled to the cost of transshipment and the expense of discharging it.[33]

Delivery. As a general rule, before any freight is earned the goods must be delivered as well as carried to the point of destination.[34] Thus, in the

E Awad & Sons v. De La Rama SS Co, 53 N Y S 2d 900, affirmed 38 N.Y S 2d 897, 265 App Div. 913, appeal denied 39 N Y S 2d 989, 265 App.Div 990.

Unpaid freight charges

Where bills of lading drawn in accordance with United States Carriage of Goods by Sea Act constituted contract of parties and determined their rights and obligations, steamship company which had loaded cargo for Philippine Islands and which was frustrated in voyage by outbreak of war was entitled to sue for and recover all freight charges unpaid.—E Awad & Sons v. De La Rama SS. Co, supra.

Instructions from shipper

A steamship owner, requiring prepayment of freight charges, had the right to continue loading goods thereon for shipment to Philippines after Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and entry of United States into war, in absence of instructions from shipper to desist from such loading, so as to preclude shipper's recovery of such charges after abandonment of voyage and unloading of cargo, even if loading was not completed until day after such attack.—Tee Ka Chay v. De La Rama S. S. Co, 55 N.Y S 2d 241.

Continuance of loading

(1) In determining whether carrier's agent arbitrarily continued loading of cargo on ship which was to sail for Philippine Islands after receiving news of the Pearl Harbor attack, court should not find that course pursued was blameworthy merely because results were unfortunate, the shipper having the right to demand of carrier after receiving news of the Pearl Harbor attack not infallibility, but exercise of a reasoned judgment of the situation as it appeared at the moment having regard to rights of all concerned.—De La Rama S. S Co. v Ellis, C C.A Cal, 149 F.2d 61, certiorari denied 66 S. Ct. 23, 326 U S 718, 90 L Ed 425.

(2) A carrier which was in process of loading cargo destined for Philippine Islands had discretion to complete the loading without waiting future developments in absence of contrary instructions from shippers, notwithstanding carrier received news of the Pearl Harbor attack, since such attack did not constitute automatically a restraint on shipping.—De La Rama S S Co v Ellis, supra.

25. U S.—Kelly v Johnson, C C Pa, 14 F.Cas No 7,672, 3 Wash 45

26. N Y.—Hughes v Sun Mut. Ins Co, 2 N E 901, 3 N E 71, 100 N Y. 58

27. Hawaii.—Janion v Fox, 1 Hawaii 271
N Y.—Bradhurst v. Columbian Ins. Co., 9 Johns 17.

28. U S.—The Plow City, D C Pa., 23 F Supp 548.
58 C.J. p 502 note 52.

29. Md.—Hugg v. Baltimore, etc, Smelting, etc, Co, 35 Md 414, 6 Am R 425
Tenn.—Crawford v Williams, 1 Sneed 205, 60 Am D 146

30. Md.—Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md 118, 66 Am.D. 316
58 C J p 502 note 54

31. N Y.—Bradhurst v. Columbian Ins Co., 9 Johns. 17.

32. N.Y.—Hubbell v. Great Western Ins. Co, 74 N.Y. 246.

33. U S.—The Rangoon Maru, C C.A N.Y, 27 F.2d 722

34. U S.—Alcoa S S Co. v U S., N Y., 70 S.Ct 190, 338 U.S. 421, 94 L Ed 225.—James Richardson & Sons v. 158,200 Bushels of No. 1 Northern Manitoba Wheat, C C.A.N.Y., 90 F 2d 607.—Toyo Kisen Kaisha v. W. R Grace & Co., C C A Cal., 53 F 2d 740.
58 C J p 503 note 59.

Notification of consignee

In absence of contract provision or custom to the contrary, ship, before demanding agreed freight, must deliver goods on wharf at destination, and notify consignees or owners.—Clifford v Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, C C A Fla., 57 F.2d 1021.

Storage of goods

(1) If consignees or owners cannot be notified, or if agreed freight is unpaid, ship, on storage of goods at destination, has earned freight.—Clifford v. Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, supra.

(2) Ship's placing goods in storage at destination pending notice and delivery to consignee was not conversion forfeiting freight.—Clifford v. Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, supra.

Seizure of ship and cargo

Seizure of ship and cargo under in rem libels, after cargo was stored at destination pending notice and delivery to consignees, did not destroy ship's right to freight where no liens on cargo beyond freight and storage existed.—Clifford v. Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, supra.

Shipment under government bill of lading

(1) Where first condition of government standard form bill of lading for shipment of goods by water provided for payment on presentation of bill properly accomplished, attached to freight voucher on authorized government form, and second condition provided that bill was subject to conditions on usual forms provided by carrier unless otherwise specifically provided "hereon," reference was to absence of an agreement to the contrary, freight under an ordinary bill of lading is demandable only by the owner, master, or consignee of the ship when he is ready to deliver the goods in the like good order as they were when they were received on board the ship.[35] If a shipment under one bill of lading cannot be landed in the business hours of one day, the master can demand security for the payment of the entire freight or an arrangement for payment of the freight pro rata as the merchandise is landed,[36] but payment of the freight of the entire shipment cannot be demanded until all the merchandise has been landed and the consignee afforded an opportunity to examine his goods to see whether the obligations of the bill of lading have been fulfilled by the shipowner.[37] If, under a bill of lading calling for delivery alongside, the vessel arrives at the port of destination but sinks before a reasonable time for the consignee to take the goods off has elapsed,[38] or if the carrier delivers the goods to the wrong person,[39] no freight is earned. However, in the latter case, if the carrier regains possession of the goods and tenders them to the proper person, the freight may be collected.[40]

Sale of cargo at destination. If a perishable cargo is sold at the port of destination by the master on the consignee's refusal to receive it, the shipowners may recover from the shippers the stipulated freight.[41]

Illegal contracts. A vessel which carries merchandise in violation of a statute prohibiting it from doing so earns no freight.[42]

b. Effect of Loss of, or Injury to, Goods

The parties may so contract that freight is payable whether or not the cargo is lost or injured, or otherwise regulate the matter by contract, in which case the contract governs. In the absence of such a contract, if the goods are lost by a danger of navigation or peril of the sea, the carrier is not entitled to freight.

The parties may so contract that freight is payable whether or not the cargo is lost or injured,[43] or otherwise regulate the matter by contract, in which case the contract governs.[44] However, even be made to government voucher form in determining whether government was to be held liable for freight on undelivered goods—Alcoa S S Co v. U. S, N.Y., 70 S Ct. 190, 338 U.S. 421, 94 L Ed. 225.

(2) Where government standard form bill of lading was subject to conditions of forms used by ocean carrier unless otherwise specifically stated, and government bill provided for payment on presentation of bill properly accomplished attached to freight voucher prepared on authorized government form which clearly stated that payment for transportation charge would be made only for stores delivered at destination, terms of government bill were inconsistent with ocean carrier's requirement for payment of full freight to destination, goods or vessel lost or not lost, and government was not liable for freight charges on public goods lost at sea—Alcoa S. S. Co. v. U. S, supra

(3) Where comptroller general, although allowing payment of freight under government form bill of lading, which required signature of consignee for delivery of goods shipped, when consignee in Philippines could not be found because of war conditions, warned carriers that question of recovery of freight for goods destroyed in shipment as result of enemy action was still an open question, court in determining carrier's right to recover freight charges for goods so lost was not required to give substantial weight to administrative rulings—Alcoa S. S. Co. v U. S, C.A N.Y., 175 F.2d 661, affirmed 70 S Ct 190, 338 U S. 421, 94 L Ed 225.

(4) Condition contained in government form bill of lading under which goods were shipped, against prepayment of charges and against collection of freight charges from consignee, and instruction that consignee's certificate of delivery should be evidence on which settlement would be made established that the United States, as shipper, was asserting its privilege under admiralty law of requiring performance of carrier's duty to deliver shipment as a condition precedent to payment of freightage—Alcoa S S. Co. v. U. S, C A.N Y., 175 F.2d 661, affirmed 70 S. Ct. 190, 338 U.S 421, 94 L Ed. 225

35. U.S—Brittan v. Barnaby, 21 How. 527, 16 L Ed 177
58 C J p 503 note 60

36. U.S—Brittan v Barnaby, supra.

37. U.S—Brittan v Barnaby, supra.

38. N.Y—McKee v Heckscher, 10 Daly 393.

39. Md.—Ferguson v. Cappeau, 6 Harr & J 394.
N Y.—Atlantic Nav. Co. v. Johnson, 27 N.Y.Super. 475.

40. Ga—Barnett v. Central Line of Boats, 51 Ga. 439

41. U.S.—The Maria White, D C.Me, 16 F Cas No 9,083, 1 Hask. 204.
58 C J. p 503 note 67.

42. U S—Petrel Guano Co. v. Jar nette, C.C N.C, 25 F. 675.
58 C J. p 505 note 88.

43. Cal—Transmarine Corporation v. R W Kinney Co, 11 P.2d 877, 123 Cal App 411
58 C.J. p 503 note 68.

Provision for payment after arrival
Where goods were shipped from foreign country to New York under a bill of lading providing that freight would be considered earned even in case of shipwreck, etc., a clause stamped thereon requiring payment of transatlantic freight twenty-four hours after arrival of the vessel merely postponed the time of payment, and did not discharge the shipper or consignee from liability for freight, even though the vessel was lost at sea.—Otis Astoria Corp v. Brasileiro, 52 N.Y.S 2d 235.

Percentage of freight payable on arrival
A charter party making eighty per cent of the freight payable on arrival of boats at destination, "cargo lost or not lost," precludes the cargo owners from recovering the cargo without paying eighty per cent of the freight, even though the shipowner, claiming a maritime lien therefor, refuses to provide security for the cargo owners' claims for damages for delay in delivering the goods—James Richardson & Sons v. 158,200 Bushels of No 1 Northern Manitoba Wheat, C.C A N.Y., 90 F 2d 607.

44. U S—Taylor v. Insurance Co of North America, C C Mass., 6 F. 410.
58 C.J. p 503 note 69

Oral contract as binding
Oral agreement confirmed by letter making freight payable on delivery was contract of affreightment, precluding recovery of freight charges where cargo was lost at sea.—Toyo Kisen Kaisha v. W R. Grace & Co., C.C.A.Cal., 53 F.2d 740.

though the bill of lading calls for payment of freight "ship lost or not lost," if the goods are so damaged by the carrier's negligence that they cannot be delivered in specie freight is not recoverable.[45] In the absence of such a contract, if the goods are lost by a danger of navigation or peril of the sea, the carrier is not entitled to freight.[46] Thus, where a voyage is broken up by an overwhelming calamity and the vessel is taken to an intermediate port by salvors, and a portion of her cargo is sold to pay salvage, the portion sold is to be treated as lost, and, no freight is recoverable for its carriage,[47] and the same rule applies on a proper jettison of part of the cargo.[48] So, also, where a vessel puts in at an intermediate port in distress, and it is there found that a portion of the cargo has been rendered worthless by perils of the sea, while the residue is not of sufficient value to warrant continuing the voyage, and such portion is therefore sold by the master and the voyage broken up, no claim for freight can be maintained by the shipowner;[49] and, similarly, where cargo is destroyed in specie by a peril of the sea, which causes the vessel to put into a port of distress, so that such cargo loses its original character at the port of distress, or where the damage to it is such that, if reshipped, a total destruction of it in specie will be inevitable before it can arrive at its port of destination, the shipper is not liable for the freight[50]

Where, however, the cargo is carried to the port of destination, freight is earned even though at its arrival it is, by reason of sea damage, partially or utterly ruined and worthless,[51] and, where the loss of a portion of a cargo is caused by a "danger of navigation or peril of the sea," the carrier is entitled to freight on the portion of the cargo actually delivered,[52] and freight is payable, in the case of wreck, on each package landed, if equal in value to the freight[53] Generally, if the goods are lost, damaged, or destroyed either wholly or partially, otherwise than by a peril of the sea or a cause excepted in the contract of affreightment, the carrier is not entitled to freight.[54] However, if part performance is accepted or if the contract is by its terms or by implication divisible, the carrier is entitled to freight on the portion delivered,[55] but not on that which has been lost;[56] and in such case if the goods lost are of greater value than the freight of the remainder, the carrier cannot recover for the freight of those delivered,[57] but full freight may be recovered where, due to an intrinsic vice in the goods, there is a loss in quantity on the voyage,[58] or the goods spoil.[59]

Goods spoiled and sold at intermediate port. If goods destined for inland points are damaged on the dock at the end of the ocean voyage and such portion thereof as can be identified is sold with the consent and approval of the owners, such consent is in effect a voluntary acceptance of delivery at an intermediate port so that the carrier is entitled to pro rata freight thereon,[60] but freight cannot be recovered on unidentified portions of the goods sold[61] or for lost goods.[62]

§ 161. Amount and Rate

a. In general
b. Freight pro rata
c. Quantity shipped and determination thereof

a. In General

The amount and rate of freight are generally provided for in the contract of carriage, in which case the contract governs In the absence of an express agreement as to the freight rate the owner of the vessel is entitled to reasonable freight.

The amount and rate of freight are generally

45. U.S.—The Willdomino, C.C.A.N.J., 300 F. 5, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 261, 272 U.S. 718, 71 L.Ed 491.
46. U.S.—The Cuba, D.C.Me., 6 F.Cas.No.3,458, 3 Ware 260.
58 C.J. p 504 note 71.
47. U.S.—The Nathaniel Hooper, C.C.Mass., 17 F.Cas.No.10,032, 3 Sumn. 542.
48. U.S.—Christie v. Davis Coal, etc., Co, D.C.N.Y., 95 F. 837, affirmed 110 F. 1006, 49 C.C.A. 170—The Cuba, D.C.Me., 6 F.Cas.No.3,458, 3 Ware 260.
49. U.S.—The Ann D. Richardson, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Cas.No.410, Abb.Adm. 499, affirmed, C.C., 1 F.Cas.No.411, 1 Blatchf. 358 note.
58 C.J. p 504 note 74.
50. U.S.—Ridyard v. Phillips, C.C.N.Y., 20 F.Cas.No.11,820, 4 Blatchf 443.
51. U.S.—Carao v. Guimaraes, D.C.Pa., 10 F. 783
58 C.J. p 504 note 76
52. U.S.—The Collenberg, N.Y., 1 Black 170, 17 L.Ed 89
58 C.J. p 504 note 77
53. U.S.—Smith v. Welsh, D.C.Pa., 22 F.Cas.No.13,126.
54. U.S.—British, etc., Mar. Ins. Co v. Southern Pac. Co., D.C.N.Y., 55 F. 82, affirmed 72 F. 285, 18 C.C.A. 561.
58 C.J. p 504 note 79
55. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Standard Oil Co, 87 N.Y. 486—Hinsdell v. Weed, 5 Den. 172.
56. N.H.—Harris v. Rand, 4 N.H. 259, 555, 17 Am.D. 421.
N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Standard Oil Co, 87 N.Y. 486.
57. Ala.—Waring v. Morse, 7 Ala. 343
58 C.J. p 504 note 82.
58. U.S.—Steelman v. Taylor, D.C.Mass., 22 F.Cas.No.13,349, 3 Ware 52.
N.Y.—Griswold v. New York Ins. Co, 3 Johns. 321, 3 Am.D. 490.
59. U.S.—Seaman v. Adler, C.C.La., 37 F. 268
58 C.J. p 504 note 84.
60. Wash.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Johnson, 188 P. 30, 110 Wash. 86
61. Wash.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Johnson, supra.
58 C.J. p 505 note 86.
62. Wash.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Johnson, supra.

provided for in the contract of carriage, in which case the contract governs.[63] Thus, a shipper who, without any knowledge of the charter, contracts with a charterer for shipment of a cargo at a specified freight rate is not liable for freight in accordance with the terms of the charter, but the extent of his liability is determined by his own contract with the charterer.[64] In the absence of an express agreement as to the freight rate the owner of the vessel is entitled only to reasonable freight,[65] and it has been held that, in the absence of a contract, where goods are incorrectly declared, the carrier is entitled to the rate which would have been due had the shipper truthfully declared his goods.[66] If the goods are carried on deck when the contract called for them to be carried under deck the carrier is entitled only to deck freight.[67] In the absence of a special handling charge, the freight rate covers the stevedoring charge.[68] Where the cargo owner takes the cargo from a vessel before the completion of her voyage, under circumstances which do not entitle her to exemplary damages, she can recover only such damages as will compensate her for the net injury suffered, and from the estimated net freight she would have earned is to be deducted the net amount she earned, or should reasonably have earned, during the time it would have taken her to complete the voyage.[69]

Interest. The shipowner has been held entitled to interest on freight charges from the date of the completion of the unloading of the cargo.[70]

Dead freight. Whether or not dead freight is payable depends on the terms of the contract of affreightment.[71] Dead freight may be recovered on cargo not furnished but contracted for, where the vessel is ordered into her berth by the agent of the shipper at a time when a full cargo is not available, and when she cannot wait therein for the rest of her cargo or return for more,[72] but the owners of a vessel cannot recover dead freight from a shipper because of his failure to load the full quantity contracted to be carried where there were no facilities for weighing the cargo, and the shipper accepted the estimate of the master that the full quantity had been loaded,[73] or where the failure of the shipper to ship the full quantity was caused by the action of the captain.[74]

Freight short-shipped. In an action to recover for freight short-shipped defendant may not com-

63. U.S.—North German Lloyd v Elting, C.C.A.N.Y., 96 F.2d 48
58 C.J. p 505 note 92.

Essential part of contract

Undertaking to charge only agreed freight is essential part of affreightment contract—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, Wash., 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216.

Freight fixed by reference to lower rate of competitors

Steamship owner's demand for payment of freight at contract rate was held unauthorized, in view of provision for application of lower rate charged by another carrier moving similar cargo, even though neither party knew of such fact at time of demand—The Pacific Cedar, C.C.A. Wash., 61 F.2d 187, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216.

Agreement as to incorrect declaration of cargo

An agreement between shipper and carrier for double the regular ocean freight rate on goods, which have been incorrectly declared, was not invalid as a penalty rather than an agreed charge for service.—North German Lloyd v Elting, C.C.A.N.Y., 96 F.2d 48.

Standard fixed in contract

Where the through bills of lading given to plaintiff covering merchandise purchased by plaintiff for transportation to New York fixed the computation of freight charges on weight, plaintiff was not liable for additional freight charges recomputed by connecting carrier on a cubic foot instead of a weight basis—Kachurin v. American Iraq Shipping Co., 61 N.Y.S.2d 414, 187 Misc. 178

Carrier's agreements held not applicable

Carrier's agreements with respect to rates were not applicable to shipments under contracts entered into at time agreements were not in force—Ambler v. Bloedel Donovan Lumber Mills, C.C.A.Wash., 68 F.2d 268.

Notation of rate on bill of lading

Notation of rate on bill of lading is not conclusive, since bill of lading is not contract, but, at best, only evidence thereof, and any irreconcilable repugnancy between prior written contract and bills of lading must be resolved in favor of former, and where a shipping contract is attested by letter of confirmation showing agreed rate, the rate shown on bill of lading, contrary thereto, is not controlling—Ambler v Bloedel Donovan Lumber Mills, supra.

64. U.S.—Vane v. Wood, D.C.N.Y., 231 F. 353.

65. U.S.—Oliphant v. Florida East Coast Car Ferry Co., D.C.Fla., 4 F. Supp. 288.
58 C.J. p 505 note 94.
Statutory regulation of rates see supra § 103.

66. U.S.—North German Lloyd v Elting, C.C.A.N.Y., 96 F.2d 48

67. U.S.—The Water Witch, C.C.N.Y., 4 F.Cas.No.1,971, affirmed 1 Black 494, 17 L.Ed. 155—Vernard v. Hudson, C.C.Mass., 28 F.Cas.No. 16,921, 3 Sumn. 405

68. U.S.—Sun-Maid Raisin Growers Ass'n v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 33 F.Supp. 959, affirmed, C.C.A., 61 S.Ct. 830, 312 U.S. 667, 85 L.Ed. 1111, rehearing denied 61 S.Ct. 940, 312 U.S. 598, 85 L.Ed. 1551

69. U.S.—The Eliza Lines, C.C. Mass., 102 F. 184, affirmed 114 F. 307, 52 C.C.A. 195, reheard 132 F. 242, 65 C.C.A. 538, and reversed on other grounds 26 S.Ct. 8, 199 U.S. 119, 50 L.Ed. 115.

70. U.S.—Richardson v. Jenkins S. S. Co., C.C.A.Mich., 44 F.2d 759, certiorari denied James Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S. S. Co., 51 S.Ct. 345, 283 U.S. 821, 75 L.Ed. 1436.

71. Wis.—Warehouse, etc., Supply Co. v. Galvin, 71 N.W. 804, 96 Wis. 523, 65 Am.S.R. 57.
58 C.J. p 506 note 7.

72. U.S.—New York, etc., Mail S.S. Co. v. Guayaquil, etc., R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 270 F. 200, certiorari dismissed 42 S.Ct. 51, 257 U.S. 642, 66 L.Ed. 412
58 C.J. p 506 note 8.

73. U.S.—Barber v. Vlasto, D.C.N.Y., 104 F. 101.

74. N.Y.—Clancy v. Dutton, 113 N.Y.S. 124, 129 App.Div. 23.

plain that plaintiff shipped certain goods on another vessel where such goods were of such a character that they would have interfered with the finishing of the loading of the vessel at another port.[75]

Advance freight as affected by change of ownership. A purchaser of a ship in an admiralty suit who, without any new agreement or the issuance of a new bill of lading, orders the ship to proceed with a cargo already loaded is entitled only to the freight due after advances credited on the bill of lading have been deducted.[76]

Delay as affecting rate. Where diligent effort is made to deliver the cargo before the final close of navigation but without fault the ship becomes icebound so that delivery is delayed from fall until spring the carrier is entitled to a specified freight rate, higher than usual, which was agreed on under the expectation that prompt delivery of the cargo at its destination was not improbable.[77] Where a bill of lading provides for an increase in freight for a delay caused by any government by reason of suspected contraband, destination, ownership, or consignment, where libelant's vessels are delayed by government officials, the libelant is entitled to be paid for delay directly resulting therefrom.[78]

b. Freight Pro Rata

If a carrier under an entire contract of affreightment refuses to transport all of the goods contracted to be carried, it is, nevertheless, entitled to recover freight pro rata according to the proportion of goods carried. If a cargo is voluntarily accepted by the owner or his agent at any port other than the place of destination, freight pro rata is due in proportion to the voyage actually performed.

If a carrier under an entire contract of affreightment refuses to transport all of the goods contracted to be carried, it is, nevertheless, entitled to recover freight pro rata according to the proportion of goods carried.[79] At common law, however, unless the consignee voluntarily accepts a less portion, if the contract of affreightment is an entirety the entire shipment must be delivered before any freight is earned.[80] In either case if the consignee voluntarily accepts a portion of the shipment, freight pro rata is due.[81] However, in the case of a general ship, or one chartered for freight to be paid according to the quantity of goods, freight is due for what the ship delivers.[82]

Pro rata itineris. If a cargo is voluntarily accepted by the owner or his agent at any port other than the place of destination, freight pro rata is due in proportion to the voyage actually performed.[83] Conversely, freight pro rata itineris is not due, unless the owner of the cargo voluntarily agrees to receive it at a place short of its ultimate destination.[84] What amounts to voluntary acceptance depends largely on the facts and circumstances of each particular case,[85] and may be inferred from the shipper's or consignee's actions,[86] it being essential in order to sustain a claim for pro rata freight that there be such a voluntary acceptance of the goods by their owner at an intermediate port as to raise a fair inference that further carriage of the goods was dispensed with.[87] It has been held that the election to receive the goods at an intermediate port can be made only when the master is able and willing to transport them to their port of destination.[88] The taking possession because of necessity to save the property from destruction,[89] or in consequence of the carrier's refusal to continue the voyage,[90] or the acceptance of the proceeds of goods sold at an intermediate port,[91] is not such an acceptance as to entitle the carrier to freight pro rata itineris. The danger of shipment or its commercial inexpediency is not sufficient to render the shipper liable for freight pro rata itineris on damaged goods where he refuses to dispense with further carriage.[92] However, it has been held that

75. U.S.—Walker-Ross v. Dodwell, D.C.Wash., 297 F. 257.

76. U.S.—Chadwick v. Five Hundred and Seventy-Six Granite Blocks, D.C.N.Y., 178 F. 140.

77. U.S.—Grammer SS Co. v. Richardson, D.C.N.Y., 37 F.2d 366, affirmed, C.C.A., Grammer S. S. Corporation v. James Richardson & Sons, 47 F.2d 186.

78. U.S.—American Transp. Co. v. Swift & Co., D.C.N.Y., 53 F.2d 265.

79. U.S.—Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Chamberlain, Ill., 118 F. 716, 55 C.C.A. 236.

80. N.Y.—Western Transp. Co. v. Hoyt, 69 N.Y. 230, 25 Am.R. 175.

81. N.Y.—Hinsdell v. Weed, 5 Den. 172.

82. La.—Vance v. Clark, 1 La. 324

83. U.S.—The Louise, D.C.Md., 58 F. Supp. 445
58 C.J. p. 506 note 19.

84. U.S.—Clifford v. Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, C.C.A. Fla., 57 F.2d 1021—Linea Sud-Americana v. 7,295.40 Tons of Linseed, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C.A., 108 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 615, 309 U.S. 672, 84 L.Ed. 1018.
58 C.J. p. 507 note 20.

85. Wash.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Johnson, 188 P. 30, 110 Wash. 86.
58 C.J. p. 507 note 21.

86. Pa.—Gray v. Waln, 2 Serg. & R. 229, 7 Am.D. 642

87. U.S.—Merchants', etc., Transp. Co. v. Seven Hundred and One Bales of Cotton, D.C.Pa., 216 F. 237
58 C.J. p. 507 note 23.

88. N.Y.—Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co. v. Bird, 15 N.Y.Super. 195.

89. N.Y.—Western Transp. Co. v. Hoyt, 69 N.Y. 230, 25 Am.R. 175
58 C.J. p. 508 note 25.

90. N.Y.—Western Transp. Co. v. Hoyt, supra.

91. Conn.—Escopiniche v. Stewart, 2 Conn. 391.
58 C.J. p. 508 note 27.

92. U.S.—Merchants', etc., Transp. Co. v. Seven Hundred and One Bales of Cotton, D.C.Pa., 216 F. 237.

when goods, shipped for long distances under through bills of lading which recognize several distinct carriers and states of transportation, are damaged at one of the recognized points of transshipment, so that their further shipment becomes impracticable and an immediate sale is necessary for the interests of all concerned, the carrier which has performed the last stage of the carriage and advanced the freights of preceding carriers is entitled to a pro rata freight.[93] If the cargo is lost on the voyage the shipper is not liable for freight for that portion of the voyage which it was carried.[94]

c. Quantity Shipped and Determination Thereof

Freight is payable only on as much of a cargo as is delivered, and there is an equitable presumption that such is the contract of the parties, to overcome which an intent to the contrary must be expressed with certainty. Statements in the bill of lading with respect to the weight or quantity of the goods, although prima facie correct, are not necessarily conclusive on a question of freight unless expressly made so by the parties.

As a general principle, freight is payable only on as much of a cargo as is delivered,[95] and there is an equitable presumption that such is the contract of the parties, to overcome which an intent to the contrary must be expressed with reasonable clearness and certainty.[96] If the agreement is for an amount to be determined by the quantity or weight of the goods, the amount of charge will be determined by the quantity received and delivered.[97] Where the ship is entitled to freight only on the weight delivered, whenever weighing is necessary in order to compute freight charges, the ship is bound to weigh the cargo[98] and where the evidence shows that the cargo as received was all delivered at the port of destination, the official weight at that place is conclusive of the extent of the carrier's right to freight.[99] A shipowner in addition to his claim for damages for delay caused by loading the ship in excess of the amount called for by the contract may not recover freight for the transportation of the additional weight.[1] If the parties agree in their contract to a freight rate with a guaranteed maximum weight per freight unit or with a guaranteed minimum weight per cubic content, the shipper must pay for the excess weight or for deficiency in weight, if the ship loses cargo space because thereof.[2]

Statement in bill of lading or invoice Statements in the bill of lading with respect to the weight or quantity of the goods, although prima facie correct,[3] are not necessarily conclusive on a question of freight unless expressly made so by the parties,[4] nor are statements in the invoice and entry[5] or in a due bill given for freight.[6]

Cotton shipments. Under a contract of affreightment of cotton of a specified density, if cotton of less density is shipped the shipowner is entitled to freight on the additional space occupied at the rate which, under the contract, that space would have earned carrying cotton of the specified density.[7] In measuring the bales to determine whether the cotton is of the density guaranteed in the contract it has been held proper to measure around the bulge of the cotton as that measurement shows the cubic space needed for shipment.[8] Under a contract exclusively for the shipment of cotton and not for space or

93. U.S.—The Scow No. 190, D.C. Md., 88 F. 320.

94. U.S.—Mitsui v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co., Cal., 202 F. 26, 120 C.C.A. 280, certiorari denied 34 S.Ct. 321, 231 U.S. 749, 58 L.Ed. 465.
58 C.J. p. 508 note 30.

95. U.S.—Christie v. Davis Coal, etc., Co., D.C.N.Y., 95 F. 837, affirmed 110 F. 1006, 49 C.C.A. 170
58 C.J. p. 508 note 31.

96. U.S.—Christie v. Davis Coal, etc., Co., supra.

97. U.S.—The Andover, C.C.N.Y., 1 F.Cas.No. 366, 3 Blatchf. 303.
58 C.J. p. 508 note 33

98. U.S.—Nine Thousand Six Hundred and Eighty-One Dry Ox Hides, D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Cas.No. 10,273, 6 Ben. 199

99. U.S.—Cafiero v. Welsh, C.C.Pa., 4 F.Cas.No. 2,286, 8 Phila. 130

1. U.S.—Shaw v. Folsom, D.C.N.Y., 38 F. 356.

2. U.S.—Compania De Navegacion Transmar, S.A., v. Georgia Hardwood Lumber Co., D.C.Ga., 48 F. Supp. 402, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 141 F.2d 652, affirmed 65 S.Ct. 293, 323 U.S. 334, 89 L.Ed. 280.

Trouble and expense of weighing
In absence of custom, party wanting to ascertain quantity of article shipped must incur trouble and expense of weighing.—Compania De Navegacion Transmar, S.A., v. Georgia Hardwood Lumber Co., supra.

Weight on board ship
The weight of cargo on board ship, and not the weight on board railroad cars, controls the amount owed for ship freight.—Compania De Navegacion Transmar, S.A., v. Georgia Hardwood Lumber Co., supra.

3. Mass.—Shepherd v. Naylor, 5 Gray 591
58 C.J. p. 508 note 39.

4. U.S.—James v. Standard Oil Co., N.Y., 191 F. 827, 112 C.C.A. 341.
58 C.J. p. 508 note 40.

Waiver
Insertion of the words "10 tons" in through bill of lading issued by the master of ship transporting cargo under legend "weight or measurement" was not an irrevocable waiver on the part of seller and carriers not thereafter to measure the merchandise by cubic content.—Kachurin v. Barr, 71 N.Y.S.2d 629, 272 App.Div. 391, appeal denied 75 N.Y.S.2d 281, 272 App.Div. 1048, affirmed 79 N.E.2d 736, 297 N.Y. 889.

5. U.S.—Nine Thousand Six Hundred and Eighty-One Dry Ox Hides, D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Cas.No. 10,273, 6 Ben. 199.

6. La.—Cushing v. Jacobs, 24 La. Ann. 463
58 C.J. p. 509 note 42.

7. Tex.—Elder v. Weld-Neville Cotton Co., Com.App., 231 S.W. 102.
58 C.J. p. 509 note 43.

8. U.S.—Barber S.S. Lines v. N. P. Sloan Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 274 F. 365.

room in the ship the shipper is not entitled to the profits made by the shipowner when he recompressed the cotton to save space which he used in carrying other goods.[9]

Meaning of "ton." Contracts to carry dead-weight tons generally give the carrier the option to collect freight by weight or measurement in order to cover large but light packages,[10] and when the word "ton" is used alone a dead-weight ton is meant and in foreign trade long tons of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds[11]

§ 162. Expenses

The carrier is entitled to be compensated for expenses incurred in the performance of its contract of affreightment when such expenses are necessary or requested by the shipper or consignee.

The carrier is entitled to be compensated for services performed or expenses incurred outside of those required in the performance of its contract of affreightment when such services or expenses are requested by the shipper or consignee[12] or are rendered necessary by the facts of the case,[13] but it is not entitled to recover for expenses unnecessarily incurred.[14] A steamship company which, under the bill of lading, performed its whole duty to the shipper by delivering the goods on a pier or to a lighter is under no obligation to furnish free wharfage to the consignee for lightering the goods from the pier or vessel.[15]

§ 163. Deductions and Offsets

The person liable for freight may offset against the carrier's claim damages for which the carrier is liable.

As against a carrier's claim for freight the person liable therefor may offset damages for which the carrier is liable.[16] Thus, he may offset claims which he may have for damage to,[17] or loss of,[18] the goods carried, and where the loss exceeds the freight the carrier's right to freight is defeated[19] In order to sustain the offset the damage must be clearly shown,[20] must be a valid claim against the carrier,[21] the demands must be mutual,[22] and in order to be recouped[23] or counterclaimed[24] must have arisen out of the contract or transaction sued on or be connected with the subject of the action If the cargo owner is allowed as damages against the vessel the full value of the cargo at the port of delivery he is not entitled to a reduction in freight because of the loss of cargo.[25]

The owners of the cargo cannot split up their demand for loss and damage and apply part of it as an offset to the freight,[26] and, thus, a libelant who insists on recovering damages to a cargo in an independent suit cannot apply any portion of them by way of abatement in a suit for the recovery of freight, although he has set up, in his answer to the latter suit, such damages by way of abatement.[27] A consignee who relies on the statement in the bill of lading as to the amount of goods may offset as against the freight the loss suffered by the failure of the carrier to deliver the quantity stated,[28] but if the consignee did not suffer any loss by reason of

9. Tex.—Perry v. Langbehn, 252 S. W. 472, 113 Tex 72
58 C.J. p 509 note 45.

10. U S—Herr v Tweedie Trading Co., N Y, 181 F 483, 104 C C A 231, certiorari denied 31 S Ct. 227, 218 U.S 679, 54 L Ed 1207.

11. U S—Herr v Tweedie Trading Co, supra.
58 C J p 509 note 47.

12. U.S—The Terne, D C N Y., 1 F Supp. 537.
58 C J. p 509 note 48.

13. U S—The Caterina Gerolimich, D C N.Y., 43 F.2d 248, affirmed, C. C.A., 54 F.2d 1080.
58 C.J. p 509 note 49.

14. N.Y.—Gottesman v. Furness, 188 N.Y S. 377, 196 App Div 961, affirmed 135 N.E. 963, 233 N.Y. 669.
58 C.J. p 509 note 50.

15. U.S—Beard v. Marine Lighterage Corp., D.C N Y., 296 F. 146

16. U.S.—Munson S. S. Line v. Rosenthal, D.C.N Y., 6 F.Supp. 374.
58 C.J. p 509 note 53.

Additional transportation charges
Where carrier with notice that coal cargoes were available for loading failed to supply additional barges as required by shipping contract, shipper was justified in making the shipments by rail and could set off additional transportation charges against carrier's claim for transportation.—Eastern Transp. Co. v. Blue Ridge Coal Corp., D C N Y, 53 F Supp. 507, affirmed, C C A., 159 F.2d 642.

17. U S.—Munson S S Line v. Rosenthal, D C N Y, 6 F Supp. 374.
58 C J. p 510 note 54.

18. N Y.—Hinsdell v. Weed, 5 Den 172.
58 C J. p 510 note 55.

19. U S—Bradstreet v Heran, C.C. N.Y., 3 F.Cas No.1,792a, 2 Blatchf 116.
58 C J. p 510 note 56.

20. U S.—Brouty v Five Thousand Two Hundred and Fifty-Six Bundles of Elm Staves, D C.N Y., 21 F. 590, affirmed, C C., 23 F. 106.
N.Y.—Nye v. Ayres, 1 E D Smith 532.

21. U S—Costello v. 734,700 Laths, etc, D C N Y, 44 F 105
58 C J. p 510 note 59.

22. U S—Sumner v. Walker, D.C N. Y, 30 F 261
58 C J. p 510 note 60.

23. Mass.—Ryder v. Hall, 7 Allen 456—Sears v Wingate, 3 Allen 103.

24. U S—The Tourist, D.C N Y, 16 F.2d 154, affirmed, C C.A., Seaboard Forwarding Co. v Freights on Four Cargoes of Flaxseed, 25 F.2d 1021 and Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Tourist, 25 F.2d 1022.
58 C J p 510 note 62

25. U S—Carolina Portland Cement Co. v. Anderson, Ga., 186 F. 145, 108 C.C.A. 257

26. U S—The Ethel, D.C N.Y., 8 F. Cas.No 4,540, 5 Ben 154.

27. U S.—Brower v. The Water Witch, C.C N.Y., 4 F Cas No 1,971, 19 How.Pr 241, affirmed 1 Black 494, 17 L Ed. 155

28. U.S.—Relyea v New Haven Rolling-Mill Co, D.C Conn., 75 F. 420.
58 C.J. p 511 note 66.

the erroneous statement in the bill of lading, the value of a deficiency between the amount delivered by the carrier and that receipted for in the bill of lading may not be deducted from the freight, provided the carrier can show an error in the bill and that he delivered all the cargo that he actually received.[29] When a bill of lading recites a shipment in bulk as so many tons, at so much freight per ton, it will be construed as a contract for carriage in bulk, and the freight is not subject to reduction because the cargo when delivered does not weigh out the quantity stated.[30] A vessel chartered to carry forward part of the cargo of another vessel from a port into which the latter had put in distress is entitled to her freight without deductions for advances made by the charterers of such other vessel secured by a bottomry note, which also assigned the freight to pay such advances.[31]

§ 164. Payment and Tender

If the bill of lading is silent as to the time for payment of freight, the law implies that it is to be paid on delivery of the goods at the port of discharge. A tender of the freight at the port of discharge relieves the shipper or consignee from liability for costs or expenses subsequent thereto.

If the bill of lading is silent as to the time for payment of freight, the law implies that it is to be paid on delivery of the goods at the port of discharge.[32] Payment of freight cannot be demanded before the consignee has had opportunity to examine the goods,[33] and, although the holder of the bill of lading cannot require delivery of the cargo without paying freight, he may require it to be discharged so that it can be inspected by him,[34] but he cannot require that he be allowed to transport it to his own warehouse and there inspect it before payment of freight.[35] Under a government form bill of lading which provides that prepayment of charges shall in no case be demanded by the carrier, payment in advance is prohibited but accrual of the freight charge obligation in advance of delivery is not forbidden.[36]

In the absence of agreement to the contrary freight is payable in cash; but the parties may regulate the matter between themselves and arrange for another medium of payment, such as commercial paper,[37] in which case, however, if the paper is dishonored on maturity the payer is not discharged from his original liability.[38] The acceptance of due bills for freight charges has been held not to amount to an extinguishment of the debt for the freight charges or operate as a payment thereof, the carrier having the right to stand on the original contract and seek its remedy in the form in which it originally existed as fully as if the due bills have never been received.[39]

A tender of the freight at the port of discharge relieves the shipper or consignee from liability for costs or expenses subsequent thereto,[40] to which a refusal to pay would subject him;[41] but the master, on a tender of freight at the ship, may take a reasonable time to ascertain the correct amount

29. U.S.—James v. Standard Oil Co., N.Y., 191 F. 827, 112 C.C.A. 341
58 C.J. p. 511 note 67

30. U.S.—Planters' Fertilizer Mfg. Co. v. Elder, La., 101 F. 1001, 42 C.C.A. 130

31. U.S.—Berry v. Grace, D.C.N.Y., 62 F. 607.

32. U.S.—British, etc., Mar. Ins. Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., N.Y., 72 F. 285, 18 C.C.A. 561
Puerto Rico.—H. T. Hansen v. Nine Hundred and Ninety-Eight Tons of Coal, 6 Puerto Rico Fed. 394.

33. U.S.—Brittan v. Barnaby, Cal., 21 How. 527, 16 L.Ed. 177.
58 C.J. p. 511 note 71.

34. U.S.—The Eddy, S.C., 5 Wall. 481, 18 L.Ed. 486
58 C.J. p. 511 note 72.

35. U.S.—The Eddy, supra.

36. U.S.—Alcoa S.S. Co. v. U.S., N.Y., 70 S.Ct. 190, 338 U.S. 421, 94 L.Ed. 225.

Payment of bill "properly accomplished"

Under condition of government standard form bill of lading for shipment of goods by water which provided payment would be made on presentation of bill "properly accomplished" attached to freight voucher on authorized government form, and which contained instructions indicating that evidence on which carrier could rely for payment was the surrendered bill accompanied by a certificate of delivery, signed on receipt of shipment, with the receipt subject to loss or damage report, bill could not be "properly accomplished" without receipt of goods by consignee for purposes of payment of freight to carrier.—Alcoa S.S. Co. v. U.S., supra.

Exclusion of usual prepayment clause of carrier

Where United States Government form bill of lading, under which goods were shipped, recited that bill was subject to same conditions governing commercial shipments made on usual form bill of lading provided by carrier unless "otherwise specifically provided," the further recitation in government form bill against prepayment of charges and against collection thereof from consignee and instruction that consignee's certificate of delivery should constitute evidence on which settlement would be made were an "other specific provision" which excluded application of clause in carrier's usual bill of lading providing for prepayment of freight charges.—Alcoa S.S. Co. v. U.S., C.A.N.Y., 175 F.2d 661, affirmed 70 S.Ct. 190, 338 U.S. 421, 94 L.Ed. 225.

37. U.S.—The Bird of Paradise, Cal., 5 Wall. 545, 18 L.Ed. 662
58 C.J. p. 511 note 74.

38. Conn.—Bacon v. Westervelt, 29 Conn. 591
N.J.—Grant v. Wood, 21 N.J.Law 292, 47 Am.D. 162.

39. N.Y.—E. Awad & Sons v. De La Rama S.S. Co., 53 N.Y.S.2d 900, affirmed 38 N.Y.S.2d 897, 265 App.Div. 913, appeal denied 39 N.Y.S.2d 989, 265 App.Div. 990.

40. U.S.—Dedekam v. Vose, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Cas.No.3,732, affirmed, C.C., 7 F.Cas.No.3,729, 3 Blatchf. 44.
58 C.J. p. 511 note 76.

41. U.S.—Brittan v. The Albani, D.C. Cal., 4 F.Cas.No.1,902, reversed on other grounds 21 How. 527, 16 L.Ed. 177.

from the consignees of the ship, but cannot in the meantime order the goods to be stored at the expense of the owner.[42]

§ 165. —— Persons Liable

Liability for freight is primarily on the person who makes the contract. A consignee of cargo and holder of the bill of lading, who receives the cargo from the vessel, is liable for the freight

Liability for freight is primarily on the person who makes the contract.[43] Thus, a shipper who is the owner of the goods sent by a general ship is liable for the freight at all events, independent of the bill of lading.[44] Delivery to the consignee without payment of freight of goods shipped under a bill of lading engaging the master to deliver the goods to the consignees "he or they paying freight" does not discharge the shipper from his liability for the freight.[45] A consignee of cargo and holder of the bill of lading, who receives the cargo from the vessel, is, in the absence of a different understanding, liable for freight,[46] although but an agent to sell,[47] as is also the assignee of the bill of lading, who received the goods,[48] unless the assignor is bound by charter party to pay it[49] or unless the assignee had bound himself by an express agreement to pay it as surety for the assignor.[50] An implied undertaking by one who receives the goods to pay the freight may be inferred from the mere receipt, although he has not presented any bill of lading or asked for delivery, if the course of business between the parties on previous occasions has been for him to receive goods consigned to him and pay the freight on them.[51] Where goods are delivered to persons who are neither assignees of the bills of lading nor owners of the cargo until after delivery, they are not liable for the freight,[52] nor, in the absence of an agreement to pay it, is a person who, as agent of the consignee, receives a cargo consigned to the owner in his care, liable for the freight.[53] A purchaser is not individually liable for freight on goods shipped by the seller and consigned to a third person.[54] Captors substitute themselves in the place of the original owners, and take the property cum onere, and they are therefore responsible for the freight which then attached on the property.[55]

Owners of disabled ship are not liable for freight earned in forwarding the cargo under an agreement made with the master for a freight rate greater than that under which the cargo was originally shipped.[56]

§ 166. —— To Whom Payable

The right to freight is incidental to the ownership of a vessel and the owners of the vessel or their authorized agent is entitled to the freight earned.

As a general rule, the right to freight is incidental to the ownership of a vessel[57] and the owners of the vessel[58] or their authorized agent[59] is en-

42. U.S.—The Diadem, D.C.N.Y., 7 F. Cas.No.3,875, 4 Ben. 247

43. U.S.—The Arizpa, C.C.A.Md., 63 F.2d 42, certiorari denied U. S. v. Consolidation Coal Co., 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U.S. 648, 78 L.Ed. 562
58 C.J. p. 512 note 79.

Assignment of bill of lading

Shipper's primary obligation to pay carrier's charges survives, although shipper assigns bill of lading to one receiving goods.—The Arizpa, C.C.A. Md., 63 F.2d 42, certiorari denied U. S. v. Consolidation Coal Co., 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U.S. 648, 78 L.Ed. 562.

Under F. O. B. contract

N.Y.—Kachurin v. Barr, 71 N.Y.S.2d 629, 272 App.Div. 391, appeal denied 75 N.Y.S.2d 281, 272 App.Div. 1048, affirmed 79 N.E.2d 736, 297 N.Y. 889.

44. N.J.—Grant v. Wood, 21 N.J. Law 292, 47 Am.D. 162.
58 C.J. p. 512 note 81.

45. N.J.—Grant v. Wood, supra.
58 C.J. p. 512 note 84.

46. U.S.—Munson S. S. Line v. Rosenthal, D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Supp. 374.
58 C.J. p. 512 note 85.

Where goods damaged

Consignee receiving goods from carrier under bill of lading incorporating charter provisions is personally responsible for freight charges, even though goods were damaged through carrier's fault.—Munson S. S. Line v. Rosenthal, supra.

47. U.S.—Gates v. Ryan, D.C.N.Y., 37 F. 154.
58 C.J. p. 512 note 86.

48. U.S.—Trask v. Duvall, Pa., 24 F. Cas.No.14,144, 4 Wash.C.C. 181.
N.Y.—Elwell v. Skiddy, 77 N.Y. 282

49. U.S.—Trask v. Duvall, Pa., 24 F. Cas.No.14,144, 4 Wash.C.C. 181
N.Y.—Elwell v. Skiddy, 77 N.Y. 282.

50. U.S.—Trask v. Duvall, Pa., 24 F. Cas.No.14,144, 4 Wash.C.C. 181
N.Y.—Dayton v. Parke, 22 N.Y.S. 613, 67 Hun 137, reversed on other grounds in 37 N.E. 642, 142 N.Y. 391.

51. U.S.—Frontier S.S. Co. v. Central Coal Co., Wis., 234 F. 30, 148 C.C.A. 46
58 C.J. p. 512 note 90.

52. U.S.—The Syskonen v. Logan, D.C.Pa., 28 F. 335.

53. U.S.—Great Lakes Coal, etc., Co. v. Seither Transit Co., Minn., 220 F. 28, 136 C.C.A. 110

54. U.S.—Perkins v. Bethlehem Steel Corp., C.C.A.N.J., 43 F.2d 334.

55. U.S.—The Antonia Johanna, N.C., 1 Wheat. 159, 4 L.Ed. 60.

56. Me.—Lemont v. Lord, 52 Me. 365

57. U.S.—Layne, etc., Corp. v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., C.C.A.Cal., 27 F.2d 39.
58 C.J. p. 513 note 2.

58. U.S.—Layne, etc., Corp. v. U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., supra.
Mass.—Brown v. Putnam, 2 Metc. 275
58 C.J. p. 513 note 3.

Under quasi contract

Where a number of fishing vessels were requisitioned by the Navy and fish on board requisitioned vessels were transferred to plaintiffs' vessel, which had not been requisitioned, and by it taken to San Diego and defendants, who owned requisitioned vessels, were paid by canning companies for fish, defendants were indebted to plaintiff under an implied contract or quasi contract to pay proportionate cost of operation of plaintiffs' vessel.—Medina v. Van Camp Sea Food Co., 171 P.2d 445, 75 Cal.App.2d 551.

59. N.Y.—Kachurin v. Barr, 71 N.Y.S.2d 629, 272 App.Div. 391, appeal titled to the freight earned. The right of the charterer of a ship to collect the freight, as against the general owner of the ship, depends on who is the owner for the voyage; and, if the charterer is a charterer pro hac vice, ordinarily he is entitled to collect the freight, but if the general owner has not parted with the ownership and possession of the vessel he, the owner, ordinarily is entitled to receive the freight.[60] If the charter party does not contain a provision requiring the master to sign bills of lading as demanded, the master and not the charterer is the only person entitled to collect the freight.[61] Charterers who offer to replace cargo jettisoned, which the master refuses and replaces with other cargo at a higher freight, are entitled to the excess freight so earned where the charter prohibited goods to be laden on board otherwise than from the charterers.[62] Where a vessel is expropriated by a foreign government, the charterer of such vessel who makes a tender of abandonment to the underwriters on a war risk policy and fails to take any steps to bring on the vessel's cargo to its destination has been held to have abandoned the contract of carriage with a loss of any right to claim freight from the cargo owner.[63]

§ 167. —— Advance Freight and Recovery Back Thereof, and Recovery of Overcharges

Agreements for the payment of freight in advance or for its retention whether or not the contract of affreightment is carried out are valid and enforceable. Generally, where freight is paid in advance and the voyage is not performed, the shipowner cannot retain the freight without an express agreement to this effect.

Agreements for the payment of freight in advance[64] or for its retention whether or not the contract of affreightment is carried out[65] are valid and enforceable. Generally, where freight is paid in advance and the voyage is not performed or the contract of affreightment not fulfilled, the shipowner cannot, without an express agreement to this effect, retain it,[66] and such agreement must be clear and denied 75 N Y S 2d 281, 272 App Div 1048, affirmed 79 N E 2d 736, 297 N Y. 889

60. N Y—Clarkson v Edes, 4 Cow 470.
58 C J. p 514 note 12

61. U.S—Aktieselskabet Bruusgaard v Standard Oil Co, D C N Y., 274 F. 996, affirmed, C C.A, 283 F. 106
58 C J. p 514 note 13

62. U S—The Wergeland, D C Wash, 262 F. 785

63. U S—Linea Sud-Americana v. 7,295 40 Tons of Linseed, D C.N Y, 29 F Supp 210, affirmed, C C A, 108 F 2d 755, certiorari denied 60 S Ct. 615, 309 U.S 672, 84 L.Ed. 1018

Expropriating government not acting for charterer

In action by charterer of vessel, which was expropriated by foreign government and diverted from its course, for freight due on cargo to original destination, decree of confiscation, whereby the government "subrogates itself in whatever lawful credits and obligations refer to the confiscated vessel," and other evidence were held to establish that the foreign government did not intend to act for charterer or make charterer entitled to the freight due under original contract—Linea Sud-Americana v. 7,295 40 Tons of Linseed, supra.

64. Ala.—Norton-Crossing Co. v Martin, 81 So. 71, 202 Ala. 569
58 C J. p 514 note 18

"Prepaid freight" includes any freight which is payable before arrival of ship at port of destination.—E Awad & Sons v De La Rama SS Co, 53 N Y S 2d 900, affirmed 38 N Y S 2d 897, 265 App Div 913, appeal denied 39 N Y S 2d 989, 265 App Div 990

65. U S—De La Rama S S Co v. Ellis, C C A Cal., 149 F 2d 61, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct 23, 326 U S 718, 90 L Ed 425
58 C J p 514 note 19.

Effect of such agreement

A stipulation of bill of lading that "prepaid freight is to be considered as earned on shipment of the goods and is to be retained by the carrier, cargo lost or not lost, or if there be a forced interruption or abandonment of voyage at a port of distress or elsewhere," shifted from carrier to shipper the risk of forced abandonment of voyage.—De La Rama S. S. Co. v. Ellis, supra.

66. U S—The Fredensbro, D C Pa., 52 F.2d 854.
N Y—Republic Chemical Corp. v Bankers Commercial Corp, 73 N Y S.2d 318, affirmed 54 N.Y S.2d 396.
58 C.J. p 514 note 21.

Joint adventurers

In libel by shippers to recover prepaid freight paid to respondents who acted as agents for alleged corporation claimed to own vessel which never sailed, evidence was held to establish that vessel was operated at time in question by respondents and that money received by them for freight from shippers was received by respondents for themselves and as joint adventurers in operation of the vessel, rendering them liable for amounts paid by shippers for freight.—Kaufman v. John Block & Co., D C. N Y, 79 F.Supp 528.

Liability of mortgagee of vessel

Where joint adventurers were operating vessel in their own interest when they received prepaid freight from shippers, and were not acting as agents for mortgagee to whom title of the vessel had been given, mortgagee was not liable in shippers' libel to recover the prepaid freight when the vessel never sailed—Kaufman v John Block & Co., supra

Under English law

(1) Under the law of England, a distinction is made between the rule governing prepaid freight, which may not be recovered when a ship is lost unless the contract of carriage provides expressly for the contrary, and the rule governing advance payments on ordinary commercial contracts, which payments may be recovered on the theory of failure of consideration when performance of contract is frustrated by war.—Woods Mfg. Co v. Canadian Pac. Ry Co, C C.A N Y, 151 F.2d 711—58 C J. p 514 note 20.

(2) Where one clause of bill of lading provided that the expression 'the carriers" included owners of carrying vessel, clause reciting that prepaid freight was earned on receipt of goods by carrier and was not returnable was required to be construed under English law as if it read "prepaid freight is earned on receipt of goods by owners of any carrying vessel and is not returnable."—Woods Mfg. Co. v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

(3) Under the law of England, shippers could not recover from any of the carriers on a through bill of lading for prepaid freight on cargoes which were lost when the ship was unambiguous in its terms,[67] and this rule cannot be overcome by proof of a local custom that freight prepaid is not to be returned where the vessel is lost on the voyage.[68] Thus, prepaid freight is recoverable where the goods are lost through improper storage,[69] or through the negligence of the ship,[70] or where the voyage is abandoned because the vessel proves unseaworthy,[71] or because of the outbreak of war,[72] or where the voyage is broken up and the delivery of the goods prevented by the dangers of the sea, at least where there is no evidence of a special contract varying that contained in the bill of lading, which is in the usual form.[73] However, if the contract of affreightment so provides, prepaid freight need not be refunded where the vessel is unable to perform the voyage or otherwise carry out its contract of affreightment,[74] and, under such a contract, where all the conditions precedent to payment have been performed, the shipowner is entitled to recover the freight even though the goods were lost at the time the obligation to pay became due.[75] Where a voyage is abandoned because of the inability of the carrier to obtain sufficient cargo and freights to render the voyage profitable, it has been held that the shipper may recover prepaid freight despite a provision in the bill of lading that "freights prepaid will not be returned, goods lost or not lost."[76] Ordinarily, a stipulation that the freight shall not be repaid if the goods do not arrive does not apply where the vessel never starts on the voyage.[77]

Transshipment charges Transshipment charges which are voluntarily paid by a shipper where the original vessel is subjected to delay have been held to be in the nature of special damages for which the original vessel is not responsible in the absence of a special agreement,[78] or unless advance notice has been given of the special urgency of delivery sunk—C Brewer & Co v American President Lines, D C N Y, 59 F.Supp 796.

67. Ala—Norton-Crossing Co v Martin, 81 So 71, 202 Ala 569.
58 C J. p 515 note 22.

68. U S—De Sola v. Pomares, D.C N Y., 119 F 373.
58 C J p 515 note 23

69. U S—Fleishman v. The John P. Best, D C Pa, 9 F Cas No 4,861, 14 Phila 527, 8 Wkly N Cas. 30

70. U S—The Königin Luise, D.C N Y, 173 F. 811, reversed on other grounds 185 F. 478, 107 C C A 578—Brauer v. Compagnia De Navigacion La Flechs, D.C N Y, 61 F. 860, affirmed 66 F. 776, 14 C C A 88

71. U S—The Pehr Ugland, D C Va, 271 F. 340, appeal dismissed, C C A., 277 F. 1019.

Bill of lading provisions held no defense

Provisions of bill of lading requiring prepayment of freight charges, and authorizing carrier to retain them under all circumstances, were not available as defense in action to recover prepaid freight charges, where it was established that defendant received goods on board vessel knowing it to be unseaworthy without any effort to render the ship seaworthy, with result that ship was not allowed to leave port.—Zonite Products Corp v Mediterranean Nav Co, S. A, 52 N Y S 2d 603, 183 Misc 962

Unseaworthiness held cause of abandoning voyage

U S—The Louise, D C Md., 58 F. Supp 445.

72. U S—Gamboa, Rodriguez, Rivera & Co v. Imperial Sugar Co, C. C A Fla, 125 F.2d 970, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1282, 316 U.S. 691, 86 L.Ed. 1762.

Annulment of contract

An ocean carrier, prevented from performance of contract of carriage by the vis major of an embargo, has the right to annul contract, but only on restoration of shipper to precontract situation by return of freight—The Henry W Cramp, D C Pa, 6 F 2d 900, affirmed, C C A., 20 F 2d 320

Refund to buyer under C. I. F. contract

Where seller under "C. I. F." contract for sale of commodity shipped commodity on vessels which were prevented from completing their voyages by war, and buyer paid seller for commodity and insurance, and also paid freight charges, and transshipment charges and suffered risk of loss, buyer rather than seller, was entitled to refund of freight charges—Gamboa, Rodriguez, Rivera & Co v Imperial Sugar Co, C C A Fla., 125 F 2d 970, certiorari denied 62 S Ct 1282, 316 U S 691, 86 L Ed 1762

73. N.Y—Emery v. Dunbar, 1 Daly 408
58 C J. p 515 note 27

74. U.S—De La Rama S S Co v Ellis, C C A Cal, 149 F 2d 61, certiorari denied 66 S Ct 23, 326 U S 718, 90 L Ed 425—Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins Co v. U S, C C.A N Y, 105 F 2d 160, certiorari denied 60 S Ct. 175, 308 U S 611, 84 L Ed. 511.
58 C.J. p 515 note 28.

Legal impossibility of performance

Bill of lading containing a clause that prepaid freight is not to be refunded even though vessel be lost or voyage not completed is given controlling effect where voyage is broken up by legal impossibility of performance without fault of shipowner.—The Louise, D C.Md, 58 F.Supp, 445

Payment under mistake of law

Where the consignee of goods shipped from foreign country to New York, knowing that the vessel had been torpedoed and lost at sea, voluntarily paid the transatlantic freight, recovery back could not be had, under the principle which prevents recovery of a payment by hypothesis made under a mistake of law—Otis Astoria Corp v. Brasileiro, 52 N Y S 2d 235.

75. U S—National Steam Nav Co, Ltd. v. International Paper Co., N Y, 241 F 861, 154 C.C A. 563.
58 C J. p 516 note 29

76. U S.—Silva v Bankers Commercial Corp, C C A N Y, 163 F 2d 602.

Liability of creditor of carrier

Where carrier's creditor controlled sailings of vessel and creditor received prepaid freight money knowing that money was paid for a voyage which had been abandoned by carrier with consent and assistance of creditor, the creditor was liable to shipper for prepaid freight money—Silva v Bankers Commercial Corp, supra.

77. N Y—McInnes v Equitable Trust Co, 189 N.Y S. 518, 197 App. Div. 649.
58 C J p 516 note 30

78. U S—The Plow City, D.C.Pa, 23 F.Supp. 548.

Breakdown during voyage

Where breakdown of main circulating pump during voyage was the reason for steamship putting into harbor for repairs, the alleged fact that steamship was unseaworthy at beginning of voyage would not support shipper's claim for expense of transshipping his cargo.—The Plow City, supra.

by reason of the special use to which the cargo was to be put.[79]

Freight on goods misdelivered. Where freight on goods delivered at the wrong elevator is paid under protest to diminish damages, the consignee may recover it in an action in rem against the vessel.[80]

Recovery of overcharges. Where a steamer is paid in advance for the transportation of certain goods, and compels the consignee to pay a further amount on delivery of the goods to him, a claim for the amount so paid is allowable against the vessel;[81] but a shipper whose agent retained the contract of affreightment a long time and used it as a basis for preparing the bill of lading which was presented to the ship's agent for signature is not entitled to recover from said ship's agent overcharges for freight, especially after the ship's agent has settled accounts with his principal and has no funds in his hands.[82] In a suit by a consignor to recover overcharges made by a carrier, the fact that the consignor acted as agent for other persons by whom he has been reimbursed for such overcharges is immaterial with respect to the right of the consignor to recover from the carrier.[83] Where a captain of a vessel has possession of goods owned by a shipper but refuses to deliver such goods unless the shipper pays him more freight than is due, payment of the excess amount is payment made by compulsion and may be recovered back.[84] Similarly, duplicate freight paid under protest to a vessel may be recovered back.[85]

Lien for excess freight paid Where a vessel agrees to carry cargo at a specified rate unless a regular intercoastal carrier moves similar cargo at a lower rate, in which case the lower rate applies, and freight is paid at the specified rate in ignorance of the fact that a lower rate is being used, the shipper is entitled to a cargo lien on the vessel for the excess freight paid.[86]

§ 168. Assignment or Hypothecation

Freights may be assigned independently of the ship. Except for the master, who has authority to hypothecate the freight for the payment of necessary repairs on the ship during the voyage, freight can be assigned only by the person who has the right thereto.

Freights may be assigned independently of the ship[87] Except for the master, who has authority to hypothecate the freight for the payment of necessary repairs on the ship during the voyage,[88] freight can be assigned only by the person who has the right thereto, that is, the owner of the vessel,[89] or its charterer.[90] Future freights may be hypothecated or assigned[91] Freights may be hypothecated or assigned for any maritime purpose independent of the particular voyage.[92] Where freight is hypothecated, it means the freight of the whole voyage, and not merely for that part of the voyage unperformed at the execution of the bond.[93] Where the contract for the carriage of the goods made by an unauthorized person differs from that specified in the bill of lading signed by the master, and the freight due by the bill of lading is assigned by indorsement on the bill, made with the assent of the owners, to parties who have furnished supplies to the vessel, they will be entitled to recover in an action on the assignment whatever may be due under the actual contract[94]

79. U.S.—The Plow City, supra

80. U.S.—The G. A. Tomlinson, D.C. N.Y., 279 F. 786

81. U.S.—The Wyoming, D.C.Mo., 36 F. 493.

82. La.—Wichita Falls Motor Co. v. Kerr SS Co., 107 So. 777, 160 La. 992

83. U.S.—Olliphant v. Florida East Coast Car Ferry Co., D.C.Fla., 4 F. Supp. 288

84. N.Y.—Clancy v. Dutton, 113 N.Y.S. 124, 129 App.Div. 23

85. U.S.—The Muskegon, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.2d 817

86. U.S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, Wash., 54 S.Ct. 105, 290 U.S. 117, 78 L.Ed. 216

Liens not mutual and reciprocal

Only the obligations of ship and cargo under contract of affreightment are mutual and reciprocal, not the liens resulting from breach of those obligations.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, supra.

Knowledge of excess freight immaterial

Parties' lack of knowledge that freight paid was excessive was held immaterial to lien in favor of cargo on vessel.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Dimon S. S. Corporation, supra.

87. U.S.—In re Atlantic, etc., SS. Co., D.C.Md., 289 F. 145, affirmed, C.C.A., Standard Oil Co. v. Miller, 3 F.2d 438.
58 C.J. p. 516 note 35.

88. U.S.—Murray v. Lazarus, C.C.N.Y., 17 F.Cas.No. 9,962, 1 Paine 572.
58 C.J. p. 516 note 36.
Bottomry and respondentia see supra §§ 88–100

89. U.S.—Layne, etc., Corp. v. U.S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., C.C.A.Cal., 27 F.2d 39.
58 C.J. p. 516 note 37.

Assignment held without right

Charterer of United States vessel under charter party giving owner lien on subfreights and prohibiting transfer of charterer's rights without owner's written consent had no right to assign freight money as security.—U.S. v. Palmer & Parker Co., C.C.A.Mass., 61 F.2d 455.

90. U.S.—Cooper v. Sun Co., C.C.A.Pa., 33 F.2d 881.
58 C.J. p. 516 note 38.

91. U.S.—Freights of The Kate, D.C.N.Y., 63 F. 707
58 C.J. p. 516 note 39.

92. U.S.—The Tourist, D.C.Me., 16 F.2d 154, affirmed, C.C.A., Seaboard Forwarding Co. v. Freights on Four Cargoes of Flaxseed, 25 F.2d 1021, affirmed Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Tourist, 25 F.2d 1022.
58 C.J. p. 517 note 40

93. U.S.—The Zephyr, C.C.Mass., 30 F.Cas.No. 18,210, 3 Mason 341.

94. N.Y.—Trask v. Jones, 18 N.Y. Super. 62.

Priorities. A general hypothecation or assignment of all freights is inferior to a specific hypothecation for the purposes of securing aid on the particular voyage on which the freight is earned,[95] and a mortgage covering the ships and freights of the line as a whole is inferior to a general hypothecation of the freights of the line for maritime purposes.[96] If the purchaser of a vessel has assigned the freights thereof, the seller on retaking possession becomes entitled, as against the assignee, to all freights which have not been earned,[97] but freights earned although not collected belong to the assignee.[98]

§ 169. Actions

An action for the recovery of freight lies in favor of the master of a ship against the consignee of cargo, equally in personam and in rem. Actions for freight are governed by the general rules relating to civil actions and actions in admiralty.

An action for the recovery of freight lies in favor of the master of a ship against the consignee of cargo, equally in personam and in rem.[99] However, a claim for dead freight is not recoverable in an action in rem against the cargo,[1] and a claim by a vessel owner for the extra cost of handling timber of larger dimensions than that specified in the contract can be recovered only in rem against the cargo in so far as it is a claim for the services of stevedores who would be entitled to a lien, and is not so recoverable where the stevedores were furnished by the shipper.[2] Prepaid freight to which the shipper is entitled may be recovered in an action for money had and received.[3] An action to recover for payments in excess of agreed freight is based on violation of the contract of affreightment, whether such action is in admiralty or one for money had and received.[4]

Ordinarily, actions for freight are governed by the general rules relating to the trial of civil actions and actions in admiralty with respect to the time of bringing the suit,[5] the pleadings,[6] presumptions[7] and the burden of proof,[8] the admissibility[9] and the weight and sufficiency[10] of the evidence, and, like-

95. U S —The Tourist, D C Me , 16 F 2d 154, 159, affirmed, C C A , Seaboard Forwarding Co v Freights on Four Cargoes of Flaxseed, 25 F 2d 1021, affirmed Spencer Kellogg & Sons v Tourist, 25 F 2d 1022.
58 C J p 517 note 43.

96. U.S.—Freights of The Kate, D C N Y , 63 F 707

97. U S —In re Atlantic, etc , SS Co , D C Md , 289 F 145, affirmed, C C A , Standard Oil Co. v. Miller, 3 F.2d 438

98. U S —In re Atlantic, etc , SS Co , D C Md , 289 F 145, affirmed, C.C.A., Standard Oil Co. v. Miller, 3 F.2d 438.
58 C J p 517 note 46.

99. U S —Thatcher v McCulloh, D.C N Y , 23 F Cas.No 13,862, Olcott 365.
58 C J p 517 note 48.

1. U S —Hagan v Cargo of Lumber, D C.N.Y., 163 F. 657

2. U.S —Hagan v Cargo of Lumber, supra.

3. Ala —Hunter v. Lauderdale Cotton Mills, 112 So. 215, 215 Ala. 638

4. U S —Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v Dimon S S Corporation, Wash , 54 S.Ct 105, 290 U S. 117, 78 L Ed 216.

5. Cal.—Transmarine Corporation v. R W Kinney Co., 11 P.2d 877, 123 Cal.App. 411
58 C J. p 517 note 52

Statute of limitations

Three-year limitation in interstate commerce act was held inapplicable, where water carrier sued shipper for freight, notwithstanding total claim was partly inland and partly ocean freight —Transmarine Corporation v R W Kinney Co , supra.

6. Cal —Transmarine Corporation v R W Kinney Co , supra.
58 C J. p 517 note 53

Matters not necessary to be alleged

In action for freight under bills of lading exempting carrier for specified losses, the carrier need not allege or prove nondelivery resulted from exempted cause —Transmarine Corporation v R W. Kinney Co , supra

Matters held not in issue

Cal —Transmarine Corporation v. R. W Kinney Co , supra

Issue under answer or counterclaim

In action for freight under bills of lading exempting carrier for specified losses, shipper should present issue with respect to cause of loss by answer or counterclaim —Transmarine Corporation v R. W. Kinney Co , supra

7. U S —The Fredensbro, D C.Pa., 52 F 2d 854
58 C.J p 518 note 55 [c].

Ventilation

Where ship was sunk, wetting coal, court could not presume that shipowner, being willing to resume voyage to earn freight, would not provide ventilation to guard against spontaneous combustion —The Fredensbro, supra.

8. U S.—The Fredensbro, supra.
58 C J p 518 note 57.

Failure to offer evidence

Libelant suing for freight had burden of proving that weight of timbers exceeded maximum stipulated in contract, and where neither party offered evidence shipper was entitled to judgment on the pleadings —Compania De Navegacion Transmar, S. A , v Georgia Hardwood Lumber Co., D C Ga , 48 F Supp. 402, reversed on other grounds, C C A , 141 F 2d 652, affirmed 65 S Ct 293, 323 U S. 334, 89 L Ed 280

Cause of loss

In action for freight under bills of lading exempting carrier for specified losses, shipper, if presenting issue with respect to cause of loss, had burden of proving it.—Transmarine Corporation v. R W Kinney Co , 11 P 2d 877, 123 Cal.App 411.

Shortage

(1) Where the defense to an action for freight is short delivery, the burden of proof is on respondent to prove shortage —Kerruish v. Havemeyers, etc , Sugar Refining Co., N Y , 49 F 280, 1 C C A 243

(2) Where a paragraph of a bill in an action for freight avers delivery of the whole cargo taken on board, and the answer acknowledges that the paragraph containing this averment is true, a claim for shortage of cargo cannot be allowed — Muller v Spreckels, D.C Pa., 48 F 574

9. N Y.—Zimmerman v. Rainey, 56 N.Y.S 199, 26 Misc 795
58 C.J. p 518 note 54

10. U S —Linea Sud-Americana v. 7,295.40 Tons of Linseed, D C N. Y., 29 F.Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C A , 108 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 60 S Ct 615, 309 U.S. 672, 84 L Ed 1018.
58 C.J. p 518 note 55.

wise such general rules apply with respect to the trial,[11] and costs.[12]

§ 170. Lien

a. In general
b. Waiver or loss

a. In General

The law gives a carrier by water a lien on goods carried by him for the freight due for their carriage.

A lien for freight may arise by express contract between the parties,[13] but, irrespective of any express contract, the law gives a carrier by water a lien on goods carried by him for the freight due for their carriage.[14] It arises from the usages of commerce, independent of the agreement of the parties, and not from any statutory regulations.[15] A lien for freight, however, will be held not to exist if the contract of affreightment contains stipulations inconsistent with the notion thereof,[16] but the lien is not waived by any provisions of the contract of hire not absolutely incompatible with the enforcement of the lien at the time of delivery;[17] nor is the lien divested by assignment.[18] Although it has been stated that the lien exists if it appears that the payment is to be made before or at the delivery of the cargo, or even if it does not appear that the delivery is to precede such payment,[19] there is also authority for the statement that it does not arise unless payment of the freight is to be on the delivery of the cargo.[20] If the freight is payable after delivery of the cargo there is no lien.[21] The lien arises when, and only when, the vessel has earned or commenced to earn freight,[22] and attaches to property shipped by one authorized by the owner of the cargo as well as by the owner himself,[23] and it is not affected by any indebtedness in-

Evidence held sufficient

U.S.—Artemis Maritime Co. v. Southwestern Sugar & Molasses Co., C.C.A.Va., 189 F.2d 488—Compania De Navegacion Transmar, S.A., v. Georgia Hardwood Lumber Co., C.C.A.Ga., 141 F.2d 652, affirmed 65 S.Ct. 293, 323 U.S. 334, 89 L.Ed. 280—Linea Sud-Americana v. 7,295 40 Tons of Linseed, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.Supp. 210, affirmed, C.C.A., 108 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 615, 309 U.S. 672, 84 L.Ed. 1018—The Plow City, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Supp. 548.

Cal.—Bedford v. Pacific Structural Welding Corporation, 8 P.2d 558, 121 Cal.App. 162.

N.Y.—Republic Chemical Corp. v. Bankers Commercial Corp., 73 N.Y.S.2d 318, affirmed 54 N.Y.S.2d 396.

Evidence held insufficient

U.S.—De La Rama S.S. Co. v. Ellis, C.C.A.Cal., 149 F.2d 61, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 23, 326 U.S. 718, 90 L.Ed. 425—The Plow City, D.C.Pa., 23 F.Supp. 548.

Prima facie evidence

The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act does not foreclose a shipper from disputing the weights shown by ocean bill of lading which is prima facie evidence of receipt of goods as described, including weight, in absence of showing that bill recited any weights.—Compania De Navegacion Transmar, S.A., v. Georgia Hardwood Lumber Co., D.C.Ga., 48 F.Supp. 402, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 141 F.2d 652, affirmed 65 S.Ct. 293, 323 U.S. 334, 89 L.Ed. 280.

11. N.Y.—Doty v. Thomson, 22 N.E. 1089, 116 N.Y. 515.
58 C.J. p. 519 note 58.

12. U.S.—The Asiatic Prince, D.C.N.Y., 103 F. 676.
58 C.J. p. 519 note 59.

Unnecessary litigation

Where litigation between a carrier and a shipper is wholly unnecessary and is caused by the unreasonable conduct of both parties, each party will be required to pay its own costs.—The Asiatic Prince, supra.

Shipper held entitled to costs

U.S.—Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Chamberlain, Ill., 118 F. 716, 55 C.C.A. 236.

13. Evidence of creation of lien

Charter party binding vessel, freight, tackle, and appurtenances, and merchandise, each to other in penal sum of estimated amount of charter, although in itself mere penalty, was evidence of creation of a lien for freight.—The Albert F. Paul, C.C.A.N.Y., 1 F.2d 16.

Under cesser clause

Under cesser clause, shipowner's lien on cargo was commensurate with liability which, except for clause, charterer would assume.—The Arizpa, C.C.A.Md., 63 F.2d 42, certiorari denied U.S. v. Consolidation Coal Co., 54 S.Ct. 66, 290 U.S. 648, 78 L.Ed. 562.

14. U.S.—Clifford v. Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, C.C.A.Fla., 57 F.2d 1021—The Fredensbro, D.C.Pa., 52 F.2d 854.
58 C.J. p. 519 note 62.

Issuance of bill of lading

In absence of special agreement, goods shipped by charterers themselves are subject to lien for chartered freight, regardless of whether bill of lading was issued.—The Albert F. Paul, C.C.A.N.Y., 1 F.2d 16.

Priority

(1) A towage lien has been held superior to claims under a contract of affreightment.—The Unadilla, D.C.Mich., 24 F.Cas.No.14,333—63 C.J. p. 17 note 68.

(2) In ordinary cases of the hypothecation of a cargo, the lien for freight takes precedence.—Gracie v. Palmer, Pa., 8 Wheat. 605, 5 L.Ed. 696.

15. U.S.—The Bird of Paradise, Cal., 5 Wall. 545, 18 L.Ed. 662.

16. U.S.—The Volunteer, C.C.Mass., 28 F.Cas.No.16,991, 1 Sumn. 551.

17. U.S.—Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. Portland, etc., SS. Co., D.C.Or., 145 F. 687.
58 C.J. p. 520 note 65.

18. N.Y.—Everett v. Coffin, 6 Wend. 603, 22 Am.D. 551.
58 C.J. p. 520 note 66.

19. U.S.—The Volunteer, C.C.Mass., 28 F.Cas.No.16,991, 1 Sumn. 551.

20. U.S.—Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. Portland, etc., SS. Co., D.C.Or., 145 F. 687.

21. U.S.—The Bird of Paradise, Cal., 5 Wall. 545, 18 L.Ed. 662—The Volunteer, C.C.Mass., 28 F.Cas.No.16,991, 1 Sumn. 551.

22. U.S.—The Capitaine Faure, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 950, certiorari denied Société De Navigation A Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Cooper, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150 and Société De Navigation A Vapeur France Indo-Chine v. Harrisons, 46 S.Ct. 634, 271 U.S. 684, 70 L.Ed. 1150.
58 C.J. p. 520 note 73.

Storage of goods at destination

If consignees or owners cannot be notified, or if agreed freight is unpaid, ship, on storage of goods at destination, retains lien therefor.—Clifford v. Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation, C.C.A.Fla., 57 F.2d 1021.

23. Cal.—Green v. Campbell, 52 Cal. 586.

curred by the captain to the consignees on his personal account [24]

Nature The shipowner's lien for freight is, at least in admiralty, a maritime lien[25] and differs from most maritime liens in that it is possessory.[26] It is a mere right to hold the goods carried as security for the payment of the freight due[27] and arises from the right to retain them until the freight is paid.[28] It depends on the possession of the goods,[29] and it is not the same as the privileged claim of the civil law;[30] nor is it an hypothecation of the cargo which will remain a charge on the goods after the shipowner has parted unconditionally with the possession.[31]

Liberal construction. The maritime lien for freight is not governed by the strict and technical rules of the common law,[32] but is dealt with on equitable principles and with reference to the usages and customs of trade [33]

Enforcement. The shipowner's lien for freight is enforceable in admiralty.[34] He may enforce the lien by a proceeding in rem[35] or he may retain the goods until the freight is paid.[36] If the consignee and owner of a cargo fails to pay or tender the freight due on the discharge of the cargo, the carrier, to preserve its lien, is authorized to retain and store sufficient of the cargo to pay such freight,[37] and the expense of storage and loss of use of the commodity must be borne by the owner;[38] but where a vessel delivers a consignment, a portion of which is damaged, it is incumbent on her to ascertain the amount of damage before retaining a part of the consignment for balance of freight, in order that she may not, by retaining an unreasonable amount, become liable for the storage and selling charges.[39] A sea carrier under a common bill of lading cannot enforce a lien for freight by a sale of the goods on its own motion without a decree,[40] nor can a lien for freight payable in advance, but unpaid, be exercised en route,[41] since, in the absence of some stipulation to the contrary, the lien is enforceable only when the ship has arrived at her destination and is ready to deliver.[42]

Lien of third person. Third persons cannot have a maritime lien on freights if there is none on the ship [43] An assignment or pledge of freights in consideration of advancements furnished without restriction as to purpose does not create a maritime lien,[44] and is inferior to a stevedore's lien[45] or to the claim of one who furnished fuel to the ship for the voyage on which the freights claimed by the assignee were earned.[46] Admiralty has jurisdiction to enforce a lien created by a pledging of freights for a maritime purpose.[47] It also has jurisdiction to enforce a lien on subfreights by a proceeding in rem,[48] and since jurisdiction in rem in admiralty is determined by the allegations of the libel, an answer denying that such freights are due does not oust the jurisdiction of the court;[49] but

24. U.S.—Fox v. Holt, D.C Conn., 9 F.Cas.No.5,012, 4 Ben 278, 36 Conn 558.

25. U.S.—The Bird of Paradise, Cal., 5 Wall. 545, 18 L Ed. 662.
58 C J. p 521 note 79.

26. U.S.—In re Four Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-Five Bags of Linseed, Mass., 1 Black 108, 17 L Ed 35—The Appam, D.C. N.Y., 243 F. 230.

27. U.S.—The Maria White, D C Me., 16 F.Cas No 9,083, 1 Hask. 204.

28. U S—The Bird of Paradise, Cal., 5 Wall. 545, 18 L.Ed 662.
58 C.J. p 521 note 82.

29. U.S.—Four Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-Five Bags of Linseed, Mass., 1 Black 108, 17 L. Ed 35—Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. Portland, etc, SS. Co, D.C.Or., 145 F. 687.

30. U.S.—The Eddy, S.C., 5 Wall. 481, 18 L.Ed. 486—The Bird of Paradise, Cal., 5 Wall. 545, 18 L.Ed 662.

31. U.S—The Bird of Paradise, supra—Four Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-Five Bags of Linseed, Mass, 1 Black 108, 17 L Ed. 35.

32. U S.—Four Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-Five Bags of Linseed, supra—Leggett v. 500 Cases of Tomatoes, C.C.A N Y., 15 F.2d 270.

33. U S—Four Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-Five Bags of Linseed, Mass., 1 Black 108, 17 L. Ed 35—Leggett v. 500 Cases of Tomatoes, C.C A.N.Y., 15 F 2d 270.

34. U S—Leggett v. 500 Cases of Tomatoes, supra.

35. U S.—The Bird of Paradise, Cal., 5 Wall. 545, 18 L Ed. 662.
58 C.J. p 521 note 89.

36. U S.—The Bird of Paradise, supra.
58 C.J. p 521 note 90.

37. U S.—The Asiatic Prince, D.C N. Y., 103 F. 676.

38. U.S.—The Asiatic Prince, supra.

39. U S—The Tangier, D.C.N.Y., 32 F. 230.

40. U.S.—The Maria White, D C Me., 16 F.Cas.No.9,083, 1 Hask. 204.
58 C.J. p 521 note 94.

41. U S.—The Appam, D.C.N.Y, 243 F. 230.

42. U S.—The Appam, supra.

43. U.S—U S v. Robins Dry Dock, etc., Co, C.C A.Mass, 13 F.2d 808.

44. U S—In re Atlantic, etc, SS Co., D.C Md., 3 F.2d 311, affirmed, C C A, Standard Oil Co. v. Miller, 3 F 2d 438—In re Atlantic, etc, SS Co., D C Md, 3 F.2d 309, affirmed, C C.A., Standard Oil Co. v. Miller, 3 F.2d 438

45. U S—In re Atlantic, etc., SS Co., D.C.Md, 3 F 2d 309, affirmed, C.C.A, Standard Oil Co v. Miller, 3 F.2d 438.

46. U.S.—In re Atlantic, etc., SS Co., D.C Md., 3 F 2d 311, affirmed, C.C A, Standard Oil Co. v. Miller, 3 F 2d 438.

47. U.S.—In re Atlantic, etc, SS. Co., D.C.Md, 3 F 2d 309, affirmed, C.C A., Standard Oil Co. v. Miller, 3 F.2d 438

48. U S.—U S. v. Freights, etc, of The Mount Shasta, Mass, 47 S Ct 666, 274 U S. 466, 71 L Ed. 1156.
58 C.J. p 522 note 4.

49. U S.—U. S. v. Freights, etc, of The Mount Shasta, supra.

proof on the trial that the res does not exist will defeat the jurisdiction of the court.[50] A person who has made advances for the benefit of a vessel and has taken an assignment of the master's lien on the freight therefor has been held entitled to the appointment of a receiver to collect such freight where the owners of the vessel are insolvent.[51]

b. Waiver or Loss

The carrier may waive or lose its lien on the goods. Delivery of the cargo without condition or qualification is a waiver of the lien.

The carrier may waive or lose its lien on the goods.[52] If the contract of carriage ends, the conventional lien embodied in, and created by, that contract falls with it.[53] Thus, the shipowner loses his lien where he totally abandons the carriage of the goods,[54] as where the ship is wrecked and the master sells the cargo which is of a perishable nature[55] or where the ship is captured by the enemy,[56] but, where the vessel has earned freight, a formal abandonment of the ship to the underwriters by the owner who, at the same time, keeps the master on board in order to retain possession of the cargo is not sufficient to cause a loss of the lien for freight.[57] It is not necessary for the preservation of the lien that the goods be carried to their destination in the vessel on which they were originally laden, but if in fact they reach the port of destination so that delivery can be made, whether by the original boat or by another agency set in motion by the original carrier or by one standing in his place, the lien continues and can be enforced.[58]

Conversion. The deposit of the goods in a warehouse prior to the expiration of the time allowed for delivery in the bill of lading amounts to a conversion and deprives the carrier of his lien.[59]

Effect of delivery of goods. Delivery of the cargo without condition or qualification is a waiver of the lien.[60] Accordingly, the lien for freight is discharged by delivery to the consignee without demanding freight or notifying him of a lien therefor, in the absence of a special agreement or local usage to the contrary, irrespective of the intentions of the master.[61] Part delivery, however, does not waive the lien on the remainder of the goods.[62] The manual delivery of the cargo by the shipowners does not of itself operate necessarily to discharge their lien for freight, where the intent of the shipowners in making such delivery is merely to discharge the cargo, and not to deliver it,[63] since there is a well defined difference in law between the discharge of a cargo and its delivery, and it may be discharged, but cannot be delivered unconditionally, without divesting the vessel's lien thereon for freight.[64] If it is clear from the agreement of the parties, either express or implied by the local usage of the port, that the transfer was only for certain purposes, presumably for the benefit of both parties, as for examination or storing for a brief period, the law

50. U.S.—U. S. v. Freights, etc., of The Mount Shasta, supra

51. N.Y.—Sorley v. Brewer, 1 Daly 79.

52. U.S.—Allen v. Three Thousand One Hundred and Eighty-Three Bushels of Potatoes, D.C.N.Y., 8 F. 763

58 C.J. p. 522 note 7.

Clear proof required

Defense that shipowner chartering entire vessel intended to waive lien on cargo for freight, actually or presumptively, requires clear proof.—The Robin Gray, 53 F.2d 1037, reversed in part on other grounds, C.C.A., 65 F.2d 375, modified on other grounds 65 F.2d 376, certiorari denied Seas Shipping Co. v. Approximately 3,251,000 Feet Board Measure of Lumber, 54 S.Ct. 70, 290 U.S. 653, 78 L.Ed. 566

53. U.S.—The Appam, D.C.N.Y., 243 F. 230.

58 C.J. p. 522 note 8.

54. U.S.—The Appam, supra.

55. U.S.—Allen v. Three Thousand One Hundred and Eighty-Three Bushels of Potatoes, D.C.N.Y., 8 F. 763.

58 C.J. p. 522 note 10.

56. U.S.—The Appam, D.C.N.Y., 243 F. 230

58 C.J. p. 522 note 11

57. U.S.—Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S.S. Co., C.C.A.Mich., 44 F.2d 759, certiorari denied James Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S.S. Co., 51 S.Ct. 345, 283 U.S. 821, 75 L.Ed. 1436.

58 C.J. p. 522 note 12.

58. N.Y.—Hughes v. Sun Mut. Ins. Co., 2 N.E. 901, 3 N.E. 71, 100 N.Y. 58

59. N.Y.—Western Transp. Co. v. Barber, 56 N.Y. 544.

60. U.S.—Eastern Transp. Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y., 159 F.2d 349.—Alcoa S.S. Co. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 80 F. Supp. 158, reversed on other grounds, C.A., 175 F.2d 661, affirmed 70 S.Ct. 190, 338 U.S. 421, 94 L.Ed. 225

58 C.J. p. 522 note 15.

Shipowner held to have retained possession

Shipowner, where master of barge remained on board after fire, retained possession of cargo, with respect to right to lien for freight, notwithstanding abandonment of barge to fire underwriters.—Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S.S. Co., C.C.A. Mich., 44 F.2d 759, certiorari denied James Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S.S. Co., 51 S.Ct. 345, 283 U.S. 821, 75 L.Ed. 1436.

Estoppel

Shipowner was not estopped with respect to lien for freight on cargo, as against purchasers thereof, by fire underwriters exacting guaranty that they would not have to pay freight.—Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S.S. Co., C.C.A.Mich., 44 F.2d 759, certiorari denied James Richardson & Sons v. Jenkins S.S. Co., 51 S.Ct. 345, 283 U.S. 821, 75 L.Ed. 1436.

61. U.S.—The Tan Bark Case, D.C. Mich., 23 F.Cas.No.13,742, Brown Adm. 151

58 C.J. p. 522 note 16

62. U.S.—Fox v. Holt, D.C., 9 F.Cas. No.5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

58 C.J. p. 522 note 17.

63. U.S.—In re Four Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-Five Bags of Linseed, Mass., 1 Black 108, 17 L.Ed. 35.

58 C.J. p. 523 note 19.

64. U.S.—Cranston v. A Cargo of Two Hundred and Fifty Tons of Coal, D.C.N.Y., 22 F. 614.

will deem the possessor as a depositary for both parties, and the master as still constructively in possession, so far as to preserve his lien and his remedy in rem.[65] Thus, it has been held that a delivery of cargo subject to a lien for freight, made to a person liable to pay the freight, will not be held to be a waiver of the lien for freight unless facts appear from which it can be found that the act of delivering the cargo was accompanied with an intention to waive the lien for freight,[66] and, where delivery is made on an understanding between the parties that the transfer of the goods shall not be regarded as a waiver, no such consequence follows.[67] A delivery made under the expectation that the freight will be paid at the time is not such a delivery as to constitute a waiver of the lien, and the carrier may afterward libel the article in rem, in admiralty, for the freight;[68] nor is cargo divested of a lien for freight merely by being discharged into a warehouse without other evidence of the carrier's intention to waive the lien.[69] A delivery to a wharfinger or warehouseman on the consignee's account, accompanied by a notice of lien, is no waiver, even if the notice is served an hour or two after the last of the cargo is delivered, so slight a delay not necessarily indicating an intent to unconditionally deliver;[70] nor is the lien divested by delivery where it is the notorious usage of the port where the cargo is detained that the lien shall remain.[71]

F. SUPERCARGO

§ 171. Definition; Nature of Duties

A supercargo is a person specially employed by the owner of a cargo to take charge of and sell to the best advantage merchandise which has been shipped, and to purchase returning cargoes and to receive freight, as he may be authorized.

A supercargo is a person specially employed by the owner of a cargo to take charge of and sell to the best advantage merchandise which has been shipped, and to purchase returning cargoes and to receive freight, as he may be authorized.[72] He may sell or pledge the cargo if necessary before it has arrived at its destination.[73] The principles which regulate the conduct of factors abroad apply to supercargoes,[74] and they are liable for injuries to the employer occasioned by the want of reasonable skill or ordinary diligence and are bound to use good faith and must exercise their judgment after proper precautions and inquiries.[75] A supercargo is not bound to observe the exact terms of his instructions, if thereby the interests of the owner would be sacrificed or his objects frustrated, and in cases of necessity or urgency, it is only necessary that he act bona fide and with reasonable discretion in order to bind the owner.[76] Where he makes a shipment of merchandise on his principal's account, the exportation of which is prohibited, it is at his own risk, and, if seized and condemned at the place of exportation, he must bear the loss,[77] unless the shipper has ratified the sale by retaining the proceeds after knowledge of the facts.[78] As a general rule, a supercargo cannot delegate his authority any more than any other agent, but exception may arise where the power of delegation is conferred by the necessity of the case, the usages of trade, or the law and customs of the country where the agency is to be executed.[79]

§ 172. Master as Supercargo

While a master has no implied powers of a supercargo, he may have them conferred on him by express authority of the shipper.

While a master has, as such, no implied powers of a supercargo,[80] he may have them conferred on

65. U.S.—Four Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-Five Bags of Linseed, Mass., 1 Black 108, 17 L Ed 35.
58 C.J. p 523 note 21.

66. U.S.—McBrier v. A Cargo of Hard Coal, D.C.Minn., 69 F. 469.
58 C.J. p 523 note 22

67. U.S.—Wilcox v. Five Hundred Tons of Coal, C.C.Ill., 14 F. 49—Kimball v. The Anna Kimball, C.C. Mass., 14 F.Cas.No 7,772, 2 Cliff. 4.

68. U.S.—Costello v. 734,700 Laths, etc., D.C.N.Y., 44 F. 105.
58 C.J. p 523 note 24.

69. U.S.—Howard v. 9,889 Bags of Malt, D.C.Mass., 255 F. 917.
58 C.J. p 523 note 25.

70. U.S.—The Giulio, D.C.N.Y., 34 F. 909

71. U.S.—Wilcox v. Five Hundred Tons of Coal, C.C.Ill., 14 F. 49.
58 C.J. p 523 note 27.

72. Md.—Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am.D. 316.
58 C.J. p 523 note 28.

73. U.S.—Forrestier v. Bordman, C.C.Mass., 9 F.Cas.No 4,945, 1 Story 43

74. Md.—Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am.D. 316.
58 C.J. p 524 note 33.

75. Md.—Gaither v. Myrick, supra.
58 C.J. p 524 note 34.

76. U.S.—Forrestier v. Bordman, C.C.Mass., 9 F.Cas.No 4,945, 1 Story 43
58 C.J. p 524 note 35

77. Md.—Pawsons v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. 1, 19 Am.D. 213.

78. U.S.—Forrestier v. Bordman, C.C.Mass., 9 F.Cas.No.4,945, 1 Story 43

79. U.S.—Merrick v. Bernard, C.C. Pa., 17 F.Cas.No 9,464, 1 Wash. 479.
58 C.J. p 524 note 38.

80. Pa.—Rapp v. Palmer, 3 Watts 178—Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts 65.

him by express authority of the shipper,[81] and sometimes the circumstances are such that the necessity devolves on him to act as supercargo to protect the property and interests intrusted to him.[82] Where the master is supercargo his duties and liabilities are as distinct as if confined to different persons,[83] and in dealing under his powers of supercargo he acts as agent of the shipper, not the owner of the vessel, and the former, not the latter, is liable for his acts;[84] but where, in pursuance of a general usage, goods shipped on a vessel are consigned to the master to sell and make returns, the owner of the vessel is liable for the safe transportation of the goods.[85]

§ 173. Compensation; Lien

On a valid sale a supercargo has a right to retain the proceeds of a cargo for a general balance due to him by the owners.

On a valid sale a supercargo has a right to retain the proceeds of a cargo for a general balance due to him by the owners,[86] and, if he receives his instructions from the ostensible owners of the whole cargo, he has a right to retain, out of the whole proceeds of the cargo, the amount of a general balance due to him from such ostensible owners, although there may be another part owner, whose interest was not disclosed to him until he had settled his account with the ostensible owners.[87] He has a lien on a return cargo to reimburse himself for advances made by him and to satisfy any balance due him on the final adjustment of the transaction between him and the consignor,[88] and he has also a lien on the indemnity fund provided for by treaty with a foreign nation for sequestration of a cargo.[89] On his death during the voyage, after he appoints substitutes, his representatives are entitled to full compensation stipulated for the whole voyage,[90] but if he did not appoint a representative, compensation is allowed only in proportion to the services performed.[91]

IX. CARRIAGE OF PASSENGERS

§ 174. In General

General rules relating to carriage of passengers are applicable to carriers of passengers by water.

The law which regulates the rights and duties of carriers of passengers by train, street car, motor vehicle, or airplane is, in the main, applicable to carriers of passengers by water,[92] the only difference being conditions peculiar to the means and manner of transportation,[93] and certain statutory provisions.[94]

Public or common carriers; private carrier. Carriers by water, holding themselves out to the public as carriers of passengers, are public or common carriers of passengers.[95] A company which maintains boats for the sole and exclusive use of its own patrons is engaged in the business of a private carrier[96] and is not subject to rules applicable to common carriers.[97]

Regulations by carrier. In accordance with rules considered in Carriers § 575, a carrier of passengers by water may make reasonable rules and regulations for the use of the carrier's premises;[98] they cannot be used, without the carrier's consent, by the operators of taxicabs,[99] and they may be enjoined from such use.[1]

81. Md.—Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md 118, 66 Am D. 316.
58 C J. p 524 note 40.

82. U S —The Collenberg, N.Y., 1 Black 170, 17 L.Ed. 89.
58 C.J p 524 note 41.

83. U S —The Waldo, D C.Me., 28 F. Cas No 17,056, 2 Ware 165.
58 C.J. p 524 note 42.

84. U S.—The St Nicholas, Ga., 1 Wheat 417, 4 L.Ed 125.
58 C J. p 525 note 43.

85. Md.—Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md 118, 66 Am D. 316.
58 C J. p 525 note 44.

86. U.S.—Vowell v. West, D C., 28 F.Cas No 17,024, 4 Cranch C.C. 100
58 C J. p 525 note 45.

87. U.S —Luckett v West, D.C., 15 F.Cas.No.8,593, 4 Cranch C.C. 101

88. Md —Karthaus v. Owings, 4 Harr. & J. 263

89. U.S —Stewart v. Callaghan, D C., 23 F.Cas.No 13,423, 4 Cranch C. C. 594.

90. N.Y.—Gray v. Murray, 3 Johns. Ch. 167.

91. Pa —Welsh v. Dusar, 3 Binn. 329.

92. Ky —Coney Island Co v. Brown, 162 S.W.2d 785, 290 Ky. 750.

93. Ky —Coney Island Co. v. Brown, supra.

94. Ky —Coney Island Co. v. Brown, supra

95. Ky —Reasor v. Paducah, etc, Ferry Co., 153 S W. 222, 152 Ky. 220, 43 L.R.A ,N S., 820.
10 C J. p 608 note 77.
Carriers of passengers generally, as public or common carriers see Carriers §§ 530–534.

96. Ohio.—Cloke v. Coney Island, 10 N E 2d 1009, 56 Ohio App. 384
Transporting to park
A company maintaining pleasure boats used solely to transport patrons from the mainland to its park on an island was a private carrier within the text rule.—Cloke v. Coney Island, supra.

97. Ohio.—Cloke v. Coney Island, supra.

98. N.Y.—Borland v. Curto, 201 N.Y. S 469, 121 Misc. 814.

99. N Y.—Borland v Curto, supra.

1. N.Y.—Borland v. Curto, supra.

§ 175. —— Duty to Carry; Schedules and Route

A vessel, as a common carrier, is bound to receive for carriage, without discrimination, all proper persons who desire passage and properly offer to became passengers, unless some sufficient excuse exists for refusing them.

A vessel generally engaged as a common carrier of passengers, like other common carriers, as considered in Carriers § 538, is bound to receive for carriage, without discrimination,[2] all proper persons who desire it and properly offer to become passengers,[3] unless some sufficient excuse exists for refusing them.[4] The obligation to transport passengers by water, either in accordance with a previous contract or advertised schedule, is the obligation of the owner of the vessel, rather than that of the vessel itself.[5] When not in some manner properly regulated, the schedule of sailing, or the ports to which carriage shall be made, is largely a matter to be determined by the vessel owner.[6]

§ 176. —— Who Are Passengers

a. In general
b. Commencement of relation
c. Continuance and termination of relation

a. In General

A passenger, in shipping, is said to include all who pay freight for their own persons apart from their merchandise. The relation between vessel owner and passenger is the primarily contractual one of carrier and passenger.

The term "passenger," as used in shipping, has been said to include all persons who pay freight for their own persons apart from their merchandise.[7] The relation between vessel owner and passenger is the primarily contractual one of passenger and carrier.[8] In order that this relation may come into existence, there must be a contract of carriage, either express or implied, entered into between the passenger and the vessel owner, or by their respective agents.[9] Such contract must ordinarily comprehend the payment of fare or an equivalent therefor.[10] It is not essential that there be a direct payment of fare by the passenger to the vessel owner.[11] Hence, the transferee of a ticket from one who was going to take a voyage,[12] a person who purchases a ticket from one who holds a contract with the vessel owner for the carriage of an excursion party,[13] or a former employee of a vessel who is having his transportation to home from a foreign port paid by the employer, as a part of the contract of employment,[14] may become a passenger. However, in instances where the owner of one vessel contracts with another vessel to have his employees carried back and forth to work, the employees are not passengers of the other vessel,[15] but rather invitees who have been invited to come aboard for a consideration paid by the employer.[16]

b. Commencement of Relation

The relation of carrier and passenger commences as soon as a person with bona fide intention of taking passage places himself in the care of the vessel or its employees and is accepted as a passenger.

The relationship commences as soon as a person with the bona fide intention of taking passage places himself in the care of the vessel or its employees and is accepted as a passenger;[17] he need not actually have come on board the vessel,[18] but, if in good faith one intending to become a passenger

2. N.C.—Patterson v. Old Dominion SS Co., 53 S.E. 224, 140 N.C. 412, 111 Am.S.R. 848, 5 L.R.A.,N.S., 1012
58 C.J. p 525 note 54.

3. U.S.—Weade v. Dichmann, Wright & Pugh, Va., 69 S.Ct. 1326, 337 U.S. 801, 93 L.Ed. 1704.
58 C.J. p 525 note 55.

4. Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818.
Mass.—Connors v. Cunard SS Co., 90 N.E. 601, 204 Mass. 310, 134 Am.S.R. 662, 26 L.R.A.,N.S., 171, 17 Ann.Cas. 1051.
58 C.J. p 525 note 52.

5. U.S.—Acker v. The City of Athens, C.A.Md., 177 F.2d 961—Todd Shipyards Corp. v. The City of Athens, D.C.Md., 83 F.Supp. 67.

6. Philippine.—Yangco v. Public Utility Comrs., 36 Philippine 116.
58 C.J. p 525 note 56.

7. U.S.—The Main v. Williams, Md., 14 S.Ct. 486, 487, 152 U.S. 122, 38 L.Ed. 381.

8. U.S.—Austro-American SS. Co. v. Thomas, N.Y., 248 F. 231, 231 C.C.A. 309, L.R.A.1918D 873.

9. U.S.—The Vueltabajo, D.C.Ala., 163 F. 594.
58 C.J. p 526 note 59.

10. U.S.—Carlsen v. A. Paladini, Inc., C.C.A.Cal., 5 F.2d 387.
58 C.J. p 526 note 60.
Bartenders who pay for the privilege of conducting a bar on board a vessel are passengers and not employees.—Yeomans v. Contra Costa Steam Nav. Co., 44 Cal. 71.

11. U.S.—Gleason v. The Willamette Valley, D.C.Cal., 71 F. 712.
58 C.J. p 526 note 61.

12. U.S.—Gleason v. The Willamette Valley, supra.

13. D.C.—Mt. Vernon, etc., Steamboat Co. v. McKenney, 46 App.D.C. 99
Pa.—McBride v. McNally, 89 A. 1131, 243 Pa. 206, 52 L.R.A.,N.S., 259.

14. U.S.—The European, La., 120 F. 776, 57 C.C.A. 140.

15. U.S.—The Ross Coddington, D.C.N.Y., 40 F.2d 280, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 6 F.2d 191.
58 C.J. p 526 note 65.

16. U.S.—The Ross Coddington, supra.

17. U.S.—In re Kimball SS. Co., D.C.Cal., 123 F. 838, reversed on other grounds 128 F. 397, 63 C.C.A. 139, 65 L.R.A. 84, certiorari denied 24 S.Ct. 859, 194 U.S. 638, 48 L.Ed. 1162.
58 C.J. p 526 note 67.

18. U.S.—In re Kimball SS. Co., supra.
58 C.J. p 526 note 68.

goes on the vessel for the purpose of taking passage on the usual terms and conditions established by the carrier, and the latter accepts the passenger, the relationship is at once established.[19] On the other hand, prospective passengers who have purchased tickets for transportation but have not boarded the vessel are not passengers.[20] The fact that a ticket has not been purchased nor the fare paid does not prevent the creation of the relation,[21] although it has been said that a subsequent nonpayment of fare, after demand therefor, may constitute good cause for a rescission of the contract.[22]

c. Continuance and Termination of Relation

The relation of carrier and passenger continues until the passenger has been landed at the port of destination and has left the vessel owner's dock or premises.

The relation ordinarily continues until the passenger has been landed at the port of destination and left the vessel owner's dock or premises,[23] and one who has become a passenger by reason of the purchase of through passage to the port of destination does not lose his rights as such, during ingress to, and egress from, the steamer, while going ashore at an intermediate port for his own convenience, if in so doing he violates no rule of the carrier or condition of his ticket.[24]

Termination. The relation of passenger and carrier ceases when the passenger is made aware of the arrival at the port of destination, and has had a reasonable time to get off the vessel;[25] if thereafter he remains on the vessel, he ceases to be a passenger[26] and becomes in effect a trespasser.[27] Where a passenger is transferred from one vessel to another, the relation of passenger and carrier between the passenger and the transferor carrier ceases when the transferee carrier accepts him as a passenger.[28]

§ 177. Statutory Regulation

The carriage of passengers by water is now largely regulated by statute. Such statutory regulations are usually not regarded as limiting the common-law liability of the vessel owner; but as an aid of the common law or giving additional protection to passengers.

The carriage of passengers by vessels has been largely regulated by federal statutes, having as an object the protection of the lives of the passengers and the assurance of suitable accommodations and proper transportation, although there have also been state statutes, designed to regulate steamboats used for the conveyance of passengers, which were not subject to regulation by congress because they were not used in navigating waters of the United States,[29] or to regulate the landing of foreign passengers who may become a charge on the state.[30] Statutory regulations of this nature are usually not regarded as limiting the common-law liability of the vessel owner,[31] but rather as coming in aid of the common law or giving additional protection to passengers.[32]

§ 178. —— Vessels Subject to Regulations

a. Ownership and place of use
b. Type of use

a. Ownership and Place of Use

Privately owned steam vessels navigating any waters of the United States which are common highways of commerce or open to general or competitive navigation are subject to regulation by congress. Some statutes regulate privately owned foreign vessels carrying passengers from any port of the United States.

Although there seems to be some dispute as to the extent to which vessels engaged in purely internal commerce within a state can be subjected to federal regulations, as discussed in Commerce § 42, congress in some acts has undertaken to regulate all privately owned steam vessels navigating any waters of the

19. U.S.—Mellquist v. The Wasco, D.C.Wash., 53 F. 546.
58 C.J. p 526 note 69.

20. U.S.—Acker v. The City of Athens, C.A.Md., 177 F.2d 961—Todd Shipyards Corp. v. The City of Athens, D.C.Md., 83 F.Supp. 67.

21. U.S.—Mellquist v. The Wasco, D.C.Wash., 53 F. 546
58 C.J. p 526 note 70

22. Or.—Clark v. North Pac. SS Co., 144 P. 472, 74 Or. 470, L.R.A.1916E 487.

23. Mass.—Dodge v. Boston, etc., SS. Co., 19 N.E. 373, 148 Mass. 207, 12 Am.S.R. 541, 2 L.R.A. 83.
Or.—Dice v. Willamette Transp., etc., Co., 8 Or. 60, 34 Am.R. 575.

24. Mass.—Dodge v. Boston, etc., SS. Co., 19 N.E. 373, 148 Mass. 207, 12 Am.S.R. 541, 2 L.R.A. 83.
Or.—Dice v. Willamette Transp., etc., Co., 8 Or. 60, 34 Am.R. 575.
Successive transfers
Carrier-passenger relationship between steamship and a passenger ceased when he was carried from the first steamship and accepted as passenger by second steamship, and such relationship between second steamship and him ceased when he was transferred and accepted by a third steamship.—Ransom v. Dollar S. S. Line, supra.

25. Wash.—Duval v. Inland Nav. Co., 155 P. 768, 90 Wash. 149.
58 C.J. p 527 note 74.

26. Wash.—Duval v. Inland Nav. Co., supra.
58 C.J. p 527 note 75.

27. Wash.—Duval v. Inland Nav. Co., supra.

28. U.S.—Ransom v. Dollar S. S. Line, D.C.Wash., 2 F.Supp. 409

29. Mass.—Commonwealth v. King, 22 N.E. 905, 150 Mass. 221, 5 L.R.A. 536.
58 C.J. p 527 note 78.

30. Me.—Lawrence v. Small, 48 Me. 468.
58 C.J. p 527 note 79.

31. Mass.—Simmons v. New Bedford, etc., Steamboat Co., 97 Mass. 361, 93 Am.D. 99.
58 C.J. p 527 note 82.

32. N.Y.—Carroll v. Staten Island R. Co., 58 N.Y. 126, 17 Am.R. 221.
58 C.J. p 527 note 83.

United States which are common highways of commerce or open to general or competitive navigation.[33] As to foreign owned vessels the defining section of some regulatory acts provides that all privately owned foreign vessels carrying passengers from any port of the United States shall be subject to certain enumerated provisions, with a proviso that, when such foreign vessel belongs to a country having inspection laws similar to those of the United States and has a proper certificate of inspection from its own country, it shall not be subject to general inspection under our laws;[34] and a foreign owned vessel having complied in all pertinent respects with the laws of its own country and procured an American certificate of inspection is thereby relieved from further compliance with our regulations as to life-saving equipment.[35] Such a proviso operates to limit the applicability of other sections of the act,[36] so that, if a subsequent section of the act relating to life saving appliances is amended to apply to foreign vessels, it will have no application to such foreign vessels as are excepted from the entire act by the proviso of the defining section.[37]

b. Type of Use

Some regulatory statutes expressly except ferryboats and tugs, many statutes profess by their terms to apply only to vessels engaged in the carriage of passengers.

